

German Military Measures Giving France A Scare

Diplomats Told To Transmit Immediately All Available Information; Troop Movements Are Reported

PARIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—France today instructed her diplomats abroad to transmit immediately to Paris all information available concerning military preparations now taking place in Germany.

Foreign office officials declared reports of naval military measures of unusual size were "being followed by diplomatic circles with the greatest attention."

An authorized source said information in the foreign office's possession showed "important measures will be held in the Reich."

The statement was made in regard to reports of huge German troop movements published in French and British newspapers.

While admitting "anything can happen," foreign office and diplomatic circles in the main were inclined to believe naval preparations were designed only for pressure and discarded the probability of open conflict.

Water Survey Is Complete

City Project To Be Discussed At Fort Worth Meeting

With a survey on a water pipeline to the north Concho river complete, City Manager E. V. Spence left Friday noon for Fort Worth for a conference with engineers concerning the projected line.

Marvin Nichols, Fort Worth hydraulic engineer, said that the field work was completed Thursday and that all information concerning the project would be discussed at the meeting Saturday.

Estimated costs on a dam about five miles above Sterling City have been prepared previously by army engineers. The line, as proposed, would extend from that point to Big Spring.

When all information has been secured on probable cost of the entire project, it will be studied by the city commission with the view determining whether it is the practical solution to the local water problem. It has been indicated that an amendment to the PWA application for water works improvements might be amended to provide an additional 45 per cent grant to cover the total project. The city would then be called upon to vote on bonds to finance its share of the cost.

Buchanan Dam Operation Is Defended

PWA Releases Report Asserting It Reduced Flood

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Public Works Administration, releasing an engineers' preliminary report which denied operation of the Buchanan dam had contributed to a recent flood on the lower Colorado river in Texas, charged those opposed to public power 'distorted facts' in an attempt to discredit the federally financed project.

A report of Harry W. Bashore, reclamation bureau engineer, made public yesterday by Acting PWA Administrator Howard A. Gray, said operation of the dam had "actually reduced the recent flood by one foot, and did not contribute to the inundation."

Release of the report brought expressions of gratification at Austin from officials of the Lower Colorado River Authority. Clarence McDonough, manager of the Authority, said the report "will give the public correct information as to the operation of the dam."

Bashore's report said if the Buchanan dam gates had been opened two days earlier the flood would have been reduced two feet, and if the reservoir had been emptied the flood level at Austin would have been reduced by three feet, still leaving an eight foot flood.

He maintained that while "better preparations should have been made for emergency operation of Buchanan dam" it was doubtful if any careful forethought would have had much effect in reducing damages "caused by a flood having a peak load and volume as great as that of July 1938."

Gray, expressing sympathy for residents of the Colorado river lowlands who suffered loss, said they had been "victimized by deliberate campaigns of distortion, engineered by persons with their own purposes to serve."

"Original water flood in July hardly reached the proportions of propaganda, loosed by persons with axes to grind," he declared.

Individuals and organizations opposed to public power distorted facts in an attempt to discredit federal participation in aiding public ownership of the utility, Gray maintained.

"I wonder if the propaganda would have been as loud if the dam had been completed and operated by the private utilities as they planned it and started it—for the production of power for private profit?"

Bashore's report concluded that the completed Lake Mead and partially completed Marshall Ford dam on the Lower Colorado, had no effect on the flood depth at Austin.

If Marshall Ford dam had been completed, he said, the depth at Austin would have been reduced about four feet, and had the Marshall Ford high dam been completed at Austin, provided no encroachment had been made before the flood on the 800,000 acre feet storage capacity reserved for flood control below the spillway crest.

MIDLAND FIRESTONE MANAGER DIES OF BULLET WOUND

MIDLAND, Aug. 12 (AP)—A. E. (Bud) Taylor, 26, manager of the Firestone Service store here, died in a hospital at 11:30 this morning, victim of a bullet wound in the head suffered two hours earlier. Taylor was a former football star at Texas Christian university, having graduated from that school in 1934.

Officers said they were told the shot was fired after Taylor had stepped into an ante-room at the station. Bullet from a .22 calibre pistol entered his head just over the right ear. There was no explanation for the shooting.

Taylor is survived by his wife, a four-year-old daughter, Joan; and his mother, three brothers and a sister, all of Austin. The body was to be forwarded tonight to Austin for burial Saturday.

DONKEY BALL GAME IS CANCELLED OUT

A donkey baseball game, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled due to conflicting arrangements, R. J. McDonald, president of the Lions club, said.

The baseball park, only available space for night games, is taken by the Devils for a game with Pampa to decide which will represent the state at the national VFW meeting.

It is likely that the game will be played early in October, said McDonald.

URGES PLANTING OF BETTER COTTON

GREENVILLE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Congressman Sam Rayburn told the annual farmers day program at the United States seed breeding station here yesterday that farmers must plant a better variety of cotton if they would compete in world markets.

Rayburn, house majority leader, urged the farmers "to get back to sane, sensible and sound practices of producing the kind of cotton that world markets will know what they are getting."

Runoff Warms Up With O'Daniel's Endorsement Of 6 State Candidates

Capital Agasp As Precedent Tossed Aside

Some Say He Has Blundered; Others Say He's Smart

AUSTIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—Action of W. Lee O'Daniel, the democratic gubernatorial nominee, in endorsing six candidates for important state offices left the capital gasping in astonishment to He's Done It Again.

The general reaction seemed to be amazement that he had "done it again," had shattered precedent in the face of all political experience, and that none accurately could predict the final outcome.

Few persons would comment for publication, but the comment privately was buzzing everywhere. Generally, it ranged from the opinion O'Daniel had "blundered" to one that he was "smart."

Governor James V. Allred, III, at the governor's mansion, refrained from commenting. Friends of candidates endorsed were jubilant, while those who did not receive the Fort Worth flour merchant's nod were unhappy.

The view that O'Daniel had acted wisely was expressed by a veteran member of the state senate.

"It was the only thing he could do," said the senator. "He recognized that the stampede of the voters had gone far enough. I think he proved he was smart."

The opposing opinion was that O'Daniel had laid himself open to criticism he was stepping in to fields not his own and unnecessarily making many enemies.

"The charge of attempted dictatorship is bound to be heard," said a spokesman taking this stand.

The question was asked by some whether O'Daniel next would express his preferences in legislative races also to be run off this month.

Most agreed O'Daniel had injected new interest in the runoff.

It was suggested that the most important endorsement, so far as his administration and legislative program was concerned, was that of Coke Stevenson for lieutenant-governor.

The lieutenant-governor is president and presiding officer of the senate and by his appointment of senate committees and decisions in parliamentary procedure, as well as by his personal attitude, may have much influence on legislation.

A report was current that the state O'Daniel endorsed was picked at a recent conference in Austin participated in by Carr P. Collins of Dallas, O'Daniel's campaign manager, and several state senators. It was not verified in any quarter.

Another report was that O'Daniel's financial program would be built around a gross transaction tax.

FD Wages 'Liberalism' Fight In The South

Lines Clearly Drawn By Action In Georgia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt's frontal attack on the candidacy of Senator Walter George of Georgia made the fight in the battleground for his fight to build up a "liberal school of thought" in the democratic party.

In no other section of the country has the Chief Executive attempted to draw so clearly the line between what he considers to be progressive liberalism and the type of conservatism which he insists stands in the way of social and economic progress.

The action, taken by Mr. Roosevelt in his speech yesterday at Barnesville, Ga., forebodes a long struggle between Southern Democrats of the conservative type and those who fit the Roosevelt pattern. It is a contest which will involve not only the Georgia and South Carolina and other remaining democratic primaries this year, but will extend into coming congressional sessions and the fight over party leadership in 1940.

By many persons here the Barnesville speech was considered the most important that Mr. Roosevelt made on the five weeks' tourney which he brought to a close today.

The vigor of his criticism of Senator George, whom he accused of being out of sympathy with administration objectives, surprised many politicians. Some of them had expected him merely to throw his support to Lawrence Camp, a New Deal candidate for George's seat.

His speech, attacking former Governor Eugene Talma, was

Carroll Trial Nearing Jury

Prosecutor Asks Conviction In Death Of Physician

SOUTH PARIS, Mo., Aug. 12 (AP)—Special Prosecutor Ralph M. Ingalis today asked a jury to find former Deputy Francis M. Carroll murdered Dr. James G. Littlefield because he feared the elderly country physician would reveal the former deputy's alleged improper relations with his own daughter.

Unexpectedly, both defense and prosecution dispensed with rebuttal testimony, and Carroll's daughter, Barbara, 18, never took the witness stand.

Life imprisonment is the maximum penalty for murder in Missouri.

In his closing argument, Ingalis told the jury, that behind the physician's murder was the "unfathomable act of a father."

"Carroll hasn't denied it," continued the prosecutor.

