Canadian Born English Bride and Son Arrive After Delays

Arriving at her final destination after virtually a full month of traveling, Mrs. Irene Dyer and her three-year-old son stepped from a Santa Fe pullman car here Thursday afternoon into the arms of her American husband, Claude Dyer of this city, after many months of delay and anxiety.

It was on February 24th that Mrs. Dyer was notified at her home in Eveshan, Worchester, England, to report to a staging area at Bourmouth, where she would be processed for taking passage on the President Tyler. Here she, along with hundreds of "Mrs. G. I. Joes", were to be met with their first delay after pulling up stakes back in her home town.

After being aboard the President Tyler for two days, some trouble developed about the ship, either in the boiler room or the airconditioning system that forced the ship into dry dock for repairs, with the result that all the American-bound brides from England were sent ashore, and transported to another staging area at Tidsworth, where three days were required to rearrange the passenger list before the brides were placed aboard one of the finest of vessels—The Queen Mary.

And even after being placed aboard The Queen, it was another two days before the liner lifted anchor and swung her aft toward the west—and toward America.

In A Slight Hurry

Still back of these delays was the anxiety that Mrs. Dyer might be denied passage until after the middle of June, when a blessed event is scheduled to occur in the Dyer family. Originally, it was decreed by the Army that no bride whose pregnancy had a duration of more than four months would be transported. Finally this restriction was extended to seven months, "and I was barely able to get in on the new regulation," she observed.

Mrs. Dyer estimated that there were some 1500 "Mrs. G. I. Joes", as she referred to them, aboard the Queen Mary, and at least 700 children, ranging in age from mere infants to a "young girl who was at least 16 years old".

Aside from the first two days at sea, she said she felt "just fairly well". At that point, however, Mrs. Dyer paused to explain that her condition was doubtless responsible for her sea-sickness, adding that the voyage was very smooth and pleasant, "except when we first hit the Irish Sea", which she described as being mildly rough.

She recalled that there were five sets of twins aboard the boat, and as might have been expected with the large number, tragedy was not absent, with two deaths occurring while enroute. While about 200 miles out of New York, a five-months-old baby was stricken with pneumonia and died, but not until everything possible had been done to save the child. "Our ship was stopped and a seaplane landed near . . . I learned afterward that it had flown from New York to bring an oxygen tent under which the child was placed," she related in praising the attention and service given the British travelers.

Another death occurred when a young mother gave birth prematurely to a baby which did not live, Irene said.

Turning her attention to her young son, Leslie, Mrs. Dyer said that he was ill all the way on the voyage, and "he hasn't recovered entirely yet".

"Marvelous Trip"

Speaking about the treatment received aboard the Queen Mary, Irene characterized it as "marvelous . . . everybody was so nice to us and the food was grand," going on to add that they had menus of baked duck, roast lamb, chicken . . . and even turkey, "the most wonderful display of food I had seen in years," she added.

Entertainment, including movies and stage shows, had been arranged for the enjoyment of the girls, and on one occasion, a troupe of brides themselves staged a program. "My only regret is that I did not feel as well as the other girls aboard . . . I really envied them the good times they were having."

Asked about the accommodations, Irene hesitated, then said that she did not recall a thing that she wanted or needed that was not supplied. Questioned specifically about the laundry facilities, she said that all such details were cared for, including laundry rooms, drying rooms and

Dr. Coventry To Open Farwell Office

Dr. William V. (Vaden) Coventry, an Army captain in the medical corps, was here the first of the week and confirmed the report that he was to locate in Farwell and take up the practice of medicine.

Dr. Coventry said that "it would likely be a month" before he would have his office completely outfitted for general medical practice and surgery, but that he would be able to receive patients with minor ailments "within a few days", adding that he had some unfinished business down state that would require his attention.

He is a graduate of the Texas University and served his internship at the King's Daughters Hospital in Temple, Texas. During the war, he served three years in Army hospitals, specializing in surgery.

A native of this section, Dr. Coventry was born in Bailey County, at Old Hurley. He is a brother of Mrs. "Preach" Cranfill of Friona, and comes to Farwell with the highest recommendations. Members of the local Chamber of Commerce, who were responsible for interesting Dr. Coventry in locating here, expressed themselves today as being "fortunate" in securing his services.

Present plans are for him to occupy the office vacated by Dr. V. Scott Johnson, who opened a new office in Clovis a few months ago.

