Contracts Are Awarded For Sewer System Improvements

SLOW RAINS DRENCH WEST TEXAS

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

We voted a sewer bond issue of $140,000 early in March. Those bonds have not been sold and the best cash bid for a bond house was $8.50, which would have meant a loss of about $1,500 from par of the entire issue.

However, realizing that construction of the sewer disposal plant, the large line connecting it with the collection system within the city, and the additional gathering lines in the city constituted an emergency, the city commission called for bids on the entire sewer system program.

Twenty-one bids, enough to assure plenty of competition, were received. Bids were on three units, the disposal plant, the outfall line and the collection systems being submitted separately.

The successful bidders' proposals constituted the lowest combination of any bids on the three units, and the total of the contracts is $130,566.05, which is $566.05 more than the total of the bond issue.

The commission did not stipulate that contractors take into consideration a proposition of taking bonds instead of cash. But, after having been chosen as the successful bidder on the outfall line and the collection lines W. S. Thompson of San Angelo was asked his attitude toward taking bonds.

He said he would be glad to take bonds, at par and accrued interest since April 15, which means that $1,873.05 of the $140,000 issue will bring par and accrued interest at 5 per cent.

If the bonds had been sold to a bond house and the money kept on deposit in a bank until needed to pay contractor's estimates but half as much interest, on daily balances, would have been received.

These facts are reviewed for the purpose of acquainting the people with a matter of public interest.

Every effort will be made to have construction started in two weeks. It is highly important that this project be finished for use during as much of the summer season as possible.

The writer has no kick coming because although a member of the board he was not present for Monday evening's session of the Chamber of Commerce directors. But, as we understand it from some who were there, those present who voted went on record 5 to 4 as opposing a state-wide road bond issue.

That was an action that should have been weighed very carefully. Admittedly there are inequalities in the present system of financing construction of permanent highways in Texas. The question is whether a state bond issue would eliminate or reduce those inequalities.

One of the strongest arguments of proponents of the plan is that it would take from the real and personal property in the counties, the burden of taxation to finance a third or a half of the cost of building hard surfaces on state highways.

As far as the state government is concerned the tax burden already is almost wholly upon the traffic (through the gasoline tax) and not upon the land through a state tax.

But, this fact arises, and especially

NUMBERING OF HOUSES WILL BEGIN

Here's good news for everybody.

And something everybody has got to help with.

Beginning Friday noon the city engineering department will begin a survey of every house in town.

A card bearing the correct street number of each house will be tacked to the front door or some other spot where it may be found easily.

Residents are urged to preserve these cards and to procure the number and place them on their houses as quickly as possible.

As everyone knows, much confusion has arisen within the past year due to duplications, slips and other irregular numberings of houses.

Rains that appeared in a fair way of becoming general before nightfall fell in Big Spring and surrounding territory Thursday morning.

Although precipitation had stopped early in the afternoon, cloudy skies indicated more rain would fall here and over the county before night.

The rainfall as registered by the United States Experiment Farm gauge, for Big Spring was .86 of an inch.

Rain started falling here at 5:30 o'clock this morning and continued in a slow drizzle until nearly noon.

$130,566 IS TOTAL FOR ALL UNITS

One Contractor Will Take Bond At Par, Interest

Contracts for construction of a sewer disposal plant, a large outfall line from the city to the plant, and a material addition to the collection system in town were awarded late Wednesday by the board of city commissioners.

Total of successful bids was $130,566.05. This construction will be financed with a bond issue of $130,000 voted here last March 6.

21 Bidders Sealed bids for the projects were opened and read at the regular meeting of the city commission Tuesday night, but tabulation was not completed until Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-one companies entered bids for the work.

The system embodied three units of construction, a sewerage disposal plant, an outfall line and lateral sewer lines.

With a low bid of $48,693, Williams-Jacobson, Inc., Amarillo, was the successful bidder on the disposal plant. The bid called for a full stone bed, using local rock. Ninety working days was the completion time stated in the accepted bid.

The other two projects were awarded to W. S. Thompson of San Angelo, his combination bid on the two being lower than any other combination price offered by other bidders.

Thompson bid $38,154.20 for construction of the outfall line, and $43,718.85 for laying the lateral sewer lines.

His completion time was fixed at 120 days after construction starts. The total cost of construction of the new unit is $130,566.05, which is $566.05 over the bond issue of $130,000 recently passed for the work.

According to City Manager Smitham, Thompson agreed to take the bonds, which have not been sold, at par and accrued interest.

Smitham declared the arrangement was entered into after Thompson's bid was accepted by the council and had no bearing upon the bids proper. Work on the new project will be started 10 days after the contracts are signed. It is possible the work will be launched in two weeks.

PIPELINE PARLEY CALLED IN DALLAS

DALLAS, Tex., May 29 (AP)—A conference here next Wednesday between committees of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association and the Independent Producers Association, together with representatives of pipe lines to the various fields, was decided upon at a meeting here today of the mid-continent production committee.

It was planned to draft a memorial to the Texas Railroad Commission offering assistance in enforcement of the new pipe line law at the meeting next week. The new law was adopted by the last legislature.

