

Wage And Hour Bill To Senate

Differential Issue Due To Come Up Again

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The revamped wage-hour bill, swept through the house by a triumphant combination of northern democrats and republicans, encountered ind-ditch opposition to lay from southern senators.

Senator Barkley, D-Ky., the administration leader, said he would seek to have a senate-house committee appointed at once in an effort to work out a compromise between the house bill and the version passed by the senate last July.

There were indications, however, that senate foes of the inflexible labor standards in the house measure would try to route it back to the senate labor committee. Senator Thomas (D-Utah), chairman of that group, has contended the legislation should establish variations between the north and the south or between industries where conditions warrant.

Although there has been no definite threat of a senate filibuster, opponents make no secret of their hope that immediate adjournment would prevent agreement on any wage-hour bill.

Vote 314 To 97 The administration scored a smashing victory in the house last night, shoving the measure to final passage by a vote of 314 to 97 just about a year after the original version reached congress.

Forty-six republicans joined 266 democrats, 7 progressives and 4 farmer-laborites in favoring the bill. Opposing it were 56 democrats and 41 republicans.

The vote was a reversal of a house decision last December, when republicans and southern democrats shelved a different wage-hour bill. The new measure was forced to the floor over the opposition of the rules committee.

Crowded galleries witnessed the bill's final passage about 10:30 p. m. after the longest session of the year. Supporters of the measure sat way past their dinner hour and defeat almost every major attempt to amend it.

As approved, the bill would establish a graduated minimum wage for interstate industry, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents after three years. Maximum hours would start at 44 a week and drop to 40 in two years.

Under the senate bill, an independent administrative board would have power to fix minimum wages from 40 cents an hour downward and a maximum work week of 40 hours or more.

CONVICTS OVERPOWER GUARD AND ESCAPE

HUNTSVILLE, May 25 (AP)—Five convicts on the Eastham prison farm overpowered and trussed up a guard at noon today, stole a guard's automobile and headed toward Dallas.

Prison Manager O. J. S. Ellington said the five men were Robert York, 25, serving four years for burglary in Park county; Harlan Massey, 24, serving six years for robbery in Palo Pinto, Stephens and Eastland counties; Clint Wright, 37, serving 20 years from Falls county for burglary; Joseph Gupton, 34, serving 10 years from Bexar county, and George Simmons, 24, serving three years for burglary in Falls county.

The men overpowered Guard G. R. Thompson as they repaired a barn on Camp Ferguson of the Eastham farm, Ellington said. The guard was unharmed and was not harmed, the prison manager said.

Fatal Plane Crash Laid To Failure Of Both Motors

Ten Perish In Flames As Airliner Plunges To Earth Near Airport

CLEVELAND, May 25 (AP)—W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, said today that the twin-motored airliner which dove into a suburban ravine last night, killing ten persons, suffered "simultaneous power failure of both engines" just before the crash.

Patterson said an investigation of the wreckage, only eight miles from Cleveland airport where the plane was scheduled to land, showed that "neither of the two engines was in operation at the moment of the impact."

"It is pertinent," Patterson said, "that in United's flying experience of many millions of miles with twin-engined airplanes which are capable of sustained flight with one of the engines, this is the first time the company has experienced what appears to be simultaneous power failure of both engines."

Fire Follows Crash "Evidence furnished by an experienced witness in the person of the airport control tower operator and others strongly indicates that fire occurred after rather than before the impact."

The two pilots, the stewardess and all seven passengers died as flames leapt at the wreckage of the United Air Lines ship, bound from Newark to Chicago via Cleveland.

Among the passengers was John Brostuen, republican state chairman of North Dakota, who was returning to his Alexandria, N. D., home from Washington.

The plane, flying under a clear sky, swooped toward earth within sight of Cleveland airport. It clipped off the tops of trees two feet thick and plunged into a natural gully in the wooded gully.

One of the motors was sheared off and left atop a side of the gully, 25 feet from the plane itself, which landed in a mass of wild grape vines. A wing was left 75 feet from the two trees it clipped off.

Firemen in suburban Independence village, where the crash occurred, battled the flames for several hours and dug into the smoldering debris for the bodies, from which the clothes had been burned almost entirely off.

