In connection with the rules announced for the show, last week, the following have been added by the directors:

Entry cards must be filed with the respective leaders of 4-H or agricultural units of the county, not later than March 9, Saturday of this week. Boys exhibiting animals at the show must certify to ownership of the animal on or before March 4th. On Saturday, beginning at 2:30. the auction sale will be held, with Col. Bill Flippin in charge. Animals to be consigned must be entered with the clerk, Thos. G. Moore, at time of entry on Friday. In other words, no entries for the auction will be accepted after noon of March 15. No withdrawals at time of auction will be allowed, with the highest bid necessarily accepted by the owner of the animal.

Hold Banquet Friday

A county-wide banquet will be held on Friday evening at 8 p. m. also in Friona, to which all persons interested in promoting the yearly affair are invited. Howard Morris, of Friona, will serve as toastmaster, and plates are 75c each.

With only a few more hours to go in the first period of The Tribune's big subscription campaign, candidates are staging a royal battle for subscriptions and votes.

The first period of the campaign will close promptly at 9:00 P. M., Friday, March 8th (this Friday.) Immediately after the close of the period there will be a substantial drop in the number of votes each subscription will earn toward a prize.

If you will see that the workers receive your subscription so that it can be reported before the close of the period, it will go much farther toward winning one of the fine prizes. You will be offering a lot of extra help to the candidate without any added cost or inconvenience on your part.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE Belligerents Tighten Pressure On Lesser Neutral Countries; Rumania Veers Back to Allies

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union _

EUROPE:

Pressure on the Neutrals

Of all the lesser European states whose princes and presidents were straddling fences, none was busier than Rumania's King Carol. The Rumanian pendulum, which for six months has swung from pro-Nazi to pro-ally and back again, took a definite swing to the allies again. But it was all a result of pressure. First Carol had levied a 25 per cent export tax on oil. When Germany had disapproved, Carol had agreed to ship 41 per cent of his 1940 oil production to the Reich. The allies, which own 50 per cent of Rumania's oil wells, disapproved that time, putting the screws on Rumanian imports.

In desperation, Carol took a final step which appeased the allies but left him facing Germany's renewed wrath. Banned were exports of all vital war materials, including the aviation gasoline which Germany covets. Meanwhile Carol called 1,000,000 men to the colors and hoped for the best.

ron was said to be blockading Murmansk, key Russian port. In London the admiralty would neither confirm nor deny the report, but such a blockade was understandable. German ships, which heretofore have used Norwegian territorial waters in carrying war supplies to and from Murmansk, will thus be cut off. It was also a pointed notice to Norway that Nazi ships had best be shooed away. Both Adolf Hitler and Neville

Chamberlain made name-calling speeches which cancelled each other off. Mr. Chamberlain listed, for the umpteenth time, Britain's "war aims," which include a new German government, and liberation of Czechs and Poles. Herr Hitler varied it, stating his "pre-war aims," namely, living space and return of German colonies.

U.S. AND THE WAR: First Train to Berlin

Arriving at Rome, Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles began his duties as Franklin Roosevelt's special peace emissary to Europe. He called on Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, next on Premier Benito Mussolini. Then, unexpectedly, he packed his bags and hiked off for Berlin to talk with Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. Noting this unexpected development, observers wondered if Il Duce had whispered Der Fuehrer's peace terms into the ear of Envoy Welles.

POLITICS: 'Another Martha'

Stamping up and down the land in late February was a politician's wife whose campaigning was more effective than her husband's. She was Mrs. Robert A. WASHINGTON. - Amiable little Harry Woodring has won the New Deal record at side-stepping a resignation from the cabinet. But the time may soon come when he will get the substitute job which he wants. The last time Roosevelt approached Harry with the idea that he might want to trade his present Joe Kennedy job of secretary of war to become an ambassador, Woodring replied: "No, not that job, Mr. President. I don't want to go to Rome. But I would be interested in going to the court of St. James'." The President pointed out that that post was not open. "Yes, I know that," said Mr. Woodring, "but you and I know that Joe (Joseph P. Kennedy, now am-bassador to Great Britain) never stays long at any one job. He'll be leaving there soon. And meanwhile I don't mind waiting."

Whereupon, Mr. Roosevelt's genial and tenacious secretary of war got up and departed, leaving the President half amused, half flabbergasted.

Volatile Ambassador Kennedy.

For the President knew that Harry Woodring was right; Joe Kennedy does not remain too long at any one job. In fact, just a few weeks after this conversation took place, Secretary Woodring almost got the very wish he had expressed.