Today's conference, attended by Tom E. Cranfill, president of the

"Tax The Traffic" He Reiterates At Abilene

ABILENE, Tex., May 29 (AP) Gov. Dan Moody today repeated his contention that the burden of highway building should be placed on traffic through gasoline or some other equally effective method.

He made his address before the opening session of the twelfth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here today.

The governor's address was timely in view of the fact that the proposed state-wide highway bond issue was expected to be the subject of a bitter fight on the convention floor.

A resolution reaffirming the stand of the regional body in support of the bond issue will be recommended to the convention by its work committee.

Gov. Moody said he was glad the West Texas body was considering a plan of financing a connected system of highways.

W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, president of the chamber, paid tribute to the present highway commission, asserting that West Texas was getting its fair share of aid and designations.

He introduced Gov. Moody as a man whose administration would be justified if he had done nothing else but appoint the present highway commission.

The high light of Mr. Hamilton's annual report, at least as far as members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce were concerned, was that the deficit of $28,000 existing at last year's convention at El Paso had been wiped out and supplanted by a balance of $16,000.

Hamilton explained that the convention would be asked to authorize the creation of three bureaus which would contribute greatly to the efficiency of the organization. They would be bureaus of the development, publicity and service.

Far from opposing the present proposition of oil production under supervision of the railroad commission, the West Texas chamber favors further conservation of oil and gas through a state law permitting operators in a pool to enter into agreements regarding when to drill and how far apart to place their wells, the president said.

Such agreement now is in violation of the state anti-trust statutes, he explained. He pointed out that the nature of oil and gas was such that if one man drilled in a pool every other operator has to drill.

MURPHY TO SPEAK HERE

Candidate For Seat In Congress Opens Fight

E. E. (Pat) Murphy, of San Angelo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 18th district, will speak in Big Spring at 8 p. m. Wednesday, June 4, he informed the Herald today.

Mr. Murphy seeks the office to be vacated by the veteran, Claude Hindspeith, who will not run for reelection, and who has voiced his support of Mr. Murphy.

His speaking campaign was opened in his home town Friday evening, May 23, when he spoke to a capacity crowd in the district court room. He was introduced by Penrose B. Metcalfe, representative to the state legislature.

Centering his attack upon what he termed monopolistic tendencies in the government Mr. Murphy declared that he was making a fight to return to the people the control of their government and to prevent monopolies and trusts and professional politicians from gaining absolute control.

He strongly advocated a tariff on the raw products of West Texas, including a tariff on crude oil and declared he would vote for a tariff bill on final passage, declared for state rights and for return of railroads to the state railroad commission, or farm relief and against gambling in products of the soil, for curbing or abolishing the cotton exchanges as a remedy for the farmer's troubles, for restricted immigration, for application of immigration regulations to all nations alike with Mexico included, for world peace by taking the profits out of war, for a square deal for the disabled ex-service man, for changing the date of adjusted service certificates of ex-service men from 1925 to 1918, thereby enabling veterans to borrow about 50 per cent on their policies without any additional cost to the government.

Mr. Murphy criticized his opponent, Mayor R. E. Thomason of El Paso for using the name of an ex-service men's organization on his campaign literature and accused him of trying to trick the ex-service men into believing he was endorsed by that organization. He attacked what he termed a political ring in El Paso and charged that a "little Tammany" was being formed in El Paso for the purpose of gaining control of the 18th district.

11 LODGERS IN ROOMING HOUSE SAFE

Daughter Of Woman Proprietor Was Visiting Here

ABILENE, Tex., May 29 (AP)—A fire in a rooming house in the business district of Abilene, decorated in gala attire for the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, early today claimed the lives of three men.

The men, Harvey Sprinkle, 21, and Bernard Love, 19, of Melrose and Roy Thomas, 23, of Abilene, all died in a room on the second floor of the old structure. They apparently lost their lives when overcome by smoke while two of them were attempting to house the third.

Eleven other persons were in the house and had narrow escapes. They were Mrs. Maud Parker, operator, and her mother, Mrs. N. Debaun, her nephew, Billie Debaun, S. L. Clarkson, Al Nelson, Lowell Burch, Ralph Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simmons and their daughter, Rena, 4, and Ralph Graham.

Sprinkle and Love attended a business college here and were to have been graduated next week. Love had planned to work and live at the house this week. Thomas was an employee of a country club. The three were found in a corner of a sleeping porch partly clothed.

Although the building was not destroyed, the walls and ceilings were charred badly, the flames having raged through every room before firemen brought them under control.

Mrs. Debaun was awakened by smoke. Billie Debaun, on the ground floor porch, was dragged through a window with Mrs. Debaun while Mrs. Parker went upstairs.

Answered Alarm Mrs. Parker, almost an invalid, said everyone answered her calls before she left the house. She injured herself in trying to remove a trunk. She was prostrated and had not been told of the deaths.

It was planned to remove her to a Temple sanitarium tomorrow. She came here from Brady six years ago and had operated the rooming house for eight months.

Fire Marshal Ray Rowe said the fire started from an automatic water heater.

