Three Requirements For AAA Payments

To earn his full AAA payments in 1942, a Parmer county farmer must do three things.

First, he must devote at least 20 percent of his land to soil-conserving crops or land uses exclusively thruout the program year. Second, he must plant within his acreage allotments. Third, he must earn his soilbuilding allowance.

These three points were emphasized by Keltz Garrison, secretary of the Parmer county ACA, this week. A farmer falling below the 20 percent minimum requirement will earn only a proportionate part of his cotton and wheat payments. The soil-building allowance may be earned, as in previous years, by carrying out approved soil-building practices, the AAA official explained. Payments for planting within alotments include cotton at 1.25 cents per pound; wheat, 10.5c per bushel.

Crops meeting soil-conserving classification include sudan, millet and annual ryegrass for pasture; seeded cover crops of which a good growth is left on the land; summerfallowed acreage protected from wind and water erosion and planting forest trees.

Land uses include approved terraces constructed on idle cropland, and Lady Buried Sunday millet cut green for hay, provided a sweet sorghums, oats, rye, sudan or strip one rod wide is left standing Funeral services for Mrs. Martha between each five-rod strip harvest-

Man Dies Monday

Willard P. Bewley, 31, known as one of the most model young farmers of the Lazbuddy community, died in the Clovis Memorial hospital, Monday, from injuries received while operating a binder on his farm two weeks ago.

Funeral services were held at Lazbuddy, Tuesday afternoon, and burial was made there under the direction of the Steed Mortuary of Clovis.

Bewley was cutting feed at his farm with a binder, when he received the injury that resulted in his death. In an attempt to remove clogged bundles from the binder while it was in operation, his left band was pierced with the large needle of the machine. Workmen labored for several minutes before they could extricate the injured man from the machine.

Blood poisoning developed shortly after he had been removed to the hospital. and he lingered several days before passing away.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Bewley; three children, Willie Mae, Doris Irene and Donald Wayne; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bewley of Fowler, Colo.; and these brothers and sisters, Mrs. Ruby Steinbock and Mrs. Evelyn Steinbock, both of Lazbuddy; Mrs. Hazel Kersey of Clovis; Albert Bewley of Sherwood, Oregon; and J. C. INSTALLMENT 6 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches which stretched from Texas to Montana. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, undertook to break Thorpe's power. His CHAPTER VIII—Continued Presently it began to appear that the tough, notoriously trouble-making outfits under Cleve Tanner were not holding together as they always were beginning to desert the Tanner outfits - sometimes fired because they had failed, sometimes voluntarily deserting to the ranks of the raiders who were now almost openly punishing the Thorpe-Tanner holdings.

Mid-August, in the season of driest heat-

Into the Potreros, by a little used trail, a black-sombreroed horseman rode. He was a tested gunman, a and feared half the length of the Great Trail. Trouble-shooting for Cleve Tanner now, he was moving into the Potreros to find out what had gone wrong with some of Tanner's choicest herds. He had come fast, changing horses frequently, riding far into the night.

Loping down the almost invisible trail through the dark, his horse suddenly dropped from under him, head long into nothingness. The pony might have stepped into a prairie dog hole-or it could have been the loop of a rope. But as the dazed rider struggled up, his mouth full of dirt, a rifle was proddir his belly, and a voice was sayin "Don't you think you might have took the wrong way? : . .

West Texus, far up the lonely Pecos-One of Cleve Tanner's outfit bosses was talking to the Ranger stationed at Mustang Point.

"Such a damn' outbust of lawlessness has cut loose here as I never seen before," he said.

The ranger here was Val McDonald. He had gone out nineteen times in battle, sometimes against Mexicans, sometimes against the Comanches, and he had hunted white renegades galore. "Awfully tough," he said in his

The foreman of the outfit that was busted up was fit to be tied. "I tell you, we're being stolen blind," he raved. "Not just a calf here and there, either-they take 'em in swoops and bunches. It's the boldest thing I've ever seen. Even when there's no chance of getting clear with any cattle, they're game to stampede a cut herd that it's took weeks to round up, and scatter it from hell to-"

"This is one of Ben Thorpe's outfits? No?"

"Does that mean-"

"Well? How many times has Cleve Tanner passed out the word, 'The Rangers be damned?' He's put more obstructions in the way of things we was trying to do than any other one man. Who was it had the legislature cut down our pay until we practically ride for nothing, and furnish all our own stuff?"

"The question here is whether we're going to have any law, or are we going to have-"

"From what I heard," McDonald said, "Cleve Tanner has left it be known that he's the biggest end of the law himself. Go talk to Cleve Tanner if you want law."

"My understanding is," the foreman argued, "that the Rangers are supposed to-'

"I'll move out and straighten up your little old range," McDonald said. "I'll be glad to. Just as soon as I get orders from headquarters. I'm waiting for them right orders

But the weeks rolled by, and headquarters was curiously still - . .

End of summer; a welcome end-

Cleve Tanner himself, the Cleve Tanner who represented Ben Thorpe in the south, master of breeding grounds, the man who controlled the roots of all Ben Thorpe's plains organization, was talking to the United States Marshal at San Antonio.

"There hasn't been such a wave of outlawry since the horse Indians was put down. Damnation, man! It's set us back ten years . . . know what your policy has been.

Your idea is to let us fight it out for ourselves, against Mexico, against the Indians, against all hell. But I tell you, this thing comes from inside; this thing might be something that I couldn't beat without help."

