Health Notes

By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN.—What causes colds? Colds are caused by germs too small to be seen under a powerful microscope, they are known as "Filterable Virus." They are present in discharges from nose and throat. They are spread from person to person by sneezing, coughing, spitting, or on any freshly contaminated article, as a drinking glass, which will pass on the infected saliva. A cold is not likely to be passed on during the first 24 hours.

If we could each live like a hermit apart from others, we would probably never "catch cold." People living in Greenland and Labrador, who are told, do not have colds in the winter even when exposed to the most severe weather.

The busy person in everyday life cannot avoid exposure to colds. We expect to be sprayed by careless coughers and sneezers. Young children, elderly people and invalids who suffer most from the effects of a cold should certainly be protected from those who have colds. Children with colds should be kept home from schools, and if rest and light food do not help the cold to disappear shortly, then the family physician should be called. This may not be a cold but even more serious, as most of the communicable diseases start with some of the symptoms of a cold.

What can we do to avoid colds that cause more loss of time from industry and schools than all the other diseases combined? Have your own cup and glass at home and elsewhere dress for the weather; eat a balanced diet; get plenty of rest; keep away from persons with colds.

Colds are costly. Prevent if possible.

Dresses Are To Be Longer This Year

COLLEGE STATION.—With style trends running toward longer skirts, home seamstresses busy adding inches to dresses might need some aid with sewing problems.

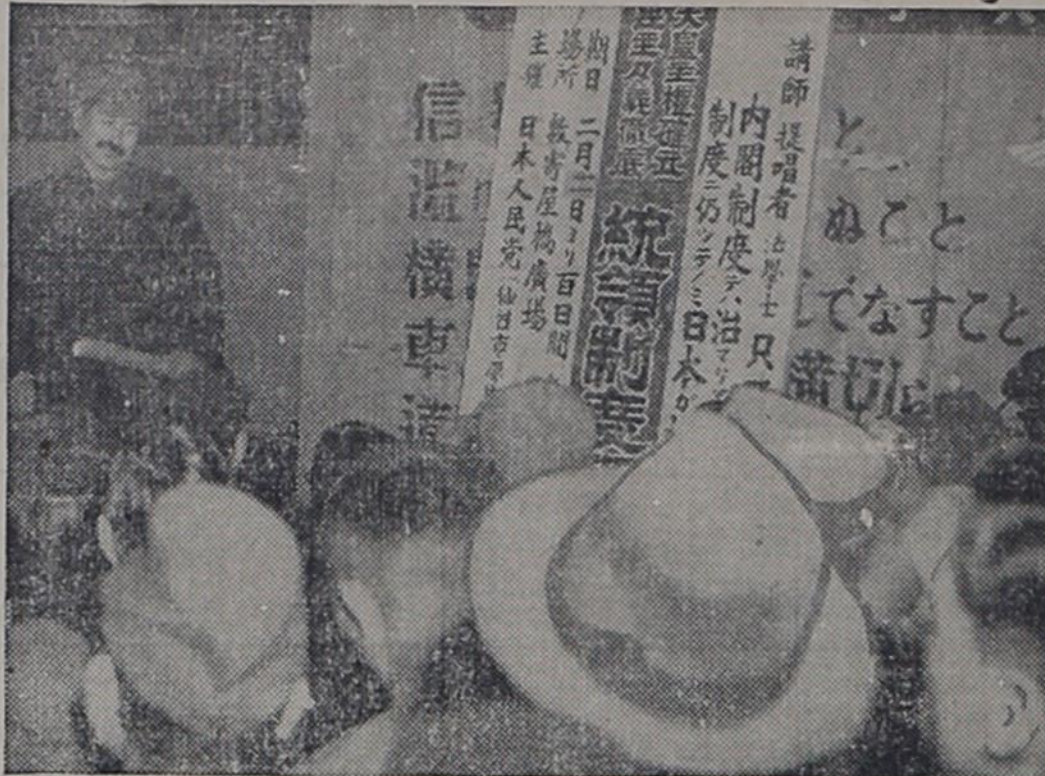

Ways and means of lengthening skirts, explained by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's clothing specialists are passed on now to Texas housewives by the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

While adding an inch or more to a short skirt is often a simple task, the seamstress sometimes strikes a problem, especially when a facing is required or if the back of the hem is shiny from many pressings.

