Farwell To Welcome Olympic Torch Caravan

The Olympic Torch will be passing through the cities of Farwell and Texico on Sunday, June 17.

Farwell City Council laid plans at its Monday afternoon meeting to have the citizens of the community to greet the Caravan accompanying the Olympic Torch on its trek from New York to Los Angeles.

According to information released by the Torch Committee, the procession will pass through Farwell and Texico the afternoon of Sunday, June 17. Present plans call for the Caravan members to have lunch in Farwell City Park.

Council members voted to provide iced tea and lemonade for refreshments, and are asking all local and area residents to come to the park and greet and meet the members of the Caravan.

The support/supply caravan of 34 vehicles will consist of at least 26 special vehicles provided by General Motors Corporation. They will carry some 80 support personnel who will assist the runners with communications, medical, dining and kitchen facilities, as well as security along the route.

There will be over 4,000 participants in carrying the Olympic Flame from New York to Los Angeles.

The historic 1984 Olympic Torch Relay was scheduled to enter Texas on June 13, and pass through Dallas, Fort Worth and Lubbock as the Olympic Flame makes its way to Los Angeles to start the Games of the XXIII Olympiad.

Texas is one of 32 states and the District of Columbia included in the 82-day Olympic Torch Relay route, according to Phil Bode, media relations manager in Austin for AT&T Communications, the official sponsor of the Relay.

The Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee (LAOOC), announced the official cross-country route which will cover more than 8,700 miles.

The coast-to-coast Relay began in New York the morning of May 8 and ends July 28 when the final torchbearer lights the Olympic cauldron in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, signaling the opening of the Games.

"We're pleased that Texas will be one of the 32 states that will have the opportunity to host the 1984 Olympic Torch Relay," said Bode. "AT&T and the Los Angeles Committee will be working with local groups and governments to develop activities and celebrations to mark the passing of the flame through our areas."

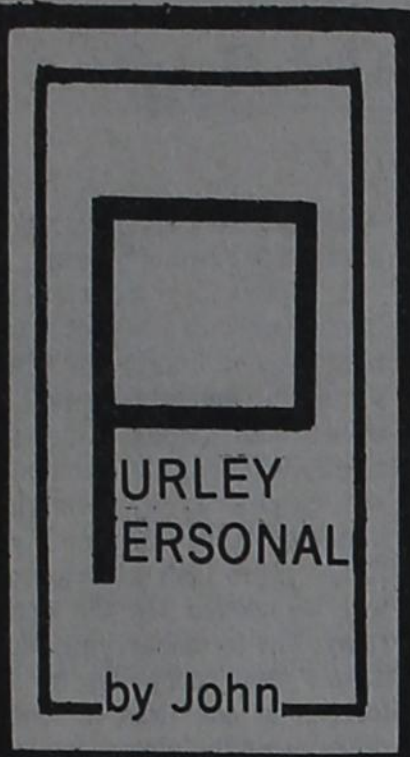

By tradition, the sacred flame that will be relayed across the country will be kindled in a ceremony that dates back to 776 B.C. in which the sun's rays are reflected over Mount Olympus.

From that point, this year's Olympic Torch Relay becomes an exercise that has challenged 20th-Century technological and human capabilities.

The 82-day odyssey will be the result of thousands of hours of planning and scheduling; participation of thousands of volunteers; the use of state-of-the-art AT&T computers and programming techniques, and the collective expertise of major American corporations that are supporting the event.

There is nothing wrong with the Twin Cities that a trip to some of our neighboring communities won't cure. In this case we are referring to our last weekend junket to Gallup, New Mexico. We will admit it was scenic but feel that a constant exposure to a dry, sere, and rock-studded landscape would soon pall.

We did enjoy our stay in the far western New Mexico community and met some great folks, as there are anyplace, but came back home to these baldies with a real appreciation for the High Plains. Nature did not make us a land of milk and honey, but the hand of man has brought us a long way.

Our reason for going to Gallup was the State Convention of Lions Clubs of New Mexico. That weekend was also the beginning of Gallup's annual rodeo and civic bash. They had their big parade on Saturday afternoon, and there were over 50,000 spectators present, mostly from the adjacent reservations. We recalled Custer's immortal words.

As usual in this country, the wind blew all the way over and all the way back. Unfortunately, both times we were out of step with it.

The City Council is making plans to welcome the Olympic Flame caravan in Farwell this Sunday, June 17. It will be quite a cortege of people and vehicles and one well worth seeing.

We don't know how world shaking an event it will be, but we feel fairly sure it will be the only one that will ever come through this community, and will be worthwhile to see as well as meet many of the folks.

