

Official Investigation Of Chicago Hotel Fire Begins; Relatives Seek To Find Dead

Two Theatres, Five Night Clubs Closed For Failure To Comply With Fire Rules

CHICAGO, June 6 (AP)—A series of official investigations was begun today in the disastrous La Salle hotel fire, while friends and relatives of victims were completing positive identification of 53 of the 58 dead.

Still remaining unidentified were the bodies of two women, a man, and a torso of undetermined sex. A fifth body was tentatively identified, through personal possessions, as Louis Marco, 57, of Chicago.

All phases of the terrifying flash blaze which routed guests from the Loop hotel early yesterday morning were under official scrutiny.

As city, county and state officials proceeded with their separate inquiries into Chicago's worst-hotel disaster in history, the hotel management ordered complete evacuation of the fire swept ruins of the 22-story structure.

More than 1,000 transient and permanent guests at the 1,000-room, 37-year-old Loop hostelry were affected.

In the wake of the tragic blaze city officials ordered the immediate closing of two legitimate Loop theatres and five night clubs because of alleged failure to comply with fire and building code regulations.

Five nursing homes also were ordered closed but action was delayed pending arrangements for new quarters for the inmates.

Meanwhile, a "blue ribbon" inquest jury of 11 engineers, safety, architectural and hotel management experts probed the conflagration, seeking to determine the cause and the reasons why the flames spread so rapidly from the lobby up the stairways.

The first three floors of the hotel were engulfed in flames a few minutes after the blaze was discovered, trapping scores. Fire damage was confined mostly to the lower six floors. Damage to the upper floors was caused chiefly by smoke and water.

Of the 58 dead, all but three had been identified, while 32 of approximately 200 injured remained in hospitals. Four reportedly were in serious condition.

Among the survivors of the La Salle hotel fire who escaped without injury was Miss Anita Blair, 23, El Paso, Tex., a blind girl lecturer.

Miss Blair said her seeing eye dog, Fawn, led her to a window and down 11 floors of an outside fire escape to safety.

She said a man helped her and the dog over a window sill and onto a fire escape landing. Another man, who refused to identify himself, took her to the home of a friend and provided her with clothing.

Senate Version Of OPA Bill Reduces Power

Minority Bitterly Protests Measure; Bowles Criticizes

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—An OPA bill laden with grief for the administration began its journey to the senate floor today.

Over bitter minority protests, the banking committee drafted a formal recommendation to the chamber that it vote to extend price control one year beyond June 30 but in sharply curtailed form.

The House already has passed an extension bill which administration spokesmen have said would mean the end of price control next month unless the Senate took a different tack.

Here are some of the major features of the Senate bill, condemned as "monstrous" by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles even before its completion:

1. Price control over livestock, meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products would end this June 30.

2. The Secretary of Agriculture would say what other farm products could be kept under price ceilings.

3. A decontrol board, independent of OPA, would be established with power to overturn the price administrator's refusal to lift controls from any specific commodity.

"Cost absorption" would be out, OPA would be forbidden to interfere with normal markups and discounts of wholesalers and retailers of so-called "reconversion items."

5. The $2,000,000,000 in subsidies requested by OPA would be cut to $1,100,000,000, with provision that no food subsidies could be paid after May 1, 1947.

6. OPA's controversial "MAP" (maximum average price) order, designed to keep the manufacture of low priced clothing going, would be repealed.

7. OPA could not put any item under control which was not controlled May 1 this year, and could inaugurate no new subsidies.

8. Items not important to living costs or business costs must be taken out from under price control by the end of this year.

Truman To Recall Vatican Minister, Pastor Tells Group

RICHMOND, Va., June 6 (AP)—A Richmond minister said today a President Truman had assured a group of Protestant churchmen that Myron C. Taylor, the president's personal representative to the Vatican would be recalled at the latest by the time the peace treaties were signed.

Dr. John A. MacLean, pastor of the Ginter Park Presbyterian church of Richmond, who represented the Southern Presbyterian churches as one of the committee of 11 calling on the president yesterday, issued the statement.

"In the minds of Protestants," Dr. MacLean said, "the chief objection to the appointment of Mr. Taylor is that it clearly violates the principle of separation of church and state which is so large and important a part of the foundation of our government."

Over 20,000 Aliens Sent Back To Mexico

HIDALGO, June 6 (AP)—Since January 1, 1946, a total of 20,355 aliens have been sent back to Mexico through the border port here under the voluntary deportation plan.

Chief Immigration Inspector Allan Skinner said 3,474 persons were processed back to Mexico during May. Most of the aliens were apprehended by the US border patrol.

House And Senate May Compromise On Taking 19-Year-Olds In Draft

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The House and Senate braced today for a tug of war over resuming the teen age draft. But there were hints of a compromise making 19-year-olds eligible and exempting those of 18.

The Senate pushed the question toward a showdown when it gave a thumping 69 to 8 majority yesterday to its bill for keeping the main provisions of the wartime draft act in force until May.

Although it differed on a number of points from the House measure voted April 13, the teen age provision promised to be the big stumbling block in the bill which the Senate passed along to a Senate-House conference committee.

The conferees, seven senators and seven representatives, must adjust all the differences and persuade Congress to accept their recommendations between now and June 30, when the present law expires. Here is their problem:

Length of extension: The Senate voted to continue the draft until next May 15; the House until next February 15.

Age of inductibles: The Senate by a 53 to 26 count voted to continue inducting 18 and 19-year-olds; the House by a 195 to 96 tally ordered a halt to teen-age inductions. The top draft age in the

Shipping Bogs Down As Seamen Walk Out

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Harbor activities at New York, Baltimore and other ports began bogging down today as AFL seamen started quitting work to attend simultaneous emergency meetings on all US seacoasts.

The surprise AFL walkout was scheduled at 2 p. m. (EST) but the men were leaving their ships several hours sooner in some cases.

A union official in New York said he contacted 75 ships in the port and found a "100 per cent stoppage" on those manned by AFL crews. The stoppage was reported underway in Baltimore also. CIO-manned ships were not affected.

In Washington a congressional committee decided to try to avert a CIO maritime strike scheduled June 15. At the same time, a group of CIO unions continued to negotiate with ship operators here.

"To bring our story before the people," about 200 members of the CIO National Maritime Union paraded through downtown Boston today, a few hours before their rivals—the AFL Seamen—were to attend their "stop-work" meeting in the same city.

Thousands of AFL seafarers on the Atlantic, Gulf, Pacific, and Hawaiian coasts called the work stoppage to discuss "matters of great importance."

At their meetings the AFL seafarers were expected to discuss their course of action in the event of the scheduled CIO maritime strike. They also were protesting against a delay in the start of wage-hour negotiations for AFL seamen on the west coast.

The call for the sudden walkout—of uncertain duration—crashed into the already tense maritime labor situation.

The house labor committee empowered a sub-committee headed by Rep. A. B. Kelley (D-Pa) to step into the picture in an effort to prevent a shipping strike.

Kelley said he would open hearings "as soon as possible"—maybe tomorrow. He said "key figures" in the dispute between employers and CIO seamen and dock workers would be called to testify.

The AFL "stop work" meetings will halt activity aboard ships for as many hours as the discussions continue. Seamen on the Great Lakes are not affected.

In New York a union spokesman said New York "will be a dead port after noon as far as AFL unions are concerned and no ships will move out of the port today."

School District To Cooperate On Adjustments

The Big Spring independent school district will go along with the municipal government in the adjustment of taxable valuations, trustees voted Wednesday night.

The board a month ago had proposed employment of a valuation engineer, to survey all land and improved values in the district with a view of erasing inequities. Meantime the city of Big Spring had put two committees to work on surveying city values, and school officials said Wednesday night the district should accept recommendations made by these committees. The schools will share in the cost of the survey.

The city has obtained the services of R. L. Cook, Robert Stripling and Curtis Driver to survey land valuations; and of Arthur Woodall, J. B. Collins and J. D. Jones to consider adjustments in improved values.

The school district Wednesday night also made provision for an additional $1,000 for plant, maintenance, so that needed repairs may be made to buildings during the summer months. Some roofing and painting work is in prospect. The maintenance fund for the year originally was $2,500, still has an unexpended balance of $656.87.

Hillman Can Buy Wife With Reward

SINGAPORE, June 6 (AP)—Sakai, an aboriginal hillman, found and led to safety today RAF officer William Leslie McLachlan of London, who had been lost in the jungle since he left the Cameron Highlands leave center May 28.

Sakai, who was enroute to buy a wife when he found McLachlan, said he would use his $250 reward to purchase the best type of wife, instead of the $40 variety he planned before.

DAMAGE BILLS PASSED

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Five separate bills for compensating Texans for injuries and property losses suffered in accidents involving Army vehicles have been passed by the Senate and sent to the President for signature.

Pay raises: The Senate wrote into its bill pay raises for enlisted grades only, ranging from 50 per cent for buck privates to smaller boosts for top sergeants and corresponding ranks in the other services. The House refused to put pay raises into the draft bill but voted in separate legislation for raises ranging from 50 per cent for buck privates to 10 per cent for five-star generals.

Induction "holiday": The House ordered a moratorium on all inductions prior to October 15. The Senate turned that proposal down.

The details have been completed the city will start operations, even if it is necessary to leave a few skips. McDaniel said. Pointing out that agreements might not be reached with some of the out of town owners by the time resident owners are ready, the work will proceed and the skips be filled in later, he said.

Workers expected to pour curbing today on the second block of the East 15th street project. Excavation work there is practically complete and work on the base probably will begin next week.

Contact work is progressing for another block on Scurry street between 14th and 15th.

City To Begin Paving Runnels

The project, which is being subscribed on a pay-as-you-can basis, will be launched as soon as communication is received from several out of town property owners. Contact work with residents is virtually complete.

Council Big Three Face Showdown To Approve Report On Franco Spain

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Russia and the big western powers in the United Nations security council—all three armed with the knockout punch of the veto—headed for a showdown today over a sub-committee's appraisal of Franco Spain as a potential menace to peace.

As the council prepared to assemble at 1 p. m. CST after a 15-day layoff, the spokesman for a delegation represented on the sub-committee said he understood one of the Big Three might invoke the veto unless the report is modified, but he expressed hope that the committee's conclusions on Spain would be adopted "without too much cutting or watering down."

The report called for a collective UN diplomatic break with Madrid by the general assembly next September if Spain is not rid of Generalissimo Francisco Franco by then.

