of New Costume Suit

The two next-high / candidates, Mrs. B. Whitt of Muleshoe, and Mrs. Turner Paine of Oklahoma Lane, were given special un-announced consolation prizes, due to the splendid results obtained during the week.

So far as the final outcome of the campaign is concerned, the special effort made by the candidates to win the costume suit only tended to draw the candidates closer together.

AAA DEADLINES

COLLEGE STATION-No more applications for agricultural conservation payments or for range conservation payments under the 1939 AAA program can be accepted after May 31.

This deadline is final, according to a ruling of the State Agricultural Conservation Association committee, which declared that "no exceptions will be made."

At the same time, the committee called attentiin to the following closing dates:

March 1st, final date for filing requests for reconstitution of farms and for designating nongeneral allutment farms.

May 1, deadline for filing application to participate in the 1940 range and agricultural conservation programs.

"Because, darling, if I don't pull every trick from my bag, they'll be the first to despise me. This is a job, Adele."

"I don't like it," she said faintly. "Adele, I've known those two a long time. They are swell sports. They're game as they come. But if I fell down on this job because I like them-and adore you-they'd be the first to sneer. And you'd be next. Listen, sweet! I don't want them beaten, but I'm going to try my best to beat them. That's what I'm on the lookout for-the breaks. And it will mean a lot for me if I put it across. The Governor has promised me anything I want. Anything! We could get married then. I could take care of you."

"I don't want to be taken care ofat their expense. You don't know how lovely they are to us. I don't want anything-taken from them."

"Talk to Olympia," Len said. "She knows this racket. It's always a scrap. They can take a beating, but they can't stand a quitter."

"I think it is-despicable," she

the Senator in a campaign year. It was an ideal location for Len Hardesty, too, though working for the Opposition. "Not even a slave-driver with seven brats can keep me on the go day and night all summer," he told Adele confidentially. "I've got to relax occasionally, and I expect to do all my summer's relaxing at Shires."

The house itself was low, rambling and wide, with porches on every side; with high cupolas and low stoops and broad fireplaces; with great rooms, huge windows and crystal chandeliers; artistically oldfashioned to the last detail. Yet the old-fashionedness of it was more apparent than real, for it was only ten

In planning their arrival after the adjournment of Congress - Aunt Olympia always had a plan for everything minutely laid out in advance-she had been bitterly torn between natural thrift and pride. She wanted the girls to see Shires first in all its pristine beauty, and yet, wishing to safeguard and preserve that beauty, she trembled physically at thought of the havoc to be wrought on it by the first horde of friendly callers. Love triumphed. The girls should see Shires as it was; for was it not to be their future home with her and the Senator-or, at least, Limpy's future home?

mitted callers, both constituents and sightseers, to trample her velvety lawn, tread roughly on her neatly trimmed hedges and flower beds, scatter ashes and cake crumbs on her oriental rugs. One week of agonizing proof it was of her love for Limpy.

Then, almost overnight, Shires be-came a Cozy Rest. The oriental rugs and brocade tapestries were removed and stored in moth-proof containers in the attic. The best chairs and more costly small tables were removed. Pieces of bric-abrac, vases, pictures, expensive ash trays and cigarette boxes, finely bound books, were stowed away in locked drawers.

"Never leave any little nice thing lying about loose in a campaign,' she said. "To constituents, anything small enough to go in a pocket is a souvenir."

Even the grounds shared the campaign renovation. The rarest and most treasured of small shrubs and plants were removed to the greenhouse, which was padlocked. Stout grilled iron fences enclosed the flower gardens and bushes. Little railings shut off the place where visitors were not to walk.

Cecil Dodd joined them at Shires on the fifth of July, and an old roadster was turned over to him to travel about the state in, meeting committees, arranging rallies, hobnobbing with the press and getting his bearings in general.

In July, Aunt Olympia, referring to her "Social Activities" list, invited the Ladies' Aid Society in Maysville to a garden party at abundant exercise. She decreedand saw that the decree was well publicized—that the place chosen for them to pitch camp each night UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL should provide some recreation for the girls-tennis, horseback riding or swimming; "for the health of our children far transcends a senatorial campaign."

