

"Ask Aid for Parents of College Students," was the headline on a news story the other day that attracted our attention. We notice that the most fashionable solution to any problem today is to call on the Almighty Uncle Sam.

It's not enough for farmers, businessmen, old folks, and wage earners to get in on the public dole (and those four classes include about everybody), but now we're going the "second lap" in our aid-from-Uncle philosophy and wanting the government to, in effect, pay us for sending our kids off to college.

We would like to remind those who still eye the hip pocket of our federal government as the balm for all our woes some things that seem all too obvious, but for some reason are being overlooked:

The federal government can give nothing if it does not first take away. The federal government pays no taxes, and it produces nothing, save a system for men to prey upon one another, which is an intangible service of questionable value.

To get itself backed out of a tight corner, Burrus Mills, a sizeable Texas milling and warehouse concern, has taken its story to the public in full-page newspaper advertisements. They have called their appeals "An open letter to 170,000,000 red blooded, fair minded American Joe Doaks."

This is a good example of what happens to even the larger corporations that have business dealings with the federal government. Burrus undertook to store wheat surpluses in experimental tent-like units in Texas and Missouri. The idea didn't work, the wheat spoiled, and now Burrus owes Commodity Credit Corporation more money than it can possibly pay.

To remain solvent, the business is asking permission to pay its huge debt off over a period of years, rather than declare bankruptcy to meet pressing obligations coming out of the loss.

Burrus is willing to throw its case at the feet of the fair-minded public of the U. S., as evidenced by its submitting "ballots" in the ads to measure public opinion. The corporation will trust the public-at-large, but can't get justice from the representative of the same public, which is the government. Does not that appear to be an oddity?

Another field of government activity which is causing alarm in many quarters is the apparent actuarial miscue of the social security administration. This year, for the first time since the beginning of SS in 1937, benefit payments have overtaken receipts from the public.

That is to say, up until now social security has been accumulating a reserve from which to pay out anticipated benefits for the future (like a life insurance company would), but now the planners have broadened the program to include so many people that there is more money going out than coming in.

With the life expectancy increasing with each passing year, and with the tendency of both Democrats and Republicans to regard social security as a sacred cow and forever expand its benefits for vote-getting effects, there doesn't appear to be any hope that this situation will improve.

Benefits from social security, if you can imagine such a figure, are now about $7 billion a year — and they're going up, of course.

The thing that makes even the advocates of this peculiar American brand of socialism a little bit pale around the gills is that back in 1935, the great planners used their slide rules to prove that benefits would be only $3.5 billion in 1980. It's already twice that!

In 1957, they admit that the benefits will probably be $17 billion in 1980. We wonder what they'll actually be by time we get there.

Before many days pass, we will know for sure whether Texico, the New Mexico one-half of the Twin Cities, will be "wet" or "dry," legally speaking. The Tribune is not known for its influence in New Mexico politics, but if it would do any good, we'll endorse any group opposing making Curry County wet.

There are many clever ways of disguising the liquor problem, and sharp businessmen are very adept at explaining how much better off we'd all be with booze sold out in the open. Most of their reasoning appeals to the pocketbook, which is usually very effective argument material.

The only good thing that could come from passage of the wet proposal for our good friends in New Mexico is to get rid of the bootleggers. Admittedly, that would be quite an event, but is it worth the price for this one improvement?

We can see today how brazenly those who benefit from the sale (or at least "handlings") of alcoholic beverages defy the intent of the law. They have come into the

RECEIVE AWARDS — Mrs. Lucy O. Brown, Texico postmaster, presents Coin J. "Jack" White with a 26-year safe driving award in a special ceremony at the post office Saturday morning. White has been a regular rural mail carrier at Texico since 1930 and has never had an accident in over 1,110,000 miles of driving. Also receiving similar awards were Texico's three other mail carriers. From left to right, Loren Wilson, Ray Mears, and Chas. L. McDaniel.

Safety Awards Go to Carriers

Rural mail carriers and substitute carriers at the Texico Post Office received the nation's highest award for accident free driving Saturday morning when award presentations were made by Mrs. Lucy O. Brown, postmaster.

The awards were given by the U. S. Postal Department in cooperation with the National Safety Council. "The awards are presented only to those who have demonstrated that they are careful and skilled drivers," Mrs. Brown says.

The Texico carrier cited for the best all-round record was Coin J. "Jack" White, veteran carrier of 37 years. Averaging 30,000 miles per year, White has driven 1,110,000 miles without an accident.