The United States Marshal at San Antonio smiled to himself a little smile; and he said, "Seems like this must be a terrible bad thing for you, Cleve?"

CHAPTER IX

With the fall, Lew Gordon, now in sole charge of the far-scattered cattle holdings he had shared with had before. Here and there men Dusty King, came to Texas to inspect the southern holdings of King-Gordon-the breeding ranges from which all the King-Gordon holdings drew their essential sustenance.

Reports kept coming to Bill Roper at his constantly shifting bases by way of the many riders who kept him in touch with his far-spread wild bunch. Inevitably he knew that Jody was at the headquarters of the old Two-Circle, not far from Uvalde. The Two-Circle had been the original Gordon stand; from this camp proved man whose name was known | had been driven the first trail herd that Dusty King had pushed north. The Reds with Johnny Vander Meer and Elmer Riddle on hand to help out their pitching veterans will be a better club next spring if Bill McKechnie can plug one or two gaps. Bill is lucky these gaps are not in his pitching department, the toughest canyon to fill up.

Having located a large part of his control, Vander Meer is likely to be one of the great pitchers of 1942. So is Riddle.

But at this point American league clubs can see no light rays of any consequence. Seven of them are looking into holes as deep and as dark as the mouth of a railroad tunnel.

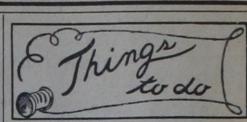

The Red Sox still haven't the pitching or the defensive speed to close up that big gap between themselves and the Yankees. The Red Sox still lack the infield groundcovering speed needed to help any pitcher along. The Yankee infield has killed off many a rap starting for a base hit that Red Sox infielders couldn't have handled.

Lingering Shadows

When a person casts a shadow on a pool of crude oil on a sunny day in a tropical country, the shadow appears to remain for as long as 10 seconds after he has moved away. The explanation is that the shadow causes the oil to cool slightly, thereby decreasing the number of rising bubbles and darkening the surface.

America's favorite cigarette gift package is now making its appearance in the windows and on the counters of local dealers. It is the famous carton of Camel Cigarettes, all dressed up in gay, colorful, Christmas wrapper-complete and ready to give even to the gift card printed on the wrapper. Camels also are featured in an attractive gift of four "flat fifties"— 200 cigarettes — packaged in a snow-covered Christmas house. HINTS ON MEAT BROILING

COLLEGE STATION—The secret of successful meat broiling lies in moderate temperatures, says Hazel Phipps, specialist in food preparation for the A. & M. College Extension Service.

Then, too, the meat itself has a lot to do with that thick, tender, juicy perfection in meat. For broiling, steaks and chops cut at least an inch and one-half or more from the loin and rib sections of beef and lamb are test. The meat should have plenty of fat, some of it distributed in marbling through the lean. If less tender cuts are broiled they should be ground with suet.

Here is the method Miss Phipps recommends: "Preheat the oven, setting the control at 500 degrees F. and allow 10 minutes for heating. Cut down temperature to 350 degrees F Prepare the steak, cutting through the fat and connective tissue on the outside edges about every inch. Oil the broiler rack and place the meat on it. Adjust the height of the broiler so that the upper surface o' the meat is three inches from the source of heat.

"Keep the oven door closed when broiling at this low contact heat. Cook the meat without turning for slightly more than half the time. Then turn and broil the other side Season and serve on a hot platter.

A one inch beefsteak would require about 30 to 40 minutes to broil at 300 to 350 degrees F. to the medium-tures (300 to 350 degrees F.) are more tender. The low temperature gives a more uniformly cooked product and keeps the steak more juicy.

Wear a Scarf or Shawl

Over Your Formal Gown

As an avenue for expression in romance and feminine allure, there is no accessory that surpasses the witchery of a picturesque scarf or dainty shawl. That is, perhaps, the reason for the preference this season for flattering scarf or lacy shawl instead of a bolero or jacket to wear with evening clothes. This new acceptance of evening shoulder covering is further noted in the capelet shawls of self fabric, or long tulle scarfs matched to the dress. The vogue also accounts for the appearance of ostrich neck ruffs in the formal evening picture.

Herald New Silhouette

In the very newest sophisticated dresses something happens to hemlines that give skirts an entirely new aspect. That "something" is that hemlines are made to plunge down in the back achieving a most graceful, pleasing new silhouette. For the most part the new "lines" are seen in slim black dresses for smart afternoon wear, and in narrow, seductive evening skirts. In the formal skirts the narrowness is relieved by a slit at the side that reveals your beautiful evening slip-

First, Canada tried a piece-meal method, similar in some respects to Mr. Henderson's ideas. Then, inasmuch as this did not work satisfactorily, "ceilings" on both prices and wages were written into a new plan which more nearly resembles that supported by Mr. Baruch's fol-

Details of Britain's price control policy were recently reported by officials here and they reveal some interesting theories of particular interest now. This policy may explain why it is being said that some people in Washington believe "a little inflation is a good thing," in spite of the dire warnings as to what will happen if price rises are not checked immediately.

British 'Bidding' System

hand-in-hand with a maximum war effort in a democracy. They say frankly, "You have to bid for a maximum war effort." In other words, you have to permit the workman to get bigger wages, you have to give the farmer higher prices, you have to offer industry a bigger profit, if you expect a maximum effort in the machine shop, in the field and orchard, behind the desk. The inebriated one shrugged his Therefore, you have to follow a certain amount of elasticity in prices and wages and that means a certain amount of inflation.

