Steak on the hoof, to the value of $175 and more than 1,000 ration points, is hauled up from New York's East river after spending a night in a sewer mouth. The cow went AWOL while enroute to a packing plant and was spotted in the river next morning. River police, the department of sanitation and the A. S. P. C. A. cooperated in the rescue of the bovine.

Butler's Sermon Deals With Building of Life

BABY GIRL BURIED

Using the words of the Apostle Paul as recorded in the 21st verse of the 1st Chapter of Philippians as the basis for his remarks, the Rev. R. L. Butler, former local minister, now of Abilene, brought an inspiring message to the graduating class of the Farwell high school Sunday evening in the annual baccalaureate services.

Launching immediately from his text: "For me to live is Christ . . ." the former local pastor observed at the outset that "life is the most serious thing we can think of" and from that premise he launched into a discussion of the full meaning of life.

"A life of eating, drinking and dying would be so little that we would not be worthy of an existence if that were all it meant," Rev. Butler declared, adding, "you and I are here for another reason."

Turning briefly to three minor factors that are commonly accepted as the basis for life, the speaker took occasion to discredit heredity and environment as the controlling factors in life, and went on to say, "neither of these can determine your destiny. . . Either of these may be allowed to be controlling factors in life, but history proves they are not the real controlling factors". At this point he took occasion to call the roll of many notable persons whose names have "marched across the pages of history from an unfavorable background. A search of your history will reveal that many of the noblest

Rev. R. L. Butler, former pastor of the local Methodist Church, has accepted an invitation to address the local Men's Club in their regular meeting on Thursday night, President C. M. Henderson of the club, has announced.

Rev. Butler, who came here last Sunday to spend the entire week, was unexpectedly called to Abilene Monday to conduct funeral services for one of his church members, announced before his departure that he would return for the engagement with the club, and remain over to preach the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class of the Oklahoma Lane high school.

Golden Discusses World Problems

"What graduates will face tomorrow as world problems and personalities" was the theme of the commencement address to the Texico seniors, given last Thursday night by President Floyd D. Golden, of Eastern New Mexico College, Portales.

Stating at the very beginning, "I want to list some of these problems—but I cannot answer them for you," President Golden flung some of the challenges of tomorrow at the seven graduates seated on the stage of the auditorium.

"The No. 1 problem", he went on, is that of "winning world peace". To do this the speaker pointed out, "we must do two things. First, win the war and second, win the peace by obtaining an understanding of the type of peace which must be established to endure".

"Currently," President Golden continued, "many are confused . . . many have the mistaken idea that peace can be established quickly . . . but until the fundamental privileges of peace (justice and equality) are given to all the nations participating, it will be of no avail."

"The millions of youth now on the battlefield will not come home in the same condition of mind they had on leaving," he warned, "instead they will have a broader perspective and higher ideals . . . and our only hope is that we start thinking and planning now for the future."

He went on to enumerate the personalities that would be involved in the establishing of a world peace, listing Winston Churchill, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, Hitler, Stalin and Tojo. "The majority of us are inclined to say now, 'Let's kill every last one of them (the enemy) from the earth, in order that we may never have another war', but I say to you, that is non-Christian, and to have an enduring peace we must have a Christian peace in regard to our relationship with all the peoples of the earth."

In conclusion, he admonished his audience "The Bible plan of peace (Continued on Last Page)

Farmers Preparing for Wheat Harvest

With prospects in view for one of the best wheat crops in recent years, Farmer County farmers began this week making what advance preparations they could in the face of a serious manpower shortage, seeking to combine their crops in the shortest time possible.

Good rains fell over the entire county last Wednesday, virtually assuring a good yield of wheat over this entire area. The precipitation in Farwell measured .68 of an inch, and reports from over the county indicate that at least an average of a half inch fell elsewhere. Additional moisture fell on Saturday, but most of this rain fell northwest of here beyond the Pleasant Hill community, causing Running Water Draw to swell to half-bank for the first time this year.

Wheat Late This Year

Wheat growers generally agree that the harvest this year will run around ten days later than usual, with the peak of operations centering around the 20th of June. Many fields are already heading out.

While the wheat men are making arrangements for their harvest, the row crop farmers are taking advantage of the abundance of moisture and warm weather by putting their spring crops in the ground. All farmers agree that conditions have not been more favorable for wheat and row crops at this time of the season in recent years. Stockmen report increasingly good range conditions, with most cattle shedding off as they roam the velvet prairies.

