

If this paper comes out on time, tomorrow will be Thanksgiving. If it doesn't, yesterday was. Anyway, it's an appropriate time for us to stop for a minute or two and count our blessings.

We have heard more general cussing of just "things," or "conditions" this year than we can ever before recall. The farmer has cussed the weather — from the time he put his crop in the ground up until this week as he attempts to complete his delayed harvest.

The businessman is cussing rising prices of everything he buys, and how people can't understand he has to keep raising his prices, too. He can't get help and he can't borrow money, and things are tough all over.

The salaried person is cussing because he is having to do some of so-and-so's work, and the boss always expects him to work overtime, and he can't make enough money to buy a car and keep up the house payments, and etc., etc.

The housewife is cussing—well, we'll say complaining—about the kids and how unruly they are these days and how there are so many things at school she can't keep up and how the neighborhood "problem children" seem to become more numerous each year and she can't keep Johnny from being influenced by them.

Why, if a stranger came here from another country and was trying to determine for himself whether Americans are happy people or not, we would be afraid for him to be turned loose unnoticed! Actually, these irritations of daily living come to all of us, and we should realize that they are only momentary or superficial interruptions of what otherwise should be a happy and full life for all.

When we think of man's fundamental needs, it seems logical to say that so long as he has a full stomach and a warm place to stay, and perhaps has a family and is himself accepted among his neighbors, he has all the earthly requirements for happiness.

How often this is not the case! Too many people have found that they cannot find happiness in things or in prestige, or in anything society has to offer.

No one that reads this newspaper is wondering if he will have dinner tomorrow. No one wonders what he will do for a place to sleep tomorrow night. Instead, we manufacture worry and dissatisfaction by sweating out our crops, our business volume, and our other daily problems until they grow out of all proportion in their true importance.

This Thanksgiving, we have many things for which to be thankful. Compared with the few score Pilgrims, we don't know what hardships are. Let us join with their spirit, though, and give thanks as they did, over 300 years ago.

As you may have noticed, the wife makes a new and exciting recipe a frequent entry in her weekly column. What isn't generally known, however, is that she uses the Graham family as a proving ground for the concoction.

We have had a number of marvelous adventures in eating on account of this. It should be pointed out that some of the cookery that made the table never made the newspaper, however.

A recent development of the Graham experimental lab in the culinary arts was the perfection of what the wife calls "Frito dip." For this, she cooks up a big pot of pinto beans. When they are done, we would gladly eat them as they are, but that would be too crude.

Instead, she removes them from the fire, throws in a slug of chili pepper and some other additives, and squashes the whole thing up into one unholty mess. The end product is served as Frito dip, and is supposed to be a sideline delicacy on a table set with Mexican foods.

While supervising a church group of young people the other evening, Jeanne got a chance to try her talent on a big scale—and where it could be appreciated.

The hard-hearted boys took one look at the bowls of squashed beans and stuff and promptly dubbed the concoction "sheep dip." Most of it went untouched.

Our ladies don't always get outsmarted, though. You'd be surprised at the things you eat that look pretty rough in the raw state, but the girls win us over by presenting the "leav-in's" in such a way as to actually look appetizing.

The other day we were over at our mom's house, and she was feeding Kater, her son-in-law. He had just sliced into several chunks of stuff on his plate. They looked for all the world like fried fish patties.

"What kind of fish is this?" he asked. "That isn't fish," came the answer. "It's fried Cream of Wheat."

People who have lived through the depression say us young sprouts can't appreciate a thing like this.

CHRISTMAS CARD scenes like the ones above greeted residents of the area Friday morning after a snowfall of approximately 2½ inches Thursday afternoon and night. The snow accented the evergreens and the yellow and red leaves still on many other trees in front of the Scott Levins' residence, top, the Sam Rundell's, center, and the E. E. Booth's, lower.

Farwell Divides With Lazbuddie

Opening the basketball season at Lazbuddie last Friday night, Farwell divided a pair of games with the host school. A single free shot in an overtime period gave the Lazbuddie girls' team a 43-42 win over the Farwell sextette in one game and in the second contest Farwell's Steers ran over the Lazbuddie Longhorns 39-18.