Equally frankly the British have evolved this maxim: Building morale is just as important as checking inflation. You can give the workman certain social advantages to improve his morale, you can remove some of the business man's restrictions—but you must also bid for their services with something more material-money.

When full war production is fully achieved, when every human unit and every piece of material which is not actually needed for the minimum non-defense production is at last being utilized in the war effort, then prices can be frozen, the British believe, and not before.

It is perhaps this philosophy which some of the administration leaders have borrowed and which eventually will be adopted by congress-if it is not too late by the time congress makes up its mind to act.

'Farm Bloc' And Inflation

In the next few weeks you are going to hear some unpleasant things about the farmer. He is going to be blamed, whether justly or not, for encouraging inflation by refusing to allow farm prices to be curbed sufficiently to hold off inflation. In this connection you are going to hear the term "farm bloc" applied to al lthe interests working rightly or wrongly for the farmer. This inclusive use of the phrase is incorrect. A bloc, according to the dictionary, is:

"Bloc, (French, bloc or lump) 1. Politics (a) in European countries, especially in France and Italy (this was before Mussolini and Petain, of course) a combination of two or more groups or parties willing to make common cause for some definite object. (b) In the United States, a combination of members of different parties for a similar purpose, especially in congress; as the WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, | formed in 1921 by members from agricultural states, to secure agricultural legislation, irrespective of party lines."

By the definition, a bloc is composed of members of congress, but many people when they use the word include the farm organizations which maintain their offices in Washington. The Grange, the Farm Bureau Federation and the Farmers Union. Like the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Congress of Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor, the agricultural organizations are pressure groups-lobbies, if you will.

'Bloc' and Politics

There is a reason why the bloc can, and sometimes is, more likely to be an evil force than the organization. The bloc composed of politicians who must have votes at the next election try to out-promise their political opponents. Therefore, they will promise to vote for special legislation and even vote for it as it is brought up. But sometimes their real purpose is not to get a certain law passed but rather to promise it and work for it until they themselves are elected.

The need for the farm organizations did not appear at the beginning of the nation. When representation in congress was established on a geographical basis this was an agricultural nation. Each farm was a unit which to a large extent represented a cross-section of the nation's economic activity and inter-

Then conditions changed, cities and industrial centers grew up whose problems were entirely different from the economic interests of the farmer. At first the result The slightly inebriated young man The British, it seems, have come was rebellion-small revolts but sigforce to obtain recognition of the rights of special groups. Finally, the farm organizations came into being. At first their chief objective was to obtain public school and agricultural education.

This movement was the beginning of the department of agriculture, the land grant colleges, the state agricultural institutions. Gradually, these organizations began to give more and more time to promoting the farmer's interests by obtaining state and federal legislation for his

Of course, some of the methods of these groups can be anti-democratic. We frequently hear more about them than about the honest effort, and sometimes not until much harm has been done. That is why Secretary Wickard says that "each group must operate tolerantly, and above all openly and frankly, not through stealth and concealment."

Carrying the Mail!

A navy mail clerk on a trip to the local post office to pick up mail for officers and men serving on his station. It is in this manner that officers and men on shore obtain mail from their families, sweethearts and friends, as well as from official sources. The crossed quills and three stripes on the rating badge above this sailor's elbou indicate that he is a Yeoman, first class, while the service stripes near the wrist in agricultural or farm bloc, a bloc dicate that he has served four "hitches" or in the United States congress a total of over 16 years in the navy.

Uncle Ton Randol just cant' adjust himself to the transition through which he has passed in the last few years. Puffing at his corncob, he remin'sted in a local grocery store Monday thusly: "It used to be that I never bought less than 500 pounds fiour-enough to last through the winter. And I never thought of buying sryup in less than case lotsenough to last the family six weeks. Now, I come to town every week and take out a few paper bags of grub ... just enough to last me and the old woman from one week to another."

About the most unhappy man we have found in our rounds recently was Wm. Moss, who, with the mercury standing below freezing, complained that his boots, wool sox and feather-bed were all in Oklahoma.

"Guess it's a good thing that the Hoopers had twin girls," the printer's devil remarked. "If it had been boys they might have named them 'Mutt and Jeff'-one for Father Jeff!"

Gloating over the prospect of ainner time, Dick Bobst 'remarked, Boy, eating is my favorite sport." Looking over his over-6-foot frame, covered scantily with about 100 lbs. of meat, a bystander remarked acidly, "Looks to me like you're just wasting your time".

Strike Situation and Japanese Crisis Prove Washington's Toughest Problems; Winter Closes In on Eastern Front As Russia Reports Taking Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

STRIKES:

At Showdown

Congressional passage of the Neutrality act changes was a victory for the administration in that President Roosevelt stood his ground on his labor position, declining to meet a growing demand for legislation outlawing strikes, and laws setting a ceiling on wages.

Yet the narrow margin in the house (20 votes) also was considered a severe rebuke to the President for his attitude, and there were signs in the press and in congress that legislators and editors were getting ready to kick over the traces.

Crucial situations had faced the President both over the strikes in captive coal mines owned by steel companies, largely occupied in defense work, and in the threatened railroad strike.