Olympia herself usually went about with a large sewing bag on her arm. In this she carried fresh handkerchiefs, a make-up box, an impressive array of darning cottons, needles and threads (assembled by Hilda), and an old, wornout pair of the Senator's socks, on which she darned photographically with amazing patience. The regular mending and laundry were sent back to Hilda at Shires-without benefit of camera men. The girls were frequently photographed in the act of washing or ironing a set of napkins.

"It's the democratic form of government," he said gently, and kissed the tears away. "But don't take my word for it, sweet. Ask them."

"But if you were with us, Len, it would be so perfect. To have you go with us, and plan with us, and be on our side-'

"Yes, it would be perfect. But if I broke my contract, it would be the best weapon the Governor could hold against him. They would claim that by Influence and Money the Senator had treacherously hired a man to break his contract. It would beat him quicker than anything else."

"But Len, hasn't principle got anything to do with it? Do you think the Governor would make a better Senator than Uncle Lancy?"

"No, sweet, I don't. But that hasn't a thing in the world to do with it . . . No, I don't think so. But thinking isn't my job. Publicity

"It's appalling, Brick," Helen wrote distractedly. "I'm just terrified of the whole thing. It all simmers down to the fact that the outs wants in and the ins want to stay where they are. I don't believe there is a single thing at stake but that. Brother Wilkie and Uncle Lancy agree on almost every point, except that the Governor thinks the Republicans could do a better job finishing what the Democrats started. I asked Aunt Olympia what is the real issue in this campaign.

" 'The issue!' she boomed. 'The issue? Why, the issue is just whether the Senator is going to be beaten by that treacherous worm who ought to get back where he belongs.

"All the time, Brick, all the money, all the scheming and planning, all the heartaches-just for that."

Aunt Olympia was packed and ready for adjournment by the tenth of May. Still Congress dawdled, filibustered, talked.

The second week in June she sent Hilda on up to Maysville with most of the baggage and with orders to get things ready for their arrival. It couldn't be long now. The most stentorian congressional voice was frayed and rasping.

"A hog caller couldn't stick it out much longer," she told the girls hopefully.

And then, on June 16th, Congress adjourned. Helen drew a deep, tired breath.

"At last! It's over!" she ejaculated. Olympia's snort was deep and gusty. She raised her shoulders like a champing Pegasus pluming for flight.

"Over!" she boomed. "Over! Why, it hasn't even begun!"

CHAPTER VII

She ordered Hilda to have the place in the pink of perfection for the girls' arrival.

"And be ready for a lightning change," she said grimly. "Have the campaign drapes and curtains ready. Get the summer rugs cleaned. Have the packing cases and moth-proof bags opened and aired. Tell Martin to get the tubs and fences and railings ready to put up at a minute's notice. Lay in moth-balls and wire screening and plenty of bolts and nails and padlocks. Tell Martin to have the tree guards painted and laid out . . . But be sure to have everything out of sight when we get there. I want them to see it right the first time." The girls, remembering the downat-the-heel parsonages that had been their previous homes, were almost speechlessly thrilled with Shires. There wasn't a farm in Iowa could hold a candle to it. They liked everything about it, from the honeysuckle and wild roses clambering over the porch rails with such apparent abandon-though really guided and compelled by the stern hand of the farm manager, Martin-to the cunning chicken incubators and brooder houses.

"Yes, it's nice," assented Aunt Olympia modestly, crimson with delight in their delight. "But we never should have called it Shires. Too aristocratic, Shires is. Now that the tide of public opinion has turned against elegance, we'll probably lose a thousand votes by that name. If we'd called it Cozy Rest or Happy Home or Old Mill Meadows we'd be better off."

"Why don't you change it, then, just till the campaign's over?"

Aunt Olympia shook her head. "Len Hardesty," she explained briefly. "He'd get a nation-wide hook-up to accuse us of finagling few speeches to be made, photofor votes."

She was anxiously apologetic about the rooms she had assigned them. "Now, you don't have to take them unless you want to," she astras here nearly every night, committeemen, or reporters, and we two rooms till after the campaign, ered wagon and hit the trail. it'll be a help."