United Air Lines listed the dead, besides Brostuen, as: L. Arthur Doty, 42, of Watertown, Mass., en route to Chicago to attend funeral services for his brother Harold, who had died only a few hours before. The crash victim was a district credit manager for the Texaco Oil Co.

C. F. Lickel, New York business man. R. P. Morrell, New York importing firm salesman. J. R. Moffett, identified with the Masonite Corp., Chicago.

E. H. Veblin, 45, of Los Angeles, chief test pilot for the Douglas Aircraft Co., and former air mail flier. Richard C. Lewis, Ansonia, Conn., salesman.

Pilot James L. "Monty" Brandon, a flier 19 years. Co-pilot A. S. Merrifield, of Chicago. Stewardess Mildred Macek, of Chicago.

His wife was sentenced to serve 5 years and given an additional five year sentence suspended for five years.

Diplomas Are Awarded To Graduates

Urged By Speaker To Develop Zeal For Cooperative Activity

Public school days were over today for 107 members of the Big Spring high school class of 1938. They were possessors of diplomas denoting completion of their course of study, awarded them Tuesday night at the conclusion of the annual commencement exercises.

They went forth from the school with an admonition from Dr. W. J. McConnell, president of the North Texas State Teachers college, to develop a zeal for cooperative activity. Dr. McConnell, speaking on "The Future of America," held up this cooperation between individuals and groups as the prime factor in the nation's future.

Man's inability to get along with his fellow man, his failure to cooperate in planning a stable future, were cited by the educator as the chief matters of concern before the world. The army of unemployed in the U. S. he called a "most colossal monument" to the non-cooperation of business, labor and government, which elements have at their command every resource to solve the unemployment problem.

Bright—And Dark "If the future of America," Dr. McConnell told the seniors, "is to be predicted on our resources, on our mechanical inventions, on the intelligence of our people, then I say it is bright, even dazzling in splendor; but if it is predicted on past experience of men merging their efforts toward seeking security, health and happiness, then we cannot be so optimistic. Man has not learned the art of getting along with his fellow."

"It seems to be that the future is dark or bright in proportion to the ability of the American people to put into effect the goals of hereditary strength, of physical security, the provision of suitable occupations for all, and the establishment of economic security."

To strive for putting these goals into effect should be the chief aim of the youth of today, Dr. McConnell said.

Way was cleared for opening and paving of a road connecting Gregg street and the Gall road a mile north of the downtown section when the city commission Tuesday evening accepted a proposal by the Howard county commissioners court.

The commission agreed to sell the county a tier of blocks in the city cemetery containing 1,160 graves for potters field purposes. The purchase price of $500 also carried with it the stipulation that the city would give 60-foot right-of-way across the south end of the cemetery property for the new cut-off road.

Surfacing of the road, together with the cemetery road from the city limits into the Benton street viaduct, will be done by the county with city cooperation. The county will furnish materials, some equipment and labor while the city will furnish mostly equipment with cash material.

A possible hitch in the stipulation by the city commission that the cemetery road be 22 feet wide instead of the originally planned 18 feet was seen Wednesday. County officials said that the new width demand was a surprise to them, that it was doubtful that the county would consent to pave more than the 18 feet.

The city manager was authorized to call for bids for supplying the city's lubricating oil requirements for the balance of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1939.

A Knappe appeared before the city commission and a plan was advanced for rearrangement of his stock pens and abattoir in the southeast part of town.

TANKER EXPLOSIONS INJURE 25 OF CREW

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 25 (AP)—At least 25 members of the crew of the oil tanker Elwood, just docking from Houston, were injured today when a series of explosions caused fire which threatened to destroy the craft.

Firemen battled for more than an hour before they brought the flames under control. The blast shook the waterfront and was so sudden members of the crew were forced to leap over the sides. Some of them were walking about the docks in a daze, their clothing burned from them. The injured were taken to a hospital suffering mostly from shock.

SUSPECT HELD

A man taken into custody of city police when he attempted to sell some tools, was turned over to the sheriff's department Wednesday. The tools, missing from a local place, were recovered.