In case of shiny wool fabric, the clothing specialists tell the seamstresses to follow this procedure: rip the hem and steam-press it on the "wrong side" of the fabric, provided the wool is light-weight or has a raised pattern in the weave. For thick wool, right side pressing may be more effective. To steam press, cover the fabric with a dry wool press cloth, then with a cotton cloth dampened in water. Use a warm iron. If the fabric still shines after pressing try raising the nap of the wool with a brush or rubber sponge—the kind used for suede.

If shine cannot be removed, the specialists tell housewives to consider lengthening the skirt in other ways. For example—contrast bands may be inserted in the skirt; a yoke may be added; waist seams may be let out; or a belt of some other material may be set into the dress.

If a skirt hem must be let out to its full extent, seam binding or facing material are needed. If the dress fabric is heavy, the seam binding may be sewed directly to the skirt edge. Then the binding should be turned up so that about one-fourth inch of the dress material is on the underside of the skirt—that is, the fold shouldn't be made along the line where seam binding and dress fabric join, as this would make the skirt edge, an ordinary seam will do, if edge rippe unattractively. If the dress goods is light-weight, a facing about an inch wide is needed, to give body to the edge of the skirt.

PRESIDENCY FOR JAPAN . . . As Japan begins to rehabilitate into a modern nation there are some who feel their country should be governed by a presidency instead of the old sovereign rule. Here, Naosaburo Tadano, an advocate for the more modern government, addresses throngs as they pass a Tokyo corner in effort to convince them to vote down the emperor and cabinet members. Hirohito already has denied his divinity.

In facing a circular or flared skirt, cutting the facing on the bias is a wise move. If the skirt is straight or pleated, a straight facing is good, or, if this type of skirt is not made straight with the goods, a shaped facing may be best.

When sewing a facing to a skirt slip stitch.

It resists "the irresistible" ..and OIL-PLATES your engine!

THE DESTRUCTIVE POWER OF A HURRICANE seems irresistible, yet within the slender trunk of a palm tree, even greater power . . . the force of molecular attraction . . . binds particles of living matter into a structure that resists "the irresistible!"

To Golgotha and Crucifixion

Up a "green hill far away" the feet of pilgrims have been journeying for nineteen hundred years; all bearers of crosses have found themselves in the company of the Divine Burden-Bearer. He could not save himself, he could not bear his cross alone; nor have the good and the great ever been able to save themselves, for "he who saves his life loses it". It is a strange paradox, but everlastingly true; men are strong not to bear their own burdens, but to carry a Cross for others; they will find God at their side to sustain them when they fall beneath their own burdens. Men were never meant to carry their burdens alone; that is what God is for. Likewise God was never meant to bear the world's load alone; that is what man is for. So it is a wonderful partnership, this company of God and his human sons. JESUS TRANSFIGURED THE CROSS FOREVER, TURNING A SYMBOL OF SUFFERING INTO A SYMBOL OF TRIUMPHANT LIFE. Every man who wears a Cross on his heart will find good company; he will walk with the Son of Man, who forever walks with God. How terrible is any Cross that a weary man must carry alone, the more terrible because he does not need to carry it alone! The Christian Gospel tells of a Man who died for us and of a God who was revealed in the love of Calvary as nowhere else in the world. Our God lives with us and for us, and in us, if we allow Him.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

Sunny Side

(By Sonny Graham)

What would you do if you had two or three thousand dollars? If I had two or three thousand dollars, there is no telling what I might want to do with it. Day-dreaming is a pastime which just about everyone can enjoy at very little expense. At least it doesn't effect you until you accept your whims as material and worthwhile desires and use them as such.