Mrs. Martha Akers Buried At Bovina

Mrs. Martha Emley Akers, 52, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. T. Caldwell, of Bovina on Sunday, and funeral services were held at the Methodist Church in that city on Monday by Rev. Roscoe Trostle, pastor. Interment was in Bovina cemetery.

Born in Washington County, Ky., she came to Texas with her parents in 1871 and in 1877 was married to H. C. Akers, who preceded her in death in 1941. Five children were born to the union, two of which, Mrs. E. T. Caldwell of Bovina and Cpl. Anna L. Akers, of Camp Hood, Texas, survive.

Mrs. Akers had lived with her daughter and family in Bovina for nearly eight years. She joined the First Christian Church in 1875 and had been a steadfast Christian since that time.

Other than the immediate family, survivors include three great-grandchildren from Bovina, Sgt. E. T. Caldwell, Jr., at San Angelo, Lt. G. R. Caldwell, somewhere in India, and Rita Earlene; a son-in-law, A. O. Sampson and three grandchildren and one great grandchild of Lubbock.

Roberts Denied Place On Republican Ballot

M. C. Roberts, Texico grain dealer and pronounced anti New Dealer, was denied the right for his name to appear on the Republican ballot in the New Mexico primary election by the state supreme court of New Mexico last Friday.

Roberts had announced as a candidate for congress on the Republican ticket, but his application for a place on the ballot was declined by the secretary of state on the grounds that he had not been affiliated with the Republican party the required length of time under a state statute.

Roberts then carried his fight to the state supreme court, which concurred with the ruling of the secretary of state.

He has announced that he will continue his fight against the administration and will support the Republican ticket in New Mexico.

Major Thornton Home After 21 Months As Bombardier Overseas

Major Julian Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thornton of this city, arrived at his farm home a mile north of this city last week after spending 21 months in England with the U. S. Air Forces.

Major Thornton, who was the bombardier of his crew, made 25 missions out over enemy territory while stationed in England, including the historical trip of his ship, "Stormy Weather". On this particular flight, the bomb carriage failed to open and a member of the crew unloosed the bombs by hand on the return trip. The ship was finally brought back to England and landed in a field, after running into a haystack.

Thornton said that he planned to return to England "before the end of the summer". He and his wife left here the first of the week for Albuquerque, where they will visit a few days with his wife's parents before he reports to Lubbock.

"I was one of the first of the air forces to land in England," Major Thornton revealed, adding, "it began to look as though I would be among the last to leave."

He did not reveal much of his combat assignments, but talked freely of conditions in England and of the people there. He has visited London many times and said that only occasionally could you find a place where buildings were wrecked by the German bombers.

He was very complimentary of the English people. "Of course, we have a different appreciation of things," he said, using to illustrate his point the fact that Englishmen would laugh lustily at what Americans considered a silly movie.

Asked if he had been on any missions lately, the Farwell Major replied, "only one" without going into further details.

He told of seeing Lt. Tom Caldwell at an officers' club in London, explaining that when he finally made his way around to contact the local lad, Caldwell had made his way from the building and they never met. He added that he had met a number of old Texas A & M College friends, but none of the boys from this immediate region.

"It sure feels good to be here," he said, as he walked from the cow lot toward the house in the dusk of the evening.

INSTALLING NEW SCALE

The Lariat Elevator at Lariat, is installing a new Fairbanks scale at its place of business. The new scale is the registering beam type, with a capacity of 30 tons. It will be equipped with a 10x40 platform, capable of handling large trucks and trailers.

District Judge James W. Witherpoon has set Saturday, May 27, at 10 a. m. in the district court room in Farwell as the time and place of hearing a petition that seeks to enjoin the Farwell school board, the Bovina school board and the County School Board from attaching or adjoining any part of the State Line School district with either the Farwell or the Bovina districts.

An eleven-page petition, together with a citation, citing members of the three above-named boards, was served on each member of the boards early this week by Sheriff Earl Both.

The injunction hearing is set on the date which had been set as the time the voters of the State Line district would vote on consolidation of the district with the Bovina school district.