For after the appointment of Sumner Welles as peace envoy to Europe, the British announced that all their files would be placed at the disposal of Mr. Welles; he could read everything they had; nothing would be kept secret. This set off the fireworks.

"Now just where does that put me?" roared the explosive Ambassador Kennedy,

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS

"IT should be borne in mind that the maintenance of the country newspapers is a matter of vital importance to the entire country. It is the most typically American institution that yet remains. Nowhere is the American type of government and the individualistic form of society being more ably defend-ed."-U. S. Representative J.W. Gwynne.

To the southeast, Turkey ordered an accumulation of war supplies and placed itself on war footing, while newspapers warned the public that Europe's war might soon spread to the near east. Turkey was ready to march the instant an invader set foot in the Balkans.

Equally jittery were the Scandinavian states. Norway continued protesting to Britain over the Altmark incident, and Swedish wrath rose over Russian bombing of Pajala, a border town near the Finnish frontier. Meanwhile the foreign ministers of both these nations met with Denmark's foreign minister in Copenhagen, expressing cautious hopes that they might remain neutral and that the wars might soon be ended. Of the three Scandinavian states, only Denmark had a really good chance of staying neutral, for Russia was moving closer.

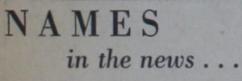

In the North: Death

A fierce struggle for Viipuri, key city on the Karelian isthmus, seemed ending when the invading Russians captured Koivisto island fortress, guardian to Viipuri bay. Meanwhile what was described as the war's "biggest battle" was reported developing in the far-north Petsamo region.

Fighting a game but losing battle in the south, the Finns were mowing down 2,500 to 3,000 Reds a day. Not announced were their own losses, which, because they were defending instead of attacking, probably were not so great.

In the West: Speeches

Unrestricted marine warfare continued between Britain and Germany, but the biggest naval development was reported from the Arctic, where a French-British naval squad.

Released after spending three years as a Spanish prisoner of war, U. S. Aviator Harold Dahl left happily for home, planning to join his platinum blonde wife in night club work.

Other political news:

I Presidential primaries were proving a disappointment to both parties. Democrats found that Franklin Roosevelt's reluctance to announce his third term intentions was keeping other candidates out of the primary contests. Republicans were grumbling because leading candidates were reluctant to enter decisive candidates. Only exception: Wisconsin, where Candidates Taft, Dewey and Vandenberg will fight it out.

C G. O. P. National Committeeman Joseph Martin resigned, thus intimating he has no presidential ambitions. Reason: His duties as G. O. P. house minority leader require his full attention.

In a New York bus the other day I sat next to a well-dressed woman of perhaps 35 or a little less; she had met a friend and she was telling the friend all about matters at home.

"My dear, when you have a husband who sleeps until the very last moment," she began, "and then rushes through breakfast, nothing you can say affects him! If congress would take time out from its political antics to examine the hundreds of letters pouring into the social security board, it would uncover some extraordinary facts about the much-touted old-age pension system.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indi-gestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath. your stomach is probably loaded up with cer-tain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that won-derfulstomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsin-izing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your When constipation brings on acid indiustress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even fin-icky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. III And Alone In Burning House, Woman Follows Light To Safety

Luminous Spot in Smoke Guides Her Down Flaming Stairway

Awakened by thick smoke and the light of flames in the upper story of a country house where she had gone to recover from an illness, Mrs. Lillian Pokedoff, of 40 Miller Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., escaped through a hallway and down a staircase already afire, by following the beam of a flashlight.

Mrs. Pokedoff, who had just ar-rived in the country, awoke with the feeling that she was strangling. She at once heard cries and the roar of flames. She struggled out of bed and searched for the electric light. When, after some delay, she located it, she found that the current was cut off.

Instead of going to the window and calling for help, Mrs. Pokedoff tried to escape by way of the hall. She found the door and pulled it

An example of Ernest Schoedsack's magic: One of the "little people" is trampled under the huge boot of "Dr. Cyclops."

OLLYWOOD. - The black | where objects and animals once I magic of a masterful photographic technician named Ernest Schoedsack is being brought to the screen this year in a motion picture expected to set a new record for weirdness. People reduced to one-fifth their normal size are the main characters in "Dr. Cyclops," an exciting film which takes place in a scientist's jungle camp at the headwaters of the Amazon. It is Schoedsack's major cinema since he excited the world several years ago with "King Kong," the giant ape. Aided by a newly developed color process which gives special impact to the shadowy but colorful jungle, the movie tells the story of a malevolent scientist and five people who revolver. It wasn't had come to help him but were repaid by being dwarfed to less than one-fifth their original size.

Process Is a Secret.