The girls were joyously sure they could be comfortable. Aunt Olympia had chosen two connecting rooms for them at the opposite end of the hall from the huge roomwith two baths-that she occupied with the Senator. In the larger of the two rooms were twin beds, which Aunt Olympia thought would dust and streaked with rain and be nice for Helen and Adele; the dew, was packed for travel. "There'll be two hundred," said Aunt Olympia. "Though it's not a very large Aid. They'll bring all their children and cousins and auntsby-marriage. They'll take advantage of it being election year and invite all their out-of-town friends." There were two hundred and fifty

The Senator had no real opposition in the Primary and spent only enough time and money on it to strengthen the party machine and lay the groundwork for the real battle.

The preliminary activities of the campaign were of a mild sort, more in the nature of social pleasantries than warfare. There was frequent attendance at church suppers, fish fries, shore dinners, club picnics, and firemen's balls. There were a graphs to be posed for, interviews given and disseminated.

"Go on, Ollie, you forget who you're trying to kid! . . . Or would it be whom?'

During September, the congressional hearings on un-American and subversive activities almost took the limelight from the state campaigns. The Senator was almost childishly pro-American in his convictions, and followed the reports with morbid avidity. Some of his most ringing speeches were in hot defense of this suddenly jeopardized Americanism and majesty of God. The earth and he received a very good press quaked as the lightning and white on it.

Bruckart's Washington Digest Report on Labor Relations Act Is of Vital National Importance

Special Congressional Committee Recommends Reorgan ization of Board and Amendment Of 'Wagner Law.'

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. - The house of representatives has in its collective hands one of the most far-reaching and vital documents that has been presented to it in many years. I refer to the partial report of the in-vestigation into the National Labor Relations act and its creature, the National Labor Relations board. The report is vital because it exposes some of the most damning evidence that has come to light since the famed senate investigation into the oil scandals and proposes means for correcting the conditions which the committee of inquiry found to be wrong.

The special committee, headed by Rep. Howard Smith, Virginia Democrat, has spent months delving into the labor board record, analyzing cases, obtaining the "other side" of board rulings, reports of coercion, intimidation, labor union racketeering and such. It has done so with the minimum flare for sensational news publicity, and it recognizes, moreover, that it has just scratched the surface. The inquiry will continue, and there is very little doubt but that the New Deal attempt to put labor in a strait jacket under dom-ination of the C. I. O. is at long last going to be fully of record for the voters.

The committee majority vigorously assailed the labor board and the law under which the board acts for setting up an agency that serves as judge, prosecution and jury. Separation of these functions was recommended and amendments to the law were offered for the consideration of congress.

Government Housecleaning Should Be Undertaken

That course is fine. But it affects only the National Labor Relations board. True, the committee has no jurisdiction over any other questions gress does not prescribe some medicine to cure the illness.

The minority of the committee, two New Dealers—Representatives Murdock of Utah and Healey of Massachusetts-were highly angered by the majority recommendations made by Chairman Smith and Representatives Halleck of Indiana and Routzahn of Ohio. The three-man majority was accused of seeking to "emasculate" the law and destroy the board. With respect to the present board, I gather that the charge against the board is true, for there are thousands of people would be happier if Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith were out of those jobs. Complaints seldom have come concerning Dr. William M. Leiserson, but the others have been targets. So, perhaps, the minority charge is correct in that one instance.

Committee Recommended Abolition of Present Board

The committee majority recommended abolition of the present board and the establishment of a structure which would make certain that violators of the law would be prosecuted without direction from the body that was to sit as judge. It did not place any inhibitions against reappointment of the present membership to the new judicial posts. I suspect the committee thought such measures were not necessary. There are many who of life. The cross you make for doubt that either Mr. Madden or yourself in youth you must carry Mr. Smith could be confirmed by the senate again since the house for you, and there's no putting it committee disclosures of some of down. their unusual activities.

One of the other outstanding recommendations by the committee concerned freedom of speech. As the law now stands, it is nothing short of an abridgment of that freedom of speech of which our nation always has been so proud. The and when you do marry don't quarlaw prohibits an employer from rel, don't waste money, don't flirt, talking or giving advice in any way don't be extravagant. to any of his employees wherever the question of union organization is concerned. It is one of the steps that leads to other and more dangerous acts by government — that leads eventually to the point where citizens are just numbers of men and women who make good peons or equally good cannon fodder if needed. The committee voted for elimination of the board's division of re- out. Prayer will, humility and pasearch. Here is another cancerous sore. No one knows why the division is in existence, unless it be for purposes of subversive activity. The chief of the division is one David Saposs. The Saposs books and other writings have been quite vigorously criticized at various times. His favorite subjects are labor and political movements, and he always treats because one of the first things a them from the extreme left-wing baby learns, and one of the convicradical view. Mr. Saposs contends that his writings are "objective." But apparently the committee saw no need for the division of research in such an agency.

