

Farwell Taxpayers to Decide On Improvements Saturday

Statement Issued On Bond Election

To the People of Farwell, Texas:

We of the City Commission wish to make this statement, in regard to bonds to be voted on this coming Saturday.

We have studied and worked on the problems that confront us in an effort to take care of yours and our city. We believe that the program we have laid out will mean a better Farwell in the years ahead of us.

With the bonds, we can take care of the present day paved streets in our city, have adequate fire plugs that are needed everywhere in town, take care of our outstanding indebtedness, which has accrued over the past several years, have adequate fire protection with Farwell's own fire-fighting equipment, and fire station.

A nice and inviting City Hall and offices that would be accessible to everyone. And numerous other things that need to be done to make our city a more inviting place for people to come and to build homes and establish businesses.

If you believe and appreciate our efforts we would appreciate your vote on Saturday FOR THE BOND.

The City Commission,
John S. Williams, Mayor
Walter Hardage and Clarence Meeks, Commissioners.

Physician to Move Office to Clovis

Announcement was made this week by Dr. Marion Green that he will move his practice from the Farwell Clinic to Clovis "about the first of September."

Dr. Green, who moved here from Muleshoe last year, will continue to maintain his residence in Farwell where he owns his home. The equipment for his practice will, however, be transferred to his new office.

No announcement has been made regarding the doctor's replacement.

Pentecostal Church To Have New Pastor

Announcement was made this week that Rev. B. L. Barnes of Lamesa will be the new pastor of the United Pentecostal Church of Texico. Rev. Barnes will be filling the position vacated by Rev. Orval Branson, who, with his family, recently moved to Amarillo.

Rev. and Mrs. Barnes, who conducted a revival at the Texico church last year, are expected to arrive here sometime next week.

Rev. Branson hopes to pastor a church in or near Amarillo where he is currently employed.

TO SPONSOR SUPPER

Members of the MYF of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church would like to invite everyone to attend an old fashioned box supper at the Fellowship Hall of the church on Friday night, August 24, at 8 o'clock.

Qualified voters of Farwell will go to the polls Saturday to approve or disapprove an expenditure of $30,000, earmarked for city improvements.

The three propositions to be placed before the voters are (1) the issuance of $20,000 in bonds for the construction of a fire station.

(2) The issuance of sewer system tax bonds in the amount of $5,500 for extensions of the system; and

(3) The issuance of water-works system tax bonds in the amount of $4,500 to expand the water system and improve fire protection facilities.

The fire station issue calls for building the station, which will include an apartment to house someone to see after the department, and also the purchasing of equipment.

"Location of the department has not been decided by the city commission because we feel that the people should first decide whether they want their own fire-fighting system," says Johnnie Williams, mayor.

In the case of the sewer extensions, $11,000 has been spent within the last four years for additions to the system and an additional $1,000 is due to be spent this year for extensions.

The municipal budget has been squeezed to the limit and the need for more money in this department is critical, according to Wilfred Quickel, city manager.

As to the case of the expansion of the water system, the city voters will be asked to approve this issue as a means of improving fire protection for the community.

A private company owns and operates the water system at the present time, but any extensions that may come as a result of the election will be the property of the city.

Most of the money will be spent for additional fire plugs and larger lines.

Eddie Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith of Farwell, has been awarded a baseball scholarship to Texas Christian University at Fort Worth.

Smith was an athletic standout at Farwell during his high school years, and was graduated last year. This summer, he has been playing baseball for the Bovina Bulls of the Central Plains League.

Smith has been hitting the ball at a .354 clip for the Bulls and will be in the lineup this Sunday when Bovina meets Friona in the first round of the league's Shaughnessy playoffs. The game will be in Friona at 2:30 p. m.

Schedule Released For Farwell Steers

A 10-game football schedule for the Farwell Steers has been announced for the coming season by Russell Young, coach. The first practice session for the Steers will be at 7 a. m. on Monday, August 27.

According to a conference ruling, no practice can begin before August 27. Therefore, two daily practice sessions will be conducted during the first week, Young says.