How Schoedsack accomplishes this feat is a secret he has attempted to keep within a small circle of trusted assistants. For four months, during production of the picture, not a soul was allowed inside the sets unless directly connected with the film. Thus the "Dr. Cyclops" characters are placed in a strange world

"HICAGO.-In the racy parlance of the gambling fraternity, one day soon the government will be off on a fast track here to the trial of Moses L. Annenberg and his henchmen in the late fabulous race wire information empire.

Especially stream-lined court procedure will speed the Annenberg trial, biggest income tax evasion case ever tried by the department of justice, to the barrier while the horse parlor habitues of the nation watch the event. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson will preside. Already the fast pace of justice in this federal action, as compared to historic trials of similar nature in the past, has William J. Campbell the 50 or more distinguished counsel for the defense literally pop-eyed.

The Annenberg case involves 19 individuals and corporations, seven indictments involving the laws against lotteries and a perjury charge. Batteries of accountants both for the government and the defense are at work on the records of two score Annenberg companies, impounded and guarded 24 hours a day.

In less than three months the defense filed 97 different motions, briefs and legal memoranda.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell at Chicago and his assistants have filed answer to this mass of legal documents written by defense counsel in the income tax cases, as well as in the lottery indictments against Annenberg. Outnumbered by defense lawyers, the government, with its limited staff. has never once demanded time out for breathing or to catch up with the pitching, although the defense has put everything into their legal delivery that could be doped out. In addition to answering the defense tit for tat in its pleas and motions, the government has filed various motions and memoranda of its own in this legal battle of the century. Hundreds of thousands of words already have been incorporated in the record to date. Neither Schoedsack refuses to divulge the defense nor the government is

THE STORY THUS FAR

Left orphans by a tragic automobile accident which claimed the lives of their mother and father, three sisters, Helen, Adele and "Limpy," are visited by their Aunt Olympia, politically minded wife of Senator Alencon Delaporte Slopshire. She insists that the girls return with her to Washington, to make their home with them. In addition to loving the girls, Aunt Olympia knows they will be a terrific political asset. Senator Slopshire has as his political opponent one Brother Wikke, a minister, whose political campaign is furthered by seven "unspeakable brats" who sit on the rostrum with him while he makes speeches. Aunt Olympia mean votes for the Senator. Senator Slopshire, a pleasantly foggy individual who depends on the astuteness of his wife, prepares for their coming. Though Limpy, the youngest, is 16, and Helen, the oldest, is 21, the Senator buys them all the toys meet their "Uncle Lancy," as he is to be known, the girls take him to their united bosom. Soon Adele, most beautiful of the sisters, meets Len Hardesty, publicity man for Brother Wilkie. Though it is Len's job to help defeat the Senator, he will accommodate the five of them, and from which the Senator will campaign. Then she decides to hire a publicity agent for the Senator, securing the services of Dave Cooper. of Dave Cooper.

CHAPTER IV—Continued -7-

"How can I drum up votes for the Governor," continued Len, "if I'm going to be upset over the Opposition all summer? Do you want to nip the budding career of a rising young genius?

"I'd love to. If you consider yourself a budding genius, which most people don't. Thanks, Len. I'll call him first thing in the morning."

"You'll call him? . . . Haven't you called him! Haven't you cinched it? . . . Thanks for that, my darling old dragon!" he said, a ray of light breaking over his face. "I'll land him first. I know every sofa he sits on . . . Tough luck, old you?" dear; the Governor's hiring an escort for the brats if he has to add an extra per cent to pay for him. Good-by, dear beautiful angel," he said to Adele. "For your sake, I tear myself away to corral that menace."

The girls sat quite motionless until he had dashed from the room. Aunt Olympia contentedly lighted a cigarette.

"Are—you going to let him get away with it?" gasped Adele.

"My dear," said Aunt Olympia, "in politics you never allow grass to grow where the Opposition is going to plant his foot. I tried to get Cecil this morning but he is up in New York writing up that model murder case for the tabloids. If Len Hardesty knows every sofa in Manhattan, he's had entirely too much experience to associate with you-my dears."

"Not as good a reporter as Len Hardesty," thought Aunt Olympia. 'Len hasn't overlooked a lash." The girls, considerably to their surprise, found him pleasant, even likable, and a decided contrast to the explosively verbose Len Hardesty. He was slight in build, not tall, but lithe, with a suggestion of muscular strength in his easy movements. His voice was low, almost diffident, his smile boyishly winsome. He dressed with that studied and expensive carelessness that is

The girls talked him over when he had gone. They agreed that Len Hardesty had been unjustly prejudiced and that Cecil was a nice boy and they could stand having him around. They thought his eager enthusiasm for the job rather pathetic.

