Howitzer Shells For Hitler

Passed by Censor.

THIS small corner of a munitions plant somewhere in Canada which is manufacturing howitzer shells gives an idea of the vast munitions program upon which the Dominion is engaged. In the manufacture of shells, chemicals and explosives, Canada has assumed a position of supreme importance in the war. Nine of the Dominion's twelve chemical and explosive plants (one of them the largest in the British Empire) are producing and the balance will be in operation soon. This year alone, the total production of explosives in Canada should exceed the entire Canadian output during the whole of the 1914-18 World War. In the munitions plants, nine types of gun ammunition are being produced at a rate of millions of rounds per year. About forty per cent of the total national income of Canada this year will be spent by the Dominion for her own military needs and to give financial aid to Great Britain.

Red Cross Sewers Work on Emergency Request for Russia

Mrs. Jack Dunn, head of the Red Cross sewing committee in Parmer county and also in Texico, has issued a plea for immediate cooperation of local women in constructing a number of nightshirts, listed by the American Red Cross as "emergency" work for the relief of embattled Russia.

Under the service of local volunteers, the material has been cut out by the pattern issued by the Red Cross, and any women who can "sew at all" is asked to help in the movement. Supplies may be obtained at either the Texico Hotel or at the home of Mrs. W. H. Graham, Mrs. Dunn added.

Sufficient material is on hand to make approximately 100 of the garments, it is believed, and Mrs. Dunn is urging that this work be completed "AT LEAST by the end of this week" in order that the shipment may go out of Parmer county immediately.

Circles have been organized at Bovina, Friona and Lazbuddy to assist in the work, she went on, with ladies in those places taking over the making of other garments for the emergency call.

Any person willing and able to donate a little time for the relief of people in Russia is urged to contact one of the points at which materials are being distributed and go into immediate action, the local chairwoman said in closing.

Tax Deadline Saturday

Defense Priorities Hit Local Firms

Local businessmen began to feel the pinch of the defense priorities regulations this week, it was noted by a reporter.

Shortages in a number of staple items of merchandise has been felt for some time, and this week the shoe began to pinch ever a little tighter.

Local anti-freeze dealers, for instance, with stocks almost exhausted, have been informed that "there ain't no more".

The Sikes Motor company sent an order to the Ford Motor Company for a reasonable amount of parts, only to have the order returned with the notation, "You've already been granted your allotment of parts for the month".

And so it goes—where it will stop, nobody knows.

Parmer county taxpayers will have the remainder of this week in which to pay up delinquent taxes and avoid penalty and interest, and to take advantage of the 3 per cent discount for full payment of the 1941 taxes.

Deadline for tax payments is at midnight Saturday, and all payments which are postmarked before the deadline will be honored.

Attaches at the collector's office today reported that "quite a few" delinquent tax payments were being made, but added that the full payment of 1941 taxes could not be expected "until the last day".

Property owners who owe delinquent taxes may pay all delinquencies prior to the year of 1941 without interest and penalty, during the remainder of this week, in accordance with an Act passed by the recent State Legislature.

No authority for an extension of the deadline is expected here, officials explained, since the regulation is an Act of the Legislature.

Thieves Fail To Get Away With 3 Cars

After getting three used cars out in the street from the used car room of the Sikes Motor company, Tuesday night, the would-be thieves failed to get away with any of their loot.

Ollie Williams, shop foreman, said the cars were evidently pushed out of the garage and an unsuccessful attempt was made to get the cars in operation, adding that the would-be thieves even went to the trouble of replacing batteries in the cars, and left the street "scattered with tools" after their unsuccessful attempt.

C. J. Doose, Continental oil dealer, reports the loss of at least 10 gallons of kerosene and 15 gallons of tractor gas, taken from his delivery truck parked just north of his home. Evidence showed that the gas taken from the Doose truck was put into the cars marked for stealing.

Williams said that two Fords and one Chevrolet made up the intended loot. He explained that one of the Fords was equipped with a special switch, and that the other had just been on the wash rack, where the motor was washed, making it difficult to start. As to the Chevrolet, Williams only explanation of its failure to start was "because it was a Chevrolet".

Other speculation leads to the belief that kerosene might have been put in the tanks of the cars by mistake.

Hillhouse Elected As Court House Janitor

Stanley Hillhouse, who for the past five years has been janitor and bus driver at the Farwell schools, was named as janitor and jailer of the Parmer county courthouse by the Commissioners Court, on Monday.

Hillhouse succeeds Ike McCuan, who has resigned with the announcement that he and his family plan to move to Clarendon. The change will become effective on November 15.

Farwell school officials stated today that no successor had been named for Hillhouse, and at the same time announced that applications should be filed with Supt. J. T. Carter, who is acting secretary of the board. The school board went on record in expressing its appreciation for the efficient service Hillhouse had rendered the school during the past five years.

REXALL SALE AT FRIONA

J. R. Roden of the City Drug store at Friona, is this week announcing a nationally-famous one-cent sale of Rexall products. The sale scheduled to start on Wednesday of next week and will continue the remainder of the week.

Mr. Roden, in announcing plans for his annual event, said that he was extremely fortunate in getting the items for his sale this year, explaining that the sale stock was purchased some months ago.

Rexall One Cent Sales have grown in popularity over the nation for many years, and it is one of the annual events that receives much participation from thrifty shoppers.

Nelson Foster, for five years a prominent 4-H club boy of the Oklahoma Lane community, was awarded further honors this week by being named one of the 19 boys in the State of Texas to win the coveted Santa Fe trip to the National Congress, held in Chicago.

This announcement was received over the weekend by Lee H. McElroy, county agent, from L. L. Johnson, the state boys' agent.

Each year the Santa Fe Railway company offers 4-H club boys an opportunity to win the trip to the National Congress, and this is the second time that Parmer county has had a delegate. The other representative was Gilbert Watkins, also of Oklahoma Lane, who made the trip three years ago.

Various requirements are made of boys competing for the award, the local agent revealed, including a complete narrative report, regulation form report, record books, and a preferred three-year standing as a club member. Foster qualified on all these points in good style to be chosen as one of the 19 boys in the state for the honor.

McElroy stressed the fact that "Nelson won this award on his own merit—nothing former Agent Jason Gordon or I could or would have done would have had any bearing on the final outcome," in complimenting the Parmer county youth today.

Foster is due in Dallas on November 28th, where the Texas delegation assembles to leave for Chicago. His award covers complete Santa Fe travel from Farwell to Chicago and return.

During the past year of work, the Oklahoma Lane boy specialized in demonstrations on swine, dairy cattle, crops and horses, his records in the county office reveal. He is 19 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Foster.

Workers and Binders Sought To Aid Crop Gathering In County

A special meeting is being held in Clovis this (Wednesday) afternoon by Edwin R. Henson, coordinator of the Southern Great Plains council, with AAA, FSA and County Extension workers in attendance, for the purpose of locating laborers and machinery to use in gathering the Parmer county feed crop.

Keltz Garrison, secretary of the Parmer county ACA, received the announcement of the meeting, and stated that this is one of the most definite moves to be launched this year in an attempt to secure workers to gather the feed crop, which faces much loss unless harvested immediately.

Henson stated in his communication that "it is necessary to national defense that every field of feed grown be harvested and stored" and through this meeting, will attempt to ascertain the number of laborers and binders needed to take care of this work.

Migratory workers will then be contacted at central points, to be sent on to the counties where farm labor is decidedly scarce, Garrison added.

A new type of soybean known as the Magnolia has been developed by the Louisiana Extension Service after eight years of experiments.

Clear Weather Brings Joy to Row Croppers

Clearing weather since the first of the week has been responsible for much rejoicing on the part of farmers of this region, who were in despair over the progress made in their harvesting operations, rendered impossible by continued rains throughout most of the fall season.

So far this week (up to Tuesday afternoon) no rain had been recorded here since Saturday, and farmers were hoping the weather will stay clear until harvest is over. They began making their ways into the fields, Monday afternoon, but for the most part, harvesting is still a standstill awaiting fields to dry sufficiently that work may be continued.

Only One-Third In

It is estimated that only about one-third of the grain fields in this section had been shocked before the wet weather set in some three weeks ago. In many fields, farmers report, the grain has sprouted in the shocks, while other fields are covered with bundles of feedstuff left where the binders dropped it. Feed in this condition has also been badly damaged by the rain.

Rains accounted for a total of 2.88 inches of moisture over the past weekend, to send the total precipitation to the all-time high of 42.68 inches since the first of the year.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of Mrs. Bob Kyker, who has been critically ill at her home for the past several weeks, was reported as unchanged today.

NO MARINE ENLISTMENTS

Sgts. Sedgwick and Harless of Oklahoma City spent Monday and Tuesday in Farwell, seeking volunteer enlistments in the U. S. Marines. No applications were filed for enlistment during the two-day period, they reported.

Sgt. Sedgwick said that practically all the local boys interviewed set forth two reasons for not enlisting just at this time (1) busy with crop harvesting, and (2) a desire to remain at home through the holidays. He predicted a substantial increase in enlistments following the holidays.

Install Cleaner At Lariat Elevator

Workmen were making ready this week for the installation of a new and modern grain cleaner at the Lariat Elevator, nine miles southeast of here.

The cleaner arrived early this week, and will be put in operation just as soon as it can be installed, it was announced. The cleaner is a No. 9 clipper, capable of recleaning all kinds of grain in short order.

Meanwhile, the large addition to the elevator, which has been under construction for the past few weeks, was scheduled to be completed this week. In fact, the building proper has been finished, but workmen were awaiting the arrival of the proper electrical equipment, yet to be installed.

Parmer Enters Two In Scholarship Contest

Two entries in the state contest for scholarship awards were made by Parmer county 4-H clubs this week, when the reports of Mary D. Christian and Oleta Thompson, both of the senior club at Oklahoma Lane, were submitted to the state office.

The girls were visited the past week by Miss Dosca Hale, of the Extension Service, and having now completed their work, have entered it for the final judging in the state. Miss Elsie Cunningham, local supervisor, stated that it would be April before the winners are named. The best three entries from each district come for consideration after the preliminary culling, she stated, and girls who are listed in this group will be visited by special agents before the final winners, five in number, are picked for the state.

Schools Of County Halted By Rains

Attendance at most of the schools of the county was seriously interrupted throughout most of last week by heavy rains that rendered school bus travel impossible, it was revealed here.

Some of the schools, reports say, closed down on Monday afternoon for the remainder of the week on account of road conditions. The buses at the Oklahoma Lane school were the only ones that were kept in operation throughout the week, and they ran far behind schedules.

Most of the bus routes are along the unsurfaced country roads, and continued rains throughout most of the week rendered them impassable for heavy traffic.