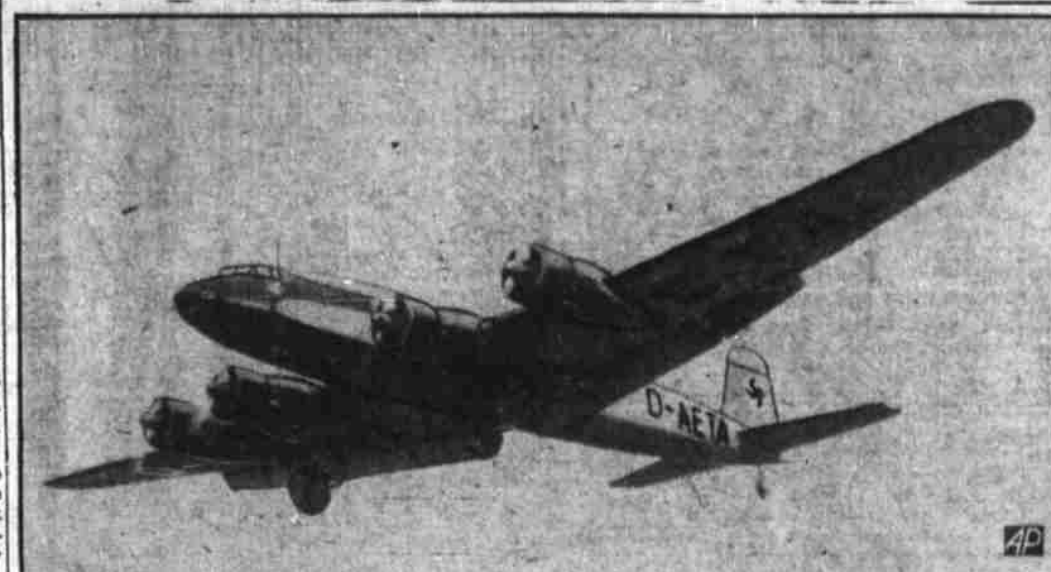

Carroll listened to the prosecutor's scathing words, head up, immovable.

A few seats behind him sat Barbara and her mother, listening intently.

"Whether the two men (Carroll and Dwyer) worked in concert or not," Ingalis argued, the result was the death of Dr. Littlefield.

It was the first time during the trial the state, which hitherto had charged Carroll and not Dwyer had killed Dr. Littlefield, gave expression to the thought that both might have been involved.

RETURN FLIGHT OF GERMAN PLANE DELAYED

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Minor damage to the propeller and an engine cowling of the 19-40 German plane Brandenburg delayed today the start of the huge ship's homeward flight across the Atlantic ocean. A quick turn-about trip had been planned but this idea was dropped soon after the four-man crew brought the 24-passenger transport skimming into Floyd Bennett Field yesterday at the end of a record-breaking trip from Berlin. It was the first west-east linking of Berlin and New York and the 3,943 miles were covered in 24 hours, 54 minutes. (A ship of the same type is pictured above).

German Bund Responsible For The Removal Of Envoy, Witness Says

Activities Of Nazi Organization Are Told To Committee

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The house committee investigating un-American activities heard testimony today that Hans Luther, long-time German ambassador here, lost his job because he did not cooperate fully with the German-American Bund, a Nazi organization.

John C. Metcalfe, German-born committee investigator, said he was told this by Fritz Kuhn, Bund leader who accepted Metcalfe into membership and urged him for a speaking tour.

During this tour, particularly in Los Angeles, Metcalfe said, local Bund members complained of lack of full cooperation with German consuls, particularly in obtaining storm troop uniforms.

Kuhn flew into a rage when this was reported back to him, Metcalfe recounted, and declared: "What's the matter with them? I've removed Hans Luther. I have severed relations with Germany whereby I can get anything I want. These consuls will be removed and we'll get the kind of consuls there we want."

Dr. Hans Dieckhoff is the present ambassador from Germany. "At least 90 per cent of the German-American element in the United States is absolutely opposed to the activities of the German-American Bund and everything it stands for," Metcalfe told the committee.

He estimated, however, there were 80 posts of German-American Bund scattered over the country, having a direct membership of 25,000 and an indirect strength of 500,000 persons.

About 100,000 attended Bund meetings regularly and openly, the investigator added.

Metcalfe testified that headquarters for the silver shirts was at Asheville, N. C., where a weekly publication, "The Silverator," was published.

The investigator said copies of this could be obtained by writing to Germany.

Metcalfe said the real purpose of the Bund movement in the United States was threefold:

1. To establish a vast spy network.

2. To form a powerful sabotage machine.

3. To develop the present Bund group into an organization encompassing as many German-Americans as possible.

This, he said, is always keeping in mind the possibility of war and what it could do to help Germany in such an event.

STOCKS, COTTON TAKE PLUNGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Large selling orders poured into Wall street markets today as a flight of capital into gold shook European exchange rates.

Stocks tumbled for losses running to around $3 in the most active issues when a wave of selling hit the domestic markets. Commodities and bonds also felt the urge to sell.

Brokers said markets here apparently had been unnerved by reports of military preparations in Germany and fear a move on Czechoslovakia impended.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 12 (AP)—Cotton prices broke one dollar or more a bale here today under persistent selling. The selling was prompted by favorable weather in the belt.

The market was under pressure throughout the session and prices reached new lows in late dealings when October contracts sold at 8.33 cents a pound and December at 8.32, or 21 to 22 points below the previous close.

Jap Bombs Hit Hankow

General Chiang's Headquarters Effectively Raided

SHANGHAI, Aug. 12 (AP)—A Japanese naval communiqué tonight announced more than 100 Japanese warplanes had carried out a spectacularly successful raid on the Hankow headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The announcement declared the raid was "100 per cent effective" in attacking military establishments and railways at Hankow and Wuchang as well as the generalissimo's headquarters.

Japanese estimated 500 casualties resulted.

No Chinese planes took to the air in defense of China's provincial capital and its nearby sister-city.

Heavy damage was said by the Japanese to have been inflicted on the Hankow and Wuchang railway stations, a clothing bureau and the headquarters of the Chinese army's second and fourth divisions.

The announcement declared a direct hit in a railway yard exploded piles of munitions sending flames spurring toward the sky.

Chinese reports said anti-aircraft fire broke up the attackers, but the Japanese claimed all their planes returned safely from the raid.

LEGIONNAIRES DON'T WANT LA GUARDIA

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—Pennsylvania Legionnaires have withdrawn an invitation to Mayor Fiorella E. La Guardia of New York City to attend their state convention August 18 because, an announcement said, they are "opposed to fraternizing with radicals."

A Legion spokesman said he learned Jeremiah F. Cross, New York state commander, had denied the mayor a place on the platform at the New York convention at Radcliff because, he said, La Guardia refused to disavow a New York City employee said to be a communist.

Tells Voters His Choice Of The Field

Action 'Good Business,' Nominee Says To Reporters

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12 (AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel had Texas political circles buzzing again today with his unprecedented action in stepping into six second primary races with flat endorsements.

His Six

Over the radio last night, O'Daniel announced his support of Walter Woodford for attorney general, C. V. Terrell for railroad commissioner, Coke Stevenson for lieutenant governor, Bascom Giles for land commissioner, Judge Richard Critz for the supreme court and Judge Harry Graves for the court of criminal appeals.

Political observers saw in O'Daniel's move the dashing of predictions of a light vote in the second primary. The first, in which O'Daniel was nominated for governor, drew more than 1,000,000 ballots.

Candidates endorsed by O'Daniel expressed their delight; those who did not receive his favored nod either remained silent, questioned the gubernatorial nominee's judgment or expressed resentment.

O'Daniel described his action as his "first important move."

"There will be much criticism but you wanted a business administration, and this is the way we do things in business," he said.

He said it was his belief Judge Critz and Judge Graves had served well and "our state will be better served by re-electing them." Of the other four he said "I am convinced that their experience and knowledge will be helpful in carrying out the program you wanted carried out."

O'Daniel declared each of the six had promised his unqualified cooperation in putting into effect "the See O'DANIEL, Page 5, Col. 1

$4,000 Disbursed For Flood Relief

WHARTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The American Red Cross, which has set up offices here to care for 1100 families, sufferers from the lower Colorado river flood, has disbursed $4,000 here for immediate relief.

Many families are still in distress, their crops lost, houses unfit for occupancy, and no employment available.

PRAISE, DENUNCIATION IN WAKE OF O'DANIEL'S ENDORSEMENTS

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12 (AP)—With a storm of praise and denunciation breaking about him for his support of six runoff election candidates, W. Lee O'Daniel said today he had no further endorsements under consideration now.

Observers interpreted that statement as leaving open the gate for support of other candidates if he later favored such a move.

He also said he does not now plan to take further action in behalf of the six on whom he placed his stamp of approval.

Among the telephone calls O'Daniel received was one from Governor Allred. The nominee did not reveal what the governor said.

The laudatory telegrams O'Daniel received outnumbered those criticizing him by about two to one.

From the East Texas oil field area, home of G. A. Sadler, opponent of Terrell, came this telegram from James E. Clifford, publisher of the Gladewater Record: "I think your action in endorsing three professional politicians to be a direct violation of your promise to rid Texas of them. This is more especially true when one of them has had his hand in the public fund bag for more than 50 years."

Ernest Butler, democratic committeeman from this senatorial district wrote from Austin that the speech was "another example of the raw courage which has characterized your actions." Butler's home is Fort Worth.