"Yes, it's pathetic," assented Aunt Olympia. "Cece is all right. The trouble is that he's always been able to do what he wanted to instead of what he had to. He has enough money to live on, so he's nev-

"Mrs. Slopshire," he said ingratiatingly, "it is only fair to inform you, in strictest confidence, that I have been completely enchanted with your very lovely niece. How does one go about getting permission to call?"

"One comes to tea."

"Pardon my persistence. How soon does one come?" "Tomorrow. It will be nice to have you. We're living very quietly of course-almost in seclusion-because of that terrible tragedy but I do want the girls to pick up what amusement they can."

"I'll be at my most humorous, I promise you. I'll go around and collect some good stories for them." "Don't!" she ejaculated. "If you're hearing the same ones I am, they are not fit for their young ears. Bring yourself-and leave your rep-

But I've had so much trouble with that Alencon that I try not to pick d'Allotti . . . Yes, I know him."

"He is very interesting," Helen wrote to Brick Landis a couple of weeks later. "And isn't it strange that he hasn't fallen in love with Adele? Well, he certainly has enlivened my study of the American system. He disagrees with me on nearly everything. He has the foreign idea of maintaining peace-that is, by bigger and better armaments. You'd almost think he was going to take out naturalization papers, he gets so wrought-up over America's lack of preparedness.

Sometimes we think they have when they haven't, but we never think they haven't when they have. We're not that dumb. But we are both interested in the same things and it really is more exciting to argue with him than with Uncle Lancy. Uncle Lancy's always afraid of hurting my feelings, and Mr. d'Allotti isn't. But he isn't my type. I like 'em red headed and a bit roughed up. "Oh, Brick, the session is nearly over and nothing has happened! Wouldn't you think one really big thing-an important thing-might happen while I am here, so I could get a glimpse beneath the surface?"

Surrender brings victory.

The world would say that our statement is not true; surrender is the mark of defeat. It is the final punch bowl. With too much lotion chapter in a story of struggle against impossible circumstances, against a stronger power, and finally of giving up to accept the bitter sorrow of subjection and sometimes destruction. But again we say, the way of strength is through surrender, for we speak of the spiritual up any foreign names . . . Gabriel realm and of our relationship to God. Here there is no victory until there is surrender. In fact, the measure of victory is the degree of surrender. Full submission to Christ means complete triumph for the Christian. The Lord Jesus does not ask His disciples to walk a way which He has not trod Himself. He went the way of full surrender to the will of God in the garden of Gethsemane. We observe five things about this way of "triumph through surrender." It was

I. A Way of Sorrow (vv. 37, 38). He was exceedingly sorrowful unto death. It was not an easy thing that the Saviour did as He fulfilled more than I do about the American the will of God the Father in the garden. We know that no man ever sorrowed as He did on that day, for only He bore the sins of the world. There is, however, a lesson here for us who are His disciples. If one thing: that it is mighty hard this is the road the Master trod, for a dozen men sitting around a should not His servants tread it still? table to agree on a policy to save The way of victory for us is through missive to that will; yet in this hour unspeakable horror of what lay Olmstead). It may be a hard thing to do, but by His grace we too may say, "Thy will be done." III. A Way of Loneliness (vv. 36, 37, 40, 41, 43). There were three disciples with Him as He entered the garden, and their very presence reminds us how very much alone Jesus actually was. There were twelve with Him in the upper room, but one went out into the darkness to betray Him. Eleven came with Him to the gate of the garden, but only three came into the garden with Him. Even they could not go all the way with Him. He prayed and agonized alone, and the three who were near at hand failed Him and slept through the dark hour when He most needed their fellowship in sympathy and prayer. Alone? If the Master had to walk the way of surrender alone, let no Christian expect that it will be for Cecil and, at their laughing in- otherwise for him. Let us thank sistence on its educational value, God for every blessing of true fellowship, but let us not be surprised "Now, you see, Cece," began if we are often called to walk alone -with God. IV. A Way of Betrayal (vv. 45, 46). "He is at hand who doth betray me" "into the hands of sinners." One feels that the cup of the Master is already overfull without adding grammed thirty-dollar brief case betrayal by one of His own, but there it is, a dark and tragic reality. received man alone, having with difficulty hardened her heart to the girls' importunities, for they, eager curiosity doubly whetted by the united opposition of Uncle Lancy and Len Hardesty and by Aunt Olympia's defense, were eager for a glimpse of him. Aunt Olympia, for the only time, withstood their pleas. Even Limpy's "Aw, Aunt Olympia," did not move her.

