Santa Fe Railroad Is Proposing Air Freight

The Santa Fe Railway and its wholly-owned affiliate, Santa Fe Skyway, are filing applications with the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D. C. for permanent certificates of public convenience and necessity to operate civil air-craft service in scheduled operations for the transportation of property and United States mail over routes within the general area of the Company's line of railroad, Fred G. Gurley, Santa Fe's President, announced today.

Authority is sought to operate over two or more such routes in combination and to operate non-stop service between any two or more points along the routes as traffic requirements indicate. Presently Santa Fe Skyway is engaged in carriage of freight by air as a contract carrier. It owns four Douglas DC-4 and three Douglas DC-3 aircraft. Additional aircraft as needed will be acquired.

Pointing out the Santa Fe has been handling mail since 1871, Mr. Gurley said that the Santa Fe seeks to place itself in a position to handle property and mail by either rail or air, as will best serve the needs of its customers, the Post Office Department and the communities involved.

"We are confident that our proposed air operations can be conducted on a profitable basis, with reasonable rates to be established by the Civil Aeronautics Board, solely on the basis of compensation for service rendered," Mr. Gurley declared.

"And for this reason, we are waiving any subsidy in connection with the transportation of mail to which we might be entitled under the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act."

"The Santa Fe," Mr. Gurley continued, "is a financially sound transportation organization and has demonstrated that it welcomes new technologies and new techniques. We have also demonstrated that we utilize them advantageously in the public service as they are developed. We see no reason why we should not be allowed to engage in air transportation as well as surface transportation, thus enabling us to provide a well rounded out transportation service in the public interest and one designed to fit all the transportation needs of our patrons."

"In all of its operations, Santa Fe Skyway uses trained veterans from the armed services, excellent equipment, and goes to extremes to operate safely," Mr. Gurley added.

Routes to be served by Santa Fe Skyway is as follows:

Route No. 1: Chicago-Los Angeles-San Francisco; Chicago, Fort Madison, Kansas City, Topeka, Wichita, Amarillo, Albuquerque, Winslow, Phoenix, Blythe, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Fresno, Merced, Modesto, Stockton, Oakland, and San Francisco.

Route No. 2: Kansas City-Galveston; Kansas City, Wichita, Ponca City, Oklahoma City, Ardmore, Fort Worth-Dallas, Temple, Houston, and Galveston.

Route No. 3: Amarillo-Galveston; Amarillo, Lubbock, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Brownwood, Temple, Houston, and Galveston.

Profits from Prepared Sauces

If a good sauce is the symbol of civilized eating, as all epicures and food fanciers profess, then we housewives can be content. For we have indeed maintained the standards of our tables.

In spite of rationing and shortages of certain foods, good sauces are still available in every shop. For we are a land abounding in sauces—prepared sauces. The kind that come already mixed by master chefs, bottled and sealed for discriminating table and kitchen use.

Among these, none excels in versatility and tang, the old-fashioned 57 beefsteak sauce. Once this was reserved exclusively for meats. But clever cooks have lately learned that beefsteak sauce is adaptable to other foods as well. Fact is, up to now, this sauce has really missed its calling.

For it has a pungent tang, an exquisite bouquet and flavor that enhances most every kind of dish. It is excellent with fish, game, and cheese. Adds full-bodied flavor to gravies, sauces, soups. Is piquant in salad dressings, sandwiches, vegetables, and sea-food cocktails.

Here is a list of uses you can go by:

Serve 57 Sauce on:

Broiled steaks, chops, kidneys, hamburgers, luncheon meats, and cold sliced meat.

Brush 57 Sauce, just before broiling, on:

Fish, onion and tomato slices, liver sausage, and luncheon meat.

Combine 57 Sauce with:

Butter before spreading bread for meat, egg, and fish sandwiches. Stews, gravies, and barbecue sauces. Fish cocktail sauces and salad dressings. The filling when devilling eggs. Bread stuffings for baked fish and meats. Meat stock soups just before serving. Tomato juice cocktail. Canapé spreads. Olive oil, then brush on paper thin slices of potato and bake in hot oven. Leftover meats in preparing sandwich fillings.

