

We guess that it would all depend on just where you happened to be Friday when the showers came as to whether we should or should not acknowledge Washout Williams of Bovina as champion rain forecaster of the century.

If he didn't get that inch by the 25th he came so close to it that we feel sort of like letting him have the crown for effort. If every weatherman in the country tried as hard to make it rain as Willie does, we'd be growing rice instead of cotton out here.

The way the books show it, Willie owed us .30 inch here at Farwell if he was going to get that inch by the 25th. The official measurement was .26 Friday. We'll have to settle for the .96 as being a West Texas one-inch rain.

It just so happens that we have one pound of coffee left from our subscription campaign, and if old Washout will cancel his carcass up to The Tribune office, it's his for the asking. He has earned it.

Oh yes, we want to thank D. W. Carpenter for the sack full of sure nuff fresh eggs he brought in last week. He told us that he didn't think it was fair that he take our pound of coffee without giving us something in return.

That's the kind of philosophy we'd like to see a lot more of in this day and time when everybody is looking for something for nothing.

We turned the rooster bullets over to the columnist's wife for the treatment, and have since enjoyed scrambled, poached, and burned eggs for breakfast. The latter preparation is a specialty of the wife who sometimes excels in cooking things thoroughly.

And the sheephead from Walt Menefee really was as good as he made it out to be. For the life of us, we can't remember when we've had better fish on our table. Thanks a whole lot, everybody.

The writer, his spouse, and the Little Marl undertook a trip to El Paso over the weekend, where she took in a sorority convention and the menfolk enjoyed side trips over the area down there.

We went to El Paso by way of Roswell, Tularosa, and Alamogordo, and first off, we want to say that in all of our life, we have never seen country that is more desolate than some areas through which we passed.

Of course, things are supposed to be dry out there—it's more or less expected. But just the same, it gives you a mean feeling to see an old cow standing out in the middle of a ranch with her ribs sticking through her sides, and nothing but mesquite and blown-out sand dunes stretching as far as the eye can see on all sides of her. We've never seen anything look rougher, bar none.

For the most part, the highways leading to El Paso from here are abominable. That can be said for most highways in New Mexico, but the ones on our route are particularly crude examples of engineering, for the most part.

However, there were certainly some bright spots on the trip going down, and the fact that they stood out in such bold relief from the over-all dismalness of the country probably accounts in part for the impression they left upon our minds.

The little city of Roswell is a jewel amid a setting of desolation. Like some of our own communities, irrigated agriculture is the only thing holding up their local economy (except the large air force installation there).

Roswell, of course, is not newly developed so far as pump irrigation is concerned. The water in this area a few miles west of the Pecos used to gush from the ground in crystal-clear artesian springs.

They tell us that artesian water is almost impossible to find today, though, and pumps are employed to lift the life-giving property to the dusty fields.

The fact that so many of the tillers of the soil are devoted to grassland farming explains why Roswell looks so refreshingly green after the traveler has passed so many miles through a dry, ugly desert scene.

There is simply nothing so beautiful as a field of waving, incredibly green alfalfa, and once when we passed a farm where the crop was being cut, swept, and baled, we could not help but to slow our pace and inhale the sweet, fresh, perfume of that new-mown hay.

Up the side of the mountains to the west of Roswell lies the narrow but fertile Hondo valley, widely known for truck gardening and fruits as well as hay crops. The farmers of this valley use every drop of water in the little Hondo River to make their farms produce.

A 20-acre plot in that valley would be a real "spread," but Continued on last page

Jurors Are Praised By Judge E. A. Bills

District Judge E. A. Bills this week authorized The Tribune to announce his candidacy for re-election to his second full term of the 64th Judicial District, of which Parmer County is a part.

His nomination is made subject to the action of the Democratic primary July 24.

In making his announcement, Judge Bills made the following statement:

"In announcing for re-election as District Judge of the 64th Judicial District, I thank the jurors of the various counties in this District for their kind cooperation in the trial of cases. In all my experience in the Courtroom, I have never seen jurors who have been more willing to co-operate with the Court in keeping the dockets clear. Both Grand Jurors and Petit Jurors deserve the appreciation of all the people of the District."

"I am candidate for re-election to a second regular term. I appreciate the vote that I received in Parmer County when I was elected for a first term, and I again solicit your support in the Democratic Primary Election to be held on July 24th of this year."

$25 Reward Offered For Info on Vandals

The Texico Chamber of Commerce, in session Tuesday night, voted to offer a $25 reward for information leading to discovering the parties guilty of damaging street signs.

