It just takes some people longer to learn than others. We seem to be one of those who takes longer. Our residency on these High Plains only goes back some 24 years and we apparently have not learned to comment on the weather. Last week as we scribed our column, we rhapsodized over the beautiful October weather. This was on Tuesday afternoon. By Wednesday, the wife commented that maybe we should change that paragraph. Our reply was no, that we had heard the weather report and that by Thursday, paper day, we were due to return to sunshine and warmth.

Of course, when the paper hit the streets Thursday after- At Texico - noon even the well digger was looking for his sheepskin and slicker

Something we bet you didn't know until now: Texas women can be drafted and have been Subject to this draft since 1957. Passed by the Texas Legislature in that year, Article 5765 states that "all able-bodied citizens, males and females, shall constitute the militia and be subject to military duty."

The reason women haven't been drafted in Texas is because the United States has not been involved in a declared war in which military reserves and state units were neces-

The good old Texas Legislature cannot get around to passing laws to save the overburdened citizens a few bucks but it can pass a law to draft our women and ship them out of the country. That seems to be about par for the legislative intelligence course.

Locally the past weekend was a football contest disaster. An average score in the contest was between four and five correct calls. With the rash of upsets, the contest standings did not change much except that Elaine Wardlaw eased into a tie for first with Kevin Hardage and Willie Roberts. Even by keeping A&M off the select list last week, our local football forecasting Fred Derf fell another point behind his wife. Tut Tut, also spelled tuT tuT.

On the ballot in the forthcoming election will be Amendment No. 14 to the Texas Constitution. It will allow the County Commissioners Court to reduce the permanent school fund of the county for the purposes of reducing bonded indebtedness or making permanent improvements.

On the surface, this seemed laudatory and worthy of passages. However, we do have second thoughts and are now feeling that this amendment should be defeated.

It strikes us that a county could disburse its permanent fund and reduce its indebtedness and hence local taxes: and then turn around and ask the State of Texas for a larger tax allocation from the general fund. This would make other counties, in effect, pay a larger part of the local school tax bill.

This would soon force all counties to reduce their permanent funds and ask the State to increase its giving. This would certainly produce great pressure for increased taxation at the state level.

Both teams showed a great performance considering the rain, mud, and slush. Despite the uncooperative weather, many fans were out supporting the Steers.
