Wolf
Congressional investigation of waste and graft in federal relief administration is regarded as almost a certainty as a result of Senator Borah's recent blasts. Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins has announced he would like to clear the situation up once and for all, and has asked Borah for proof of his charges. The Idaho Lone Wolf is far too shrewd a campaigner to expose his ammunition to possible dampening in advance. It's a safe bet the Senator will continue to fire carefully spaced volleys at FERA between now and January—but carefully refrain from revealing the sources of his information. To do so would be poor publicity technique. Borah is an old hand at starting investigations. He has an uncanny ability to detect public suspicion before they crystallize and start the ball rolling. He can always be certain that once he gets under way his mail will be full of new tips and actual information from disgruntled officials and alarmed citizens. There will be much chaff but almost invariably some wheat.

Errors

Entirely disinterested observers who have been out through the country in recent weeks being back reports to Washington that a lot of government money is being tossed around very carelessly. Those who have looked over certain states even talk about outright graft. Hopkins finds himself in rather a tough spot. From President Roosevelt down the New Deal proclaimed repeatedly that no one would starve. Hopkins was given the job of getting action, and getting it quick. He did, but naturally he was forced to adopt the trial-and-error system about which New Dealers have talked so much. Now the opposition is fishing for errors. It would seem they are going to catch enough to fill at least one skillet. Impartial students agree that Senator Borah made one unfair charge against FERA in his recent radio address. Borah compared administrative costs of government relief with Red Cross costs in the Mississippi disaster, etc. The Senator neglected to point out that in disaster relief efforts, doctors, nurses and other relief workers donate their services because of the temporary nature of the situation, while the Army invariably loans tents, cots, blankets, etc. With national relief imposed on him as a seemingly permanent proposition Hopkins must pay his workers and buy his supplies. At this writing it seems probable Hopkins' organization will stress his comparison in defense and fall back heavily on the need for speed to avoid human suffering—accounting as an after-

Political phenomenon most of expenditures lies in the fact that no finger is pointed at President Roosevelt. Although FDR appointed Hopkins and supposedly approved his method of approach, any blame will accrue to Hopkins alone. The White House reposes inside of a charmed circle. Even before the voice of the people spoke so loudly on November 6 none of the administration's critics dared lay any blame for anything directly on the President's doorstep. All of the onslaughts directed at the New Deal thus far have been aimed at subordinates. Opponents concentrate their fire on administrative aides as if they had been elected by the people rather than appointed by Mr. Roosevelt. Witness Moley, Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes, Farley and Johnson, to name only a few. If a heel of Achilles is ever found the champion may take a loss.

Extradition Of Alleged Head Denied

France's Request For Dr. Pavelich As Terrorist Leader Refused

ROME (AP)—Italy Monday openly defied Yugoslavia's attempt to investigate the plot resulting in King Alexander's assassination by refusing France's demand for extradition of the two alleged principals. The court of appeals at Turin ruled against France's request for Dr. Ante Pavelich, alleged terrorist leader, and his supposed assistant, Egon Kvaternik. Both have been under arrest in Italy since the assassination. France, acting on the urgent suggestion of Yugoslavia, demanded extradition on the grounds that several of the alleged accomplices arrested in France named Pavelich as the leader.

Rev. R.E. Day Declines Call From Electra

Pastor Of First Baptist Church For Four Years To Stay Here

Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church here since 1930, Sunday morning told his church he had decided not to accept a call from the First Baptist church of Electra and would remain as pastor of the church here. Rev. Day, who was elected recently as first vice-president of the Baptist General convention of Texas, had been extended a call from the Electra congregation some time ago. Sunday he definitely declined.

CCC Enrollment Is Slated For January

There will be a CCC enrollment during January, and it is necessary that a list of those who are eligible for this work be submitted not later than December 8. The same rules which have heretofore been in effect will be continued, giving preference to young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five inclusive, whose families are on the relief rolls. Any young man wishing to enroll for CCC enrollment, should make application of Miss Bobbie Malone, case supervisor, at the relief office within the next few days, it was announced.

Judge Orders Shilo Scrivnor Released

FORT WORTH (AP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson Monday ordered the release of W. S. "Shilo" Scrivnor after a brief hearing. The judge held that Texas had a prior claim to the prisoner. Scrivnor is at liberty on a furlough from the Texas prison.

Cotton Export Total Biggest In 3 Years

October Shipments Top All Since April 1931, Favorable Balance

WASHINGTON (AP)—October exports totaled $206,352,000, the largest volume of any month since April, 1931. The increase gave the United States a favorable balance of $76,725,000 for October. The commerce department said Monday. October's exports compared with $193,069,000 for October of last year. October imports were $129,629,000 compared with $50,867,000 in October of last year.

Iron Mountain No. 1 C D Read Goes Over Top

Test To Be Shot With 800 Quarts, Important Denman Extension

Iron Mountain Oil company No. 1 C. D. Read, important Denman pool extension in eastern Howard county, is preparing to shoot with 800 quarts after going over the top last Friday. So far as can be learned, the test is the first to go over the derrick top in this county without being shot. It is located half a mile north of nearest production in the Denman area east of Cosbama and is on the southwest corner of section 46, block 30, T-1-N, T&P survey. Total depth is 2760 feet. First showing was made at 2357 feet. At 2760 feet the hole filled with 600 feet of oil the first day, 1200 the next, 2200 the next and 2400 on Thursday. Friday morning, according to reports it shot over the derrick and flowed at the rate of 100 barrels in 25 minutes. Reports here were that it would be shot with 800 quarts. Plans were to shoot it Sunday afternoon but preparations were not completed by that time. The well has potentialities of becoming one of the best in the Denman pool and in the county. Several important extensions have been made to the pool recently, but the No. 1 Read is perhaps the most important.