But back to the money. I read recently in a nearby daily paper that for the sum of sometimes as small as two or three thousand dollars you could obtain a nice size island located at scattered points in the Pacific from some of the countries owning the islands. I say nice sized-if you're going to live on the island by yourself Robinson Crusoe style, you will no doubt get an idea what I mean in no time at all.

Now you could buy yourself a small boat—say for $4,000, to joyride around your little haven and fish in. Where would you get the $4,000? Say, that is a point. Of course! You could gather coconuts and bananas and sell them until you saved the money.

Just think—an island all your own! No income tax, no bill collectors, no reckless drivers, no vote solicitors, no political parasites. Why spoil the beautiful scene by reminding you that there also are: no stores, no people try to get along without 'em!), no cars, no entertainment—save your witty remarks about you and your paradise. Incidentally, irony, would no doubt soon take the place of humor in your speech.

Us poor, poverty-stricken plains people just don't know how well-off we really are.

Q. I have twin heifer calves. Will one of them be sterile? Is the heifer in a male-female twin combination always sterile?

A. Since sterility doesn't occur in twin heifer calves, your heifers should both be fertile for breeding purposes. The heifer of a male-female twin combination is sterile in 99% of the cases. This sterility is caused by the blood vessels of both fetal calves fusing, so that the male hormones destroy the developing female reproductive organs. In the 1% of cases where the blood vessels do not fuse, the heifer is fertile, but there is no way of determining whether or not the blood vessels have fused.

Q. Is it all right to castrate boar pigs before they are four or five weeks of age?

A. Yes. Recent results obtained at the Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company from castrating more than 3,400 pigs at five days of age clearly indicate that pigs castrated at an early age show little or no set-back. The practice of castrating pigs before they are turned on pasture is preferred. The standard time for castrating at four weeks of age, however, can be followed with safety if desired.

Q. If pullets are given all the skim milk they want, do they need water too?

A. Yes. An egg is made up of nearly 66% water, and a hen's body is approximately 56% water, which makes water a very important part of the ration. A good supply of water should be kept before the birds at all times and everything done to encourage its consumption. Your pullets would have to consume too much milk to supply needed amounts for highest egg production.

Q. What is the incubation period for guinea and goose eggs?

A. The incubation period for guinea eggs is 28 days and for goose eggs from 28 to 31 days.

Junior Play Scheduled For Friday Night

The long awaited and often postponed Junior play of the Farwell High School will be presented to the public Friday night of this week at 7:30 (Texas time).

The play features an all-junior class cast and provokes the laughing side of the audience for a total of three acts. Titled "Girl Shy", because the entire play is built around a girl shy college boy, the comedy promises to be a success with Bobby Hart carrying the title role of the girl shy boy; Harry Sheets his college pal in the role of Oke Stimson; Peached Carter, Oke's present girl friend, acted by Jo Ann Williams; Dean Marlow, stern college professor who frowns on the younger generation and is played by Sonny Graham; Barbara Sanford—rich young lady who somewhat gets to be Tom's make-believe fiancée, played by Maxine Ford; Caroline—Tom's aunt who drops in to see him and is carried away by Dean Marlow's charming manners, played by Nina Loe; Alfred Tenneson Murgatoyd, the college poet who falls for Sylvia Webster, Tom's old flame, (Velma Threet), played by Charles Felts; and Birdie LaVerne, (Talma Randol) who paired up with Chuck Mayo, played by Ray Stone. Doris Stovall acts the part of the colored washlady and Leonard Watkins rounds out the cast as Tom's stern father who has Tom's life all planned for him.

The entire Junior Class has taken part in the presentation of this play, those who were unable to earn a role in the acting lineup serving as stage and property managers and advertising promoters.