Young Brother Appears For Accused Youth

State Rests Case Against Boy Who Failed In Suicide Pact

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—A wide-eyed, tow-headed boy of 13 came to his older brother's defense today as the state rested its first degree murder case against 16-year-old Donald Carroll, accused of killing his sweetheart, Charlotte Mathieson, 18, last March in an uncompleted suicide pact.

The first defense witness, Douglas Carroll, marched to the stand and gravely told of coming home from school on the day of the shooting and hearing Donald cry.

"He was praying for the Lord to kill him," said Douglas.

When he entered the living room of their Jackson Heights home, the youngster said, he noticed his father's army pistol lying on the sofa.

"I didn't think that was a very safe place for it," he said, "so I took it into the kitchen and put it on a shelf."

Assistant District Attorney Joseph V. Loscalzo rested his case 25 minutes after the second day's testimony began.

The prosecutor's final witnesses were Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, chief toxicologist, and Dr. Harry Schwartz, chemist in the chief medical examiner's office.

Parents To Help

Dr. Schwartz gave a routine analysis of his examination of the girl's clothing.

Thomas Beanan, 16-year-old friend, testified that Carroll discussed his troubles with him the day before the shooting.

He quoted Carroll as saying he and the Mathieson girl were "just kids having a swell time" when they suddenly found themselves facing the prospect of parenthood without the means of marrying.

Defense counsel said he would call the dead girl's parents, who have expressed a desire to help the boy who killed their daughter.

"It is so easy now," said Mrs. Fred Mathieson, "to see how this happened."

That was after a harrowing session when she had seen the gun that killed her daughter, heard the trigger click in the prosecutor's hands, and heard from a medical examiner that Charlotte was an expectant mother.

Donald's parents sat beside the girl's parents, bewildered with remembering how short a time it was since the boy on trial was playing with tin soldiers—imagining the bullets in his father's service revolver were big shells, in a mock war.

It was the "big shells" among his former playthings, according to a statement he purportedly made yesterday to District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan, that he and the girl thought of when life seemed to have become too complex for them.

SENATOR CALLS FOR PROCESSING TAXES

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Senator Pope (D-Idaho) proposed today that congress pay for an additional $212,000,000 in farm benefits by enacting processing taxes early in 1939.

The extra benefits were written into the $3,247,000,000 relief and public works bill by the senate appropriations committee after several senators had insisted the $500,000,000 already authorized would be insufficient for this year's subsidies.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky predicted the additional funds would receive senate approval.

MORE TROOPS TO SAN LUIS

MEXICO CITY, May 25 (AP)—The Mexican government today ordered fresh troops into San Luis Potosi state and acted to cut off retreat of the rebel chieftain, General Saturnino Cedillo, northward through Tamaulipas.

At the same time President Lazaro Cardenas issued a proclamation asserting the "revolution lacks justification" and urging rebellious Cedillistas to lay down their arms under full guarantee if they returned to "a life of honesty."

Division General Antonio Guerrero, commander of the Tamaulipas garrison, left Tampico with Governor Maria Gomez for Antigua Morales near the Tamaulipas border, to inspect federal troops and checkmate Cedillo in that direction.

The 24th infantry battalion was ordered from Toluca in the state of Mexico northward to the strifetorn area, making seven battalions of infantry, seven regiments of cavalry and special units ordered to the war zone.

Although government spokesmen continued to vie with one another in discounting importance of the revolt, several developments counteracted their assurances that only 3,000 rebels were in the field. These included:

1. The defense ministry asked the Mexican railway to lend it ten flatcars, presumably to transport light artillery.

2. A band of 40 rebels dynamited a repair train on the San Luis Tampico railway between San Luis and El Dorado, killing two train men and injuring four. It was the first time such traditional Cedillo tactics had succeeded.

Ex-Chairman Raps Other Directors

Claims The Two Made False Report On Utility Deal

WASHINGTON, May 25

—Arthur E. Morgan charged today that two Tennessee Valley Authority directors—H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal—participated in falsifying a report on TVA negotiations for the purchase of utility properties owned by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

"Mismanagement"

A. E. Morgan, ousted chairman of the TVA, testified before a ten-man congressional inquiry committee, elaborating on charges he had made previously against the other two directors.