The signs, up only a few weeks through courtesy of the Chamber, have been badly damaged by vandals in a number of instances, and the Chamber is making an effort to stop the action.

Texico citizens wishing to obtain house numbers should contact LeRoy Faville to obtain the numbers of their residence, as well as block and lot numbers.

Scattered Showers Keep Hopes Alive

Hopes were kept alive for the 1954 dryland wheat crop last Friday, as scattered light showers returned to this part of the Plains.

Few reports were in indicating more than .25 inch of moisture, although the Black area in north-eastern Parmer County received a severe buffeting from wind, hail, and some rain.

A considerable portion of dryland wheat for the area is regarded as critical if not past saving, says County Agent Joe Jones, but every little bit of rain, such as fell last weekend, will keep farmers hoping for the best.

Transfer Deadline Comes Early In 1954

Students planning to file with the county superintendent for transfer from one Parmer County school district to another should keep in mind the early deadline for such action this year.

Transfers will be required to be submitted on or before June 1 in order to be effective this fall.

Cub Scout Pack Meeting Tonight

Gals Undertake City Park Cleanup

Several women of the community have taken it upon themselves to undertake the task of beautifying the park under the water tower in Farwell, and have announced that they will be at work Friday morning.

Assistance from any person is welcomed, says Mrs. E. R. Coffman, who is heading the volunteers. She said that "about ten of us" will be working on the park, but that they would welcome other help.

The energetic ladies will set up shop on the park grounds

Farmers Learn New Methods For Control Of Johnson Grass

A large group of farmers attended the cotton meeting held at the Bovina Legion Hall, Wednesday night, April 21. County Agent, Joe Jones, reported a very successful meeting with about 68 persons in attendance.

Fred C. Elliott, cotton work specialist, and F. M. Fuller, extension entomologist, brought a good story to farmers on cotton production and the latest developments in cotton breeding. Also, a report was given on the use of light oils for the control of Johnson Grass, such as Varsol No. 1, put out by the Humble Oil Company. Most all oil companies have similar oils for this use.

Elliott showed colored slides of work being done in the use of these oils in the control of Johnson Grass in cotton and feeds and the results that were being ob-

Two District Cases Postponed

One criminal contested case that many people had their eye on, together with the so far uncontested trial of Watson Whaley, failed to come through district court this week as scheduled.

Whaley, Friona farmer, charged by the grand jury with numerous thefts over a long period of time, had his case postponed by District Judge E. A.

Bills when defense attorneys presented certificates indicating the man was not well and in an Amarillo hospital.

Mark Williams, former Bovina instructor, also had his trial postponed through similar action. Papers certified to by a physician were submitted indicating his health would not permit him to stand trial immediately.

He is charged with theft and embezzlement.

The petit jury called last week by Judge Bills was dismissed before they had time to report Wednesday.

However, cases were before the Judge Tuesday which were non-jury in nature. Criminal cases included Mauldin and Baker, two men charged with breaking into two business houses in Friona several months ago. They were given five years in each case, and have charges awaiting them in other counties.

Another criminal case was that of Joe Miller, Negro, who pleaded guilty to a charge of felony involving theft of irrigation motor batteries. He was placed on three-year probation and ordered to make payment for stolen goods not accounted for, in addition to court costs.

Neil Fulks of Friona was placed on one-year probation when pleading guilty to a charge of DWI. It was a second offense.

In civil matters, Judge Bills, rendered verdicts for the plaintiffs in cases styled Jasper vs. Jasper, divorce; Richards vs. Sims, et al, trespass to try title; and Kavanaugh vs. Kavanaugh, partition suit.

Farwell Chamber Discusses Roads, Other Matters

Members of the Farwell Chamber of Commerce sat down for what was described as a "very important" meeting Monday night and talked over a number of matters.

Included for discussion was the subject of paved roads for the community, precinct, and county. A plea was heard from several members for unity in presenting the views of the community in order not to thwart any paving move made by the State Highway Department.

It was explained that through past differences among groups and individuals on where paving should or should not be, the community as well as a larger area had suffered because no roads were constructed.

Named to a committee which in turn will nominate several men to serve on a road committee for the Chamber were Sam Aldridge, H. Y. Overstreet, G. T. Watkins, Boone Allison, and Lee Thompson.

Otis Huggins, president of the Chamber, presented a suggestion that a vehicle be purchased by citizens of Farwell and made available for use by the Texico-Farwell Fire Department. He said that the department was in need of a pickup or panel-type truck to be used in transporting auxiliary equipment by the department to fires, disasters, and scenes of accidents.