CCC Directors Meet Tuesday

The board of directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce will meet in regular session Tuesday morning at 7:30 in the Crawford hotel, at which time a complete report of the Forward Movement will be made. Election of directors for 1935 will be arranged for at this meeting also.

Work In Master's Degree To Feature Masonic Meeting

Work in the master's degree and a "Thanksgiving barbecue" will feature the Masonic meeting beginning 7 p. m. today. Two candidates will be given work in the master's degree. Past masters will be asked to put on one degree and visiting Masons the other. Officials of the lodge urged visiting Masons to attend the meeting which will be held as usual in the Masonic Hall.

State Determined To Convict Bruno Hauptmann In Case

FLEMINGTON, New Jersey (AP)—Indication that the state was determined to convict Bruno Hauptmann of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder Monday were revealed in the prosecutor's promise to call "fifty witnesses" to prove a single point. He said he would call witnesses to disprove Hauptmann's assertion he was working in New York the day the baby was kidnaped.

HIT BY CAR

Rumors that a man had been struck by a car and seriously injured on West Third street Saturday night proved false Sunday. A car bumped a drunken man Saturday night on West Third street. He was examined but found to be unharmed. Monday morning he was released from the city jail feeling "very sore."

CLUB MEETINGS

Miss Mayne Lou Parr, county home demonstration agent, left Monday afternoon to meet with the Chalk club. Tuesday she will meet with the Knott club, ending activities for the week, since Thanksgiving will occupy the attention of most club women.

HELD IN ACTOR'S DEATH

Joe Bailey Averett, 31 (left, right, above) surrendered near Waco, Tex., and were held on charges connected with the slaying of James Malcolm Stewart, 25-year-old amateur actor of Katy, Tex. Authorities said they had signed statements implicating them in Stewart's death and the subsequent kidnaping of several persons in their flight from a posse of 40 officers. Ritz Theatre Charity Show To Be Staged Thanksgiving Morning At 10; Admission Any Parcel Of Food

A benefit show for charity will be given at the Ritz Theatre Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock, with the showing of "Hardy Teen", a musical production. Admission will be any article of food if presented at the door. Manager Robb will collect all articles and turn them over to the Red Cross organizations in Howard county, who will in turn present them to the Boy Scouts who will deliver them to worthy charity subjects in Big Spring. Any parcel of food, no matter how small or large, will admit any person to this show.

Tales Similar To Pre-Nazi Purge Heard

Jealously Between Regular Army And Special Guards Growing

BERLIN (AP)—Rumors similar to those preceding the June 30th Nazi "purge" were heard with renewed insistence Monday because of growing disaffection between picked guards and the regular army. Each organization enlarged and charged through reduction of brown-shirted storm troops, feels its "superiority" over the other should be recognized by Chancellor Hitler. Observers agree that Hitler will soon be called upon to choose between them.

One Killed; One Wounded In Fruitless Dash From Harlem Farm

HOUSTON (AP)—Jimmy Lee Cain, 29, Centerville, Illinois, was killed and Albert Baggett, 23, of Port Arthur, was wounded in leg when they attempted to escape from the Harlem farm prison Monday.

Feed Thieves Face Exciting Future In Elbow Region

Feed thieves operating in and around Elbow face an unpromising future if I. B. "Doc" Caultle is to be believed, and Doc has a reputation for unquestioned veracity. He said Monday morning that of late several persons had been seen entering fields and making off with maize and bundle stuff. Feed had been stolen, he said, from his place, that of Jim Caultle and from the Ray Wilcox farm. Doc made no bones about it. He said he was going to deal with the thieves in early day fashion. "We are going to guard our field," he declared, "and anyone caught stealing feed is liable to get a load of buckshot." He added that five persons were seen getting feed from the Wilcox field recently. Doc Caultle is a leader in the pure breed cattle industry and raises no little feed stuff to satisfy his own feed demands.

NEEDED MORE SPACE

University of Missouri will have to revise registration blanks if the registrar wants a complete list of Louis Hoffman Goodson's relatives who attended the university. Goodson, a freshman in the College of Arts and Science, found two lines provided for names of relatives who preceded him in school was not enough space to list his father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, sister, brother, four uncles, four cousins, and two aunts.

INNOCENCE COST $15

BOSTON (UP)—William G. Strippe, chairman of the Whately selectmen, wanted to prove his innocence at any price. Charged with a parking violation, Strippe came to Boston at a cost of $15. He brought a picture of his automobile in Deerfield the day police say it was in Boston. Found not guilty, he thought somebody should pay the expenses.

Nearly Ended Racing Careers

WASHINGTON (UP)—Johnny Hannon, automobile speedway champion of the eastern states circuit and Al Theisen, midwestern champion, nearly had their careers halted abruptly. While learning the racing art, Hannon almost wrecked a speedway and Theisen was ruled off the track because of recklessness.

Bear Was Sea Serpent

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Residents of Lake Tahoe were all ready to claim that that scenic body of water harbored a "sea serpent." All went well until Claude Simmons and a party of friends, who had noticed a black, queer looking object in the water, discovered it was a large bear. The bear had been taking a 4-mile swim.

Fat Lady Had Special Car

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP)—Ruth Pontico, circus fat lady, is right at home in a baggage car. She liked one so well that railroad agents turned it into an overseas Pullman to transport the 600-pound performer to Florida from here.