There had been little evidence that the White House was getting anywhere in either struggle, though the President had made manful efforts to dissuade John L. Lewis and his U.M.W. from going overboard.

It was this situation more than any other which had caused the defection of many administration sup-

The "closed shop" issue in the mine strike, never very popular in circles not closely allied with labor unions, caused the outburst of antistrike feeling to be particularly

RUSSIANS:

On Warpath

Long on the defensive, and having lost many thousands of square miles of territory, Russia had assumed the offensive all along the vast front. Moscow was reporting considerable success against the Nazis, and resuffering from frostbite, that they were exhausted and discouraged, but admitted that back of the front there were evidences that another offensive was being formed.

Those who believed Hitler would order any withdrawal because of the weather were having to revise against the Germans was meeting lost. with the same rugged resistance the Reds themselves had offered against the Nazis.

Successes were reported in the far north, where Kuibyshev dispatches declared 20 German transports had been sunk in what was to have been a major invasion attempt in the Murmansk sector.

Also 2,500 Italians had been reported "eliminated" in the Crimean sector, and victories also were claimed by Russia in the Donets

The Finns were being hurled back in front of Leningrad, and the general Russian tone was one of confidence, yet watchfulness, the latter being stressed because Red headquarters figured the Germans still had at least one more huge attack up their sleeves.

VICHY:

To Join Hitler

Hardly unexpected at this time, and with the hostage-shooting matter being what it was, had come the report that Vichy was planning to "go the whole hog" and throw in with Hitler's "new order."

It had been known for a long time | fied to have Turkey neutral and aloof | where the sympathies of Darlan and Laval had been, but Petain was supposed to have been more or less on the fence.

KURUSU: Last Try?

Most observers of the situation in the Pacific believed that with the arrival of Saburo Kurusu in Washington the last stage of the difficult effort of Japan and the United States to avoid war had been reached.

During his plane trip to this country there had been little of encouraging press comment, and the state department had again and again repeated its gloomy outlook.

Officials of the cabinet, particularly Secretary Knox of the Navy, had expressed this same view of depression over any chance of a peaceful settlement.

Still Kurusu had arrived, had been greeted with smiles by American diplomats, and the conversations were on.

Basic difficulty of solving an equation where Japan was at war with China and both Britain and America had declared this war an act Blues of aggression and had been giving and promising aid to China was openly apparent.

Japan was urging the United

ARK ROYAL:

Finally Sunk

Most famous of the British aircraft carriers, Ark Royal, sunk several times according to Berlin dispatches, finally has been sent to the bottom, and it was London, not Berlin, which announced it.

It sank 25 miles off Gibraltar, while in tow of other warships after a U-boat had torn a terrific hole in ported that the Germans had been her side. Pumps were unavailing to repair the damage, and practically all of the 1,600 aboard her had been removed save just enough men to handle the towing lines.

Finally, when she was nearing shallow water at last, she suddenly turned over on her side like a "tired child" and went to the bottom. Only their opinions. The Russian drive one man of her crew was reported

> It was regarded as probable that many of her planes had been able to fly ashore and make port. Thus went to the bottom of the Mediterranean the third aircraft carrier Britain had lost, the largest and newest, launched in 1938, of 22,000

TURKEY: An Offer

Axis sources were reported to have made Turkey an offer of Thrace as a last inducement to get the Turks to join the triple alliance.

The sudden interest in Turkey on the part of Germany, as borne out in reports from both Berlin and Bern was rather a puzzle to some, while others saw in it the possibility that Germany might, now that she was somewhat bogged down in Russia, be seeking a Turkish route to Russian oil wells.

Three possibilities were seenthat Turkey had already decided to throw in with the Axis-that increased pressure would be brought to bear on Turkey (in line with Bern's view of the situation) and third, that Germany might be satisbut fearing that American and Britturn her from her neutral course to a pro-British stand.

BRITISH: Restive

JOSEF STALIN Tribute from Mr. Churchill.

The British were exceedingly resrive under the continued inaction except for heavy bombing raids over the channel. Many members of the house, especially the Laborite critics of Churchill, were loudly clamoring for the establishment of another front.

England, they said, was aware that a munitions race was going on in North Africa, with the Germans doing all they could to bolster their strength, and the British receiving vast supplies from the United States, and using their navy to attempt to break German communication lines.

But the house was demanding action on that front, being highly dissatisfied with the "stalemate" situation. Many believed it was not yet too late to start something on that front and drive the Nazis and Italians back on their heels into Libya

But the government was giving its critics little satisfaction, and was showing no inclination whatever to change the status quo. Churchill paid a tribute to that "great warrior Stalin," and said that all possible equipment and munitions would be sent to aid him.

He also said that Britain would firmly back up the United States in its attitude toward Japan. Beyond this he would not move a step, nor would he make cabinet changes.

AXIS:

All was not rosy in Axis countries, dispatches had informed the world.

A New York Times correspondent, returning with his bride from Berlin, told of no rest, of constant harassments, of poor food, of no entertainment. The few passenger trains were so crowded that trips were extremely inconvenient, he reported, and said that he had lost 20 pounds due to poor food.

Eatable food only could be obtained in the most expensive restaurants, he added, and in the poor- he-man roles, and Marlene Dietrich er ones the dinners "just wouldn't | as the heroine. go down.'

People are not told what kind of meat they are getting, he said, but tasted the same.