He said Farwell had it easy as far as fire protection is concerned and the president then gave details of what part of the cost of maintaining the department is shared by each of the Twin Cities.

Others expressed themselves in connection with the matter, but no decision was reached as to whether to undertake purchase of a truck.

Farwell Mayor Johnnie Williams, on hand for the meeting, said the city was not in a position to purchase the truck inasmuch as the major part of local taxes are now going toward retirement of the city's indebtedness for a sewer system.

Former Friona Child Killed In Mishap

Word was received here this week of the death of Cynthia Marie Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Harper, formerly of Friona. The 2-year-old was killed when she fell from the pickup her father was driving and was crushed beneath the wheels. She was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Survivors, besides the parents, are a brother, Robert Garcy, 4, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Taylor, Friona; and Mrs. Sanford Harper, El Paso.

A good crowd was present Monday night for a family night dinner at the Methodist Church. After the meal, films were shown. Wesleyan Service Guild was hostess.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Scoreboard Will Show Rating For Your Own Community

A self-analysis test which has proved to be very popular in a number of small cities all over this part of the country has been brought to our attention through papers which we receive on exchange.

This intriguing little test will show how your own community measures up against standards regarded as ideal for small American cities.

The Tribune had no part in the preparation of the list, and the origin of the questionnaire is rather clouded. It has, however, been given wholehearted acceptance in a number of places as being a pretty reliable barometer for the climate of a town.

This questionnaire is not submitted as criticism of any person or group, and we are not interested in knowing how you personally rate your town.

However, if sufficient returns of this form are made to us through the mails, we feel that it would be enlightening to publish the results, in the hope that our own communities may see themselves mirrored in the opinion of our neighbors.

We were in El Paso over the weekend to attend the ESA State convention. As usual, we catalogued so many things in our minds that we wanted to remember, that much of it is a jumble.

Besides all the beneficial information that would be of interest to only ESA members, we gleaned some things from the meeting that could apply to all of us.

The speaker for our banquet Saturday evening was an Episcopalian minister and he was nothing short of marvelous. He compared life of the individual to a newspaper, drawing comparisons on how to have a good front page; giving the inside pages of the newspaper as a person's inner self; and briefing the advertisements and pictures.

One phase was the picture. He noted that when a person is to have his picture made, he is so careful about his exterior appearance; but he said too many times we do not remember that every time we come into contact with another person, our picture is snapped.

When we repeat ugly gossip, when we say or do something unkind, our friends carry that picture in their minds, and it is a much more lasting picture, and one that is much more difficult to replace with a more flattering one, than a mere picture on film.

Besides the more serious aspects of the convention, we also had the more humorous side. The El Paso group left no stone unturned in the entertainment line. At the breakfast Sunday morning, they had a humorous hat chow—one which was actually a satire on many of the phrases we hear in the advertisements of milady's chapeau.

It was not only unusual, but clever. The commentator used the variation of a radio show. She announced each rival, name and the type hat she was wearing. One that was particularly stunning was the "pillbox" we hear so much about. The model wore the tiniest little pill box, literally, with pink veiling holding the hat on the head. The veiling had neither small felt balls, rhinestones, or other typical veiling decorations, but was cleverly decorated with vari-colored capsules, empty too.

Our own Dardanella Helton was one of the models and wore the hat they entitled "the conversation piece". You might have guessed that it was fully equipped with a minute telephone. And Nell Walling was also a model, wearing the style "that is sweeping

Studies Are Varied For Bovina Girls

During the last two weeks, the Bovina Homemaking classes in the three grade levels have been studying, watching demonstrations and having laboratories in various phases of food buying and food preparations.

The Homemaking I class of sophomore girls has been serving breakfasts with special emphasis recently on breakfast quick breads and main dishes.

The Homemaking II class of sophomore girls has been considering luncheon meal plans and preparations of low income to moderate income level foods. They have been doing special practices and study on use of tough meats and meat extender possibilities for main dishes. This week, a thorough study of yeast breads is planned.

Homemaking III students made up of juniors and seniors have been trying to develop skill in preparation of good crusts for meat pies and dessert pies also. They have been watching demonstrations on desserts, hot and frozen, suited to their family use and through the sweltering summer days.

Along with the units of food work in each class, each girl is working to complete her outside project work. Some of the project work successfully being carried out by the students is the "Buying, Raising, Selling, and Freezing Poultry," "The Planning, Raising and Use of Vegetable and Flower Gardens," "The Construction of Clothing for Personal Wardrobes," and "The Re-decorating of Room and Re-upholstering of Pieces of Furniture."