Paris Policemen Hauled Away In Own Patrol Car

PARIS, Texas (AP)—Newt Baker and H. R. Marks, Paris policemen, were kidnaped early Monday and hauled away in their own patrol car by two armed men and are still missing. Officers turned their search into East Texas after reports that a car fitting the description was seen speeding toward Texarkana. The officers were abducted while investigating a car at a filling station. The bandits left their own car. A similar pair robbed a Tyler road house Sunday night.

Naval Equality Desire Stressed Again By Japan

LONDON (AP)—Japan's desire for full naval equality was emphasized again Monday when Ambassador Tsumeo Matsudaira met Norman H. Davis, member of the Washington delegation to the tri-power negotiations. Matsudaira said that Japan wants equality with England and the United States and denied reports the Japan suggested equality only with America. The two discussed that procedure after Japan denounced the Washington treaty. Matsudaira made no specific statement.

Berlin Circles Brand Reports As Malicious Propaganda

BERLIN (AP)—Saarbruecken police headquarters Monday emphatically denied reports of rioting in the Saar territory. Official Berlin circles expressed the belief that the report was being spread maliciously.

Whale's Skeleton To Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—The skeleton of a rare False Killer whale, mystery mammal of the seas, has been presented to Harvard University by the British Museum. The 15-foot skeleton is from one of a herd of 128 whales washed ashore at Dornoch Firth, Scotland, seven years ago. For many years the only evidence that such a mammal existed was a semi-fossil skull. Then, 5 years ago, the herd came ashore.

Mrs. A. Pierson Hostess To N.M.C. Club Members

Mrs. Albert Pierson entertained the N.M.C. Bridge Club at her home recently. Mrs. Leonard Van Open won high score, Mrs. F. L. Van Open, floating prize, and Mrs. Dehlinger consolation. Mrs. Kenley was awarded a guest prize. Mrs. Jim Chapman was taken into the club as a member. Delicious refreshments were served. Mmes. Jim Chapman, Leonard Van Open, Gene Wilson, C. M. Miller, W. M. Dehlinger, F. L. Van Open, M. C. Lawrence and Emil Kenley of El Paso. Mrs. Gene Wilson will be the next hostess.

OIL NOTES

John I. Moore, et al No. 1 McDowell, Glascock ordovician test which holds much interest here, is drilling at 7153 feet in black shells and lime. The test is located in section 22, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey. In Andrews county the Roland S. Bond, et al No. 1 McCasley in section 29, block 3, University land, 5 miles east of the interesting Honoluh & Llano test, is measuring up with a total depth below 5000 feet, contract depth. It will probably be deepened.

NEBRASKA SETS EXAMPLE FOR OTHER STATES

One of the most significant points in the recent election was relatively little notice—the adoption by Nebraska voters of Senator George W. Norris' plan for a one-chamber state legislature.

It is significant because it is the first real step taken by an American state to bring long-needed reform into the machinery of state government.

In any democracy, the machinery of government is bound to be more or less cumbersome. No legislative body designed to reflect the people's will can function without some lost motion. But it is hard to think of any place where the lost motion is quite as great as in the average American state legislature.

The legislature is patterned after the national Congress—two houses chosen on different representational schemes, operating under a governor whose national counterpart is the president. And because attention usually is focused on the national campaign, on the gubernatorial contest and on the fights for local office, members of the legislature are usually chosen on a hit-or-miss basis.

What the state legislature may do is extremely important in the life of the citizen. Its actions may affect his business, his taxes, his public institutions far more closely than do the action of the national Congress. Yet it is a safe bet that the average citizen could not tell you the name of half a dozen members of his legislature if his life depended on it.

The thing has got out of his reach. It is clumsy and unwellled. Selfish interests find it easy to seize and hold an unfair advantage. Small blocs can exercise an influence out of all proportion to their size.

The people of Nebraska have begun a bold reform. Here after they will have a small and compact legislative body. Not only will it be able to function much more efficiently than the two-chamber group; it will be possible for the voter to keep in touch with it, to know who is who in it, to interest himself directly in its actions and get the kind of representation it that he deserves.

We have passed the time in which we could afford to put up with inefficiency and unresponsivity in a law-making body. The reform which Nebraska has begun might very profitably be examined with great care by the voters in other states.

UN-GERMAN ECONOMICS

One of the big problems facing the Nazi government in Germany these days seems to be the task of keeping retail prices from rising out of all proportion to consumers income—and, also, of reconciling the people of Germany to such risers as cannot be prevented.

Dr. Carl Goerdeler, mayor of Leipzig, has been appointed "price controller" by Hitler, and has been given complete control over food prices. His position certainly is not an easy one. The actions of the party that put him in power have made his task almost impossible.

In order to protect German agriculture, food tariffs have been put

TEXAS
TOPICS
By Raymond Brooks

University of Texas regents during the week will inspect McDonald astronomical observatory on Mount Locke in the Davis mountains. This observatory, under direction of the regents, will give the university an instrumentality of research and advanced work possible only through the philanthropy of an individual.

There would be strange specules if a legislature were asked to give the university a million dollars for astronomy, or even permission to spend one of its own millions.

But, through the gift of the late William J. McDonald of Paris,
Tex., and the efforts of the regents,
Texas will take an important position in a field of science new to it.

The regents will find the observatory building nearing completion, ready to receive the giant 50-inch reflector telescope whose lens has just been manufactured.