Information was that a residence had been selected and purchased and would be placed at his disposal. Dr. Coventry is married, but has no children.

Third Death Occurs In Less Than Week

Death struck for the third time in less than a week late Monday night when L. M. Middick, 83, of Amarillo, and father of Mrs. Besse Lee Henneman, of this city, succumbed after an illness of only a few hours duration.

On last Friday afternoon, two of Mrs. Henneman's brothers, E. L. Middick, 30, and D. W. Middick, 35, were buried in the Llano Cemetery in Amarillo, following mysterious deaths in Amarillo, the cause of which has not been determined.

The younger brother died at 7:30 Tuesday morning of last week, and D. W. passed away the following Thursday at 5:00 p. m. Both were employed at a packing plant in Amarillo, and it is understood here that about 40 employees of the same firm were affected with a similar malady, although the Middicks are understood to be the only casualties.

Burial services for the father will be held at Amarillo this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Funeral services for the boys were conducted last Friday afternoon by Rev. Robert Chambers at the First Christian Church in Amarillo. The Shriner's were in charge of graveside rites for D. W. Middick, and the VFW had charge of the last rites for E. L. Middick.

Family survivors are Mrs. L. M. Middick, mother of the boys, and three sisters, Mrs. W. E. Gorbin, Brownwood; Mrs. Clyde R. Corey, Amarillo; and Mrs. Bessie Lee Henneman, Farwell.

Mrs. M. C. Roberts spent several days in Dallas, last week, visiting with relatives and friends.

FISHING LICENSE HERE

LeRoy Faville, Texico distributor of New Mexico hunting and fishing licenses, today announced that the new 1946 licenses were here and are on sale at the Red Cross Pharmacy in Texico.

The fees, he disclosed, remain the same as in recent years, with resident fishing license going at $2.00 and non-resident at $3.00. A digest of the new game laws are also available, he stated.

Former Resident Dies In Clovis

John J. DeOliveria, for 30 years a resident of Farwell, died at his home in Clovis last Sunday afternoon, and was buried in the Clovis cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

DeOliveria came to Farwell from New Mexico in 1907, and maintained his home here until 1937, when he moved to Clovis. At the time of his death he was 68 years old. He was born on a ranch north of Fort Sumner many years before New Mexico was admitted to statehood.

During recent years he had been employed at the Clovis Army Air Base.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Hannah DeOliveria, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Homer Mardis, Clovis; Miss Jo DeOliveria, Laguna Beach, Calif.; and Mrs. Annabell Hobson, Lubbock; two sons, Earl of Clovis and Fred of Carlsbad; a sister, Mrs. George Anderson, Clovis; four brothers, Ray of Fort Sumner, and Paul, Fred and Herman of Tucumcari. There are also 10 grandchildren.

Texico Election To Come Up Tuesday

Texico voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to select a mayor, clerk-treasurer, and two councilmen, Town Clerk W. L. Freeman said today.

Outgoing officers are Mayor M. C. Roberts, Clerk Freeman, and Councilmen Les Means and Carl McCully. Freeman expressed the belief that a ticket would be filed within the next day or two to fill the vacancies. He added that he planned to turn the ballot over to the printer on Saturday morning, which would mean that the filing of names for places on the ballot must be made before that time.

MOVING TO STEPHENSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. (Pop) Phillips, Texico residents for the past several years, have announced that they plan to move to Stephenville, Texas, within the next few days. They have disposed of most of their property interests in Texico, he said. The Phillips operated a cafe in Texico for many years, but retired a few years ago on account of ill health.

Capt. James Overstreet, "sweating out" terminal leave until June 15 when he will go back to civilian status after almost five years in the Army, arrived here with his wife the past weekend for a visit in the home of his mother, Mrs. Anne H. Overstreet.

Almost as brown as a Mexican from 15 months spent in Burma, Jimmie is as thin as a rail, but gave the reply that he lost 15 pounds on the ship coming home. "We had such a crowd on that little freighter that they didn't feed us much," he told a reporter, and laughingly denied that he was well fed and tossed his meals overboard. The trip from Calcutta, India, to Seattle, Washington, took 28 days, he added, "and we never saw a whitecap on the way."