School officials at the Farwell school reported only a slight decrease in attendance during the week, despite the failure of the buses to operate. Most of the children from the rural sections were brought to school by their parents in lighter cars, officials reported.

There has been some complaint on the part of patrons of the Farwell district for the failure of the buses to operate and a special meeting of the local school board on Monday night went on record as instructing the superintendent and bus drivers to "use their best judgment" about operating buses when the roads were heavy.

TRANSFER FUNDS

The Parmer County Commissioners Court, in session here Monday, ordered the transfer of $1,000 from the general improvement fund to the general fund.

Of Interest to Farmers

By Keltz Garrison, Sec'y. Parmer County AAA

We expect to begin the first part of next week with the signing up of Farm Defense Plan Sheets and tentative plans are now that there will be one day spent in each community in the county for the purpose of signing up Farm Defense Plan Sheets in that community. At the same time we sign up the Farm Defense Plan Sheets we will also give each producer his 1942 cotton allotment and yield together with his 1942 wheat allotment and yield and at the same time we will explain changes in the 1942 program. As most everyone is already aware, there will be a number of major changes for 1942 and every farmer in Parmer county should make every effort possible to find out these changes so that there will be no mix-ups so far as the AAA farm program is concerned in his 1942 operations.

As soon as the date is definitely determined on which we will start the Farm Defense Plan Sheet sign-up every producer in the county will be sent a letter advising him of the date when the Plan Sheets will be in his community, so that he might take advantage of signing up nearer home rather than having to come all the way to Farwell to the county office. Of course, all farmers who do not sign up on the day we are in their respective communities will have to come to the office here in Farwell.

U. S. Destroyer Kearny Makes Port Under Own Power After Torpedoing; 11 Crew Members Reported Missing; Japanese Form Militaristic Cabinet

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

KEARNY: Major Incident:

Impact of the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny near Iceland had been terrific. First reports of the incident indicated no loss of life but when the ship made port (under its own power) 11 crew members were listed as "missing" and 10 more as seriously injured.

The full report of Commander Danis had been awaited with eagerness, particularly after Nazi sources called the entire story a "flat lie" and stated that the Kearny had probably run into an American mine.

The denial had been expected, and the senatorial and congressional comment had been along expected lines. Nye said it was just the sort of thing the country could have looked for, in following the administration's foreign policy.

Most members of congress, however, took an extremely serious view of the situation, many permitting themselves to be quoted that "this might well be the spark needed to explode us into war."

The incident occurred when the house was debating the ship-arming bill, but was not believed to have had any particular effect on the debate, and the passage of the measure had been a foregone conclusion.

Chief among reactions to the torpedoing of the Kearny had been sur-

TOJO: A New Regime

Another blow of shocking impact had been the sudden resignation of the Prince Fumimaro Konoye cabinet in Tokyo, and the prince's replacement by General Tojo, thus forming a frankly militaristic government.

It had been reliably reported that the Konoye resignation had been on a basis of "this government is unwilling to accept responsibility for a severe breach between the United States and Japan."

TOKYO'S TOJO
Outlook was gloomy.

Japan's terms admittedly had been received, studied in Washington. Washington admittedly had been discouraged at the prospects of agreement. It may or may not be that this attitude had been conveyed to Konoye through the Japanese ambassador.

At all events, it was plain that the prince must himself have believed that agreement on the Pacific with the United States was impossible—and hence his resignation.

His successor—General Tojo. And one of his first utterances had been that his cabinet would make early and final "decision" as to what measures to take to end the crisis.

Coupled with this had been a strong and unequivocal affirmation of Japan's complete loyalty to the Axis.

Most observers had been watching Nazi Germany whipping Tokyo into action in the Pacific, obviously to create a new front, to divide the U. S. fleet, to lessen our aid to Britain, and to involve in a near-at-hand struggle the powerful continent of Australia.

These seemed plain facts and watching the developments, those who wished to avoid war with Japan were becoming gloomy indeed.

SUPPLY RACE: In North Africa

British and German armies faced each other on the relatively quiet desert front, and military correspondents believed each was afraid to start a general attack unless the reserves of supplies guaranteed a fairly certain success.

Therefore, back of the front lines a race had developed, and trained watchers believed it might be weeks or months before one side or the other would gain a sufficient lead.

General Auchinleck commanded the British, while General Rommel was the German commander. It had been four months since the last real battle on the desert front, wrote one correspondent.

The British are receiving enormous quantities of goods via American ships calling at Suez. They were said to be arriving faster than they could be handled.

The British now have, it was said, thousands of motor trucks, and enough light, fast tanks to make several motorized units. There are hundreds of new fighters and bombers of the latest types.

These developments, it was felt, would, within a few weeks, or a couple of months, be reflected in a terrific British drive in North Africa.

But the Germans and Italians are not idle, and the British Mediterranean fleet, harassed constantly from the air and by submarines, has been hard put to it to make a serious dent in the shipping lines from Europe to Africa, constantly laden with military supplies for Rommel's forces.

PANAMA: Takes Step

The expected overthrow of the abdication and overthrow of President Arnulfo Arias of Panama followed when the little country in which hundreds of American-owned ships are registered, decided to permit the arming of merchant vessels.

This putting of ships in Panamanian registry was a device used by this country because of the neutrality act which forbids the vessels to enter belligerent ports.

Helping Hands

DES MOINES, IOWA.—Jim Harlan, Iowa state conservation commissioner, and Jane Wilson were on hand to see an egret begin its flight back to the South by means of artificial wings. The bird was fixed up with man-made "flappers" and sent from the Des Moines airport after its feathers failed to grow fast enough following an injury. It was to be released at New Orleans and will be out of the northlands before winter sets in.

PRICES: No Action Yet

While congress debated the setting of ceilings on wages and prices and rents, without taking any definite action, Canada stepped into the breach and moved to halt inflation.

Prime Minister King said "the government has decided to halt the rise in prices, to undertake the control of all prices, and where necessary, take any other steps to control civilian consumption in fair and equitable ways."

He said that ceilings would be set on prices. He admitted it was going to interfere with business, would impose irksome restrictions. Then he announced that all prices would be frozen after November 17 on the basis of prices charged for that merchandise during the four weeks from September 15 to October 11.

He followed this with a system of controlling wages. Wages also were to be "frozen" at the same level, but employers would be required to pay bonuses in amounts that would vary from time to time according to nation-wide conditions.

The first step in prevention of inflation had been thus taken by our neighbor to the north.

WILLKIE: Again to Fore

Though the isolationists and non-interventionists constantly were pointing to President Roosevelt as the "big, bad wolf" that was leading this nation into actual warfare, it was Wendell Willkie, former Republican candidate, who "beat the gun," and in an address urged the country to "face war."

A coincident reaction with Willkie's announcement was that congressional leaders began to think in terms not of passing the ship-arming bill, but of scrapping the entire Neutrality act.

"Let's kill the whole darned thing," many of them seemed to feel. Willkie told his listeners:

"Let us stop deluding ourselves. Berlin, Tokyo and Rome are irrevocably linked by the dangerous dream of world conquest. Victory for one is victory for all. Their aim is world domination, the destruction of liberty and the end of democracy."

"Our ships will continue to be torpedoed and sunk if we don't arm them fast. Axis victories will not end unless we deliver the goods."

"But even this is not enough. We must remove the show and deception of hypocritical neutrality laws. We must abandon the hope of peace."

"We can no more negotiate a peace with the war lords of Tokyo than with the conquering dictator of Berlin. On any continent, in every ocean, we can only stop these partners in piracy."

"They are winning now. Unless we act soon it will be too late."

Beloved Singer Pleaded For Mercy, Not Justice

The beloved Madame Schumann-Heink was a woman of rare charm and geniality. She was the first to make fun of her own shortcomings, and was often heard to comment good-humoredly on her decidedly matronly figure.

On one occasion, a fashionable portrait painter asked her to sit for her portrait. The plump opera star hesitated for a long while before making her decision.

"Don't be afraid, Madame," said the artist teasingly. "I'll do you justice."

"Ah," replied the prima donna, "it isn't justice I ask at your hands; it is mercy!"

RUSSIA: A Defense

Though the defenders of Moscow had been putting up a brilliant and tenacious battle, it had become evident that only a military miracle could save the city.

Perhaps a weather miracle might, but though there was snow on the battlefields, and more was falling from time to time, there seemed no diminution in the ferocity of the German assault, or the man and machine power with which it had been delivered.

Of special interest to men interested in military maneuvering was the Nazi method, aided by its marvelously mechanized forces, in shifting the pressure suddenly from one front to another.

Moscow was assailed from three—from the northwest, along the road from Leningrad; from the west, along the historic "Napoleonic highway," and from the southwest, following the route from Orel.

Discounting wild rumors (there even had been one report that the Russians had recaptured Orel and Kalinin, two vital points lost at least a week before) it was apparent that the Germans had been able to make two lines out of the three—roughly called the right and left wings of the assault.

There could be little question that the cost to the invaders in men and material was heavy, but also there was little doubt that the retreat of the Red armies had of necessity been swift and a heavy drain on the Soviet material.

Grandiloquent Nazi claims of the smashing of Timoshenko's "eight armies" and the collapse of Russian resistance were performance discounted as wishful thinking on the part of the Germans as daily gains dropped from a score of miles to a matter of hundreds of yards.

The Russian defenders on one day would be calling on their reserves to battle smashing assaults on the right, and then just as suddenly, be compelled to meet the same sort of action from the left.

Diplomats moved out of the city; the report was circulated that the government had moved to Kazan.

Ivan Maisky, Soviet spokesman, asking for a complete pooling of British and Red resources, pledged the nation to fight on "regardless of . . . Moscow"—showing that the "we need a miracle" spirit was paramount even in the highest circles.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Moral Code Result of Long Struggle

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Some women never cease getting into romantic mischief. They go on into wrinkles and gray hair, still looking for conquests, still secretly proud because men continue to be selfishly attentive to them.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TWO words that used to play an enormous part in American family life are "duty" and "morality." These terms went out of fashion a long while ago; our younger generation wouldn't know how to apply them to general behavior.

Duty, they think, means doing certain disagreeable things whether you want to or not. And what a nerve anyone has to tell you what you should or shouldn't do!

Morality means not lying, not talking scandal, keeping your word, keeping your thoughts and your actions pure, conquering in your soul, as much as you can, feelings of hate, revenge, jealousy, lust, anger. Not being intemperate. Not being proud. Not being selfish.

"Isn't it comfortable to be good?" one of the wisest women I know said one day.

Secret of Married Bliss.

So that when an old wife talks to a younger one, and advises her to make humility and patience, forgiveness and understanding a part of her wedding outfit, she is not advocating a course that leads to martyrdom. She is giving the bride the secret of married happiness. She is telling her that she will be happier in the long run, will indeed be one of the truly successful and contented women of the world, if she goes into matrimony armed with a sense of duty and a strong determination to keep the moral law. Once that law is accepted firmly nothing else matters.