Texas Centennial leaders have indicated that despite their disappointment in November, they will come back to the legislature in January and renew their fight for what they consider adequate state cooperation and what they expect from the state as a matter of keeping faith with the commission and the citizens of Dallas.
Dallas voted a bond issue. The commission was created after a statewide vote had authorized, and by implication directed, the legislature to give wholehearted support to the Centennial.

Leaders of this celebration will have to go to the federal government in 1935 and ask an appropriation from congress. It is obvious that they can expect nothing there until they can show that the state, at unprecedentedly high rates. Natural laws of supply and demand would seem to make a boost in living costs inevitable. Yet a Nazi newspaper remarks contemptuously that, "We National Socialists do not believe in economic laws," and the effort to blame rising prices on malicious profiteers is being pushed with vast energy.

Dr. Goerdeler's lot can hardly be a happy one. Nor, for that matter, can the lot of the German consumer.

Citizens Asked To Give Thoughts To Health Thanksgiving

AUSTIN—Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, has asked all citizens of Texas to give some thought to health, both personal and public, on this Thanksgiving Day. The original Thanksgiving was held by the Colonies for the purpose of giving thanks for their health.

Great advances in the treatment and prevention of disease have been made since that first Thanksgiving. Yellow fever, plague, and cholera have practically ceased to exist. Smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid can be eliminated as a cause of death if a person will have himself and children immunized. Malaria and many other diseases can be controlled if the government furnish such protection.

Due to the advancement in knowledge of disease, concerning its prevention and cure, fifteen years have been added to the expectation of life. This means that a child born now can be expected to live fifteen years longer than he would if he had been born fifty years ago.

We have a great deal more to be thankful for now, even with a depression, than did our Pilgrim forefathers; so let each one in his Thanksgiving pledge to assist in furthering the work being done to improve health conditions in Texas.

East Howard
Is Indicated

Iron Mountain No. 1 Read Holds For 20 Minutes
At 2,760

A three-quarter mile north extension of the Dodge-Denman pool in eastern Howard county is proposed by Iron Mountain Oil Co. No.
1 Reed, which early last week made a 20-minute head, estimated by some at 100 barrels, when it had drilled to 2,760 feet, in lime.
An increase was logged from 2-645-37 feet, the test having had an oil showing the week before from 2,397-58 feet.

Six and five-eighths inch casing was being run to 2,820 feet, where it was to have been cemented. No east corner of section 46, block 30, township 1 north, T.&P. Ry. Co.

survey, three-quarters of a mile north of Illinois Oil Co.'s No. 1
Locan, the nearest producer.

Other Howard county developments last week included the drilling of pay by Humble No. 8 Settles, the shooting twice of Sinclair-Prairie No. 2-B Davis and the striking of water by The Calloway, No. 3 Bell, which the week before was estimated good for 20 barrels of oil daily after a second acid treatment.

tion 12, block 30, township 1 south, T.&P. Ry. Co. survey, struck 1 1/2 barrels of water in two hours at 2,878 feet and plugged back to 2-796 feet. Collar and pits had been dug for California No. 4 Bell. Sinclair-Prairie No. 2 Percy Jones, in the northwest quarter of section 9, block 30, had drilled to 2,865 feet in lime without oil increases. After acidizing at 2,779 feet it swabbed 25 barrels of oil in 12 hours. R. J.
Wallace No. 2 Bell, in the northwest quarter of section 20, block 30, swabbed 25 barrels of oil daily while drilling to 2,653 feet in lime, having run 1,000 gallons of acid at 2,543 feet. Its best pay was from 2,533-40 feet.

north, T.&P. Ry. Co. survey, after drilling to 304 feet plugged back to 80 feet and was cleaning out.

Republican Hits
New All Time Low
In Lone Star State

AUSTIN, (UP)—The Republican party in Texas was all but annihilated in the November congressional election, on the basis of incomplete returns compiled by the Secretary of State today.

Republican candidates in eight districts polled an aggregate vote of only 5,143 compared to the 147, 421 harvested by their Democratic opponents. The 13 unopposed Democratic candidates polled 237,706, bringing the grand total for Democratic nominees to 385,177.

Count Is Demonstrated
The rout is demonstrated by the results in the San Antonio district, represented in Congress until a few years ago by the late Harry M.
Wurzbach, Republican. The Republican nominee, C. W. Anderson, polled only 15 votes while Maury Maverick, his Democratic opponent, garnered 17,815. Anderson's name did not appear on the ballot because he withdrew.

Since Wurzbach's death, however, the state has been redistricted and several counties with Republican leanings removed from the San Antonio district so that it now comprises only Bexar county, a Democratic stronghold.

Although no active campaign was made by any of the Republican candidates their strength at the November election was far below that normally displayed in off-year elections.

In only one district, the old 15th from which John N. Garner was elected to the vice-presidency did the Republicans candidate show any strength. G. C. Main, Republican, received 2,719 votes but was overwhelmed by Milton West's 19, 881 ballots.

Bankhead Act
Referendum
December 14

Griffin Prepares Request
For Ballots—County
Results To Be Had

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Wallace set December 14 as the date on which cotton farmers will vote on whether they wish compulsory control of cotton production under the Bankhead act to be

"Are you in favor of continuing the Bankhead act for next year?"
is the question on which Southern farmers will vote yes or no.

All eligible voters, defined in the Bankhead act as those "who have the legal or equitable right as owner, tenant, share cropper or otherwise to produce cotton," will be given an opportunity between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.
on that date to register their reaction to the experiment in compulsory control which has been in force since the past summer.