It was authoritatively reported unacceptable in its present form to Russia, the United States and Britain for divergent reasons.

The sub-committee's spokesman said Soviet delegate Andrei I. Gromyko could be expected to argue for severe action against Franco immediately.

Britain and the United States have joined in moral condemnation of the Franco regime, but have maintained that Spain does not menace peace and that a break in relations would do the surveillance they are able to keep over the Falangist government through various agencies.

The Franco government early today issued a 3,000-word reply to the sub-committee in which it accused France and Russia of threatening the peace of Spain and declared Spain would live in "sacrificing isolation" rather than submit to any interference in her internal affairs.

Atomic Commission Will Meet June 14

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—The United Nations Atomic Commission, which will hold its first public meeting here June 14, will attempt to increase its scope to include new secret weapons being developed outside the field of atomics, says a commission representative.

These would include toxic and germ weapons reported either in process of development or ready for use as rivals of the deadly devices utilizing atomic energy.

Russia Ain't Talking About Atom Bombs, But Science Tops Profession

(Eddy Gilmore, now on vacation in the United States, has been Associated Press correspondent in Moscow for five years.)

By EDDY GILMORE
NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Russia is devoting a large portion of her national energy to atomic research—toward peacetime possibilities, she says, not toward a bomb.

However, with other nations in possession of the bomb's secrets and showing no inclination to share them, it would be extremely unrealistic to assume that Russia is closing her eyes to that side of the laboratory.

It is, of course, impossible for a newsmen stationed in Russia, with the limited amount of information he has on hand on this highly secret subject, to say anything with finality about the Soviets and the bomb. However, there is reason to believe—and I emphasize the word believe—that Russia must be well behind the United States. There are those in responsible diplomatic and military positions who hold the same opinion.

But, it should be borne in mind that Foreign Minister Molotov, speaking at the Kremlin last Nov. 6, said that Russia soon would have atomic energy and many other things. One never should underestimate the Russians.

Heavy emphasis is being placed on science in Russia today—heavier than on any other single field. Always respected in Russia, scientists now have been raised several stations beyond any position they've ever enjoyed. They're on a level with the top brackets.

The government is hard at work building them new laboratories, finding them the equipment they want, giving them the green light they need. In fact, whatever scientists want they can have for the asking, which is quite a little something in the land of the Soviets.

Russia has a hard core of scientists to build from, although they are mostly beyond middle age. Less than a month ago an energetic campaign was underway to attract younger people to science. The Soviets have acknowledged, too, that their scientists are entitled to the best possible material life. They have been awarded extra special food rations, clothes, automobiles, special salaries, new apartments and fine automobiles—many with chauffeurs.

In many parts of the country, new housing is being earmarked for men of science. They will get these modern dwellings as soon as anyone, and this includes marshals, generals and high party functionaries.

Russia's leaders have no illusions about how far her scientists must progress to catch up with the United States and Britain. They are well aware and impressed with the excellence and skill of Americans.

The leaders and the scientists know they must work and work hard and even then they may lag behind this side of the world. They may have obtained something from Germany, but they are realistic enough to know that, if they found something there so did their allies.

The very fact that the Soviets don't say much about the bomb is revealing. It is the belief of many informed foreigners stationed in the Soviet Union today, while the Russians haven't asked for the secret of the bomb, it constitutes a great and ponderous factor in all their thinking and action.

Dibrell, Three Assistants Renamed To Coaching Posts By School Board

Football Chief's Stipend Raised To $3300 Yearly

John Dibrell was renamed head coach — a job he has held since September, 1941 — was not unanimous. Two of the six members of the board, Dewey Martin and Justin Holmes, dissented. Favorable were George White, L. W. Craft, Irs Thurman and R. L. Tollett. Dr. M. H. Bennett, chairman of the board, was not required to cast a ballot.

All contracts were for one year. Salary hikes of $330 went to the three assistants, Hershel Stockton, Conn Isaacs and John Malaise, as well as to the head mentor. Dibrell's contract now calls for an annual stipend of $3300 while his assistants will be paid $2730 each.

Stockton and Isaacs were rehired "subject to Dibrell's approval," but it is a foregone conclusion he will give them his stamp of approval.

The salary hike is in keeping with the raise voted last month for all classroom teachers.

Stockton and Isaacs serve as assistant football coaches and handle the track team while Malaise tutors the basketball team and is tennis coach.

Dibrell signed a contract to succeed Pat Murphy here April 22, 1941. He came to Big Spring from Colorado City.

Last fall his football team failed to win a conference game and there was some agitation toward replacing him. However, the vote of confidence given him by the school board was not unexpected.

He faces the 1946 season with 12 returning lettermen and has enough help to relieve much of the burden he shouldered during the war years.

Stockton, a McMurry product, broke into the coaching game here with Murphy before the turn of the decade. He was absent during the war years, having gone into the service not long after hostilities broke out.

Isaacs came here to begin the 1945 season as did Malaise. Isaacs is a McMurry product while Malaise attended NTSC and was a Navy lieutenant before assuming his duties.

Conn weighed 182 after yesterday's workout, in which he boxed eight more rounds to bring his total for the training camp session to 217 frames.

In Final Workout

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 6 (AP)—Joe Louis will take his final workout here June 17 in preparation for the defense of his heavyweight boxing title against Billy Conn in New York two nights later.

The champion rested yesterday but will box today and seven additional times before breaking camp.

Emil Kush, Bruins' Counter-part To Earl Johnson, Wins 4th Test

By The Associated Press

Emil Kush, a local boy from Chicago's North Side, who waited nine years to make a boyhood dream come true, was rivaling the Boston Red Sox' Earl Johnson as the number one relief pitcher in the major leagues today.

Not since Jack Russell, whose yeoman relief work helped the Chicago Cubs win the 1938 National league pennant, have the Bruins boasted such a brilliant rescue artist.

His work at rescuing other hurlers has been so consistently good since he won his first game the second day of the season, that now Kush finds it next to impossible to get a starting berth.

Kush gained his fourth victory without a defeat yesterday — all of them in relief roles — as the Cubs shaded the New York Giants 6-5 to move into third place in the National league pennant race.

His three-inning skein raised his season total to 31 frames in 11 games in which he has allowed but 24 hits. Johnson, also a war veteran, has given up only 14 hits in 30 innings, but has appeared in only eight rescue roles. The Red Sox southpaw also boasts a 4-0 won and lost record.

The Cubs, however, could gain no ground on the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers and second place St. Louis Cardinals who won their games.

With few of the 26,026 Forbes Field fans knowing that only an hour before the arc-light contest was scheduled to start, the Pirate players had threatened to strike over a demand for union recognition, the Brooks downed the Bucs 5-3.

Pinch Hitter Elvin (Buster) Adams singled with the bases loaded in the ninth to give the Cards a 2-1 edge over the Boston Braves.

The New York Yankees reduced the American league leading Boston Red Sox margin to six and a half games when they waltzed to a 9-6 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

A total of 35 players saw action as the Red Sox waged an 8-8 tie with the St. Louis Browns. The game lasted three hours and 29 minutes and went 12 innings before it was called on account of darkness. Play had been suspended for 61 minutes in the ninth because of heavy rain.

Roger Wolff knuckle-balled his way to his fourth victory by pitching the Washington Senators to a 5-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Two home runs, one by ex-Mackman George Kell and another by Dick Wakefield sent the Detroit Tigers to a 2-0 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Cincinnati and the Phillies were not scheduled.

Sox Rout Lobo Brigade Behind John Hall, 13-2

ABILENE, June 6. — Abilene's Blue Sox resumed their winning ways in WT-NM baseball league competition by socking the Lamesa Lobos here Wednesday evening, 13-2.

Johnny Hall, Abilene, kept the Lamesa heavy hitters well in control, rationing out eight hits. Half of that number was collected by Joe Fortin.

J. W. Matthews, Sox catcher, connected with two home runs and accounted for four Abilene runs.

The two clubs clash in a double header here this evening. Starting time of the first bout will be 7 o'clock.

Fort Worth Lead Cut As Dallas Splits Brace

By The Associated Press

The loop-leading Fort Worth Cats took an 8-2 licking last night from Tulsa.

The Dallas Rebels, second in the circuit, took a close 3-2 defeat from Oklahoma City, cellar club, in the opener of a doubleheader and came from behind to win the nightcap, 9-5.

Houston downed Shreveport 7-1 and San Antonio romped over Beaumont 8-1.

Fort Worth had the game won until the eighth inning last night. Then the Tulsa Oilers cut loose with a seven-run massacre in the eighth inning, plus an additional tally in the ninth. Andy Steinbach of the Oilers twice stopped the Cats with the bases loaded.

Fort Worth left 10 men on bases. The opening game of the Dallas-Oklahoma City affair was scheduled for seven but ran to nine innings for a decision. An error by pitcher Bob Gillespie led in the winning run. In the second engagement, ragged defensive play accounted for most of the scoring. The Indians led 5-4 in the seventh, only to have the Rebels cut loose with five runs, only one earned, to salt the game away.

Heinie Mueller, who was given his unconditional release by the Shreveport Sports a week ago, did much in helping Houston defeat the Sports last night. Mueller hit two doubles and drove in three scores.

San Antonio scored twice in the opening inning, twice more in the sixth, and four times in the seventh to down Beaumont.

Today's schedule: Oklahoma City at Dallas. Tulsa at Fort Worth. Houston at Shreveport. Beaumont at San Antonio (2). (All night games.)

The port of Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., though not on salt water, is the second busiest in the United States.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Some of the sporting gent who frequent the precincts out around Moss Lake are not playing the fishing games according to the rules, reports from other fishermen betray.

That small but loud group of anglers are using bait that does not meet with specifications, (e.g., chicken entrails) and depositing the unwholesome remains in far reaches of the lake after using what they want of it.

Others of their number are slipping out to the water at night and running trot lines, bagging more than their share of the hungry fish.

Out of it may come a decision on the part of the city dads to adopt stricter fishing laws, make fines for the violations much heavier.

There'll be fishing in quality and quantity most of summer if everyone respects the code of the sportsman. There probably won't be if that greedy few insists on hitting below the belt.

Medals and ribbons ordered by the Big Spring Athletic association for the winners in the Big Spring Relays, unraveled here last March 23, have finally arrived from manufacturers. They are being distributed by Mark Wentz, secretary of the unit, and Walter Reed, high school principal.