The girls' game was nip-and-tuck all of the way with Farwell leading throughout most of the first half. Falling behind in the third period, the Blue and White had to come from behind in the final quarter to tie the game.

Farwell had a 13-10 advantage as the first quarter ended and had increased it to 23-19 by halftime. However, they were held to only five points in the third period while the Lazbuddie girls poured 14 points through the net to take a 33-29 lead. Farwell connected for 14 points in the last quarter to tie the game at 42 all.

Taking the ball in the overtime period, Lazbuddie controlled the ball throughout the three minute period and a player was fouled seconds before time ran out. The first free throw was good and that was all that was needed to win the game.

Hubbell of Farwell was the game's leading scorer with 15 points. Lindop and Rolland each had 12 for the losers. For Lazbuddie, Steinbock scored 14, Agee 12, and Hinkson 10.

Both the boys' teams had received only one week of practice and they showed their raggedness in the first quarter. Neither did much scoring, and as the period ended Lazbuddie had a 5-4 advantage. The Steers started to come to life in the second period, scoring 11 points to take a 15-7 lead by the end of the first half.

The third quarter saw the Steers rolling up 19 points to 7

First Snow Takes Area by Surprise

Snow, the first of the year, and unusually early, brought a frequent entry in her weekly column. What isn't generally known, however, is that she uses the Graham family as a proving ground for the concoction.

Some 2½ inches fell Thursday afternoon and night, and though the moisture content was low, it was sufficient to give harvest operations, already delayed, another setback.

Children, of course, were delighted, but back of the pleasure of the adults was an awareness of the traffic hazards and for housewives the constant struggle with muddy floors and children's boots and mittens.

Untraced walks and yards, the brilliant leaves still on the trees and the bright sun Friday morning were an unusual treat for early risers.

As the day wore on, however, children changed the scene with innumerable trails through the snow and a number of snowmen appeared. Snowballing and sliding on the ice also provided the youngsters with plenty of recreation.

One grade school student, during a rough and tumble romp on the school ground, found himself with one leg caught in a man hole. The cover had tilted when he stepped on it and he was unable to extricate himself without the assistance of grade school principal, Claude for the Longhorns for a 34-14 lead going into the final stanza. The Steers accounted for 5 points in the final period and Lazbuddie scored 4.

The Farwell scoring was evenly distributed among five players, with Dickie Williams topping the group with 10 points. Other Steers scoring were Doug Tucker 7 points, Johnny Lovelace and Owen Huffaker, 6; and Derrell Garner, 5.

The next games for the Farwell teams will be Tuesday night when they go to Adrian.

Coffer. A three-year-old, after a futile attempt to persuade her mother to let her go outside and play, made this observation: "If I was a mother and had some little kids that wanted to go play in the snow, I'd let 'em."

Pool Meeting Tonight At 7:30

Another meeting for discussing the proposed swimming pool will be tonight at 7:30 in the Farwell City Hall. Past workers and other interested parties are asked to be present by Jess Landrum, swimming pool promoter, who has raising the necessary funds.

Texico, Farwell Divide Tuesday Night Games

In a pair of ball games between teams from Texico and Farwell Tuesday night, both schools walked off with a victory. The girls team from the Texas side won easily over the New Mexico girls, 37-20, and in the nightcap, Texico's Wolverines eked out a 27-21 decision over Farwell's Steers.

Farwell's girls jumped to an early margin in the first quarter, scoring eight points while Texico was scoreless. The green-shirted Whirlwinds came back with 11 points in the second period to narrow the lead to 14-11 at halftime, but a 13-point third quarter gave the Texas team a commanding lead.

The third quarter score was 27-17, and the Farwell team added 10 points in the final period while Texico scored only three.

Beverly Hubbell topped the scoring with 14 points for the winners. Jeanette Lindop had 12 for Farwell and Doris Rolland had 11. Christine Bowers scored 11 points for Texico.