Graham jumped out of the second story window. Clarkson, Nelson and Burch, who were in a front room adjoining the one in which the three other roomers died, jumped into trees near the house after the flames cut off their escape down the stairway. Richardson also was forced to jump.

The house was formerly Dr. W. H. Earnest's home.

Elizabeth Parker, 17, daughter of Mrs. Parker and whose room was directly over the water heater, was visiting in Big Spring.

Funeral arrangements were pending the arrival of relatives. Thomas has a sister living in O'Donnell.

Texas Leader Of Southern States In Most Everything, Facts Show

Ranking first in forty places—industry, agriculture, growth, population and many others—Texas is indeed the leader of the sixteen southern states.

From the altitude to the number of automobiles Texas ranks first place. To begin with it has the largest area, of course, with 262,398 square miles of land and (believe it or not) 3,489 square miles of inland water.

In productive power Texas ranks first. The gross value of all products reaches over two billion dollars. Missouri ranks second.

And up in the air—Texas ranks first with 434 places in the state of over 1000 ft. in altitude. It is the only state with peaks of 8000 ft. and over, of which it has two. El Capitan measures more than 9000 ft.

Population
In population Texas is first of all southern states. It also has the largest number of foreign born population.

Then take the farm area. Texas ranks first in the number of farms, in the value of farm area, in the value of farm crops and in the size of farm crop acreage.

An aggregate value of more than $75 million dollars is placed on Texas agricultural products.

Texas ranks first, of course, in the production of cotton with 17 million acres. Oklahoma ranks next and has only 4 million acres.

It is interesting to note the individual farm products and the ranking Texas holds in various groups. Texas produces more pecans and barley than any other southern state, but ranks second in the number of cucumbers, tomatoes, and grapefruit produced. She ranks third in the production of both rice and peaches.

Livestock
So far as livestock is concerned, Texas takes the first honors in the sheep, cattle, milk cows, horses and mules raised, but places third in the group of all livestock valuations. Missouri and Georgia both rank above Texas in the "all-cows."

Texas has more than five million sheep, more than five million cattle, more than one million mules, 54,000 milk cows and 682,000 horses. Ice is a good business in Texas, more than 16 million dollars worth being sold last year. This placed Texas first in ice consumption.

She stands second in the consumption of ice cream with Missouri as the greatest state of ice cream eaters in the south.

Texas ranks second in flour and grain mill products, second in slaughtering and second in mineral products.

She takes first places in manufacture of crude cotton seed products and the manufacture of textiles.

Inventions
The people of Texas are of inventive mind, as the state ranks second in the number of patents issued. Again Missouri came to the fore and took first place. Seven hundred thirty one patents were issued in Texas.

Texas has 51 tobacco factories and the largest number of active cotton gins in the south, with only 233 idle and 3778 in working order.

In petroleum production Texas ranks first, as she does in petroleum refining.

Over four million dollars worth of sand and gravel was sold by producers during last year, thus relieving suffering housewives of that much dust to clean away and placing Texas first in this field also.

In the consumption and production of concrete products Texas also placed first.

And in proportion is the fact that she has over one million automobiles and is first in the field of motor vehicles, outstripping Missouri by a large margin.

Gas Tax
She ranks first in gas tax revenue and total main line railroad trackage.

Eight states have a higher gas tax, some of them asking from five to six cents on the gallon while Texas asks only four cents.

The people of Texas are not of a saving nature as indicated by the fact that they hold fourth place in the amount of savings deposits, with Maryland as the "Yankee" southern state.

Texas placed first, however, in the amount of net business written, public school expenditures, public school enrollment, and col-

RAIN AT BROWNFIELD
BROWNFIELD, Texas, May 29 (AP)—A general rain fell over this section today.

Large enrollment.
The value of her college grounds, equipment and productive funds far outstrips the other southern states.

She is, however, only the second wealthiest state, Missouri being a little less than one billion dollars ahead of her. Texas makes a creditable showing, however, with an estimated wealth of $10,898,000,000.

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been but four weeks, I weigh 239 pounds. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

The first concrete sanitary sewers were laid there over forty years ago. Today, the original installation of over four miles of concrete pipe is still in use—as good as ever. This gives convincing evidence of the durability, efficiency and economy of concrete pipe.

Uniform in quality and dimensions, exceptionally high in strength and density, concrete pipe—plain or reinforced—provides the greatest hydraulic capacity for sewers of all sizes.

Al Capone Asks The Folks Out

MIAMI, Fla., May 29 (AP)—Engraved invitations from "Mr. Alphonse Capone" brought several score guests to his Palm Island estate last night for a good will dinner of spaghetti and mineral water and a musicale, which combined operatic arias and the highland fling.

"Scarface Al" whom the Miami authorities seek to force from the city, was host. Guests exchanged their R.S.V.P. cards as the gates of the estate for tiny American flags designed for the lael.

Brilliant lights turned the palatial estate into a scene of tropical beauty, but the identity of the guests, who were addressed invitations "as citizens and business men" was a carefully guarded secret. Miami Beach policemen patrolled the outside of the estate, but the cars of the guests were driven inside. Many did not depart until midnight.