Bovina Band Goes To Canyon Contests

Bovina High School Band participated April 22, in the Interscholastic League Instrumental Music Competition Festival, which is an annual event. Musical organizations which competed at West Texas State College in Canyon constitute Region XI of the State of Texas public school music groups.

In this competition, Bovina's Band received a rating of III in concert, and a rating of IV in sight-reading. A rating of a Division I is received if an organization is excellent or superior.

Judges for the concert competition were Roger Fenn of Tulsa; Maurice McAdow, North Texas State College; Clarence Sawhill, UCLA.

Judge for sight-reading was Hiram Henry of Oklahoma A&M.

While Bovina did not make a high rating this year, the morale of the band students appears to be rather high nevertheless, and they are hopeful of accomplishing better results next year.

Other schools competing in class B competition in which Bovina competed were: Kress, Farwell, Stinnett, Stratford, Spearman and Gruver.

Parents whose children will be in grade four or above next year, and whose children wish to begin band work next year may discuss their plans with the band director any school day morning between now and the end of the school year at the Bovina Band room, if you wish.

PARMER COUNTY CHECKERBOARD NEWS
By JOHN GETZ OF JOHN'S FARM STORE

$203.25 in 5 Days

WHAT DID YOU RECEIVE FOR EGGS LAST WEEK?

Our good customer, A. G. Chalk, north of Clovis, reported some interesting figures to us. This past week, Mr. Chalk sent his first eggs to the Northwester Hatchery in Plainview. He now has 968 six-month old pullets in production.

The hatchery truck picked up 271 dozen eggs of 22 oz. or better at his door. This was his Monday through Friday production. He also sold eight dozen small eggs for a total production of 68 1/2 percent. He received 75 cents straight across for his 271 dozen hatching eggs. This brought him $203.25 for his five day's production. WHAT DID YOU RECEIVE FOR YOUR EGGS THIS PAST WEEK?

This excellent record is the result of a well thought-out program. Chalk raised pullets on the Purina program for a definite hatchery. His profit was assured if he could produce fertile large eggs. To do this, Chalk chose Purina Breeder Lay Chow. You, too, can have this hatchery program by contacting us at the Farm Store. We have openings for only 3000 pullets in June. See us soon to get this fine profit program!

HEALTH HINT

Park Disease Germs Outside

Cleaning and disinfecting brooders, houses, calf pens and farrowing houses is not enough. Disease germs "hitch-hiking" on shoes must be stopped, too.

A gunny-sack pad soaked with Purina Disinfectant and placed at doorways makes a safe "parking place" for dangerous germs.

GET YOUR FREE HOG BOOK

Next time you're in our store, ask for your copy of the Triple Profits hog book. This illustrated 24-page book gives a lot of management hints and new research information every hog man should know. It's yours for the asking.

WHAT TO DO BEFORE SOWS FARROW

1. Five days before the sow farrows she should be separated from other sows and taken to central farrowing or her individual farrowing house. Handle her slowly, carefully at all times.

2. She should be washed thoroughly with soap and water, using a big scrub brush before being placed in clean farrowing quarters.

3. Sprinkle or spray her with Purina Disinfectant solution. This is important as contamination on the udders might prove serious for new-born pigs.

Have you seen our shoats at the store, being fed Purina Pig Startena? Their growth is surprising everyone. We are producing pork for 11 1/2 cents per pound. Let us show you how!

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

"If you drive while your license is suspended for any one of the reasons in the list of seven, you may upon conviction be placed in jail for as long as six months and be required to pay a fine of up to $500." Driving while drunk or drugged is one of the reasons listed previous to this quote from the Texas Department of Public Safety Driving Handbook. We have had some reports of alleged laxity on this point in Parmer County. It is our opinion that the case is rare, if existent at all, when the full extent of this law should not be upheld by those in authority. The death or serious injury of some innocent citizen because of laxity would convince those who do not agree, but it is not our desire that this should be the factor that would begin more stringent action in our courts.

In the last two or three weeks, there have been reports of partial failure of some irrigation wells in the county. It is the opinion of some drillers that these failures are due to accumulation of minerals and corrosive materials which clog perforations, rather than lowering of the water level. Water District Engineers will have the water analyzed as soon as possible in an effort to determine if perforation can be re-opened by use of the proper application of chemicals. Russell Massey suggested this procedure, and we are passing it on to Engineer Bill Broadhurst of the Water District.

There are increasing numbers of minor to major complaints about the waste water running down the road or through the yard of neighbors. These complaints are made to the County Water Committee, which in turn relays them to the District Board at Lubbock. No injunctions have been filed in this county, and we hope none will be necessary.