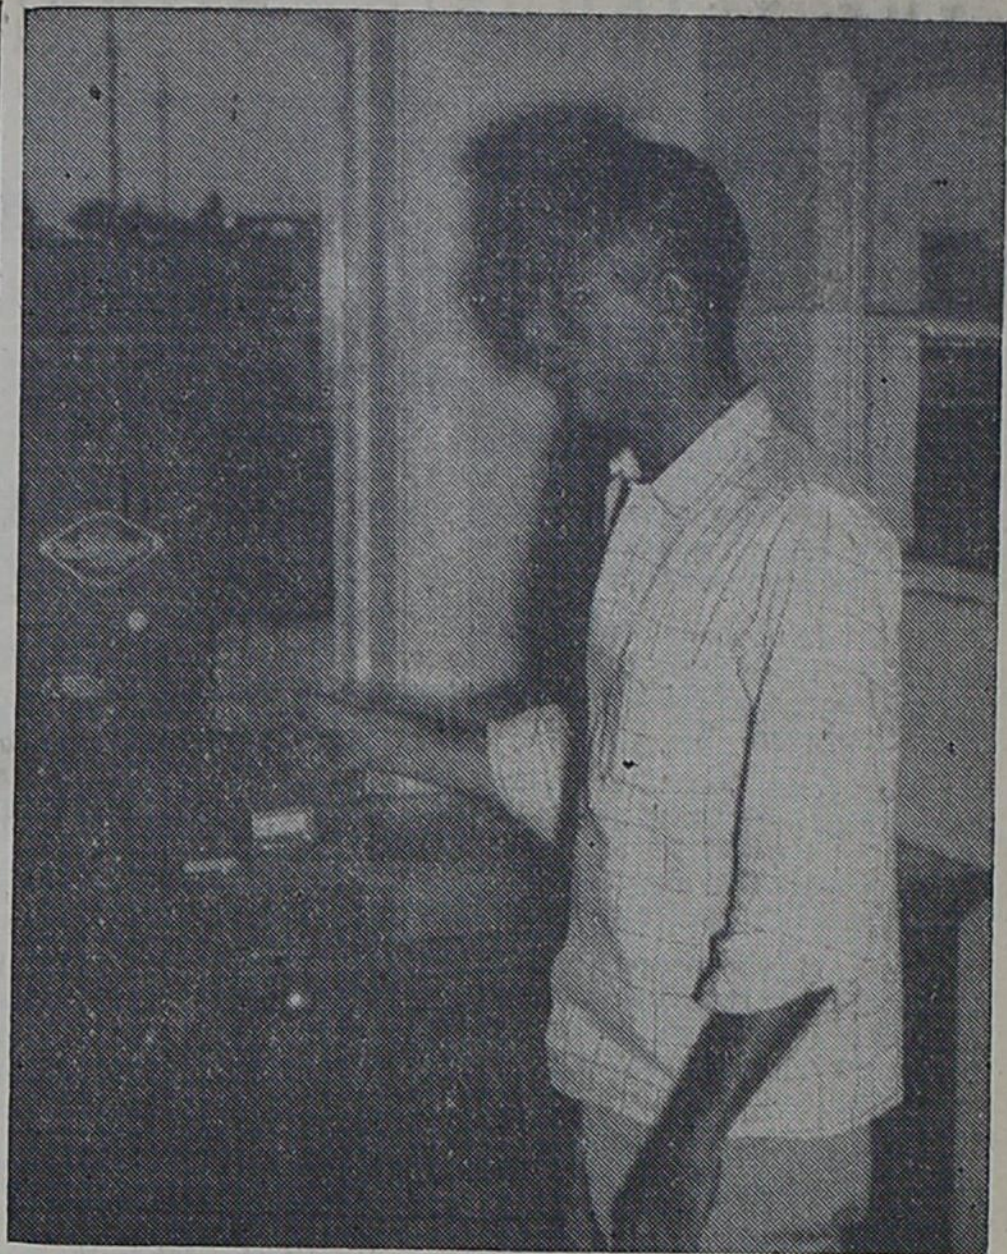

For the first time in the school's history, athletic teams from Farwell will be participating in a Class A conference, and the Steers will be facing several new faces in their higher classification debut. Young expects much faster competition than what the local squad has been accustomed to in the past.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Bond Election

This Saturday, taxpayers of the city of Farwell will decide whether $30,000 will be spent for a new fire station, for extension of the sewer system, and for the expansion of the water system.