Twenty-six of those years have been spent in Texico and it was a 26-year pin that the carrier received. He is regular carrier for Texico's Route 1. In the number of years of service at Texico, White was followed closely by his substitute carrier, Chas. L. McDaniel. He has carried mail for 25 years, but due to the fact that he is only a substitute, has not travelled as many miles.

Ray Mears, the substitute carrier for Route 2, was presented an award for 11 years of accident free driving, and Loren Wilson, the youngest carrier, who has been regular carrier for only a short period of time, received the one year award.

Congratulations from the regional director, W. D. Brewer, and the district operations manager, Glenn G. Armstrong, were offered to the honored men by Mrs. Brown.

Certificates from the National Safety Council and pins denoting the years of driving service were presented to each man. The combined total number of years without an accident for all four carriers is 74.

Texico Revival To Begin Friday

The revival will continue through Sunday, August 25, and services are to be held daily at 10:30 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. Prayer services will be held at 7:30 p.m., prior to the evening worship hour.

Rev. C. C. Morgan, church pastor, extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend this old-fashioned revival.

community with pious faces, confident that they can legally play footsie with local officials and go on about their business of handing out drinks to just about everybody who wants one.

It is obvious that the intent of the law against sale of alcoholic beverages in Curry and Roosevelt Counties is to keep liquor outside those areas. But in spite of public opinion, they have managed to worm their way into real prominence. They even disguise themselves as "family" establishments.

What can we expect from people of a character such as this if they are turned loose? Are things not bad enough as they are?

There is nothing to lift the spirits of a newspaperman like an unsolicited letter from a satisfied advertiser. Mrs. Delbert Garner writes, "Our ad in your paper brought very good results. Thank you so much. You are welcome to our blackeyed pea patch any time."

This really gives us a thrill. The Tribune can even sell peas when there's selling to be done. We also are happy to hear this for another reason. We have been sort of helping ourselves to some choice produce we see growing along the road, and our luck was holding out good until last week.

We were just coming out of J. T. Ford's sweet corn patch when our arms full when he drove up. Imagine our surprise! We didn't expect anyone to be coming down that turn-row.

And J. T., of course, just wouldn't believe our story that we were looking for him, and just "accidentally" got hold of some roasting ears.

Five GI Financing Commitments For New Homes

Jeff Collins of Highland Realty Company, developers of the Hillcrest Addition in south Farwell, this week announced that his firm has five GI-financed commitments for homes in the addition, "and that will be all."

The Clovis company announced two weeks ago that they are re-opening the project, which has been static for over a year, and will build GI and FHA homes.

The GI units are the first ones up for construction, and Don Jones of Farwell has made arrangements for the first house in the group. He said this week he is uncertain when construction can get started, but hopes it will be soon.

Charles Lennau of Muleshoe is contractor.

Graham President West Texas Press

W. H. Graham Jr., publisher of The Tribune, is new president of the West Texas Press Association. He was elected at the annual convention of the organization at Lubbock last weekend.

Attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. John Getz and Mike.

The Tribune was awarded second place for editorial writing, and third place in advertising composition, in cities of 4,000 population and under, during the annual WTPA newspaper contests.

Graham succeeds Roy Fox of Colorado City in the presidency.

IS RECUPERATING

Mrs. Robert Widener, a former Texico resident who underwent major surgery a few weeks ago, is reported to be recuperating nicely, according to relatives here. She is now at her home in Portales.

Light Session for Commission

Farwell's City Commission met in its regular session last week with only a few topics up for discussion. Business included the amending of previous minutes and the paying of the months bills.

One amendment was that the city purchase equipment to attach to the school's spraying machine. It had previously been understood that the city was to buy the unit from the school, but this was not the case.

The school owns the sprayer, which was purchased as war surplus, and the city owns the remainder of the equipment. It is to be used jointly by the school and the city.

Also amended was the clause in the minutes which read that the clerk was to receive $1.50 per hour when operating the sprayer for outside individuals.

Local Option Vote Tuesday

The question of whether or not Texico and Curry County will have legalized sale of alcoholic beverages will be decided next Tuesday, August 20. In Texico the polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. at the city hall.

The election to determine whether or not the county will adopt local option provision of section 46-3-1 of New Mexico statutes was called by the county commissioners court. The action was the result of a petition, bearing the signatures of 2,600 citizens.

The petitioners called for the "licensing, taxation, and regulation of persons, firms, and/or corporations disposing alcoholic beverages in Curry County.

There are two organized forces, the United Drys of Curry County and the Peoples Committee, taking the two stands in the election. The "drys" contend that conditions will be far worse with open saloons than the present bootleg situation is, while the "wets" base their stand on the philosophy that liquor dealers should be licensed, taxed and regulated by law.