Here is a letter from a woman whose experience unfortunately is somewhat typical today. It is just possible that if some good mother, 20 years ago, had given her a sound respect for morality and duty her story might have been different.

"Twelve years ago I was madly in love with a doctor I will call Bill," she writes me. "He loved me, too, but he didn't want to get married. It hurt my pride to be the one most in love, but there was no help for it, and even though I knew he wasn't any paragon, I was weak enough to give him everything he asked.

First Love Renewed.

"After awhile he went away, and I formed a deep affection for another man, Frank. Frank was the one in love now, but I liked him so much that eventually we were married, had a nice home, and a son and daughter. Five years ago we lost our boy, a grief that caused me a serious illness. In this illness my doctor was Bill, who had come back to town, and soon the old infatuation took possession of us both, with Bill the more ardent this time. He was married now and had two little girls.

"Frank discovered our affair and was heartbroken, as I was also, for he had always been the kindest and best of husbands, and had never known of my affair with Bill. We were divorced, and Bill was divorced by his wife, and he and I were married. Wretchedly unsuited to each other, this union was doomed from the first; Bill was always talking about his first wife and how wonderful she was, and I soon discovered that he was taking his daughters to lunch once a week and that often she joined them.

"I went to Reno, and feeling lone-

A WORD TO THE WISE

What a pity we are so reluctant to heed good advice! Children don't like to hear about such disagreeable things as "duty" and "morality." And when an older woman tells a younger one that the way to insure the happiness of her marriage is by patience, tolerance and forgiveness, the younger woman is likely to say something about not wanting to be a martyr. But the prevalence of this attitude does not alter the fact that only through obeying the rules of morality can we achieve that larger freedom which is so different from mere willfulness and which is the only real basis for a lasting happiness. Let Kathleen Norris tell you why she might have helped the Georgianna of this letter if she had known her mother twenty years ago.

ly and blue, associated there with a group of very rich people who thought of only good times. Among them was an attractive man of 50 who devoted himself to me. I confess that my mood was one of recklessness and irresponsibility. I made several trips with him to San Francisco and let him make me some very handsome gifts.

"But all the while my heart was steadily turning back to Frank, and the security and happiness we had known in our home, with our beautiful little girl. I longed for them both, and for my husband's advice and understanding. When I received a letter from him saying that he felt the same way, and that Tanya needed her mother, my heart was filled with joy for the first time in years. But 'the Squire,' as I call my Reno friend, also wants me to marry him. He has been three times divorced, but in two cases it has been to free his wife for a marriage she desired. The first time it was from a woman 28 years his senior; he was but 27 then.

Seeks True Happiness.

"Can you help me find my way to true happiness through this mesh of mistakes? I know I am a foolish, weak woman, although I have never consciously done anything that could hurt anyone but myself. But I do want to be happy even though I am 32 now and don't expect the raptures of young love again. The Squire has little money, but he lives in New York and knows everyone worth knowing. To go back to Frank, on the other hand, means my old environment, my old friends, and my little girl. Which way lies wisdom?"

Georgianna, who writes this letter, includes a picture of herself, a pardonable bit of vanity, for she is a beautiful woman. Slim, well-dressed, with a smart hat sweeping off her face and her hands in the pockets of a magnificent fur coat, she looks capable of getting into a lot more mischief before she is through. Such women, in truth, never get through. They go on into wrinkles and crimps and gray hair still looking for conquests; still secretly proud of themselves because men continue to be selfishly attentive to them.

I have no advice for her. She wouldn't take it anyway. But if I had known her mother 20 years ago I might have been able to say something that would have been helpful. Something about morality and duty.

And well he might be. A Tribune reporter visited his store last Friday and found the general manager swamped with customers, many of whom had driven great distances to shop at his store. This reporter was surprised to find such a complete store in Bovina.

Shelves, racks, and display counters were literally filled with seasonal merchandise for every member of the family. And while, as might have been expected, Williams caters to the common items in wearing apparel, known as staple items, he also carries a line of fine silk dresses and ladies coats.

He carries a complete line of Peters shoes and Justin boots for men.

Food-For-Freedom Meeting In Lubbock

Farmer-committeemen of the AAA and representatives of government agricultural agencies from 19 counties will meet in Lubbock, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 30 and 31, to lay plans for the Food-For-Freedom campaign in this area, according to Walter S. Menefee, Chairman of the Parmer county USDA defense board.

The district meeting will be one of 12 similar meetings being held throughout the state at the same time to get the food production campaign into high gear, the defense board official said.

Following the district meeting, the county USDA defense board, working with AAA committeemen, will undertake a farm-to-farm canvass in the food production pledge sign-up. Farmers in the county will be asked to produce their share of the foods which are needed for defense and for aid to the nations resisting aggression.

"We are undertaking the greatest food production job in the history of the world," Menefee declared. "We have goals to meet and we will meet them. I believe the farmers of this county will go all-out in their effort to do their share in the Food-For-Defense campaign."

Menefee explained that the USDA defense board would announce definite plans for carrying on the campaign in the county after the district meeting, but it is anticipated that county and community meetings to explain what is needed will be held in conjunction with the farm plan and pledge sheet sign-up which will be handled by the AAA.

Teachers Meeting To Be Held In Amarillo

Supt. J. T. Carter, Lester Rogers and Lenton Pool, high and grade school principals respectively, plan to be in Amarillo on Saturday, to attend the Panhandle-Plains convention of superintendents and principals.

Williams, of the state AAA; "Develop a Follow-up Guidance Program for Secondary Schools," by Elvin S. Eyster, of the University of Indiana; and "National Defense Stamp Program for School Children," by Frank Schoeld, treasury department representative.

Music will be provided by the Amarillo senior high school, and the meeting will be held in the auditorium of that school, beginning at 10 a. m. Lunch will be served at noon.

Seniors Set November 14th For Annual Play

Hailed as a rip-roaring, side-splitting comedy drama, in which the country bumpkin proves he is "dumb... like a fox", the annual class play of the Texico seniors will be presented in the auditorium on November 14th, according to the mark on the calendar.

The play is appropriately entitled "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick", the cast consists of four girls and three boys, with two sophomores being drafted for work in the play.

The cast includes Aaron Slick, who isn't as green as he looks, James Box; Wilbur Merridew, a crook and speculator, Billy Bob Drace; Clarence Green, a mysterious young man Duane Howard; Mrs. Rosy Berry, an Oklahoma widow, Wanda Boss; Gladys May Merridew, sweet young thing, Edna Earle Thompson; The "girl in red", a cabaret singer, Lila Boss; and Little Sis Riggs, tomboy deluxe, Dorothy Paul.

Big game animals, nearly doubling in number in the national forests every ten years since 1908, now are estimated at more than 2,000,000 head, according to the Department of Agriculture. Nearly 80 percent are deer.

"More Milk" Tops List Of Production Goals

"More milk" tops the list of production goals proposed recently by the Secretary of Agriculture to the farmers of the United States. Calling for cooperation in the mightiest food production program ever launched, Secretary Claude R. Wickard has asked dairy producers to increase milk production to the tune of 8 billion pounds.

Why so much milk? The Secretary gave two reasons. First, he said, "we in this county need to consume more milk for improved health and strength". Second, "the British will need tremendous quantities of cheese, evaporated milk, and dried skim milk".

Back of both these reasons is the story of milk's food value. Milk is a sound foundation on which to build family meals. For packed into a quart of milk are a lot of essential food values that would be more difficult and more expensive to get otherwise.

Milk was one of the charter members of the list of "protective" foods. This is a group of foods gold-starred because they provide goodly amounts of the food values we need if our diets are to come up above the safety line for good nutrition, says Mrs. Edna Elms, home supervisor at the FSA office. Living on diets well above the safety line is a basis for buoyant health.

Milk qualifies as protective chiefly because of its calcium, high-quality protein, vitamin A, and riboflavin. Everyone needs to get calcium in his meals and milk is one of the best and easiest ways to supply it. Because children are growing, forming teeth and building bones, they need more calcium than adults. That's the biggest reason they need more milk than grown-ups.

Wise mothers know that the milk-every-meal habit will be one that is a health asset to their children through life. Besides the already mentioned values, milk has some vitamin B1 and a little vitamin D, both necessary to good nutrition.

In working out a low-cost dish to meet the new national yardstick for good nutrition, the Bureau of Home Economics of the USDA emphasizes

A New Afghan Design for You to Crochet

THERE'S nothing like an afghan to tuck around your knees when there's a draft in the living room, to make an extra cover for the day bed, to use outdoors on a chilly evening or wherever a casual warm covering is needed. Clever homemakers realize, too, that an afghan can lend rare charm to the decorative scheme of a home. The styles you choose can be quaint or severely modern, depending upon your tastes, and the colors you use can dramatize the main color theme of your rooms. No handwork is quite so exciting as to watch an afghan grow under your fingers, and here's a design that will do just that. Crocheted in moth-proofed afghan wool with cross-stitch vines embroidered on alternating panels, this lovely design will make itself at home in a dozen different rooms and will become a household favorite. Directions for crocheting this afghan may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper, specifying design #6072.

For every child, 3 to 4 cups of milk are recommended, and for each grown-up, 2 to 3 cups. If there is more money to spend, some may be used to advantage for more milk for both children and adults. Expectant mothers need about 1 quart a day and nursing mothers 1 1/2 quarts.

For convenience, these recommendations are expressed in terms of whole fresh milk. But smart homemakers make use of other forms—for variety and economy. They may serve it as cheese, skim milk, evaporated or dry milk.

Cheese made from whole milk contains most of the food values of whole milk in a more concentrated form. One third of a pound of American cheese has about the same food value as a quart of whole milk.

"Autumn" will be produced as a three-color movie in Leningrad, Russia.

GOSSIP COLUMN

Peggy and Mary Frances—What about those boys you were with Saturday night? Then are you going to the midnite prevue Hallowe'en?

James must have been going somewhere Tuesday nite after play practice, from what he said Tuesday.

Who were those sophomores that were so persuasive Monday night after skating? It seemed they wanted to go to the show.

From what we hear, Ernest is a regular JITTERBUG!

Why is it that all the boys are so polite to Mescal . . . could it be because she is a teacher's wife?

Bill Knox said that he was not going to get in the gossip. Now, Bill, you had better watch out—we have our EYES and EARS, you know!

Last week rumors were going around that two certain couples from Texico High were going to Pleasant Hill to skate. Billy Bob, it wasn't because it rained so much, was it?

Why is it that Lila and Bill like to go to physics class? It couldn't be because they are the only girls in the class, or could it?

It seems that Mrs. Osborne was wishing that Wesley was at the teacher's meeting. Surely she wasn't that lonesome!