WHAT FARMERS NEED. Tom Dewey's farm speech was lifted largely from Glenn Frank's background for a Republican platform. Both were temperately, beautifully written.

In their critical aspects both were masterpieces of understatement. The net result of all that Mr. Wallace has done for agriculture is absolutely zero—which is considerably less than 32 degrees below freezing. So Mr. Dewey and Mr. Frank made a fairly spectacular and unanswerable case on that point.

All authorities agree that the problem is largely surplus production. Mr. Wallace started out to reduce the surplus. He has not decreased it. He has greatly increased it and his and other administration policies have vastly decreased the possibility of consuming it. In doing what he has done, Mr. Wallace has spent billions. I hate to criticize him, because he knows more about farming than anybody who attempts to discuss the subject. He is as sincere and intellectually honest a man licious topping for hot bread, rice, as there is in this administration. I am so convinced of this that, if I were a Democrat President, on the theory of the best brains and experience for the job, Mr. Wallace would be my candidate for the job he now holds. But I wouldn't let him have his way and I would tactfully suggest that we find other more dry papers. Do not let any places for many of his associates or advisers - possibly poking smoke tle. If the smudge is not too thick, through holes in doughnuts. Both Glenn Frank and Tom Dewey disclosed that they don't know anything about the farm problem. After careful study of their offerings, I am inclined to believe that they don't even suspect anything about it. What they have given out could have been said by Herbert Hoover and much of it was said by him in 1932 and earlier-with disastrous results. They suggest to the farmer that he ought to return to the fostering care that the Republicans gave him in the seven years before 1933. They might have added "since the Civil war." If they knew the workings of farmers' minds, they would know that their stuff is like cheese offered a mouse imprisoned in a cheese baited trap. That mouse didn't want any more cheese. The burden of both their songs is that all that is needed to help the farmer is to help industry, and that what he needs most is a high tariff. We have got to help industry-or go the way of Hitler and Mussolini. But tariffs do not and can not protect the farmer on his surplus crops. They are a subsidy paid to industry by an impoverished agriculture which simply cannot and will not stand it any more without countervailing subsidy.

than those connected with the act and the board. But the point that I seek to make is that the government woods are full of such setups as the National Labor Relations board, and they are dangerous to the future of America. I hope that the congress will see fit to do something about the odd mixture of justice and personal government that is represented by the National Labor Relations act (which is sometimes called the Wagner act, after its father, Senator Wagner of New York) and the National Labor Relations board, but I hope the attempted cure will not stop there. There can, and ought to, be a thorough job of housecleaning, because no government is going to remain really the servant of the people where such agencies operate with the law in its own hands. There are few political appointees within the realm of my knowledge who could be so completely unbiased as to administer their jobs without favoritism.

The National Labor Relations board, as at present constituted, was recommended for a good firing, in the committee's report. It did this on the basis of facts that showed a strange cocktail of judicial action, conferences with board attorneys who handle prosecutions, biased statements and actions and peculiar conditions of investigation by board agents. It arrived at the only conclusion possible, namely, that the present structure for dealing with labor disputes must be likened to stomach ulcers. They continually eat away at the lining of the stomach. The board's policies strike me as likely to eat away the digestive system of American liberty if con-house of representatives, has some- past. Now for the future, without thing in the nature of an unwanted baby in its lap. You see, there are 435 members of the house of representatives who soon are to confront their constituencies, again. Just a plain old-fashioned campaign. And among these are many who are really suffering. They do not know whether the factional split between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations has left sufficient strength on either side of the dividing line to permit a bold position.

I believe the chances are that congress will take no action on the report at this session. There are two reasons for this conclusion. First, the committee is continuing its investigation and, second, there are a great many members who want to use the Roosevelt administration's labor policies as campaign issues. If the weaknesses are corrected before the dog days begin on the hustings, that issue is gone. But strangely, the 100-per-cent New Dealers are struggling to keep anything from happening to the National Labor Relations act. This looks to be stupid politics.