Curry County has been dry since 1939 and the City of Clovis banned the sale of beverages in 1943.

Clovis is where the big decision will be made. The city has more than 20,000 of the county's 27,000 population and the vote there will likely be the deciding factor. Too, Clovis can go wet even if the remainder of the county votes dry.

The reason for this is that the county-seat city is the only one with a population of over 5,000. Towns under that figure, like Texico, Melrose, and Grady, do not have population enough to have its own city election.

Should the entire county vote for legalized liquor, there will be 16 liquor licenses issued. This is based on one license for every 1,500 population. The location of the liquor firms will be determined by the commissioners court, says Fay Southard, county clerk.

Quite likely, there would be 12 in Clovis and four in other parts of the county, she says. Probable conditions under this set-up would be that Texico and Grady would each have one liquor dealer and Melrose would have two, the clerk adds.

If the election carries, it will go into effect after 90 days.

D'Rene Danforth Wins State 4-H Talent Contest

One of four district talent contest winners to participate in the state 4-H Talent Hunt, Miss D'Rene Danforth of Texico received the honor of being the "most talented" at the state 4-H Camp at Las Cruces last week.

With her acrobatic routine, which has won her first place in many other talent shows during the past year, the 14-year-old Texico lass received the right to participate in the national contest at the 4-H congress this fall.

However, it is not known whether or not she will make the trip, since the state did not have a sponsor for sending the talent winner to the national meet. Should some businesses or organizations undertake the sponsoring of the trip, she will quite likely attend the October meeting in Chicago.

For winning the state contest she was presented a bronze plaque, with the 4-H insignia on it, at an awards banquet Friday night on the New Mexico A&M Campus.

D'Rene, the daughter of Mr.

20-Year-Old Fined For Bootlegging

Twenty-year-old Sonny Rondo, Friona, was arrested Saturday night for bootlegging. He was tried on two counts in Parmer County Court Monday morning and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $225 by Judge A. D. Smith.

The two charges were for possession of alcoholic beverages for purpose of sale, and for selling the beverage. He was found making a sale at his place in Friona by County Sheriff Chas. Lovelace at 10 p. m.

Forty-one quarts of beer were confiscated by the sheriff. It was the second bootlegging arrest in Parmer County during the past two weeks. A week prior to last Saturday a man was arrested for transporting 25 cases of beer across the county.

Use of anesthetics is little more than 100 years old.

and Mrs. Fred Danforth, has performed 16 times during the past year before an estimated 3,500 people. She has been on TV programs in Lubbock, Clovis, and El Paso. After winning the state contest Wednesday night she went with a group of eight entertainers to present a program at El Paso.

Last year D'Rene was the County and Southeastern District talent winner in the junior contest. In this division, winners do not go beyond the district level.

Besides participating and winning in various other talent contests she performed for such groups as the Lions Club and the State Shriners Convention in Clovis this spring.

In her fourth year of 4-H club work, D'Rene has completed eight projects. This year she is enrolled in sewing III, baking V, junior leadership, and health.

She will be a sophomore this year at Texico High School where she is a majorette in the band. She also plays the saxophone and piano.

Clovis Airport To Be Located West of Texico

In a special ceremony at Clovis Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Truman Doolittle and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. King, who farm west of Texico, were presented checks totaling $160,000 for 800 acres of land, which will be used for the proposed Clovis Municipal Airport.

The airport site is located two miles north of Clovis highway just west of the Texico city limits. The land is 134 miles in distance from east to west and one mile from north to south.

A check, totaling $99,200 was presented to the Doolittles, and the Kings were recipients of one in the amount of $60,800.

Under the terms of the agreements, the Doolittles and Kings turned over all land and all improvements. They are entitled to harvest any existing crops and have until January 1, 1958, to vacate.

The 800-acre tract includes the home and farm buildings of the Doolittles, who have resided there for 52 years. The King home is located south of the land and was not included in the transaction.

A Clovis city official said this week that plans for beginning construction on the air port are not definite. However, he did say that the actual construction work would be started in the not too distant future.

The airport site was one of five proposed locations near Clovis. It was the one approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Such a get-together was suggested as a means for citizens to get acquainted with the many new teachers who will be in the two school systems this fall. Complete plans for the fete are to be worked out at the next meeting.

The McDonalds toured Boulder Dam on their way home. They report that the dam is "a very interesting project."

"Gram'ma" was in the right place at the wrong time — she missed the boat. But she wasn't at all disturbed about it according to a card we received from her this week.

The Graham family saw her to the train Saturday of last week thinking that she would be cruising lazily over the ocean by late Monday afternoon, enroute to Hawaii.