We note in Putt Powell's column in the Amarillo paper that he mentions this Olympic trek and says that it will go from Lubbock and pass through Melrose on the way to Albuquerque.

He could have said "Mule-shoe" but probably remembers Dirk West's problems with Jenny Slipper some years back. He could have said Farwell, Texico, or Clovis but probably expects some letters from these towns complaining about his choice of words. We're going to consider the source and ignore it.

Well it rained in the Twin Cities area. In fact it hailed quite a bit along with the welcome moisture. We do not have a complete report on hail damage as yet but can say that the rain was not very wide spread.

At this time of the year, we get these typical thunder storms that are intense over a small area and produce nothing but noise and wind for everybody else.

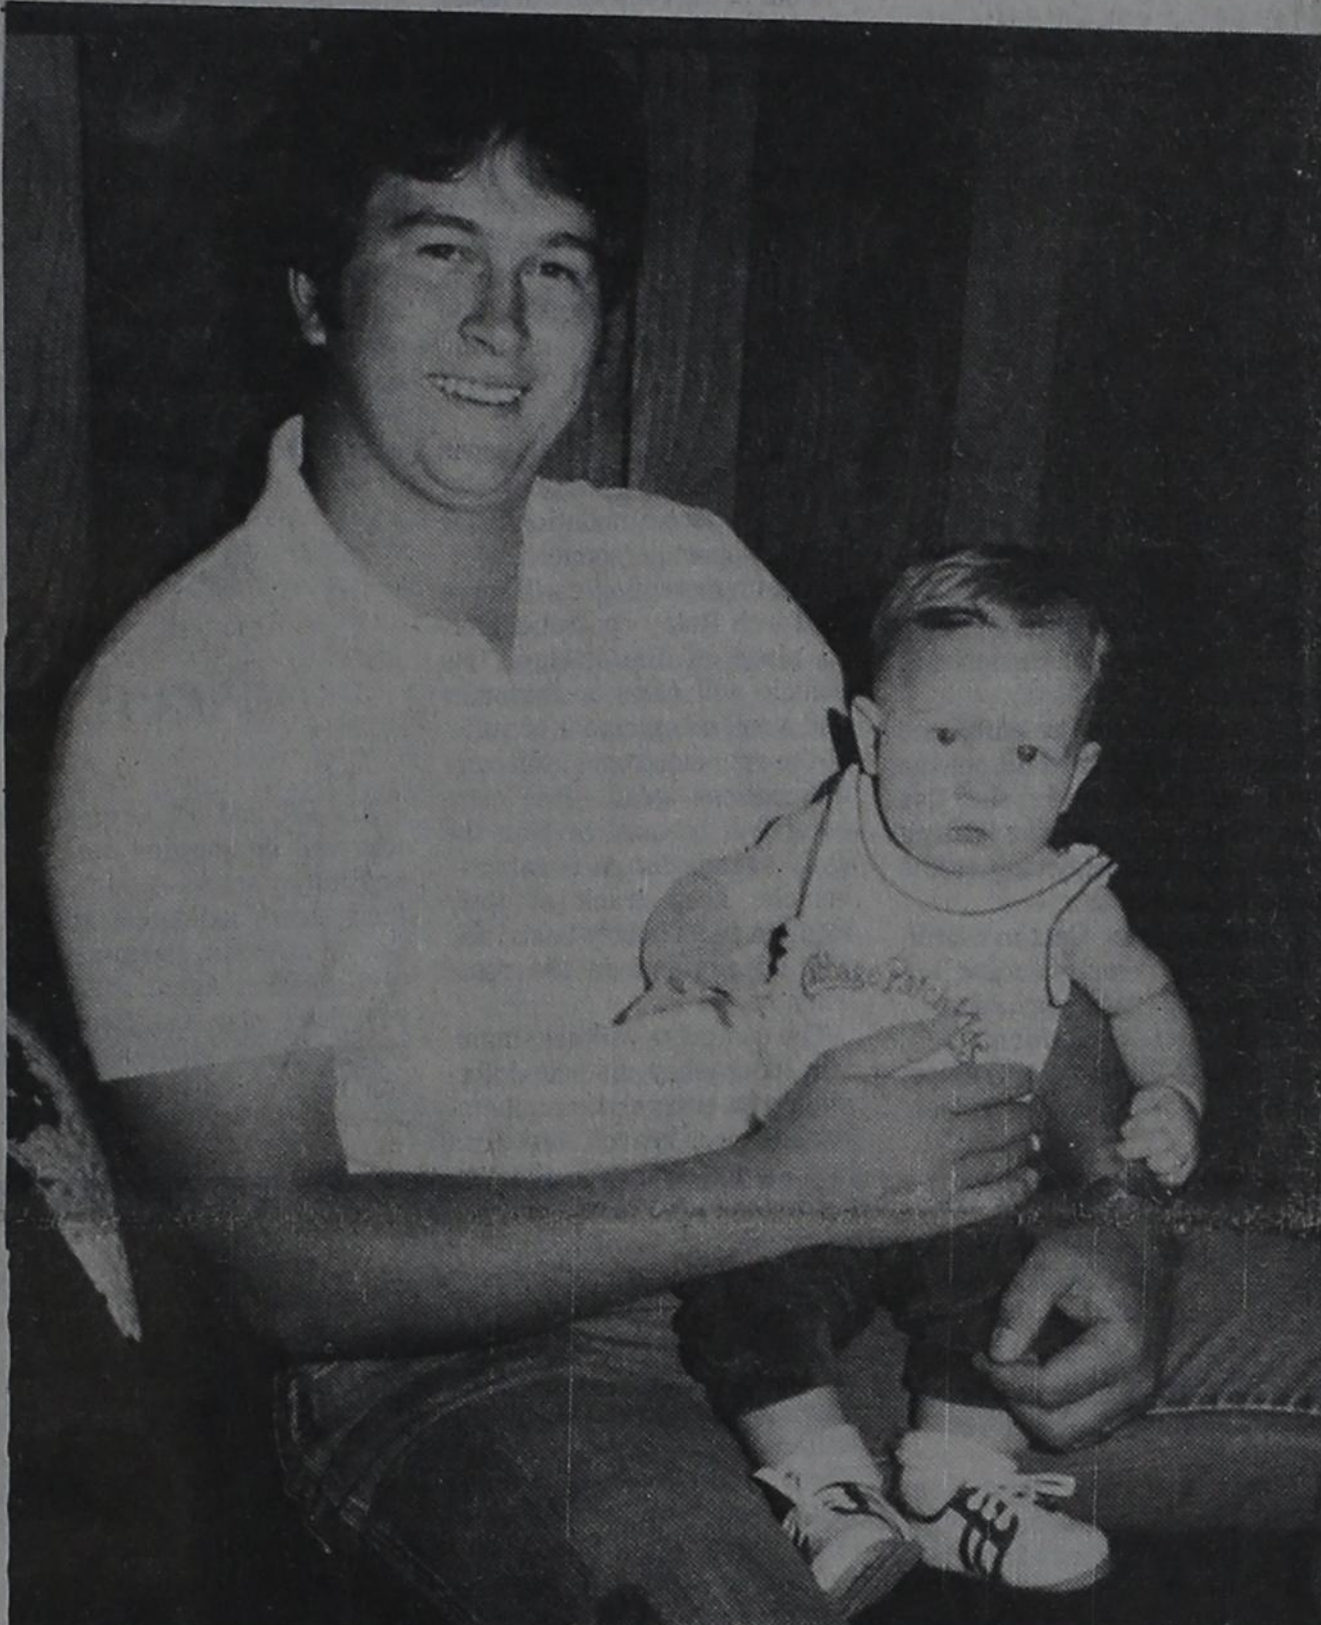

Also we note the TV stations are tuning up to scare the pants off everybody with their storm and tornado warnings. We rely on the local fire department siren warning before getting ourselves in high gear.

The communications between the law enforcement agencies is very close and they will keep us informed of immediate danger. Panic is the greatest problem for all communities.

Wait for the local siren. Take your steps for protection then, and by all means stay out of automobiles. Prepare a place beforehand and keep cool and you will survive most any emergency.

Did you hear about the great frozen archeological find in Siberia? It wasn't a mastodon as first thought, only the 1980 Russian hockey team.

Those folks who long for the good of days either weren't there or have very poor memories.

Father's Day Joy

Six-month-old Gaylen Sudderth will get his first chance to wish his Dad Daren a Happy Father's Day this Sunday, June 17. Daren, who is especially looking forward to celebrating the occasion with his new son, must be feeling somewhat like his own father did 24 years ago, when Daren helped him celebrate by being born on Father's Day. Father's Day is a day traditionally set aside each year to honor all fathers.

Pools Open For Summer

The area swimming pools have opened for the summer with youngsters and adults alike enjoying the fun.

Texico City pool is being managed by James Harding for this summer. According to Harding, the pool will be open Tuesday through Friday and on Sunday from 1:55-3:30 p.m. MDT, and on Saturday from 10 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. It will be closed on Monday.

Admission fees are $1.00 for children under 12, and $1.50 for children over 12 and adults. Swimming lessons will be given at the end of this month, says Harding, and the pool will be available for private parties. For more information on booking a private party, contact Harding.

Farwell Country Club swimming pool has also opened for the summer and, according to a country club spokesman, the pool will be open seven days a week from 2-7 p.m. Swimming lessons will be given sometime in the near future, but a date has not been determined.