Local athletes come in for a respectable share of the premiums.

Lamesa's baseball Lobos out-hit their opponents, 53 to 36, in four games last week yet lost three decisions.

The Lobos, now in Abilene, return home Friday night to do battle with the WT - NM league leaders, the Amarillo Gold Sox and local fans who venture up may be privileged to see Bill Evans, a former Big Springer, hurl for the Amarilloans.

Amarillo, incidentally is managed by Sultcase Bob Seeds, a major league standout for some seasons. Seeds still holds a number of home runs records in the International league.

Howard Green, Abilene scribe, draws attention to the fact that Pepper Martin, the Big Spring product, was the only regular in the Lamesa lineup who was considered a regular when the current WT-NM league campaign blossomed.

Manager George Sturdivant, of course, would be a regular at first base had he not been injured last week.

Glenn Davis, the California Comet who powered Army to an unbeaten football season last fall, has been named captain of next year's baseball team at the point.

Davis, who hit .360 this spring and averaged a stolen base in each of his team's 16 games, could probably go directly to the major leagues after graduation if he wanted, and with a fat bonus.

A. L. Alford, who used to coach basketball and other sports at Union high school (Dawson county) is in charge of organizing a vocational school for war veterans in Lamesa. He's recently out of the Coast Guard.

The Prince Albert coat was not named after Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, but after Albert Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, who wore this type of coat during a visit to the United States in 1860.

No Mistake—

Vets Steamroller Coahoma Second Time, 17-5

Sammy Burns' Veterans of Foreign Wars softball team ambushed the Coahoma Stanolind Oilers, 17-5, in a practice game played on the Coahoma grounds Wednesday afternoon, salting away the decision with an eight-run fourth inning.

The Vets handed the Coahomans their first Mury league defeat a week ago and they turned the trick again Wednesday to impress the Oilers with the fact that the initial victory was no accident.

Doc Malone, hitting a triple, double and two singles, set a torrid batting pace for the Big Springers. Johnny Miller had three hits in the 11-hit Vet assault while Hunka Stewart came through with a long triple.

The Big Spring outbreak came at the expense of K. C. Grantham, diminutive Coahoma hurler who failed to go the route.

Billy White, tolling on the mound for the winners, surrendered but three base knocks.

Score by innings: VFW 111 86—17 11
Coahoma 200 03—5 3

First Baseball Strike Called

PITTSBURGH, June 6 (AP)—Major league baseball faces the threat of the first union strike in its history here tomorrow night in a scheduled game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants.

Robert Murphy, ruddy-faced labor relations director of the American Baseball Guild, announced last night the Pittsburgh Pirates had voted unanimously not to take the field against the Giants unless Bucs' officials meet their demands for an immediate collective bargaining election.

He said he would telephone President William E. Benswanger today and ask him for his decision.

Only a dramatic eleventh-hour session in the Pirates clubhouse kept the strike from coming off before last night's game with Brooklyn, which the Dodgers won, 5-3.

The rapid-fire developments followed a breakdown of a conference earlier in the day at Benswanger's office, during which the Pirate management suggested the guild issue be deferred until the baseball season is over.

Oilers Decision Mechanics, 15-2, To Tie For Top Spot

Redcaps Triumph Over Spartans In Second Go

Cosden's Oilers and Doc Wilkinson's Redcaps kept up their winning ways in Mury softball league competition at the city park Wednesday evening, the Redcaps knocking over Big Spring Hardware, 12-3, after the Refiners had disposed of Dub's Garage, 15-2.

The Oilers' victory sent them back into a deadlock for first place with the Coahoma Stanolind club while the Redcaps solidified their hold on third place with their triumph.

Pete Womack's Cosden gang counted 11 times in the initial inning to ice the decision over the Mechanics.

Looking forward to some weekend practice bouts, Womack started Red Harrison on the hill in place of his star hurler, L. D. Cunningham, and Harrison performed creditably. He pitched shutout ball until the fifth round when Jones and Barnes broke the ice with tallies.

Jim Tidwell was robbed of what appeared to be a certain home run when his drive into right field hit the light post and bounded back toward the playing field. Tidwell pulled up at third base.

The Redcaps took advantage of some faulty fielding on the Spartans' part in the afterpiece to run up three runs in the initial round of the second contest and were never headed.

Big Steve Baker, finding his batting eye, snared hitting laurels with a double and single. Doc's troupe tallied in every inning it went to bat.

Clyde Wynans powered two doubles to pace the five-hit Spartan assault.

First game: Cosden's (11)00 31—15
Dub's 000 02—2
Harrison and Barton; Ferguson and Davis.

Second game: BS Hardware 000 111 0—3
Redcaps 312 222 x—12

Japs May Be Called Upon To Pay Reparations To Ex-War Prisoners

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Survivors among the estimated 35,000 Americans held prisoner by the Japanese, and relatives of those who lost their lives while held by the enemy, eventually may receive some monetary award from the Japanese government.

State Department officials, commenting on moves to press claims of Americans who suffered at the hands of the enemy, say they are assembling data on the subject now being sent in voluntarily by individuals concerned.

Some day, if and when it is found Japan is in a position to make reparation for this personal suffering she caused both military and civilian American nations, the State Department will have this data ready for prompt processing. But, they hasten to add, it's a long and problematical course of events that would have to precede final settlement of claims.

They call attention to the destruction in the Japanese homeland, and to the fact that countries other than the United States have claims for losses incurred by their respective nationals. Once some determination has been made as to the ability of the Japanese to pay, this government then would set up administrative machinery to process individual claims.

Legislation providing some sort of claims commission is expected to be introduced in Congress when additional information is obtained on the subject. The Veterans Administration said the claims would be processed by the State Department free of charge.

Meanwhile, a private group known as "Claims Committee Liberated Military Personnel (Japan)" has been established to deal with claims. The chairman of the organization, with headquarters here, is George A. Nugent.

The idea of the committee was conceived by six colonels while they were recuperating here at the Army's Walker Road hospital. They solicited the services of Nugent and two other Washington attorneys, Frew Savoy and Harold H. Martin, all of whom had experience with similar litigation involving claims against Germany after the end of World War One.

Pink, Favorite June Color, Becomes Popular For Brides

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS, Associated Press Food Editor

Pink is a June color. It's a lovely color for brides, too. Many brides are married in pink these days. Why not have the decorations at the wedding party table harmonize with the pink of the costumes?

A damask cloth is the only proper basis for a beautiful formal table setting. Irish linen dyes beautifully and if you aren't lucky enough to find a pink one all ready to buy you can easily have a white one dyed. This is practical, as well as lovely to look at, because pink forms a perfect background for china of almost any color.

On the table you will have your loveliest silver — pink candles in the candelabra, pink roses in a big silver bowl.

And what do you eat with all this "pinkness"? At an afternoon wedding the simplest tea-type food is definitely in order, except that the sandwiches, if any, should be few in these wheat-saving days. Why not have a variety (two or three) of salads—tossed green, avocado with cheese dressing, and a molded fish salad, for instance? That makes good late afternoon eating. Coffee and tea, of course. And then there has to be a wedding cake. Sugar or icings is scarce, though, and flour must be saved for famine-stricken countries. So here's our suggestion for a wedding "cake" that won't make you feel guilty.

Gelatin Cake
1 envelope plain unflavored gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1-2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3-4 cup orange juice
1-2 cup orange sections
1-2 cup strawberries or pitted sweet cherries
1-4 cup chopped nuts

Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add sugar, lemon juice and orange juice, and cool. When mixture begins to thicken fold in fruit and nuts. Pour into a three-cup mold that has been rinsed in cold water and chill until firm. When ready to serve turn out on large dessert plate and frost with cream cheese. Garnish with strawberries or sweet cherries. Serve immediately.

Cream Cheese Frosting
6 ounces cream cheese (2 packages)
2 tablespoons cream or milk
1-2 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons sugar
Dash mace

Let cream cheese stand at room temperature about one hour for ease in creaming. Mix cream cheese gradually adding cream or milk and lemon juice. Add sugar and mace, beating until fluffy. Spread on gelatin cake and garnish. Cream cheese may be tinted pink with vegetable coloring, to carry out the "whole pink wedding" idea.

And how about a pink drink in a punch bowl, just to top the whole thing off? A mixture of one part Burgundy wine to two parts soda, lots of ice and a dash of lemon juice if you like it, with sliced fruits floating on top gives the color you want and is a cool and refreshing beverage.

Bobbie Green Serves As School Secretary

Bobbie Green, recently completing her freshman year at Texas Tech in Lubbock, is acting as secretary to Walter Reed, principal of the high school, during the summer months. Miss Green also assisted him last summer.

While at Tech, she was one of 19 freshman girls who made the A-grade average necessary for eligibility in the freshman honor society and was elected secretary of that group. She also made the honor roll both semesters there.

Plans Completed For Insecticide Test On Cattle

Arrangements have been completed for giving full comparative demonstrations on livestock spraying at the E. W. Lomax ranch in the Lomax community on June 14, County Agent Durward Lewter has announced.

Lomax will divide his herd into groups, with various insecticides to be used. The groups will remain separated over a period of days in order that study and observation can be made. Stockmen will be able to determine definitely if spraying by mechanical apparatus is practical, and quality of the different insecticides can be studied. The demonstration is being made primarily to observe results of DDT solutions and to compare them with other insecticides already widely used. DDT will be used at varying strength up to about two percent and one group of cattle probably will be sprayed with a mixture of DDT and rotenone and sulphur.

A spraying machine owned by Coke county, which had been used for some time by stockmen there will be used. T. B. Hicks, Coke county agent who will be here for the demonstration, has reported the machine successful in every respect, Lewter said. Spraying under high pressure, the machine has given Coke county stockmen a method for controlling lice, ticks and flies which appears as effective as dipping with far less labor and time involved.

The doctor will be in Poland three months to instruct Polish physicians in modern methods of preventive medicine and to give special courses in Polish medical colleges.

He will be accompanied by five as dipping with far less labor and time involved. All farmers, stockmen, business men and others interested are invited to attend the demonstration, Lewter said.

German Count Picked Up On Way To Spain

BORDEAUX, June 6. (AP)—French authorities said today that Count York von Wartenburg, a German, was arrested yesterday by police at Tarbes, near here, as he sought to make his way to Hendaye, and the Spanish border.