Formal Filing Of Brady Appeal Soon

DALLAS, Texas, May 29 (AP)—Formal filing of the appeal of John W. Brady, former high court judge, who was convicted of murder without malice and sentenced to three years imprisonment here May 17, is expected next week.

Brady was convicted of slaying Miss Leilia Highsmith, stenographer, in Austin last November 9. His defense was insanity.

John Bond, court reporter, has been working day and night transcribing the record in the case. He estimated it would include nearly 1,000,000 words.

It likely will be three months or longer before the appellate court will act on the appeal. Meanwhile, Brady is at liberty under $5,000 bond.

Fritts Awaits Trial At Roby For Murder

EASTLAND, Texas, May 29 (AP)—Sentenced to 99 years imprisonment for killing 17-year-old Earl Hamilton, in Haskell county in 1928, Will Fritts, 37, today awaited trial at Roby on a charge of slaying the boy's father.

Fritts was convicted here yesterday by a jury which took 45 hours to reach its decision. At previous trials, he was convicted of both charges, but the convictions were reversed by the higher courts because the indictments failed to include the phrase "with malice aforethought." He had been sentenced to death for the father's death and to life imprisonment in the other case.

According to the testimony, Young Hamilton had told officers he purchased liquor from Fritts. Fritts came to the Hamilton home to ask whether the boy had told, and when informed that he had, shot Earl and then his father.

ly with reference to many West Texas counties; the length of state highways in a county has no relation to and is not governed by the wealth of that county. A county with $50,000,000 tax valuations may contain 40 miles of state road and be able without any heavy tax levy to vote bonds to provide its share of the cost.

But, a county with $5,000,000 valuations and 60 miles of highways or even less mileage than that, would have to place an unbearable tax burden upon every property owner if it ever expected to get hard surfaced roads under the present system.

Therefore, if by voting a state bond issue or by some other method the state could pay the entire cost of building state highways, without levying a tax upon land, the task of completing a connected system of roads throughout the state would be materially lessened and counties unable to pay the bill under the present system would enjoy much development because of the construction of roads within them.

Its share of the cost would be governed by the amount of gasoline bought within it.

Additionally, those sponsoring the state bond fund declare it would provide a fund sufficient to repay counties for the sums already spent by them on state roads, if this were done Howard and dozens of other counties throughout the state would be placed in an improved financial condition, relieved of the task of paying off bond issues already voted, and allowed, therefore, to reduce their county tax rates or place the additional money upon their county roads.

It is a weighty and an important problem.

To say the least, Howard county still is being satisfied with inferior state roads, deteriorating daily under heavy traffic, with no visible signs of an inclination to improve itself. A few more months of delay and we'll find ourselves the great highway desert of West Texas, bounded on all sides by counties with paved roads, and with the reputation of being "the jumping off place" from smooth paving to bumpy dirt.

The president reviewed the many important resolutions which had been reported favorably by the work committee. He was applauded when he said he thought the West Texas body should endorse the work of the federal farm board.

"Out of Red" In introducing Mr. Hamilton, C. M. Caldwell of Abilene, chairman of the Abilene district, spoke of the Wichita Falls man, who, despite a long sickness, had pulled the West Texas Chamber of Commerce out of the "red."

The president replied that Caldwell and D. A. Bandeen, manager of the regional body, had been responsible chiefly for erasure of the deficit.

Uncompromising opposition to any additional taxes on West Texas natural resources was demanded by Mr. Hamilton. He declared that this enormous section already was supplying 46 per cent of the advan-

Two Republican Candidates File

HOUSTON, Tex., May 29 (AP)—Two candidates were in the field for the republican nomination for governor today, one drafted and one offering his candidacy to "break the ice."

Apparently unaware of plans to select the candidate here at the postmasters' meeting yesterday, Captain John E. Elgin of San Antonio filed with Eugene Holte of Seguin, republican state chairman.

"Since more capable but more modest men have failed to announce themselves," he said, "I have assumed the honor of breaking the ice."

Meanwhile at Houston the nomination was thrust upon H. E. Exum, Amarillo rancher at a political pow wow held in conjunction with the postmasters convention.

Exum said he favored the republican doctrine of a high tariff, and was heartily in accord with President Hoover's efforts to enforce the dry laws.

He expressed the opinion that prospects for a republican victory were good.

Simms Hurls Cosden To Victory Over Texas & Pacific

And so it goes. The clouds pop and the rain descends. And from where we repose it looks as if old man Precipitation will be battling 1,000 per cent this afternoon.

The Texas & Pacific ran smack into a grade crossing yesterday and instead of gaining a loop, clattered down the basement stairs a notch.

We have on hand a letter from C. J. Tomlin, generalissimo of the Shell Petroleum Corporation's baseball club of the growing little city of Wink.

The San Angelo track team is in Chicago for the national meet. Chicago and surrounding territory is likely to learn about cinders from Texas.

From the news reports it seems little red-nosed Dixon White and Dennis Lavender will clash in the finals of the West Texas Golf Tournament, now underway at Brownwood.