Back of the injunction hearing is a long story, which briefly, is about as follows: A few years ago the State Line district was consolidated with the Pleasant Hill district in New Mexico to form the Texas-New Mexico school district No. 1. After carrying on for a few years under that consolidation, the voters of the original State Line district voted to withdraw from the consolidation with Pleasant Hill. The election carried and the State Line district returned to a common school district with all the district being located in Texas.

More recently, a move was started to consolidate the State Liners with Bovina, and an election for that purpose was scheduled for May 27.

The plaintiffs in the injunction suit have employed an Amarillo law firm to represent their cause. So far as could be learned here, no legal talent has been retained to represent the defendants.

All Farm Boys Under 26 To Take Physicals

A memorandum received at the office of the local board of Selective Service the first of the week provides that all young men who are under 26 years of age and are now classified 2-C will be required to take their pre-induction physical examinations in the near future.

No exact date has been given as to when these registrants will be required to report to Lubbock for such physicals, but it is understood here that all such men in Curry County, New Mexico, are to be given their examinations before June 30th. In the absence of a clearly defined date, one board member expressed the opinion that the class 2-C boys under 26 would be sent to Lubbock in accordance with quotas assigned the local board in succeeding monthly calls.

"This does not necessarily mean that all such young men are facing induction in the immediate future," member said, adding, "although it may be a move in that direction. We can only be governed by future regulations."

Anderson expressed the hope that community committees, who would assume responsibility for the raising of the fund, could be organized and ready for action on the opening day of the drive.

TRIPLETS HOME FROM VISIT TO WASHINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Triplett returned home early last week from a month's visit with their son, Lt. (jg) Baylor Triplett, in the Nation's capital.

"We had a great time and saw many interesting sights," Mr. Triplett said on his return. They were fortunate to be in Washington at the time of the blooming of the famed cherry trees, which he described as a "most beautiful sight".

From a vantage point at the base of Lincoln Memorial, they witnessed the funeral procession that took the body of Secretary Knox to Arlington Cemetery for burial.

Supt. Carter Delivers Address to Seniors

Outlining four points as "tips to youth", Supt. J. T. Carter delivered the commencement address to the nineteen 1944 Farwell seniors, Tuesday night, with a large crowd attending the program in the auditorium of the school.

"The first thing I would mention," Supt. Carter said, "is the fact that we cannot live our own lives. No one is so unimportant that his life does not in some way affect or touch that of another, whether it be only parents, friends, relatives or casual acquaintances."

"The cry of many—both young and old—when caught in some misdemeanor," the speaker pointed out, "is 'This will kill my mother', which simple statement is proof in itself that our lives do not belong to us alone. Many of us are prone to begin to think too late—after damage has been done through our own carelessness to hurt the persons we love."

"I charge you as you live every day, to ask yourselves of each act, Is this wise or foolish?", and to build your life accordingly. There

Loans Offered On Bulk-Stored Sudan

Loans on Sudan grass seed at a basic rate of 6c per pound will be offered on farm-stored bulk seed, according to a telegram from the director of the southern AAA region. Previously, the loan had been offered only on cleaned and bagged seed stored in a bonded warehouse, but the State AAA Committee requested the above amendment on the grounds that Sudan seed is customarily handled in bulk in this area.

Final details of the loan rate scale and sampling procedure remain to be worked out, but farmers are assured that they may avail themselves of the loan whether or not they are able to have their seed cleaned and accepted for storage by a warehouse.

BIGGEST POPPY SALE Predicted For 1944

The biggest poppy day sale in the history of the American Legion Auxiliary is predicted by Mable Newberry president of the Friona unit, who said yesterday she would not be surprised if more than double the usual number were sold.

Mrs. Newberry explained that the materials are furnished free to the veterans by the American Legion Auxiliary. Volunteer workers teach the disabled men to make the poppies, and the entire program is under the management of the Auxiliary.

"Veterans and their dependents are the ones who benefit from our poppy sale," she said, "not only from the money that results from selling poppies, but also from having something tangible to do instead of having to rest, read or talk. These men in the government hospitals are delighted to keep their fingers busy and their minds occupied with the intricacies of fashioning the poppies. Needy wives and children also reap benefits from the sale of the flowers."

"We have been selling these Memorial Day flowers for 24 years and each year the poppy becomes more closely identified with the American Legion Auxiliary and our disabled men. We hope the service will continue indefinitely," she said. May 27 will be observed as poppy day.