Authorities quoted the 18-year-old count as saying he hoped to get into Spain and thence to Argentina to join his family. Police said he identified himself as a nephew of Count Claus von Stauffenberg, reported court-martialed and executed in connection with the July 20, 1944, plot to kill Adolf Hitler.

(The young man apparently was the son of Lt. Count Peter York von Wartenburg, who the Berlin radio announced in August, 1944, was executed with seven other German officers allegedly implicated in the futile July attempt to assassinate Hitler.)

Proper keeping of bacon is always a matter of concern to the housewife. Many housewives have the mistaken idea it should not be kept in the refrigerator. Formerly, most bacon was of the salty type, but now the mild cured type is like fresh meat and should always be kept in the refrigerator.

Cockroaches are called Croton bugs because they first became common around indoor water pipes in New York about 1842, when the aqueduct carrying water from the Croton River was completed.

Pete Howze, Hanson star, and the Bankers' E. B. Dozier, were the standout individual scorers. Howze banked out 572 pins during the evening, an even ten points more than Dozier was able to do.

Leonard Morgan, Wasson's leader, clipped off a 229 game for single game high.

Vocational Course Of Study Discussed

Discussion of several phases of work to be carried on during the course and arrangements for another meeting Monday night, were made at the first session of the Howard County Vocational School's agricultural class for veterans Wednesday night.

The initial class meeting was held at the Big Spring high school and another meeting will convene there Monday night. Attendance at the next meeting will determine if another class to be held in the Knott school can be organized.

New UN Envoy Expected To Aid Soviet Relations

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—President Truman's choice of Senator Warren R. Austin as American representative on the United Nations Security Council prompted official hopes today of encouraging a new Soviet attitude in that body.

The Vermont Republican said only that as the successor to Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., he considers himself the President's deputy, to carry out policies Mr. Truman formulates.

But Senate colleagues noted that the 68-year-old New Englander will take into his new post a publicly recorded understanding of what he had termed the "security-conscious position of Russia."

Noting that he has not publicly criticized Russia, Austin referred a reporter's request for a statement of his attitude to the school of advanced international studies of the foreign service education foundation.

Austin's theme was that if Congress extended the draft act, voted for universal military training, approved unification of the armed forces and provided for control of atomic energy developments, Russian confidence in this country's ability to fulfill United Nations commitments would be restored and her search for individual security diminished.

Orlando Suggested As Italian Leader

ROME, June 6. (AP)—Grievous, 86-year-old Vittorio Emanuele Orlando was winning wide mention today as a likely compromise candidate for first president of Italy's new republic as the nation awaited formal proclamation of the end of the monarchy.

Orlando, only survivor of the Big Four of Versailles, was being proposed, political observers said, because as a Sicilian he would be able to repair the schism shown at the polls between the industrial north—which favored the republic—and the south—which supported the House of Savoy.

Another "venerable old man" of Italian politics, 78-year-old Ivanoe Bonomi, who led two provisional governments during Italy's status as a co-belligerent, also was being suggested as a presidential candidate.

King Umberto II, meanwhile, prepared to follow his father into exile, his brief reign ended under the crushing weight of nearly 13,000,000 votes favoring a republican form of government.

Normandy Observes Second Anniversary Of Allied Invasion

TREVIER, France, June 6. (AP)—The people of Normandy paid tribute today to a memorable moment two years ago when Allied troops, in the greatest invasion in history, surged over their beaches to begin the long, bloody attack against Hitler's fortress Europe.

The commemoration was held for the most part without fanfare or revelry, but with a dignity befitting an occasion when men fought and died to liberate other men from the yoke of oppression.

In St. Mere Eglise there was an all-day observance honoring the men of the 82nd Airborne Division which floated out of the sky two years ago to begin the invasion. In Bayeux and Caen there was anniversary celebrations honoring the British and Canadian troops who fought there.

But in most of the little villages and along most of the dusty roads bordered by hedge-rows the people of Normandy regarded the day quietly.

More Checks Issued For Soil Practices

Notice that 85 additional checks amounting to $8,707.91, payments to Howard county farmers for 1945 conservation practices carried out under AAA supervision, has been issued by the General Accounting Office, Washington, D. C.

The additions brings the total received in Howard county since the first of the year to $71,449.63. Additional payments for 1946 practices carried out under the purchase Order plan have been dispatched by local contractors. Total return added up to $5,735.51. That income represented work done on terraces and wells for stock water.

Moslem League Votes To Support Proposal

LONDON, June 6. (AP)—The All-India radio, in a broadcast recorded by Reuters, reported that the Moslem league council has voted by a large majority to support the British cabinet mission's proposals for Indian independence.

Dispatches from New Delhi last night had reported considerable sentiment in the council in favoring of accepting the British plan, despite the insistence of Mahomed Ali Jinnah, league president, on a separate Moslem state (Pakistan).

The council, composed of 475 representatives from 11 provinces, assembled in New Delhi yesterday to pass upon the British plan.

Nix's Serenaders To Appear At Park

Hoyle Nix and his Center Point Serenaders will open the first post-war amateur program in the city park amphitheatre Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The program will launch a weekly summer series, which officials of the chamber of commerce, sponsoring organization, hopes will prove as popular as the pre-war schedule. The programs were discontinued after the 1941 season.

Joe Pickle, chamber president, will serve as master of ceremonies, and a full slate of musical entertainment has been arranged. There is no admission charge.

Brakeman Killed In Train Crash

LA GRANDE, Ore., June 6. (AP)—An eastbound Union Pacific passenger train failed to take a scheduled siding at Hot Lake, 12 miles east of here, early today and crashed head-on into the steamship "City of Portland," killing a brakeman, and injuring 50 persons slightly.

The streamliner, westbound from Chicago, was halted on the main line waiting for No. 78, the Idahoan, to take a siding. The standard train, however, apparently continued through the switch, and with emergency brakes applied, crashed into the streamliner.

Brakeman Ned Unger of Pendleton, Ore., was crushed to death. Only one person was injured sufficiently to be taken to a hospital. He was the Rev. J. Ward, Catholic priest from St. Louis, brought to St. Joseph's hospital here.

Georges Bizet, the French composer, died thinking that his great opera "Carmen" would be another in his long series of failures.

Mrs. Truman Asks For Bond Buyers

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — Mrs. Bess W. Truman, the nation's first lady, called upon women today to "take the lead in backing the future of their loved ones" by buying US Savings bonds.

Mrs. Truman's statement, issued on the opening of the Treasury's anti-inflation bond drive, follows:

"The future well-being of most American families rests largely upon the resoluteness of women in maintaining the wartime habit of investing every dollar above needed living expenses in United States Savings bonds.

"It was vital to back the attack on our enemies by buying war bonds. In peace it is equally vital for women to take the lead in backing the future of their loved ones.

"Let us all heed the lesson we learned during the war — that the most effective way to save is to make each pay day a step toward ownership of another savings bond."

The drive, for which no quota has been set, runs until July 4.

Board Clears Ship Of Blame In Deaths Of Several Babies

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — The series of deaths among GI babies en route from Europe to the United States brought recommendations today that Army transports ban future passage to all such infants less than a year old.

The recommendation came from a special board appointed to investigate the death of several babies on the Army "bride ship," Zebulon B. Vance.

The board gave the ship and its medical staff a clean bill of health, and attributed the fatal outbreak of sickness among some of the infants to unhygienic habits of their mothers.

The report, made public by the War Department yesterday, said the cause of the disease has not yet been positively established. It added that symptoms indicated it was a form of diarrhea to which infants are subject.

The board also stated that several of the stricken infants apparently were suffering from the ailment before they embarked from France, but many mothers failed to report this to ship medical authorities.

Meat's Scarce, But Chicken Plentiful; Tastes Wonderful Grilled With Sauce

GRILLED CHICKEN... Darker half of each chicken was brushed with butter-sauce mixture before broiling.

The fact that meat is hard to get need deter no one from having outdoor grill parties this season. Fortunately, there is plenty of chicken. Unfortunately, not everyone realizes that chicken broiled on a grill is perhaps the best chicken anyone ever ate!

I have discovered a perfect way to make chicken beautifully brown, whether you do it outdoors, in the oven or under the broiler. Let's do it outdoors first. You must start the fire well in advance, so that when you are ready to cook you have glowing hot coals, with no flames. Now treat the chicken thus:

Grilled Chicken
Two 2-pound broilers
2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine

1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
1 teaspoon salt
Grind of fresh pepper

Clean broilers, remove backbones and split in half. Blend together thoroughly the butter or margarine and the kitchen bouquet. If desired (and I hope you do desire), mash a clove of garlic in this. You may also add a bit of herbs if you like the flavor. Sprinkle salt and pepper on the birds. Now brush half the kitchen bouquet-fat mixture on the underside of the chicken. When ready to turn, brush the other side. It takes half to three-quarters of an hour to broil chickens thus on an open fire, and the result is crisp, brown and delicious.

To top off this fireplace meal, make a big dish of scalloped potatoes with onions in the house and bring it forth at the right moment. It will stay hot a long time by the side of the fire. All that's needed to complete the dinner is a big bowl of green salad—and perhaps a bit of cheese to go with it. And plenty of coffee to drink all through the meal, of course.

If you want to use the same technique to broil chickens in the stove broiler, preheat it to 325 degrees and broil skin side down for 15 minutes, then skin side up for 15 minutes more.

And here's the way to do a similar job in the oven.

Oven Baked Chicken
1-to-3 pound fryer
¼ cup butter or fortified margarine

2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet.
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash of cayenne

Clean chicken thoroughly inside and out. Cut into serving pieces and dry on paper toweling. Blend together butter, kitchen bouquet and seasonings. Brush on each piece of chicken and place in a single layer in baking pan. Bake uncovered in a 325 degree oven for 1 to 1½ hours, or until golden brown and very tender.

White Sauce for Oven Baked Chicken
¼ cup butter or fortified margarine.
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 pint milk

Melt fat in frying pan. Add flour and salt. Add milk, stirring vigorously and constantly until mixture thickens. Cook 2 additional minutes. Remove chicken from roasting pan. Stir white sauce into drippings in pan. Serve with chicken.

Private Convicted For Soldier Slaying
PARIS, June 6. (AP) — Private Eddy Jones, Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio, was convicted of the slaying of an Army postal courier and sentenced by a military court last night to life imprisonment.

Jones was convicted also of assault, armed robbery and escape from confinement.