"I've been thinking of our talk the other day," she began at once. "Did I understand you to say you would like to try your hand at campaigning?"

"I'm crazy to," he said boyishly. "I've applied for a job every place under the sun, but nobody will take me because I have no experience; and how the deuce can I get experience when nobody will try me out? . . . Maybe you could give me a recommendation," he suggested.

"No, I can't do that," she said flatly. "I don't know whether you're any good or not and I'm careful about my recommendations. But maybe I could give you a job-a very small job, of course. But it would be a starter."

Cecil Dodd was so surprised he couldn't say a word. Refuse a recommendation-and give him a job! It seemed almost unethical.

"Experience is worth more than money," he murmured, devoutly.

"Not to us," she admitted. "Anyhow it'll be something and we'll pay your expenses, and if anybody can teach you the racket, Dave Cooper | couldn't possibly expect you to rethe usual campaign. We've got our young nieces with us and we're going to take them along. Those girls are going to be our best asset in this campaign and we want someone-not quite so hard-boiled as Dave-to do full justice to their vote appeal. And since the girls will be around constantly, we'd like someone of agreeable disposition andsome social experience-to be a sort of companion to them. And we think you'll do all right. You'll take orders from Dave, of course, and do what he tells you and go where you're sent. But your main job will be handling our end of the game."

Cecil Dodd was boyishly delighted. When the first moment of reverent and worshipful awe had passed he found voice again.

stone. It takes grindstone to make a newspaper man."

"He's really what you would call a sweet child," Helen wrote to Brick Landis. "He seems so young and so unspoiled, and yet Aunt Olympia says he's had his own way all his life and had everything he has ever wanted. He is taking this job with such deadly seriousness that she is beginning to fear he will neither amuse us nor drive Len Hardesty mad, which was her main object. He began bringing up huge volumes on politics to get Aunt Olympia's opinion of them, but she stopped that. She said he could get his opinions from her and Dave Cooper. He has bought a new, perfectly gorgeous, simply huge, brief case and a new portable typewriter. And whenever he is not sitting raptly in the Senate gallery gazing down at his candidate and taking notes of every breath he draws, he is at the Press Club trying to make 'contacts.' I just wonder, Brick, if you take politics seriously enough. You didn't pay thirty dollars for a brief case and buy a new typewriter."

Aunt Olympia went with Helen and Adele one afternoon to a large cocktail party-the invitations had said "tea." It was at the home of an outstanding Republican senator; they remembered that later, with some bitterness. Adele, left alone for a few minutes, was approached by a man, comparatively young, quite handsome, whom Adele instinctively labeled "a foreigner of some sort."

"I met you just after you came in, Miss Rutherford," he said pleasantly. "I am Gabriel d'Allotti. I can . . . With some help from me | member me in that crowd and that . . > Adele smiled pleasantly. But she remembered Len Hardesty's warning, "Beware of embassies and attaches!"

"Are you with one of the embassies?" she asked.

"Alas, no! I have no such importance. I am just a young man trying to get along. But I know the embassy crowd and have friends among them, so I get around. May bring you a drink?"

"Not now, thanks."

"To tell the truth, I am one of about a million foreigners trying to get the true American picture. I do free-lance correspondence for a

"Dear me! It sounds quite horrifying. Doesn't he expound it all to you, too?"

"Oh, no. I don't listen. Limpy and I don't care for that sort of thing. We just pick out the best nuts and think of other things."

"Simply profound of you, I should say. More important things! Like, where's your yellow basket?"

"Oh, nothing half as profound as that. If we lost our yellow basket, Uncle Lancy would demand a congressional investigation and get it back for us."

Gabriel d'Allotti went away presently. He had not seen Helen before. Naturally, seeing Adele, one looked no further. He did not make the mistake of asking Adele to point out her sister. He was not so clumsy as that. He asked someone else, a stranger, where she was-Senator Slopshire's niece. The stranger, being a man, pointed to Adele.

"No, I mean the other one; the studious one; her sister."

"Oh, yes, there is another one . . Let's see . . . Oh, there she is; over by that window. The tall girl in the black hat and veil."

Gabriel d'Allotti introduced himself to Helen. "I've been having a delightful chat with your very lovely sister," he said with engaging candor. "She tells me that you and I have a great deal in common; that we are a pair of young innocents in the primary department of the big college of politics."

"Oh, I'm not up to the primary department yet," said Helen. "I'm still in the cradle. But I am trying so hard to understand things-and making very little headway."