The telegrams and telephone calls were from persons in all walks of life.

The Madison county O'Daniel for Governor Club telegraphed W. Lee O'Daniel:

The wire, signed the "Madison county O'Daniel for Governor Club by R. A. Wakefield, read: "We feel you have done the citizenship of Texas a great injustice by your endorsement of Woodford, Terrell, and Stevenson, three of the most pronounced politicians in the state. This is contrary to your campaign slogan against machine politicians. We condemn such politics."

Bredimus With Us

John Bredimus, the San Antonio golf architect who has laid out some of the better golf courses in Texas, including Colonial and Ridge Lea in Fort Worth; Willow Springs, San Antonio; Muni, Galveston; and the Royal Houston, stopped off in Big Spring with an old friend, Harold Akey, this week preparatory to going to Midland where he has been hired to rebuild the Midland course, put in grass greens. By the time Bredimus finishes with that project, Midland can well boast of one of the best courses in this entire sector.

And so the fat man has finally taken up golf. We're speaking of Horace C. Wallin, who much prefers to be called H. C. who bought himself several new irons and has been infesting the Muni course of late. Horace, who played a fair game of first base while on the Texas Christian baseball nine and still later with the Big Spring Oilers, has dropped all interest in the national pastime, content now to chase the little white pellet day after day. Now playing in the Cadden tournament, Wallin may gather enough courage to tee off in the Big Spring Invitational tourney in September if he wins.

Dallas Victory

Bobby Savage, who'll toss 'em over for Ben Daniel's Devils against Pampa in the state junior championship softball game at Baron park tonight, went to Dallas last weekend where he pitched the Cliff-Maid Bakers to an easy victory and a shot at the Dallas city championship. Bobby whiffed nine, allowed but five hits, may go back later if called.

To encourage the youngsters to take up swimming as recreation, the city management will set aside Monday, the hours 12 noon and 8 p. m., as "Youth's Day" at the Muni swimming pool, allowing all persons 17 years of age and younger to go swimming free of charge. Too, a beauty contest will be held among the young ladies who take advantage of the offer, prizes will be given to the most attractive miss.

Dilly-Dallying

- Best lead-off man—Joe Geddis of the Lubbock club.
- Finest throwing arm—Richard Hobson of the Beaton.
- Most graceful fielder—Bobby Decker of the local club.
- Most dangerous hitter—Midland's Jake Snytar.
- Best dressed team—Hobbs Boosters.
- Most explosive person—Hubber Mack Miller.
- Player with the most peculiar behavior—Jim McDonald, Clovis.
- Best liked—Jodie Tate, Wink.
- Hurrier with the slickest wind-up—Frank Grabek, Wink.

- Best fielding gardener—Ozell Snytar, Hobbs.
- Most wild fans—Big Spring's, Quickest—Harry Segbart, Big Spring.
- Smallest—Marvin Granly, Lubbock.
- Largest—Jake Snytar, Midland.
- Wittiest—Tommy Warren, Midland.
- Longest name—Pallawider (Wink) and Christopher (Clovis).
- Shortest name—Big Spring (Big Spring) and Ray (Wink).
- Shortest trial—Red Bates at Midland. (He was released immediately after Clarence Tramm struck him out four times in four trips opening day.)
- Best looking—Hargroves, Hobbs.
- Best umpire—Buster Capps.
- Worst umpire (with no rank—ings)—the other five.

A large blanket and a brown wallet were found at Baron park following Thursday evening's game. Owner or owners may recover same by making identification at R. L. Cook's office.

Danielmen Battle Pampans Tonight In Baron Park

Visitors To Bring Strong Team; Game Gets Underway At 8:30

Resting Thursday after a strenuous week of offensive and defensive drills, Ben Daniel's Devils prepared to go out tonight and Saturday night for a try at the state junior softball championship of Texas and a trip to the National final at Columbus, Ohio, later in the month. Their opposition will be formed by the strong Pampa Knights of Columbus aggregation. The two teams are slated to get together in Baron park tonight in a battle beginning at 8:30 p. m. Tomorrow evening a double header will be played if three games are necessary to decide the title.

Admission for the engagement has been set at 25c for adults, 10c for children.

Daniel has been experimenting with his lineup all week, indicated this morning that he would open with Bobby Savage in the box. Bobby has entirely recovered from early season injuries and should be ready to go at top speed.

The Pampans, led by Rev. Joseph Wonderly, will bring a strong team to town. Starting lineup is expected to be Robert McKinley, left field; Clinton Stone, pitcher; Basil Arnold, center; Roy Redman, catcher; Harold Henson, right; James Brown, left short; Jack Brown, second; Hugh Stenale, third; Richard Kusch, first; and Ed Terrell, right short.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—George Von Metaxa, the most important newcomer to international tennis, is here with the German Davis cup team to see what can be done about taking the big trophy back to the fatherland.

The chances, it may be revealed here and now, are very slim, inasmuch as the Germans likely will be trimmed by the Australians in the inter-zone final at Brookline, Mass., next week, and the Australians in turn overwhelmed by Donald Budge, Bobby Riggs and Gene Mako a fortnight later at Germantown, Pa., in the final round.

Still, Von Metaxa is of interest if for no other reason than the manner in which his several nationalities have been scrambled by big time tennis and European diplomacy.

His father is a Greek. George was born in Vienna of an Austrian mother. And there matters stood until Adolf Hitler recently reached out and made Austria a part of Germany. Overnight, as it were, Von Metaxa became a member in good standing of the German Davis cup team.

Last year George was the champion tennis player of Austria, winner over Roderick Mennel, the Czechoslovakian, in a hard-fought final. Now he has no title and is only No. 2 singles player on the German team, right back of Henner Henkel.

The Germans would appear to have found a very handy replacement for their ace player, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, who has been in prison on the outskirts of Berlin since February because of a morals offense.

BERG SUCCEEDS MILEY AS CHAMP

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—After three years of running second, little Patty Berg of Minneapolis was a first-time winner today of the Women's Western Golf association 72-hole derby, longest medal play event sanctioned for women players in this country.

Miss Berg winged home far in front of her field yesterday, completing the four rounds in 308 strokes, a new tournament record. Her rounds were 73, 75, 75 and a final 82, the card of 73 being the best single round ever registered in the event.

Second place finisher was Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., winner of the tourney for the last three summers and holder of the previous record of 309 shots, made in 1937.

Plenty Of Scouts

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 11 (AP)—Ford C. Frick, National league president, said he expected all National and American league clubs would have scouts at the national semi-pro baseball tournament opening today at Wichita, Kas.

Frick, preparing today to leave for New York, said the Wichita tourney is regarded much as a "mining venture" by the major leagues—it may supply "pay dirt" or it may not.

Frank Parker Defeats Hal Surface

Still In Running For Davis Cup Berth; Bob Riggs Triumphs

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The general future of Bobby Riggs' announced ambition to clinch the No. 2 singles berth on the United States Davis cup squad has been shadowed by the achievements of last year's No. 2 player, but today Frank Parker still is very much in the running for the post.

Parker disposed of the dangerous Hal Surface, of Kansas City, Mo., in the third round of the Eastern grass courts championships yesterday at the Westchester country club. He meets Joe Hunt of Los Angeles today in the feature match of the quarter-final round.

Riggs was forced to three sets before he downed Gardner Mulloy of Miami, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

Blitz Grant and Wilmer Allison were the only seeded players who encountered much trouble. Grant collapsed twice on the court before he defeated Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 9-7, 1-6, 6-2, and Allison just made the bracket by outlasting Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., 4-6, 6-4, 13-10.

Alice Marble, who has dominated the women's division of the singles since the tourney opened, plays her semi-final match today against her Weighman cup doubles partner, Mrs. Sarah Falfrey Fabyan.

Tribe Hurled Do Foldup Act Before Browns

Yanks Now Leading By Six And Half Games

Those Cleveland pitchers certainly picked a fine time to fold up. In fact, the New York Yankees, now sailing along 6 1/2 games in front of the American league pack, will tell you the Tribe pitchers couldn't have chosen a better spot to collapse like so much wilted oil stock and just about toss their way out of the pennant picture.

First it was young Bobby Feller who began getting kicked around, next Johnny Allen's sore arm couldn't take it any longer. Then Mel Harder's comeback went back into the mothballs.

And finally, Oscar Vitt, who wasn't used to taint sort of thing—especially not after the pleasant experience of piloting Newark's "wonder team" to an International league pennant by 25 1/2 games last season—sent young Al Milnar and aid Willie Hudlin to the wars yesterday against the staggering St. Louis Browns, and got no better results.

Texas 5-Hitter
Buck Newsom, opposing Milnar, tossed a five-hitter, and the Browns nipped the Tribe, 8-7. Then Les Tietje, whose last well-remembered act was beyond the memory of the oldest inhabitant, hurled a six-hitter, and Gabby Street's lads clicked for an 8-3 decision.

Since the Yankees were virtually handed a 3-4 victory by Washington's Senators, this twin setback dropped the Tribe a lame and a half farther back in the race.

The Boston Red Sox aren't showing much interest in taking advantage of the Tribe's collapse, dropping a set to the lowly Athletics.