The murder victim was Pvt. James Glendaniel of Lincoln, Del. In the closing hours of the trial Jones' attorney, Lt. Harry Cohen of New Milford, Conn., resigned because the eight-man court admitted as evidence a confession of the slaying that Cohen charged was extorted from Jones by the brutality of criminal investigation agents.

Cohen called the case a "gross miscarriage of justice" and said that it proved an indictment against the Army court martial system.

Lt. Ernest Fidellow, of Huntington, N. Y., took up Jones' defense. The prosecution denied that the negro soldier was mistreated. One military police witness, however, testified he saw Jones slapped several times by an agent.

Leaf-Chewers Beware—

Park Trees Get Anti-Worm Spray

If you happen to be a leaf-chewer, don't practice your habit in the city park — for a while yet. Trees in the park have been sprayed with arsenate of lead to combat an acute infestation of walnut leafworms.

The worms developed so rapidly and in such great numbers that it became necessary to spray the trees to prevent them from being stripped.

Low limbs have been cut away and thus children cannot reach the upper branches. Chances are that there would not be enough of the spray on any leaf or several leaves to have had effects, but city officials feel it will not be to best interest of leaf chewers to munch on park foliage pending a shower.

Meantime, signs have been placed over the area calling attention to the fact that trees have been sprayed with the arsenate compound, the specific indicated for the fuzzy walnut worms.

HOUSE OF COAL—The Chamber of Commerce building at Williamson, W. Va., is built of solid bituminous coal. Miners and operators joined in raising the structure in 1933.

Snuff consumption has gone up 20 percent in the United States in the last 10 years. Naturalists say cheetahs, which resemble leopards, have been noted traveling 70 miles an hour.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barconate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

More Famine Ahead For China As Births Exceed Rice Supply

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The hundreds of millions who live now on the brink of starvation in China's river valleys and basins probably will be joined by hundreds of millions more before this century has passed.

When peace comes there at length, her leaders plan to provide higher living standards and modernized agricultural methods, improving health conditions and the food supply. This will lower the death rate, while her birth rate, one of the highest in the world, remains as it is unless something unforeseen happens. The rice paddy civilization which has burdened all of eastern Asia with a population it can barely support will find the infusion of western culture a mixed blessing. "Rice, babies and death. They're the essence of the problem. Many babies, little rice, millions of deaths."

Rice Needs Hands
To cultivate paddy rice many hands are needed. The farmer must have a large family to help him. The family must be kept together in a close-knit unit, rooted to the land. Stability, permanence, unchanging customs, the sacred importance of rice and the land on which it grows—these are the dogma of rice paddy civilization. Thus, Dr. Irene B. Taeuber, of Princeton University's Office of Population Research, and other scholars explain the high birth rate—about 45 per 1,000 per year. Death, too, is prolific in its reaping—about 38 persons out of 1,000 dying each year. (In the EMPTY rice bowls mean starvation for the masses in China.

United States the death rate is 10.8 per 1,000 per year, and the birth rate is 21.5 per 1,000, giving an annual rate of increase of 10.8 per 1,000.)

Influence of the West
Floods, famines, epidemics and internal wars have taken in some years tens of millions of Chinese lives. But western culture brings more food production, a modicum of sanitation and medical care, a degree of civil order and security. This means greatly reduced death rates, while the babies swarm in as fast as before.

If the Chinese population is now 400,000,000 (neither Chinese nor American scholars do more than guess at it) Dr. Warren S. Thompson, a recognized authority, estimates it probably will reach 600,000,000 by 1990. This assumes there will be no increase before 1950, on account of the war; that China will have half India's rate of increase between 1950 and 1960, and that the rate of increase will equal India's (12.1 per 1,000) after 1960.

Food Can Never Catch Up
No matter how fast the Chinese increase the rate of food production, they will never catch up. The more food is provided, the more persons there will be to eat it.

Industrialization might be the answer, says Dr. Taeuber and some other analysts. Develop industries and gather the people into large cities, for the birth rate always has decreased as countries became industrialized.

But the hitch there is that birth rates decrease so slowly. Japan's birth rate did not decline appreciably until after five or six decades of industrialization. The population of Europe increased seven-fold in the course of three centuries of economic transformation.

Experience of England
In England and Wales the birth rate did not decline until after a century of industrialization and urbanization. It is not reasonable, say the experts, to expect a decline in the Chinese birth rate until the end of the twentieth century.

If the situation is to grow infinitely worse before it gets better, what will become of China's people?

Dr. Thompson grimly predicts that "the level of living will decline and death rates will rise to the point where the rate of increase will diminish, that increasing hardship rather than a declining birth rate will bring about the adjustment of numbers to resources."

Cauble Buyer Of First Bonds In New Drive

I. B. (Doc) Cauble, Howard county heretofore breeder, bit off the first chunk of the county's June bond quota, Ira Thurman, county bond chairman, announced Thursday.
 Upon announcement of a $75,000 quota for the county during the special campaign June 6-July 4, Cauble made a purchase of $10,000, said Thurman.
 The US Treasury Department has shaped a savings bond promotion to start today, on the second anniversary of D-Day when Allied troops bucked rough waters and German fire to fight their way ashore on Normandy's beaches in launching the battle for Europe.
 Special appeals for purchases by individuals have been made on the basis that the treasury is retiring a part of the commercial bank war loan in hopes of refinancing the obligation with the people.
 Financiers have pointed out that financing through commercial banks has the effect of increasing the "hand money" supply, whereas financing through the people has the effect of reducing the amount of money in circulation or in checking accounts. Thus, individual bond purchases drain off part of the huge money surplus and relieves some of the inflationary pressure.

 Players who will see action for Angelo include Bamel Malish, c; R. W. Bowman, 3b; Dave Bieddoe, 1b; Ralph King, rf; Clovis Olsak, lf; B. Burrell, 2b, and Red Cowley, ss.

Mexican Work Halt Called Off By Labor

MEXICO CITY, June 6. (AP)—A countrywide work stoppage, scheduled for Friday in protest against rising living costs, has been called off by the Mexican Federation of Labor in response to an appeal by President Avila Camacho.

The union announced that it would send representatives to confer today with the president, who has promised that the government will do all it can to improve conditions.

In asking the union to call off the work stoppage the President declared that the high cost of living is partly due to deficient production and added that a halt in production at this time would not help matters.

SWITCHBOARD HEROINE MAY RECEIVE AWARD; FUND STARTED FOR HER SON

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Mrs. Julia C. Barry, heroic telephone operator who remained at her switchboard in the La Salle hotel warning guests of the fire which swept the building until she died from smoke, will be considered for the Theodore N. Vall Award, Illinois Bell Telephone officials said today.

The telephone company said Mrs. Barry's devotion to duty during yesterday morning's fire "undoubtedly saved hundreds of lives, although it meant the loss of her own."

Mrs. Barry, a widow and mother of a 16 year old son, Jack, resisted rescue efforts of W. H. Bradford, assistant night manager, telling him: "No, I'm going to stay at my station." Bradford later found her unconscious and was burned trying to save her.

The Vall award, established by the late president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, is given annually to those engaged in telephone work who have performed outstanding acts of public service.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Sun announced it was starting a fund to pay for her son's education. The newspaper said it started the fund with a contribution of $500.

Farm And Ranch News

By WACIL McNAIR

Although Aug. 15 was the official deadline set for filing application for the Smith-Doxey cotton grading service in this area, officials have set July 15 as a goal date, County Agent Durward Lester has announced.

It is hoped that all applications will be in by that time. The applications should be turned in as soon as possible for a specific variety can be determined. Howard county already is off to a good start, with a number of farmers and ginners signed up to cooperate.

There is a big surplus of protein in Texas this spring in spite of the shortage of protein concentrates on the market, E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A&M college extension service has pointed out. A recent study on sources and uses of protein conducted by the USDA agricultural economics bureau shows that 60 percent of all protein used by livestock in the US comes from pasture, hay and silage, while grain supplies only 25 percent. There has been plenty of rain over most of the hay and pasture belt, Miller said, and right now there is probably as much protein in Texas as at any time in the past 10 years. The problem is to put it where it can be used by livestock.

Much can be saved if it is cut for hay while the grass is young and green, for that is when protein content is highest. The same is true of sudan and Johnson grass, whether stored for hay or used as silage.

To the dairyman, alfalfa has greater value as silage than when it is field cured, according to recent studies of the USDA's bureau of dairy industry. Recent studies showed that cows on silage produced about seven percent more milk than those on hay. At the beginning of the trials the silage contained nine times as much carotene as the hay, but at the end the silage was 14 times as rich in carotene, because the hay lost carotene.

tense at a higher rate. In addition cows fed silage gave milk much higher in vitamin A potency. The protein content of dry matter was found to be 21 percent in the silage and 15 percent in the hay.

It now appears more than a mere possibility that Big Spring has launched an era of growth as a cattle market. Now that the West Texas Livestock Auction company has embarked on a marketing career as many buyers probably will be available here as anywhere in West Texas. They have been plentiful all season at the Big Spring Livestock Auction company, where a flourishing market has been in progress for some time, and with two regular sales weekly more can count on getting what they want in Big Spring.

Demand for farm and ranch labor has shown no appreciable increase during the past few weeks, but like the crops, there is nothing wrong with the farm labor situation that a good rain wouldn't cure. Several requests have been made at the county agent's office, however, for small families and couples to take permanent work on farms. Demand for temporary farm labor is practically nil.

A training school for testing supervisors of dairy herd improvement associations will be held at Texas A&M college June 10-14. Persons interested in attending the training school should notify J. W. Davis, assistant dairyman, extension service, College Station. This training school and another held recently at Plainview will help qualify more men for testing work in the state. College training is desirable, but not essential to the success of a tester, Davis says. Supervisors should be of good character, have a real interest and practical experience in dairying, and should be capable of keeping neat and accurate records, he said.

Was It A Red Car And A He-Cow?

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Police records here now show something new in the way of hit and run accidents. Anthony Roma, San Bernardino, Calif., reported to the sheriff's office that a cow ran into the side of his car, caved the entire side in, then, apparently unhurt, disappeared on the run from the scene of the accident.

Local Graduates College-Bound

Big Spring high school graduates of both this and other years are headed for college this fall in numbers exceeding that of any other time, if the volume of business Walter Reed, high school principal, is doing in sending out transcripts is any indication.