In the lowscoring boys' game, Texico led most of the way, although they saw their lead diminish in the late minutes. The Wolverines led 9-4 at the end of the first quarter and were on top 16-9 at intermission.

Opening the second half, the Texico team went into a stall and controlled the ball in that manner during most of the period. Each team tallied two points during the eight minutes. In the fourth period, the Steers broke the freeze on several occasions and hit the bucket for four field goals and a free throw to tie the game at 20-20. They momentarily took a 21-20 lead but Raymond Hadley immediately dunked a jump shot to regain the lead for the green-shirted lads, and they iced the game with four free throws and a field basket in the final minute.

Farwell's Johnny was the game's leading scorer with 10 points. For Texico, Hadley, Jerry Trower, and Jerry Henson each had seven.

It was the fourth straight win for the Wolverines against one loss. Over the weekend, they downed Dora 65-48 in their District 6-B opener, as they compiled their largest point total of the season. Trower led the scoring in that game, hitting 18 points, while Hadley had 16, and Henson 15.

Why use two when one will do?

You'll do better to protect your motor with this one all-weather oil than to change from heavy oil to light oil according to the season.

Users of TROP-ARTIC* All-Weather Motor Oil never have to worry about using different grades of oil at different seasons of the year. TROP-ARTIC is a light oil and heavy oil in one (grades 10W through 30). Furthermore, it lubricates and protects your motor far better than any of the old-fashioned "single grade" oils.

The reason is that TROP-ARTIC never gets too thick or too thin. In a cold engine it flows quickly for easy starting. In a hot engine it retains the "body" necessary to prevent wear. It reduces friction to save you gasoline. It keeps your engine clean. Compared to old-fashioned oils it can even double engine life. ## Big Snow Swirls Hopes of Harvest

Just as the weather was at long last looking hopeful, out of virtually nowhere the year's first snow blew in last week, capping the harvest again for another extended delay.

It was a shocking development in the weather picture, and proved to be the first big snow that fell this early in many years. In fact, records and memories of farmers can't recall any other snow as heavy by the third week in November.

After repeated days and days of drizzle and fog, the clouds appeared breaking up the first of last week, and the sun shone most of the time all day Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

It was headed into another good day and crops were just drying out Thursday morning when a front moved in from the north and filled the sky with billions of flakes of powdery snow in a matter of minutes.

The mercury plunged downward, and the snow continued on into the night, leaving a cover of from two to three and one-half inches all over the Plains. Some wind accompanied the snow, although it was not high enough to cause crop damage itself. The wind did cause drifting, however, because of the extreme dryness of the flakes.

Also, the fact that the snow was so dry helped farmers in this instance, because the snow fell to the ground in most fields, and did not stack up on grain heads or crust over to a great extent. A wet snow or freezing drizzle was feared by farmers because of losses it might cause due to falling.

Farmers could hardly believe their eyes. Not that it was so unusual for snow to fall at this time of year, but it is the first time in history that an irrigated crop—representing an investment of millions of dollars—had been caught out in the fields by snow. Friday and Saturday did not bring any more snow. In fact, they brought clearing weather, although temperatures remained very cold, and a low of around 10 degrees was generally recorded in the area Saturday morning.

It seemed that the weather had this storm to "get out of its system," and since the snow, the sun has beamed down in the customary High Plains brilliance—something farmers had almost forgotten the description of.

Combines started churning again Monday morning, and by Tuesday were in full swing. In many cases, wetness of the ground proved to be a bigger worry than moisture in the grain itself. The snow, added to other moisture already in the soil, provided very boggy conditions for the self-propelled combines.

On the ground, the snow is shaded from the warming rays of the sun by the heavy foliage of the crop, and it is being slow to dry out, while the grain heads themselves are getting the brunt of the solar heat.

Yields are again surprising farmers, and pleasantly so. Irrigated grain is turning out from 3,500 pounds per acre up on the average—and the average is mostly up this year. There will be many farmers who will average close to or above 5,000 pounds on their farms this year.