After making a general charge that "collusion, conspiracy and mismanagement" had characterized the administration of TVA, the tall, gray-haired former chairman said Lilienthal made a "persistent attempt" to convince the public that Commonwealth & Southern "was arbitrarily refusing to sell its properties."

Through Wendell L. Wilkie, its president, Commonwealth & Southern repeatedly offered to sell "any or all" of its properties, Morgan said.

He testified at length regarding negotiations with the company, which he said were carried on largely by Lilienthal. After a meeting of Wilkie and the TVA board last January, the former chairman said, Lilienthal issued a news release which "gave a very false and inaccurate impression" of Wilkie's position.

Decided the Public

"The news release was an explicit falsification, the natural result of which was to deceive the public on a vital issue, to engender increased public bitterness toward the utilities and to substitute confidence and recrimination for open and above board dealing with the facts," Morgan said.

Morgan added that Lilienthal—who sat nearby in the committee hearing room—sought for four and a half years to make it appear that the former TVA chairman "was conspiring with the utilities against the power responsibilities of the TVA."

Committee members listened with sustained interest to Morgan's charges, operating under a previously-approved rule that he would not be interrupted.

First Detailed Account

It was the first time Morgan's differences with the other directors had been comprehensively outlined. Earlier, Morgan had refused to discuss them in detail with President Roosevelt. This refusal was followed by an order from the president ousting him from the chairmanship.

The lanky, 55-year-old Morgan, called to amplify his previous charges against the other two TVA directors, asserted the latter had

Various Places Beckon Teachers This Summer

Town Is Teeming With Activity As Teachers Depart

The town is teeming with bustle and activity today as teachers pack and prepare for various journeys. Those planning to occupy classrooms were revealed last weekend, but herein lies the story of how the other half will spend the summer months.

High school teachers not planning to return to the college campus, have mapped out various courses, many of which lead directly to the old home town for the hot summer months.

Freddie Adkins, foods instructor, is to teach an extra month here and then go to Lubbock for the remainder of the vacation period. J. A. Coffey of Big Spring is another one to teach here in summer school.

Mrs. Mary Dumps has not decided whether she will remain at home or go to school a portion of the summer but Eloise Haley thinks she will attend both terms at the University of Texas.

Other Plans: Carmen Brandon is to work in Abilene, Agnes Currie is to remain in Big Spring and Ruth Fowler will be in Llano, Tex., her home.

Mrs. H. H. Rutherford is to make a trip to the North West and Mrs. E. L. Eaber plans a vacation in Colorado.

South Ward: Teachers of South Ward will do correspondence work, assist in an office, do observation work and travel to California, according to a recent survey.

North Ward: Teachers from North Ward planning to spend the summer resting in Big Spring are Mildred Creath, Mrs. O. C. Hart and Arthur Hawk.

East Ward: Summer address of Mrs. George B. Long of East Ward will be Pecos and she plans to travel some, visiting points of historical interest.

Mrs. E. E. Fahrnkamp and son, Edmund, have returned from Fort Worth, where they spent several days visiting Mrs. Jas. A. Davis.

Mrs. M. J. Dawson and Mrs. C. Thompson were in Big Spring Tuesday as guests of Mrs. E. E. Fahrnkamp and Miss Grace Mann.

Mrs. R. L. Mundt is to go to Houston in June and will work on her M. A. thesis. If she decides to attend summer school she will choose Hardin-Simmons or A.C.C.

Mrs. Della Agnell of West Ward attends school. It will be either at N.T.S.T.C., Denton, or Sul Ross, Alpine. If she does not return to the campus, she will attend a teachers' conference in Denton, June 16-17, and annual curriculum conference and elementary meeting at the University of Texas the same month.

A Tip To Travelers: Left-Wheel Seat In Bus Is The Easiest

By JOAN DURHAM AF Feature Service Writer

If you want to do a lot of smoking on a bus trip reserve a seat in the last four rows.

Most bus companies, says Louis K. Roeln, general passenger agent of one of the largest, set aside those seats for smokers.

Other rules for the bus traveler are: Don't talk to the driver. He has enough to do to keep his eye on the road.