Overstreet spent his time overseas as CO of a colored company, assigned to the Air Corps for duty in loading and unloading provisions which were flown to the fighting fronts in Burma. "We were at Warazup, in the heart of the big game country . . . assigned to duty at the air strip there," he replied to a reporter's

Houston Attorney Is New Business Man

Roy E. Cook, who has been practicing law in Houston for the past 15 years, has purchased the abstract and title business of Mrs. J. D. Thomas, and moved his family here last weekend to take over the new business.

Involved in the transaction was the office building and the small apartment located on the property, and for the present the Cook family is occupying the apartment.

Mrs. Thomas, Cook stated, is retaining an interest in the abstract business and will be associated with him in that phase of the office detail.

Cook is a practicing attorney and was admitted to the Texas Bar in 1931, after graduating from the South Texas Law College at Houston. He has been practicing law in Houston since being admitted to the Bar. Cook is 38 years old, and his family consists of his wife and two small children, a boy and a girl, the latter of school age.

He said that the abstract business would continue to be operated under the name of the Guaranty Abstract and Title Company, and that he will continue the practice of law in this city.

Saturday, March 30, will be the final day for procuring 1946 auto license plates for vehicles on the road before penalties are added. Furthermore, drivers will be subjecting themselves to fines if the new tags are not attached by April 1.

At that time, the top gilt of the litter will be selected and given to another club boy to carry on the work.

County Agent Lee McElroy said this week that much interest was being evidenced in the show, and added that an unusually good show is expected next weekend.

Lead is found generally throughout the world.

Agricultural Production Doubled Here Since 1940

Changes of agriculture in Farmer County in the past few years show increased production of wheat and grain sorghum and beef cattle, according to a study of the 1945 agriculture census released by Lee H. McElroy, County Agent for the A. & M. Extension Service.

Major trends include twice as many acres seeded to wheat and grain sorghum in 1945 as compared to 1940. This increase was due largely to the response of farmers in co-operating wholeheartedly in the government war-time plan for increase of production and feed. In this connection, McElroy also noticed practically 100% of the 897 farmers in Farmer County produced vegetables and fruits for home use. The acres planted in the increase of wheat and grain sorghum were formerly planted in cotton, sudan and diverted acres, more commonly called government acres.

Farm Size Increases

The average size farm in Farmer County has been steadily increasing as the total number of farms decrease, the agent pointed out. The number of farmers for 1940 was 915 with an average size of 547 acres, as compared to 897 farms with an average size of 662 acres for 1945. The 1945 census preliminaries release did not give the ownership tenant relationship with the number of farms, but these figures will be available by January 1.

The production of wheat and grain sorghum in comparison of 1940 with 1945 has shown a definite increase, especially for wheat. The yield per acre for the five years showed that the 1945 production was double of that in 1940 for Parmer county, Agent McElroy said, adding that the main fact influencing production was more moisture, more efficient operation of machinery, better farming methods, and better variety of seed used, especially in grain sorghum.

Cotton Acreage Disappears

Cotton acreage and production disappeared entirely from Farmer County during the five years from 1940 to 1945. This was due principally to the prices of grain sorghum, as well as the unfavorable cotton growing season combined with no available farm labor for cotton chopping and harvesting.

The County Agent reveals that the livestock picture was altered as much as the crops, with the largest increase in the number of cattle from 19,000 head in 1940 to 32,000 in 1945. During this period hogs declined 3,000 head, while the number of dairy cattle decreased only a few hundred head. Next to beef cattle, poultry increased more than any other livestock, according to value, with the number of eggs per hen increased 30%. The average dairy cow in Farmer County produced 380 gallons of milk per year in 1935, which was increased to 535 gallons per year in 1945. This is the most significant trend for a cash income in the county, as last year the total county income from dairying placed second or third, with wheat holding first place.

More Vegetables, Fruits

Another outstanding change in county agriculture, according to the agent, shows that a greater variety of vegetables and fruits were grown in 1940 as compared to 1945. The

First Sight Of States
 Speaking about her first sight of the United States, she recalled that the announcement had been made over the public address system that the ship would pass the Statue of Liberty at 4:30 a. m. "Naturally, all of us got up at that hour to witness that sight, for I felt it would probably be the only chance I would ever have to see it." Describing the Statue as "very beautiful and all lighted up", she added that it was so much larger than she had ever dreamed.