Revival Is Closed At Oklahoma Lane

The Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church closed a very successful revival Sunday night, Rev. Roscoe Trostle, pastor, said today.

"The entire community was helped by the gospel preaching of Rev. U. S. Sherrill of Dimmitt, whose consecrated life meant much to many individuals," the pastor said.

There were several dedications, 16 conversions, and 16 additions to the church as the visible results of the meeting.

Rev. Trostle also expressed his gratitude for the Baptist cooperation during the revival.

Spare Stamp Valid Only For Identification

Housewives buying sugar are cautioned by the OPA that spare stamp No. 37 in Book 4 is for identification only and is not to be given in ration payment for sugar.

Stamps No. 30 and 31, Book 4, are good for 5 lbs. indefinitely, and stamp No. 40, Book 4, is good for 5 lbs. for home canning. Other sugar for home canning may be obtained in the limit of 10 lbs. per person through the ration office, when the fresh fruit for canning is available.

Officials pointed out that when application is made for home canning the spare stamp No. 37—not sugar stamp No. 37—is to be taken from the ration book of each person for whom application is made and attached to the request when it is sent to the board.

Because of this misunderstanding, sugar stamp No. 37 has been canceled and will have no ration value in the future, officials stated.

SPOILAGE—AND HOW TO AVOID IT IN 1944

COLLEGE STATION—Most home canners have seen swelled cans or know about the danger of poisoning from botulism, but there are other types of spoilage which they should know about and guard against.

"Flat sour", offers one example. Mrs. Winifred J. Leverenz, specialist in food preservation for the Extension Service, explains that corn and shelled beans and peas are susceptible to this type of spoilage, as well as pumpkins and snap beans. When this occurs, the food usually is cloudy, has an unpleasant odor, and a disagreeable, sour flavor.

This type of spoilage can be prevented by canning these foods immediately after gathering them, by making sure the food is clean, by processing under pressure the proper length of time and by cooling it quickly and storing in a cool place. Since the bacteria which cause flat sour develop best between 100 and 130 degrees F., Mrs. Leverenz says canners should avoid letting food stand at this temperature for any length of time before, during, or after canning.

An unusual type of spoilage sometimes happens with beets when they turn black in color. While this change does not necessarily indicate that the food is poisonous, it becomes most unappetizing. The bacteria causing this develop only in the presence of iron either in the water, or because the beets were pre-cooked in an iron kettle or in a chipped enamel vessel. On long storage the iron base of the can may cause this discoloration.

Occasionally canned greens, especially spinach, will have a bad odor, a slimy texture and a cloudy liquid. Thorough washing is necessary to help prevent this, because greens grow close to the soil and may be more heavily contaminated with bacteria than taller vegetables. Mrs. Leverenz explains. Greens should not be packed too tightly or they will be more likely to spoil, because there is slower heat penetration. Fill the container within two inches of the top of solid food, cover with boiling liquid and run a knife through the center several times to make sure the boiling liquid will reach the middle.

Health Notes

By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN—Contrary to the popular belief that pyorrhea is incurable, this is only true of the most advanced cases. Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, advises those persons who even suspect the presence of pyorrhea to take time by the forelock and seek an early diagnosis so that proper treatment can be instituted while the disease is still curable.

"Early detection and proper treatment represent the formula for a successful cure. This means that the dentist must have an opportunity to discover the presence of pyorrhea at the earliest possible moment since the symptoms are often so vague that the patient is unaware of its existence," Dr. Cox said. "Regular visits to the family dentist are therefore extremely important."

The treatment of pyorrhea is not an involved procedure. In the average early case one of the main therapeutic features is the proper hygienic care of teeth and gums as outlined by any reputable dentist. Carelessness regarding mouth hygiene is usually the basic cause for the condition.

The family dentist can usually remove the cause of the trouble, Dr. Cox said and when this has been done intelligent routine home care of the mouth by the patient will effect a cure in the majority of early cases.

Concern regarding pyorrhea should not be based upon the misguided notion of its incurability, according to the Health Officer, but rather that it be discovered by the dentist when still in a curable stage.

Yes, Madam, we still have a supply...

A very unusual statement during war times! Just think for a moment—how many times during the last few months have you been confronted with the following remark?—"Sorry, madam, but there will be no more until the war is over." Sure it's disheartening to you, also to the merchant who has to make such a statement.