The pool will be open to members only, says the spokesman, unless they bring an out-of-town guest. Guests who live in Clovis or within a 10-mile radius from Texico, Farwell, or Bovina will not be allowed.

Shooting Death Accidental

According to the report from the Parmer County Sheriff's Department, Robert Adams, 41, of Route 2, Friona, was killed June 5, by accidental gun shot. He was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Wayne Spears. His death has been ruled as accidental. Adams was placing a high-powered rifle behind his pickup seat when it accidentally discharged, striking him in the chest.

In other reports from the sheriff's office, vandalism took a large toll in the county.

Friona Country Club reported that during the early morning hours of June 5, damage was done to its golf course. A golf cart was driven across several of the greens, tearing up the turf and breaking some flags. Approximate damage was reported at $2,000.

Farwell Public Schools reported that on Saturday night, June 9, or during the early morning hours on Sunday, vandalism occurred at the school. Damaged was an air conditioner at the field house, a sign at the cafeteria, and a trailer used to haul trash was turned over. Also, a window was broken out on the east side of the gym. Replacement cost was unknown.

Texico Junior Class Workday Is Saturday

Members of next school term's Texico Junior Class will have a "hoeing" day tomorrow (Saturday) at the Meeks farm south on the State Line Road.

All class members need to be at the farm for the workday between 7-7:30 a.m. MDT, says Ronnie Warmuth, class sponsor.

"Bring a hoe and a cold drink," advises Warmuth, "and be ready to go to work." All class members are urged to show up, and Warmuth says that parents are welcome to assist.

The "hoeing" day is being held to raise funds for next year's Junior-Senior banquet.

For further information, contact Warmuth or Coach David Lynn.

Councilmen Decline To Sign TV Cable Contract

At the regular Farwell City Council meeting in the City Hall Monday evening, the Farwell City councilmen declined to sign the television cable franchise contract between McCaw Cablevision and the City of Farwell, even though the cities of Texico and Clovis have signed the contract.

This franchise agreement has been under discussion by McCaw and the city council for the past several weeks and, according to Mayor Walter Kaltwasser, the cable television services by McCaw would be terminated unless the City agreed to the new franchise agreement.

In the operations of the City of Farwell, the two city councilmen vote on City actions. The mayor votes only in case the two councilmen split on an issue, resulting in a tie. Then the mayor breaks the deadlock with his vote.

City Councilmen Fred Chandler and Jerry Monk declined to commit the City to the terms of the proffered franchise contract agreement. The two councilmen were in agreement that the length of the contract was for too long a duration, 25 years with a 25-year option.

In addition, the two councilmen said that the cable company was obligating itself only to providing viewing for the three major TV networks, and did not require the cable operators to provide, in the long term, the extended services as it is presently doing.

Chandler and Monk said that after surveying a number of area cities that have cable television franchises in effect, they were not satisfied with the three percent fee paid to the City, based on the amount of money collected by the company from its basic charge schedule.

Both councilmen have spent many long hours visiting and contacting nearby cities in regard to their cable television franchises. Neighboring cities receive the percentage fee on all cable charges, not only on just the basic charge. They feel the new contract is not in the best interest of the City of Farwell and its residents.

The two men have no quarrel with the monthly rate charged or the services rendered to subscribers by the cablevision company. They feel that all charges are fair and reasonable.

At the previous city council meeting, the city dads submitted a few options in the new franchise contract that they felt the cablevision company should review and consider. However, company officials present at the meeting declined to discuss the matter. In view of the fact that the television company has not offered to make any concessions in modifying its franchise contract terms, according to the councilmen, and that without some change in the pact, they,

the councilmen, felt that they could not sign the residents of Farwell to this agreement.

Councilmen Monk and Chandler both feel that their past record is proof of their desires to act in the best interests of the residents of the City of Farwell.

It is their judgement that the cable franchise agreement as offered to the City is not in the best long term interest of the citizens. Therefore, they are refusing to ratify the agreement until such changes are agreed to by both parties.

Some Hail Damage - -

Varying Amounts Rain Falls

Rainfall in varying amounts from almost a cloudburst to only a trace fell in the Twin Cities area Tuesday night, and heavy damaging hail to only very light to no hail at all was reported.

Rain gauges at Sherley-Anderson-Pitman in Farwell and at the Walter Curd home in Texico showed from one inch to 1.3 inches of rainfall.

Hail damage was heavy in the cities, falling off and on for 1½ hours. Cars were dented, planted gardens were pounded into the ground, and trees were stripped of their leaves.