"We must collaborate," he said. 'We are having the same trouble. We have learned the 'c,' and the 'a,' and the 't'; now we must digest our wisdom and combine it into 'cat.' Perhaps two digestions, like

So she sent permitted the girls to listen in.

Junior Boys' Show

Parmer County 4-H club and FFA members are turning their attention to the Junior Boys' Show which will be held at Friona, MARCH 15 and 16.

4-H club members are making their entries this week. From the list of entries already made, we may expect a large number of animals exhibited at the SIXTH ANNUAL SHOW.

Clarence Veazey of the Lakeview 4-H club exhibited the first place fat pig at the show last year, and received a purebred Spotted Poland-China pig from F. T. Schlenker. Clarence now has a nice gilt which will farrow the 10th of this month. He has done a good job of growing out the pig which he won as a prize. Boys who exhibit fat pigs this year will again compete for first place honors and another of those show pigs. Within a few years our Junior boys may be offering good breeding. stock for sale as foundation animals to the farmers of Parmer county.

The lady at the right just discovered that she no longer has a chance to win a prize in the campaign. Her chance failed simply because she needlessly lost a lot of time during the first period of the campaign and than also passed up the chance to make up for lost time during the second period.

Anyone failing to take the first period seriously runs that same danger Their one chance to overcome that danger is to keep going during the balance of the Campaign.

To start the campaign most of the candidates were new at this kind of work . . . Some become proficient at the work sooner than others . . Others have done their best during the latter part of the first period. Which means that every candidate not wanting to run the danger of failure will want to work completely, efficiently and constantly from now till the close of the campaign. It is likely that all that do so will win a prize.

Navy Officers Bid for Power In Report to House Committee

Department's Policy-Making Board Recommends Taking Additional Control From Hands of Civilian Authorities.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON .- The house committee on naval affairs made public a report the other day that recommends the delegation of further power to high officers of the navy. That proposition has been made before, but the current report came from the navy general board, the policy making agency of the navy department. It represents, therefore, an official move by ranking officers of the United States navy for greater concentration of power in their hands, as naval officers, as distinguished from the civilian control through the secretary and assistant secretary of the navy who alays have been appointed from civil

The report failed to attract much attention. Certainly, it failed to receive the publicity that it should have had in the newspapers. The reason was, I believe, that many writers simply regarded the report and its far-reaching recommendations as an isolated instance. My feeling is, however, that the general board's views must be examined closely because to my mind they represent not an isolated instance but evidence, often repeated, of a general trend in governmental affairs that is highly dangerous.

This discussion must not be considered an attack on the navy. I have great respect for the navy and especially for the present personnel in the positions of policy determination. There are some quacks and hair-brained boys up near the top, followed by congress. It is time, however, to think over some of the things that have happened with respect to the navy and the army and is time to remember what has happened to every single nation that has given its military services too much say about civilian affairs or affairs that we, in this country, regard as civilian affairs. It cannot be said with too much emphasis that our system of government must live or die by the measure of the power over national policy that is retained Offered to McGraw in the hands of elected officials.

The practice of appointing army and navy officers to civilian posts has been growing in recent years at an alarming rate. The usual practice has been to appoint retired officers. More recently, however, officers have been taken right out of the military services - detached from commands, etc.-and named to civilian jobs. I am not going to undertake to enumerate them. They are scattered hither and yon, like head of the WPA and head of the wage-hour division of the department of labor and that sort of thing. One of the army officers is serving as secretary to the President of the United States. I could go on and on and show where these men are actioning in strictly civi Lest I be misunderstood, I want to say that a couple of these army officers on civilian duty are doing splendid jobs. But I hasten to add that they are the exceptions. The reason is that a man from the military services is trained along a particular line of thinking. Briefly, that thinking calls for and enforces discipline, execution of orders, blind obedience - compulsion in all of its phases. We might look back through 20 years or so and recall how the navy and the coast guard were used in prohibition enforcement. I cannot believe that job was a part of the military service. But they were so used, and that was that. In the space that is accorded me, I cannot make any pretense of recounting the numerous instances where the military services were ordered into duties that never were intended for them by the founders of our nation. port recommending added power for | One by one, these things have grown up and they are now accepted. Isn't it about time to call a halt?

OS ANGELES .- I read recently that Old Mose Grove had signed his contract with the Red Sox. That's Old Mose's sixteenth major signed his first one with the Athletics away back in 1925. He was 25 years old then and had come up to the big show after five years in Baltimore. The late Jack Dunn had kept him in Baltimore for five years because in those days the Orioles ruled

They pulled in the crowds at the turnstiles, they won pennants and Little World Series-and the longer they remained in Baltimore in a few cases the marine corps the more eager the major league and the coast guard. Moreover, it club owners were to buy them and the bigger the price they brought.