SPORTS REVIEW

This is what some players think about the coming tournament, Oct. 31:

Duane Howard: I think that if the boys and girls play ball like they have the last two games, we will come back victorious.

Dan Gonzales: I will only say that I will go out and put out the best I can. If we all do this and should not win, we can say to each other: "You played a swell game".

Lila Boss: Well, we'll win if our girls get in and work like they have been.

Clarence Summers: I think that if we play very hard at all we can take the softball tournament—Maybe Crady thinks they have a cinch.

James Box: All I can say is that if they win it won't be my fault.

Billy Bob Drace: I can say that we are going to win that tournament.

Calvin Blain: I know we have a good club and a good coach and that cup is going to be at Texico after Friday.

E. L. Vigil: All I can say is that we will do our best to have the Grady trophy here in Texico, and we promise to do our best.

Edna Earle: Girls, keep your pep up and we will win.

Alverda: We are going to show the public what the girls cup looks like after Friday (we hope).

The FFA was very busy fair week, planning a booth for exhibit. We received $7.50 for showing. Diversified farming was the main idea expressed. for you to go clocking different brands of motor oil to prove which one flows fastest in Eskimo season. Yet the quicker the lubrication at every cold start, the less "dry rub" on delicate surfaces in your engine. Then why not change now to Conoco Nth oil for Winter and get an OIL-PLATED engine? OIL-PLATING is up in the cylinders to fight fierce grind, much sooner than any plain oil-flow alone could even start wiggling.

Conoco Nth oil, you see—all in addition to speedy flow—fastens OIL-PLATING to inner engine surfaces, as if by "magnetic attraction." This close-bonded OIL-PLATING is up to its top-most point before you even touch the starter—and that's "faster than fast," to aid you toward anti-friction starting.

Even up in Iceland, of course, any engine's normal firing is hotter than the Land of the Hottentots. Yet you don't want to "burn up the oil!" And Conoco Nth proved it could last for more than twice the mileage averaged by the five other big-name oils in the impartial Death Valley Death-Test. When all five others were used up—engines ruined as each strict 5-quart fill gave out—the Conoco Nth oil that competed under identical conditions was still up at 2.7 quarts! Certified!

A known economy record . . . plus a known aid to safe prompt starting . . . when you change to Conoco Nth for Winter OIL-PLATING, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Today, Continental Oil Company

GAVE TWICE THE ENGINE LIFE!

Health Notes

By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN—"The American way of life is full of superlatives; we have the tallest sky-scrappers, the fastest trains, the greatest number of automobiles. We spend more per capita on vacations than any other nation. However, due to high speed, we usually crowd our summer vacations with such a high-speed program that we fail to secure sufficient real physical relaxation," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"For most persons, the exactions of office, of factory or of home for a 50-week stretch reflect themselves in the need for improving one's physical tone. However, to expect the majority of vacationists to change their habits regarding the diversions of a summer sojourn perhaps would be asking too much. The point is if one has burned up additional energies and perhaps called on his physical reserves to weather through the 'good-time' vacation, an excellent opportunity now exists to make amends by taking advantage of the stimulating autumn weather.

"In fact, the best season of the year to recoup vitality lost through the past year's work is now here. Its possibilities to build up general health and bodily resistance to winter's onslaught can not be over estimated.

"To recoup some of the vigor and abounding health which have been lost due to the strains and stresses of the past twelve months, the following program is suggested: 1. a brisk walk every day; city streets will do, if one is denied the open country; 2, seven to eight hours' sleep, depending upon one's personal requirements, in a properly ventilated room each night; occasional breakovers will not be serious drawbacks, but the habit should be established and maintained; 3, a cut-down on stimulants, if at present any are being used excessively; 4, a reasonable intake of nourishing food; 5, elimination of self-drugging of any type, relying solely upon the physician for medical treatment, if he considers it to be indicated; 6, proper daily elimination; 7, an attempt to keep worry, even in these troublous times, within bounds; and finally, to make use of the autumn

Furrows Bring Back Grass

B. A. Keathley, Glasscock County ranchman, right, tells Howard Kingsbery, ranchman-member of the State AAA Committee, that contour furrowing done under the AAA's range conservation program has put more grass on his ranch than he ever had before.

weekends by being in the open as much as possible.
"Putting autumn, as well as plain common sense, to work for your health in this manner, is an experiment which should be helpful as well as healthful to many."

LOANS FOR 4-H PROJECTS ARE OFFERED BY FSA

Farm boys and girls in Parmer county whose parents are now cooperating with the Farm Security Administration, may obtain loans to finance 4-H club and vocational agriculture projects, Frank Seale, rehabilitation supervisor for the FSA, said today.

Projects which may be financed in this manner include baby beeves, dairy heifers, small ewe flocks, bred gilts, and so forth.

"These projects," Seale said, "are to be conducted under rules of 4-H and vocational programs, under the direct supervision of county agents and vocational teachers, in cooperation with FSA supervisors."

In a letter to Seale, outlining the objectives of such loans, Raymond O'Hara, farm management specialist of the FSA, said: "These programs give Young America its opportunity to contribute its share toward increased food supplies for the nation's national defense effort.

"Although we enjoy looking at the prize winning calves and other livestock the boys and girls produce," O'Hara wrote, "let us not forget we are primarily interested in the boys and girls and their development. After all, the youngsters themselves are our finest crop."

The Farm Security Administration's participation in these projects, it was learned, is designed to make it possible for all children in FSA families to obtain the educational and vocational training opportunities available in the public school systems and community affairs.

Lee H. McElroy, county agent, said: "I see in this plan an opportunity for youngsters, who otherwise would not be able to participate in club work, to carry out successful projects and to receive the advantages of club work."

"The FSA's lending program for boys and girls," said T. A. McCusick, vocational agriculture teacher in the Farwell high school, "is not only an opportunity for more youngsters to participate in vocational training, but it is also a method of providing adequate financing so they can carry out their projects with the maximum efficiency. Moreover, this plan will enable boys and girls to acquire splendid expedience in business and financing."

Farm boys and girls, whose parents are not working with the FSA in this area, may obtain complete detail about financing their projects from the county FSA office, the county extension office or the vocational agriculture department in their high school.

NEON SIGN WELCOMES STUDENTS TO HOMECOMING

CANYON—One of the largest neon signs in the Southwest will welcome ex-students of West Texas State College on Homecoming Day, Nov. 8.

The sign, now nearing completion, will be placed on the highway opposite the campus. The project has been sponsored by the graduating class of last summer. Dr. S. H. Conron, sponsor of the class, has directed operations. College students of manual arts and men of the NYA project have built the framework for the sign.

The sign will bear the words "West Texas State". It will be 40 feet

COLLEGE STATION—"More grass than we've ever had before," is the way B. A. Keathley, Glasscock county ranchman, describes his rangeland since it has been contour furrowed under the AAA's range conservation program.

When the 80-year-old ranchman gets to talking about the value of contour furrowing, his eyes light up and he points to the green grass which is growing on his land which in previous years was "just plain raked!" With his hand he will point out the curve of the furrows by the extra greenness in the grass.

"Why, the water used to rush right off this land as soon as it fell," the ranchman, who complains that his sons have made him stop riding horseback, declares. "On rainy days, the water would be stirrup-deep in the lowlands, while the uplands hadn't kept any water at all. But it's not that way any longer. Now the furrows hold the water and put it to work. Just look at that grass."

Keathley claims that there is six times as much grass on the land today as there was before the AAA inaugurated the range program, but others discount his statement by half—that is, that there is only three times as much.

"I never bought anything in my life more worth the money than these furrows," the ranchman, who uses all his range-building allowance and then digs into his pocket to do more work, said.

Keathley operates a five-section ranch near Garden City and is running about 750 ewes, 700 lambs and 80 head of mother cows on his range this year.

in elevation and 70 feet long. Capital letters will be 5 feet high and smaller letters 4 feet high. Warning will be read from each direction.

The dedication service of the sign will be in charge of officers of the summer class, who include H. L. Gipson, president; G. L. Stanley of Fort Worth, vice president; and Lilla Thornburg of Canyon, permanent secretary.

Homecoming exes will start arriving Friday night, Nov. 7, when the program will include a 3-act play by a student cast, a pep rally, and a bonfire. The main program Saturday, Nov. 8, will include a groundbreaking for the new science building at 10:30, band parade at 2, football game at 2:30, coronation of Homecoming queen at 7:30, opening of mammoth night club at 8, and student-ex-student Homecoming ball at 9:30 p. m.

Scores of committees are working on plans now under the direction of Prof. Milton Morris, chairman, and Miss Ruth Lowes, assistant.

Guest Day Tea Is Held By Woman's Club

One of the most elaborate and beautiful affairs of the Fall social season occurred Tuesday night, in the home of Mrs. Claude Rose, when members of the Texico-Farwell Woman's Club held their annual guest day tea.

The long living room was attractively decorated with clusters of varicolored chrysanthemums. Mrs. J. P. Macon and Mrs. Earl Booth presided at the table, assisted by Mrs. J. T. Cartr. The centerpiece of the table was a huge bowl of dwarf yellow chrysanthemums, with larger white "mums" in the center of the bouquet. Tall green tapers in crystal holders guarded the centerpiece, and a circle of gumdrop Halloween figurines was also a part of the arrangement.

The receiving line was composed of Mesdames Loyd Cain, Mose Glass, cock, Warren Powers, Clyde Magness and V. Scott Johnson, with the welcome being extended to approximately 60 guests.

Mrs. Cain, as president of the local club, extended the welcome for the group, while Mrs. Ray C. Moore, president of the visiting Muleshoe club, was asked to respond.

Mrs. J. D. Thomas acted as program chairman, introducing Mrs. C. M. Henderson, who sang several numbers, accompanied by Ronald Booth; Miss Lynette Cain, who read; Ronald Booth, who rendered piano numbers, and Mrs. W. H. Graham, who sang.

The principal talk of the evening was given by Mrs. Minnie A. Aldridge, honorary club member, who reviewed the recent story of the life of "Ed Howe", written by his son, Gene we, of Amarillo.

Music during the tea hour was provided by Misses Norma Jean Thomas and Joan Booth, who rendered piano numbers.

Those present included Miss Lynette Cain, Miss Etha Sheriff, Miss Jennie Le London; Mesdames Sam Aldridge, Blanche McDaniel, J. D. Thomas, C. M. Henderson, Miss Macelyn Taylor; Mmes. B. N. ## Week of Prayer Will Be Noted Thursday

The annual Week of Prayer, which is observed throughout all Methodism, will be the occasion of a special program to be held by the Texico-Farwell ladies in the church building on Thursday evening, October 30. A buffet supper will precede the evening's program, being held at 6:45, and officials announce that all women of the church are invited, whether or not they are affiliated with either the adult or young circle of the missionary group.