Brief Stay in New York

Irene's stay in New York was very brief, and she saw very little of the city. Docking at 5:30 a. m., the first girls to be permitted to leave ship were those whose husbands were awaiting at the pier to take them in charge. Those to be placed aboard trains to complete their journey were held back to be issued transportation tickets and detailed instructions regarding routes of travel, train schedules, changes, etc.

Leaving the boat at 11:45 p. m., she was taken up Broadway, pass the Empire State Building, "which impressed me very much", and placed aboard a train at 1:45 a. m.

She was very much impressed with the "sleeping trains" of America, observing that in England no such trains are needed since the rides are for such short distances. She and her son traveled Pullman all the way to Farwell, and her only necessary expense was the food they ate on the trains. Two train changes were necessary between New York and Farwell, one at St. Louis and the other at Kansas City.

"I think I am going to like Texas," she offered, glancing out the window at a reasonably mild sand storm that was kicking up the dust at the G. W. Dyer home in east Farwell, where she and her husband are temporarily located.

After A New Dress

The interview continued at length and seeing Irene glance at her wrist watch, the reporter recalled that she was scheduled to go to Clovis that afternoon, where her husband had promised to buy her a new dress.

Crossing the Atlantic is not exactly new to the British girl, for this was the second time she had spanned the ocean. Born in Toronto, Canada, on October 8, 1914, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Haines, she went to Evesham, England, at the age of 10 years, a voyage she remembers "very well, but none of the details of the trip". Her father, who died in July of 1926, was a stone mason. She has three married sisters and one unmarried brother, who "was discharged from the service after six years and came home from Palestine just a week before I sailed for America." He lives with his mother.

Irene is 5 feet, two inches tall, and right now weighs "ten stones", which, being translated, is 140 pounds. A stone in English is equivalent to 14 pounds, she explained with the assistance of her husband, who spent 20 months overseas, including 11 months in England.

Possessing a dark complexion and brown eyes, she is already beginning to be concerned about "getting darker in this land of sunshine". At this point she described the climate in England as "damp, cool and cloudy most of the time".

Losses First Husband in War

Before her marriage to Dyer, she was Mrs. Leslie Winsper, wife of Staff Sergeant Winsper, who was killed in Holland early in 1944 while serving in the English Army. They were married in July, 1939, and their son, Leslie, Jr., was only a few months old when the father was called into the service.

Dyer met the English war widow who was later to become his bride at a RAF dance in Evesham on Dec. 1, 1944. Following a courtship of seven months, they were married at a Baptist Church in that city on July 9, 1945. He was stationed at Bourton-On-The-Hill, a German Prisoner of War Camp, only a short distance from Evesham. Dyer left England for the United States on Sept. 27, 1945. "The first thing I did when I got home was start trying to get Irene over here," he offered.

Is A Garment Maker

Professionally, Irene is a garment maker, having been employed a number of years in a gown shop in England. During the war, she was called to service in defense of her homeland and served for three years in the GPOE, and in such duties her chief assignment was the installation and maintenance of communication systems, particularly telephones in government posts. "But I never had to climb a pole as some of the girls did," she smiled.

Speaking of her reception in America, Irene said she was greatly impressed with the "friendly attitude" of the citizenship, although she had only been in her new home for one day.

"And I don't need to tell you how glad I am to be back with Claude... it seems like we have been separated for years."

Asked if she had wanted to come to America, she replied without hesitation, "I always said I'd come back to Canada or America, but little did I ever dream I'd marry an American soldier."

In company with Mrs. M. D. Rutherford, sister of Dyer, the couple and small lad left here Saturday for Midland, Texas, where they expect to spend a "week or two" visiting in the Rutherford ranch home, 40 miles south of that city. Thus, the English girl will get some first-hand knowledge of Texas ranch life, which will be an entirely new experience for her, and to which she was "looking forward with much anticipation".

Seated in the living room of the humble little Dyer home, Irene gloed with pride as she surveyed her surroundings in her new home, where old friends of many years standing to the Dyer family gathered to welcome the newcomer. Turning her attention to an electric refrigerator, she observed that "nobody but rich people" have them in England.

Asked about their plans for the future, Claude offered that as yet he was undecided, adding that he would "get into something after a while". In the meantime, the Dyers are going to visit around, enjoy the hospitality and abundance of food at their friends and relatives.