Mrs. Earl Booth, class sponsor and English teacher who was coaching the practicing of the play, was taken ill some time ago and left her position to Mrs. Mike Tarantola who took up the task of coaching the play.

Field Gardens Suitable For Some Vegetables

LUBBOCK.—Field grown vegetable gardens are becoming more and more practical with the increased use of irrigation on farms, according to George Elle, assistant professor of plant industry at Texas Technological College.

The field garden will not take the place of the regular kitchen garden, he said, but producers may save considerable labor by planting those vegetables adapted to field conditions in standard field crop rows and cultivating with ordinary farm machinery.

Sweet corn may be grown successfully in the field, as well as the bulk of the tomato crop, sweet and Irish potatoes, all shell-type beans, black eyed peas, cantaloupes and water melons. If the field garden is near the house, okra, squash and root crops may be added. However, if the garden is well away from the house, vegetables used daily will be more convenient if located in plots near the kitchen.

A number of vegetables should already be planted or started immediately, including English peas, mus-tard, turnips, collards, early radishes, carrots, leaf lettuce, parsnips, cultivated dandelions, parsley, spinach and sweet corn. Asparagus may still be transplanted if roots are obtained right away, and spring onions should be transplanted now. Asparagus is to be encouraged in West Texas as it grows well and begins production in early April, at a time when other homegrown vegetables are usually not ready for harvest. Many persons prefer buying onion transplants from seed houses, because they, of all common vegetables, are the most difficult to grow from seed, Elle stated.

If planted early, sweet corn will escape the worst of corn ear worm damage, according to experiments conducted on the Tech farms where even hybrid yellow sweet corn has been grown with negligible worm damage. Producers need not worry about killing freezes on sweet corn planted in March, Elle said, since the growing points are below ground in the seedling stage, and will not die even though frost may nip off the top.

Tomato, sweet pepper and egg plant seed should be planted at once so the plants will be large enough for transplanting in early May. From six to ten plants may be grown in a No. 10 tin can or a flower pot.

Looking toward April, gardeners may begin preparing plots for beets, upland cress, Swiss chard, beans, black eyed peas and New Zealand spinach. Sweet potatoes should be bedded for slips early in April.

Statistics Helpful To Poultry Raisers

COLLEGE STATION.—Texas poultry raisers who delay "until the last minute" ordering their 1947 poulters are likely to find hatcherymen unable to fill their orders.

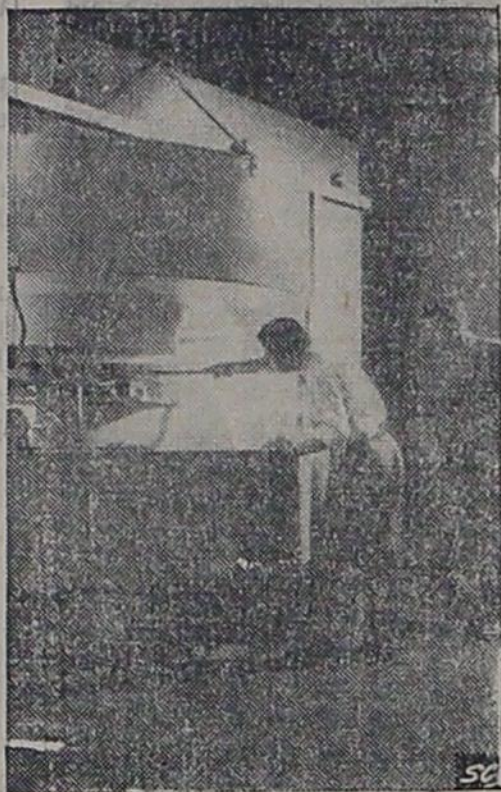

That warning is given by Ted Martin, Extension poultry husbandman of Texas A. and M. College. Martin says Texas hatcherymen are reporting that early poults are moving very slowly, and that when the late rush to buy poults comes along, the hatcheries may not have enough birds on hand to supply all needs. Even though growers do not want poults until April, Martin advises them to get the poults on order now to give hatcherymen a chance to know what their needs will be, so that orders can be filled when the time comes.