But in a card this weekend, she revealed "I missed the boat —lost a day somehow and found out too late that the boat sailed Monday and not Tuesday. I'll leave on a Saturday plane and arrive at the same time the boat does and will join the group at the hotel, then return by boat."

Since she has some extra time in California, she has visited Disneyland, the beach, the zoo and other places.

It's almost unbelievable, but school bells will be ringing in the very near future. Mamas are getting school clothes ready, families are making those last minute visits and taking short before-school trips. It won't be long.

Calvin Murray was in the shop Monday and telling about the grand summer the family spent in Gunnison, Colo. Mrs. Murray attended college classes while her husband was sifter for the two sons in the family.

Then the family did a lot of fishing and picnicking too. Murray told of a picnic on July 4 when the group cooked hamburgers outside, and cooled their pop in a snowdrift that hadn't melted.

Gloria Miller gave us some news of some ex local people that she gained while at coaching school with Husband Kurt in Albuquerque over the weekend.

She became acquainted with Mrs. Seth Adams, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Bill Cannon, the former Jane Adams, who was formerly home economics teacher here. Gloria learned that Jane and Bill are now residents of Hawaii, where he is an engineer, and they are the parents of two children.

Too, the Millers are good friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Livingston. Livingston was a coach in Farwell Schools at one time. The Livingstons, who were parents of two previous daughters when they lived here, now have four little girls, according to Gloria.

Among the many places of interest visited by the group were Blue Water Lake near Gallup, the Natural Ice Caves and many scenic spots near Albuquerque.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Deatherage and sons of Happy. Lavon Deatherage remained here to visit in the Huggins home this week.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A PORTABLE LAWN BENCH

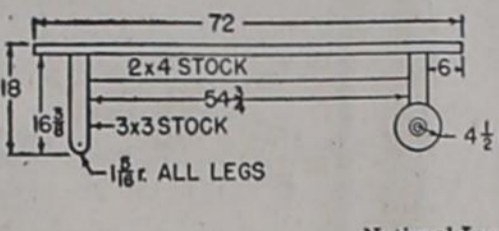

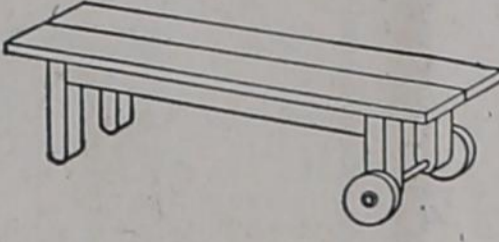

Moving lawn furniture is less of a chore when the pieces can be rolled along. A lawn bench with wheels at one end can be made by use of hand tools. When cutting the parts for the bench, use a miter box to help cut square ends. Make the top of 2 by 8-inch lumber. Edge glue the boards using a water-proof glue. For greater rigidity the boards can be doweled jointed. The legs are made of 3 by 3-inch lumber. Cut the front legs 14 1/2 inches long; the rear legs, 16 1/2 inches. A compass set for a radius of 1-5/16 inches is used to make the pattern for the legs. Drill holes for the axle. The braces are made of 2 by 4-inch lumber. The wheels are made of straight grained 2 by 10-inch lumber, 10 inches long. Assemble the bench using glue and nails or screws.

LAUNDRY MAGIC

Modern laundry equipment has forever sealed wash-day blues in a gleaming wrapper of porcelain enamel that puts the emphasis on time saving and convenience.

Today's homemaker need only touch a button to command her automatic servants to accomplish work that once meant back-breaking hours of bending, lifting and hauling. Aside from being work savers, modern washers and dryers must also be beauty savers that will retain their color and surface through years of constant use.

Porcelain enamel, the glass-like finish that protects most kitchen appliances from food acids, hot utensils, grease and dirt, offers many particular advantages to laundry equipment. Detergents, bleaches and steaming hot water will never discolor, rust or corrode the finish of a porcelain enamel washer or dryer, either inside or on exterior surfaces. This fact is a real boon to the homemaker who is looking for a finish that will protect as well as beautify for the lifetime of the product.

Potato Growers Near Harvest End

The peak of the potato harvest in the Parmer County area is past, although there is still considerable activity at the processing sheds in Friona and Lariat.

Market conditions moved up slightly the first of the week, and increased the intensity of harvesting operations, as growers, some of them operating near the "break-even" point, were glad to get any increase in price, no matter how slight.

The price rise, rather unexpected, pushed the price of spuds shipped from the two Parmer County points to $2.25 to $2.35. It was not anticipated because of the lateness of the season and the fact that nearly all states that have potato production (except Maine) were digging.