Grove's Arm Dead
Lefty Grove started against Connie Mack's infants yesterday and not only lost a 5-3 decision, but learned that his arm, which he thought had recovered, is once again "dead" as Aunt Maggie's schoolgirl romance.

What with such developments as these, and Monte Stratton's four-hitter that gave the Chicago White Sox a 13-1 triumph over the Detroit Tigers, there wasn't much action left for the National league yesterday.

Only one game got by old man weather and the schedule makers. The Cincinnati Reds nipped the Chicago Cubs, 8-7, in that one when Ernie Lombard whacked a homer in the 11th inning. By the setback, the Cubs lost a chance to move into a second place tie with the idle New York Giants.

Jimmy Phelan Due To Bid For Crown

His Washington Team Helped By Flock Of New Backs

By EDDIE BRIEF
NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Jimmy Phelan of Washington may turn up with the football surprise package on the Pacific coast this year. He has a mess of new backs, including a 200-pound fullback named Mucha from the Chicago territory. Mike Jacobs has just received—and framed—his credentials as admiral of the fleet of American All Stars.

Also a volunteer member of the Fairhairs (N. Y.) fire department. You can buy a beer and sit in Dempsey's two spots all afternoon watching moving pictures of famous fights of the past flashed on the screen. Western sports say Howard Jones must produce at Southern California this year, or else.

When you are introduced to Eddie Mead's latest flit impetation, he bows and hands you a card reading as follows: "Milica Theodoreescu, Boxer International, Student de Sciences Commerciales et Politiques." What does it all mean? We bite. Any way the guy would seem to pack some heat out of the ring if not in it. Forty-five minutes before the Ambers-Armstrong show was to start, Mike Jacobs counted the corporal's guard in the Polo Grounds and said: "I am being crucified, this thing will be a private fight." Gunnar Barlund is the only fighter Finland ever developed.

Loyalty in the prize ring: Pedro Montanez's contract with his manager (Law Burston) expired. Another chap offered Pedro $10,000 to sign with him. Pedro said "no." A week later this fellow increased the bid. The next day Pedro went to Burston and said, "Write up a new contract on the old terms."

LOUIS MAY GET FOUR FIGHTS IN 1939

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, has just announced he will fight four times in 1939, and it would seem some four fellows are heading for a ring-full of trouble.

Louis will box next in Madison Square Garden in January, according to Jacobs' plans. Max Baer—the "new Baer"—is expected to be the opposition on the Pacific coast in April, with June and September bouts outdoors in New York.

Whether he fights this year or not, Louis is keeping up his reputation as the "fighting" champion the class ever has seen.

Since he won his title he has defended it against Schmeling, Harry Thomas, Natie Mann and Tommy Farr. There is no doubt he would like to fight again this year. He must at least train, to keep his weight down.

Elsewhere on the flit front the day was a busy one. Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong, stalemated by rain, returned to their respective camps at Summit and Pompton Lakes, N. J., to work a little more for next Wednesday night's bout in Madison Square Garden.

RECORDS SHOW GOLF MARATHON IS 252 HOLES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12 (AP)—Three speaking a world's marathon golfing record since J. Smith Ferebee of Chicago negotiated 144 holes to win $2,500 and a half interest in a plantation, must raise their sights, because the world's mark is 252 holes.

Bob Swanson, a Los Angeles caddy, found this out as far back as June 18, 1933, when he set out at 4 a. m. to play enough golf in a day to create sufficient stir to get himself a job as a professional. He played only 200 holes.

Young Swanson thought he had set a mark but when the reports were all in the records showed: That a Bruce Sutherland once played for 23 hours, completing 252 holes on the Craiglockhart course, Edinburgh, Scotland. He wound up by lantern light.

That on June 21, 1923, N. G. (Nick) Morris, played 258 holes for an American record over the Brackenridge municipal course, San Antonio, Tex.

LINERS BOWL OVER TIGERS

By The Associated Press
The Texarkana Liners started off in fine fashion last night toward their objective: First place in the East Texas league race. The Liners plastered the leading Marshall Tigers with a 12-2 win to cut the margin to two and one-half games and clash with the Bengals again tonight.

Third-place Henderson took the Kilgore Rangers, 6-2, with Joe Davis clouting two homers and Greg Lippold holding Kilgore to six hits.

Longview beat Tyler 6-5 in a thirteen-inning wild game. The Trojans hung up six double killings, a record.

Falstein beat Jacksonville, 7-2, behind the four-hit hurling of Bill Schwarzs.

ABSENTEE VOTES

Yanez Wins 2 Duels In TAAF Boxing Show

BS Youth In Semi-Finals; Pilon Yanez Start Tonight

ABILENE, Aug. 12—Big Spring's Yanez advanced into the third round paperweight division of the TAAF state boxing tournament here Thursday evening by scoring two impressive victories.

Yanez scored a first round technical knockout over Franklin Kama, Waco, then finished up by trouncing Renando Galvan, Kingsville, in a fast three-round bill.

He is in the semifinals where today he will oppose either Julian Farmer, Abilene, or Felipe Moreno, San Antonio, for a finalist's berth.

Pilon Yanez, Big Spring's other entrant, swings into action as a middleweight tonight.

Ships Defeat Santone, 6-2

Oklahoma City Wins Over Tulsa; Sports Lick Houston

By The Associated Press
If anyone has the idea the Beaumont Exporters don't play for keeps, might as well ask San Antonio.

The Padres started a crucial series with Beaumont last Sunday, involving a battle for the Texas league leadership. The Exporters took four out of five games.

Beaumont now boasts a seven and one-half game lead over the field and last night's 6-2 defeat administered to San Antonio put the Missions into a tie for second place with Oklahoma City which downed Tulsa, 1-0.

Shreveport scored twice in the tenth to beat Houston, 5-3 though outlit ten to eight.

Rain postponed the Dallas and Fort Worth game last night.

Texans Start With Wichita

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 12 (AP)—Teams from the Middle West, the Far West and the Atlantic seaboard will try to pry the lid off tonight in the national semi-pro tournament, a two-week test of sandlot baseball which rewards the champion with $5,000 in cash.

Thirty-one regional and state champions will meet in double elimination play in quest of the championship being defended by Enid, Okla., last year's finalist and a favorite to repeat.

Wichita, Kansas state champion, and Mt. Pleasant, Texas, which finished third last year, will provide the curtain-raiser tonight in a game starting at 8:30.

HOME AGENT VIEWS POULTRY FLOCKS

Two visits were made Thursday by Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent, to view poultry flocks.

She was accompanied by George F. McCarthy, extension service poultry expert, who checked on and diagnosed cases in the Glenn Cantrell flock at Center Point and at the Mrs. Roberts flock in Big Spring.

Friday Miss Farnsworth was in Stanton making some final checks on poultry flocks, gauging together with Mrs. Elsie Gilkerson, Martin county home demonstration agent. A series of gauge checks will be given over the county starting Sept. 1 said Miss Farnsworth.

Fema's Meet Underway

HOUSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Sixteen teams were entered in the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation softball tournament for women which opened here today.

Leading the entries was Seale Service of Houston which in 1937 won the championship under the American General Insurance banner.

Quarter-finals are scheduled to night, semi-finals Saturday afternoon and finals Saturday night.

NEGRO JAILED

William Fless, negro, wanted in El Paso, was held in the Howard county jail Thursday night for an El Paso office.

With the elements pouring their wrath onto the players for the first four innings and Johnny Hogan doing his damndest to set new league records, the Big Spring Barons slashed out for their most one-sided victory of the season in the series finale with the Hobbs Boosters in Baron park Thursday evening before a small but enthusiastic gathering, winning 17-1.

While Willard Ramsdell, bothered very little by the pelting rain, chalked up his fifth and easiest pitching triumph of the season, big Baron guns gave Hogan and all the rest of the visiting crew something to remember the ballweek for.

Hogan handed out a total of 13 free passes in the two frames, he worked and became so disgusted with himself that several times he started to walk toward the Booster dugout only to be called back by Manager Neal Rabe. In the first frame when the Big Springers contributed their best attack of the night, Hogan forced five men across the plate with as many successive walks. He struck out Billy Capps to end the inning after he had faced 13 batters and allowed the locals to chase in seven runs but he was a complete failure in the second and finally gave way to Tony Bonk, who finished.

Only Nine Hits
The best the Big Springers could do with the willow was nine base hits, three more than the Boosters were able to collect off Ramsdell, but they made every hit but one count in the scoring.

Bobby Decker enjoyed his most successful evening of the season. First time out he collected one of Hogan's pitches over the right field wall with Dick Hobson on base, then spent the remainder of the evening getting on base. He stroiled twice, came through with a pair of doubles, batted in six runs, stole his 54th base of the year in the fourth and handled six chances faultlessly.

Harlow Hits
Aubrey Harlow contributed the other feature blow in the eighth when, with two men down, he hooked into one of Bonk's fast ones and propelled it high over the wall in right field for the Barons final tally.

Jim White accounted for the Boosters' marker in the second stanza when he clouted out his 17th home run of the season.