Nice Notions

A dash of 57 Sauce adds: Piquancy to meat and chicken gravies. Zest to tomato juice. Flavor to scrambled eggs. A tang to chow mein.

A dash of 57 Sauce combined with cream cheese makes a delicious sandwich spread. Season cottage cheese with 57 Sauce for an excellent celery filling. Chops go further if breaded—a little 57 Sauce added to the egg mixture will give a pleasant flavor. A little 57 Sauce when combined with the egg gives a master's touch to the coating for sautéed fish.

A dash of 57 Sauce gives an added tang to French dressing or mayonnaise. Spread 57 Sauce on meat or fish before broiling. The pungent flavor penetrates throughout. 57 Sauce adds pep to any meat loaf. 57 Sauce gives a splay flavor to stuffings. 57 Sauce is a stand-by for meat, cheese and fish sandwiches.

Wide Board Makes An Easier Ironing

COLLEGE STATION — Housewives are finding that ironing can be made much easier by using a wide, 20-inch board, constructed to fit over the regular ironing board.

Mrs. Florence W. Low, associate specialist in home management of the Extension Service, has introduced the wide ironing board attachment to many homemakers in the state, and they have found that it saves a lot of effort normally spent in shifting articles about on a regular-sized ironing board.

The wide board is not a replacement for the regular board, but is a useful added feature, Mrs. Lowe says. Most suitable material to use in constructing the attachment is 7-8 inch plywood, sawed out to extend two inches beyond each end of the regular board. To hold the wide board in place, four wooden strips, placed underneath to fit the edges of the regular board, can be screwed in place. The attachment is easily put on and removed, and the wooden cleats hold it firmly in place, says Mrs. Lowe.

Most ironing boards now in use are approximately 14 inches wide, with a taper at one end. The advantage of a straight, long board, six inches wider than the average, is easily seen, she adds. Many homemakers have found it especially handy for ironing flat pieces. It also saves a lot of "shifting" when ironing trousers, slacks and skirts.

Foreign Bride Makes Home At College

DENTON — Newest of foreign brides making a home in North Texas State College's Vet Village is Mrs. Annette Rahalho Phillips, wife of veteran Richard Elgin Phillips, business administration major from Marshall.

Phillips met his wife at the USO in Natal, Brazil, where he was stationed. Their courtship encountered an obstacle for a time because of the Brazilian custom of not allowing girls to have dates unless they are accompanied by a chaperone, or are engaged.

Mrs. Phillips, the niece of a Brazilian senator and of the late Gen. Cesario de Melo of the Brazilian army, attended an American Presbyterian missionary school in Natal, and therefore can speak English well. Her father is treasurer of a railroad in the state of Rio Grande de Norte.

Health Notes

By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN.—With the hunting season now open, Dr. Geo. Cox, State Health Officer, is urging that all or other persons spending time in wooded areas use all possible precautions against being bitten by ticks which may infect the victim with relapsing fever. He further advises that when a tick is found, it be removed from the body as soon as possible and that care be taken not to crush in handling.

"Tick-bite fever is contracted," Dr. Cox explained, "either from the bite of infected ticks or by absorbing infectious material through breaks or scratches in the skin." According to Dr. Cox, the disease does not spread from person to person by direct contact but only through the bite of an infected tick or body louse. Prompt removal of the insect is of utmost importance.

Relapsing fever, commonly called tick-bite fever, is characterized by sudden onset, intense headache located in the front part of the head and pains in the back and limbs. The fever lasts from three to five days before slowly declining. The temperature will then remain normal for about a week, when the fever repeats itself. There may be three, four, or even more such relapses, accounting for the disease name.

Dr. Cox said that wearing of suitable clothing which prevents ticks getting next to the skin is of utmost importance in the prevention of this disease. The insects may be removed with the fingers but the use of tweezers is recommended since this helps prevent leaving the head embedded in the skin. After removing or handling a tick, the hands should be washed thoroughly with soap and warm water.