The three issues of the bond election have been subject to much discussion by townspeople since work started on the project about three months ago, and contrary to what one might think, the controversy has not been centered around whether or not the improvements are needed, or will be too heavy a burden for the taxpayers.

The largest sum of the proposed figure ($20,000) is for a fire department. There seems to be no question as to the need for such a department in the city of Farwell.

For years, Farwell has been served by the Texico Fire Department across the state line. While citizens of Farwell belong to the department and are as much a part of it as the members in Texico, it is financed by the State of New Mexico.

Other than a 25 cent fee added onto the water bill each month (which goes into the fireboys' fund), citizens of Farwell are not paying for the fire protection provided. Farwell is getting a free ride, so to speak.

Yet, this is not the main reason behind the need for such a department in Farwell. Texico has never begrudged Farwell the fire protection they are giving. Stanton Thigpen, chief of the local department, says that members on the Texas side take just an active part in its operation as do the members in Texico. He says that they all work together and look at both towns as just one community.

Nevertheless, there is an ever-present need for a Farwell fire department. The chief reason being the railroad tracks that separate the two towns. A train on the tracks has held up the fire truck before and there is that possibility that a train on the tracks could mean the reason for a huge loss due to fire.

In the case of sewer extensions, there is a dire need for such improvements. According to city officials, a considerable sum has been spent for extensions in the past and more are needed in the immediate future.

This, we can readily see, as the town has grown considerably since the sewer system was installed several years ago. When the system was installed, it was adequate at the time, but not adequate for the growth which has occurred since that time.

A $4,500 item representing "proposition number three" in the bond election calls for the purpose of improving and extending the waterworks system.

This is also something that is needed for the community. Extensions and improvements to the privately-owned system would better serve Farwell and it would also aid in lowering fire insurance rates.

While all the improvements are needed, it seems strange that the taxpayers will be "voting in the dark" on two of the above-mentioned issues.

Location of the fire department has become a major issue and just where it will be has not been designated by the city officials. The commissioners have not agreed on a site for the new fire station because they feel that the issue of location should not be brought up until after the people decide if they want their own fire-fighting system.

We cannot go along with this reasoning. While a department anywhere on this side of the tracks would be an improvement, its location is indeed vital to the community. There has been some discussion that it will be built near the city auditorium on First Street. If it is built in this location, First Street will definitely have to be paved and additional property will have to be purchased on one side of the city hall.

According to reports, the present attempt to pave First Street has failed. But, even if the street is paved, it would not be a central location which could just as well be had, since property will have to be purchased and it will be an all-new structure.

If additional property is going to be bought by the city, a more central location could be purchased as easily and the department would be located in a position to better serve any future growth of the city. It is certain that the town will not expand any further westward, due to the New Mexico state line.

The other issue which voters will not be able to cast their ballots intelligently on, is the waterworks improvements. Since the waterworks is not city-owned, why is the city investing in improvements for a privately-owned corporation?

The two questions have not been explained to the townspeople. The officials have asked local citizens if they believe in the city commission. The citizens have been asked that if they believe all the improvements included in the bond election are needed and if they believe the city commission is working for the best interests of the community, to vote "yes" on all three issues.

While everyone should have respect for, and believe in the officials they elected to office, the officials should also have enough regard for the townspeople to keep them informed as to what is going on. When it comes to the expenditure of $30,000, everyone who is going to help foot the expense, should know where the money is going, and just why it is being spent.

NOT HOW MANY, HOW GOOD

How many hens are needed to produce a living income for the producer? The answer to this frequently asked question involves not only hen numbers but more important, says Ben Wormeli, extension poultry husbandman, is the number of eggs required each week to earn the expected living income. Weekly production should average about 1,000 dozens. The better the hens the fewer will be required to produce these eggs.

Ronald Booth Will Teach in Illinois

Ronald Booth arrived in Clovis Sunday morning for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Booth, who are former Farwell residents. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Booth of Farwell. Booth, a pianist, has been in Germany for the past three years, two of them as a member of the special service with the United States Army. Booth then chose to remain another year in Europe to study piano and conducting.