The two teams move to Hobbs where tonight they open a three-game series. Pat Stacey was due to get the starting box call. The Big Springers move from Hobbs for a six-game series in three days with Wink, return home Thursday with Clovis as an opponent.

Last night's win cut away a full game of Wink's fourth place advantage. The Spudders, who lost a 5-3 decision to Lubbock, now are but two and one-half games ahead of the locals.

"things for which I stand and for which you voted."

He told reporters the move "may not be good politics but it's good business, and I am not a politician."

"I have looked at it from the standpoint of managing a business concern," he said. "If I were employed as manager of a business concern I would pick men who I thought would work with me for the good of the company."

The gubernatorial nominee said that in making his choice he was casting no reflection on the other candidates and said he bore them no ill-will.

"I am thinking only in terms of what I think will be best for the citizens of this great state of Texas," he added. "I am expressing only my personal choice and this does not in any way prevent the voters of Texas from voting for whomsoever they choose. But I feel that I can better carry out your wishes and give you the kind of government you want if you will vote for the men I have mentioned."

WANT LIMIT TAKEN OFF PER CAPITA APPORTIONMENT

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 12 (AP)—County superintendents and supervisors in the Texas educational program who attended their annual conference here were on record today as favoring removal of the statutory limitation of $17.50 per capita apportionment of the state available school fund.

The conference closed yesterday with passage of resolutions embodying this point, favoring a minimum term of four years for the state superintendent, endorsing the proposed passage of a permanent rural aid bill and favoring three years college training as a qualification for beginning teachers under the equalization law.

fighting mood such as he had not shown elsewhere on his trip. The theme was reminiscent of his "firebrands chat" in June, when he first called for a liberal-conservative alignment of major political parties.

Consideration of political strategy now that the gauntlet is down may occupy much of Mr. Roosevelt's attention during the six days he will be in Washington.

(He leaves Aug. 17 for Kingston, Ontario, to receive an honorary degree from Queens university.)

Many persons here believe he may intervene directly in the Maryland democratic primary in an effort to defeat Senator Milford Tydings by boosting the candidacy of Rep. David J. Lewis, a New Deal aspirant to replace Tydings. It is possible also that he may take a hand against Senator Loneragan in Connecticut.

On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt did not utilize a train stop at Greenville, S. C., last night to criticize by name Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina, who like George, Tydings and Loneragan opposed the court bill and various other administration measures. He limited his political remarks there to a general appeal for election of congressmen who will cooperate with his program.

Too Many Cities Want To Welcome Doug Corrigan

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Doug Corrigan took a notebook and pencil stub today and pondered a bewildering litany of cities wanting to give him a reception.

The 31-year-old "wrong way" flier shook his head and grinned despairingly.

"See America first, all right," he said, sitting in the sun outside his bungalow at Roosevelt Field, Long Island. "But it'll take me a month of Sundays to do it."

At the bungalow early this morning, Corrigan was grooming his ship for a trial spin when bureau of air commerce officials arrived to inspect the plane. The officials renewed his license, giving him the same "point-to-point" permit he had before.

GOOD NEWS!

THERE'S bad news around these days—but there are bright spots, too!

People are out of work—but many, many more have steady jobs.

Some businesses have been hard hit—but others are going ahead, selling more goods this year than last.

Among our own clients is notable proof of this.

In each of the businesses listed below, sales are actually ahead of a year ago.

Kellogg's All-Bran... "You will be pleased to know that sales for the first quarter of 1938 show a satisfactory increase over last year." W. K. Kellogg, President, Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Quaker State Motor Oil... "Sales this Spring are well ahead of those a year ago." Samuel Messer, Vice-President, Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation, Oil City, Pennsylvania.

Knox Gelatine... "Each month of 1938 sales of Knox Gelatine have been running ahead of last year. There is every indication that these increases will continue." James E. Knox, Vice-President and General Manager, Charles B. Knox Gelatine Co., Inc., Johnston, New York.

Spud Cigarettes (in Canada)... "First quarter sales of Spud Cigarettes are 21% ahead of the first quarter last year—and this is on top of a 40% increase over the year before." A. C. Picard, Managing Director, Rock City Tobacco Company, Ltd., Quebec, Canada.

Mueller's Macaroni... "First-quarter sales of Mueller's macaroni products are 12% ahead of last year. They have been growing almost steadily since February 1937." Henry Mueller, President, C. F. Mueller Co., Jersey City, New Jersey.

Bosco... "This quarter has seen the greatest sales improvement in the 9-year history of Bosco Milk Amplifier. Sales are 64% ahead of the same period in 1937." Duncan R. MacKenzie, General Manager, Bosco Company, New York.

Canadian Pacific Steamships... "Eastbound Atlantic passenger traffic, for the month of May 1938 shows an increase of 15% over the same period in 1937." William Baird, Steamship Passenger Traffic Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Montreal, Canada.

W. & J. Sloane... "For 1938 to date unit sales in many departments are very substantially ahead of last year, and the average for the business as a whole is ahead." Richard L. McClenahan, Vice-President, W. & J. Sloane, New York.

THERE'S plenty of good news today...especially for advertisers who use newspaper space.

The records are full of business concerns that are going ahead, enjoying bigger sales today...through intelligent, aggressive newspaper advertising.

Consider, for example, the "Good News" concerns named above...

All of these eight concerns have advertised in newspapers this year.

Several of them have spent more money for newspaper advertising this year than for any other form of advertising.

Collectively, the eight advertisers have invested more money in newspapers this year than in any other medium. Over 42 per cent of their aggregate advertising appropriation this year has been placed in newspapers.

And the advertising agency serving these eight concerns chose to publish its "Good News" advertisement in newspapers...and only in newspapers.

How's your business? Perhaps you need more newspaper advertising...right now.

BOB POWELL MAKING JOHNSON GRASS PAY

Bob Powell, Coahoma rancher, is going to turn his Johnson grass field to good use again this year.

Seasonable weather has turned up a heavy yield of a 75 acre tract infested with Johnson grass. Although Thursday rains caught him with half the field cut, clear skies Friday promised to dry out the vegetation, giving promise of good hay. Another crop is due before frost.

Powell believes he will reap 50 tons of Johnson grass hay this year. His 40 acre meadow grass patch has a luxuriant growth and also will be cut for hay. If it were not for underbrush, the same would be true of tobaso grass on the flats of his ranch, for the native grass is knee high in lush growth.

Judge Graves Visitor Here

Seeks Support For Candidacy For The Appellate Court

Judge Graves, a former prisoner's devil who worked his way through school at the case and press, learned law as a stenographer in the office of the late Robert A. John of Georgetown and Houston. Admitted to the bar at 19, he practiced for a time at Sherman and then was elected city attorney of his hometown of Georgetown. He has spent 25 years in the practice of law, having been county attorney of Williamson county for three terms and member of the legislature for nearly five terms.

Conferring with local friends and supporters, Judge Harry N. Graves of the Court of Criminal Appeals visited here Thursday as part of his West Texas campaign for election to the unexpired term of the court.

Judge Graves, who was the high man in the first primary by a substantial statewide lead, expressed confidence that he would receive a large majority in the second primary, August 27. He goes into the runoff campaign with the vote and active support of his defeated opponent, Judge Charles A. Pippen of Dallas who received 250,000 votes. Judge Pippen has called upon all his friends to vote and work for Judge Graves in the runoff, explaining that "After careful consideration of the matter, in view of Judge Graves' unquestioned ability, his tireless energy and fine record of public service, I have decided that the best interests of Texas will be served by his election."

"I'M TOUGH! I EAT QUAKER OATS EVERY DAY!"

WHY is it you so often find the sturdiest, healthiest youngsters and grownups have been "brought up" on Quaker Oats? Because oatmeal is the richest of all whole grain foods in strength-giving proteins. Proteins, you know, are the vital food elements best for building muscle, firm flesh, and lasting strength. It's richer than other thrifty cereals too in phosphorus for teeth and bones, in iron, and in important Vitamin B, the nerve-digestive-appetite vitamin which children and everybody need supplied to them every day! So serve delicious Quaker Oats often to help fill out your growing boy or girl with the sturdy "tough" kind of muscular flesh and improve your own general well-being. Quaker Oats saves money, too... often cuts breakfast costs to half of most expensive foods... and you can have it ready in only 2 1/2 minutes! Get a package of Quaker Oats at your grocer's today!

RECALLING THE LONGHORN'S DAY

A current screen offering, "The Texans," depicting the era of great cattle drives in Texas, has Hereford and other short-horned breeds in the scenes in which cattle are shown. This anachronism is unavoidable. The remaining herds of longhorn cattle are scattered widely, and the movie-makers found it impracticable to assemble them for use in the production. In the country as a whole, movie patrons won't know the difference. In the Southwest, folks are broad-minded enough to enjoy the excellent production despite its depicting of cattle breeds which were unknown in Texas in the days covered by the story.

The cattle business is an unsentimental one and nobody engaged in it regrets the longhorn's passing. Yet the industry's debt to that ungainly creature is a large one. The longhorn was the foundation of the cattle business in Texas. In a day when no other breed could have survived. He withstood neglect, hardships, droughts, coyotes and disease, and delivered his beef in person, so to speak, after carrying it a 1,000-odd miles across the prairie. The beef, to be sure, was tough and scanty; but it got to market under conditions which would have been impossible for the sleek breeds such as Herefords.