Farmers are in no mood to putter around, and the amount of grain cut on a day-to-day basis will probably set a record if the combines are allowed to roll. By mid-week, farmers should pass the half-way mark on their 250,000-acre-plus grain sorghum harvest.

As one farmer finishes up, he climbs back aboard his combine and rolls into the fields next door to aid his neighbor. Every available machine, including trucks, is being pressed into service to gather the harvest as soon as possible.

Cotton producers continue to take a dim view of prospects this year. Late-opening bolls are yielding disappointing lint, with respect to both quantity and quality, but with emphasis on the latter.

Parmer County, which produced 60,000 bales of cotton last year, will probably be cut back to 50,000 this year, but the dollar volume may be reduced as much as one-third because of falling grades, which always show up in the price the cotton sells for.

A one-third loss in gross, if that proves to be the case, will mean a serious cut-back in profits for the growers of 43,000 acres of the snowy white stuff this year.

However, it should be remembered that last year was an exceptionally good year for growing cotton, while this year was an exceptionally poor one. That makes the comparisons seem more out of focus than they should be.

Just what the final outcome will be is awaiting the completion of harvest, of course, but experienced growers and ginners maintain that producers should get ready for some unhappy revelations when they start figuring up the year's work on the cotton crop.

Union To Meet

Officers for a new year will be elected at a county-wide meeting of the Parmer County Farmer's Union Friday, November 29. The meeting will be in the Hub community building, and will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Up for filling will be the offices of county president, and resolutions will be studied by the group. Delegates will be selected to attend the state Farmer's Union convention which will be in Abilene December 6 and 7.

Wyle Bullock of Lazbuddie, FU secretary, reports that Joe Berg of Panhandle, who is the state Farmer's Union vice-president, will be the principal speaker. Berg has appeared in Parmer County previously.

W. L. "Preach" Edelman of Friona is now county FU president, and has been since the Union's organization three years ago.

Writing a page in Parmer County agriculture's history, this combine continues cutting grain even though snow was pelting down, and the ground was covered with it. Farmers were in no mood to stop work unless forced to. The picture was made on the Carl Maurer farm near Friona.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Do you know what soil conservation districts are? And what we stand for? We are people, working together in our communities and in our counties and in our watersheds to protect and improve this nation's most vital resources—soil and water.

We stand for local leadership in doing this job—a job that becomes more urgent every day.

As our population grows—at the rate of a quarter of a million people a month—and our cities and industries expand, we demand more from our land. And we're cutting into our good farm land for non-agricultural use at the rate of 1,000,000 acres a year. This land goes into urban developments, airports, highways, and other uses where it is lost for production of food or fiber.

Just because our land produces enough for our 170 million people in 1957 is no assurance it can produce abundantly for an expected 225 million or more by 1975 or in possible emergencies, unless the farm land is kept in condition to produce what is needed, efficiently and economically. That means keeping our land permanently productive.

We can't afford to let our soil and water conservation "insurance" lapse. Combatting soil erosion and encouraging good land use is a job soil conservation districts can do well.

Why? Because from the very beginning, Americans have fought for a great principle—the principle that free men can govern themselves successfully. We believe in personal liberty and the dignity of the individual. We are determined that our families shall have the opportunity to live in peace and safety, without fear of compulsion.

Our government is founded on the principle that we, all of us together, have the spirit and the ability to decide for ourselves the actions we want to take together in our joint interests and common welfare. This is what we stand for. This is a representative self-government—the best government and the best society that men and women have ever enjoyed on earth. This is the kind of government and society that offers the greatest advantages in personal liberty and the greatest opportunities for accomplishment.

This is the form, the spirit, and the practice of Soil Conservation District.

Erosion has a chain of reactions. Soil washes off a field and finally piles up in a reservoir behind a man-made dam. A gully creeps up the slope without regard to fences, property lines, county lines, or state lines. Dust from a bare field buries a neighbor's wheat. Water rushes off over-grazed pastures to flood the land and towns below.

The wording of the laws permitting the formation of soil conservation districts varies from state to state, but the state laws do follow a general pattern. The administration of the laws is in the hands of state soil conservation committees, boards, or commissions.