Since last Wednesday Reed has acted on requests of 25 young people anticipating entry into college to send transcripts of their high school work to registrars. And, Reed says, according to trends of earlier years, the bulk of the transcripts are requested in mid-summer.

Of this number, seven are GI's planning to attend college under the GI Bill of Rights, five of them heading for Texas Tech, one to SMU and one to College of Mines. Altogether, seven transcripts have been sent to Tech, one to Southwestern, six to TSCW, one to Texas University, two to Hardin-Simmons, one to ACC, two to TCU, one to A&M, one to College of Mines, two to Baylor and one to SMU.

Therapy Occupation For Wounded Arm Becomes Engrossing Hobby

With a nerve severed by a piece of German shrapnel, it seemed Sammy Burns would carry a limp right arm the rest of his days.

But that didn't take into consideration Sammy Burns, army doctor and therapist. Sammy wasn't licked; doctors tied the nerve with fine silver wire; therapists prescribed leathercraft for gentle exercise and that arm was on its way back.

A profitable, engrossing hobby was born, too for today Sammy turns out hand-made billfolds, handbags, moccasins, etc.

Therapists showed him how to make a design on leather, wet it, tool it and come up with a billfold. And he liked it enough to turn out dozens of pieces in the 14 months he spent in McCloskey General hospital. Better, he regained use of the arm.

It takes both originality and skill to make a hand-tooled billfold. First, Sammy gets the right kind of leather, untreated, from a local boot shop. Then he conceives a design. Sometimes it may be some complicated floral pattern which takes shape under a wandering pencil, or it may be an idea picked up from the label of the garments in the men's store where he is employed. He has even gained inspiration from a label on a beer bottle, inserting initials in lieu of the brand name. The design is drawn on thin paper, placed over the wet leather, traced with a special sharp tool. Burns has over 50 different tools, which he has made himself, with which to press, prick or punch markings on the leather. One of his most ingenious instruments he has invented has several evenly-spaced prongs for punching holes around the edges for lacing.

Sometimes to contrast the smooth leather pressed down inside the flower petal, he will dot the background with a host of tiny holes with a needle-sharp instrument.

Leather is an easy medium with which to work, he says since mistakes can be covered up, with designs altered in such a way to hide the slip of a tool.

However, after the work is completed and the leather is treated with an acid, nothing can be changed. It is time to put the inside pockets in the billfold and to bind it with leather lacing. It requires seven times as much lacing as the perimeter of the billfold, he has learned, and is one of the most tedious tasks to do.

Handbags are made much the same way, with leather pieces and design naturally larger. Moccasins for children are fairly simple to make. He made a pair for his young nephew, lacing together strips of leather and fitting them to a sole, pattern of which was cut by an old shoe.

Burns also learned to make costume jewelry, bracelets, and rings out of metal and old coins, but once out of the hospital he lacked the equipment for turning out such pieces. Leather work is more versatile, easier and, he thinks, more fun. Besides, it's more profitable.

Blind Man Graduates With Highest Honors

AP Newsfeatures
STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — William T. Powell isn't ashamed to admit he depended upon help from fellow students to get his college degree.

The 20-year-old Clarion (Pa.) graduate is blind, yet he:

Completed requirements for his diploma in seven instead of eight semesters, was one of 14 honor students in the winter graduating class at Pennsylvania State College, and was one of only three to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Throughout his college career, Powell relied on classmates for help. He hired women students to read to him and after he had studied class assignments, he enjoyed listening to friends reading novels, newspapers and magazines.

He was blinded seven years ago when struck by a snowball. However, he was graduated from high school with honors and then entered Penn State.

He earned his way through college on a scholarship won in a competitive examination. As a freshman, he was elected to Phi Eta Sigma, honorary scholastic fraternity for first-year students.

Powell majored in political science but was interested in history and personnel work.

For recreation, he turns to music. He considers himself "just a fair trombone player."

Powell plans to work for the State Department of Welfare as a counselor for the State Council for the Blind.

BLIND William T. Powell gets some help from Jeanne T. Bradshaw of Maplewood, N. J., at Pennsylvania State College.

Auditor Plans Revised State Parole System

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP) — State Auditor C. H. Cavness has recommended a "considerable revision" of Texas' system of pardons and paroles, including clarification of the laws.

In his formal report on an audit of the books of state board of pardons and paroles made to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, the auditor urged these specific changes:

1. Employment of the state of paid parole supervisors charged with the duty of keeping tab on all parolees.

2. That further clemency granted a prisoner, after original clemency, should be granted only after an investigation by a paid parole supervisor.

3. That parole supervisors should be furnished lists of arrested persons and that adopted rules of conduct for parolees should be rigidly enforced, with revocation of clemency mandatory on flagrant violations.

4. That peace officers should work in close cooperation with parole supervisors.

5. That peace officers in the county to which a convict is paroled should be notified immediately by the penitentiary of the release of a convict on parole, and that the parolee should be required to report to the parole supervisor and to the peace officers immediately upon reaching the county.

6. That persons free under suspended sentences should be as rigidly supervised as convicts out on parole.

Cool, Dry Weather Reported For May; Drouth Continues

Cool, dry weather which continued an acute drouth condition similar to the 1915-18 and 1910-13 dry cycles, went down in the May books.

Although there were no abnormally high temperatures and a low of 42 degrees turned up, mean temperature for May was 72, only .2 of a degree under mean normal.

Precipitation measured only 1.48 as compared with a normal of 2.56 and even then 1.17 of the amount fell in a local shower which touched the US weather bureau at the airport and not the county in general.

During the first five months of the year, rainfall has totaled only 3 inches as against a normal of 6.46. What makes matters still worse is that since the first week of October, rain has totaled only 8.30 inches against a normal of 7.36 inches.

Peak temperature for the month was 96 on May 30, far under the 109 record on May 30, 1916. Minimum was 52 degrees, which lacked a lot of touching the 31 degree low on the bureau books.

The month brought four halls and high winds, one measuring 45 mph, according to the summary by Vernon W. Schaad, meteorologist in charge.

Eight days were classed as cloudy, reflecting lost opportunities for rain. Another 16 were partly cloudy and seven clear.

Multiple Big Wheel Gives Real Odd Feeling With Double Twist

AP Newsfeatures
SAN DIEGO, Calif.—A double-thrill ferris wheel is the unique invention of Curtis J. Velare. He put one ferris wheel on top of another to make the double ferris wheel. He has three which he believes are the only ones in the U. S.

Imagine two ferris wheels, both moving around and at the same time rotating on a huge axle so that the rider gets the sensation of two motions at once. When the two wheels are in a vertical position they reach a height of 86 feet.

The success of his ride, said Velare, is part of the general success of the plain ferris wheel, which along with the merry-go-round, is the perennial favorite in shows and carnivals.

Old Showman
As a retired owner and manager of the Royal American Shows, one of the largest traveling shows, Velare should know what the public wants in the way of a ride. He has spent 50 years traveling around with carnivals and circuses.

"Rides are no different from shows. You have to keep giving the public something new," said the showman. And he has experimented with other rides, some of them successful, some failures. His wife has had to act as guinea-pig for some of his inventions.

Acrobat at 12
Velare, who at 12 was an aerial acrobat with a circus, became interested in rides when he joined a carnival with a few rides. He has since made a thorough study of rides and the ingredients of a successful show.

Nothing new, the ferris wheel dates back to the first one exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893. The next ride to appear was the whip. In 1916, and Velare's company owned the second one. Then the caterpillar appeared in 1918 and became a favorite.

Stitt Installed As Seminary President

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP) — Dr. David Leander Stitt today had been installed as president of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

Dr. Stitt has served as president of the seminary for the past year and succeeds the late Dr. Thomas W. Currie. B. W. Wood, chairman of the board, presented Dr. Stitt with the formal seal of the seminary.

In his inauguration Dr. Stitt pledged himself to build an institution to match the potential greatness of the Southwest. He further pledged himself to train a ministry to meet the needs of today, and cope with the "great restlessness and dread" that has settled over the modern mind. He said that the needs of the institution are many but the seminary must be prepared to furnish ministers in a growing south.

Russia Needs Rain

KIEV, June 5 (AP)—A high official of the Ukrainian government told foreign newsmen here today that the size of the Ukraine wheat crop depends on whether there is a rainfall by June 15 to end the long drought.

Cash-Ins Increase

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP) — Cash-ins of the Series E savings bond—the former "war bond"—have outstripped new purchases by $486,930,000 this year, treasury figures disclosed today on the eve of a campaign to promote greater bond buying.

Grain Protects Sandy Land At State Hospital Farm From Wind Erosion

Approximately 100 acres of sandy land were protected from wind erosion by use of small grain as a cover crop on the farm of the Big Spring State Hospital, which is cooperating with the district in carrying out a coordinated soil and water conservation program.

Bob Collins, farm manager, said, "In addition to protecting the soil from blowing, the small grain has afforded considerable grazing for livestock which the hospital produces for home use."

Collins also disclosed that six miles of terraces (designed and surveyed by the SCS) had been maintained this year by plowing to them and repairing all low places.

E. T. O'Daniel, cooper and supervisor of the district, revealed that "125 acres of wheat used for grazing of 165 calves for 2 or 3 months gave the greatest net returns of any similar acreage on the farm or ranch."

O'Daniel also stated that he was interested in trying some winter crop such as abruzzo rye or vetch on his sandy land farm in an effort to reduce wind erosion and maintain soil fertility.

O. O. Murray, district cooper of the Gay Hill conservation group, has a good stand of cotton which already has several leaves, as well as feed crops which are a foot high or more. Despite droughty conditions, Murray points out that conservation practices which he has applied, including (1) leaving a large amount of crop litter and stalks on the surface (2) terracing and contour farming (3) crop rotation and (4) using available moisture at the right time for planting, all contribute to the more advanced stage of his crop in relation to existing conditions. SCS, in cooperation with the district, is assisting Murray in planning and applying conservation.

"Ranchers cooperating with the SCS district have found that conservation stocking of their ranges is a form of insurance in times of drought," is a statement made by Herd Midkiff, rancher-cooperator and district supervisor representing the western zone of the Martin-Howard District.

Midkiff also said that stocking with the right number of livestock will result in a reserve of forage on the range for use during droughts and for protection of the range against overuse. For example, lambs on the Dick Midkiff ranch were heavier, sheared more wool and brought about $2.00 more per head than lambs on an overstocked range.