The Scriptural Golden Rule is intended to be the basis for our public relations in this office. If you notice infractions of this rule in any respect, we will appreciate your calling our attention to it, so that we may make amends and adjustments to prevent their happening again. We say this without reserve, particularly with the fact in mind that the membership actually owns and controls this office to whatever degree it desires. We appreciate suggestions for improvement.

Consider this: "The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wise." Proverbs 15:31.

To Brownfield

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Henson and son visited in Brownfield over the weekend with Mrs. Henson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnson, and Mr. Henson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Henson. They returned home Sunday evening.

Mrs. Lindop Speaks

Oklahoma Lane WSCS met Monday at the church with Mrs. George Lindop giving the study. Nominating committee submitted a report, and Mrs. F. E. Kepley gave the closing meditation. A new member is Mrs. Curtis Jones, who recently moved to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Matthews, who have been on the sick list for the past few weeks, are improving.

Students Clear Building Rapidly

Confusion reigned at Farwell Tuesday of last week when the fire alarm sounded, but it was a gratifying result, when officials learned that children could clear the building in two minutes.

A smoke bomb was released in the old building, unknown to stu-realistic smoke filled the building. dents or faculty members, and the Exactly two minutes later, the children were standing across the road at stations that had been designated for each class at the first of the year. The building itself was actually cleared in less time.

There was one minor accident when one small child could not get the door open and she received a small cut by a piece of glass. It was also learned that a new fire alarm is needed since the classes in the home ec building did not hear the alarm.

Another fire drill will be held before the year is over and the stairs will be blocked so students will learn to use the fire escape.

"Compromise" Farm Program Given To Congress for Consideration by FB

Farm Bureau's proposed farm program—a compromise between two extremes in agricultural planning has been introduced in Congress, according to A. J. Ellison, president of the Farmer County Farm Bureau.

Companion bills embodying specific proposals for improvements in price supports and adjustment legislation were introduced recently by Reps. Martin (Rep.) of Iowa and Herlong (Dem.) of Florida. The House Agriculture Committee, of which Congressmen W. R. Poage of Waco and Clark Thompson of Galveston are members, is studying the bills now.

Provisions of the bills carry out the major policies on price supports and related legislation adopted by the official voting delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention last December in Chicago.

Included in the proposed legislation are certain recommendations adopted by the voting delegates to the Texas Farm Bureau annual convention last November in Mineral Wells.

The bills call for the variable provision of the Agricultural Act of 1949 to go into effect next year, but with several important amendments. At least two of the amendments were compromises on recommendations adopted by the Texas Farm Bureau.

One of these would make it mandatory for the government to pay 90 percent supports for any basic commodity, except tobacco, the first year that marketing quotas are in effect on that crop after a year in which they were not in effect. This gives producers an extra year in which to bring supplies in line with demand before any changes may be made in the support level.

Another Texas Farm Bureau recommendation in the two bills is the provision establishing a soil fertility bank to alleviate the surplus problem and store up fertility in the soil. This is a compromise on the TFB acreage retirement plan.

Under the provisions of the Farm Bureau-sponsored bills, the Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to require producers to devote a percentage of their cropland to soil building crops or practices as a condition of eligibility for conservation payments and price supports on commodities which are not under marketing quotas. The Secretary would be directed to require that a producer comply with all marketing quota programs in order to be eligible for conservation payments and price supports.

One proposed amendment to the 1949 Act provides that up to $2.5 billions worth of surplus commodities be set aside before computing support levels so that the crops in surplus now could start off under the variable system with supports as or near 90 percent of parity. Farm surpluses in the commodity set aside would be used to expand international trade and in foreign aid programs. However, the surpluses in the commodity set aside would be used in figuring marketing quotas and acreage allotments.

Another proposed amendment would require the Secretary of Agriculture to provide for a marketing quota referendum for a crop when supplies reach a specified level. This guarantees producers the right to indicate how they feel about keeping supplies in line with demand. Had a referendum on quotas and allotments been called in 1952, the problems of unmanageable surpluses might not exist now. The amendment takes some of the politics out of national farm legislation.

The Farm Bureau-sponsored bills also provide for a gradual transition for the basic commodities from the old to modernized parity in steps of five percentage points per year until the change has been accomplished. These commodities would be affected beginning Jan. 1, 1956. Modernized parity supercedes the old formula which is based on 1910-1914 figures. It takes into account technological and economic changes since the 1910-1914 period. For all commodities except the basics, the modernized formula is already in use.