The men who make up these committees are usually state agriculture department heads, or active farmers or ranchers or both. They receive no federal funds nor are they under any form of federal control.

Soil conservation districts are governed by local citizens. The members of the governing bodies are called supervisors in Texas.

Generally, supervisors donate their time and pay their own expenses. They are not on the federal payroll. Most state laws provide that each soil conservation district shall have five supervisors, as does Texas. The supervisors must be local citizens and must also be active landowning farmers or ranchers.

Through their district governing body, local people formulate their own soil conservation program. This governing body directs the activities of the district. It also co-ordinates the conservation efforts of various state and federal agencies and other organizations.

Where funds permit district-owned equipment, as in Texas, the governing body controls the use of it. The governing body also handles the district money and signs the checks. In brief, soil conservation districts are a true example of local self-government. The people of a community join together voluntarily and legally to solve their own problems in their own way. (From—"The What, Why, and How of Soil Conservation Districts.")

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

At the last minute, due to weather conditions conducive to milo harvesting, Dennis Williams and his wife were unable to attend the TFB convention in Dallas last week. However, the Ralph Smiths, Gilbert Kaitwasser, Raymond Eulers, and Mose Glasscock were in attendance.

Having five voting delegates present, Parmer County was ahead of most counties in the area, and we are proud of this indication of interest.

At the state FB directors meeting following the convention, J. Walter Hammond was replaced as president by J. Harold West of Bishop. Hammond had served as president for 18 years, and had seen the organization under his leadership increase from a few thousand to over 70,000 members.

Numerous state and national legislation matters have originated with Texas Farm Bureau in the last few years, and three bills in the state originated in Parmer County. West is a young man and probably will be able to stand the rapid pace of events falling on the shoulders of the office to which he was elected. The best speakers of the convention were John Lynn, Washington legislative director for American Farm Bureau, and Governor Price Daniel.

At the close of his speech, in Making a pretty sight were these shocks of sudan that were partially covered by the snow of last weekend. Sudan put up in this way did not receive any damage from the moisture, which was slight. Besides, there isn't any rush to get sudan to market this year because of low prices for the crop.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

Do you use your time wisely? The statement has been made that if modern homemakers knew how to spend their time wisely, they would have more spare time than they could use. If that be true, and it may be, most of us do not know the secret.

Our mothers and grandmothers always looked forward to having more time for doing fancy work in the winter. Do any of us have time for fancy work? It really seems that with all our modern conveniences, homemakers of today would have a lot of idle time, but such is not the case.

Of course, most of us do more things outside our homes than our mothers and grandmothers did. It may also be true that with their endless number of tasks they learned to use their time more wisely. Maybe one of our problems is lack of organization.

Perhaps some study could be given to our method of operation and some constructive changes could be made in our daily schedules. Maybe it would be worth the effort to spend some time interesting other members of the family in helping work out a family plan for more efficient use of the time which is allotted to each of us each day.

If the lack of time was just the problem of a few homemakers, we could just dismiss it with the old standby statement, "She's the exception that proves the rule."

However, when almost every homemaker with whom you talk ends her conversation with, "I'm so far behind I will never catch up," or "I've just got so many things to do I will never finish all of them," it is time to stop and think about it.

If any homemaker who reads this column has some good ideas about spending our time more wisely, we would certainly appreciate hearing them.

Had you ever thought of saving the name and address from mail which you receive? These may be used when answering advertisements for which typed names and addresses are requested. This idea should be especially helpful to homemakers who do not have typewriters.

Part of the fun of the holiday season is sharing plans, work, and expectations with younger members of the family. One of the most interesting "do it together" projects for smaller children is cookie making. Any pre-school age child will enjoy cutting cookies and placing them on cookie sheets. Cookies can be cut in the shapes of stars, Christmas trees, bells, or other objects and used for tree decorations. Strings can be secured to the back of the cookies with a blob of icing which will harden in a few minutes.