Ordinarily, this heavy production from all over the country depresses prices. However, this week the demand continued strong and the price moved up a notch or two.

John O'Haugherty, salesman at Friona Growers and Shippers, says Chicago is receiving potatoes "from all over the country."

In the Friona area, about two-thirds of the 300-acre crop has been dug, and harvesting is expected to be completed within a week or 10 days. Showers have slowed operations some, though not seriously.

Buck Gregory at Lariat says his shed will be through by this weekend. On Wednesday, only 25 acres were left to be harvested, those being Netted Gem russets. Russets are commanding a premium price of $3 this week, and the late-season spuds are selling well. Tonnage is down, however, and they are yielding only slightly more than 100 sacks of No. 1's per acre, says Gregory.

Gregory feels that growers have been fortunate to have the market improve this late in the season. Most of the area-grown potatoes are headed for southern markets, he says.

This has been a "mediocre" year for potatoes, following one of the best seasons in history last year. Prices this year are ranging from one-third to one-half of what they were at the peak of 1956.

However, most potato growers aren't too surprised to see things slow down this year. It is most unusual for Plains potato deals to be "hot" two years in a row. The average grower is glad to get his money back and get ready for another season, though some have managed to pocket some profits, too.

Special beds are used on trucks to bring potatoes in from the fields. Here a special conveyor carries the spuds out and dumps them into a waiting washing trough at the Gregory potato shed at Lariat.

The first step in potato processing at Friona Growers & Shippers is to unload the spuds as they arrive from the field and dump them into these bins where they await their turn at the washing, grading, and packing operations.

were sold and the project was carried on much the same as our fund raising drives are done here. The difference was that there was no program, no time, no place, no speaker, or no refreshments.

All that was necessary for a person to do was to buy a ticket entitling the holder to an evening at home. At the rate most of us go any more, that idea might work out real good in our home town. There are a lot of times when we had rather buy the ticket and forget the rest of the things it calls for.

So much has been written and said about parents staying home with their children that we have been hoping someone would come up with an idea that would keep the children at home with the parents. Maybe this is it. What do you think?

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

For anything worth having, one must pay the price; and the price is always work, patience, love, self-sacrifice—no paper currency, no promises to pay, but the gold of real service. —John Burroughs.

This past week a number of the cooperators with the Parmer County Soil Conservation District picked up their potted Arizona Cypress trees. It seems like we were a long time in getting them but most cooperators said that they would be easier to take care of now than earlier in the year.

The first year the trees should not be placed in the field or around the farmstead in a permanent place, but rather place them in a sheltered spot from wind and direct sun until the second year. They won't grow much the first year, but special attention should be given

If you mothers who are having your little daughters go to school for the first time are planning school clothes, a good rule to remember is KEEP THEM SIMPLE. Of course, all of us want our little girls to be well dressed and sashes, bows, and frills are all very pretty—but not practical for school dresses.

When setting trees in your windbreak rows, keep in mind the trees will get 40 feet tall and 20 feet in diameter in years to come. Don't crowd the trees or don't crowd buildings with the trees. Trees should be set 10 feet to 15 feet apart and at least 40 feet from buildings for the best house, lawn and out-building protection.

It is very easy to set small trees too close to buildings. Keep in mind any future buildings or plans for a new home when setting out windbreak trees. Don't grow trees 10 years and then find you have to destroy them to build your new home. Make these plans now and give plenty of room.

If you plan to have two or more rows of trees, be sure to leave 20 feet or more between rows and around the corners to allow cultivation with farm equipment the first few years. Trees are worth the effort, so make an effort to keep them.

"The Place Where Most People Trade" Friona, Texas August 14, 1957

We are home after spending almost a month at Tres Ritos, New Mexico. The boys split wood, waded in icy streams, built fires, chopped down trees, climbed mountains, chased chipmunks, fished at the beaver dam, caught live worms and snails, picked wild strawberries, climbed trees and ate and ate. Their feet were dry only two or three times while we were gone except when they were asleep.

Have you seen the beautiful new Oldsmobiles on our show floor? We will be glad to have you take a demonstration ride in one of them. One reason we enjoyed the mountains so much was the fact that it rained every day except two. The trees are greener and grass is better than it has been for years. TEC Sees Shortage Of Cotton Pullers

Parmer County will be short 5,297 cotton pullers during the peak period of the 1957 cotton harvest, estimates the Texas Employment Commission.

The figure was presented at a Parmer County farm labor committee meeting, in which Committeeman Sloan Osborn reviewed the total seasonal employment needs developed by the TEC with Edward D. Vaughn and Eldrid G. Travis of the TEC.