All-Around Steward: If you have complaints or questions take them to the steward, if there is one. (Long-trip buses nearly all carry a steward.)

Try not to make requests for special stops. Buses stop every two or three miles. About half an hour is allowed for meal stops, ten minutes for in-between stops.

Big One, Little One: Added pointers: Wear comfortable shoes, clothes that are dark and don't muss too easily.

Each passenger is allowed about 150 pounds of baggage. There's room inside the bus for about one small bag to a passenger.

What are the most comfortable seats? "I always ride over the rear left wheel in what was once referred to as the 'left wheel seat,'"

Teachers of South Ward will do correspondence work, assist in an office, do observation work and travel to California, according to a recent survey.

North Ward: Teachers from North Ward planning to spend the summer resting in Big Spring are Mildred Creath, Mrs. O. C. Hart and Arthur Hawk.

READING AND WRITING

THE THOUGHT READING MACHINE, by Andre Maurois; (Harper: $3).

Andre Maurois' facility has drawn him into deep water. It has led him to write "The Thought-Reading Machine," which is a satire of manners in a philosophical vein, and excellent, easy reading.

Even in translation it has the neatness of good French prose, which is probably due to the intelligence of James Whitall's work as well as to the style of the author.

In any case, this is the underlying idea. A French professor, whose great interest in life is Balzac, receives a bid from an American college of high repute to deliver a series of lectures. He decides to accept, in spite of the doubts of his wife's family.

At Westmouth he is given a charming home, and next door, in another charming home, he finds a great English physicist and his wife. One day he finds that the physicist can read his thoughts—and is greatly disturbed. But Hickey, which is the Englishman's name, explains that this is due to a psychic power, but to a machine, which he demonstrates forthwith. Then Professor Dumoulin takes the machine home, and tries it on his disaffected wife.

What he learns precipitates a quarrel, but the reconciliation that follows is the basis of a better understanding than they have had for some time. The machine becomes a possible aid in straightening the affairs of the world, in Dumoulin's mind; when later it is used to defeat the designs of the faculty villain, both Hickey and Dumoulin feel that President Spencer of the college is correct in demanding that the discovery be announced.

Almost at once the hand of commerce takes hold. There are millions of the invention, millions which interest the inventor only because he can use them in his laboratories. When Dumoulin returns to France, he takes with him the French agency. And at this point the symphony must end, for the psychograph is not quite what it seemed, and the reason is too complicated for exposition here.

Besides an amusing central thought, Maurois has made a number of people very clear in the reader's eye, and has rapped some of our third class quite victoriously.

Mrs. J. A. Friel is spending a few days in Dallas.

CLEVELAND IS STILL A FACTOR. WELTER FIGHT IS A TOSSUP. Takes Yankees For Two; Win Final, 9-5.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer. The Cleveland Indians, who haven't won the American league pennant since 1920...

In the case, "everything" includes the fact that Oscar Vitt, their new manager, hardly expects to turn a fourth-place club into a pennant winner in one season...

The pitching of Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, and the clotting of Earl Averill enable the Tribe to win 9-5 yesterday and drop New York into third place.

The only other game which altered the standings was the Boston Red Sox's 10-4 triumph over Cincinnati, which sent them back into third place, a half-game up on the Reds.

New York's league-leading Giants belted over the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-4, as Slick Castleman, who hadn't started a game since last August, came back and proved his back is no longer ailing by pitching an eight-inning, Chicago's Cubs kept pace, 2-3 games behind, by trimming Brooklyn 10-4.

At 142, or thereabouts, Ross will square off at his very best fighting weight. He always was a light welter. Armstrong, on the other hand, has been forced to build himself up to 136 for the weigh-in...

On The Record

By Dorothy Thompson

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald—Editor's Note.)

ON THE RECORD THE FINE ARTS BILL

The evolution of the Pepper-Coffey bill which has been re-committed for revision to a subcommittee is interesting and important. This bill is called the Fine Arts Act, and its object is to provide for the continuation and modification of the Federal Arts Projects, originally started by the WPA.

Several modifications are being made in the original bill, says the Federal Arts Project. During the entire history of the nation and up to the time of the creation of these projects, the arts were the jealously guarded possessions of the few and were not made available to the majority.