Teacher's Star Pupil

DUNKIRK, N. Y. (UP) — Romancing with teacher is strictly legitimate at Dunkirk High School between Robert Mueller and the former Agnita Schwartz. They're married!

Mueller, who recently was discharged from the Navy, has gone back to school to get his diploma, while his wife, Agnita, has been hired to complete the unexpired term of a teacher who resigned.

ON-THE-SPOT HELP IN WRECK

CHICAGO, June 6 (AP)—William Taylor, 50, was knocked down by a passing car but told the driver he wasn't hurt.

The driver disagreed. He took him to Grant Hospital where an X-ray showed a broken ankle and a broken leg bone.

The driver was Dr. Frank L. Andrews, resident physician of the hospital.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

for electric refrigerator owners while the food emergency exists

Your electric refrigerator, by saving food and reducing waste, is playing an important part in helping conserve scarce food items during the present emergency. In order that your electric refrigerator will continue to serve efficiently and economically during this period of food shortages, take good care of it and observe the following rules:

1. Don't place hot foods in your refrigerator. Let them cool first.
2. Place a cover over warm foods.
3. Don't open the refrigerator door more often than absolutely necessary.
4. Don't leave the door open while carrying food to other places.
5. Defrost frequently, at least once a week. When the frost on the freezer unit becomes more than a quarter of an inch thick, it lowers the efficiency of your refrigerator.
6. Speed up defrosting by placing hot water in the ice cube trays. After defrosting is completed, change the hot water to cold water for making ice cubes.
7. Keep the refrigerator at the normal temperature recommended by the manufacturer. Too low a temperature isn't necessary and may be wasteful.

The new low electric rates mean that you can operate your electric refrigerator at still lower cost, right at a time when the cost of living is going up.

Ship Shapeless Ship For Sale

AP Newsfeatures
HONOLULU, Hawaii—"Smockey Joe" has turned to the last page of her wartime comic book escapades.
The 35-year-old, 240-foot former inter-island steamer Kilaua is up for sale here by the surplus property office.
At the outbreak of war, "Smockey Joe" had been idle for several years. Then the Army bought her for use as a supply boat. Flying between Canton and Palmyra Islands she was, for a while, the principal supply ship to Fanning Island.
The old tub lost no time in beginning her second childhood—and fully enjoyed every minute of it.
The happy-go-lucky ship seldom ran on an even keel. Her boilers saw the inside of the repair yard more than once—probably because some of the times she was run on salt water.
Other ships had no desire to be near her in Japanese-infested waters but, undaunted by their aloofness, "Smockey Joe" contentedly travelled alone. In the daytime smoke from her stacks could be seen 40 miles away; at night sparks from her fires lit up the area around her. Her crew members didn't worry though—they figured the Japs would take one good look at her and decide against wasting a torpedo.

Oblivious to her eccentricities a new captain came aboard in Pearl Harbor and was bringing her into Honolulu harbor when the wheel refused to answer. Struggling on, he finally got her alopside the dock.
But that was only the beginning of his troubles. The new skipper asked for full speed astern. Instead, he got full speed ahead and did one of the nice jobs of ramming "Smockey Joe" into the dock that ever could have been done.
Slightly disgusted, the captain walked off her bridge to get a drink of water. Learning over the fountain he took one deep gulp and then, completely disgusted, he walked off the ship.
The water fountain had spurted forth fuel oil.

Issue Of Free Reporting Of News

Recently the Soviet government ordered the expulsion of R. H. Markham, veteran journalist on the staff of the Christian Science Monitor, from Romania.

Mr. Markham categorically denied all allegations made by the Russians, among them that he had made political speeches, and remarks prejudicial toward Russia.

In this case, the writer is not given over to sensationalism—quite the contrary. He is a seasoned reporter and one with a great deal of reserve. He knows his way around and is quite capable of translating what he sees into accurate, objective reporting.

Apparently, he knew what he saw and the Russians didn't "like what he saw."

Hence, they have put the bee on him. The case is important only in that it has a direct bearing on the ideal of free news reporting from all over the world. That, of course, does not exist in Russia and chances are that it will not exist for a long, long time. Manifestly, it does not exist in the countries under Russian occupation, and even in the states where Russian domination is felt.

Action in the Markham case brings up the issue of free news reporting not only for Romania, but for the entire Balkans. When it is obliterated there, the gag will be progressive. Then the ideal of enlightening the people so that the people may intelligently decide will be merely vain hope.

A Course For Housewives, Too

On Monday, a food handlers' school will start at the city auditorium with sessions of approximately an hour and a half daily through June 14.

The Big Spring-Howard county division of the Midland-Ector-Howard county health unit is anxious to establish a new attendance record (now approximately 600), but the real goal of the school is to inform people in safer methods of preparing and serving foods. Thus, the goal of a record attendance makes sense.

Splendid cooperation is being manifested among commercial food handling concerns, with some 80 cafes, eating and drinking establishments pledged to close shop during the hours of the school so that employees may be 100 per cent in attendance.

Yet the school is by no means intended for this group alone. Any person who prepares and serves food will find it profitable and enlightening.

Should housewives of Big Spring and Howard county show the same interest in improved methods of food preparation, storage and serving as the commercial firms have manifested, a great good could come out of the school.

It is a splendid opportunity to get in another blow against usual summer infections which make it a precarious season from a health standpoint.

The Nation Today—James Marlow

Jim Crow Gets Slap -- But Not Hard

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The Supreme Court has given Jim Crow a slap which will cause some changes, but not great changes, in the treatment of negroes in this country.

The court has ruled that interstate buses cannot force negroes to ride in the rear.

The decision was a victory for those who have opposed Jim Crowism, wherever it appeared, but it is a limited victory.

Jim Crow, in some cases as a law and in some as a custom, is a rule of life in the South.

The Supreme Court in this decision left the practice untouched except to ban any law compelling negroes to ride behind whites on interstate buses.

Thus the Supreme Court decision knocks out just a little bit of Jim Crowism. Southern Jim Crow laws are about a half century old. They were passed about the turn of the century.

A negro woman, riding an interstate bus in Virginia, was told by the driver to move to the back to make room for white passengers. She refused, was arrested, convicted, and finally appealed to the Supreme Court.

The court ruled that part of the constitution which says Congress has power to regulate commerce among states. This is the famous clause giving the federal government power to regulate interstate commerce but leaving states free to regulate commerce conducted entirely within states.

Going on from there, the court said the federal government, not a state government, is the authority for preventing "burdens on interstate commerce."

Then the court reasoned that the negro woman was entitled to protection from a burden on interstate commerce. And it said that being forced to change her seat was a burden since she or any other negro could be forced under Virginia law to change seats a number of times, so the court limited itself to interstate commerce.

Nine other Southern states—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Texas—have laws similar to Virginia's. Where they conflict with the Supreme Court decision, they'll have to be changed.

Hal Boyle's Notebook

The Swiss Golden Gate

EDITOR'S NOTE: Boyle's column today is in the form of a letter to his wife, Frances.

By HAL BOYLE
BASEL, Switzerland. (AP)—This is the "Golden Gate" to Switzerland.

The call it the "Golden Gate" because it is the trade center leading into the heart of the biggest little country in Europe and it plays a steady tune for the Swiss national cash register.

An American here is more privileged than in his own country. He can eat better and sleep better. If he wants anything from steak to silk stockings it is here for the money. The only hitch is that the American dollar enjoys no extra purchasing value as it does in France and Italy. The Swiss franc is the soundest and most sought after currency in Europe.

Food is rationed but there is no real lack of anything except coal. Everyone is happy except some of the more militant feminists. They are angry because the world's democracy hasn't seen fit yet to give them voting rights.

The Swiss are extremely civic conscious and go in heavily for culture as well as commerce. Basel, a town of 170,000 population, has an art museum which would be the boast of any American metropolis 10 times its size.

It is an incredibly neat and clean town situated on hills overlooking the Rhine river. There has been a settlement here since Roman times, but Basel first gained business importance in 1225, when Bishop Heinrich Von Thun built a bridge across the river and thus made the town the economic key to the whole area.

One-third of all trade traffic in and out of Switzerland passes through Basel.

Silk ribbon manufacture used to be the main industry here, but then your girls started wearing your hair short and Basel had to switch to another industry—chemicals. Flippen Does Flipflop

NEW YORK — I've known J. C. Flippen for at least a half dozen years and I've always called him "Jay," as do most of his friends. But it was just the other day that I learned that he doesn't own a first day. His parents in Little Rock, Ark., tried in vain to choose a tag to their liking and finally gave up and just called him "J. C." and to everyone since he has been either "Flip" or "Jay."

Jay seems to have abandoned Broadway for good, or at least for a good long time; he has shifted his activities to Hollywood, where he now has a new audience — participation show called "That's Life," a hopeful switch on the old quiz show idea.

a fortunate freak of circumstance, he came a baseball and general sports broadcaster, with his natural ad lib talents and his equally natural leaning toward sports, mainly baseball, making him one of the best sports spicers in the business. He even announced a couple of World Series, a stint for which he was, and is, highly suitable both by his natural touch for drama and an almost small-boy enthusiasm for the game itself.

This seemingly ever-happy guy cut loose from Broadway six months ago. He seemed to like it here — he'd been around Times Square 25 years — and it was a great surprise to all of us when he bounced off to Hollywood and stayed. Flip came here first as an ambitious youngster who went without a meal for days as he wandered around Broadway hunting an old friend who had told him to look him up. One night when I'd stayed with Flip in his Hotel Astor suite overlooking Times Square, he told me the story.

Having known Jay first as a vaudeville performer and later as a friend, I had come to find him one of the really wonderful guys around Broadway. I don't know a person who doesn't speak well of him, and that includes his former wife, who still likes the shaggy-haired Flippen as a guy, if not as a husband.

Jay has gone blithely through a good many facets of the entertainment business. I've spent hours with him at bars and restaurant tables, gabbing about vaudeville days, the oldtime stars, the constant fight for new faces, the new trend toward big money and small talents — a trend which he knows will send these comedians back to the small-time circuits as soon as the tilted times resolve into normalcy.

Jay has weathered every sort of new turn in entertainment preferences. He was one of the best blackface comics when Ziegfeld was featuring the Jolson, Cantors and Flippens of their day. When the custom changed to glib masters of ceremonies, Flip changed his style and stayed up there; near, if not on, the top. By

"I looked up here at the Astor and swore that if I ever made good, I'd live in one of those corner suites for the rest of my life," Flip said. At the time, he'd been in the apartment 20 years and I thought Flip was Broadway's most permanent resident.