> Jack Bentley-Joe Boley-Max Bishop-Grove-all brought box car figures when Dunn, one of baseball's shrewdest traders, sent them to market. Grove brought $100,600. I don't know what the $600 was for. Amusement tax, possibly.

At the time the story was-and so far as I know it may have been true-that John McGraw had turned Dunn down when he offered the big left-hander to the Giants.

That happened in 1925. The price was $100,000-with, perhaps, a little off for the Giants. But McGraw wasn't paying $100,000 for a pitcher in 1925. He had just won four pen-

I believe that Mr. Roosevelt will be nominated and elected for a third term. I have said this more than once here and elsewhere.

Every time I say it publicly, I get a lot of indignant fan letters from people who agree with me-at least in being very much opposed to a third term for any man. The complaint is that this is "defeatism"almost treason

In the first place, to be either a "defeatist" or a "traitor," you have to owe somebody an allegiance for which you are fighting. I shall fight as hard as I can against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, but I believe that a column that triessometimes not very successfully-to be a fair comment on events and actions in general-hasn't any business tying up with any favorite to the exclusion of any contrary comment, at least until the issues are drawn and there is no other thing to say except "yea" or "nay."

In this view it is neither "defeat- Mental Powers ism" nor "treason" to say that I believe Mr. Roosevelt will be our next President-if that is my opinion-which it is.

As to his nomination-does a majority of the Democratic party desire it? Decidedly not. In Dixie there are curses not loud but deep. Southern democracy has been the stepchild of the New Deal. It threatens white political supremacy. It has taken the South's twothird rule away from the nomination.

I EW YORK .- "Gentle Breeze" is a loose translation of the name of Paraguay's new dictator, Jose Felix Estigarribia. On September 13, 1935, this de-

'Gentle Breeze' Is partment observed, "It is New Iron Man possible that For Paraguay a new iron man is checking in, in Paraguay, with the emergence of the shrewd, resolute General Estigarribia." It appeared to be a wrong guess, until recently, when the general announced his dictatorship, having assumed the presidency last August.

Graying, handsome austere, just turning 50, he is the smallest of dictators-130 pounds, five feet, six inches tall. He was a Napoleon addict in his youth, but is said to have abandoned such attitudes and interests in later years. Of remote basque ancestry, he is the descendant of a wealthy Paraguayan family, educated for the army at home and in Paris. He entered the Gran Chaco war as a lieutenant colonel, gained a generalcy in a year and emerged as a national hero.

The U.S. A. has a stake in his new dictatorship. When he entered his brief turn as minister to Washington, he lunched at the White House and was extended generous credits for the "re-building" of Paraguay.

but by and large the present list of rear admirals and captains constitute a rather square-shooting and able lot. That fact, nevertheless, must not prevent a closer examination of the general question, the general problem, of which the rethe general staff officers is only an insignificant part. That is the trouble, you know, with expansion programs. Each addition to governmental scope is, apparently, an in- Of How Plan Might Work significant item.

Details of Recommendation By Navy's General Board

The navy's general board, in this recommendation, wants to have congress provide the chief of naval operations with power that is almost equal to that of the secretary of the navy. Now, of course, the chief of naval operations is a professional mariner and soldier. He usually knows so much more about sane naval operations than outlanders and erations is a career man who is not responsible to the people, as are elected representatives, and as long as he obeys the laws and keeps his health, he remains in the service until retirement age is reached.

There is much to be said about careers in governmental service. Indeed, what would our fighting forces be if they were not professionals? Our army would be comparable to what we have seen under "Russia's that policy making and responsibility for determination of policy shall be in the hands of elected representatives-they being the fellows who have membership in the senate or house of representatives.

Some effort was made by politicians to develop the general board's

Here's a Concrete Example

Let's carry this general board recommendation through to a conclusion that is much more real than apparent.

Assume we, as nation, were having some hard feelings with one of our North or South American neighbors. Assume, further, that the other nation was doing us an injustice and was refusing to allow the matters to be arbitrated so that a show of force could possibly serve a purpose. Well, among our elected officials, there obviously would be difmembers of congress that a parallel | ferences of opinion. There always unnecessary. But it never is to has been and there always will be. forgotten that the chief of naval | Does anybody think that the chief of naval operations with greater powers than he now has would be found on the side of restraint in dealing with such a problem? His train of thought would lead to the should give the answer; he would believe in force to compel acquiescence, and he would never agree that compromise was the way out. Probably, that is a far-fetched illustration. I agree that it is under great freedom." That is somewhat | the present powers that are vested beside the point of this analysis. Our | in the hands of the professional navy system of government prescribes men. I purposely used the exaggerated illustration because if there is added power in the matter of making policy granted now, there will be additional grants of power accorded later just as sure as little apples grow on trees. It is that in these columns so many times.