In his biography of Col. Charles Goodnight, Prof. Everts Haley tells of one significant difference between the longhorn, and the more polite breeds that came to Texas with the railroads. A cowboy could go among Hereford calves without disturbing them; they would permit themselves to be petted, showed no concern. But to go among longhorn calves was to encounter quite a different reception. They wanted no petting. They were on their feet, alert and suspicious, ready to defend themselves. Their heritage of self-reliance asserted itself promptly and plainly. There was one like to believe, something typically Texan in their independent bearing, their assertion of their readiness to take care of themselves.

It is too bad, in a way, that the movie-makers can't round up enough longhorns to show them as they were, to perpetuate their memory on the screen. Their part in Texas history deserves at least that much.—Wichita Times.

HARD

If a job looks hard to do, it will be harder work than if we do not look at it in that way. How we look at a job can make it hard...or easy.

Most "hard" jobs are found easy once we get to work on them. When we waste in and get a difficult task done, then look back on it, we feel that it wasn't so difficult after all. The hardest part was before we started.

In our work here in this business, we do not look upon anything we can do for you as a hard job, and therefore, we believe we do better work for all who trade with us.

PEACE TO THE VIGILANT

PARIS, Aug. 12.—A prominent American who was about to return home went to see an American diplomat the other day and said that he would like to make a statement to the ship's news reporters explaining that there would be no war, and that all this talk of war was so much hysteria and sensationalism. Would not the diplomat help him to write the statement?

The diplomat replied that he would not help him, that it was no use pretending that Europe was not threatened with a great war, that he did not see any point in misleading the American people about the reality of the danger, and that if, as he still hoped, war could be averted, it would be for no other reason than that all the civilized peoples and all the governments were fully aware of the fact that they were on the edge of a catastrophe.

The diplomat's reply to his well-meaning visitor goes to the heart of the situation. And to understand fully what he meant is far more useful than to be minutely informed about the details of the Sudeten problem or of the Spanish non-intervention committee or of the rights and wrongs of the treaty between Czarist Russia and ancient China fixing the frontiers of Manchuria. The fact one needs to realize is that enough incidents have happened on the Russo-Japanese border, in Spain and in the Mediterranean, in Austria and on the Czech border to have touched off any number of wars, and that, nevertheless, a first class war among the great powers has thus far been avoided. The problem is to know why, in spite of pretensions, provocations, actual battles, bombings, subversive intrigue and terrorism without a parallel in modern history, the great powers are still at peace. For, judged by all previous experience, the reasonable thing is that the main peace of the world is still being preserved.

The commonest explanation is that no government is prepared to risk the consequences of a great war. No doubt the explanation is within limits true, but the explanation must be carefully qualified or it can be very misleading. It would be very misleading if one supposed that all the great powers are unwilling to face war because they dread the slaughter of so many millions of human beings and the destruction of cities and of wealth. We are not escaping war because of such sentiments. The impulse to make war is inhibited not by a civilized pacifism, but by the realization that in a great war of aggression victory is almost certainly impossible, and that the price of a defeat is the destruction of the men who start such a war.

Remove from their calculations the strong probability that the war would be general, that it would be long and that in the end the greater resources of the free nations would decide the issue, and we should see no further hesitation about carrying through the great projects of imperial conquest. Where there is no resistance, as in Austria, the procedure is absolutely ruthless. The only limits upon aggression are those which are imposed by the decision of the victors to resist.

We have localized fighting in several regions on the smaller issues because there the will to resist is not very great. We still have peace among the great powers because there the will to resist is so formidable. The question is how long this highly precarious balance can be preserved. For day and night men are at work trying to upset this balance in their own favor, and any slight miscalculation or work trying to right the balance when it is about to be upset. This is the meaning of the race of armaments, and this is the meaning of the enormously complicated diplomatic maneuvering for the weakening of opposing alliances and the conclusion of friendly alliances.

The only certain prediction one can make is that Europe cannot last indefinitely in this fashion on the verge of war. Whether it be six weeks or six months or two or three years hence, the time must come when this perpetual crisis is resolved. It may be resolved by the realization that the pacific nations are so strong that further aggression is not feasible. It may be resolved by the belief that the pacific nations are weak and that the great aggression, the bid for the mastery of Europe, is a good gamble. It may be resolved by any one of the many accidents that personal autocrats are liable to. It may be resolved by a radical change of regime induced by an overwhelming demonstration that external aggression is no longer profitable. Or it may be resolved by lunatics or conspirators who deliberately throw a flaming torch into the powder magazine.

No one knows, and so no one can know what is in store for this infinitely dangerous Europe. But one can know that things cannot go on forever as they are now, or even for long, in such a state of acute crisis. And in all the uncertainties one can be certain of this—that it is no good to shut one's eyes, and that the price of peace today is to preserve an extreme vigilance, and to make ready for the worst as the best hope of peace.

Man About Manhattan

—by GEORGE TUCKER—

NEW YORK—On the night of the John Warde tragedy I was having dinner with Commander Baylis of the Coast Guard. All through dinner reports on the attempted rescue were communicated to the Commander by telephone. At this time the melancholy young man had been crouching on a hotel ledge for nearly 18 hours, threatening to jump. Thirty-five thousand people milled underneath him in the street. The police were desperately trying to devise some means of frustrating this attempt.

Suddenly Commander Baylis leaped up. "They ought to get a cargo net," he said. "He couldn't get away from a cargo net." He hurried to the telephone and instructed his men where such a net was to be found. Then he came back, and we talked about Warde and about a hundred other things, I guess, from rescue work in the Arctic to tropic cruises.

About 10:15 I said goodnight and walked out into the street. All day people had been saying, "Let's go down and have a look at that fellow on the ledge." But I hadn't gone. I didn't think he would jump anyway, not after waiting that long.

But before I knew it some force was dragging my steps toward the hotel. I took out my police card and stuck it into the hand of my hat, so the police would let me through the lines.

And there he was, a tiny object on a far ledge, 17 stories above the sidewalk. He was smoking a cigarette. Suddenly his cigarette described an arc as a cigarette does when it is flipped in the dark. I had been standing there less than two minutes when he jumped. They are saying now that he didn't really jump, that he fell. Jump or fall, what does it matter now? He fell like a plummet, no swiftly that you hardly followed him, until he struck the marquee. But after that it was as if he moved in slow motion, as if it took him five minutes to fall the 20 feet from the marquee to the street.

Meanwhile from windows above the fatal ledge hung long ropes, sailors' ropes to which was attached a great empty net. It was the cargo net, the one recommended by Commander Baylis, and Warde had waited a few minutes longer he couldn't have got away. It was closing in around him when he jumped. But then, as so often in the case, even a split-second can mean a very long time. And to John Warde it was the difference between Now and Forever.

Check-up and comment: Dick Maney is writing a piece on Billy Rose for the Saturday Evening Post. "Where is Ina Claire? She's still at Belgrade Lakes, Me., and won't leave until she goes to Cape Cod for a summer stock engagement, some weeks hence." Ray Kinney, between appearances at the Lexington Hawaiian room, haunts Chinatown, and takes his kids with him. Says it reminds him of the Chinatown in Honolulu. The old horseshoe bar which used to adorn the Balcony room at the Central Park Casino is now being decorated by beads and hotdogs at Falgout Park. That new place in 52nd street is known as the Elbow Room, and attendance is by membership only.

North Carolina Is Big Purchaser Of Star Tires

That Star tires are loomed larger in the national picture month by month is shown in the statement from officials of the Hicks Rubber company of Waco to the effect that they have recently been awarded the contract to supply the tires for the state government of North Carolina.

Price naturally has much to do with letting these huge contracts, but the quality of the tires must meet the exacting demands and specifications laid down by the state purchasing board. The unique manufacturing, management and manufacturing system of the Hicks company is the reason for this.

Lee Jenkins, local Star Tire dealer, says his business is picking up and has just received a shipment of the new Star safety tires.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—I'll never call Mister Taylor the "Beautiful Bob." I've just seen him in "The Crowd Roars." I mean I've seen what he can do in a punching bag.

It's a regular sucker of a movie, and it carries a punch and a wallop to impress the male scoffers while the ladies are swooning in the aisles. It also carries the Beauty—MISTER TAYLOR—to a high point in his career.

When you see the physique Bob displays in this one, you'll wonder if this is the same kid the Goldwyn gang turned down on his first screen test, because he was "too skinny." It is. But a lot of road's gone under his feet since then.

"The Crowd Roars" starts with the boy (played by Gene Reynolds) and his no-good daddy (Frank Morgan) and his mamma who takes in washing. The boy can sing, and he can fight, and he learns more about flat work when the light heavyweight champ (Bill Gargan) adds him to his vaudeville tour.

The boy grows up (to be Taylor) and he's forgotten about singing. He's climbing to a ring title, knocking 'em off as they come. And then he's matched with Gargan, trying for a comeback for the wife and kid—the broken-down champ, his best friend, and Taylor has to knock him out.