Returning to the United States last week, Booth visited in New York, Boston and Chicago before coming to Clovis. Booth will be a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois next year where he will teach piano.

Booth's career as a pianist began when he first started taking lessons from Mrs. Florence Vinyard here in Farwell. While in high school, he studied with Gladys M. Glenn of the Amarillo Conservatory of Music. He also studied with Dr. Silvio Scionti, now professor at North Texas State College in Denton and Leo Podolsky, now of the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

The outstanding senior award was presented to Booth when he was graduated from Farwell High School. He was graduated summa cum laude from the University of Texas where he studied with Helen Haupt and Dalies Frantz. He also became a member of a national music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, while there.

After receiving his Master's Degree from the University of Indiana, Booth taught for two years at Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga.

After the two years of teaching, Booth was a recipient of a Fulbright award and went to Rome to study at St. Cecilia's Conservatory of Music under the famed Carlo Zecci.

During the one year in Rome, Booth studied piano and conducting. He then returned to the United States and volunteered for duty with the special service of the Army. In this type work, Booth was required to learn to speak German and Italian languages, and now speaks both fluently.

Critics at Booth's last concert performance prior to returning to the states say that Booth is nearest to being the ideal European musician than anyone they had ever heard.

Booth will also work on his doctorate while at the University of Illinois.

Weak Gas Pressure Troubles Farmers

Irrigation at a critical stage was interrupted on a number of farms the first of this week, as gas pressure fell alarmingly in many areas.

Reports are that numerous wells in the Parmer and Bailey County area have been affected, and that "weaning" was so severe in some cases that farmers are re-converting to butane until dependable service can be restored.

Butane bottles and accessory equipment, which had been in surplus since the large-scale switch to natural gas two years ago, suddenly found a ready market again this week, and reports of good prices for this "obsolete" equipment have been heard.

Rumors as to the cause of the falling pressure were many. The one which concerned farmers the most was that Pioneer Natural Gas Company, the distributing firm, had contracted with El Paso Natural for a specified amount of gas for the season, and that that amount had been consumed.

Before additional gas would be put into the lines, the rumor went, an increase in gas prices would be necessary. Gilbert Kaltwasser, Farm Bureau head, called on Pioneer officials concerning this report, and was told that it was not true.

"They are having trouble with keeping pressure in the lines between here and El Paso," he said. "Mr. Wall, Pioneer president, told me that service would be back to normal by Wednesday of this week, though."

Joe Helton, Farwell butane dealer who operates in both Texas and New Mexico, said Wednesday that to his knowledge, no comparable difficulty exists in New Mexico. Southern Union Gas Company is the distributing firm on that side of the line.

Foundation Quota $5,000—Not $8,000

A contributions quota for Parmer County's share of the proposed High Plains field station for the Texas Research Foundation of Renner will be $5,000 per year instead of $8,000, report officials of the drive organized two weeks ago.

Parmer County's share compares with a like amount for Bailey and Castro, $1,000 each for Cochran, Curry, Hockley, Floyd, and Swisher; $7,500 for Lamb, $10,000 for Hale, and $2,500 for Deaf Smith.

Community meetings have been booked in Lazbuddie and Rhea, says Gilbert Kaltwasser, chairman of the drive, and will probably be early in September.

Coordinators of community work have been announced. They include W. L. Edelman and Frank Spring, Friona; Bob Wilson and Warren Embree, Bovina; Sam Aldridge and Bob Brooks, Farwell; Juel Treider and Jimmie Ivy, Lazbuddie; and Cordie Potts and Charley Calaway, Rhea.

It is estimated that 40,000 deer are killed annually in Texas.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

George Washington said, "I know of no pursuit in which more real and important service can be rendered to any country than by improving its agriculture."

Still more farmers are thinking about using border irrigation to control water in the irrigation of soil improving crops like alfalfa. A. L. Black is now in the process of installing some of these borders to water alfalfa he plans to plant this fall.

If you have been thinking about planting alfalfa this year, now is the time to start that land preparation. Land needs to be in perfect condition if maximum yields are to be obtained. Another important factor is the application of superphosphate fertilizer each year. Also, inoculate the seed.

Basic conservation farm plans have been completed on a number of farms in the district. Some of these farmers are: James Readhimer, T. E. Thornton, Denis Williams, and A. L. Black. If you are interested in this service, come by the SCS office in Friona and let's talk it over.