Mrs. W. H. Graham will be the director of the program, with members from both circles taking part. The offering this year will go to the Brewster Hospital for Negroes, at Jacksonville, Fla.; the retirement fund for deaconesses, and medical supplies and missionary literature for the work abroad, Mrs. Graham announced.

Hallow'en Party Is Enjoyed By Girls

Around forty-five girls, members of the homemaking department of the Farwell school, gathered at the home of laboratory, the past Thursday evening, for a Hallow'en social.

All guests came attired in costume, with the usual seasonal activities being arranged for entertainment, including the chamber of horrors, the fortune telling booth, apple-bobbing, and others. The specialty of the evening was the onion-rolling contest, accomplished among tears, in which freshmen members were required to push the odorous vegetables across the room with their noses.

At the conclusion of the evening, the second year class was in charge of serving refreshments.

Miss Ivy Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Park of this city, who is now employed in Pasadena, California, is president of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. # Tid-Bits »

Sporting a black eye this week, Edith Wallace refused to make any comment. "If I told you the truth you wouldn't believe me," she said, "so you can just draw your own conclusions." Odd part of it was that brother-in-law Max also bore the remnants of a shiner.

Getting ready to take off to the mts. on a hunting trip, Johnnie Aldridge was practicing up on a wooden turkey call. "The nice thing about this," remarked Johnnie, "is that when a fellow gets to making a nuisance of himself, you can send him out in the woods to lure some turkeys and keep him busy all day—and I know it's a good one, we've had it ten years and haven't called a turkey yet!"

Putting two and two together: Recent bride Edith Osborne has sold her car and is "hoofing it" while husband Wesley is getting all set to go deer (deer?) hunting this week. "greater love than this hath no man..."

While others were arguing the state of the nation, Billy Banks was concerned over only one thing. "What would you do," he queried, "if you had only one nickel—buy a cup of coffee or a sack of Dukes?"

Virginia Harper, visiting here this week from Plainview, is rather anxious to get back home and get the lockdown on a party which occurred at her place Saturday nite. Seems as though she came to Farwell the same day a bunch of local friends decided to go up and have a visit in her new home... but the thing that has Virginia worried is that the party was "in couples" and she's wondering what girl they got for her left-behind better-half.

Someone was heard to remark that they doubted if Stanley Hillhouse could qualify for the janitorship at the courthouse, since he isn't rated as a very good croquet player.

This office is in receipt of a post card from Ralph Palmateer, mailed from Old Mexico, which bears just the note "just to let you know I DID get to Mexico". Recently, Ralph made an attempt to cross the Canadian border and was turned back because he could not produce a birth certificate.

And Bill Bomar, at Penny's in Clovis, got a good one on a local man. The Farwell resident left a note on Bill's desk, asking that he be called about a certain deal, and also left the dime for Bill to make the call—Bill sent a postcard!

Showing off a new fur coat, one of the local ladies was asked how she rated it, and answered, "For living 25 years with the same man", at which the youngest Mrs. in the group put in quickly, "Then I'm sure glad I got mine BEFORE I married."

Program, Party Will Be Held At Texico

Two celebrations are slated for observance of Hallow'en at the Texico grade school, officials reported this week. Members of the fifth through the fifth grades will join forces in presenting a program, while sixth and seventh graders will hold a class party.

The program by the younger group is to be presented in the auditorium at one o'clock Friday, to which all mothers are cordially invited. Entertainment will consist of numbers by the rhythm band, and two short playlets.

Miss Sadie Burns, teacher of the sixth and seventh grades, has announced that her group will hold a regular Hallow'en social in their room at the school, Friday afternoon.

To Enter Contest

Miss Billie Sharpe, junior at the Farwell high school, is representing this city in the "My Home Town for Defense" contest, being held in Lubbock today (Wednesday). The contest among high school students in this district is sponsored annually by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Named Trustees

Rev. E. J. Sloan, local minister, and Dr. E. F. Bohmfalk, of the First Church at El Paso, were named as trustees of this district for the Methodist school, McMurry, at Abilene, it has been announced, following the recent annual conference.

Mrs. J. B. Coltharp left the first of the week for Gruver, Texas, to visit her daughter, with the announcement that her daughter would return home with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lindop announce the arrival of their first-born, a daughter, on October 22nd.

Clifford and Robert Kyker, both of Carlsbad, New Mexico, spent the past weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kyker, in this city.

THE SMOKY YEARS

By ALAN LE MAY

INSTALLMENT 2 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon were joint owners of the vast King-Gordon range which stretched from Texas to Montana. When building up this string of ranches, they continually had to fight the unscrupulous Ben Thorpe. Thorpe rivaled King-Gordon in power and wealth, but he had gained his position through wholesale cattle rustling and gunplay. Their opposing interests came to a showdown when the Government announced the auctioning of the Crying Wolf land in Montana. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, had inspected this territory and found it to contain an almost unbelievable wealth of grass. Bidding went high at the auction, but King beat out Thorpe to gain control of the land. This was a heavy blow to Thorpe who needed the pasture for his herds.

Into their little cubicle flowed the sweet air of the open prairie sweep, inspiring with the fresh smell of the new grass.

She said, "Tell me about your new job."

"It isn't new."

"They said that you'd be the new boss of the Crying Wolf, if we got it," Jody said.

For more years than he could remember, he had been working to win this opportunity—the chance to take two years, or three, with such-and-such cattle, on such-and-such land, and show that he could pay out on market deliveries in pounds of beef. But now—a million horns and hoofs didn't seem to mean so much.

Something was here—something that wasn't any place else—not on the long trail, not in the wild terminal towns. He knew now he had to tell her that, and he dreaded it, because she probably would think it was funny. He wouldn't look at her as he spoke, because he didn't want to see her laughing at him.

"I don't know as I'm so much interested as I was," he said.

"Why, Billy—not interested in the Crying Wolf—nearly five hundred square miles of feeder land! What's come over you?"

"I guess maybe I'm tired of riding alone," Bill said.

"Alone? With all the outfit you'll have—I wouldn't call it alone."

"I would. Grass country is lonely country," he said now, "as lonely as the dry plains. You get to wondering what the everlasting cattle add up to, in the course of a life. Then some night you know you don't care what they add up to; and you think, 'Damn fat beef!'"

"Why, Billy—why, Billy—"

"None of it means a damn, without you're there," he told her. "Working cattle doesn't mean anything, because you'll always have all the cattle you need anyway; and no long trail means anything, without you're at the end of it. I'm sick of long drive-trails, empty of you at the end."

There was a long, motionless silence; he kept his eyes on the far sand hills as presently she leaned forward to look up into his face.

"You really mean it, don't you?" Jody said.

Jody's words came very faint, and a little breathless.

"Why didn't you say so before?"

He looked at her then, and she wasn't laughing. In her eyes was a new, grave light, such as he had never seen; a warm light, a beloved light, better than sunset to a weary day-rider who has worked leather since before dawn. Timorously, but very willingly, she came into his arms; and he held her as if she were not only a very precious but a very fragile thing. For a little while it seemed that one trail, a trail longer than the Long Trail itself, had come to its end.

"Can't believe," he said at last, his lips in her hair, "you're sure-enough mine."

"All yours—all, all!"

They had one hour, there in the prairie lookout tower, discovering each other, getting acquainted as if for the first time. The sun went down in a gorgeous welter of color.

Jody shivered a little. "I wish Dad and Dusty would come. Especially Dusty."

"Why?"

"He has so many enemies. Some of them are dangerous as diamond-backs. It worries me when he's due and doesn't get back."

"Dusty'll take care of himself," Bill Roper chuckled, and held her closer.

One half hour more . . .

Up from the town came a crazily ridden horse, splashing mud eaves-high under the urge of spur and quirt.

"He'll lame his pony if he goes down in that slick," Bill commented. "Now what do you suppose—"

The rider tried to pull up in front of the house, and the frantic pony swerved and slid, mouth wide open to the sky. Its shoulder crashed the fence, taking down a dozen feet of pickets. The rider tumbled off, ran up the steps to hammer on the door.

Roper went clattering down the stairs, pulled open the door. "Now listen, you—"

"Bill—Dusty—Mr. King—he—"

Bill Roper froze, and there was a long moment of paralyzed silence. "Spit it out, man!" Roper shouted at him.

"Bill—he's daid!"

"Who—who—"

"Dusty King's daid! Bill, they gunned him—they gunned him down!"

"Who did?"

"Tain't known. Mr. Gordon's there; he—"

Bill Roper walked out past the cowboy stiffly, like a man gone blind. Without knowing what he did he walked down to the gate, and stood gripping the pickets with his two hands.

CHAPTER II

An hour spent in the Wells Fargo office with the deputy commissioner, filling out forms, signing papers, ended as Dusty King and Bill Roper stood with Lew Gordon on the board walk. It was the first time the three had had a word alone since the Crying Wolf had passed into the hands of King-Gordon.

"Well," said Dusty King, "we got her."

"Maybe," Gordon said, "this is our chance. Maybe now we can get the cow business on a sound basis, here in the north, and have some order, and decent law."

"You'll never get a 'sound basis' until Ben Thorpe is bust," Dusty said. "What law enforcement we got in the West is rotten through and through with office holders that Thorpe owns."

"Some day," Gordon said slowly, "Ben Thorpe has got to go."

"Some day? Lew, we've got him beat!"

King's exuberant mood of victory was not to be dampened. "You want law and order?" he chortled. "We'll show 'em law and order!"

"That puts me in mind," said Gordon. "A feller passed me this here to give to you." He handed Dusty King a little twisted scrap of paper, torn off the corner of something else. Dusty untangled it, looked at it a moment, showed it to the others. Five words were penciled on it in sprawling black letters:

IN GOD'S NAME LOOK OUT

"Who's this from, Lew?"

Gordon's lips moved almost soundlessly. "Dry Camp Pierce."

Roper knew that name, without knowing what lengths of outlawry had brought Dry Camp Pierce to where he was today. Rewards backed by Ben Thorpe were on Dry Camp's scalp over half the West; probably it was as much as his life was worth to show himself in Ogallala now.

"This note—"

Dusty King tossed it off with a shrug. "Oh—I suppose Thorpe is getting drunk some place and spouting off about what all he's going to do to me when he catches up." Dusty's teeth showed in his infectious grin. "I suppose Dry Camp thought I ought to know about it."

"He's right Dusty," Lew Gordon said. "We do want to look out, all of us, all the time."

"We always had to look out," Dusty scoffed.

"It'll be the more so now. There isn't anything in the world Ben Thorpe's people will stop at, Dusty."

"Let 'em come on."

"We want to look out," Gordon said again.

"If you feel that way about it," said Dusty, "what was the idea of your working through that law we can't wear guns in town?"