The committee will function under public law 78, obtaining facts about the supply of domestic farm workers and the shortage of workers, if any, which must be met by importing Mexican nationals. The TEC will supply the data to the secretary of labor, who will limit the number of Mexican Nationals to be used in this county by granting a ceiling.

Local office managers assist with estimating the number of workers who will be needed, basing the figure on current local conditions affecting the cotton crop.

Ceilings adopted by the secretary of labor limiting the importation of Mexican nationals into this area will be displayed in post offices in Farwell, Bovina, and Friona; the county agent's office, and the county courthouse.

The TEC estimates that 1,250 Mexican nationals will have to be imported into Parmer County to harvest this year's cotton crop.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

From early spring to late fall in our section of the country an outdoor meal is enjoyed by every member of the family. There are so many quick and easy things that can be prepared for such a meal that not even the cook in the family balks when someone says, "Let's eat outside!"

Many homes have outdoor cooking facilities and use them often. If you are one of those fortunate enough to have an outdoor picnic area that is equipped with electricity, your waffle iron should not be overlooked when you are planning an outdoor meal.

There is no end to the variety of things that can be cooked on it. Golden brown cornbread, crisp brownies, and dozens of different kinds of waffles and breads can be baked quickly and easily by using your waffle iron.

The new brown 'n serve sausage makes a nice addition to any meal and especially to one that is cooked outdoors. The sausages may be placed inside a hot dog bun, wrapped in foil and baked in coals. Tasty burgers of any kind are very tasty if they are filled ahead of time, wrapped in foil, then heated in hot coals.

Homemakers who feel that an outdoor meal takes too much time and effort should spend some time working on menus which are simple and easy to prepare. An evening spent outdoors with your family and friends will long be remembered and are not too much trouble if the outing is carefully planned ahead of time.

Had you ever thought of preparing red beans and rice in the same dish? We ran across a recipe that sounds interesting. Haven't tried it yet so don't know how it will go over with the family, but it would be interesting at least.

RED BEANS AND RICE

- 3 cups cold water
- 1 teaspoon salt

- 6 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1-pound can red kidney beans

Place rice, water, salt and butter in a large saucepan. Cover and bring liquid to a boil rapidly. Reduce flame and simmer about 15 minutes or until rice is cooked through. Heat beans in their liquid, drain and toss with rice. Season to taste. Makes 4-6 servings.

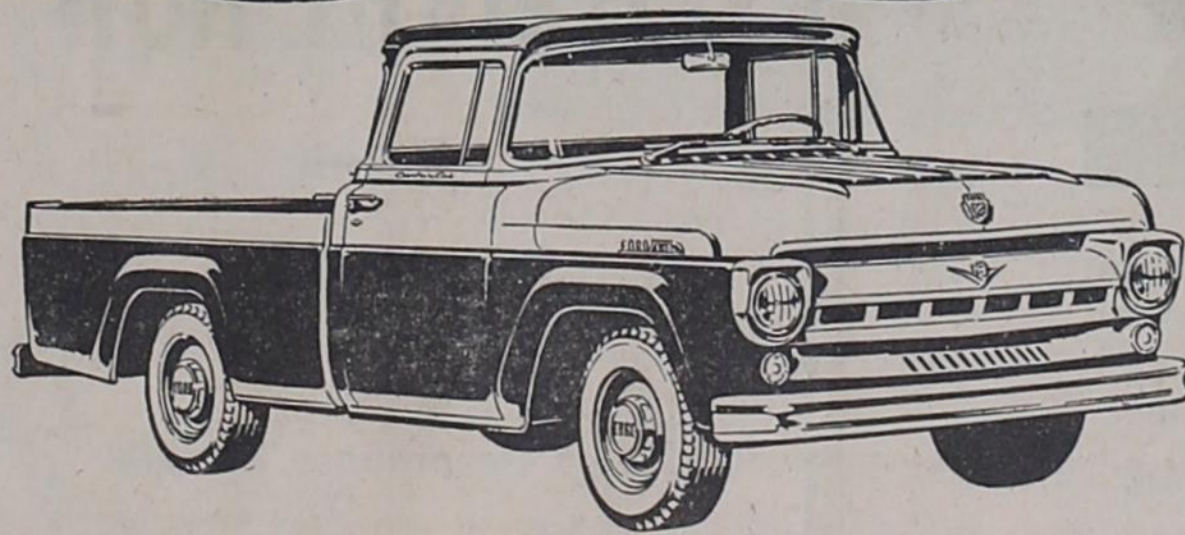

If you mothers who are having your little daughters go to school for the first time are planning school clothes, a good rule to remember is KEEP THEM SIMPLE. Of course, all of us want our little girls to be well dressed and sashes, bows, and frills are all very pretty—but not practical for school dresses.