London said Germany was desperate for oil, or she would have abandoned the Russian offensive for the winter, and be willing just to

A reliable source was quoted as saying that if the Russian oil fields were not conquered, Germany would be out of oil reserves by the winter The official German reports were beginning to tell the public of fierce Russian attacks, and the color of Berlin dispatches confirmed the fact that the Germans were on the defensive all along the front.

At the same time Italy coupled an announcement admitting severe and continued raids on Italian cities by British planes with the ousting of the chief of the Italian air force, General Pricolo, and his replacement by General Fougiere.

MISCELLANY:

London: Arthur Greenwood declared that the United States' revision of the Neutrality act definitely assured a British-American victory in the battle of the Atlantic.

Cologne, Germany: The Reich's commissioner for The Netherlands said that following the war Dutchmen would be given full equality with Germans but that no nation in Europe would know full independence of the Reich again.

New York: A radio broadcast heard here revealed that Germany is planning an auto road from Ostend on the channel coast to the Dardanelles, and a canal connectish pressure from the south might ing The Netherlands with the Black sea, using the Rhine, the Main and the Danube rivers.

DERHAPS it's Shirley Temple's glowing health that inspired the British Ministry of Foods to ask Walt Disney for help. Studio experts say that in all the years that she was making pictures for 20th Century-Fox she never suffered from the numerous ailments children usually have, and now that she's approaching 13 making sub-deb pictures for Metro she's still the wonder of the studios because she's so well. Every so often somebody has to screen Rex Beach's "The Spoilers." It was done in 1925 with William Farnum and Tom Sanchey staging the fist fight that made it famous. Paramount did it in 1930 with Gary Cooper. Now Universal will make it once again-this time with Randolph Scott and John Wayne in the

Another re-make scheduled for the near future is "Mrs. Wiggs of the it makes no difference as they all Cabbage Patch," which was last made by Paramount, in 1934, with W. C. Fields, Pauline Lord and Virginia Weidler. This time little Carolyn Lee will be the child lead.

> That won't be just gibberish that you hear the actors speaking in RKO's "Valley of the Sun"; it's really Apache. Producer Graham Baker hired Chief Chris Willowbird to make phonograph records in which each speech was spoken first in English, then in Apache. Then James Craig, Antonio Moreno, Tom Tyler and other members of the cast settled down to study the records.

Elizabeth Bergner, one of the most famous European actresses to work in Hollywood, has just completed the first of her films to be made. It's "Paris Calling," a story of the betrayal and fall of France. Miss Bergner's European pictures include "Catherine the Great," "Escape Me Never," and "Dreaming Lips." She became famous as one of Europe's leading stage figures before she made pictures.

The movies are an old story to Frances Robinson; at the age of four she played Lillian Gish as a child in "Orphans of the Storm." More recently, she appeared in "Smiling Through," Now she's left pictures for the radio; she's the giddy debutante in the air's version of the delightful "My Man Godfrey."

A 19-year-old girl is in Alexandria, Va., getting background material for a murder trial. She's the daughter of Jane Crusinberry, who writes radio's "The Story of Mary Marlin," now in its eighth year. Mrs. Crusinberry is a stickler for accuracy, and the dramatized trial takes place in Alexandria, so young Jane was sent off with a candid camera and a notebook to help her mother out.

ODDS AND ENDS-Bob Hope has been away from home so much, making personal appearances, that he swears that his children haven't the slightest idea who he is . . . Jean Arthur, Cary Grant and Ronald Colman will head the cast of Columbia's "Mr. Twilight" . . . Phillipe de Lacey, famous not so many years ago as a child star of the movies, is now producing commercial pictures for the March of Time company . . . Alice Faye will por-tray Helen Morgan in the picture based down her skating.

Painting Doors

IT IS not always easy to paint doors when hanging normally, for the paint is likely to streak along the edges of the panels and in the Well, Shirley's diet has always in- mouldings. The job is much simplified by taking the door off its hinges and laying it flat on boxes or on something else that will bring it to a convenient height. In taking off a door, it should first be opened, so that the outer corner can be blocked up with pieces of wood or books to relieve the hinges of the weight. In all modern hinges the two parts are held together by pins, which can be driven out to separate the hinge halves. The lower hinge should be the first to be separated. If the upper hinge is separated first, and the door should tilt, the leverage would be so great that the lower hinge would be bent or even broken. In replacing the door, the upper hinge should be the first to be put together.

With the door laid flat, paint or other finish goes on smoothly and evenly, with little chance that "tears" or "beads" will form.

Attaching Wood to Concrete.

It is often necessary to attach shelves or other woodwork to concrete walls, and the job may be something of a problem. One sure method is to drill holes an inch or two deep in the concrete, making use of a star drill, which can be had at a hardware store. The hole is then plugged with a piece of soft wood, into which a screw can be driven. In place of the wood, the thread of the screw can be wrapped with a thin piece of sheet lead. Hardware stores carry prepared will be called "Washington Esca- plugs for the purpose, usually sold pade." Metro bought a story called with a drill. These plugs and drills "White House Girl," by Ruth Fin- come in different sizes. For a thin wall, as in the case of concrete block or lath and plaster, bolts with hinged ends, known as toggle bolts, can be had. The hinged end is pushed through the hole, and turns at right angles, which gives a solid support when the nut is screwed

New Floor Over Old.