FEW POISONOUS SNAKES

Of the relatively large variety of snakes in Texas, only four are poisonous: the rattlesnake, the moccasin, the copperhead and coral snake.

"The Bride Breezes In" At Farwell, April 4

"The Bride Breezes In", a three-act farce, will be presented by seniors of the Farwell high school in the local auditorium on Thursday night of next week, April 4, it was announced today by Jack Williams, who is directing the activity.

The plot concerns the attempt of Sam Cotrex (Joseph Threat) to keep himself out of jail after he has embezzled money which he held in trust for Fannie Fay, Sybil Ham. Principally, Sam wishes to marry off his son, Alfred (Billie Moore) to Miss Fay, hoping that she will not prosecute if she is a member of the family.

Slightly suspicious of the setup, Fannie and her maid, Stella Hollytree, played by Wynelle Brown, decide to change characters before their visit to the Cotrex home, and Stella, a pigtailed, loud-mouthed country maid, is quite a shock as the Fay heiress.

Looking out for Alfred is Goldie Mandel, a vaudeville star who is madly in love with him, and she comes to the Cotrex home to pose as a maid, "Peg", in order to keep the young man in line. The part is taken by Tommie Randol.

Freddie Burke, a friend of Alfred Cotrex, played by Don Summers, and his fiancée, Lolly Gray (Jeanette Morris) are also guests in the home.

Greg Neil is the senior Cotrex' secretary, played by Sam Young, while his mother, Ruth Birchfield, serves as housekeeper, and Bob, enacted by Ray Ford, is the chauffeur. The first-act curtain will go up at 8:15, Williams said today, with admission of 25 and 40 cents being charged.

Other business transacted by the Court included allowing C. C. Steelman $75 for a 30-foot strip of land for right-of-way purposes.

questions. Asked if his group was ever in combat, or underwent bombing or strafing attacks, Capt. Overstreet replied in the negative. "When we were training for overseas, my men had to be familiar with all sorts of weapons, since so many truck companies had lost men earlier in the war," he explained, "but we never even set up a machine gun."

In Heart of Jungle

Living in the heart of the jungle was quite an experience for the local Plainsman, as was the weather—an average of 200 inches of rainfall per year. The entire outfit lived in tents, "the big double English tents . . . you could practically make a house out of them, and we did make all sorts of furniture", back from the landing field.

"The way things grow there would amaze you," he said. "One day I had a letter from my wife saying she liked to keep little mementos, and why didn't I send her a leaf. I glanced outside my tent, and the first leaf I saw was about six feet long!" As to the heat, Overstreet said that he had known it to get up to "around 130-140" but the rain kept it from being unbearable.

Asked about hunting, the local sportsman rolled his eyes and replied, "That is the best country for hunting that you can imagine. When I first got to Burma, they were telling me that Warazup was in the heart of the big game country—deer weighing 600 pounds and up—and I just laughed at them, but I'll swear it's the truth. Then there were the little 'barking deer' . . . barked just like a dog, you'd hear them going 'woof, woof'. They usually weighed from 80 to 100 pounds, and were really better eating than the big ones."

"Most of our hunting we did at night. You could go through the jungle all day and not see a thing, unless you took an elephant along (to shoot from), but at night we'd hunt by lights, catch the eyes of the animals in the gleam. After a while you could tell by the eyes what the animal was. I only saw one live deer—the first one I killed," the local captain continued. But fishing was another matter, because the fish wouldn't bite. "The boys fished with dynamite, and the Chinese troops that came down the river in convoy fished with hand grenades. . . Most of the fish looked like big carp, about 18 to 24 inches long, but the meat was good. I did see one big catfish."

Tigers Come Visiting

Animals seldom came close to camp, Overstreet went on, telling of one occasion when he came in from a hunt to be met by one of his lieutenants with, "Captain, I saw a big tiger down by your tent while ago." Overstreet laughed at him, replied that he was always seeing tigers, and went on to bed. "When I got up the next morning, there was a paw print about 6 inches across right outside my door."

On one occasion, men at the field killed a huge python, "must have been 19 feet long, that had just swallowed a little deer. I'd never believe it if I hadn't seen it myself," he said, "but they took the deer out and weighed it—105 pounds! It was in perfect condition."

"Our main danger, actually, was from disease, but with the advances made in medicine, we actually had very little disease. The worst threat was 'scrub typhus' which apparently was picked up from little bugs quite similar to chiggers or redbugs that infested the low, swampy places. We learned to avoid those places as much as we could."