Elsewhere on this page—if the makeupman is wise about it and doesn't go haywire in the pinch on account of not winning the baseball pool—will be found a flock of batting averages, including the games of the first four weeks.

Dickinson of Richco and Crouch of the Laundry, hurlers of no mean ability, are the prime leaders of the flock of pitchers.

The Coden outfit scored a quintet of runs in the second. Simms rolled out but Adams was safe on first when Gunter's throw pulled Bishop off the bag.

ERRORS AID PUNCH OF OILERS

Lefty Baber Relieves Woods In Second Inning

While overhead Jupiter Pluvius, arch enemy of baseball and the like, scowled angrily down upon the disrespectful proceedings of the Cosden Oilers applied a damper to the ambitions of the T and Pacific nine by a score of 9 to 4.

Lee Baber, widely-heralded T and P southpaw, walked in from right field in the second inning and halted the jubilee. Baber pitched great ball the rest of the game, striking out five men in two and two-thirds innings and allowing two scattered hits.

Erratic fielding cost the Railroaders the contest, although Cosden showed a strong inclination to hit when men were on base. Seven times did the T and P outfit muff chances to send a Cosden batter back to the bench with a time at bat to his credit.

Part of the T and P attack can also be attributed to miscues. Schwarzenbach started the game off in a forbidding fashion by singling to right. Sain attempted to bunt but Simms caught the grounder with plenty of time to start a double play.

The Coden aggregation took the lead immediately. Adams picked out one he liked and slammed it to left field for a double. Potter was safe when Sain contemplated too long on whether to try for first or third, and went to second while Adams scored when the T and P third-baseman slung it high to first.

From them on out it was over as far as the Railroaders were concerned. Six men reached first in the next four innings, three upon hits by Schwarzenbach, Baber, and Gunter, two upon walks, and the other because of Gilliam's error.

The Cosden outfit scored a quintet of runs in the second. Simms rolled out but Adams was safe on first when Gunter's throw pulled Bishop off the bag. The Oiler catcher stole second. Potter also stole second. Both of them tallied when West clicked the foul line in left field for a double. Harris singled to right, tallying West, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and came home on an infield out.

The T and P threatened to scratch in the sixth. Bishop walked and was joined on the paths by Malone when Simms continued to throw high and outside. Schwarzenbach dashed for first when the third strike escaped Adams' fingers and while the Cosden catcher was throwing the ball to first Ma-

Dennis Lavender, White Clash Today In West Texas Golf Tourney Finals

BROWNWOOD, Tex., May 29 (AP)—Championship of the West Texas Golf Association was at stake here today, with Dennis Lavender of Stamford and J. Dixon White of Dublin paired for the final 36 hole match.

Lavender, 1928 champion, went to the finals with an easy win of 5 and 3 over Morris Norton of Wichita Falls. Despite the erratic playing of Norton, Lavender shot stellar golf in the semi-final match, playing the first nine in one under par.

The victory of White over S. J. Barnett of Eastland was the feature play of the day, the Eastland player breaking after White made an almost impossible recovery from a ditch just in front of the seventeenth green for a par four.

Hollywood Sights Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD-The microphone has effected a noticeable change in the movie hero market by placing a premium on brains.

Anyways, the masculine movie idol who once could palpitate a thousand feminine hearts with one flashing tooth-paste, smile as he pursued for a moment of romance in his brazenly physical progress toward conquest of the girl, now finds the old weapon only a side-issue, desirable of course but not essential.

HEROES WITH SHIRTS Nor is it absolutely necessary, as it seemed of yore, that he expose his sinewy torso, through the remnants of a shirt, after his valiant and victorious struggle with the villain in the last reel.

Juveniles like Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Charlie Farrell continue to attract staggering fan mail by the appeal of their youth and enthusiasm, but the leading men who have come to the fore most decisively in talkies are of another school-clever, forceful, mature shrewd and intellectual.

They are men like William Powell and Clive Brook, embodiments of savvy and savoir-faire, human characters who attack their problems largely through mental rather than physical processes; like Fredric March and Edmund Lowe, and Warner Baxter; like Ronald Colman, whose dashing deeds are tempered with the spice of sophistication.

UNCANNED DRAMA Alcan in a dark studio projection room sits a nervously expectant group-a girl, her elderly parents, a young man.

They talk little, and that little nervously. They watch the screen. They hear suddenly the low hum of a motor behind them.

Instantly the image of the girl is on the screen before it momentarily a sign labeled "Sound test, Miss X."

The image sings, not badly, certainly not well.

"Flashes "Silent test, Miss X." The image smiles uncertainly, looks this way, that way, straight ahead. The screen goes dark again.

Awkwardly the four file out. The parents, the young man, are feebly optimistic. The girl, white-faced, choking back tears, is trying to force a smile.

"It wasn't," Caroline assured me solemnly.

"The assumption is," I continued, "that Parados was Jules Lacote, who sent his accomplices to Devil's Island for a million francs."

"Of course, and Caroline gave me one of those teasing smiles. "But Parados may have been Lacote and he may not. If he wasn't, your lovely theory goes bang."