Whether anything is done at this session really is of no serious consequence. The C. I. O. and John L. Lewis no longer boss congress. Some changes are certain later. I think they may come regardless of the position of the C. I. O. because William Green and the American Federation of Labor is all fed up with the biased deal they have re-tened, and profited by advice, and if the next generation did the same, wise good men and women who hadn't made serious mistakes themselves, what a world of high character and nobility and happiness we would have in a hundred years!

But alas, the parents are often as busy making mistakes as the children are, and when one mistake is superimposed upon another, and half a dozen more are thrown in from all sides, human lives get into terrible tangles, and only superhuman powers can straighten them tience and faith will, but who believes that in reference to the tiresome little tangles of every day? We save our prayers for the great crises of life, and even then usually bestow them generously on someone else. That Norma's baby will come safely. That dear George will get well. That Betty won't be so impatient with Gerald. We rarely pray that we ourselves will change, tions that sticks to him most firmly, is that he is all but perfect.

If you've made a mistake and you have to pay for it sometimes it helps a lot to face the music honestly and say, "I was wrong. I was young and ignorant and hotheaded and blind, and I made a And so a congress, especially a serious mistake. All right. That's mistakes!'

A Ridiculous Mistake.

In a letter that lies on my desk a woman who calls herself "Mary, Paul's Wife," tells me of a rather ridiculous mistake she and her husband made, and of the price they have to pay for it.

They were married 12 years ago, and had two boys, now 10 and eight. Six or seven years after marriage hard times came; Paul lost his job; his wife went to work, and domestic trouble ensued. They were divorced by her wish, although she says when it came right down to leaving Paul she cried for four days and nights.

She married a man named Ben, and Paul married a girl named Maude. Ben died, and two years ago Paul's first wife met him again. He is very prosperous now; he was not happy with Maude, and he and Mary very soon discovered that they loved each other still. He needed his boys, and the upshot of that accidental meeting was a second divorce for Paul, and his remarriage to Mary. They are now ideally happy, have a third small son only a few months old, and would be one of the world's contented couples if it were not that Paul has to pay Maude $200 a month. That eats into Mary's very soul.

"Maude is well-fixed anyway,' she writes. "She has a car, a beautiful apartment, and a maid. She goes away summers, entertains, resses perfectly. We are paying this selfish woman who lived with Paul only two years, never made him a home or showed him any real affection, and doesn't need the money? Of course we want the boys to be well-schooled, to go to college, and yet that ridiculous $2,400 must be taken out of our income every year for a woman who means nothing to either of us.

They Must Pay the Piper.

"When we remarried and made this arrangement, we felt that Maude would marry again, but she shows no disposition to do so, and as she is beginning her forties she probably will not. I don't know what we can do about it, but it does seem that we should do something."

My dear Mary: There is nothing you can do about it except pay the piper, and thank God that the mistake you made wasn't of a more serious nature and isn't going to cost you even more. Actually hundreds of thousands of families lost all their hard-saved capital eight or ten years ago, through speculation or unfortunate investments, and they have to pay the piper. Millions pay the piper with chronic indigestion and headache, because they WOULD eat and drink indiscreetly. An innocent small girl pays the piper because her mother would take her driving in a bitter wind, and the mastoid operation that followed a head cold cost her her hearing.

Unhappy and unsuccessful lives are all paying the piper; paying him for parental stupidities, for bad home influences, for lack of guidance or intelligence or grace. Slums and drunkenness and poverty and illness are all preventable, and while we let them exist someone is going to pay the piper for each and every one. War is the cruelest and stupidest mistake human beings make, and how we pay for it, and how our children's children will pay for it someday!

So stop worrying about the money Paul has to pay Maude. You and he both acted like undisciplined children when hard times came; you didn't stick to him as a wife should, and the discovery that you did love each other, after the quarrel, is what you are paying for. Forget Maude; forget the details; only say to yourself that you won't make that mistake again, and will try to prepare your boys for marriage along better lines than your own were. See that they know fine girls, and are ready to assume the responsibilities of life courageously and wisely, and you'll more than make up for the errors in your own life, expensive as they seem.

Mary Should Be Grateful. When your worst trouble is money, you have much for which to thank God. A cruel or drinking husband, a crippled child, circum-

Why a man who is considered at all solely because he is a New York gang-busting district attorney, has to try to sell himself in Nebraska as a hired farmhand is beyond me. Both Confucius and regular farmers say: "bohee!"