Growers have found it pays to be prepared for the poults before they arrive, Martin says. Cleaning the brooders, putting heating and watering equipment in order are a few of the jobs that will help the grower be prepared for his poults when they arrive.

The need also exists for producers to get their baby chick orders in now if they have not made arrangements already. Unlike poults, chicks are moving fast and some hatcheries are already reported sold out. Commenting on the quality of Texas baby chicks, Martin says that hatcheries in this state are now producing as good quality baby chicks as can be found anywhere. "There is absolutely no need for farmers to order chicks from out of state hatcheries," he says, "when they can get just as good birds close to home."

A lot of producers are now asking themselves a lot of questions on the poultry situation, Martin says. Many of them have become cautious about whether or not they should expand or reduce operations. Cooperating with representatives of the poultry industry, Martin has prepared what he terms "some basic facts for poultry producers", and these statistics are now available to any producer who will write to the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, College Station, Texas, and ask for them. The statistics give information such as how much feed is required to produce broiler, a dozen eggs, or a 20-pound turkey; how many eggs and how much poultry meat are in storage in the state; and other information that should help producers figure how many chickens and turkeys

Atomic Power—For Healing

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Business end of the wizard-like, new cyclotron at the University of Pittsburgh, which will harness atomic forces for the peacetime use of mankind in medical research. Already experimented with in treating cancer and leukemia, the cyclotron is considered to have greater healing possibilities than the X-ray and to open vast, unexplored fields to medical progress. Technician shows with pointer the poles of huge 100-ton electromagnet, between which atomic forces are brought into play. Swisher County Cow New Butterfat Champ

COLLEGE STATION.—Texas has a new butterfat champion—Welcome Volunteer Sable, five-year old Jersey cow owned by J. Chester Elliff of Tulia.

J. W. Davis, Extension dairyman of Texas A. and M. College, has been informed by the American Jersey Cattle Club that the Jersey set a new state record in butterfat production when she produced 18,998 pounds of milk and 1,144 pounds of butterfat in 365 days, on a three-time-per-day milking basis.

Welcome Volunteer Sable's performance topped the 1,077 pound butterfat record made in 1945 by her half sister, Welcome Volunteer Tiff, also owned by Elliff, a former FFA boy. Both Sable and Tiff were sired by the champion bull Welcome Volunteer, then owned by Elliff, who sold the sire last year to a Massachusetts dairy farm.

Sable is now third all time highest butterfat producer of the Jersey breed, according to Dairyman Davis.

Bailey County Farmers Change Plowing Policy

COLLEGE STATION.—Something new is going to be added in row crop farming in Bailey County this year.

Several farmers, reports County Agricultural Agent J. K. Adams, have bought new type chisel plows and will "depart radically" from row crop farming customs.

The procedure they plan to follow consists of running the deep-cutting chisel plow in the opposite direction that last year's rows traveled. Then following the first spring rains, they will put specially designed chisel sweeps on the plows and travel along their contours to kill lines left by the chisel sweeps.

County Agent Adams says this method of row cropping is being encouraged widely as a means of thoroughly breaking the ground and allowing moisture supply to become distributed evenly through the soil. He believes that grain sorghum and cotton will thrive longer during drought periods if the chisel system is employed before planting.

Easy Method Determines Underground Moisture

LUBBOCK.—A simple method by which farmers may determine sub soil moisture has been described by Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of plant industry at Texas Technological College.

An iron rod, some four or five feet long and about one-half inch in diameter, may easily be pushed into the earth as far as moisture reaches, but will not penetrate dry sub soil, he said. This is the best test for average soil, although it obviously would not work in gravel or stony soil.