"I admit that, too. A belief that Parados was Lacote is as far as I am prepared to go. Lum We stole the phoenix. Mrs. Parados hated her husband, Annerley must have dropped that yellow petal inside the safe and smashed open that drawer to get to those Fleetwood documents, Grainger has slashed across the check by Parados, Johns hated Parados because he threatened to destroy the fort, Celia detested him because of his treatment of Annerley-but none of those motives proves that any one of these persons killed Parados. I haven't said anything about the alibi."

"Don't forget to include my name," Caroline reminded me. "Celia and I are the only two who

Murder at High Tide by CHARLES G. BOOTH

SYNOPSIS: Dan Parados was killed a few hours after Alan Hunt came to appraise his art collection. Thus the young antique dealer was thrown heading into the grim hunt for murder clues.

It's a gorgeous paradox from beginning to end," I continued. "And then there's the biggest paradox of them all."

Caroline nodded slowly. "Yes, that price ticket in his hand. Do you suppose a woman?" She stopped, shivering.

"I had thought of that, too. It does look more like a woman's touch than a man's. But 35 cents! It doesn't make sense."

"Sense!" Caroline echoed. "None of it makes sense." She put her hands to her head.

"It's pretty awful," I said gently, "but won't you try to forget it for a little while?"

"I can't!" Her voice throbbed with horror. The look in her eyes touched me.

"You mustn't let it get hold of you that way," I pleaded.

"I'm afraid," she whispered. "There's more coming. I can feel it-hanging. You-you don't think I killed him, do you?"

"Great guns, no!" I exploded, seizing both of her hands. "Caroline, you mustn't talk like that! You've nothing to be afraid of. You hear me?"

She began to weep then, and I drew her against my shoulder and held her hard. Something inside of me was going around at a terrific rate.

Caroline drew away from me, and shook the tears out of her eyes.

"Forgive me for making such an idiot of myself," she begged. "I'm all right now. Who are in those launches, do you suppose?" She pointed to two boats rounding the promontory.

"The police and the reporters, probably," I said. "Samuels is expecting them. There'll be more questioning. Do you feel you can stand it?" I asked anxiously.

"Of course I can," she looked at me steadily and earnestly.

"Let's drop in and see Professor Johns," I suggested suddenly. "That old fort should be full of interest."

"Professor Johns-" She stopped, frowning. "Don't you think he's eccentric?"

"Well, he ought to be," I laughed. "He's lived alone long enough."

"Yes, that must be it. I'm not sure I like queer people."

"What about antique dealers?" I required in an injured tone. That tender deservence was in his eyes as she looked up. My heart jumped.

"They can't help themselves, I suppose, and they can be improved. Oh come on!"

Professor Johns hailed us from the tower of the fort. To our surprise he came out with a seagull in his arms and blood on his lean white hands.

"Good morning, my friends," he greeted us. "This is another of my friends. He hurt one of his wings and I have been doctoring him."

"Is his wing broken?" I inquired. "No. The bruise is rather deep, though. But I washed it and he'll be all right in a day or two."

"The poor thing!" Caroline exclaimed.

"You have an interesting place here, professor," I said.

His response was instantaneous. "And I love every crumbling brick of it," he declared with his illuminating smile. "Come, you must see it."

"The tower has been restored," Caroline exclaimed animatedly. "It's a dream of a place. Isn't that lovely beautiful?"

"Mr. Parados had to make the place inhabitable for me," Professor Johns explained. "But he wouldn't touch the walls. Every year the warm rains crumble away a little more of the original adobe."

He led us into the compound of the fort, which was about 150 feet square. The walls, some two feet thick, had been ten feet high at one time. Great gaps were broken in them. In the center of the compound was a goldfish pond, around it a vegetable garden still occupied by odds and ends of the fall planting.

"Lettuce for the rabbits," Professor Johns chuckled.

As we poked around the compound, turning up an old millstone, a primitive wagon wheel, a broken olla, Johns dwelt on the history of the fort.

"Think of it, my friends! A man building himself a fort against the coming of a nation! Shall we have a look at the tower?"

As we came around to the front of the fort a stentorian hail from the other side of the cove attracted our attention. Kirk was waving to us.

"You are wanted over here," he roared. "All of you. Get a move on!"

"More questions," I said, looking anxiously at Caroline. "I suppose we'd better go."

"Dear me," Professor Johns protested. "I thought I had told them everything I know. I so much wanted to get back to my book. Have the police any idea yet who shot Mr. Parados?"

"Their ideas embrace about everybody on the island," I said. "Lum We is Samuels' latest suspect."

The ordeal turned out to be not nearly so unpleasant as we had expected. Douglas Ross, the district attorney, and Dr. Steen, the district coroner, were the principal officers of the new arrivals. Dr. Steen was a negative sort of person, but Ross was incisive. He did most of the questioning. Johns and I were disposed of first and we managed to remain in the room while the others were examined. Ross made no impression on the man's austere gravity until he suddenly said: "Why did you drop that rose into the wastepaper basket?"

"I didn't," Grainger's lips tightened. "Don't lie. Why did you do it?"