The Farm Bureau proposals, as embodied in the Martin and Herlong bills, represent a "middle road" or compromise between extremes in agriculture farm programs. Producers of some commodities which will be affected by acres diverted this year from basic commodities generally favor straight flexible price supports. Some favor doing away with the price supports. On the other hand, some producers of basic commodities favor straight 90 percent supports regardless of supply and demand.

Cash farm receipts from the so-called basic crops constitute 23 percent of total cash farm receipts. The other 77 percent of gross farm income is derived from all other farm and ranch commodities. Some 60 percent of the gross income of American farmers and ranchers comes from the sale of commodities which do not have any government price supports whatsoever.

The Farm Bureau program contains some of the best features of both variable and rigid price support plans. It guarantees a certain amount of freedom from government control, and at the same time, provides essential price protection.

Insect Control Meeting In Lubbock, May 4

Lubbock—Top-notch cotton insect authorities will appear on the program of the annual Cotton Insect Control Meeting scheduled for Tuesday, May 4 in Lubbock, according to W. H. Jones, Texas Agriculture Extension district agent. The event will begin at 9:30 a. m. on the campus of Texas Technological College with sessions in the agriculture engineering building.

The meeting is held to present latest information on cotton insects to county agricultural agents, vocational agriculture instructors, and the insecticide industry including dealers, distributors and formulators, field men and aerial applicators. Others interested will also be welcome.

After a welcome by W. L. Stangel, dean of the Texas Tech Division of Agriculture, Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of the Texas A&M College entomology department, will discuss the "General Cotton Insect Problem," followed by a discussion of "Cotton Insect Research Results in the High Plains Area" by W. L. Owens, entomologist of the Texas Agriculture Experiment station at Lubbock.

"The Cotton Industry's Part in Insect Control" will be presented by C. B. Spencer of Dallas, agricultural director of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association.

After lunch in the Texas Tech animal husbandry pavilion, Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station at Lubbock will discuss "Observations and Relations of Late Irrigation to Cotton Insects."

The "Pink Bollworm Control Program" will be presented by F. I. Jeffrey of San Antonio, assistant project leader of pink bollworm control for the USDA, and the 1954 Cotton Insect Guide, prepared annually by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be presented by Neal Randolph, extension entomologist.

Weed Control Day Slated At Amarillo

Amarillo—Plans have been completed for the seventh annual Texas Weed Control Conference to be held Thursday, April 29, at the Amarillo Experiment Station, according to Knox Parr, Texas agricultural Extension District Agent.

The event, which will begin at 9:00 a. m. at the station located near Bushland about 14 miles east of Amarillo on Highway 66, is held to discuss control of noxious plants affecting grass and crops in the Panhandle area of Texas.

Discussion of weed and brush control, a tour of weed control research plots on the station, commercial exhibits of spraying and dusting equipment and a lunch served by the Texas Weed Control Association will highlight the day's activities.

After a welcome by Kenneth Porter, station agronomist, and introduction of exhibitors by Erwin C. Ochsner of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, Gray County Agent Ralph R. Thomas will review seed laws of Texas as related to weeds. Dr. Allen Weise, station assistant agronomist, will discuss bindweed control research at the station, and brush control research of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station at Spur.

Farmers from Deaf Smith, Randall and Sherman counties will form a panel for discussion of control of annual weeds in wheat and grain sorghums. Hugh Clearman, Deaf Smith County Agent, will be the panel leader.

The field day is sponsored jointly by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, the Texas A&M College System and the US Department of Agriculture.

We want to thank Mrs. R. V. Ham for her assistance in yard improvement at the Graham residence. We know absolutely nothing about flowers and how to landscape our yard, but we have the utmost desire to achieve a semblance of beauty at our home before the end of the summer. As far as we are concerned, flowers can add more to the appearance of a place than any other thing, unless it would be the lawn. Mrs. Ham not only donated several plants for us to put in our new back yard, but gave us instructions on how to plant them, and the care of them.

Because there were two of us, our husband and yours truly managed to get them planted faster than our young son could dig them up with his new birthday spade, so we should be having some bouquets this year. Thank you very much Mrs. Ham.

Johnnie Williams also let us have some canna bulbs, which will be another asset to our gardening project.

HOPPERS—

they make up in production for what they lack in acreage. At first, when considering the lush condition of growing crops, we imagined that the farmers of the area surely must all be prosperous ones.

However, as best as we could tell, this does not hold entirely true. We imagine the fact that the valley lies so far away from its markets is one thing that keeps farmers up there from getting rich quick.