Irrigation now for row crops will probably prove profitable in cases where sub soil moisture does not reach down 36 inches, Dr. Young said, but it is generally not profitable to apply additional water after that depth is reached. On sandy soils farmers should usually not run water down rows longer than 800 to 1000 feet, although it will go farther down rows through tighter soils.

The agricultural experiment station at Lubbock reports that one three acre-inch irrigation before planting grain sorghums and a similar application before the flowering stage gives the most efficient results, while for cotton, a three acre-inch irrigation in late March or early April and another two weeks before planting proves most efficient.

Home economists throughout the nation now recognize bread as an important source of protein food.

CONDUCTING SURVEY

LUBBOCK—The Home Economics Division at Texas Tech is cooperating with the American Vocational association in a nation-wide survey to determine factors affecting the supply of home ec teachers. Miss Vivian Johnson, head of the department at Tech, is chairman of the committee for surveying the state of Texas.

TO INCREASE PENICILLIN

To increase the yield of penicillin, chemists and scientists are feeding the drug-producing mold a $234,000 diet of 6,000,000 pounds of sugar obtained from milk. Three Agriculture department research stations are producing tannic acid, essential for curing hides, from wild sumac leaves, while off-shaped lemons, once discarded, are now producing profits in the form of lemon oil, citric acid and pectin.

Family Life Education Work

COLLEGE STATION.—Every member of nearly 18,000 rural families in Texas received assistance with family problems from the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service in 1946.

Mrs. Eloise T. Johnson, Extension Service family life education specialist, in summing up Extension work in her field for 1946, also reports that 182 training meetings, 1,266 discussion groups and 1,669 conferences were conducted during the year in solving family problems in Texas. More than 12,500 families were helped in improving family relations, and parents representing 12,000 children took part in child development and parent education programs conducted by the Extension Service.

Rural health education received a large share of the effort of the Extension Service's family life education programs, says Mrs. Johnson. Reports from over the state show that 23,500 children and nearly 9,000 adults took health examinations; 37,000 families were helped in disease prevention; 15,000 families were assisted with home care of the sick; and over 8,000 families were aided with child feeding problems.

The need for more wholesome recreation was recognized by the Extension program, Mrs. Johnson says, and much improvement was made in that field during the year—41,500 families reported improving recreation in the home, and 1,795 communities built up recreational facilities.

One of the easiest, most worthwhile means of increasing buying power today is the home production of vegetables in a back-yard garden.

Farmers Say It Pays To Plant Delinted Cotton Seed

COLLEGE STATION.—At least 60 per cent of Childress County farmers believe it pays to plant delinted cotton seed.

County Agricultural Agent V. E. Hafner reports that the Childress County farmers are sold on planting the delinted seed because it comes up so quickly. And only five to six pounds per acre are required for planting in comparison with 16 to 30 pounds of fuzzy seed. The county agent says.

Another point in favor of the delinted seed for West Texas cotton growers is that it requires less moisture for germination, says Hafner. It can also be spaced more evenly in the drill rows, seed hoppers will hold more seed and don't have to be filled so often.

Delinting equipment installed in the Childress County Farmers Cooperative Gin furnish cotton growers of the county with the clean seed. Present capacity of the delinting plant is 400 pound per hour, but County Agent Hafner says plans are underway to increase the plant's capacity to as much as 800 pounds an hour to meet the increasing demands for delinted seed in the county.

The agricultural extension service of Iowa State College reports that one acre of wheat can feed ten people for 52 days.

More Gardens Mean Health And Economy

COLLEGE STATION.—The Texas A. and M. College Extension Service is urging everyone who can to plant a vegetable garden in 1947.

Horticulturists of the Extension Service say that a goal of 800,000 gardens has been set for Texas, and that today is the day Texas gardeners should start their preparations if they haven't already done so.