After the war was over, the outfit was moved to Mytykina, where they loaded gasoline to be flown over The Hump. From there Overstreet went into Calcutta, where he deactivated his and two other companies before receiving orders for home.

Kaltwasser-Murphy Nuptials Are Read

The marriage of Miss Lillymae Kaltwasser of Lariat and Ray C. Murphy of North Platte, Nebraska, was performed in a simple but beautiful ceremony at the University Place Church in Enid, Oklahoma, at 6 o'clock on the evening of March 17th.

The church was beautifully decorated with sprays of baby breath and spirea entwined with greenery. The altar lights made a twilight setting for the double ring ceremony, read by Rev. John Sayre, assistant pastor.

Miss Thelma Murphy, sister of the groom and of Enid, played Wagner's "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" as the processional, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" from "Midsummer Nights Dream" as the recessional. During the ceremony, she played softly "O Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Art".

Miss Evelyn Fagg of North Platte, was maid of honor, and James Murphy, a cousin of the groom, from Denver, was best man. Ushers were James Goodners from Pratt, Kansas, and Charles Johnson of Nashville, Tennessee. About 30 friends from the Phillips University were present for the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a pale pink wool suit, with which she wore a pink straw hat trimmed in black. Her other accessories were also in black, and her corsage was a gardenia surrounded by red rosebuds. Miss Fagg wore a black jersey trimmed in aqua, while Miss Murphy chose black net. Their corsages were of pink and white carnations.

In the traditional manner, the bride had "something new" in a three-strand gold choker given by the groom; her "something old" a white handkerchief given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Kaltwasser; "something blue and borrowed" was a gold bracelet with blue stones, borrowed from Miss Murphy.

The wedding super was held in the Youngblood Hotel in Enid, with members of the bridal party attending.

Mrs. Murphy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kaltwasser of near Farwell, and Murphy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Murphy of North Platte. He was recently discharged from the army after having served two years with the 740th Railway Operating Battalion in the European theatre.

Farm Prices Favorable Except on Poultry, Eggs, Meet Shows

In a recent district meeting attended by County Agent Lee H. McElroy, of Parmer County, in which the outlook of farm prices was discussed, the material presented indicated favorable prices for everything except poultry and eggs. Demand will probably exceed the prices of farm products during the next two years and with price support extending into 1947 and 1948, the prices of farm products should not vary more than 10 or 15 percent.

The purchasing power for the nation will be maintained according to leading economists and the heavy export demand for food products will assist in the support of high farm prices. Control production on food products will probably not be necessary, unless a bumper crop is raised, which causes an increased production of 50 percent above normal. All food products will continue in heavy demand for export provided European countries can finance their purchases, it was said.

According to the economist, eggs will be the first farm products to exceed demand. Naturally, some decline in prices of cattle and hogs can be expected if slaughter subsidies are removed. According to the information the county agent has received, the first surplus in beef will occur in the lower grades as heavy marketing is expected in 12 months due to feed shortage and reduction in size of herds. The removal of price ceiling should result in higher price in better grades of beef.

Government action on subsidies, it was added, will have a strong influence on price levels.

Farmers are your neighbors - They want you to know that -

Cooperatives form a LINK between FARM and TOWN

FARMS no longer are isolated. Farmers no longer live in a separate world, isolated from others.

Transportation and communication marvels of the Twentieth Century have brought country to town and town to country. This shortening of distance has brought people closer together. There is a stronger linking of interests of farmers and townspeople. Neither can now say, "You go your way and I'll go mine".

For, basic wealth comes from the toil of the farmers. When the farmers prosper you townspeople share in their prosperity. That is because they buy more of what you townspeople supply. They have more money to spend.

Thus, when farmers effect savings through their cooperatives, these savings benefit you. The farmers' co-ops mean an investment by the farmers in the future welfare of your community. They stand as an assurance to you that your neighbors, the farmers are your customers.

Co-ops help farmers. Farmers' co-ops also help you.

Savings that the farmers make through their cooperatives are spent on your Main Street. That means more dollars for townspeople because of farmers' cooperatives.

These cooperatives help build your community

Friona Squaws Scalp Opposition To Take Girls Cage Crown

The Friona Squaws, who three weeks ago won second in state basketball honors, last weekend added another laurel by taking the Parmer County girls championship, in the tournament held at Bovina.