The Pike Jordan farm south of Farwell received about 2½ inches of rain and extensive hail damage, but the Ted Magness farm nearer to Farwell received about one inch and very little hail.

Lonnie McFarland at Sherley-Anderson Elevator at Lariat reported only about .2 inch of rain and no hail. At the Harold Carpenter farm in Oklahoma Lane only a trace of rainfall and very little hail was reported.

North of town at the Gerald Norton farm, very little rain fell with very light hail.

Hardly any rainfall and no hail fell on Bovina, and the same goes for Clovis to the west.

While other spotted areas may have received rain and hail from the Tuesday night storm, no damage has been reported.

The general consensus is that any amount of rainfall is welcomed and farmers could use a lot more, but without the hail.

Oh, They're Cold!

Little Kristopher Norton of Farwell, 14 months of age, was not out during the storm which hit the city and area Tuesday night, but he is attempting to pick up the large hail stones which Momma Kim had gathered and put in her freezer. The stones are much too large and cold to be much fun for Kristopher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Norton. Varying amounts and sizes of hail hit the area, with some serious damage reported.

Carrying Olympic Torch

Runner Kate Washburn and Daniel Randazzo are among approximately 4,000 participants carrying the Olympic flame from New York City to Los Angeles. The Olympic Torch Relay will pass through Farwell and Texico Sunday, June 17. Caravan members presently plan to stop at Farwell City

Park for lunch, and all local and area residents are urged to come to the park to welcome and meet the runners and the some 80-member support personnel. It will be a chance of a lifetime to view an event of such magnitude. The City of Farwell will provide iced tea and lemonade for everyone. The pictured runners are employees of AT&T, sponsor of the historic event. A fleet of 26 GMC trucks and specially-equipped motor homes provide logistical support for the Relay which concludes at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum July 28, to start the Games of the XXIII Olympiad.

Olympic Caravan . . .

"Nothing like it has ever been attempted," said Bode. "It's a first in Olympic history and a first for everyone involved in its design and execution."

More than 2,000 individual torchbearers will carry the flame as part of a fundraising program to benefit athletic programs for major youth clubs and the Special Olympics. Any person or group can sponsor a runner to carry the torch for one kilometer for a cost of $3,000, with more than 85 percent of that money going back to the sponsor's community.

A cadre of more than 200 experienced runners selected from AT&T and the former Bell System will accompany or carry the torch for the entire 14,000 kilometers of the route. The Relay will cross mountains and deserts and encounter the problems of crowded urban streets, unforeseen detours, and a myriad of weather conditions.

To support and supply the Relay runners, AT&T and the LAOOC have tapped the resources of some of the country's leading organizations.

The Telephone Pioneers of America—the world's largest volunteer service organization—has meticulously mapped out every inch of the Relay route. Members will drive caravan vehicles, coordinate the runners' schedules, shuttle supplies, and act as route marshals through every city and town along the Relay.

The support/supply caravan of 34 vehicles will consist of 26 GMC motor homes, trailers and trucks that will house and feed the cadre of runners and technical personnel, as well as a fleet of security and shuttle cars provided by Buick.

ARA Services will cater and serve more than 150 meals each day, in addition to nutritious snacks, and provide housekeeping services for 82 days.

Other sponsors include United Airlines, which will transport both the flame and the cadre torchbearers, and Levi Strauss and Converse, which will outfit all Relay participants.

"AT&T is proud to underwrite and execute an event that will leave a multi-million-dollar legacy for youth athletic programs as well as bring the 1984 Olympics to the people of Texas via the Olympic Torch Relay," Bode said.

Accidental Death . . .

Danny Branson of Farwell reported that two mud and snow tires mounted on chrome spoke wheels were taken from his residence sometime over the weekend. Approximated loss was listed at $140.

On June 9, Juanita Guadalupe Flores, 30, of Dodge City, Kan., was brought to Farwell by sheriff's officers on a charge of violation of probation. Her case is pending in District Court.

Border Town Days queen contestants are needed.

All girls who will be attending either Texico or Farwell high schools during the 1984-85 school year are invited to compete in this year's BTD Queen Contest, says Joann Getz, chairman.

A major change has been announced for this year's contest. The contestants will not be required to perform a talent. They will still be judged on personality, as well as poise at a noon luncheon by out-of-town judges and at one other planned event with the judges to be announced later.

"We use out-of-town judges so that in no way will partiality be shown to any girl or either town in selecting our new queen," Mrs. Getz explained.

The contestants will be introduced in the gazebo at Farwell City Park during the activities Saturday afternoon, July 28, but they will not perform a talent. The new BTD Queen will be revealed and crowned a short time later.

The change was initiated so that many more girls, who don't believe that they have a talent, will enter the contest. "All the young girls in the Twin Cities have a very special talent," says Mrs. Getz, "which is shown through their personalities and friendliness, but some just don't care to perform before such a large audience."