The whole thing can be summed up, I believe, in the conclusion that we are getting too many militarytrained people in positions of responsibility. When they are transferred to civilian functions, however honest and sincere they may be, those officers naturally take with them the MOSE GROVE nants in a row-thereby cracking an all-time record for the major leagues -and it looked as though he might go on from there. So he wasn't interested.

At any rate, that's the story.

The Yankees' Cousin

Meanwhile, Dunn had some sort of agreement with Connie Mack that called for him, in the natural course of events, to send his better players over the short line from Baltimore to Philadelphia and in the spring of 1925 Grove arrived at the training camp of the Athletics.

He was young, eager and tireless. He had a strong back and a rubber arm. But he wasn't a pitcher. He was a thrower. He won 10 games in 1925, 13 in 1926 and 20 in 1927.

Those were the years in which he was a first cousin to the Yankees. In the ball players' argot a cousin is a pitcher that the hitters like to face | raises a finger, or even permits his -and there wasn't a pitcher in the name to be used, most of these men American league the Yankees liked will not vote against Mr. Rooseany better than Grove. All they had velt. to do was to wait him out-or hurry him-and then slug him.

As he acquired poise, he became more effective, not only against the other clubs but against the Yankees conclusion that some heavy guns as well. His figures in the victory column mounted. He won 24 games in 1928, slipped to 20 in 1929, rose to 28 in 1930, and to 31 in 1931. He won 25 in 1932 and, although he dropped to 24 in 1933, he led the league again-as he had in 1928, 1930 and 1931.

In the winter of 1933 he was sold to the Red Sox for $125,000. In 1934 he had trouble with his arm and won only eight games while losing as many-and it was right after that that he became a real pitcher. of statement is usually a preface to He was forced to out-think the bat- an argument that, since conditions ters, and in doing that he became are so different the leaders of our "next step" that I have talked about one of the greatest pitchers in the history of baseball.

They are now only a minority without a veto in the convention. They must get on any band wagon that really starts to roll, or read themselves into the outer dark. In the election, the South will vote Democratic as usual.

What do politicos like Frank Hague in New Jersey and Chicago's Boss Nash care about Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal?

They care principally for its handouts-but that is enough.

Less powerful politicians are somewhat in the same category. You could count the really convinced and zealous New Dealers in the senate on the fingers of one hand.

A distinguished officer in the World war, he hated the republic, but went along with it, alienating his stiff-necked Junker colleagues, and became head of its armed forces. From 1922 to 1932, he delivered many scholarly denunciations of bolshevism, but, perhaps more than any other one man, put through the interchange of officers, technicians, fabricated goods, munitions and raw materials between Germany and Russia during this decade.

Weighty opinion from the other side is that General Von Brauchitsch, rather than Hitler. Goering or Rosenberg, schemed the Russo-German deal and forced it to a conclusion through his unquestioned hold on the army.

To him is also attributed the plan, the decision, the timing and the start of the drive into Poland. In several instances there have been indications of hostility between the general and Goering, with the betting on the former, if it ever comes That was the way he got his big to an open break. Use Dry Holder .- Never use a damp or wet cloth or holder in removing a hot dish from the oven or stove. A dry one prevents the heat from penetrating and scorching the fingers.

Hooked rugs will lay flat if they are dried properly. Place them, top side down, on papers spread over the floor. Allow them to dry thoroughly. . . .

Coconut Marshmallows. - To roll marshmallows in coconut, shake them one by one in a bag of shredded coconut.

When cleaning celery, use a vegetable brush. It gets into the grooves and cleans the celery better than it can be cleaned otherwise.

Cleaning Mica. - Hot vinegar will remove stains from mica windows on stoves.

Can't Eat, Can't Sleep, Awful Gas PRESSES HEART

"Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. It even seemed to press on my heart. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose brought me relief. Now I est as I wish, sleep fine, and never folt better."— Mrs. Jas. Filler. Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels. Adlerika gives your intestinal system a real cleansing, bringing out waste matter that may have caused GAS BLOATING, sour stomach, headaches, nervousness, and sleepless nights. Adlerika contains five carminatives and three laxatives to give a more BALANCED result. Just one spoonful usually relieves GAS and constipa-tion. Adlerika does not gripe, is not habit forming.