Question: Can a new hardwood floor be laid over an old floor? Or should the present floor be removed and the new one laid on the sub-

Answer: The new one can be laid on top of the old one, which will save labor. The old floor should first be made smooth; protruding nails either driven in or pulled out, and roughnesses of the floor planed or scraped down. At lumber yards you can get flooring intended to be laid over an old floor; it comes completely finished, so that no further finishing will be needed after laying. It is thinner than ordinary flooring, for it serves only as a finish.

Sound-Proof Door.

Question: What is the simplest way to sound-proof a door between two apartments, or at least to deaden the sound?

Answer: Sound can be deadened by hanging two or three thick portieres over the door. For a better job, set four or five pieces of 1 by 2 across the door opening, from side to side, not touching the door. On these set a sheet of insulating board, cut to fit the opening. The joint between the door and the frame, all around, should first be packed with moth-proof felt, soft rubber strips, or something similar, for much of the sound comes through the joint.

Cleaning a Cellar.

Question: What is the best way to clean an old cellar in which there is a hot air furnace?

Answer: Everything in the cellar is probably coated with coal and ash dust, and the first step should be to loosen this by brushing. Then followed with a vacuum cleaner. Concrete floor and walls should be scrubbed with a strong solution of washing soda in water, followed by rinsing. All wood parts should be finished by painting. For masonry walls use cement paint, while the floor should have a kind of paint that is proof against injury by lime. For the wood parts you can use casein paint.

Noisy Road.

Question: We live on a road intersection that is very noisy. Is there any kind of sound-proof glass that could be put in the windows of our living-room? Answer: Glass in two thicknesses, separated by a quarter-inch or more, might do the trick, but would require new window frames. Double windows woud give you the same effect. Metal weatherstrips around the window should do quite as well. Another method would be killed.

EXPERT BUYERS

 In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy It. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world; the feeling of being adequately prepared.

 When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets-shows Itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

More ___ense Foods Needed

"More milk, more eggs, more pork" is the food-for-defense appeal being made to American farmers by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Farmers are responding unitedly, the Department says, and are turning huge quantities of feed from the AAA Ever-Normal Granary into energy-giving foods. Milk production is highest on record; egg production is higher than in any year except 1930; extra numbers of brood sows are being held over for fall farrowing. Nevertheless, the Department declares, even additional increases in these products must be made to supply the growing home demand and the emergency needs of Great Britain.

When increased production of foods in the national defense program were called for, county AAA oifices faced the gigantic task of issuing 1942 cotton, wheat, rice, peanus and Irish potato allotments to Texas farmers by Nov. 1. Special allotments under the AAA farm program usually reach farmers by early spring, Cothran said, in pointing out that all decks had to be cleared for Food-For-Freedom pledges that got underway in Texas Nov. 1.

County listing sheets establishing preliminary crop yields and premium rates are being received n the state office with more expected shortly, the insurance supervisor explained.

After county data have been approved in the state and regional crop insurance offices, Texas cotton farmers will be in position to take cut insurance on next year's crop, he said.

Under the program, cotton farmers may insure 75 percent or 50 percent of their established yields against all unavoidable hazaros, Total losses will be paid when they occur and partial !osses after picking, Cothran explained.

Five Points To Make Machines Last Longer

Probable shortages of farm machinery next year as a result of the National Defense Program, make it all the more important that New Mexico farmers extend the life of their machinery and tools by ordering repair parts now, according to Fred L. O'Cheskey, chairman New Mexico USDA Defense Board. The government has indicated that there will be no shortages of parts if needs are known in time.

The State USDA defense board offers these suggestions for getting longer service out of farm machin-

1. Store machinery under cover. 2. When storing the mowing machine, remove the sickle, grease it, and order new sections if any are broken or missing. Straighten bent, tighten loose, and replace broken guards, block up mower, and support the long tongue on a block to keep it straight. Order repair parts now.

3. After harvest, take off and store binder and combine canvasses in dry place, safe from rat damage. Repair or replace torn or worn slots, and canvas straps. Give sickle same care as that given to mower. Grease and oil knotter, straighten bent or sprung parts, and replace broken parts and worn parts that look as though they may not last through next harvest. Order repair parts

4. Clean plows, grease wearing parts or cover them with old crankcase oil. Sharpen shares and have some extra shares on hand. Remove, sharpen and grease the cultivator shovels. Tighten or replace loose cefective parts of the frame. Order

5. When cold weather arrives, either drain water from cooling system of tractor when it is not in use, or add antifreeze mixture. If tires contain water, add calcium chloride to prevent tire injury Check ignition system, magneto, breaker points, wiring, and plugs. Next On The Dock et Clean dirty plugs and space points. Adjust carburetor to save fuel in winter operations, use good oil and change it regularly according to manufacturers' instructions. Order repair parts now.

-THS-MY DUTY AND MY RESPONSIBI-LITY IN THE DEFENSE OF OUR COUNTRY

My duty and responsibility to my country in the work of our Defense Program is as much for me to do as it is for anyone else to do. Of course, you can look around and see that some people will naturally say, 'Well, he's going to work for the Defense Program. What's the use for me to worry? He'll do as much for it as I would." Yes, this person may do as much as the other one would, but he still is not doing his duty and responsibility as he should.

There is some difference between duty and responsibility; yet people class them together but for one thing, everyone has a duty to their country, whether they have a responsibility in it or not.