With this change, it is hoped that more girls will participate in the fun activities the week before the annual celebration. "Not only is it an honor to represent the Twin Cities as Miss Border Town Days Queen throughout the year, but we want it to be a fun time," Mrs. Getz says.

The only requirements for a girl to enter the contest are that she must be in high school next year either at Texico or Farwell, must never have been married, and have a sponsor who will provide the $10 entry fee.

Mrs. Getz has been contacted by many area organizations seeking a contestant to sponsor, so queen candidates need not worry about obtaining a sponsor as they are available.

In addition to naming the 1984-85 BTD Queen, a first, second, and third runnerup will also be named.

If for any reason the queen should not be able to serve the entire year, or if she should get married in which case she must relinquish her title, then the first runnerup would take over the reign; or if necessary, then the second or third runnerup in that order.

Those wishing to enter the contest are asked to fill out the entry blank located inside this week's issue, and bring it along with a picture of herself to the State Line Tribune.

Assisting Mrs. Getz in coordinating this year's contest are Pam Smith and Peggy Jones.

For further information, phone Mrs. Getz at the Tribune, 481-3681, or at home evenings, 481-9123.

Texico City Council Has Short Session

Texico City Council met in regular session Tuesday night at the city hall for a brief session.

Approval was given to publish a notice on an ordinance that is to be passed, and also to publish the ordinance on the personnel policy recently accepted by the council.

Lee Tillman, representative of EPCOG, spoke to council members on the EPCOG program, asking the council to join. A decision on rejoining EPCOG was tabled until a quorum was present.

The Council then gave approval for Duane Hamar, city attorney, to attend the Municipal Attorney's Association meeting in Albuquerque, for Mickey Fenn, city marshal, to attend the New Mexico Police Chief's Association, also in Albuquerque, and for Billy Hammit, city water superintendent, to attend a short school in August.

Bills were approved for payment and the judge's report was accepted.

Present were Mayor John Hadley, Councilmen Lewis Cooper, Bryan Kube, Steve Chancy, city employees Duane Hamar, Billy Hammit, Mickey Fenn, and Glenda Thigpen; and Lee Tillman.

GMC Truck Provides Many Support Vehicles

The official truck of the 1984 Olympic Torch Relay, GMC Truck, will provide 26 support vehicles for the transcontinental relay. Since early 1983, GMC has been working with AT&T and the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee to create the most unique caravan in Olympic history.

A fleet of 14 specially designed GMC motor homes comprise the backbone of the ambitious cross-country trek. Built on the specially modified GMC B6P bus chassis, the vehicles have been designed from the ground up to meet the stringent demands of the relay, traveling 16 hours a day, often at speeds of just four to ten miles an hour, over every type of road, while providing comfortable accommodations for the relay runners and support personnel.

Four of the vehicles will house AT&T cadre runners. Each vehicle is fully equipped for life on the road, with a comfortable lounge and mini-kitchen, shower and lavatory, and sleeping quarters for four. Recreational amenities include a state-of-the-art Delco electronics stereo system, color TV, and Atari videogame system. Built-in racks will hold Olympic torches.

Four identical vehicles will provide accommodations for relay support personnel.

A ninth motor home will serve as Torch Relay control center. In place of the lounge, this vehicle will carry a computer and a full complement of state-of-the-art electronic telecommunications gear. The computer will be used to plan the daily agenda for each caravan vehicle, keep track of their location on an hourly basis, and plot adjustments in the route when necessary.

The computer will also maintain emergency medical information on every caravan member and torch bearer, as well as information on service stations, campgrounds, and supply sources.

Two motor homes will serve as offices for press and relay staff, with expanded lounge areas and work stations for four, including telephones, typewriters, a FAX machine and a Xerox copier, while two more will serve as eight-bunk dormitories.

The final motor home will be an emergency medical service vehicle, which will contain a doctor's examining room, complete with oxygen and suctioning equipment, heart monitoring devices and defibrillator, as well as an athletic training facility with a whirlpool bath, an industrial-sized ice maker for treating heat prostration, and an electrical muscle stimulator. At least one medical person will be on board at all times.

The 14 GMC motor homes are only a part of the GMC Olympic Torch Relay fleet.

Traveling a day in front of the runners will be an S-15 Jimmy that will carry the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee advance staff. The Jimmy will allow the advance staff to check on preparations along the relay route.

A Rally Van will perform a similar duty for the Telephone Pioneers of America day managers who will have day-by-day responsibility for managing the route.

Traveling directly behind the runner will be one of two specially modified Suburbans that will carry the Relay security personnel.