This, and most of the rest of the preamble, was a rank appeal to sentimentality and the most arrant nonsense. As far as music is concerned the people of the United States have access to more good and more great music than any other people on earth.

The American radio system furnishes superb orchestral programs at almost any hour of the day, seven days a week, to anybody who has a radio. The art of music is for a large proportion of the people—no price whatsoever, in contrast to many countries which levy taxes on individual radios.

In almost any sizable city of the country there are symphony orchestras which give free concerts on certain days of the week.

With very few exceptions our treasure houses of painting are open to the public free of some of the time, and this holds true as well as public collections.

The American theatre is too concentrated (almost wholly in New York) and too expensive for people of low incomes. That is due to many causes, and they are not comprehended in the criticism that, unlike the theatre of some European countries, government never publicly subsidized until the Federal Theatre Project came along.

The theatre in America has remained in the realm of highly speculative business adventure, never properly organized, and almost a racket.

The high price of a theatre ticket is chiefly due to the fact that the producer has a good chance to lose his shirt, and therefore hopes to clean up big on successful plays—and to the reactionary and monopolistic policies of the theatre unions particularly the technical unions.

The new bill spares us a Marxist lecture. It also eliminates the proposal of its predecessor to confine the administration of projects to include the theatre, music, literature, the graphic and plastic arts, and the dance, to panels selected by the trade unions—in other words to turn the administration of the taxpayers' money over to the unions.

That was a terrible idea, a fearful and wonderful mechanism for setting up tax-supported rackets. And, finally this administration was to be set up as another independent authority tied to nothing and responsible to nobody.

The new bill puts the projects under the department of the Interior, which is a good place for them.

The previous bill was killed with the assistance of many artists. Mr. Walter Damrosch got into the picture, which was a mistake, for he went to Washington to testify against certain provisions of the bill, but because the Musicians' union called him up on the carpet and threatened to read him out of it for testifying against the bill.

I am not sure that the fact that they threatened to do it was the most telling testimony against the bill in its previous form. Since Mr. Damrosch has probably done more than any single man for music in the United States, during more than 50 years of activity, the union's stand certainly casts doubts upon the union's passionate interest in musical art.

The present bill provides for the bodily transference to the new administration of all people on artistic projects set up by the WPA. As far as I can see, it thus makes permanent jobs originally set up for purposes of relief. This ought to be changed. The framers of the bill ought to make up their minds whether they are providing for the relief of the indigent or whether they are contributing to the cultural standards of the country.

There is no connection between the two aims. The WPA artistic projects are full of people who have no better claim to be actors, writers, designers, painters or sculptors than I have to being a locomotive engineer.

HOLLYWOOD—The girl in the old-fashioned long dress came from the outdoor movie set across the rolling golf course adjoining, and called, "Hey, Dolores, Dolores!"

Then the old-fashioned girl turned back to the set. "That was Dolores Hope—Bob's wife—I knew her by the swing..."

She looked very pretty, sitting there at her dressing table, and just like the girl who was "half scared to death" every time she went into a scene for "42nd Street," her first picture five years ago.

"I'm still scared," she admitted. "I can't get over feeling that it's a mistake, my being in front of the camera. Every time I see the director going into a huddle with somebody, I'm sure they're trying to think of a nice way to tell me I'm terrible and get rid of me."

"I just tapped," she said, "but the girls now—they're doing all sorts of fancy tricks... I'm sure I couldn't keep up!"

Chapter 18 ... You wouldn't believe it, sometimes he just scatters money. Then again he's so tight with five cents, you'd like to sock him. And why—why, he's so—oh, damn those tourists! Look, they're pulling that other wing apart!"

"You could always try," Assey said. "While you're at it, collect parkin' fees from him, too. You get signs up sayin' that more'n one hour parkin' is illegal, and that plane's been there for hours. Nick him. So the pilot's in Pochet?"

"Yes, poor feller," Jerry said. "Well, prob'ly rot there before Roddy takes any notice. He—before you goin'?"

"Tup," Assey picked up his paint can. "You ain't any idea, Jerry, how many spots there is in this town that needs a little stappin' up with paint."