"I didn't!" Grainger's eyes smoldered angrily as he stubbornly repeated his denial.

"No!" Ross inquired. "Why did your master slash you across the cheek?"

Grainger's hands knotted convulsively. "There's a red-handed murderer on this island," he cried harshly, ignoring the question. "I

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS Answered By Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Kimball, S. D.

Would you give me the titles of a dozen books dealing with Christian philosophy in a general way and helping a minister to understand theology better? I would like to know the conservative as well as the liberal viewpoint.

I suggest the following list for your consideration: "The Science and Philosophy," by J. S. Haldane; "What Do We Mean By God?" by G. M. Valentine; "The Quest for Certainty," by John Dewey; "The Lord of Life," edited by Malcolm Spence; "The Nature of the Physical World," by A. S. Eddington; "Ringing Realities," by Oscar L. Joseph; "Borden Parker Bowne," by Francis J. McConnell; "What Is Christian Education?" by George A. Cox; "The Place of Jesus Christ in Modern Christianity," by John Baillie; "The Christian Appropriation of God," by H. R. Mackintosh; "The Universe Around Us," by Sir James Jeans; and "Everyman's Psychology," by John Adams.

I am married, with three children. My husband I have recently learned has been posing as a bachelor and has conducted himself accordingly. He admits this misconduct. Prior to this we were fairly happy but now he expresses disappointment with me and thinks I and the children hinder him socially. I am willing to withdraw from the picture, return to business and send the children away to school. I am just about heartbroken over the entire situation.

What would you suggest doing? Kindly omit address.

On the facts as you state them I see no reason why you should be called upon to make so great a sacrifice for such a specimen of a husband. He figures on the face of your statement as a rascal greedy for the unrestraint of bachelorhood, somewhat unscrupulous in personal and social behavior. There is little prospect of your welfare in your association with him. I strongly incline to the opinion that you owe it to yourself, the children and the community to expose him.

Yet I notice running through your refined and thoughtful letter an acquiescent note foreign to the American woman's independent and self-respecting character. Do not submit to an amateur Henry the Eighth who demands that you aid and abet his treachery and meanness. Take the situation in hand by anticipating his further misconduct. This may destroy his delusion that he can do as he pleases about life's most binding obligations in this land of equality and freedom for women.

Begin with a face to face and calm assertion of your rights as a wife and a mother. If he endures, put him on probation until you are convinced of his good faith.

toward you and the children. If he is recalcitrant consult an attorney and be guided accordingly. Such a posture as you have unhappily married dreads a thorough cross examination at the hands of a competent lawyer.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am a young man, twenty-one years of age, and have been keeping company with a girl of the same age. A short time ago we fell into sin and the result is that if we do not marry soon there is disgrace staring us in the face. It is impossible for me to marry right away. I asked her to go to the doctor to see if this situation could not be remedied, but she claims that her religion, which is Catholic, would not permit her to commit any such act. I alone am to blame for her condition, and the deception which I have practiced on my mother adds to my anxiety and remorse.

I have been a fool, but do not turn me away, for I want your help. What shall I do?

Why is it impossible for you to marry? The situation in which you are involved cries aloud for marriage. It partly atones for your betrayal of a woman's honor, protects her prospective motherhood, saves her child and yours from undesired obloquy and acknowledges the parental relation for which you are jointly responsible. Marriage under these circumstances is not a matter for your choice; it is your imperative moral and social obligation to be fulfilled at once.

You should thank God that the girl's religious convictions prevented the commission of a serious crime which in your unmanly panic you suggested. It might have ended disastrously for all concerned. If she had followed your advice she and your child might have Red Sox roster as G. Ruth and was considered a good enough batsman to appear in a world series as a pinch hitter, Socks Seibold was a regular hurler with the Philadelphia Athletics.

A decade ago Seibold disappeared into the minor leagues, and little more was heard of him until he appeared at the top of the International league list with Reading in 1928. The Chicago Cubs called him in from their farm to use as trading material and sent him to the Braves. Seibold had a fair season last year, winning 12 games and losing 17, but it was not until the start of the 1930 race that he really began stepping out.

So far in a race only two months old, Seibold has pitched nine complete games and has won seven of them. He has not yet been removed from the hill, taking his complete turn every five or six days with a remarkable degree of success in a close race. He held the Phillies to six hits yesterday and won his seventh victory by a 5 to 1 score in the first game the teams have been able to play this week.

SPUDS TAKE FIRST FROM STEER HERD

Wichita Falls Seeks Return Of Bennett Or Gullie

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Fully convinced that they have a good chance to win a Texas league flag this year, the owners of the Wichita Falls Spudders are said to be laying plans to make their chances even better. The latest report has it that the Spud magnets are dickering for the return either of Red Bennett or Ted Gullie, both of whom went to the majors after pounding the ball prodigiously in this circuit last year.

A three-run outburst at the expense of Grimm in the seventh gave the league leaders their opener with Dallas 3 to 0, yesterday, and their fifth victory in six starts. Dave Danforth had the Oilers well in hand for five innings, but he was relieved for a pinch hitter in the sixth. The piece of strategy helped the Steers score three runs and go into the lead, but it backfired on them—in the next inning. Storti led the winners' assault with a homer and single, and Kloza had a triple and two singles.