A very interesting centerpiece can be made with star shaped cookies. First cut a block of wood and insert a dowel stick in the center and nail it securely. Make the stick the height you want your cookie tree and cover the base and stick with foil paper.

Cut cookies in graduated sizes of stars and cut a round hole in the middle. Decorate with red and green icing and arrange on the stick.

If your family likes date loaf candy, it is sure to enjoy—
Date Nut Pie
2 cups sweet milk
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
4 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons oleo or butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts
¾ cup chopped dates

Place ½ cups of milk in sauce pan and heat to a boil. Mix brown sugar, granulated sugar, salt, flour, and ½ cup milk together well. Add to milk which has been allowed to cool to lukewarm. Stir in butter, vanilla, nuts, dates, and salt and mix until butter is melted.

Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake in moderate oven until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean.

Some homemakers have difficulty making pastry. Our favorite recipe is hot water pie crust. It is very easily mixed and there is no guesswork to it. Just mix ¾ cup melted shortening, ¼ cup hot water, ¼ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon baking powder in mixing bowl. Sift in 1½ cups flour and stir until flour disappears.

Place mixture on floured board and work in enough extra flour to make crust desired consistency. This recipe makes three ten-inch pie shells.

Stalk Use Urged

Some farmers may be overlooking a good method of helping sustain production on their farms—especially under irrigated conditions—according to the Parmer County Soil Conservation Service.

This can be done by using the grain stubble as a soil conditioner; that is, chopping it into the top few inches of the soil, points out Floyd Crume, SCS conservationist.

Stubble handled in this manner serves two purposes, he says. It decreases wind erosion, and it increases the ability of the soil to absorb moisture (both irrigation water and rainfall) during the fall and winter months.

In order for the stubble to be sufficiently decomposed, and to keep the soil in good condition, a high nitrogen-type fertilizer should be applied to the mulched-in stubble, advises the conservationist.

After making representative clippings of some of the fields in the Parmer County Soil Conservation District, SCS technicians conclude that there are about two pounds of stubble left in the field for each pound of grain harvested.

In other words, if a farmer cuts 3,000 pounds of grain per acre, he should have around 6,000 pounds of stubble per acre left in his field.

Crume points out that by figuring that it takes about 20 pounds of high-nitrogen fertilizer to decompose a ton of stubble, a farmer can arrive at the amount of fertilizer that he needs to apply.

Also, he should have a soil analysis run to determine the amount of available nitrogen present in the soil, suggest the SCS technicians.

THE PARMER FARMER

W. H. GRAHAM JR.

A business trip of three weeks ago took us south into the Lamesa, Big Spring, and Level-land area. That part of the South Plains in recent years has attracted more headlines because of oil than agriculture, although they, like us, were founded on farming years ago.

The drought of recent years had about pushed their farming into the background, but they are certainly due to bounce back this year. Their cotton and maize crops are in wonderful shape, in spite of being just as late as ours.

That part of the country will be back in the news in a big way this year when the farming reports are out, and this is typical of many other "border-line" farming areas that hit and miss as the weather comes and goes.

To the north, to the east, to the south, and even to the west, everybody is harvesting a big small grain crop this year, and the milo production will be astounding.

Just one year ago, trucks were meeting our combines in the turn-rows to haul grain and hay to drought-stricken farming areas in all directions. This year, there'll be no exporting, except for that part of the crop that is exported through government channels.

Prospects for maize prices to be good next year are extremely dim. Only legislation can keep them up, because the carry-over of grain will be tremendous. Farmers already sense this, even though this year's crop is not out of the way yet.

No sudden and drastic cropping changes are on the horizon, though. It simply is not possible to change overnight such a large farming machine as we have on the Plains to produce new and different crops.

We have pointed out before how really insignificant the vegetable and other small-acreage crops are in the amount of total cultivated land they tie up. If vegetable production was increased ten-fold, there would still be less than three percent of our farm land devoted to those crops.

Still, gradual changes will continue. Here are some that will bear watching. SESAME—About 3,000 acres in the county this year, virtually all irrigated. It has done well, and farmers who got good stands and watered well have been pleased with the result.