Something to think about: At least three billion tons of solid soil materials are washed out of the fields and pastures of the United States each year by water erosion alone. It has been figured that to move such a bulk of American soil on rails would take a train of freight cars 475,000 miles long—long enough to gird the earth 18 times at the Equator.

Williams Jennings Bryan said: "Burn down your cities and they will arise again as if by magic. But destroy our farms and the grass will grow on the streets of every city in the land."

The home demonstration clubs had their first advanced dressmaking meeting Wednesday, August 15, at 2:30 p. m. in my office in the courthouse. The purpose of this meeting was to make plans for the four meetings that they will have in their communities during September. These dates and places will be announced later.

Pattern and material selection was then discussed. Some of these points would be of interest to most women. They are as follows:

- *Watch your lines.
- *When you buy your fall dresses, keep your eye on your "lines."
- *Analyze the line of your figure as well as the lines of the dress.
- *Select lines that bring out your good points and hide your poor ones.
- *Use these points as a guide.
- *Well-proportioned women can wear almost any line.
- *Lengthwise lines give the effect of height.
- *Crosswise lines give the effect of width.
- *For short, plump necks, choose V-necklines with contrast.
- *For long, thin necks, choose high necklines, with contrast if desired.
- *For narrow shoulders, pad lightly. Avoid raglan sleeves and short jackets.
- *For wide shoulders, avoid bulky padding, choose narrow lapels, raglan sleeves and vertical necklines.
- *For a large abdomen avoid tight-fitting dresses, double breasted blouses, and narrow skirts. Try front fullness at bust, in skirt, and on side fronts.
- *For thin or heavy arms avoid sleeves too tight or too loose. Try an easy fullness.
- *For flat chest avoid tight blouses with full gathered skirts. Wear shoulder fullness and bows at neckline. Choose crisp fabrics.

Hospital Auxiliary To Meet Thursday

Underground Water Worries

AN EDITORIAL

Scrap Still Going To Determine Use

A confirmation election to determine whether Lamb County shall embark on a large-scale program of buying water rights has been set for September 1.

This followed action taken at a meeting in Littlefield last week in which landowners interested in delaying or halting Lubbock's water pumping plans met and charted legal ways and means of heading off the move.

Water levels in the Ogalalla or sand formation in and around Littlefield and other Lamb County communities has been falling at an alarming rate since large-scale irrigation development a few years ago.

Farmers and businessmen concerned with the future of the irrigation and even domestic water supply have speculated on Lubbock's intentions and what they could mean to a water supply that already is over-taxed.

The proposed creation of a water control district within the boundaries of the county is but one of several methods that organized resistors on the South Plains are throwing up against the large city.

In order that readers in the Parmer County area may keep abreast of the developments underway on the South Plains where organized resistance is being put against Lubbock's efforts to extend her water supply lines into the sandhills of Bailey and Lamb Counties, this newspaper has made a decision.

We will attempt to publish, on a regular basis, whatever news in connection with these developments that we can learn of. We have been assured of the cooperation of the Bi-State Water Commission through Al Hal, and will digest and report on whatever can be obtained through this and other sources.

Because it appears that the struggle over the water rights of the sandhills of the South Plains will be long and involved, and because it is likely that the length of a "running story" of this nature soon has a tendency to lose its daily significance, we hope to keep our rural readers abreast of developments that they might not normally learn of through the reading of their daily newspapers and over area radio.

We feel that the precedents which will be laid down in the progress of this dispute will be of far-reaching significance to every home into which this newspaper goes.

By our attention to this coverage, our hope is that interest in this history-making struggle may be to some extent freshened from time to time.

The significance of this story will have more effect on the future of our readers than the Democratic National convention—by a long shot.

—The Editor.

THE PARMER FARMER

Someone ought to work up a slogan for the High Plains about this part of the country being "Heaven's Tableland." That's the best description we can think of, after comparing our crops this year with those elsewhere in all directions.

The writer had occasion to tour through and look over conditions to the south and east two or three hundred miles last week, and what we saw was not a pretty sight.