Losing only to the champions in the weekend of round-robin play, the Bovina girls stood as runners-up in the county, while Lazbuddy was in third place, Oklahoma Lane was fourth, and Farwell fifth.

With large crowds in attendance at all of the games, the tournament proved again that competition gets rough when the county championship is at stake, and the majority of the frays showed close scores.

Bovina opened hostilities Thursday night by tangling with Oklahoma Lane, emerging with a 43-28 win, the scorebook reveals. The Friona girls then took the court against Lazbuddy in a game that was slated for thrills and which did not disappoint the spectators, with Friona finally taking a 30-25 win in the last few minutes of the game.

The Oklahoma Lane Cowgirls were the next Friona victims, taking a sound 43-15 spanking on Friday afternoon, while Lazbuddy avenged its defeat of the night before by lambasting the underdog Farwell girls, 57-23.

On Friday night, two of the best games of the entire weekend were played. Friona battled Bovina down the court for a 36-27 win, and Farwell and Oklahoma Lane wound up at 23-25, in favor of the latter, following a 23-23 tie at the end of the regular four periods. Farwell held a short lead until the final minute, when Oklahoma Lane tied it up, and in the overtime, the Cowgirls bagged a two-pointer to sew up the game.

Bovina stepped back into the lime-light on Saturday afternoon, moving toward their final game, and won over the Farwell girls, 29-45, while Oklahoma Lane put up a strong fight against Lazbuddy, but finally went down, 27-35.

Second stringers from Friona did most of the playing in the game against Farwell on Saturday night, with the final count at 13-27, Friona, and then, a hot battle between Bovina and Lazbuddy, which ended 32-30 in favor of Bovina, wound up the tournament.

Tournament Team Named

Named for places on the all-tournament team were M. Taylor of Friona, J. Daniels of Lazbuddy, C. Treider of Lazbuddy, B. Moorman of Bovina, L. Robason of Friona and S. Venable of Bovina. The girls were chosen by a vote of coaches and officials of the meet.

Honorable mention for all-tournament team honors went to J. Horner of Friona, N. Williams of Bovina, L. Bridges of Bovina, J. Doshier of Oklahoma Lane, T. Randol of Farwell, N. Cobb of Friona, V. Berry of Oklahoma Lane, F. Sudderth of Oklahoma Lane and D. Taylor of Friona.

Bovina and Lazbuddy were tied up for team scoring honors during the tournament, each having taken a total of 147 points. Friona had only a score of 136 to win all games, while Oklahoma Lane totaled 95 and Farwell snagged 88. C. Treider, of Lazbuddy, was the high scoring individual of the meet, with 74, while B. Venable, of Bovina, was second with 72.

Trophies for the first and second place teams in the county, as well as individual awards for the girls selected on the all-tournament team, have been ordered and will be presented upon arrival, Supt. W. O. Cherry, of Bovina, said today.

PHONE POLE SMACKED

Some unknown party smacked a telephone pole and two highway signs at the intersection of Highways 60 and 70 in Texico Saturday night. The signs were ripped to splinters and the phone pole was broken off by the force of the impact.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunn and daughter, Jill, from Hot Springs, Ark., arrived here last weekend to be with Mrs. Dunn's mother, Mrs. Gus Bryant, of Clovis, who underwent a major operation.

Comedy Presentation At Texico, Friday

Presenting an entertaining three-act comedy, members of the Texico senior class will don costumes and grease paint on Friday night, March 29th, to introduce their class play, "Arizona Dude Ranch" to the public. Clad in movie-style Western clothes, young Gail Winslow and her brother, Jeff, played by Peggy Flye and Bill Johnson, turn their non-paying ranch into a dude ranch for Eastern visitors.

Sam Smith, (Calvin Blaine) young man from the East, is the natural out-let for Gail's affections, but things are in a continual muddle due to the raids on ranch stock made by an unidentified marauder who is finally captured by Wild Bill Hickup, the sheriff, (Belvin Freeman) and Curtis, a United States deputy marshal, portrayed by George Paul.

The Barchlay family, out for the Wild West thrills are also visitors at the ranch, and include Evelyn Brown as the mother, Harry Baker as the hen-pecked husband; Beryl Brown and Harriet Baker as Sue and Dixie, the children.