Sesame prices have proved to be stable ever since it was introduced here three years ago, and indications are that the Texas Sesame Seed Growers

New Mexico Man Has Rain, Also

Farmers of this part of the High Plains aren't the only ones having a soggy fall for harvest. At least, that's the facts as presented by Roy Slagle, a former Parmer County resident.

Roy, who now lives at Farley, N. M., wrote concerning his difficulties in getting the harvest in this year. His letter follows:

The weather is bad up here—lots of rain and snow. We had about a foot of snow out of two snows. The ground is all covered up, grass and all. We can't take care of our crops here either, on account of rain and snow.

I have 100 acres of corn out in the field and can't gather it. Also have 70 acres of white wonder millet in the swath all covered up with snow and the geese and ducks are eating it up as fast as it uncovers from the snow.

There are thousands of acres of bundles on the ground not shocked, and spoiling, and a world of baled hay spoiling. I shocked my feed in the rain and mud with a raincoat and gum boots on.

Anyway, I got it up in good shape without much spoilage. If you don't think this is true, ask Sloan Osborn and Bill Stewart, as they came by and caught me shocking on Sunday with my raincoat and gum boots on, and I came in as muddy as a hog.

Well, I am doing nothing but feeding my cattle and sitting by the fire. It is awfully cold here—five below last night and several nights before. We live on Highway 56—55 miles west of Clayton and 28 miles east of Springer and eight miles east of Abbott and three miles west of Farley.

If you ever get up this way, stop in and see us, as I would like to show you a good grass country. I enjoy reading the paper very much.

The sun is out good and hot today. Maybe the snow will melt off in a few days.

My wife, Corda, has been having the flu the last week, but is feeling a lot better now. I have escaped it so far. Hoping you and all are doing fine.

Yours,
ROY T. SLAGLE

Feeding Silage To Breeding Sows

Bred gilts fed corn silage, supplemented with 1½ pounds of protein concentrate and 1 to 2 pounds of ground corn, weaned about the same number of pigs as those fed a conventional-type mixed ration in feeding trials at Purdue University. Use of the silage ration reduced feed costs $1.15 per gilt. Results of this test emphasize the importance of feeding adequate protein with silage. When the protein supplement was reduced from 1½ pounds to 1 pound, per gilt daily, survival of pigs to weaning age was reduced 18 percentage points.

It's never happened before, but it happened last week. More than half of a record crop of grain sorghum was left standing out in the fields as snow fell. Middles such as this one in a field near Farwell were solidly blanketed, and the snow has been slow to melt.

Cotton Vote Set For December 10

Cotton growers are reminded that they will make an important decision on Tuesday, December 10.

On that day, growers will vote in a referendum to decide whether marketing quotas will be in effect for this 1958 upland cotton crop. All farmers who engaged in the production of upland cotton will be eligible to vote in the referendum, says Prentice Mills, ASC office manager.

If at least two-thirds of the growers voting approve, marketing quotas will be in effect on all farms growing upland cotton in 1958, penalties will apply on excess cotton and price supports to those growers who comply with their cotton acreage allotments will be available at the full level of effective supports.

Under current legislation, this support will be between 75 and 90 percent of parity, the minimum level within this range depending upon the supply situation at the time the determination is made.

If more than one-third of the growers disapprove quotas there will be no marketing quotas or penalties, and price supports to eligible growers (who comply with their allotments) will be available at 50 percent of parity.

In either case acreage allotments will continue in effect for the 1958 cotton crop as a means of determining eligibility for price support.

It is pointed out that legislation directs the secretary of agriculture to proclaim marketing quotas for the next upland cotton crop, when the cotton supply exceeds normal. Quotas are not put into operation, however, unless they are approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum on the question.

The 1958 wheat referendum was held on June 20, at which time there were more votes cast in Parmer County than any other county in Texas.

"We are hoping that this will be true in the cotton referendum," says Mills.

According to R. G. Shrauner, chairman, Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, this will be the twelfth time that growers have registered their choice on this question.