What farmers need is free and unrestricted production and sale of their products and an outright subsidy to bring their prices for what we consume in this country up to absolute "parity." I have no brief in logic for the "parity" formula although I invented it in 1921 for sheer lack of anything better. But if the whole country accepts the justice and fairness of it-as seems to be the case, why should there be so much obfuscating conversation and so little direct and forthright promise or action?

Confucius, the ancient Chinese philosopher, was reputedly a man of very great wisdom ... If Confucius lived today and knew anything about a subscription campaign, paticularly the Tribunes campaign we are sure that he would first of all, caution candidates about spending every available minute getting subscriptions to the Tribune.

The awarding of last weeks special prize tended, if that were possible, only to draw candidates closer together in their race for the first prize of $400.00

It is entirely possible, judging from results to dates, for two or more of the candidates to finish the campaign only a subscription or so apart. Since the extra subscription might be obtained in, say, ten minutes of extra work, you can plainly see that those ten minutes are apt to mean the difference between first and second prize which amounts to $250.00 so, candidates be sure that you do not let TEN MINUTES OF YOUR TIME COST YOU $250.00

Farmers' Congress

"It is more than ever important to have a government . . . that can act to protect the interests of our farmers as well as our business men when foreign trade conditions are upset."

Meanwhile another senate committee was even out-doing the President to help farmers. An appropriations sub-committee upped the house-approved $749,561,000 agricultural appropriations bill to $958,000,-000 (the President had recommended only $788,929,519). Chief boost was a $212,000,000 fund for parity payments. In addition, the subcommittee directed that RFC should lend $100,000,000 additional to farm agencies (thus avoiding new appropriations) and that $60,000,000 of benefit payments be shifted to this year's funds from next year. This brought the total to more than a billion dollars.

Gloom fell over the house, which had previously clipped some $300,-000,000 from budget estimates on 10 different appropriations in the hope of saving enough to prevent new taxes or a boost in the national debt. When the senate appropriations committee okayed its subcommittee's action, and when senate leaders expressed certainty that Up north, Scandinavia cheered; the big farm bill would pass, the gloom became thicker. One salvation might be to make big cuts in relief and defense appropriations. Another, which President Roosevelt reportedly discussed with congressional leaders, was a revival of the new tax program. Also in congress: Hatch Bill. Not sidetracked for the farm bill, as everyone expected, amendments to the Hatch "clean politics" act were pushed through the senate. Aim: Curb political activity of 500,000 state employees.

'Tommy the Cork' Marries Secretary Who (Like All Girls) Once Feared Him

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Copyright, United Features Syndicate, Inc. Released by Western Newspaper Union.) ASHINGTON.-This is the story of a lovely symbol of the modern Girl Friday-Peggy Dowd, who a few days ago married her brain-truster boss, Tommy Corcoran, and thereby brought to many persons in and out of Washington a breathing spell for as long as she can keep him away on their honeymoon.

It's a romance as colorful as the eventful career of the curly-haired bridegroom.

In Washington, Peggy Dowd is always associated with the brain-trust. But long before there was a brain-

She Liked Midshipmen, Until-

It was a very pleasant job and Peggy thought her boss was a grand man. But her only interest in government was prom-hopping with dashing Annapolis midshipmen.

About this time there came to the RFC a young lawyer as Irish as herself. Peggy would see him now and then rushing along the corridors, but she never talked to him, for it was rumored in RFC feminine circles that he thoroughly disliked women, thought they had been put on earth only to get in the way of men's work.

Girls frankly were afraid to work for Tom Corcoran. He had come down to Washington from a big Wall Street law firm, and just could not get used to the deliberate civil service ways of government. He considered dictating to a shorthand book a waste of time, insisted that his secretary "take it down" on the typewriter as he talked-and he talked a blue streak.

Tommy Was a Tough One.

He also had a lot of crazy ideas about short-cuts through the telephone. He didn't care how big his phone bills were so long as they saved time. And around him he had a crowd of young fellows out of Harvard law school who were just as wild as he was and who, like him, telephoned all day and dictated all night. Secretaries came to his office and departed like the days. None ever stayed longer than a week. There was a ladies' room legend, which persisted though Corcoran denied it, that he had once jerked a phone right out of its socket and tossed it at a secretary who insisted on going home at three o'clock in the morning. His constant cry to the head stenographer was for a male secretary.