Soils of Parmer County Vary, SCD Map Shows

Parmer County's soil resources are rich and varied. It has been said of Parmer County that, "Here is an area where a man can find the kind of land he's looking for."

That is an accurate statement, because many kinds of soils are within the bounds of the county.

The above picture gives a general idea of the soil units. It is supplied by the Parmer County Soil Conservation District. No. 2, the largest soil type in the county, is described as deep, fine-textured, slowly permeable soil. It generally is referred to as the "tight" or "hard" or "heavy" land in the county.

The 7X soils in the southern part of the county are deep, medium textured, moderately rapidly permeable soils. They are locally referred to as "deep sand" soils and do not ordinarily have a clay sub-soil structure.

Another major soil group in the county is the No. 7 soil, which is a deep, medium textured, moderately permeable soil. It is usually called "mixed" land, and is a transition type between tight and sandy land.

Others shown on the map: No. 4—Deep, fine textured, slowly permeable bottomland soils.

No. 6—Deep, medium textured slowly permeable soils.

No. 9—Deep, medium textured, moderately permeable bottomland soils.

No. 18—Shallow, fine textured, moderately permeable soils.

No. 24—Very shallow, fine textured soils.

As will be noticed, most of the minor classifications of soil types are in or near Frio and Running Water Draws that pass through the county. They obviously do not constitute major agricultural areas.

It should be remembered that the map is generalized, and does not show farm-by-farm transitions. For example, it is not too unusual to find a 160-acre farm with both sandy and tight soil on it.

In addition, while the majority of the soils of the county are deep, anyone familiar with the county knows that there are some "skinned" fields where caliche base shows through whenever the land is plowed.

Although any crop grown in Parmer County can be produced in any given Parmer County location, it is the popular notion of farmers that the heavy lands are better suited for grain production, the sandier lands for cotton; and also that the heavier lands produce better under ideal irrigation conditions, and the sandier lands give bigger yields under drouthy conditions.

Grain Sorghum, Cotton Approach Maturity Dates

Maturity dates for grain sorghum and cotton are on the horizon in the Parmer County area this week, as farmers begin to see an end to the fight with one of the hottest, driest summers on record.

Most grain sorghum heads are now developed, and a few are even beginning to turn. Cotton is still blooming profusely, and fruiting is heavy. Insects so far have remained under control in nearly all cases, and the setting of early-fruit appears to be assured.

Many cotton farmers are now making their final watering—or plans for it—mindful of the recommended "shut off" date of August 20 to 25 as the time to quit irrigating High Plains cotton.

County Agent Joe Jones this week warned cotton farmers that it will be a great temptation for them to continue to irrigate after the normal "deadline", because of the danger of either late-season rains or a wet, cool fall.

The memory of 1955 is still fresh in the minds of many cotton growers. That year they watered up into September, only to find their crops in the middle of a cool, wet fall which would not allow the plants to properly mature. Then when the freeze came, the yield and quality of the crop was reduced to an all-time low for irrigated acreage.

"It has been proven through the years that anytime you irrigate High Plains cotton after the recommended stopping date, you are gambling with nature on making a good crop—and the odds are against the farmer," points out Jones.

Sometimes the gamble pays off. It would have last year, when beautiful fall weather matured the cotton under ideal conditions. But getting caught with late and immature cotton greatly reduces profits, and agricultural authorities advise against gamble-irrigating.

I have seen cucumbers growing without the benefit of rich land available in Parmer County, and on soil that is only mediocre, a small patch of cucumbers will produce more pickles than Peter Piper can pick.

Cucumbers are generally planted on rows about eight feet apart, cultured something like watermelons, and require considerable attention only at picking time, for the vines will quit bearing if mature cucumbers are left unpicked.

I hope to give you more on the story before long.

Over the weekend, we had occasion to visit most of the South Plains area, from Littlefield to Lubbock, then south and southwest through the Brownfield and Denver City area. As a whole, we have never seen that area look as good as it does right now.

Crops, though rather late, are doing fine in nearly all cases, and they appear to have a bumper crop (for them) of grain sorghum already made. The cotton, too, appears in excellent condition, although cotton is one product that is very difficult to evaluate from a moving car, as any farmer knows.

Just a little bit of moisture, such as has come this year, makes the South Plains region truly an agricultural marvel, because their clean, open fields—characteristic of the entire Plains area—can yield a bountiful harvest.

But were it not for above-normal moisture for this time of year, the South Plains would look hard-bitten, for their irrigation water is certainly running thin.