Mozelle May enacts the part of Miss Prim, head of an Indian School, while Mary Cervantez is "Falling Hairpins", the attractive Indian girl, and Robert May characterizes Lem Streeter, the stage coach driver.

The play is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, with admission charges of 25 and 40 cents.

Budget Commission Approves Teacher Salary Increases

Supt. B. A. Rogers stated today that the School Budget Commission, meeting in Clovis Tuesday, approved the recommendations of a committee of Curry County school heads in granting increased salaries for teachers of the county for the coming school term.

But at the same time, the Commission turned a cold shoulder to requests for increase in transportation rates, with the result that schools of the county will face a serious transportation problem next year. An increase of 15% was asked, and the Commission approved only a 5% hike.

On the basis of the action taken Tuesday by the Commission, school teachers in Curry County will be placed on an equalized basis with reference to their training and experience, regardless of whether they are high school teachers or are employed in the grades. The salary schedule allows $1650 per year for teachers with two years college and no previous experience, and is graduated upwards to a maximum of $2150 per year for teachers with M. A. degrees and 12 years experience.

Teachers with B. A. degree and no experience were allowed $1850 per year; teachers with a master degree and no experience will receive $2000 per year.

Explaining that practically all of the schools of the county will have to have new buses next year, Rogers said that the transportation problem takes on a serious note. The 5% increase allowed, he explained, will not justify the investment in new buses at their present high price level. He added that several of the bus operators of the county had already expressed themselves as "ready to quit".

SCHOOL CENSUS IMPORTANT

Supt. H. A. Clift today called attention to the importance of all children of school age in the Farwell district being enumerated between now and April 1st. If your child has not been counted in the census, see Supt. Clift at once.

Agricultural—

total volume of vegetables and fruit produced during 1945 exceeds that of 1940 by a value of $10,000. The decrease in the number of varieties during this period was due to eliminating the non-producing variety with substitution of one adapted to this particular area.

Looking to the future, McElroy predicts that the present trends will continue with the exception of cotton. When production of cotton is fully mechanized, he believes, and the price of grain sorghum and wheat declines, cotton will replace approximately 20,000 acres now in grain sorghum and wheat. There will also be an increase in irrigation wells, as long as high prices prevail for farm products. There were approximately 32 wells in Parmer County last year, with the number being increased 12* to 15 wells in the past year. In connection with increased products, more attention will be demanded in soil conservation and soil fertility, McElroy believes.

County Track Meet To Be Held In Texico

The annual Curry county track and field meet will be held on April 19 at Texico, Coach C. E. Sanders reported today, following acceptance of his invitation by coaches of the county at the schoolmasters club meeting held here last Wednesday.

Sanders went on to say that the district events are to be run off on April 27th, probably at Portales, as the Eastern New Mexico College usually sponsors the meet. The state meet will follow on May 4th and 5th, at Albuquerque.

Two divisions will be set up at the county meet, with students of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades being listed as juniors, while all competitors above the freshman grade will be in senior activities.

Trophies for the team winners in each division will be presented, in addition to individual medals for boys palcing first, second and third, and ribbons for fourth and fifth placements.

Four Tickets Filed For School Voting

County Judge A. D. Smith revealed Tuesday that at that time only four tickets had been filed with him for the forthcoming school trustee election on Saturday, April 6th.

At noon Tuesday, Farwell, Bovina, Oklahoma Lane and Rhea districts had filed the names of nominees to be placed on the ballots.

Farwell, with three to be elected, had filed the names of six candidates, as follows: Boone Allison, Bob Hammonds, John Holland, W. H. Graham, Claude Rose and Verney Towns. Allison, Graham and Towns are the retiring members of the local board this year.

With three to be elected at Bovina, nominees on the ticket are: Rouel Barron, Billie Wilkerson, I. W. Quickel, Clarence Jones, N. E. Bonds, Reagan Looney, L. M. McFarland and Frank P. Wilson.

One vacancy is to be filled in the Rhea district, and the name of Oscar Baxter has been filed with the county judge.

At Oklahoma Lane, two trustees will be elected from the following candidates: Levi Johnson, Truman Kent, C. C. Christian, F. E. Kepley and Everett Christian.

Judge Smith said other districts of the county would probably conduct write-in campaigns to fill the vacancies.