It's an old story how the Victory Garden helped supply food during the war years, the horticulturists say, and home gardening is just as important this year, with food prices soaring, as it was then. Probably the greatest value of a garden this year will be the dollars it will take off the grocery bill. One half acre of vegetables, cared for in the right way, can produce $100 worth of food for the family.

Over the state, county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents are joining in the drive to promote gardens this year. Gardeners can go to these county Extension agents for help on garden sites, preparation, fertilization, planting advice, adapted varieties, insect and disease control and any other gardening problems.

The Extension horticulturists say the essentials of a good garden are these: A well-drained location, thoroughly pulverized soil, adapted vegetable varieties planted at the right time, with proper row and hill spacing.

Lawler McCormick

International Harvester

announces $20,000,000 price reductions

We believe there is nothing more important to this country than to lower the prices of the goods that people buy.

The American people have insisted that the government withdraw from its attempts to control prices in peacetime. That places the responsibility where it belongs—in the hands of business and industry. Not all business can reduce prices now. Not all can reduce by the same amount.

Our company has felt a duty to act as promptly as possible. In our case, the business outlook now makes it possible to move toward the goal of lower prices. The only way out of the vicious circle of higher and higher prices is to break through.

We have taken this step not because of present competitive conditions nor because of a drop in demand from customers. We have taken it because of our belief that ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED.

These reductions, which will save the users of our products approximately $20,000,000 a year, will become effective before April 1, and will apply to a selected list of tractor, farm machine, motor truck, and industrial power products. Since we lose money on a few of our products, and barely break even on some others, these reductions will not apply to our entire line. Reductions will be made individually on products. Some will be cut more than others. Exact details will be announced as soon as possible.

Our ability to maintain this lower level of prices will depend in part on what happens to the prices and flow of materials that we buy from others. Because we believe price reduction is vital, we are willing to assume the risks that are involved.

All Manufactured Products	63.7%

Metals and Metal Products	41.2%

Motor Trucks	35%
Industrial Power Products	34%
Farm Machines	25%

These benefits to customers will depend, too, on uninterrupted production at reasonable wage levels. This is not a program that can be carried out if it is hampered by strikes or work stoppages.

Our employees have had substantial increases in pay, and wage questions are currently being discussed with many of the unions with which we deal. Stockholders have recently had an increase in dividend rate. Having considered the interests of these two groups, we are now making these price reductions for the benefit of the third group—our customers.

Business, to our way of thinking, has a social as well as an economic responsibility. This company has long followed the policy of operating in the interests of three groups—its customers, its employees and its stockholders. The duty of the management is to see that equal justice is done as between the three groups.

This price reduction program is another demonstration of our policy in action.

Health Notes
By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN.—Reports coming in to the State Health Department from various sections of the State indicate that the number of influenza cases has increased to epidemic proportions in many areas. The reported incidence this week is 11,642 cases, however, this represents only a fraction of the actual number of cases in the State since many cases are not receiving medical care, and therefore remained unreported. There were perhaps an estimated 200,000 cases of influenza this week in Texas.

Commenting on this situation today, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said that most of these cases are mild and lend themselves to treatment readily. He pointed out that two cooperative factors are essential to victims of this disease; first, to call the family physician promptly when suspicious symptoms appear; and second, to take it easy for a reasonable length of time after the acute stage has subsided.

"It is essential to realize that influenza, no matter how mild the attack, calls for a period of convalescence, because serious complications can occur if this important fact is ignored," Dr. Cox said. "Influenza is not mass-controllable. However, those persons who maintain the highest possible health level at all times, increasing their resistance to communicable disease germs, will have a protective advantage over those more careless persons who continually abuse their health."

The State Health Officer declared that living by the laws of nature, getting plenty of sleep, daily exercise in the open, nourishing foods and good personal hygiene offers the best known bulwark against all respiratory diseases and added that avoiding habits of any and all kinds detrimental to maximum well being is a wise course to take in the pursuit of good health.