We saw an eight-inch well just outside Lubbock on the Brownfield highway that was pumping an unbelievable amount of water. We stopped to see if perhaps the engine was not failing, but it seemed to be operating satisfactorily. The water in the bottom of the pipe was a little deeper than the end joint of our first finger—about an inch. We'd hate to see our farmers trying to raise a crop with a stream like that.

Surprisingly enough, most of their fields are weed-free. At least, they look clean compared to some of our earlier-planted stuff. We hate to say it, but Parmer County has more weed crops than any place we've seen this year.

It would surprise you to see how much sesame there is in the Parmer County area this year. We published early estimates that ran from 2,000 to

The Parmer Farmer

I just got through reading in your report what you called some relatively fresh ideas in the field of cotton marketing and producing that were presented by Mr. Edelman at the Lions Club. I kind of got to wondering why some of these things seemed so fresh to the speaker, because we of the Farm Bureau have been advocating the program he talked about for the last several years, and he was cussing us and telling people they were crazy if they paid their dues in Farm Bureau.

This report program that he was telling about is the program made possible by what is called Public Law 480 which is the law that our legislative director Jack Lynn wrote and submitted to congress and the American Farm Bureau got passed several years ago. That is the one that lets the secretary of agriculture sell surplus products to foreign countries for their money, and then we can use that money to buy things they have that our country needs.

The National Cotton Council and Farm Bureau have been working together for a long time on getting cotton advertised and priced so it could keep synthetics from stealing our market and that is not new to most people.

Farm Bureau is trying now to get congress to allow cotton producers to vote on a referendum that would let them decide whether they want the present acreage controls with high parity or more acres with a little less parity. We think the lower price would sell enough more cotton so we could plant more and make more net profit at a little lower price. Congress is studying this proposal.

I am glad that lots of folks that used to be against Farm Bureau in things like this have decided maybe it was right. I know that Farm Bureau makes some mistakes, but we would like for people that have fought us to give some credit to the outfit that thought up the ideas they think might be good.

We are working on policies to be presented at the annual convention in October now, and anyone that has some good ideas about helping the farmer is welcome to tell us what they are, and maybe we can get them started to operating if a lot of other farmers think they are good too.

Yours truly,
Jack D. Patterson

2,500 acres, but now it appears that a figure of 3,000 would be a little more realistic.

Sesame seems to be doing exceptionally well this year, and if blooms mean anything, there is sure going to be a lot of seed made. Most farmers have mastered the knack of getting a good stand of the "new" oilseed crop, which, we understand, is quite a feat.

The idea most seem to be following is to seed heavily, fertilize liberally, and water often. It looks like it's the thing to do.

There is a renewed interest in growing seed instead of feed, too, as has been pointed out previously in this column. Hybrid grain sorghum is being produced in the area, as well as certified corn, sargo, and a few other crops.

By and large, there is every reason to believe in the future of growing seed on the High Plains. Many factors are in our favor. We have open country, where isolation is more easily arranged, we have clean, comparatively new land, fertility is excellent, the growing season is adequate, and of course, we can "control" our climate with those wonderful irrigation wells.

Our farmers are in the notion of adapting most any kind of farming that appears sound and reasonably profitable, and they have the equipment and the know-how to get the job done. Also, farm labor is becoming less of a problem as the area continues to settle up and more people are brought in.

FARWELL BAPTIST NEWS
Rev. E. J. Keith, Pastor

The pastor reports that the revival is progressing nicely and that good attendance has been noted for both morning and evening worship services. Rev. Keith says that the attendance of the young people has been wonderful and encourages all the youth to continue to attend and to continue their good work in the revival which they are leading.

On Wednesday afternoon, one addition had been made to the church by profession of faith, one person had surrendered for mission work and many rededications had been made.

Baptismal services will be held Sunday evening following the final service of the revival. Rev. Keith invites everyone to the remaining services of the meeting.

A goal for Sunday School attendance to break all previous records has been set for this Sunday. The previous high record is 235. Rev. Keith would especially like to invite all of those who do not attend Sunday School at any other church to be on hand this Sunday morning.

Thirty-five young people enjoyed the fellowship hour held at the church following the Tuesday evening service. Refreshments of doughnuts and pops were served. Another fellowship night is planned for Saturday night and all youth are invited.

A good group of young people were present for the presentation of a program on KCLV radio on Tuesday morning. Two choir numbers were presented with Jimmy Schell singing the solo in one. Martha Blair also sang a solo. Jerry Henson delivered a short message to close the program.

About 25 young people attended the special study courses held Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. Jerry Henson was the leader for the study periods at which further plans for the current revival were made.