Under this plan each farmer was allotted a quota under the 10,460, 000 bale national total which he was allowed to grow tax free. All cotton produced in excess of this amount was subject to a tax of fifty per cent.

Each voter will be handed a statement from Secretary Wallace with his ballot. Wallace will urge cotton farmers to "examine carefully all the facts and reach a decision based upon considered judgment, as to whether the Bankhead act is needed to assure attainment of the objectives of the cotton adjustment program."

County Agent O. P. Griffin said
Saturday that dates for three district meetings to be held in San Antonio has been moved up to December 10, 11 and 12, probably because of the referendum date announcement. He will attend the meetings, according to present plans.

He has been engaged this week in attempting to place an estimate on the number of ballots needed for the referendum.

Cotton producers of this county he estimated, have and will receive approximately half a million dollars in government benefit and rental payments over what the cotton crop will bring. The crop selling for about 12 cents, will net as much as the bumper 1932 yield if the top crop turns out as indications point.

The county committee will meet the morning of December 15 to canvass returns from the community boxes of this county. Griffin said. The county returns will be made public.

Miss Irene Barnett left Saturday for a one week visit with relatives and friends in San Antonio.

KANSAS CITY, (UP)—The rainbow skin of Mrs. Edith Perry did not make its usual change of color and doctors at General Hospital said she was "better."

Mrs. Perry, who had changed color daily since entering the hospital a week ago, remained a shade of red Friday. This, physicians said definitely indicated a chemical poisoning. They had not yet, however, determined the exact chemical which poisoned Mrs. Perry and caused her skin to turn blue, then purple, red, brown and red again.

world will be opened early next year to span the 1,000 miles between Moscow and Sverdlovsk, in Central Asia.

Huge ships carry 18 passengers and mail, and will operate on a time-table basis, making the trip from here to Central Asia in about 16 hours.

The ship, now under construction, will have a gas capacity of 18,500 square meters, will be of a semi-rigid type and will be powered by three motors of 250 horsepower each.

As the dirigible flights will be

Know Your GROCERIES

DID you know that the speed with which a bread dough rises depends to a great extent upon the kind of flour that is used?

Did you know that the way coffee is roasted is as important in producing fine uniform flavor as careful blending?

Did you know that some shortenings can impart a delicious delicate flavor to the foods in which they are used?

As a matter of fact there is some very important information to be had regarding the groceries you use day after day. It is information that will guide you in improving the taste-appeal of the food you prepare. And by using this information in buying groceries, you will realize that there's genuine, tangible economy in paying for quality.

The storekeeper hasn't the time to tell you about the different characteristics of staples such as flour, sugar, spices, and butter. Or cereals. Or coffee. Or beverages. But you can find these facts yourself—right in your newspaper—in the advertisements.

Take time to read these advertisements. They are written in an interesting manner and the important technical points are clearly portrayed. What's more, the facts are easy to remember and when you go to market you will be able to buy with authority — get the most for your money—enjoy the utmost at your table.

Marian Gordon

by JEANNE ROWMAN

CHAPTER 44 BAD SMASH

Lon looked at her and nodded. "I see what you mean, but I didn't know anything about anything. When I reached the house, Silver had me and told me McSwain was in San Francisco and she was to drive me over. I preferred using my own car."

"She wanted to go by the way of the peninsula and I had no legitimate reason for refusing, so I took that route. We had dinner with McSwain. At the ferry building, we had to wait for a boat and I telephoned the house. May told me you were in town at the Steeles, that you'd left in a hurry. I called there and received no answer, so drove by and stopped in. Is that clear?"

"Perfectly," Marian answered. "I believe every word of it."

"Then suppose you give an honest explanation."

"All right. I received word that Lon was in town. He had some information I had to have. I went to Lon's apartment, telephoned him and asked him to come over. He had been there only a few moments when you arrived."

"Is that all?" asked Lon. "Can't you tell me what the information was?"

"I wanted to see you," Marian hesitated. "Lon, I want to see you, but I can't until you tell me fully."

"I trust you, but I don't trust that Hamlin fellow; he's got a bad reputation."

"If he has, Silver gave it to him this evening after you two had left me," flashed Marian. "and she had reason to do so. Lon, tell me, is McSwain still in San Francisco?"

"No, he was leaving on a late train."

"Marian didn't have time to answer. The telephone rang with a sharp insistent ring. Lon went to it and answered."

"For you," he said.

"Mrs. Casad, this is the police department of Walnut Creek. We have a couple here by the name of Waki. The man has been injured in an automobile crash and the woman insisted I telephone you."

"Yes," Marian cried, "please in no way seriously injured and how did it happen?"

"No, he isn't badly hurt but his car is surely smashed to the dickens. How he ever got out of it alive I can't figure. His wife was thrown clear and hit in some brush. Waki, he says he wants to talk to you."

"Miss Casad, Waki. My automobile is dead," he paused a moment. "On head is mountain with cut. Arm make pain, May, she very fine good."

"Waki, I'll buy you a car, you know who did it, don't you? Tell me what happened."

"I go for home. Car she come behind me very much fast. She see me. Come to me, go on me, go way very fast."

"You wait there; I'll be right down," she assured him and turned to Lon, eyes blazing. "Your good friend McSwain just tried to kill the Wakis."

"My good friend McSwain," Lon repeated after her and laughed, then sobered quickly. "What do you mean he tried to kill the Wakis?"