So Peggy went up to the lion's den. In a short while Corcoran's buzzer rang and Peggy went in.

This Started With An Old Car Seat

It was padded out at the ends to make the back the same length as the front. Extra padding was also used on the top to make it smooth. A simple base with a back and wings was made of one-inch boards, to fit the seat. Next, came the cretonne slip-cover for the spring seat, with a box pleated ruffle around the front and along the sides up to the wings. A bright peacock blue tone in the cretonne was used for seam cordings and was matched in paint for the wings and back of the seat.

a Russo-Finnish peace would relieve the terrific pressure Sweden and Norway have felt from France and Britain on the one side, and Russia and Germany on the other. The allies had sent Finland only a smattering of help, leaving friendly Scandinavia exposed should Russia win. But if Scandinavia worked for peace via the dictator nations, an early and safe peace might be arranged.

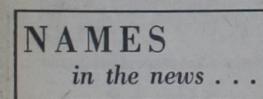

After several days a truce was reported near, leaving frontiers substantially where they have been pushed by fighting thus far. But there was still a good chance that it would bog down.

British Gesture

Off to Rome went Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to capitalize on an Italian peeve. Several days earlier Britain had clamped a blockade on Italian coal imports from Germany, hailing 16 of Il Duce's freighters into port. Angered, Rome dispatched threatening notes.

Obviously von Ribbentrop hoped to win Italian sympathy against Britain, but the Englishmen acted too fast. Without warning, London suddenly released all 16 Italian freighters and won an Italian promise to ship no more German coal by sea.

Herr von Ribbentrop, the wind taken out of his sails, eased back home after visits with Mussolini, King Victor Emmanuel and-unexpectedly-Pope Pius XII. Observers guessed that von Ribbentrop heard plenty from both Mussolini and Pope Pius about alleged German atrocities in Poland. They also guessed, but could not be certain, that he had urged Mussolini's mediation to help end the Russo-Finnish

Welles Junket

Welles continued marching through men have been held in check the chancellories of Europe in an attempt to dig out "the present phase of the European situation." Neither he nor anyone else could really dig it out, because the European situation was more perplexing than anything the world has seen in 20 years (see EUROPE).

Arriving in Paris after visits at Rome and Berlin, Mr. Welles lunched and dined with President Albert Lebrun, Premier Edouard Daladier and many a lesser statesman, receiving his baptism of fire when anti-aircraft batteries sounded off against a Nazi reconnaissance terms: (1) No peace so long as Hitlerism reigns in Germany; (2) liberation of Poland and Czechoslovakia; (3) "guarantees for the security of peoples and the integrity of all nations."

Next stop was London, where he was closeted with Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax. Expecting to discover nothing there, Mr. Welles nevertheless had important business: (1) to caution British leaders that war measures such as interference with U.S. mails and ship-

The morning after Director Cowles, Peggy's boss, resigned and left for Iowa, the head stenographer, faced with her daily headache of finding a secretary for Corcoran (she called it the "suicide assignment"), summoned Peggy Dowd and said gently, "Report, please, to Mr. Corcoran.'

"Oh, no," said Peggy, "not me. There are other jobs in this world." "For my sake, please try it for a

Then for two minutes he reeled off a long wire so fast that Peggy didn't even get the start of it. For a few moments she stood there helpless; then, with a jerk of her head, she started for the door to tell the head stenographer it was "no go."

The Day Is Saved.

As Peggy turned, there burst into the room one of the Harvard law school boys, J. Raburn ("Food") Monroe, now a successful New Orleans lawyer and a power in the new anti-Long group, who flashed a telegram before Corcoran.

"That changes everything," Corcoran shouted to Peggy. "Kill that wire I just gave you.'

So Peggy just walked back to her desk, pretending she had the wire but was not going to send it. The fortuitous interruption had saved her. And today Peggy has one extra name among her patron saints. The name is St. "Food."

The first crisis thus survived so fortunately, Peggy decided to test her luck further. At seven o'clock that night, Corcoran nonchalantly instructed, "Go out and get something to eat and meet me at the Capitol in the legislative counsel's few days," pleaded the head stenog- office at 7:30. "Margaret Dowd."