—But, natural gas is one pre-war product that is still reaching you on schedule, any minute of the day or night. With a twist of the wrist, natural gas service instantly appears to give warmth to homes . . . to cook meals . . . to provide refrigeration . . . to heat water for baths, for laundry, and in many other ways to lighten housework in general—thus making life easier during these busy days and nights.

Natural Gas is also serving both civilian and war industries.

Natural Gas is nature's own to give and Southern Union's to provide the people of this city in war or in peace.

MASTITIS CAUSES HUGE LOSS TO DAIRY INDUSTRY

COLLEGE STATION—Mastitis costs the dairy industry annually about 70 million dollars, according to A. L. Darnell, professor of dairy husbandry at Texas A & M. The loss is brought about largely through loss in milk production of infected cows. Services of a veterinarian should be obtained wherever available for diagnosis and treatment of infected herds.

The average incidence of infection among cows in dairy herds investigated is from 30 to 50 percent. About 90% of cases are due to the organism streptococcus agalactiae or mastitis and the remainder to staphylococcus and bacillus organisms, Darnell said.

The Hotis test combined with a physical examination of the udder is one of the most practical tests used for detecting this infection. The two general methods of treatment are use of vaccine chemicals or drugs administered by injection into the udder. Prevention of infection in a dairy herd is more important than any method of treatment.

The following rules are set up:

1. Prevent suckling among calves;
2. keep bred heifers separate from older cows if there is an udder infection in any of the older cows;
3. barn lots should be well drained and kept clean of manure and litter, bedding should be cleaned and changed frequently;
4. every cow purchased and added to the herd should be tested and carefully examined for udder infection;
5. milking should be tested once a week and all cows Hotis tested every 60 days;
6. when infected cows are discovered they should be isolated and milked separately;
7. sanitary methods should be used in milking all cows, as careless in this procedure is the easiest way to spread mastitis in a herd.

Acute mastitis usually is caused by a staphylococcus infection of the udder. In such cases the cow's feed should be changed, with very laxative foods given. Give one pound

Epsom Salts in a quart of warm water, if an experienced person cannot be obtained to administer sulfanilamide. With sulfanilamide give one pint linseed oil. The animal should be protected from exposure to cold winds or rain. Sulfanilamide administered orally produces good results in treatment of this type of mastitis, but should be given by a vet. Where body temperature is normal and acute inflammation begins to subside, use of hot applications to the udder will be of considerable benefit.

COTTONSEED OIL MILL OPERATORS TO MEET

COLLEGE STATION—The 18th annual Short Course for Cottonseed Oil Mill Operators to be held at the A & M College May 28-June 3, will dedicate the new Cottonseed Products Research Laboratory building, erected under an allocation of $50,000 by the Texas Cotton Research Committee, with the balance of the construction cost provided by funds from the A & M College, Jack Howell of Bryan general chairman of the College Relations Committee of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association, has announced.

The short course is held annually in cooperation with the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association. Professor F. F. Bishop, of the department of chemical engineering is director of the short course.

Groups will be formed among the registrants, and will be assigned either to laboratory operations, or to lectures and discussions of problems involving oil mill operations. The assignments will be rotated.

Retreating never won a battle.

MODERN MILKING METHODS OUTLINED BY SPECIALIST

COLLEGE STATION—Families who still cling to the old practice of using syrup or lard buckets as milk pails are inviting trouble, for these are difficult to clean and furnish hiding places for bacteria. In addition, the buckets with a rim around the top rust easily.

A seamless, small-topped or hooded milk pail is recommended by the Texas A & M Extension Service. If a hooded pail is not available, a seamless straight-edge one certainly should be provided, says Gladys Martin, Extension specialist in home dairying.

Another important piece of equipment necessary to clean milk is the strainer. Select one which can be cleaned easily and which is large enough to take care of the milk produced. Miss Martin advises. She considers preferable the strainer in which a cotton filter pad can be used. The pad should be used only once, then discarded.

Use of chlorine water to act as a sterilizer also is essential to the proper handling of milk. Following their use, milk utensils should be first rinsed with cool or lukewarm water. Using hot water cooks the casein in the milk and makes the containers hard to clean. Next wash the buckets, strainers and bottles with hot water and an alkaline washing powder. Use a stiff brush, for it will clean much better than a dish rag.

Groups will be formed among the registrants, and will be assigned either to laboratory operations, or to lectures and discussions of problems involving oil mill operations. The assignments will be rotated.

and soap.