"He sent that Kanaka boy to watch me. When Waki came back to the house from the depot without me tonight, the boy must have investigated and it dawned on him that Waki was my medium for getting news to and from the people with whom I've been in communication. He reported back to McSwain and McSwain ordered him to wreck their car."

"How do you know it was McSwain's Kanaka boy who did it?"

"I don't know, Lon," she turned to him as she donned coat and hat. "But I'd be willing to bet everything I own that if the police went to McSwain's garage right now they'd find a light truck with smashed fenders."

"That's a pretty serious charge, Lon," he insisted, reaching for his coat and hat.

"We're in a pretty serious mess, both of us, Lon," she answered. "and now that Silver has seen me with Hamlin, McSwain is going to strike at me through you. Lon, won't you leave him now while there's time?"

Lon came close, took her in his arms, smoothed the red wings of hair jutting out onto her cheeks back under her hat. "Poor little firebrand," he said sadly.

"Lon," she whispered, "won't you trust me? Won't you believe that I know what I'm talking about and get away from McSwain before it's too late?"

"I'm," he answered, "won't you trust me? Won't you believe that I know what I'm doing?"

Marian gave a great shuddering sigh, rested her head for a moment on his shoulder, then stepped away. "Come on," she said, and they locked the house, took Hamlin with them, and went to the garage.

On the drive in Marian was silent. She longed to tell Lon everything, and yet her telling might be the means of taking from him his only chance to free himself of McSwain. A chance would depend on Silver, or one of McSwain's men at the building, would destroy everything. She felt too, that she should warn Hamlin, but how to reach him?

"Fear, Waki," she said, "he referred to his car as being dead. Its loss meant as much as a death to him. I wonder how many law-clippings, window washings and hours of labor went into buying

SEEK SOLUTION TO ISLAND MYSTERY

The enigmatic death of two persons on the Galapagos islands will be an object of investigation by Dr. Waldo L. Schmitt (left) of the Smithsonian institute, one of the world's foremost students on crustacea, and Capt. G. Allan Hancock, Los Angeles patron of science. They are heading a South Seas expedition to study marine biology, and plan to view the remains of the Galapagos island victims who were believed to have died of thirst and hunger. that old wreck? He loved it like a person."

"Shame," agreed Lon. "if it didn't mean leaving you without available cash, I'd use the money that came from the prune crop to replace it."

"I don't need any money," Marian remonstrated, "and surely he deserves it. He's been so faithful."

At the police station they found Waki looking very oriental, his head swathed in bandages which completely hid the "mountain with cut." The arm that "made pain" was in a sling, and various places showed where cuts and abrasions had been suffered.

It was plain to Marian however, that Waki's physical injuries were nothing compared to his grief over the loss of the car. Lon's offer to replace the car brought no response, and not until he thought of trying to salvage some of the old car, did the little man brighten.

"Sink maybe find him mota, very fine mota," he suggested hopefully.

"I'm sure we can find the motor, we'll assemble all the parts that can be used and build a new car around these," Lon promised. Waki, pacified, departed for home in a police car.

"I doubt if you can find enough to start anything," said the officer who had brought May and Waki in from the wreck. "I talked to the farmer who saw the crash and telephoned in to us. He said it was the most deliberate thing, he's ever seen."

"Said Waki was driving a little to the middle of the road as he always does, we know him around here, when from behind him came this truck driving like mad. He gave Waki the horn and Waki began moving over to his side of the road. Had his wheels turned that way and was about on the edge when the truck driver shot into him and sent him flying into the ditch."

"The crash sent the truck over to the other side but the driver straightened her out. He had to stop of course, but he didn't stop long. One fender had crumpled so it rubbed the wheel. He got out and didn't look towards the car in the ditch, had some tools handy, straightened the fender, turned off his lights and went sailing down the highway."

"The farmer didn't get his number because he was more interested in finding out if the people in the other car were killed, but believe me we're looking for that truck."

"Would you like to find it?" inquired Marian, cheeks flushed, eyes bright with anger. "When I was a kid I ran over to McSwain's, the Hon-don place I mean, and look for a Kanaka boy driver."

"Hondon, eh, and a Kanaka boy? Okay!" He was on his feet. "I only wish it had been that Hondon girl; she ran over my kid's dog the other day, looked back to see the poor little fellow in the road and drove on."

Marian noticed the officer go to a telephone booth. She waited until he had left, then went into the booth and called the Oakmere hotel.

portant delegate. Developments of the past few days point more sharply than ever to a single stumbling block in the way of a new naval limitation agreement. That is the conflict in opinion between the United States and Japan. Should an accord be reached here Great Britain would find it easy to fall in line. Incidentally, you would have to be acquainted with Japanese etiquette to know that Saito is gambling his future diplomatic career on the chance of reaching a naval understanding with our State and Navy Departments.

Saito knows the Navy problem better than Ambassador Matsudaira, who is functioning in London and Washington treaties and he spent the past summer in Tokyo finding out just what his domestic political situation would stand in the way of compromise. When he left to return to the States Saito expressed the belief an understanding with Washington could be reached. As the Japs see it, such a statement places personal responsibility on him. If he falls a promising diplomatic career comes to an end. And he didn't have to commit himself. Norman Davis and Admiral Standley have plenipotentiary powers in London but proposals must be forwarded here for study before America goes on record. Thus, Saito is negotiating at the fountain head—and his own head is almost certainly at stake if he misses fire.