Can you imagine a Farmer County grain farmer having to haul his crop 80 miles to the nearest elevator, and over mountain roads at that?

Out of the mountains and down on the western side of the range lies the green little city of Tularosa. Again, the only reason for its existence, seemingly, is the fact that water for irrigation has been available for decades.

A small river tumbles from the canyons of the mountains and courses down toward the town. It doesn't look like much water, but it is amazing to witness the transformation this little river has made in this desert spot.

The town of Tularosa itself appears to be inhabited principally by Spanish-Americans, and our guess is that things have not changed much in that little city for dozens of years, perhaps generations.

To the south of Tularosa lies Alamogordo, also west of the range of mountains. We imagine that Alamogordo's economy is now leaning almost entirely on the government development in the area, especially the city of Los Alamos to the west.

A local industry for Alamogordo is sawmills, but outside of this, we could ascertain little reason for the city's being there.

From Alamogordo south to El Paso lies an area of desolation probably as bleak as any in the world. To the west of the highway are the huge deposits of gypsum, known as the White Sands—where the atom bomb was born.

On both sides of the highway for about 50 miles stretch the sprawling artillery ranges and other areas designated for use by the men of the military who train at Ft. Bliss.

They tell us that it is in such areas that recruits spend part of their boot camp time—out on bivouac, we think they call it. We'd certainly hate to spend several days out there among the sand dunes.

The city of El Paso is a monument to man's persistence to overcome the elements. Situated on the side of a bleak mountain range where no vegetation appears, and seared by the merciless sun and wind, El Paso apparently thrives on adverse conditions.

Beautiful homes are propped up against this drab setting, where a place has been chiseled out of the side of the mountain. It is necessary for soil to be hauled in before grass can be grown for a lawn. Have you ever heard of such circumstances?

The valley of the Rio Grande, however, is an entirely different story. Here rich deposits of silt from the river's upper reaches have been carried southward and spread over a wide and fertile valley.

Handsome, modern homes and some amazing triumphs in landscaping dot the small but productive irrigated farms along the river bank. The river, by the way, is in a pretty sad state of affairs, from what we have been able to gather.

With dry conditions prevailing for two years in the mountains in which the Rio Grand rises, there has not been ample run-off water to feed the hungry cities and farms that depend upon it for their lives.

We saw several farmers watering last week, but not from the river. They have drilled into the valley floor to tap the underground deposits of water.

We know this is a new development, probably brought on by drought conditions, because in several instances, ditches and valves leading to irrigation canals were clearly in evidence. The only trouble was that there was no water in the canals.

Water, with its life-giving properties, remains the number one necessity in that part of the Southwest, just as it does here to us.

Hail, Rain Received In Spotted Areas

Spotted rain and hail showers were received over the general Friona territory late Sunday afternoon, with reports of from practically no precipitation—as in town—to 1½ inches being received locally.

Not everybody was happy about the moisture, though. Take the cases of Gordon Massey, Claude Blackburn, Eugene Boggess, all of east and south of Friona, and Mrs. Lorene Greeson, of the Black area. Considerable damage to both fields and property was reported by these four, and it is likely that other spotted cases of some light damage had not been recorded on Monday morning.

Reports downtown Monday were to the effect that the Massey wheat stand of an estimated 100 acres, all irrigated stuff and up to "boot" size, had been ripped to pieces by heavy hail. Blackburn received damage to his wheat and a considerable amount on the residence.

In other localities, hail was received, but light enough that very little damage could be charged against it. Heaviest rainfall reported was north and west of town, with an eight-mile strip from the Claude Osborn place to the Ralph Smith farm getting from three-fourths to one and one-half inches.

Ross Terry, who farms due north of town, reported approximately one-half inch on his holdings, with the same report in that general area. Toward Black, the fall was about the same, possibly heavier in some instances, and from the cross-roads area, toward Bovina, indications were that the fall would reach about one inch.

Additional details on the hail story is carried in the Black news.

We actually don't know what "Pete" Buske's name is, and apparently he doesn't either. Seems that when he went to the big Lions blow-out in Amarillo last weekend he clipped his initials "G. D." at the registration clerk, and spent the day being called "Jimmy" before he found out his tag was at fault, and demanded a re-deal at the desk.

Understand that the Allen Stewarts made a trip to Denver over the weekend, combining business and a pleasure outing.

Three new water services to residences were in the process of being hooked-up this week, according to Roy Wilson, city manager. One went to a home on the east side of town, with two additions being made in the northern residential section.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Beddo, of Hobart, Oklahoma, visited during the past week in the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. K. Anthony, and family of Friona.

