This newspaper is indebted to the Southern Union Gas Company for a complimentary copy of the Texas Almanac for 1951.

If you want to know anything about Texas, or any county or town within the state, the Texas Almanac is a handy reference for accurate information.

The only trouble I have ever found about having a copy at hand is that it is constantly being borrowed, and never in place when it was rneeded.

Here's a letter from one of our local old-timers, Bob Kyker, who is now living at Abilene. Bob says, he never sees anyone from Farwell, but he keeps up with the happenings through the columns of The Tribune.

I might say for Bob's information that there is lots of good, spicy news that escapes the columns of the newspaper; items that would make lots of interesting reading for him. But, through charity to others, they are left out of the paper. Bob kept abreast with all this spicy information during all the years that he operated a barber shop in the Twin Cities, and he can relate some tall tales-most of which are probably trueabout just anybody you could mention. Too bad I can't keep him posted with everything he would like to hear.

moving to market, most local firms are reporting a nice increase in business during the past few days. Although crops over this region are not up to their usual standard, especially dry land crops, the increase in prices is going to offset considerable of the loss occasioned by unfavorable weather conditions.

Heard of a young farmer only this week who had contracted a thousand tons of bundles at $25 per ton. Prices like this are excepfional and will put much money in the country.

Cattle feeding operations in the county are in a large measure responsible for such prices. Until rea crop of grain, he had nothing to sell. But with the advent of the heavy feeding operations, there is a ready market for his drouth-stricken roughage that has produced no