Bill Roper said, "We could have brought it to an open shoot-out, five years ago—ten years ago. Better if we had."

Gordon shook his head. "Nothing ever gets fixed up with guns."

Dusty King pulled his hat a little more on one side so that he could wink at Bill Roper unobserved. But he said, "He's partly right, Bill. Ben Thorpe isn't just one man any more. Walk Lasham—Cleve Tanner—any one of a dozen others could step into his shoes. It's a whole rotten organization has to be busted up."

"Ben Thorpe down, and they'll quit," Bill Roper thought.

"Ben Thorpe down and it's only begun," Dusty countered. "Get it out of your head that you can fix anything up by downing Ben Thorpe. Not while this organization stands in one piece. Might be a good idea for you to remember that, Bill, in case anything happens."

"Dusty," Bill said, "if ever they get you, by God, I'll get Ben Thorpe if it's the last—"

"No," said Dusty. "You hear me? No. If they get me—you'll remember what I said. You remember you're fighting a thing, and a big one; not just one man." His face crinkled in that familiar, contagious grin. "Forget it! Dry Camp's spooky, that's all."

He hooked an arm through his partner's, and went swaggering off. Ten paces down the walk he stopped, turned, and came back. He leaned close to Roper. "If anything should happen, kid—remember what I said."

CHAPTER III

That Lew Gordon had a daughter was not so surprising as that he had only one. Single-minded, he clung all his life to the memory of the wife he had lost when their first child was born.

Jody Gordon was twenty now. She didn't exactly run Lew Gordon; nobody did that. But it was fairly apparent that his stubborn bid for supremacy in western cattle was intended in her behalf, and without her would have been meaningless to him.

Because Gordon hadn't wanted his girl filtering around through the press of Ben Thorpe's ruffians at the auction, getting his own boys into fights, Jody Gordon was waiting here for news of what had happened to the Crying Wolf. Bill Roper vaulted the foolish little picket gate, scuffed the mud off his boots on the high front steps, and let himself in. He sent a Comanche war gobbler ringing through the house, but Jody was already flying into the room.

"Did you get it? Did you get it?"

"All of it!"

Jody flung herself at him, and kissed him; so sweet, so vital, so completely feminine that he wanted to keep her close to him. But she broke away again as he tried to hold her.

"How much did it cost?"

"Seventy cents—gold."

Jody's breath caught. "Can we come out on it?"

"Sure we can come out on it. Not a cent less would've turned the trick. Dusty—"

Jody sat on a walnut table that had come all the way from St. Louis, and swung her feet. The story seemed to tickle her in more ways than one. "I can just see you all, she said, "standing around making an impression on each other."

He turned from the window, and she was laughing at him as he had thought, her mouth smothered with her fingers.

"Come here a minute," he said, going toward her.

She twisted from the edge of the table, as if to put it between them, but she was too late. His rope-hard fingers caught her wrist, and held her as easily as if he had dallied a calf to the horn.

"Listen," he begged her. "Listen—"

He caught her up, clamped an arm behind her head, and kissed her hard. Hard, and for a long time.

So long as she was rigid in his arms, fighting him, he held her; but when she stood limp, neither yielding nor resisting, his arms relaxed, and Jody tore herself free. She lashed out at him like a little mustang, striking him across the mouth. Her face was white, all that quick, irrefragable laughter gone, as for a moment she looked at him. A trickle of blood ran from Bill Roper's lips, and made a crooked mark on his chin. Then she turned and fled.

When she was gone Bill Roper stood still, sucking his cut lips. After a little while he went to the window, instinctively turning to open space for his answers.

He could remember Jody Gordon as a little tow-headed kid, before her hair had darkened into the elusive misty brown that it was now. Or as a coil-legged girl with scratches on her shins from riding bare-legged through the sage. Or as a peculiarly tempestuous, uncertain thing, neither child nor woman. But this latest phase he couldn't understand at all.

He picked up his hat, and for a little while stood turning it in his hands. Then he threw it in the corner, and went searching through the house.

Jody was in the hall of the four foolish towers. From tallest of you could see the town, and the slim, glittering line of the railroad, connecting these far plainmen with a world hungry for beef.

Jody said matter-of-factly, "We've got to have more loading pens, Bill."

Bill's face broke into a slow grin. Abruptly he laid hard hands on disused sashes, and broke them open.

But she broke away as he tried to hold her.

But she broke away as he tried to hold her.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 6:7, 8; 1 John 1:5-7
GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—1 John 1:9.

Sin is an appalling reality; hideous and horrible in itself, and bearing with it the gravest consequences both in this life and in the life to come. Man does not find it pleasant to face that fact, and so he makes light of sin and even may go so far as to deny its existence. Obviously such an expedient does nothing to solve the difficulty or to meet the gnawing distress of a heart facing and fearing the judgment of God.

Far better to meet the reality of it, admit its awfulness, and seek God's way of full deliverance. Sin, which came into the world when man listened to Satan and disobeyed God in the Garden of Eden, has gone on to mar and to mark all mankind. We note that

I. Sin Brings Corruption (Gal. 6:7, 8).

Seedtime is followed by harvest. This is the law of nature, the law of God. The farmer who sows wheat in the spring looked for wheat when the harvest time came. The same principle holds in the spiritual realm. Just as the one who sows to the Spirit reaps eternal life, the one who sows to the flesh reaps corruption, and death.

A life of self-indulgence (which is sowing to the flesh) brings moral decay. The weakened will yields to desire, and it "bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death" (James 1:14, 15). This death is spiritual, bringing separation from God, a loss of fellowship and communion with Him. Spiritual death as well as physical death came upon mankind through Adam's sin.

II. Sin Loves Darkness (1 John 1:5-7).

There is not a bit of darkness in God. He is light. When Jesus came into the world, He came as the Light of the World. But "men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved" (John 3:17-21).

The corollary of that truth is that a man who says he has fellowship with God, but continues to walk in darkness, brands himself a liar (v. 6). Compare Revelation 21:27-28 for what God thinks of liars.

The light still shines, and the one who is walking in darkness has only to step over into the light (v. 7) where he will find fellowship with all God's people and know the cleansing of the blood of the Son of God.

III. Sin Is an Undeniable Fact (1 John 1:8-10).

It seems impossible that a man who knows himself and knows the life he lives would ever deny sin, for it is one of the most evident of all facts. Yet men have denied it, or sought to explain it away, calling it error, or a "fall upward," or a step in man's development, or the evidence of man's self-consciousness and desire to learn.

There is no hope for a man as long as he assumes such an attitude, for he not only lies himself, but he makes God a liar. He denies the truth of God's Word about sin, makes meaningless or wicked God's dealings with sin, and reveals that God's Word is not in him. Those who make such statements declare that they do not belong to God and do not accept His Word. It is evident that they ought never to be permitted to teach such things in the church, or in the name of Christianity.

IV. Sin Calls for a Saviour (1 John 2:1-6).

Christ the propitiation, the mercy-seat covering for our sins, is the only Saviour. He paid the price, and made it possible for God to be just and at the same time a justifier of the ungodly. The sinner needs such a Saviour.

Sin in the life of the believer also calls for a Saviour, one who will cleanse us (1:9) and who will in His own blessed name plead our cause "if we sin." He is our Advocate (2:1), pleading His righteousness in our behalf when we do fall.

This does not mean that we may then become indifferent or careless about sin. If we say we know Him and do not keep His commandments, we lie about our professed relationship to Him. The mark of a true child is a spirit of obedience.

God's children prove their love to Him by keeping His commandments. Talking about our devotion to Him, giving our service for Him, or sacrificing for His cause mean nothing if we do not obey Him. We only pile evidence upon evidence of our untruthfulness by making claims and doing things which are negated by our disobedience.

Starting Up the Heater.

ANY kind of a heater should be thoroughly cleaned inside before starting it up in the fall. The inside flue passages should be scraped and gone over with a steel brush, of a kind made for the job. The smoke-pipe should be cleaned out, for it is only too likely to catch ashes and soot. All of this work can best be done with a vacuum cleaner, of a kind intended for the purpose; coal dealers can do the job, or can supply the names of concerns specializing in it. The chimney flue should also be cleaned as often as is necessary.

Doors of the heater should fit tightly; if rust has collected on them, this should be scraped off. Doors that are too greatly warped to make a tight fit should be replaced, for leakage of air around them will interfere with the draft. The smoke-pipe should make a tight fit in its hole in the chimney, which usually calls for a packing with asbestos or other fireproof cement. The same kind of cement can be used to close an open joint between the bottom of the heater and the floor.

If the water gauge of a steam boiler shows that the water is dirty, the boiler should be emptied and refilled to the proper level. If the water is clean, there is no need to replace it. This applies also to boilers of hot water heating systems.

Cold Extension

Question: A two-story brick extension is exposed and very cold in winter. The upper part is a kitchen. The dish closet is as cold as the refrigerator. We have hot air heat, but heated air does not come into the kitchen until the kitchen air is heated by the stove. What can you advise?

Answer: In the first place, you should have an outlet by which the cold air can escape from the room and get back to the heater. This would set up a circulation that would bring the hot air into the kitchen. For insulation, the kitchen walls can be lined with stiff insulating boards, which are one-half inch thick and would occupy but little space; the boards could be nailed directly to the plaster. Cork-board might also be used.

Construction in Winter

Question: I am interested in a corner house, one of a row of houses to be built during the winter and completed about May. I am told that houses built in winter are not as strong and do not stand up as well as those built in warm weather. Is this true?

Answer: The durability and quality of construction are entirely dependent on the reliability of the contractor and the care he uses in his building operations during freezing weather. Of course, construction during warm weather eliminates some of the hazards.

Kitchen Table Top

Question: I wish to finish a new wooden top on a kitchen table in a color, with a serviceable surface. If this cannot be done in color, what other method should I use?

Answer: A linseed oil treatment will be more satisfactory. Give the table a soaking coat of raw linseed oil. Wipe off the excess oil on the surface after an hour or so. After three applications the table top will be resistant to stains and will not be liable to warp.

Covering Insulation

Question: I have an unfinished attic which is about four feet high in the middle. There is no flooring in it, but I have four inches of insulation between the beams. Would it be advisable to cover this insulation with some sort of material such as a rigid insulating board, making a floor of same?

Answer: Insulating board is not hard enough for flooring; use plywood.

Clinkers.

Question: I am told that burning garbage in my furnace helps to form clinkers. Is this so?

Answer: Yes. Burning garbage and other rubbish in the furnace is one of the commonest causes for clinkering. Ash from the garbage prevents the even flow of air through all parts of the fire-bed; this concentrates the air in a few parts, which overheats the fuel to the melting point.

Burning Garbage

Question: Is it wise to burn waste paper and garbage in a furnace during the winter season?