From Big Spring to San Angelo, there is no hint of a crop that we could see. Much of the land in that area is in ranches and is not broken out, of course, but the few cultivated fields were pitiful sights. Forage from irrigated alfalfa fields on The Plains is being shipped to South Texas feeders by the dozens of truck loads. In two days of traveling, we saw more than 20 semi's hauling through.

The drought emergency feed program is big news down there, and we seldom hear the program mentioned here on the irrigated Plains. After seven straight years, it looks as if things in South Texas are as rough as they could ever get.

Cattle are gone from the range. We did spot a few sheep and goats. But the range itself is pitiful. Small patches of browned grass can be spotted from time to time, but for the most part, there's nothing left where the grass is supposed to be except rocks and dirt.

The mesquite, as you might expect, is holding up well, but the traditional prickly pear has turned a pale yellow. It was about the dreariest sight we have ever viewed.

For the first time since we started the weekly "moisture map" feature of these farm pages, we have virtually nothing to report, and for that reason the map is not being carried this week.

We believe, that our readers will have to admit that we have done pretty well with the thing—being able to run reports of rain on it for more than eight consecutive weeks.

If comments volunteered from our readers are any indication, the moisture map was about the most widely-read regular feature of the paper.

Farmers continue to hint that they expect to be better off financially speaking this fall than they were a year ago. This is an encouraging report. Farmers and businessmen alike are keeping a wary eye on crop conditions as the end of the growing season nears.

Have you noticed how much grain already is turning? Will this be the earliest year yet for the first load of milo? If you'd care to send in your guess as to when Parmer County's first load will come across the scales, we'll put up a subscription to your favorite county newspaper if you guess closest.

We haven't actually seen the statistics in print, but Frank Spring of Friona State Bank tells us that gimmers have reported that Parmer County is credited with having the highest yield per acre of cotton in the Panhandle last year.

That was hard for us to believe, and probably will be for some others, too. Perhaps the rain, the freeze, and late watering hurt worse in Hale, Lubbock, Lamb, and some of those other big cotton producers more than it did here.

What's more, we understand that Parmer County ranks sixth in the state in yield per acre.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Your directors have set the date for the annual Farm Bureau convention a month earlier this year, in an effort to give you a better opportunity to attend. September 24, comes before milo harvest is too far underway.

Your directors hope this will enable you to be on hand and support or protest any proposals that may be presented. They will be much happier if there is a lot of discussion of all resolutions before they are voted upon. When nobody says anything, it indicates they may not understand the proposal, or that they inwardly do not favor it too highly.

All resolutions prepared by your committee for presentation will be in the hands of all members several days before the convention. This will give you an opportunity to read and discuss them with anyone you wish, before the convention.

Though you have until October 1 to file, if you haven't claimed the two cent per gallon federal road tax refund on your farm used gasoline, do it soon before you forget it. We will be happy to help you with it in the office, or you can do it yourself. All you need to know is how many gallons you used between January 1 and July 31. No papers need be sent in with your claim.

We met Lonnie Bass, columnist for Bailey County Farm Bureau, the other night at the Bovina experiment farm meeting. He is doing a good informative job of reporting to their people in the Muleshoe Journal. More people need to know what Farm Bureau is doing, whether they approve or disapprove. This way, they can change the part they don't like to what they do like. Any people of experience all over the world say that only the honestly informed people can be free people.

Consider this: Evil men understand not judgement; but they that seek the Lord understand all things. Proverbs 28:5.

FB Officers, Directors Meet In Bovina

Thirty-two people attended a banquet meeting of Farm Bureau directors and resolutions committee members Thursday night, August 7 at the Bovina Cafe. The purpose of the meeting, attended by officers and their wives, was to hear State Organization Director Millard Shivers speak. "Discuss Action Meetings" was the primary subject of the discussion. These meetings, at which three or four neighbors assemble and discuss farm problems and their solution, are being encouraged by Farm Bureau in an effort to acquaint each farmer with the actual workings of legislative action affecting farming, and ways and means of improving on such actions by cooperative action.

"I am not too much concerned about a little criticism from the outside," said Shivers. "When there is no criticism, I believe we ought to get a mirror and take a look to see what is wrong with us," he added. He emphasized that Farm Bureau is unique in that the membership can and does make the policies, and the staff is charged with carrying out those policies. "Some people," he said, "still think that a farmer is a guy who found he couldn't hold a job for someone else and had to 'go back out to the farm.'"