I talked to him in Hollywood the other night by phone, and while he seemed to miss the gang and his favorite street, Broadway, he didn't say when he was coming back. Come to think of it, he didn't even say if.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—Drew Pearson

Truman's Enemy -- Loyalty To Friends

WASHINGTON. — It is now possible to give a play-by-play account of what happened inside the White House during the "Lost Weekend."

This columnist has been around Washington for a good many years, but the events preceding Harry Truman's labor message to Congress were the most bizarre ever witnessed. They prove that Harry Truman's worst enemy is his own loyalty to friends. Here is what happened:

On Friday morning, just after the rail strike started, Truman held a cabinet meeting. He was hopping mad at A. F. Whitney and Alvanley Johnston. Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was equally burned up, but not at the strikers. He was sore at likeable John Steelman, the White House labor expert, and John Snyder, the war reconverter, for messing up the negotiations.

At the cabinet meeting, Postmaster General Hannegan wanted Truman to go on the air with an appeal to the public, but no crack-down on labor. Secretary of War Patterson wanted the President to take over the railroads at once, even produced a blueprint for the Army's strike-breaking operations. Secretary Byrnes said he thought a settlement could be reached but not by Steelman, in whom the unions had lost faith.

was unwise in the light of this information for the President to take the strong action he contemplated.

John Snyder, however, insisted that the President would address the nation and talk to Congress. He could not turn back. Truman agreed with Snyder and asked those present to return at 7 o'clock with drafts of the speech he was to deliver at 10 p. m. — a pitifully short time for any chief executive to prepare such a momentous pronouncement.

Shortly after 7:30, the group reconvened at the White House. Secretary Byrnes stayed only a few minutes, left to meet with union leaders Whitney and Johnston. Principal speech writer turned out to be slow-moving, good-natured, Presidential Secretary Bill Hassett, known as a fair editor but terrible speech writer. He was only a second string man on the Roosevelt team.

Snyder showed up for the meeting, feeling no pain. He interrupted the speech-writing from time to time with inane cracks which served no useful purpose.

Several times Vinson and Schwellenbach tried to balance the speech by pointing out that the railroad operators had refused to make concessions. Each time Snyder and Steelman vetoed the proposal. Each time Truman sided with Snyder.

Coffee Prices Up

Here is good news to Latin coffee growers. Price ceilings on coffee may be removed within a month. The Inter-American Coffee Board has put pressure on Chester Bowles and OPA chief Paul Porter to throw the market wide open after June 30.

The board, composed of representatives from the 14 coffee-producing countries of Latin America, with a U.S. delegate as ex officio member, claims that supplies of the beverage bean will exceed demand indefinitely. Warehouses in Brazil, Colombia, Guatemala and the other member nations are reported bursting with coffee surpluses.

"Only the most expensive coffee can be brought into the US profitably under present ceilings, even with the subsidies your government pays," a board spokesman explained. "So that is mixed with chicory to make popular-priced brands here, while thousands of tons of our medium and cheaper grades are in storage or being burned."

Chief argument for removing rather than merely raising price ceilings is that, in the latter case, subsidies would have to be retained, although they would be lowered.

"The subsidy program is no help any longer," the spokesman said, "because the surplus are so great that growers have become discouraged. The only way to restore confidence and keep them from curtailing crops is to eliminate subsidies and open the market."

He insisted that volume of coffee exports would normalize the prices on all grades "within two months, at most." When this was pointed out to Bowles, he replied that he didn't doubt it but that he was concerned with the "psychological effect" of lifting price controls. Coffee, he said, is regarded in the United States as a staple item, and he was afraid that producers of basic foodstuffs would use any such move as ammunition against their own price ceilings. However, he agreed to take the board's recommendation under advisement.

Meanwhile, Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden has told President Truman that something must be done for the coffee growers or the United States will create more ill will in Latin America. He did not specify removal of price control as the solution—but neither did he speak against it.

Truman will confer shortly with Bowles and other advisers on the problem, and an announcement of revised policy is expected within two weeks.

Twenty Minutes to Spare

Schwellenbach and Vinson both opposed Truman's personal denunciation of Whitney and Johnston, but Snyder shouted wildly that the two union leaders were trying to destroy "the chief," and that they had to be named. Truman agreed.

Finally, the speech was completed only 20 minutes before the President went on the air. At the time he made it, Truman didn't even know what kind of legislation he was going to request of Congress the next day. It was in this confused, uncertain atmosphere that the President of the United States made the most important political decision of his career.

Capital Chaff

Henry Morgenthau telephoned Henry Wallace (much to the latter's embarrassment) and discussed his blast at the Truman administration before delivering it. Wallace thought his old cabinet colleague was being too harsh... here is more unity in the American labor movement right now than ever before in recent history. In Dayton, Cincinnati and Lima, Ohio, AFL, CIO and brotherhood unions will all demonstrate together against the White House program. Original plans called for two-hour general strikes... At long last, the State Department has halted the sale of all surplus property to Spain... Truman's friend, Ambassador Ed Pauley, has been getting rough treatment from the Senate. Pauley asked permission to visit Soviet Korea for 15 days. The Russians countered with a three-day permit. When Ambassador "Beetle" Smith protested, the Kremlin compromised with five days, but barred Pauley from the war plants and military installations which the Russians have been denuding... Undersecretary of Commerce, Al

After the cabinet meeting Truman lunched with Snyder and Steelman. They urged him to use force to break the strike, also to go before Congress and ask for new legislation. After lunch, therefore, Truman called a special meeting of certain cabinet members and advisers, including Secretary of State Byrnes, Attorney General Clark, Secretary of Treasury Vinson, John Steelman, John Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, and the President. Truman informed them he had decided: (1) To go on the air that night, and (2) address Congress the next day. He then outlined the general nature of what he wanted to say — some of it drastic.

At this point, Secretary Vinson, realizing an important break with Roosevelt precedent was imminent, once again asked whether Snyder was sure of his figures regarding the distance between the railroad operators and the brotherhoods. Snyder then sheepishly admitted that only between 25 and 30 million dollars separated the two.

Steelman also confessed that the three important rules changes the union was really insisting on would only cost the railroads 18 million dollars.

Bevin Sees Spread Of Communism As Threat To Lasting World Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's two-listed foreign secretary, Ernest Bevin, stated the case of Western Democracy versus totalitarian Communism with succinct bluntness in his speech on foreign policy in the House of Commons Tuesday, and the meat of it was a point which many statesmen have been hesitating to make publicly for fear of giving offense to Moscow.

Bevin declared that permanent peace in Europe could be guaranteed "only if Russia enters freely into the European settlement." But, he added, there runs all through Russian speeches and writings the "idea that the Russian methods alone represent democracy and that certain other systems are either Fascist or cryptic-Fascist." Then a bit later he nailed it down like this:

Russian diplomats, he said, appeared to believe that "the security of Russia can only be maintained when every country in the world adopts the Soviet system. This is one of their greatest handicaps and a great obstacle to peace."

Well, now, not only do Soviet diplomats appear to hold this belief, but foreign observers long have recognized that all signs indicate Moscow fully intends to encircle the globe with Communism. The intensive campaign for Communization of the world, which Marshal Stalin shelved temporarily when he came to power in 1924, is again in full swing.

Even before the late war, many European observers who had been watching the situation closely felt perfectly certain that Moscow would resume the world drive when the right moment arrived. Obviously the right moment came when Russia was mighty in victory.

"This doesn't mean, of course, that the spread of communism was wholly laid aside in 1924. On the contrary there was persistent and systematic effort throughout

OPA Asked to Control Vet. College Rentals

DALLAS, June 6 (AP)—The OPA has been asked to control rentals at trailer camps for veterans at Southern Methodist University after the Public Housing Authority ordered rent increases from $20 to $27.50 per month.

Russell S. Stephens, regional OPA rent executive, said the same situation may be faced in Wichita Falls, Austin, Victoria and Columbia, Mo., where 252 houses supplied by the PHA have been set up at schools.

Stephens said OPA is studying the situation to determine if it has jurisdiction.

the world to establish Communist cells. We are seeing some of the fruit of these efforts now—and we shall see more.

It is in this that Bevin sees a danger to world peace. Communism and Western Democracy are diametrically opposed in their political views. No country would long exist as half Western Democracy and half Communism.

However, this doesn't mean that there isn't room enough on our big globe for both these philosophies of life. Nations can agree to disagree politically and still maintain friendly and profitable relations.

Consumption Of Dairy Products Here High

Despite a considerable cut in Howard county dairy herds since the beginning of the war, national dairy month in 1946 finds consumption of dairy products at a high level, figures made available by producers, processors and distributors indicate.

No concrete basis is available for a per capita consumption average, since population of people has varied as much as dairy cows during the past five years and official census has not been compiled since 1940. It is known definitely, however, that while dairy herds were diminishing, population was increasing, and current estimates place the figure for the immediate Big Spring area at 20,000.

Using that figure as a basis, each Big Spring resident consumes 8 of a pint of milk a day. Daily distribution by all processors combined amounts to 8,000 quarts, of which approximately 63 percent is produced in Howard county and 37 percent shipped in. This does not include many who keep their own cows and make no purchases of commercial milk.

The milk consumption accounts for only a part of the local dairy products picture, however. Big Spring processors are distributing ice cream in the area now at a 920-gallon-a-day clip. Using the same population figures the daily per capita consumption is approximately .32 of a pint. Adding smaller amounts shipped in by outside distributors one might say that the average Big Spring resident eats a pint of ice cream every three days. Included, of course, are quantities used by soda fountains for malted milks, milk shakes, sundaes, etc.

All but a small part of the dairy products used in Big Spring are distributed by two major processors. At present there is only one independent dairy distributing its own milk, and two concerns manufacture their own ice cream for retail sale.

Howard county has only about 2,300 producing dairy cows, a low figure compared to pre-war herds. The average is about three for each farm. The feed shortage and slim profits are blamed for the reduction. Farmers and stockmen have been able to realize more by diverting their efforts to beef production since the war, and the tasks associated with the beef business are not so tedious and time-consuming as in dairying. However, dairying is expected to regain lost ground in this area when feed becomes more plentiful and prices return to normal.

The downward trend in local dairying doubtless has had an effect on consumption of milk, since the distributors are selling all they can obtain.