Smooth—

Cactus Jack Garner has let his friends know he will be back on the Washington front in early December. He is coming up from Texas for the winter Gridiron dinner and he plans to stick around until Congress meets to do any missionary work that may be necessary. A good convert will be welcomed by administration forces. It is not only possible but probable that the Vice President will take a hand in the fight over the House Speakership. As erstwhile Speaker himself Garner still commands influence in House politics and Rep. Rayburn of Texas needs all the coaching he can get to land the job. Anything Garner does will be noticeable to the naked eye. You'll hear the stories of his machinations after the battle is all over—if ever.

Horrors—

A movement is under way in Washington—breeding-ground for every sort of political and lobbying organization under the sun—to create a "Pink Elephant" Society. Dr. Writ and General Butler are mentioned as charter members.

Peace—

Keep your eye on Harvey Couch. New York leans that the ex-RFC director is slated to act as backstage peacemaker-in-chief between the government and the utilities. Many utility leaders would like to make him a member of the board of trustees of the Edison Electric Institute. If he takes the job he will be virtually the dictator of Institute policy. There has been a good deal of inside friction among Institute directors as to the best course to follow. One group—including president Tom McCarter—has wanted to meet government assaults with an aggressive publicity counter-attack. Another faction has thought it wiser to try to conciliate political authorities. The two viewpoints have neutralized each other and as a result the Institute has done nothing definite in either direction. Recent intensification of the anti-utility campaign has the industry's big shots badly scared. They've decided they simply can't afford to continue marking time and must

PRINCESS' WEDDING GOWN TO BE OF CLOTH OF SILVER

By RITA FERRIS
 (Associated Press Fashion Editor)
 PARIS, (AP)—Like a princess of the middle ages—robed in shimmering cloth of silver—Princess Marina will march to the bridal altar November 29 for the ceremony which will link her to England's royal house.
 As she sweeps through Westminster Abbey, past kings, queens, grand dukes and the gold and scarlet uniforms of the king's honorable corps of gentlemen-at-arms, she will wear a magnificent gown—jewel of a trousseau that has probably caused more interest than any since Eugenie became the empress of Napoleon III.
 It will be fashioned of silver lame brocaded with the Tudor rose, made by Moynieux, English designer of Paris, to conform to the taste of Queen Mary of England, who is the mother of the bridegroom, the Duke of Kent. It is cut on long, closely-fitted lines with the rather high bodice and flowing sleeves recalling the middle ages and bringing memories of princesses who lived in medieval towers. Plain silver lame will form the broad turn-back cuffs of those flowing sleeves and line the 14-foot train which falls from the shoulders.

Vell Used by Mother
 Over the hair of the slender, blue-eyed princess will fit a veil of old family lace, used at the weddings of her mother, Princess Nicholas of Greece, and her sister, Princess Paul of Yugoslavia. It will be supplemented by yards of white tulle falling over her shoulders like a mist and covering the greater part of her silvery train.

Her bouquet will be of the most beautiful that the royal gardens of Windsor Castle can produce—orchids and lilies of the valley—probably, although that is yet to be decided.
 Distinction and simplicity are Princess Marina's choice in clothes. She has long been known in Paris for her taste and chic. Beautiful materials and simple lines mark her trousseau, which is already laying its mark on the dressmaking world.
 "I do not believe there has been anyone since Empress Eugenie whose tastes have been calculated to have so wide an interest," says Captain Moynieux, who designed the collection.

Six Evening Gowns
 Three morning dresses, five afternoon frocks, six evening gowns, and two coats comprise it. Beside these Princess Marina has added in the same colors as her frocks 15 little "bellboy" toques, which are already being widely copied in England and on the continent. Her bags, gloves and scarfs are usually in the same shades as her costumes.

Beige is the most favored color in her clothes, followed by dark and light blues. Among the most striking frocks are evening gowns of beige and soft pink designed on long slender lines and worn with sash girdles.

 Her afternoon frocks are generally long, the hem of one even reaching to the ankles. One of the smartest is designed with a brown velvet skirt and a gold lame jumper, another is fashioned of simple navy blue crepe with a high neckline.
 Among her sports costumes is an outfit combining a jacket and skirt of beige tweed, splashed with red, green and blue flecks.
 When she journeyed to London for the wedding ceremony Princess Marina wore a beige ensemble with a three-quarter length coat collared in fox dyed the same shade and a beige-stitched crepe de chine hat having an ostrich feather of the same hue sweeping across the crown, but what she will wear when she leaves on her honeymoon is still a secret.

Hostess Gowns of Lame
 A hostess gown of lame—gold outside and silver within—designed by Helen Yrandon is one of the most glamorous things in her trousseau. It is cut on slender sweeping lines with wide flowing sleeves and worn over a banana-colored satin sheath.
 Many an item for her wardrobe has been included in the gifts which Marina received. Scotch tweeds, Yorkshire worsteds and Irish linens are among them and the Buckinghamshire Lace Association sent a dressing gown of pale pink crepe de chine trimmed with lace which is a reproduction of the pattern made for the marriage of Princess Mary to William, Prince of Orange, in 1641.
 A pair of dancing shoes, studded with brilliant, came from a Greek shoe-making concern, and the bride's aunt, Grand Duchess Marie, sent a robe of Greek silk and cotton designed in the bride's national colors.
 Diamonds and pearls—chiefly family jewels—are the princess' favorite gems. She always wears diamond and pearl earrings and frequently fastens a diamond pin on her bereit.
 Although her future mother-in-law has definite ideas regarding the use of cosmetics, Marina employs them. She uses a vivid lipstick, a little rouge, a sun-tan powder and mascara on her eyelashes.