"Well, Margaret Dowd, tomorrow morning you tell the head stenographer that I said you'll do."

Thus Peggy Dowd got her start as the Girl Friday of the brain-trust, and began seven years of thrilling work carried on at about the same hectic tempo as her first day. Side by side with Corcoran, Cohen, Landis, Douglas, Jackson, Foley, Rowe, Dempsey, Rogge and others of the "family," she went through the epochal legislative battles of the New Deal-the securities act, the federal housing bill, the fierce TVA clashes, the tremendous holding company fight, the wage-hour bill, the historic Supreme court struggle, the Jackson-Ickes offensive

But there was one secret that Peggy did "spill." She whispered it to her mother at the wedding party, just before she and Tom slipped out of town on their skiing honeymoon. It was this: That the last man who kissed her before Tom Corcoran gave her his bridal kiss at the al-

WASHINGTON.-Senator Vandenberg privately is very uneasy over the unfavorable effect upon his presidential campaign of his clamor for aggressive action against Japan. He is so concerned that he summoned his regional managers to Washington for a secret pow-wow. Their advice was that he should soft-pedal the issue for two reasons: (1) The inconsistency, to the public, of his denouncing Roosevelt's repeal of the arms embargo as a war move, and at the same time demanding a war-like policy toward Japan; and (2) complaints by G. O. P. leaders that Vandenberg played into the hands of the Democrats by diverting public attention away from domestic affairs and focusing it on international problems.

Republican strategists have pointed out that the one thing the Democrats want is to wage the campaign on the administration's international policies, and a G. O. P. candidate who allows them to do that would be Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indi-gestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with cer-tain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that won-derfulstomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity, and nauster. This is how pepsinacidity and nause. This is how pepsin-izing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even fin-icky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to re-move impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder dis-order are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use

. . . SOUTHERN GENTLEMAN

One of the most effective speakers in the house is Rep. Wirt Courtney, Tennessee war veteran, who won his seat only last fall in a special election. Three weeks later he startled the chamber by making the best speech of the neutrality debate.

During his whirlwind election campaign Courtney amply demonstrated his gifts as a silver-tongued orator. His opponent was Mrs. Clarence Turner, widow of his predecessor.

It was a tough spot for a Southern gentleman. To get elected Courtney had to challenge Mrs. Turner's qualifications for the office. At the same time, he couldn't assail a woman. This was the way he met the problem:

"Ladies and gentlemen: I find myself in a very embarrassing position running against this beautiful and gracious lady. My family came from Virginia; my father served under Lee; but, friends, have you been in congress when it was in session?

"Sometimes there is bedlam there. Sometimes the lie is passed and sometimes fists fly. Imagine, my friends, if you can, placing in such a situation this beautiful and gracious lady whose heart is in the skies with one who has gone beyond the last horizon."

The voters' imaginations broke down, for Courtney won with a twoto-one majority.

with a taste for hunting. He told the protocol office that he couldn't be happy on the other side without his sportsman's shotgun.

"But I am going to Dublin by way of Europe," said Gray. "I wonder what they will think of a U.S. diplomat if he shows up in the war areas with a shotgun?"

Gray was assured that, enjoying diplomatic immunity, he would not be jailed as a gun-runner.

OU probably think "bloomers' are called that because the word sounds the way bloomers look. Well, what would you think if they were called "jenkers"? That might have been the word by which they were known today had not Miss Amelia Jenks, for whom they were named, been married to Dexter C. Bloomer. Or had she married a man named

Smith they might have been called "smithereens," or if she-well, with all the names there the possibilities are unlimited. Mrs. Amelia

Jenks Bloomer of Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1849 started a woman's magazine called The Lily, and its purpose was to advocate temperance and women's rights. For publicity purposes, Mrs. Bloomer adoptwith close sleeves and a pair of Turkish pantaloons secured around the ankle by bands. Several of her contemporary advocates of women's rights wore the same costume and these persons were known as "Bloomerites" or just "Bloomers."

Mrs. Bloomer

The campaign died out but the pantaloon idea did not. A modified form, shortened to gather just below or above the knee was adopted and became the bloomers as worn today-or are they worn today? At least, Amelia Bloomer was the inspiration for bloomers as they are remembered today, even if shorts the title and again the night he took have taken their place.