My duty to my country means as much to me as it does to anyone. I should naturally love my country and aid it in all the ways I can. Such as is said in the American Creed: "I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, obey its laws and to respect its flag and defend it from all enemies!" The part of defending it from all enemies is quite a large job for one person but we can help in keeping the people, such as the Fifth Columnists, from ruining our country and changing it from a democracy to a government of Nazism. Some of my other duties would be to respect the flag and protect it from destruction if possible.

A responsibility to my country can be a job that has been assigned to you by the government or some government official, or some people in government work. Such as or many of the jobs today. Some men that are working for the government are to collect aluminum for the defense program. The collection of aluminum is for the people of the United States to learn to use other products and less of the thing's that are scarce in the products of the United Staes.

No only in our defense program are we learning to do without aluminum, but we are learning to invest our money in defense stamps or defense bonds. This investment is a sure investment if we work to keep the Nazis from taking over our gov-

Many people have in possession heir duties and their responsibility for the defense program today.

If all the people can hold up to his they will have given their duty. but as for the responsibility, they will have to do some work to make it. The following thing will help us to develop our duty to our country:

"I believe in the United States of tests, and everyone came out OK. We America as a government of the would like to have some one on the people, by the people, for the people; mocracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which many American patriots sacrificed lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

If all of us can live up to these things in the American Creed we will be giving our lives, duty and all of our responsibility to our country, the United States of America.

What to give the men in Uncle Sam's services for Christmas is already solved for you by surveys made in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Cigarettes and smoking tobacco head the list of gifts the men want most. This naturally places Camel Cigarettes and Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco in the forefront, since actual sales records from the service men's stores, afloat and ashore, show the favorite cigarette is Camel, and the big favorite among smoking tobaccos is Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke. Dealers are already featuring "Send him a carton of Camels" or a "Pound tin of Prince Albert" for Christmas.—Adv.

Washington, D. C. NAZI INTRUDER

There is a German smuggler operating in the Caribbean off the coast of Mexico.

This was the inside reason for the President's sudden transfer of the entire coast guard to the navy-the coast guard's ships and planes are needed to track down the Nazi in-

Sensational feature about the smuggler is that she is a former U. S. vessel-the 800-ton Dieselengined yacht that once belonged to A. Atwater Kent, Philadelphia radio

The one-time pleasure ship now is being operated under the Panamanian flag out of Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Nazi agents in that city, and is being used to transport high test gasoline and mercury to small Caribbean islands where Japanese ships collect the smuggled strategic sup-

The yacht recently unloaded 1,000 flasks of mercury at an island which for military reasons must be name-

The former luxury craft came into possession of the Nazis by a circuitous route which intelligence experts uncovered only a few weeks ago. The purchase was made by a shipping company whose main office is in Vera Cruz and has a branch office in New Orleans, where transfer of title took place. The price was $18,000.

Fortunately for intelligence the payment was made in U.S. bills of $1,000 denomination. From the serial numbers, the bills were traced back to a Vera Cruz bank. There it was learned the money had been withdrawn from the account of the leading Nazi business house in Mexico, and turned over to the shipping company that bought the yacht. Subsequent investigation revealed that all the stockholders of this company were Germans; also that the two top officers were Spaniards, one a naturalized Mexican and the other a naturalized American citizen.

Now, every movement of the yacht is watched, but there is nothing the United States can do about the ship unless she enters American waters. So far the vessel has been very careful to stay within Mexican territorial waters.

LEND-LEASE MILK EXPERT

The most novel type of lend-lease operation thus far was the lendleasing of a man named Adolph. Adolph Eichhorn went over to help the British against Adolf Hitler.

The British are suffering from insufficient production of milk, because of diseased cattle, and Eichhorn is the man who knows all the cow cures. He is director of the animal disease station under the department of agriculture.

Three principal diseases afflict British cattle: tuberculosis, which makes the cattle lean; Bang's disease, which results in the loss of the calf; and mastitis.

Eichhorn was obliged to tell the British that tuberculosis, which afflicts 35 per cent of British cattle, cannot be cured during the course of the war, unless the war lasts for another generation. It took the United States 22 years to get the disease under control.

Bang's disease is more readily cured. By vaccination, a calf can be immunized so that its adult life brains, no character are required will not be afflicted with the dis-

Meantime, the British are importing great quantities of dry and powdered milk from the United States. Fresh milk is worth a king's ransom.

RETURNED FAVOR

When Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts was elected Democratic floor leader of the house, one of his strongest and most unexpected supporters was Georgia's fiery New Deal-hating Gene Cox. Though the two men were poles apart on economic views, Cox nevertheless backed McCormack and did yeoman work for him.

Recently McCormack returned the favor. Before leaving on a trip to Cox floor leader during his absence. "There's one condition, however, Gene," he grinned. "You'll have to refrain from those hot one-minute speeches on the floor. I don't want my stand-in taking swings at the administration. It would look bad."

McCormack wished the Georgian luck and left the chamber. Hardly had he departed when Cox jumped up and asked permission to address the house for one minute. New Dealers held their breath, expecting him to uncork one of his scorch-

But they relaxed with a sigh of relief when Cox launched into a terrific tirade against John L. Lewis.

Kathleen Norris Says:

There Is No Way to Get Back Lost Sweetheart

(Bell Syndicate-WNU Service.)