After the bucket, strainer, and milk containers have been washed they should be rinsed with boiling water and turned wrong side up to dry. They should not be wiped. Just before starting to milk rinse the utensils in the chlorine solution to sterilize them. This practice costs only about a half cent a day, Miss Martin estimates.

Farm products should cost more today than ever before. When a farmer has to know the botanical name of the product he is raising; the zoological name of the insect that eats it; and the chemical name of what kills the insect . . . somebody's got to pay.

KARL'S AUTO CLINIC*BRASS KEEPS BRIGHT

COLLEGE STATION—Apply lacquer to clean brass fixtures to eliminate frequently polishing. When articles are treated this way they require only dusting and washing.

Mrs. Bernice Clayton, specialist in home improvement for the Extension Service, outlines this procedure for the job. Dust with a soft cloth, wash in hot suds and dry. Remove spots with a mild acid, such as hot vinegar and salt, or tomato juice. Wash the fixture again and rinse thoroughly. Apply brash police with a soft cloth, rub with polishing cloth until the surface is bright as you wish, and finally apply the lacquer.

To Our Friends and Customers

A growing city is almost invariably a city with a friendly and hospitable spirit. Sometimes a city achieves a sudden growth as a result of an oil boom or the discovery of other wealth hidden beneath its soil. But these instances are only rare. Most cities are man made.

Small cities become great cities through the vision and energy of its citizens. Such a city constantly seeks new capital investment in its development, new enterprises, new industries, new payrolls and new citizens.

This program of city building, featuring the welcoming hand of friendship to new citizens and new enterprises and accompanied by the fullest possible support of the industries it already has, brings rich rewards. The great cities of the Southwest were built and are being built in just such manner.

The Southwestern Public Service Company is an independent company operating wholly under local management, since it has no holding company over it whatsoever. Thus its officers and managers are in position to conduct the operations of the Company under a policy of cooperation with the people of the cities and communities it serves.

This policy means the finest possible service to the public at the lowest possible rates consistent with such service. It also means the fullest cooperation with the citizens in all matters leading to the development and upbuilding of the cities and communities served by the Company.

persons came from the slums."

Turning then to a more personal application, the minister said with emphasis, "You have the power to determine what your life shall amount to," and made an impassioned plea that thought "be kindled in the minds of the youth of our land."

Looking to the future, Rev. Butler said that a new era was being born, and "you are going to have a great deal to do with what that era shall be."

Stressing the point that "life is ninety percent attitude," the former pastor observed "tell me your desires and I'll tell you your outcome," he plead with the class for a proper attitude in life.

"Don't be a goose-egg when there are so many possibilities in life today," he begged.

Acknowledging that "we live in a world of mysteries", he called upon the class "to develop a knowledge that would see God behind those mysteries".

In conclusion he stressed three points:

(1) Train yourself today for the best you know that day. At this point here called some of the geniuses of the world, observing that "they are not dropped from the fingertips of God".

(2) Discipline yourself to live by some plan that is greater than yourself.

(3) Develop a Christian faith, bring your life under the greatest of all influences. Christian faith gives you an association that will not be found in the gutters. By Christian faith you can live under the influence of the Man of Galilee and you'll never have any regrets."

The school auditorium was packed almost to capacity for the service which opened with Mrs. W. W. Vinyard playing the processional. Rev. Paul H. Tripp offered the invocation and Rev. W. C. In conclusion, Supt. Carter turned to "the art of making friends", admonishing the class to turn away from those traits of personality which they disliked in others. "If you dislike the boastful, the selfish, the two-faced, the flatterer, the liar and the cheat, I would warn you now that you must set your life along other paths if you are to make friends in the years ahead."

EXPERIENCE NECESSARY

"No Experience Necessary" is a common phrase in advertisements in many areas, today; because many lines of business are forced to take unskilled workers.

But, everyone knows that the experienced man can produce more when he's working on the job he knows best how to do.

IN FARMING, THIS IS DOUBLY TRUE; and more farmers have the experience and skill to produce cotton than any other crop.

Cotton farmers who have not only the experience, but the soils and equipment that are best suited for this crop, will make their maximum contribution to the war effort by producing more cotton in 1944.

We have definite assurance that we will have cotton harvesters when the cotton is ready to harvest next fall!