Marketing quotas have been in effect for the last four crops. Last December, 92.4 percent of the farmers voting approved quotas for the 1957 cotton crop. The first referendum was held in 1938.

The total supply of upland cotton for the 1957-58 marketing year is estimated at 23.6 million running bales and the normal supply, that needed for domestic uses, for exports and a 30 percent carry-over reserve, is estimated at 17.6 million bales. Thus, the prospective total supply exceeds the normal supply by about 5.6 million bales, and quotas for the 1958 crop of upland cotton had to be proclaimed.

Marketing quotas, points out Shrauner, operate through acreage allotments. A grower who exceeds the cotton acreage allotment for his farm, under a cotton marketing quota program will be subject to a marketing quota penalty of 50 percent of parity on the farm's excess production. Growers who do not exceed their cotton allotments may market free of penalty all of the 1958 cotton production from their farms.

Science has been producing so many substitutes lately that it's hard to remember what it was we needed in the first place.

Watch Pork Prices

Statistics show that prices received by farmers for hogs in 1957 have shown good gains over those received in 1956, but these price gains can be maintained only if the supply of hogs is kept in line with prospective demands.

Price increases such as those from 1956 to 1957 have a tendency to encourage more hog production next year. If production is increased materially, prices in the fall of 1958 could be much lower than at the present time, warns John G. McHaney, extension economist.

Market analysts think that spring farrowings in 1958 will show a minimum increase of seven percent, and they could be larger; and prices to farmers will react as they have in the past.

For example, the 1954 spring crop increased 10 percent and prices to farmers fell 23 percent the following September through February. In 1955, the spring crop increased nine percent and prices to farmers fell 29 percent the following September-February.

There are three big reasons for the expected large pig crop in 1958, says McHaney.

(1) Bumper harvests of feed crops this year make more spring farrowings in 1958 highly probable.

(2) Hog prices in 1957 have been good, and may encourage more production.

(3) The number of bushels of corn that could be bought with the price of a hundred pounds of hogs has averaged above 12 for many years. This September, it ran to a high of 16.6 bushels and is expected to run between 14 and 15 during the present breeding season. This situation invariably leads to increased farrowings.

This year's hog prices encourage production, but just because prices are good one year is no sign they will be good the next year, concludes McHaney.

HD Council Has Regular Meeting

The Parmer County HD Council met November 25 at 2 p. m. in the American Legion Hall in Friona. Seven clubs were represented. These were Black, Friona, Hi-Point, Hub, Lakeview, Midway, and Northside. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Dee Chitwood, president. Club reports were given. Mrs. Chitwood reported that 25 members were present for the Thanksgiving luncheon which was held at Oklahoma Lane on November 21.

The meeting was adjourned and then the meeting for election of a council chairman was held. Maxine Price was voted on and will be the THDA Council chairman for 1958.

During 1956, 1,400,000 persons were injured in motor vehicle accidents, the National Safety Council says.

Parmer County ASC OK's Distress Loans

Authorization has been granted to the Parmer County ASC committee to make temporary recourse loans to producers on 1957 crop grain sorghums. This authorization permits producers to obtain loans on grain sorghum stored on the ground in the open and on grain sorghums stored in temporary facilities, says Prentice Mills, ASC office manager.

Distress loans are made on the basis that, within 90 days from the date of the temporary loan, or March 31, 1958, whichever is earlier, the producer must place the grain sorghum in approved farm storage or approved warehouse storage and obtain a regular loan or repay the amount of the distress loan, plus interest.

Application for distress loans must be made to the county ASC office within 30 days after the producer completes harvest of the grain sorghums tendered for loan. Distress loans will be made at 80 percent of the county loan rate which would apply to the grain sorghums under the 1957-crop grain sorghums price support program.

The county office cannot approve distress loans on grain sorghum piled on the ground unless the grain is protected from animals and so located that drainage from moisture will not seriously affect the quantity and quality of the grain sorghums, Mills points out.

Distress loans will bear interest from the date of disbursement to date of repayment at 3½ percent per annum, except that in the case of default, loans will bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum from the date of default.