Houston kept pace a step behind the leaders by taking Waco, 7 to 5, before a maifest crowd of 4,000 at Brenham. The Buffs played there again today. Hank Thormalahn, who previously had won eight of nine starts, was the Buffs' victim. His teammates staked him to a nice lead when they bumped Lingrel for four runs in the third frame, but the star pitcher couldn't hold it.

Shreveport came to life with the willow to out score the Fort Worth Cats, 11 to 7, in their series opener and retain their hold on fourth place. Led by Cashion, who banged a homer with a mate aboard, the Sports popped five Panther hurlers for a total of 15 hits, seven of them for extra bases.

The San Antonio Indians came back from their double beating of the previous day to defeat Beaumont, 8 to 5, when the veteran Tom Estill held his former teammates to eight hits. Oscar Eckhardt's string of consecutive hits was stopped at nine when he grounded out his first time up.

Legion's Chief Is Heard At Baylor, His Alma Mater

O. L. BODENHAMER

WACO, May 26 (AP)—Every citizen's obligation to the government consists of three simple, fundamental phases. O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, told the graduating class of Baylor University, where he delivered the commencement address at this, his Alma Mater, here.

First, the moral obligation of protecting the sanctity of the ballot. Second, the individual use of the ballot as the means of protecting the institutions of the government.

Third, the obligation of transmitting the blessing of citizenship to the future of America through the education of our youth.

Extent "The extent of the individual's obligation to the government is determined by his ability to enjoy the opportunities afforded by the rights of citizenship under our government, and his ability to render service," Bodenhamer said.

Likewise, his obligation is increased as education increases.

To conserve American citizenship means more than to hold it in status quo. Conservation contemplates growth and improvement. The parable of the talents is not a far fetched illustration of the theory that conservation is principal plus accumulated profit. The talents were not only conserved, but improved. The obligation to conserve and improve our citizenship, together with all of its blessings and privileges, is just as clear cut today as it was at the time of that parable.

"We print articles and paint pictures and proclaim speeches about the necessity of conserving America's natural resources—about better cow and faster horse—and yet, with all of our conservation talk, we neglected commodity in American manhood and American womanhood. The cheapest and most neglected commodity in America today is human life, and human life will remain cheap, and laws will continue unenforced until we produce an educated citizenship that will inspire public sentiment for the enforcement of law and for the protection of human life, and that will establish, on the part of the individual, the proper attitude toward his Government. What we need is not more talk but more exemplary lives, but more obedience to the laws which are now on our statute books. Public opinion is vital to the establishment of this spirit of obedience. This public opinion can be molded by the Nation's leaders. There is, therefore, still work that can be done by the young men and women of today who are being graduated from our colleges and who, by virtue of their training, should become the leaders of American life, and the molders of public opinion.

Picture "As an indirect approach to this possible service on our part, may I call to your attention a picture which was painted by the manpower of America, during the recent World War? We had three million, six hundred thousand white men in uniform. Of this number, eight hundred thousand were classified, by the War Department, as illiterate. Some of these eight hundred thousand should read and write their own names, but for practical purposes, they were classified as illiterates. Such was the astoundingly large percentage of illiterates from the young manhood of America. Now the Government, time of war, does not decline, as a rule, the service of a man because of his illiteracy, provided he is physically fit. But the government did decline the services of seventy thousand men, who were discharged by the War Department, because of their mental deficiency, even though they had passed their first physical examination.

"Now, if illiteracy reduces the effectiveness of man for military service, how much more does it affect his ability to serve his country during the time of peace?"

"We read a great deal today about world peace, about naval parity, about national defense and about the future safety of America. Someone has said that the real strength of America lies in its Army and Navy. They are important, but in my opinion, the real strength of this republic can be found in the boys and girls of today. Properly trained and properly schooled in the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship, the youth of our land constitute the bulwark of the future of America.

Crane Wildcat Strikes Gas Flow

FORT WORTH, May 26 (AP)—Cranfill Brothers No. 1 Tubbs, Crane county wildcat, which is expected as a result of finding a high lime to open a new permian basin pool, found the lime softening at 2,811 feet and struck a million and a half feet of gas at that level. It was shut down at that depth Wednesday morning, waiting on a control head.

The test is in section 8, block B-27. Gulf owns some 77,000 acres in the area affected by the test, and Humble is also a large acreage owner.

Southland Royalty Company is the principal royalty holder, owning from an eighth to a half of the royalty in more than 100,000 acres. Waddell Tubbs, Edwards Brothers and Estes Ranches, all large bodies cover this section of Crane county.

June took second and Bishop third. San struck out to end the inning. Ginter did cross the plate in the fifth. The Railroader shortstop singled over second base, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and came home when Gilliam was obliging enough to mess up Mason's grounder. Bishop rolled out. Simms to Baker, to end the game. Schwarzenbach and Baber of the T and P each hit safely twice while Adams and West of the Cosden team were achieving the same distinction.