The rest of it—how Taylor (now the Killer) falls in with the gambler (Edward Arnold) and falls in love with the gambler's daughter (Maureen O'Sullivan) and almost has to "throw" the biggest match of all—makes top-notch movie stuff, even at its most melodramatic. It's Taylor's best performance in and out of the ring. The cute gal (with the Sutherland accent) is Jane Bryan.

Another one for cheers this week is "Letter of Introduction." This is the John M. Stahl production to remove the odors lingering in the wake of his "Parnell" of unlamented memory. It's also the picture that features Bergen and Charlie McCarthy as legitimate factors in a story instead of dragging them in for their own amusing sakes. And it presents Mortimer, a Bergen creation who probably has McCarthy kicking his suitcase slats in jealous rage.

This story of show folks springs from a letter of introduction. Andrea Leeds has for the man who doesn't know he is her father. This is John Mannering (Adolphe Menjou) aging screen idol. The girl wants to be an actress and remember how Andrea Leeds wanted to be an actress in "Stage Door." Because of his advancing age and his romantic position, the father cannot acknowledge the child, and this leads to trouble all around. It leads even to the estrangement of her sweetheart (George Murphy).

When Mannering, long away from the stage, agrees to return to assist in his daughter's debut, he finds he can't take it—and Menjou gives one of his finest scenes.

"Gateway" is the new title for the film "Ellis Island." Tailored to show the inside workings of the "gateway to America," the picture is best when it tends to that phase of its knitting, and when its phase fits by Maurice McVicar, Fritz Lieber and other actors playing "immigrants."

Romance comes to Ellis Island—thanks to the scenario—in the persons of Arleen Whelan and Ameche, and with them (cheers) comes Binnie Barnes. Gregory Ratoff (more cheers!) is already there. There's a riot in it, but the picture isn't one.

Chapter Six
The Street Of The Dragon
The black Hispanic swung out on the sea-front. The lights of Cannes were blacked out; only round the curve of the Croisette an occasional window glowed.

"There's one thing I want to do before we turn in, Archie! Hugo swung round on me and I reached out hurriedly to steady the steering-wheel. 'Just now you were all worked up about that poor little devil's death, and I told you, in effect, not to worry about things that didn't concern you, but now a friend of mine has been bumped off and I'm seeing carmine. I'm so angry I'm afraid of myself—of what I may do or say, and yet, come what may, I've got to see Gels tonight.'

"Gels! I echoed, startled and slightly disturbed.

"Gels," said he. "You can tell me I'm mad and I'll agree with you, but I'll swear to it that Gels knows more of that girl's death than the local police will ever discover. She was scared of him; he was keeping a watchful eye on her, and it's ten to one that she had something on him—something he didn't want to come out."

"I'm with you so far," I said, "but how does O'Donnell come in to it?"

He was silent for a moment. "In this way," he said at last. "He was a private detective, and that was why I was guarded in my remarks about him to our fat friend. He may have been here on a job, and who am I to spoil his game? That girl was an American, too, or I'll eat my hat, and poor Pat, if our eyes don't deceive us, was shot down in pursuit of her murderer. I've a feeling it was to see her that he went to Palm Beach tonight."

"You mean," I answered slowly, "that she had been up to something in the States—something bad enough to put her outside international law?"

"I mean," he retorted, "that a girl like that has the devil of a lot of opportunities. Who were those men she was running with? What's their job? We've got to find out. As like as not I'm talking moonshine, he finished wearily, 'but there's no rest for me tonight until I've told Mr. Gels the news and observed his reactions.'

"Personally," said I, "I'd as soon expect a reaction from a bon-constrictor when you offered it a tadpole, but there's no harm in trying."

"Here we are," Hugo pulled to the curb beside a tall, iron-studded gate. "The rue de Dragon, 57."

He climbed from the driving-seat and pulled at an ancient bell-pull hanging beside the gate. There was no answering tinkle. So that I judged the bell must ring well inside the house, but a moment later a small peep-hole in the gate slid back; what looked like a human eye surveyed us through it, and next instant the door opened, revealing a dark, sleek-looking manservant, eyeing us inquisitively.

"Monsieur Gels," said Hugo. "Tell him Monsieur Stern wishes to speak to him."

"I will tell him," said the man with a bow, and disappeared up a long tiled path, roofed with glass.

A Most Distinguished Guest
There was an interval of perhaps five minutes, and then down the pathway came Gels himself, with a yellow-haired girl hanging on his arm. He was an even more exotic figure than he had been in the morning, for a Malay sarong, in a gorgeous gold and violet brocade, was wrapped about his thin middle, falling to his ankles, while above it he wore a soft silk shirt. Byronically open at the throat, and a purple velvet smoking-jacket. And yet, in spite of it all he contrived to look distinguished. He might be like a god, but it was one far from a god of the most distinguished lineage.

"My dear friends," he said, "how I deplore that I cannot ask you into my poor abode, but I am, as I told you, entertaining a few friends."

"Gels," Hugo said, and I was startled to hear how harsh his voice sounded. "I called to tell you something that may perhaps—"

He hesitated at the word—"interest you. We went to Palm Beach tonight—"

He paused for a moment, and in that pause I could have sworn that I heard the other catch his breath. "You were there after all?" he said. "Our young friend here was eager to see his Eve—and I am very sure she was happy to see him."

"No?" said Hugo quietly. "She had no time to be sad or sorry. I don't think she had even time to see us. She was shot dead during the fashion show."

The cartoonist drew in his breath with a shocked sound. "Is it possible?" he cried. "That poor child—what tragedy! What a despicable crime! I trust they have caught the miscreant who did it?"

"As to that," Hugo answered slowly, "I can't say. A man's body was discovered in the shrubbery outside, just as we were leaving, but the police don't know yet if his death was connected with the first crime."

The other looked at him, raising his eyebrows. "The police!" said he with a delicate irony. "What a hope! What do they ever discover but the clues that the criminal leaves for them to find! I fear very much that the death of our poor little Eve will be added to the long list of unsolved tragedies—What a subject for the pencil of a genius—poor victim of an unknown slayer!"

At that my gorge rose. There was something so repulsive in his gloating interest that I could keep silence no longer.

"He won't remain unknown. I can help it. I'll find you a better subject than a dying girl, Monsieur Gels; a murderer, waiting for the knife to drop!"

He turned slowly towards me, and for the second time that day I had the impression that I had sharply aroused his interest.

"So?" he said gently, "you feel it so deeply, then? But I forgot—you were already acquainted with the little Eve." For an instant he stared at me, with his pebble-like, expressionless eyes; then he laid a hand on my arm. "Believe me, my young friend, it is best to forget her. There are other women in the world."

"If I saw a dumb beast maltreated, I'd go gunning for the man who did it, and that's the way I feel about this business," I told him.

"A noble sentiment," said he softly, "but one that may lead you into strange paths, my young friend."

"The stranger the better," I retorted, but at this point Hugo broke in.

"There's another thing, Gels," he said quietly, "that struck me as curious in view of your remarks this morning. Did you know that Eve was not a blonde? Her hair was dyed."

As far as I could see, the cartoonist never moved a muscle; but suddenly the yellow-haired girl, who had been leaning, half asleep, against his shoulder, leaped away, clutching at her arm.

I looked at her in amazement and at that on the white skin above the elbow showed four angry red fingerprints.

"I'm sorry if I startled you," said Hugo mildly, but his eye was hard.

The other gave his shrill, mirthless cackle. "You think, because I give Fifi a little pinch, that you have frightened me? On the contrary, you must not imagine, because I said some foolish things this morning, that I am superstitious. I talked only to amuse you. Dark girls or fair—what difference. And besides," he added thoughtfully, "the girl is dead."

"I wouldn't bank on that, I answered gravely. 'The dead can stretch out a devilish long arm.'

He frowned. "I think," he retorted acerbicly, "you try to frighten me, and I do not find it funny." But at that Hugo spoke.

"My friend wasn't joking, Gels," he said, and added, softly and under his breath, "we must all keep the old treaty with the Dark Girl Death."

The cartoonist turned on him like a tiger unchained. A moment he glared; then, with a swift step backward, he had slammed the gate in our faces.

We were both of us fairly silent for the rest of the drive home. The general feeling was, I think, that we had hardly shone as private detectives; for, as Hugo remarked, all we had succeeded in discovering was that Gels actually had been, as he said, throwing a party at his house, and had, therefore, presumably, an unimpeachable alibi for the evening.

Ada was waiting up, and as we disposed of a last night-cap, Hugo told her briefly and grimly what had happened.

She listened to him in silence, her plump, happy face growing paler, the corners of her mouth drooping, and when he had finished, she looked scared eyes from one to the other of us.

"That poor lovely little thing!" she said. "And the man, Hugo—your friend! Oh, what's at the back of it all? I feel as if we were at the beginning of something terrible; I feel as if the dreadful things that have happened were nothing to what are yet to come!"

"Ada," said Hugo solemnly, "the cartoonist, that we have been drinking have undoubtedly gone to your head."

"I don't care," she insisted obstinately. "Gels is at the back of it all, and one of these days he'll be hanged."

After that there seemed nothing more to be said, and I was glad enough to follow Hugo's advice and turn in.