Shivers brought out the following as evidence that farmers should be concerned about wage increases that are passed directly to the consumers as price increases: agricultural people use 16.6 percent of all petroleum products, 9 percent of all steel produced in America (more than all automobile manufacturers), 12 percent of all chemicals, 20 percent more rubber each year than required to put five tires on every automobile in America.

"This thing known as the politics of equal shares can be disastrous if allowed to progress," he said. "The maximum cotton acreage per farm would be less than 15 acres under this plan."

Referring to criticism by some that American Farm Bureau doesn't support everything favorable to Texas members, Shivers said that when you are one of a group of six in 48 states and Puerto Rico you could not expect the support of the national organization. "This," he said, "can be remedied to a great extent if Texas will reach its potential membership and become the strongest Farm Bureau state instead of a mediocre one."

In closing Shivers reviewed Farm Bureau's platform of operation.

1. Remove the road blocks to earning a high net income.
2. Get income in sound dollars.
3. Halt threats to individual freedom.
4. Strengthen for peace to prevent the disaster of war.
5. Build a better America with opportunities for all.

Joe Ed Sullivan, district field representative of Canyon, assisted Shivers in his illustrated presentations.

County President Gilbert Kaltwasser presided at the meeting. Jack Patterson, director of Rhea Community, returned thanks before the meal.

Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Kaltwasser, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wood, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McCutchan, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bruns, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bauer, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ellison, Mrs. Glenda Rickard, Raymond Euler, Joe Ed Sullivan, and Millard Shivers.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

Do you have difficulty with seams that come to points pulling out? If so, try sewing a bias square at the point, then leaving it for reinforcement purposes. The square should be about 1 1/2 or 2 inches. These seams are used in dresses or blouses that have collars or sleeves cut with the body of the garment. They are also used in long torso dresses that have panels in the front or back.

The fashion experts are predicting that matchstick dresses will be the most popular ones for fall. If the teen-age girls and younger ones get away from so many petticoats, it will make it easier for the mothers of that age group. For awhile the only problem was getting enough petticoats. Then when the straight styles and full ones were just about even, along came the problem of getting the right petticoats with the right dresses.

Not too many years ago, one of the most important jobs of any homemaker was that of putting eggs under hens and taking proper care of them until the chickens were hatched. Now, setting hens are almost unheard of. In the past few years, every hen we have put eggs under has left the nest before the eggs hatched.

WHICH ONE'S THE QUEEN?—That would be hard to say. Perhaps all will be picked. However, that's not likely when these girls line up at the annual Farm Bureau queen contest Thursday night, August 16, at the Friona school auditorium. In line (and their sponsors) are Judy Bruns, Galloway Implement; Jeanette Hughes, Farwell Hardware; Donna Miller, Kendrick Oil and Fertilizer; Helen Hamilton, Friona Consumers; Paula Neel, Friona Wheat Growers; Beverly Roberts, Bovina Restaurant; and Ellen Berry, Bovina Wheat Growers. Not present was Janice Miller, sponsored by Foster's Dry Goods. The contest starts at 8:30.

We wonder if the instinct to raise chickens will one day be extinct from the nature of hens. Maybe the modern way of raising chickens is eliminating the desire hens used to have for motherhood. Sounds rather wacky, doesn't it? But, from our experience, it sure looks that way.

We didn't know until just recently that the salt from which brine was made for pickles had anything to do with the taste or quality of pickles. It is better, so say the experts, to use salt that has not been iodized.

Has the collection bug bit you yet? So far, we have not been bitten by it. If we ever get the urge for collecting, think we will start a collection such as was mentioned to us one day last week by an Amarillo homemaker.

Irene Barker, a cousin of ours, has long been one of our favorite people. She has been a homemaker for as many years as we can remember and has always done a good job with what she had to do with. She started a collection of the nicest things that happened to her during each day. Wouldn't it be interesting to read a list of the nice things that happened to us in 1957 twenty years from now.

A lot of people would probably say, "Oh, nothing nice enough to write happens to me." If you feel that way, why not just try it for awhile. Maybe more nice things happen to you than you realize.