For their duty as security vehicles, they are fitted out with high-power lighting, amber emergency light bars, running boards and handholds, and additional interior lights, storage racks, and power outlets for emergency equipment. A third Suburban will function as a back-up medical emergency vehicle.

Two Vanduras modified to carry passengers instead of cargo will provide shuttle service among the Torch Relay caravan vehicles. A shuttle vehicle will drop off each runner at the starting point of his 4-mile segment and pick him up again at the end of his run.

A specially constructed Magnavan with a 14-foot aluminum body will carry the Olympic torches and propane fuel. As each Youth Legacy Kilometer runner will keep the torch he or she carries as a permanent memento of the Olympic Torch Relay, more than 4,000 torches will be needed for the entire relay. The torch-carrying Magnavan can carry up to 750 torches at one time in safety racks along its interior walls.

A rugged Top Kick truck with a van body will operate as a mobile service center for all the caravan vehicles. Staffed by two GMC mechanics, the truck will carry a complete supply of spare parts and maintenance equipment.

The GMC Top Kick is also equipped with a 20,000 pound winch, an engine hoist, and 130 gallons of spare fuel.

A C-3500 Cab & Chassis with a specially constructed stake bed body will be used by press photographers along the relay route.

For 82 days, from May 8 to July 28, the 26 vehicles of the GMC Olympic Torch Relay caravan will assist in the Olympic flame's historic journey to Los Angeles.

4-H, FFA Steers Need Validation

All 4-H and FFA members who will be showing steers at any major shows need to have their steers validated, advises Gary Patterson, Parmer County Extension Agent. "Even if you don't plan to attend any shows, things may change, so you need to have your steer validated, just in case," says Patterson.

There will be a small fee charged for film and tags.

The Steer Tagging will be held at Jerry London's pens between Bovina and Hub on June 20, starting at 8:00 a.m. Be there!

Area Vacation Bible Schools In Full Swing

With a couple behind us, a couple in progress, and a few still to come, the community Vacation Bible Schools are in full swing.

St. John Lutheran Church in Lariat led the way this week with the first day of VBS beginning last Sunday. School ends today (Friday) at 6 p.m., but a combined commencement service and picnic are slated for Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock for the scholars.

Oklahoma Lane Baptist and Methodist churches began their combined Vacation Bible School on Monday of this week, with commencement services planned for tonight (Friday) at 7:30 at the Oklahoma Lane Baptist Church.

Still to come are the Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church in Texico, and the Kids Day Out at Hamlin Memorial United Methodist Church.

Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church in Texico is scheduled to begin this Monday at 8:30 a.m. MDT, lasting until 11:30 a.m. each day through Friday. The bus will run each day, say church official, so if you want a ride, call the church office.

Attendance certificates will be handed out on Friday at the VBS hot dog luncheon set up for the students and their families which will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Two summer missionaries will also be teaching back yard Bible studies during VBS times for those who do not wish to attend class in the church. For more information, contact the church office.

A Kid's Day Out is planned at Hamlin Memorial United Methodist Church in Farwell on June 20. This one-day outing is set up so that kids kindergarten through the seventh grade may enjoy a day of worship, games, songs, and crafts.

The outing will be held in Ned Houk Park north of Clovis, and all attendees are reminded to please pre-register by June 17, and bring a sack lunch. The Kid's Day Out group is planning to leave the church by 9:15 a.m. to go to the park, and are planning to return by 4:30 p.m. Should weather not permit, the outing will be set for June 21 or 22.

Maybe I'll Survive

The wire cage around one of the tomato plants at the Neil Stewart home in Farwell didn't offer the plant much protection from the hail and rain storm which hit Tuesday night. But maybe the tall fence offered a bit more protection than other area garden plots had, and hopefully the tomato plants will survive. Throughout the city, cars were dented and trees were stripped of their leaves.

Sesquicentennial - -

Texas Cities, Counties Planning Celebrations

The Texas 186 Sesquicentennial Commission passed a new milestone in its efforts to organize the state of Texas' 150th birthday recently, with the sanction of 61 community and county master plans by the Commission at its quarterly meeting in Austin. The newly-sanctioned committees effectively double the size of the state's network of local planning committees, and represent the largest number of master plans ever acted upon by the Commission at one meeting.

The 61 master plans represent 35 cities and 28 counties, and bring the total number of sanctioned local planning organizations under the Commission's banner to 222 cities and 51 counties - indicating that now more than 60 percent of Texas' population is part of the official Sesquicentennial program.

"This tremendous increase reflects heightened levels of excitement and awareness all across the state," said Randy M. Lee, Sesquicentennial Commission executive director. "This has taken hundreds of dedicated people working together with one common goal, and will involve thousands of committed Texans by the time the celebration closes in December of 1986."