For the first couple of hours I tossed restlessly, and when at length I dropped off, I fell right away into a sea of unquiet dreams through which a voice as insistent as a midge's hum kept whispering. They were names that I breathed: Eve the mannequin, O'Donnell the detective, Gels the cartoonist, Venner the banker, Vladimir Rekovsky, Baron Stahl. Names, names, ringing and falling in an uneasy cadence—names that I had never heard of twelve hours back, but that I knew were linked by a devilish chain that I must somehow untangle.

WOMAN COMPANIONS OF DESPERADOES ARE ARRESTED

Norris, in charge of the FBI office here, said the women made oral statements that the men were John Couch and James Otis Meridieth, who are wanted in Missouri on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and for armed robbery.

Saga Of The Western Range, 'The Texans,' To Play At Ritz Theatre Sunday-Monday

THE TEXANS' AND THE TRAIL THEY TRAVERSED

Randolph Scott,
Joan Bennett In Stellar Roles

Something extraordinary for this immediate film season is in store at the Ritz theatre this weekend. A new picture dealing with Texas history and more specifically with pioneer days on the West Texas range is "The Texans," which is the featured booking for Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday.

The production is by Paramount, maker of "The Covered Wagon," and a host of other western epics, and it shoots for the high mark made by that early-day picture. Of interest to Texans is the fact that most of the picture was made in Southwest Texas, near Cotulla, and scenes of ranch life are authentic.

There are dramatic scenes of stampedes, Indian fights, floods and dust storms—such elemental forces that will be recalled by many an old trail driver as a part of the daily experience.

Time of the picture is immediately after the Civil war—a period which will be recalled by many of the elder folk. The Ritz is making a special effort to have this group of people view "The Texans," and particularly wants the old trail drivers of this section to be on hand.

The story deals not only with the Texas range, but with the difficulties in Texas during the Reconstruction period. Although no period in American history is more filled with color, action and romance than the days following the war between the States, when a victorious North tried to rule the defeated Southern states as conquered provinces, it has been almost an unploughed field as far as Hollywood is concerned. While the brooding pre-war period has been pictured many times, recently in "Jesse James," and the War itself even more often, "The Texans" is the first epic production in more than twenty years to depict the most thrilling aspect of all, the South's titanic struggle for liberty and self-rule after Appomattox.

In tracing the fortunes of a typical Texas family, beginning with the return of the men from battle in 1865, "The Texans" symbolizes the tragic and moving story of the entire South during the post-bellum years. At the head of the cast, Joan Bennett is a tempestuous Dixie belle, who refuses to submit to Northern rule and insists that the "great cause" is not lost, while Randolph Scott is a homecoming Confederate soldier, who devotes everything to the building up of a new Texas on the ruins of the old. Although Miss Bennett is all for starting a new uprising, Scott convinces her that she should devote her energies to constructive work, and together they lead a great cattle cavalcade through the wilds of Texas and Oklahoma into thriving Kansas, where the new railroad provides them with a ready market for their steers.

All the tragedy of the Reconstruction period is revealed as the picture unfolds. A group of the most miserable men ever to appear on the American scene, the carpet-baggers, descend on a prostrate land and rule a proud people for their own profit. Aristocratic families are reduced to poverty, private lives are invaded and even private property is confiscated by corrupt officials who can never get enough loot.

"The Texans" boasts a fine supporting cast, including May Robson, Walter Brennan, Robert Cummings, Raymond Hatton, Robert Barrat and Harvey Stephens.

FIGHT JUST BEGUN, GEORGE SAYS AFTER FD RENOUNCES HIM

ATLANTA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Senator Walter F. George, renounced by President Roosevelt as a "dyed-in-the-wool" conservative, based renomination campaign plans today on the declaration "we have just begun to fight."

"The democratic party is not a one-man party," he asserted, "but a party for the great rank and file of American men and women who love justice, liberty, equal rights for all and special privileges for none."

"I am confident," he said, "that the Georgia people are ready to fight this thing through to a finish and I prove that we in Georgia are capable and determined to run our own affairs."

"A SLIGHT CASE OF MURDER"

THREATENED LEAP FROM LEDGE, NOW GLAD HE DIDN'T

HOUSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The world today seemed to be a pretty good place to James Wells, 23, who threatened yesterday to jump from a ledge on the 31st floor of a downtown building.

Filled with hope after visiting his wife and three-day-old son at a hospital, Wells said:

"The world seems a whole lot better down here than it did up there."

While thousands watched breathlessly from the street Wells argued for a half hour with two policemen.

"Show me what there is to live for and I'll come in," he told Police Lieut. Lawrence Morrison, who engaged him in conversation until Patrolman O. C. Friday could grab him.

Later Wells said:

"I just couldn't find anything worth living for. x x I felt I was at the end of my rope."

But today Wells was cheerful. Morrison and Friday went job hunting for him.

REBELS ARE KILLED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12 (AP)—Eight rebels, presumably followers of the anti-government General Saturnino Cedillo, were killed in a battle with federal troops near Las Cruces, said dispatches today from Dolores Hidalgo, Guanajuato. Others of the band fled.

Cedillo fled his ranch in San Luis Potosi state last May and has been sought since by the government for fostering rebellion.

TO BUILD CUTTERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The coast guard awarded a contract yesterday to the Gulfport Boiler and Welding Works of Port Arthur, Texas, for the construction of two 110-foot harbor cutters to cost $280,000 each.

GUARDSMEN ELIGIBLE FOR WEST POINT

CAMP BULLIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Texas national guard board for recommendation to the West Point preparatory school at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, yesterday made 14 guardsmen eligible to enter school in the fall.

Among the prep school candidates listed was Corporal Raymond R. Irwin, Denison.

Mrs. Ethel Irvine and Mrs. Earl Hicks and daughter, Barbara Earl, have been guests this week of Mrs. Mary Ellis and family.

STORM IS GAINING IN INTENSITY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 12 (AP)—The weather bureau said today a tropical storm which passed over Jamaica yesterday had increased to near hurricane intensity and was moving west-northwestward with gathering force.

In a 9 a. m. eastern standard time advisory the bureau said the storm was centered near or a short distance west of Grand Cayman Island in the northwestern Caribbean sea at 7 a. m.

Reports from Grand Cayman, due south of Cuba, said the barometer had dropped to 29.42, and the wind had risen to 70 miles an hour at 7 a. m.

The advisory warned that caution should be taken in western Cuba and the northern Yucatan and by ships in the northwestern Caribbean, the Yucatan channel and the Gulf of Mexico "against hurricane winds" during the next 24 to 36 hours.

Armies Moving Into Position For 'Battle'

Sham Combat Will Take Place In Texas Sunday

CAMP BULLIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—War clouds gathered over the southwestern "front" today.

Two crack armies, the defending "blues" and the attacking "browns," which will meet in sham combat beginning Sunday, moved cautiously toward their concentration points, 50 miles apart, shortly after dawn.

Cavalry units of both armies deployed in the rough hill country, ostensibly hunting forage and scouting the battle area, but actually, observers said, keeping a wary eye on what movements of the enemy they can pick up.

Two bivouac areas, near Boerne, Texas, and Elmendorf, Texas, held the entire second division from Fort Sam Houston and presented the nearest "battle" between the Brown and Blue forces in the third army war games for which 26,000 regular army and national guard troops have been preparing for a week.

The bivouac areas today held mostly regular army troops. National guardsmen, many of whom spent last night in the hills on maneuvers pointing them for battle, will begin to desert Camp Bullis tomorrow for their battle stations.

Major General Claude V. Burkehead, commanding the Blue defending forces, moved his troops northwest of San Antonio near Boerne. There the defending units theoretically must begin maneuvers designed to halt an attack on the southwestern section of the United States by a Brown army that is moving in after landing at Galveston and Corpus Christi on the Texas coast.

The invaders, under command of Major General Frank W. Rowell, regular army commander of the second division, is composed of the 4th division, Oklahoma national guard.

Next Month Crucial Time For Europe

Roper Thinks Peace
Ahead If Immediate Crisis Is Met

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Secretary Roper disclosed today a conviction of high-placed English friends that Europe will pass through the crisis of war threats in the next 30 days.

Roper, who returned this week from a month's visit in Great Britain, said in an interview.

"The people with whom I talked said that if they could get through the next month without war, there would be no general European war for at least a year and probably for years to come."

He explained that when he was in England two years ago, Britons appeared "glittery" about the prospects for more battles of their lack of military preparedness.

"Now," he continued, "the English believe their rearmament program is far enough along to command respect and peace."

The commerce secretary said some Englishmen who formerly interested themselves only in promoting solidarity of England and the United States now are talking in terms of all democracies, regardless of race or language.

The Russo-Japanese dispute, though apparently eased, is expected in informed quarters to hasten the president's selection of an American ambassador to Moscow.

There has been no public indication of whom the president has in mind for the sherry and not much coveted post, vacant since Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was transferred to Brussels in June.

In the absence of an ambassador in Moscow, the state department has been getting its reports on the Russo-Japanese situation from Alexander G. Kirk, charge d'affaires of the embassy. Kirk, 66-year-old Chicagoan, is one of the most experienced workers in the foreign