Answer: No; for it will interfere with an even draft and is one of the common causes for the formation of clinkers.

Water Heating

Question: Is it possible to heat water in an oil-fired hot air furnace?

Answer: It is not very satisfactory. Use a separate unit for heating water.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington, D. C.

FARMER PRICE VICTORY
Louis J. Taber, National Grange president, and other farm leaders didn't come away empty-handed from their conference with the President on price control.

While he would not agree to their proposal that wages be included in the price control bill drafted by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Roosevelt did make one important concession. He said he would have no objection to a "parity averages formula" being put in the bill to limit the dumping of government-owned wheat and cotton when the prices of these commodities threaten to soar out of bounds.

Under this formula, to insure farmers an average parity price for the full crop year, restrictions would be placed on the amount of wheat and cotton that could be sold. Also, the dumping could not begin until prices reach certain above-parity levels, to be worked out by Henderson and the department of agriculture.

Taber and his colleagues had to do some fast talking to sell the President on this plan. At first he seemed in no mood to accept any changes in the bill and told his callers that if they had come to debate the question of controlling farm prices they were wasting their time.

"We have simply got to head off inflationary trends," the President declared grimly, "or face the worst depression the country has ever known after this emergency is over."

The farm leaders finally won him over to their plan with the assurance that they would not oppose Henderson's system of selective price controls, providing the parity gains won at this session were not lost.

Taber pointed out that though the prices of wheat and cotton are now only slightly below parity, and livestock above it, farmers get only 43 per cent of the consumer's dollar spent for farm products, as against 60 per cent in 1917, when defense production was geared to the peak it has reached today.

NEW LABOR HEADACHE

Washington Digest

Mentally Healthy Soldier Needed for Modern War

High Selection Standard Required in Supplying Army With Men Equipped to Meet Hazards of 'Blitz' Tactics.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

At a recent White House news conference the President was asked whether he thought there ought to be a lowering of the physical, mental and educational standards for admission to the army.

The question came up at the close of a long dissertation by Mr. Roosevelt on a report from the army which seemed to reveal a shocking state of the national health. It was based on figures which showed that nearly 50 per cent of the selectees rejected for service were ineligible because of deficiencies in these three categories. It did look as though Americans, as a people, were pretty sick.

The President's answer to the question of lowering the standards of admission was an emphatic negative. Very little attention was paid to this response at the time and the stories which went out over the air and the wires that day were chiefly concerned with the program for healing the physical ills of selectees at government expense.

But that part of the picture, as I learned when I talked with a prominent psychiatrist, is only half of it—or less.

Lowering the standards of mental requirements would, in case of war, mean a terrific psychopathic casualty list, the taxpayer would have a terrific bill to pay and the efficiency of the American fighting forces would be immeasurably impaired.

Record of Last War

Let's look at the record of the last war, when the mental hazards were only a fraction of what they are today with a thousand machines harnessed for destruction.

Briefly, the story is this:

The government of the taxpayer has paid out nearly a billion dollars for the benefit and care of mental cases among veterans of the last war.

This sum represents 20 per cent of all benefits paid to veterans and their dependents.

There are 92,231 such mental cases and a third of all veterans confined to hospitals are mental cases. It is true that some 21,000 of these men cannot prove that their plight is traceable to their military service, but they are on Uncle Sam's expense list just the same, and they would not be if they had been kept out of the army in the first place.

Of course, all of these 9,000 mental cases could not have been spotted by the draft boards in 1917 and 1918. Not all cases of mental weakness or potential weakness can be spotted now. But the army now has a wealth of experience on the subject and the Veterans Administration is co-operating with many local boards in this effort. Twenty years study has made these government doctors expert in discovering hidden weaknesses in the human mind. Some of the nation's greatest psychiatrists have offered their services to the army.

Today, of course, there are many reasons why mental qualifications count more than in the last war. In the first place, modern warfare requires greater self-discipline on the part of the individual.

Special Training Needed

In the old army the squad, composed of seven or eight men, was a unit. The squad has now been abolished. Modern ordnance—small and heavy arms—is much more complicated. Each man must be specially trained for a special task and frequently the responsibility formerly relegated to a group, falls on the individual.

Greater skill to operate modern arms and equipment is necessary. Also, the devastating effect of mechanization creates a greater mental strain. An example of this is the terrifying effect of the noise of dive bombers. When the French troops first heard the stukas they threw down their arms and fell flat on the earth.

As Dr. Martin Cooley, consultant of the Veterans Bureau in Washington puts it: "When one considers how the warfare of today has stepped up in intensity and tempo with the stuka divers, the panzer divisions, the elements of deadly surprise and audacity and the dropping of bombs of high explosives weighing as much as a ton, it becomes evident that combat troops will have an immense strain on their morale, and it must be expected that a man with unstable nervous system or a flaw of character will crack under the strain."

In the last war an effort was made to weed out the men, who, from their medical histories or as a result of examinations, were considered unable to stand up under the strain of service. Strangely enough, it was the medical officers rather than the line officers who were inclined to be lenient in accepting questionable cases, and the medical department of the army records that 8,640 cases of record were discovered and the men retained in the army against the advice of the neuro-psychiatric officers.

Many of these men broke down when they reached camp before they heard a gun fired. With this record staring them in the face, it is no wonder that responsible war department officials are anxious that there be no let-down in the standards for admission to military service.

Pan American Child Congress

War and politics are no respecters of children. Bombs and shells spare neither nursery nor school. And politics, frequently, like the bad Samaritan, goes by on the other side, even in peace-time.

The Pan-American Child Congress, whose purpose is to build sturdier, happier, wiser future citizens of the Americas, was established in 1919. Plans are now under way for its first meeting since 1935 which is to be held next spring in Washington.

Four times during the last six years, the meeting of the congress has had to be postponed. The first came in 1938 when Nicaragua found that it could not go ahead with plans for being host to the conclave. Then, when the delegates were all ready to take the boat the next year for Costa Rica, where the postponed congress was to meet, it was cancelled again, indirectly because of war. The real reason for this last postponement, perhaps, was indicated in a headline in a San Jose, Costa Rica, newspaper, which read: "Is this a Pan American-German Congress?" Germany had announced that it would send exhibits and take part in the meeting and presumably Nazi influence in Costa Rica was strong enough to make it unwise for the local government to protest. In any case, the meeting was again cancelled.

On Gray Days—Meditation, Repose

The other day I sat on a bale of straw in a stable with the measured crunch and stamp of horses around me, waiting for the rain to stop. I watched the slanting drops with mixed desires. The earth was so thirsty for these few drops that it seemed more than selfish to hope the watery benediction would cease.

At last a rooster crowed and the rain thinned to a mist. The whole countryside seemed to look up in damp gratitude for its short cup of pleasure. There was life and movement everywhere. The dog dug in the softened dirt for no particular reason. When I passed he looked up at me with mud on his whiskers and a foolish, happy grin on his face. Chickens energetically pulled at worms that they hadn't seen for weeks and then, suddenly, there was a bright flash of color before me. Eight bluebirds appearing out of the air like a bright light suddenly turned and alighted on the top rail of the fence.

Back in the city, skies were still gray, but the same muted feeling of relief that I had felt in the country spread along the streets.

There is always to me a beauty in gray days. I feel as though I had stepped from a garish world into a quiet cloister—I hear sandalled feet on cool stone, the light, subdued, comes through stained glass windows. It is time for meditation and repose.

Rep. John W. Gwynne of Iowa has a plan whereby automobile license plates would be good for a five-year period in order to conserve steel for national defense. The congressman estimates that adoption of such a plan would save 550 tons of steel annually in Iowa alone and would also save the taxpayers of that state $44,060 each year.

New Fall Clothes Are Pretty But They Are Also Practical

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU are enrolled at college, if you are a debutante, if you are a full-fledged socialite, or if you are a career girl, you will be going places this fall and winter, and that means pretty clothes and many of 'em.

The "trick" is to assemble a wardrobe of costumes that have the style-correctness and indefinable charm that will make you the reigning glamour girl in the smartly alert stadium group, at the college "prom," at afternoon tea or bridge.

Wherever smart crowds parade into the stadium this fall you will find fragrant fresh flowers posed romantically on muffs and cuffs as well as on coat collars and revers, and on canes, if you please. Here's hoping your far-away soldier, or a dotting parent at home will be wiring you one of the newest style corsages to wear to that football game.

If you are seeking ways to allot your clothes allowance wisely, we would suggest the purchase of a youthful-looking kidskin jacket such as that worn by the cheer-enthusiast seated to the left in the group. A flattering gray or beige fur like this will "go with everything," your sports frocks, your dresses for town wear and travel, or your new "date" dress.

It's simply perfect to wear to football games. As a background for a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums such as the girl pictured is wearing gray kidskin is the ideal answer. For an apropos ensemble, the streamers must carry out the college colors. Coach your florist beforehand to attach your college letter right in the heart of the flower as though it had grown there. The stunning hat that completes this costume is black with the new curtain drape that conceals the hair at the back in a soft line. The hunter's green frock of sheer wool, with tailored lines and nipped-in waist, as shown above to the right, is a smart choice to wear to the game and the tea dance afterward. A corsage of roses is matched to the rose petaled crown of the saucy pillbox hat. It is the very latest fashion to wear your flowers at the belt line, after the manner pictured.

One of the necessary luxuries of a debutante or fair college girl is a simple classic gown fashioned of a delectable pastel woolen. The styling of the pastel frock above to the left in the group is particularly attractive. There is restrained fullness at the front of the skirt. The bodice is beautifully detailed, with the new and popular slenderizing midriff effect. Pompadour hat and long suede gloves complete this charming "date" dress. Evidently, according to this picture, "he" wired "her" one of the extremely popular patriotic corsages of red roses, blue cornflowers and white carnation petals.

The fall and winter social whirl makes it almost imperative that every girl who goes places own a black velvet "date" dress. Black velvet is equal to any occasion. Below, to the right, you see a glamour dress on a glamour girl. The square-cut neck is extremely flattering. A stunning bracelet, a jeweled brooch, the new long gloves, a towering turban draped of cerise velvet done in the milliner's happiest manner, and an exotic corsage of rubrum lilies dramatize this "portrait of a lady" to the 'nth degree.

New Fall Bags

Long and narrow, beautifully appointed with the "last word" in contrivances to make life easier by safeguarding your valuables, and taking care of your "hanky," your lipstick and other make-up essentials, the new bags are everything you want them to be in convenience as well as esthetic appearance. An oriental influence is reflected in the initials which take a distinctly Chinese slant on the bag shown at the top. Bracelet, earclips, and twin lapel bowknot pins matching metal add a cosmopolitan touch. The new black suede bag shown below has a pocket and smart tucked detail.