I was so stupid that night that I hate to think about it. When Hugo made fun of me I said I felt I was getting a cold and went upstairs. He later told Mary that when I was a kid I had been his sweetheart.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

HERE is no harder situation for a woman of any age than that in which she suspects that the love of the man she idolizes is cooling. The self-deceptions by which abandoned sweethearts solace themselves are pathetic in their transparency; it is almost impossible for any one of us to believe that she has lost her charm for the man she loves.

The girl who writes me a letter on this subject fortunately is young. Brenda is only 17, and whether she likes the idea now or not she is going to get over her passion for the fickle Hugo.

"Hugo was first my older sister Anna's friend," says Brenda's tearstained letter, "but from the moment I first saw him he was the only man in the world for me. I used to hang around just to see him, and my chum and I used to walk downtown so that we could pass his office and perhaps have a glimpse of him.

"My diary in those days was filled with him, and if I only had a word from him it would make me happy for a week. That was when I was only 15. Last year Anna got a school in a city a hundred miles away. We had a good-by party for her and Hugo came. He and I talked together seriously for the first time and I think he realized that Anna's kid sister was not quite so young as her years. Anyway, after Anna left he came one night and brought me candy and stayed talking, and I was so happy I could not sleep for nights afterward.

Wrote Each Other Daily.

"After that we saw each other frequently and there was no doubt of his feeling; when he went on short trips we wrote each other every day, and although my parents felt I was too young to make plans yet, Hugo is 31 and could well support a wife; and that made a difference.

"The joy of those first days will remain with me all my life, for I can never feel for any other man what I feel for Hugo. Just his voice, just his hand on mine when he taught me to drive, the very jackets and caps and neckties he love. Love is the dearest commodwore were sacred to me.

"He asked me to marry him, and wrote me that night that he 'would never forget the moment when a dizzy, crazy little girl threw herself Massachusetts, McCormack named into his arms.' In that same letter he says, 'you are going to be the most spoiled little wife in the

"I suppose the rest of this story," the letter goes on, "is a familiar one to you. Hugo had to go away for three weeks, and even in his letters, before he came back, I felt the change. When he did get back I put flowers around in the house and wore a new dress; but he didn't come that evening. All the next day and the next I didn't hear from him, and every second of those days was "On the fourth day I telephoned, I couldn't help it. He explained that he had been terribly busy and that his mother had house guests, an old schoolmate of hers and the schoolmate's twin daughters and that 'squiring' the girls took up all his spare time. I asked him if they knew about me, and he answered by asking 'what about you, honey?'

Invited His Guests.

"When I hung up the telephone I ning did not have one happy mo- free to do it!"

NOTHING TO REGRET

The "Brenda" who writes this letter is undoubtedly in for some heart-breaking moments, but she has nothing with which to reproach herself in later years. She may have behaved like a silly little girl, throwing herself at an older man and then sulking when he explained that she had misunderstood his brotherly affection. But she can look forward to a more real, a more lasting kind of love in a few years. Then, perhaps, she will be able to laugh at what seems now to be utter tragedy.

ment for me. Both these girls are pretty. They are 25 years old and have been everywhere and have seen all the plays. One is engaged and I think the other likes Hugo; in fact I know she does, and so do Mom and Dad.

"I was so stupid that night that I hate to think about it, and when Hugo made fun of me I said I felt as if I was getting a cold and went upstairs. Hugo said to Mary that when I was a kid I had been his little sweetheart and we had made great marriage plans and were going to build a house up in an oak and live up there. Which made me seem like a baby.

"Last week Hugo wrote me quite frankly, saying that he is sorry that 'misunderstood' his attentions, that he will always love me as a big brother, almost old enough to be my father, and that he would like his letters back. My mother, who now says she is sorry she did it since it disturbed me so much, immediately without consulting me sent back all his letters, from my treasure box.

"I love him as much as ever. He is so wonderful, there is nobody like him! If I live to be 90, and marry 10 times, I will always love him better than anyone else! What can I do? How can I get him back? Please, please help me keep from despair!"

The Price of Love.

It is a cruel thing, Brenda, that any human being should be given power to hurt another, as Hugo has hurt you. But it is the price of ity in life, the thing for which we pay highest. It is painfully obvious now that his affair with you was just what he calls it, half-paternal, half-brotherly affection for the little girl who so openly adored him. He might indeed have made you his wife, and he might have been a faithful husband to you. But it wouldn't have been the usual marriage, the usual mating of human beings balanced in age, interests, er, so, whenever possible, cook responsibilities of living together.

There are men who have petted and adored a child-wife until her tall sons seemed older than she, but as a general thing the man to whom a girl gives her heart at 17 isn't the true mate, and the real love affair comes along six or seven years

You have a lot for which to be thankful. Evidently you have sensible, affectionate parents willing to stand by you, help you in your difficulties, make your home a center of hospitalities. Those are invaluable assets just now. Also, you didn't, in your infatuation for Hugo, throw away your self-respect when you threw away your heart. It might help you to read some of the letters I get from today's was almost crying, and my mother | girls; girls who don't regard love

Lincoln's Wit

Lincoln didn't like the tone of a business letter inquiring about a man he knew. He reply was short,

"Yours of the 10th received. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $500,000 to any man. Secondly, he has an office in which there is a table worth $1.50 and three chairs worth, say $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a large rat-hole, which will bear looking into."

HIGH PRICES Do Not Go WITH ADVERTISING

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what, you are getting more for your money-more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.
