Letters. To The Editor

Mr. John Getz - Editor Stateline Tribune Farwell, Texas

Dear Editor:

I have just returned from a ball game at the Texico-Farwell Lions Club Ball Park and witnessed something that prompted me to write my first letter to your "Letter to the Editor" column.

I was so ashamed of the team that my son is on that I am tempted to remove him from any further participation. I refer to the game Monday night between Kelly Green and Aldridge. Kelly Green (my son's team) won 43-3, and the poor sportsmanship on the part of our team, their coach. parents and fans was very humiliating to me. This makes approximately ten games in the past four years I have partially watched and the tenth time for me to get furiously mad at the sportsmanship our kids are being taught. This is the reason I do not attend the games. I watched my daughter play one game last year and went home feeling this same sick way. So needless to say, it is the same at the boys and girls games alike. I do not know who is in one, car owner and car dealer charge, but I do hope that someone can do something. Maybe I stand alone in feeling this way but I should hope not. To me it was enough to win 43-3 without harrassing the other team. Our boys witnessed their coach and some of the parents make loud sarcastic remarks and laugh at the Aldridge coach and players. This is a shame on the part of anyone supporting this ball program to continue to allow such as this to happen.

New car dealers sponsored this tough federal law because, up to now, some states had odometer laws and some didn't. Cars are traded back and forth across state lines, and car buyers and car dealers in states with strong odometer laws had no assurance that cars brought in from other states had accurate mileage readings. As a result, they often paid inflated prices based on phony mileage. The new law:

-- makes it illegal for anyalike, to disconnect, alter or reset an odometer or operate a vehicle with a disconnected odometer with intent to defraud;

- prohibits sale or use of any device to change odometer mileage, except for legitimate repair;

-- permits legitimate odometer repair, service or replacement as long as the mileage reading remains the same. If this is impossible, a notice must be posted inside the vehicle that the mileage has been reset to zero, together with the date of repair and mileage at that time.