Young Johnny Miller is just about the happiest kid—and we use the term advisedly—in the area. Seems that when his big brother, Roy V. Jr., who is an ensign in the navy, came home last weekend for a visit, he brought Johnny a six-week-old Angora goat. Mama Eva is a bit dubious about the new addition, since it has to be fed via bottle, with the milk properly warm, and she figured she'd done her bit of that kind of baby-sitting.

In addition to Roy V., the Millers have another houseguest, Glenda Williams, of San Angelo. Roy V. is to be back on duty at Panama City, Fla., on May 7th.

Visiting recently in the community were the A. R. Millers, of Washington, Oklahoma. He is a brother of J. F. Miller.

Charley Lovelace, sheriff, and Sam Aldridge, county attorney, were in town from Farwell on Monday morning, ostensibly on business, but we have a hunch they dropped in at a local cafe to enjoy some 5c coffee.

After seven years, we thought we'd been on the receiving end of all the dizzy remarks that kids make, but it seems our 7-year-old still has some interpretations of various sights that we hadn't figured. Hair-cutting got into the conversation the other nite, and she popped up to demand why "Daddy doesn't get his hair cut down to where his head shows through, with some long hair combed across it". We tried to explain that you didn't "get" that sort of a hair-do, it just came, but don't think we altered her impression of baldness to any appreciable extent.

400 Irrigation Wells Put On Natural Gas

Some 400 irrigation well motors in this immediate area will be operated this year for the first time on natural gas, with the completion of extended lines into rural areas by Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Bob Sheffield, engineer for the company, with offices in Hereford, made the estimate of 400 on Monday afternoon of this week, adding that it was his opinion that approximately 99% of the number of wells being converted to gas through the lines. "We always have a few scattered stragglers," he added, estimating that his tie-in work would be completed shortly.

Sheffield broke down his figures to estimate "a little over 200 north of Friona; some 150 or over south of Friona; and about 40-50 in the area of Black".

Boys Gain 240 Points at Camp

Scouts attending were Robert Neelley, Jimmie Patton, Leon Massey, Billie Gene Zachary, Johnny Tubbs, Sterling Prichard, George Wayne Terry, and Frankie Spring. Ted Sanders and Johnnie Miller joined the troop at Canyon.

Camp Don Herrington is located six miles northwest of Palo Duro Canyon on about 77 acres of land donated by Don Herrington of Amarillo to Llano Estacado Council of Boy Scouts. The purpose of the Camporee is to stimulate Scouts to live the Scout Oath and to develop the Scout Spirit, to acquire knowledge, and develop skills. Each unit furnished its own transportation, food, firewood and all equipment required for entry into camp events. Events involving all unit personnel were attendance, silent and conventional drill, camping, unit cooking, archery, bait-casting, marksmanship, flint fire, friction fire, compass, first aid, flapjack cooking, knot-tying, nature study, signalling, tent-peg making, tent pitching, campfire stunt and mystery event.

Another Gin Will Be Added To County List

Another cotton gin, located about half-way between Black and Summerfield, east of this city, is due to be ready for the ginning season next fall.

Very little actual information was available locally on the new business. Wright Williams, manager of the North Plains Gin here in Friona, reported that it was his understanding that the equipment was being moved in from Briggs, in south Texas, with Tom Davis in charge of moving and construction.

Owners concerned with the deal are reported to be residents of Lubbock and Austin, Williams added.

On hand right now on the site, south of the Santa Fe tracks some 12 miles east of Friona, are five stands, but no indication as to whether this would definitely determine the size of the gin could be obtained here.

Just As We Predicted!
BUICK Is Going Over Big!
Do you remember when we introduced the brand new Buick verticle-valve V-8 to you a couple of months ago? At that time we predicted that this 200 HP engine would be the power sensation of 1954 for irrigation installations.
Well, as each week goes by, it looks more and more as though this prediction is holding true, because BUICK V-8's have been going in by the score! More and more farmers are accepting this modern power unit as the answer to their pumping problems.
With power to spare, this big Buick V-8 fits the needs of most irrigation farmers on the High Plains like a glove. Even when being installed on a natural gas line, the Buick has enough reserve power left to lift all the water you need. See us for more facts on this great engine right away.
MAX MEADORS
DIAL 4466 BUICK-CHEVROLET CLOVIS

This is Gilbert Watkins and his small son, Mike. They live about five miles east of Farwell. Gilbert is another irrigation farmer of the area who is turning to Buick this year. He says the 1954 Buick is giving very satisfactory performance. This 8-inch installation is powered by butane, and the pump is set on 250.