Wear a Collection Of Pins and Clips

If you wear your fancy jewelry clips and pins as fashion dictates you will look like a military heroine displaying a collection of honor medals. The latest is to wear, not merely a single clip or pin but a whole bevy of them. It works somewhat like the charm bracelet idea. You collect versatile clips and display them on your blouse or lapel. You can get twin clips, triplet, quadruplet and even quintuplet groups. This is especially so in regard to butterfly motifs. A flock of jeweled wings is often seen fluttering on the new costumes. Some of the clip sets have, say, three units which are held in leash with delicate link chains. Makes a stunning effect.

Enormous glittering flower sprays will be worn on fur coats this winter, or will be worn with the simple basic dark dress to take the place of trimming or other ornamentation. The return of long necklaces is also important jewelry news.

Luxurious Fabrics May Soon Be Harder to Buy

Fabrics used in the fall collections almost overawe one with their elegance. Some merchants say this is the grand climax before we settle down to utilitarian weaves, and that lavish silks will be less and less available. However, the present handsome silks are setting the pace for rayon weaves produced in our own country that will reproduce handsome failles, satins, brocades, and so on. Stiff silk weaves such as failles, taffetas, tie silks, lustrous, firm satins, and rich velvets are linked this season to the new slim silhouettes and are also being made up in stunning costume and evening blouses.

THIS matter of expecting even the stronger football teams to win all of their games or most of their games is a point all of joint—if a point can have a joint. Even the Yankees and Dodgers, good enough to carry off a pair of pennants, won only two-thirds of their starts, and football should be judged in much the same manner.

There are too many strong teams in the field today for old grads to keep expecting one victory after another. Many have now even reached the point of tossing out teams that happen to have lost a single game.

On this basis where would the Dodgers have been last spring when even the Giants beat them three straight to open the season? As Bob Zupke once said, "Out in that Big Ten I can lose every game and still look good." And that might be true.

Accidents, tough breaks, injuries and other details can often make a difference of two or three touchdowns in a game. The psychological setup has wide ranges.

The main answer is that any team playing a first-class schedule can look back on a good season if it can win a majority of its starts. Last season, for example, Minnesota won every game—yet Minnesota had the closest possible calls against Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio State, with whom just a slender flop in luck the other way might have brought the gallant Gophers three setbacks.

That's the way football is. One or two breaks, especially in the passing game, can raise an abnormal amount of old-fashioned Cain. It has been that way every season, and this should be no exception.

The 'Next Year' Job

Messrs. MacPhail and Durocher of Brooklyn's Dodgers are not thinking at the moment of any revenge on the Yankees next fall. Their first move will be to stall off the Cardinal charge.

Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey both believe that said Cardinals will be much harder to hold in check next spring and summer with so many crack young pitchers on hand. Against this Wyatt, Davis and Fitzsimmons of the Dodgers have a combined total of 107 years—or 108 years by 1942.

"You might also add that we can't be expected to have another such run of terrible luck," Rickey said. "That will make a terrific difference."

The 1941 World series is now back with the dust-gathering archives, but they are still talking about Joe Gordon, the Oregon Flash.

Gordon did something more than bat .500 in the series and reach first 14 times in five games. He killed infield drives that would have whistled safely through Dodger defenses, and this makes a major difference to any pitcher.

The Yankees slipped at least four hits to the right of second that Gordon would have been waiting for—or at least would have handled without breaking his neck.

The Yankee star is remarkably quick starting in either direction, and he is even quicker with his hands. As a freshman at Oregon he was the most promising-looking young football player the West coast had seen in years, but abandoned the gridiron for a diamond career. Joe McCarthy wants none of his athletes playing football.

Gordon has less tension on big days than any other ball player in the game. There is no situation that can tighten him up. And the game can't show you a finer sportsman.

A Call for Help

"Now that the World series is over," writes a fan, "how about helping out a few of us duffers? Some time back you wrote something about 'live hands' in golf. How do you get live hands?"

Dead hands and dead wrists are usually the result of leg and body tension. This tension tightens up both hands and wrists, and leaves nothing left but a shoulder or a body lunge.

Special Meeting Called

Due to the fact that inclement weather cancelled the regular meeting of the Parmer county home demonstration council, slated for last Saturday, Miss Elsie Cunningham, agent, has announced a special call meeting at the Blackwell Hardware, in Friona, on November 1st, at 2:30, and urges all members be on hand to elect new officers for the year.

Deer Hunters Plan To Leave Thursday

At least three parties of local nimrods were making fervent preparations to leave here early Thursday morning for the wilds of New Mexico, in hope of making connection with the lawful quota of one buck deer per hunter, during the open season.

The season will open at sun-up on the morning of Nov. 1st and the local hunters plan to be "all set" at the crack of dawn. All plan to return home by the latter part of next week.

Making up the largest party will be G. D. Anderson, Aubrey Brock, John Aloridge, Bert Shackelford, Carl McGuire, Alex Bateman, Bill Davis, the latter two from Hereford. Bill Sherley and Reagan Looney had planned to be included in the party of hunters, but announced Monday that it would be impossible for them to get away.

These hunters will pitch camp in the Luna section, near the Arizona line on the western edge of N. Mexico.

Another party of six hunters will journey to the Black Range, southwest of Magdalena, to try their luck. They are: Arch Green, Grady Pierce, Paul Barnes, Lester Norton, Jack White and Claude Thomas.

A third party, composed of four would-be deer slayers, will try their luck in the Quemado area. Those making up this party will be Wesley Osborne, LeRoy Faville, Loyd Cain (maybe) and Curtis McCullough of Portales.

Last Quarter Rout Defeats Farwell Team

A final-period scoring spree, during which Amherst ran up four touchdowns in rapid succession, put the hapless Farwell Steers deeper into the shrouds of the cellar ranking, Friday, when the locals tumbled to their hosts by a 33-0 tally.

Handicapped in more ways than one—particularly in the weight division—Farwell nevertheless turned in the best game of the year and held Amherst to 6-0 until the end of the third quarter, when Brand, quarterback and spark of the team, left the game with a broken collar bone and cracked shoulder blade.

The game was exceedingly sloppy throughout, on the part of both teams, due principally to the fact that the field was, for the most part, covered with mud and pools of water.

Stealing the show was Lynn Smith, freshman who played at right guard with such ability that Coach Jeff Hooper has definitely designated him as a "first-string man" for the remainder of the season.

Brand carried the weight of the backfield, until removed from the game, being assisted by Dycus, Billingsley and Acker. Gast, at left tackle, showed improvement over former games, as did the rest of the team.

Phillips and Hilton, Amherst left end and back, did all the scoring for the Bulldogs, with Phillips accounting for four tallies, while his teammate went into the end zone once during the fray.

Demonstration Ladies Plan Achievement Day

November 15th will be official "Achievement Day" for county home demonstration women of Parmer. Miss Elsie Cunningham, agent, said today, with a special program to be held in the high school auditorium in Bovina.

Each club is to prepare a booth, showing work accomplished during the year by various members, taking up the two featured demonstrations of the year: "Clothing" and "Foods".

A style show will be one feature of the day, with the ladies modeling their own handwork, while the Oklahoma Lane club will present a special number, showing foods in the everyday diet which are vital to national health, Miss Cunningham said.

Mary D. Christian and Oleta Thompson, Oklahoma Lane senior 4-H girls, have also been asked to present an exhibit of clothes which they have made during the year.

The program will begin at 2:15 and last approximately 2 hours, following which the Bovina ladies will act as hostesses at a tea.

FSA Borrowers To Assemble In Friona

A meeting of Farm Security Administration borrowers is to be held in the Friona school building at 8:30 p. m., Thursday, October 30, Frank Seale, county RR supervisor, announced today.

The purpose of this meeting, Mr. Seale said, is to better acquaint FSA borrowers with the ways in which the FSA can assist them in carrying out their part of the "Food For Freedom" program in Parmer county.

All of the farmers in Parmer county, Seale stated, will be called upon within the near future to make a definite commitment on their farm plan with the AAA program for 1942 as to the kind and quantity of defense products that they anticipate producing during the calendar year 1942. The Department of Agriculture has announced that the demand for certain food products will be much larger than normal during the coming year. Goals have been set to establish the following increase in production: (1) an increase of an average of one quart of milk per day per cow; (2) an increase of one dozen eggs per hen per year; (3) an increase in pork production by saving at least one pig more per litter; (4) an increase in the production and preservation of gardens and fruits by at least fifty percent.

To cooperate to the fullest extent in this "Foods For Freedom" campaign, Seale said, all farm families must plan to increase their livestock products over and above the present planned program in order that lack of food will not handicap the defense program.

Seale added that all Farm Security Administration borrowers and

Texico Players Gird For Softball Tourney

Strenuous practice was the order of the day on the Texico softball court the first of this week, with boys and girls priming for the Curry county softball tournament, which will be held at Grady on Friday.

The girls open hostilities with a clash against the Ranchvale team, which they previously defeated, 17-3, and Coach A. D. McDonald was of the opinion that the girls "should win handsily, unless something unforeseen happens".

Grady is the first opponent for the local boys, to which they bowed 6-3 in the season, and are therefore looking toward revenge at the tourney meeting. According to the bracket, this should be one of the most closely contested games of the day, since the two squads are rated about equal.

The local girls show a total of three losses and four wins during the season, while the boys have lost four games and won five.

A trophy for the champion team of each division is being offered at the tournament.

Who Will Fill The Next Draft Quota?

Who will fill the next draft quota? That is the question that members of the Parmer County Selective Service Board are pondering this week as the time draws near for the induction of three men, on Nov. 18.

Applications for deferments have been filed by two men in line for induction, Mrs. Bessie Lee Henneman, clerk, revealed today, and action on these deferment applications will be taken when the local board is in session, Friday night of this week.

"The way things are now," a member of the local board said today, "it looks like Clark Walling, Hugh L. (Buster) Crume, and Robert Hines McFarland will be the inductees on Nov. 18". This board member went on to add, however, that deferments might affect William Thornton, John Austin Graham and Wayne Wilson Burford.

Plan To Volunteer

At least four of the above-named men have indicated that they plan to volunteer through a recruiting station into a branch of service of their choice. Should this be done before they are ordered up for induction, next men with higher order numbers will be called.

Draft board officials explained again today that after a selectee has been given an order to report for induction it is too late to volunteer.

Cade Returned To Face Pampa Charges

A. E. Cade, 63 years old, who has been hospitalized in Clovis since the morning of Sept. 2, has been returned to Pampa, where he presumably will face murder charges.

Cade was found in the Santa Fe passenger station on the morning of Sept. 2 with a self-inflicted bullet hole in his head. Investigation revealed that he was probably the slayer of Constable Bill Cumberland at LeFors, on Sept. 1, and he will likely face that charge at Pampa.