State, Army and Temple, in that order. Barring further upset in the few remaining big games up to and including December 1, it should stand, except for a few alterations in the lower section of the list.
 We dropped Illinois, as well as Navy, Princeton and Syracuse from the "first ten" for the reason not only that they were all beaten on the same afternoon but that they have all been somewhat over their heads. There is no doubt that Princeton and Syracuse have tremendous power but each lacks polish and a finishing punch. Navy has a scrappy, resourceful outfit but it is outclassed when it mingles with a club like Pittsburgh.
 As for Illinois, Bob Zuppke achieved splendid results with somewhat limited resources. The Illini were lucky, however, to beat Ohio State by a single point 28 to 27. The luck ran out against Wisconsin, I doubt if Illinois is a better team than Purdue and Purdue was held, 14 to 0, by Rice. Louisiana State tied Rice early in the season. Temple, like Ohio State, has come along to show tremendous ability and scoring power in November.

 All of which bears on the query of Ed Owens but still leaves room for continuing the debate elsewhere.

Honor for Thistlethwaite

It's worth noting that one of the best football coaching jobs of the season has been turned in by a fellow who was thought to have dropped from sight when he passed out of the Big Ten picture. I refer to Glenn Thistlethwaite, formerly of Northwestern and Wisconsin. Glenn got himself a job as head coach of the University of Richmond, which hadn't been going anywhere in particular, and in one season he has put the team on the map with victories over Cornell, Georgetown, Virginia Military, Davis and Wake Forest.
 Cornell scheduled Richmond as a "sure-thing," only to find out that the Siders had much more sting than was expected. Georgetown hadn't been scored upon until the Hilltoppers tackled Thistlethwaite's team, which scored two touchdowns in the last six minutes to win by 14-13. Richmond walked Wake Forest by a bigger margin than either Duke or North Carolina.
 In contrast with Thistlethwaite's performance, his old middle western rival, Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame, hasn't had so much luck with North Carolina State. Anderson's team captured only two of its first eight games but its biggest achievement was in tying North Carolina, coached by Carl Snavely, former Bucknell mentor. It will be time enough to peg on Hunk's job when next season's gridiron returns begin to roll in.

The Old Argument

"What the boys down east don't seem to grasp," writes Ed Pentecost in the Columbus Dispatch, "is that Western Conference (Big Ten) football that there is nothing to it. One doesn't have to advance this as an opinion. Touchdowns speak louder than pep talks. One has but to point to the record of the conference against eastern teams this season, which is as follows: Purdue 20, Carnegie 0; Minnesota 18, Pittsburg 7; Ohio State 10, Colgate 7; Illinois 7, Army 6; Temple 6, Indiana 6."

Mrs. Ellington Entertains Complimenting Her Daughter

Six Tables of Bridge Players Gather At Settles Hotel To Play And Visit With Mrs. Edward C. Bowe

Mrs. E. O. Ellington entertained Saturday afternoon at the Settles Hotel with an unusually attractive, although informal, party, complimenting her daughter, Mrs. Edward C. Bowe of Nashville, Tenn., who is in town to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with Dr. and Mrs. Ellington.

Six tables of players spent the afternoon at contract bridge.
 The club room was decorated with vases of roses and chrysanthemums.
 Attractive prizes were awarded the honoree and the highest scorer, Miss Agnes Currie. A floating prize was given Mrs. Elmo Wasson for grand slam.
 Present, in addition to Mrs. Ellington and Mrs. Bowe, were: Mrs. Ralph Rix, Robert Currie, Wilburn Barcus, J. Gordon Bristow, Elmo Wasson, W. E. N. Phillips, M. H. Bennett, J. Y. Robb, C. S. Blomfield, Harvey Williamson, P. H. Liberty, Turner Wynne, P. W. Malone, Lee Rogers, G. H. Wood, Ben Carter, Bob Parker, Ray Simmons, R. H. Elias, Calvin Boykin, Ruth Staha, Noel T. Lawson, and Miss Agnes Currie.

Miss Homan And Gus Hepner Are Married Sunday
 Miss Dorothy Homan and Mr. Gus Hepner were wed Sunday morning in an impressive ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Homan, 800 Scurry street.
 The bride was gowned in a beautiful blue dress and carried a corsage of pink roses. Her going-away attire was a green ensemble with brown accessories.
 Rev. John C. Thorns, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. Only members of the family and Miss Helen Hayden were present.
 Mrs. Hepner is a graduate of the Big Spring high school. She attended Sul Ross college at Alpine and taught school in Glasscock county. For the few years she has been associated with Linck's Food stores as a bookkeeper. She was especially well known here and a popular member of the young set.
 Mr. Hepner, who formerly resided here, is in business in Plainview.
 They left Sunday for Plainview where they will be at home. They plan a honeymoon trip a little later to Denver, Colo.

The Search for VALUE

THE gold or silver miner does much work before his mine is on a paying basis. That's "development work." He carries on in the hope that soon he will come to the pay-streak and will have his reward.

Compare this miner to your reading of the advertisements. Not everything you read is of vital interest to you at the moment. But many thousands of others are reading. One finds a well-recommended suit or overcoat at an attractive price. That's a pay-streak for him. Another rejoices to find a sales announcement of coal, or coke, or furniture. Another wants the latest automobile or radio, and is mightily pleased to find the advertisement that tells all about it.

The advertisements carried in this newspaper are helpful in the business of living. They tell of equipment, appliances, things for personal and household needs. Take note of the things you now have in regular use. What first called them to your attention? It's likely that you first read about them in an advertisement. Other good values await your choosing in the advertisements in this issue.