Texas has 1,126 incorporated cities and 254 counties. The Commission has a stated objective of developing local planning organizations to represent all 1,360 cities and counties by January, 1986. Lee noted that the deadline for communities and associations to submit dated events for the Official Guide to Sesquicentennial Events and Activities is December 31, 1984.

A community master plan is the document submitted by each local Sesquicentennial committee which details its membership, plans for use of the Sesquicentennial logo, and the itemized list of activities it will plan to celebrate and commemorate the Sesquicentennial.

The committees may represent individual cities or counties or may be a joint city/county effort. Once its master plan is officially sanctioned by the Sesquicentennial Commission, the city or county has earned the official title of Texas Independence Community or County.

The master plans submitted at the May meeting contain many exciting events and programs. Historical site renovations with live costumed reenactments are planned, and parks are to be established. Rodeos, fairs, and fiestas will abound.

Many communities are sponsoring a family day to encourage all past residents to visit their hometowns. Most cities and counties plan a special day to feature the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train as it passes through. Educational projects will involve everyone from pre-schoolers to grandchildren.

Fathers' Role in Families

The way you celebrate Father's Day - with a cake, special dinner, or gift for dad - may not change much over the years. But a father's role in the family has and continues to change.

Family relations experts tell us that one of the biggest changes in the father's role is parenting.

For years a father's parenting role has been considered secondary to his work, especially for men in professional and managerial positions or for ambitious men in any occupation. In addition, society has tended to equate womanliness with being a mother while fatherhood was less frequently associated with manliness.

But changes in both women's and men's roles are having an impact on fathering. For example, increasing numbers of fathers take an active role in preparing for childbirth and the actual delivery. Participation in all aspects of childrearing are being shared to a greater degree by both parents as well.

Many factors including divorce, the employment of women outside the home, and more leisure time have increased men's involvement with children. But perhaps the most significant factor is society's recognition that fathers have an important role to play in their children's lives.

Economist Outlines Basic '85 Farm Bill

Texas and U.S. farmers face three basic issues as they decide their stand on the 1985 farm bill, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Dr. Bill Black identifies these issues as follows:

1. Do farmers want to rely on government payments or market rewards for income?
2. To what extent are farmers committed to the export market?
3. Do farmers want to maintain the middle-sized family farm?

"Those who want to rely on government payments for their income will support high target prices," says Black. "But high target prices stimulate production, so these farmers must also accept tighter production controls through acreage diversions. In addition, they would support farmer-owned reserves."

On the other hand, farmers who want to rely on market rewards for pay should support lower loan rates so that commercial sales to foreign buyers can continue. In this situation, prices would control production while expanded crop insurance would protect against natural disasters, Black points out.

"Many farmers believe expanded agricultural exports can resurrect this country's faltering agricultural economy," Black says. "If they are sincerely interested in the export market, they can't have deep-cutting production controls and high loan rates. After all, you can't sell from an empty wagon."

Black also notes that a two-price plan may encourage export trade, where foreign sales would move out lower prices than prevail in the domestic market. Farmers who are not committed to the export market will support strict production controls and high loan rates, he adds.

"Perhaps the most critical choice farmers face in the mid '80s has to do with the medium-sized family farmer," contends Black. "This is the traditional full-time farmer who relies on farm product sales for his income. He has little or no outside income and depends on his family for labor. He has suffered from recent hard times in agriculture."

Programs that will keep the middle-sized family farmer in business are strict payment limitations, limited government loans to family farmers, mandatory production controls, marketing quotas, elimination of the cash-tax accounting system and progressive taxation by farm size. These ideas have been talked about for a long time, says the economist.

"Two things will kill the middle-sized family farmer - unlimited income subsidies and payments geared to production," says Black. "These programs help big producers the most."

Elayne Horner Attends New Mexico Girls State

by Leigh Ann Woods

Elayne Horner of Texico recently learned what it means to be a woman in politics when she attended New Mexico Girls State at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

Over 320 girls attended Girls State this year, which is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. Girls State is set up to provide the girls with the atmosphere of living in a 51st mythical state, in which they set up their own city, county, and state governments. They campaign and run for offices on each level, make their own laws, hold their own trials, attend legislative sessions, and more.

"I really had a fun time," said Elayne. "We really learned a lot about government procedures."

Upon their arrival, each girl was assigned to a city and a party. There were eight cities, two counties, and two parties, altogether. The two parties were the Federalist and the Nationalist. Elayne was a member of the Nationalist party, and a citizen of the city of Sage in Lincoln County.

During the first two days, Elayne said everyone was busy filing and running for various offices. Elayne was elected city clerk, and although she ran for State Corporate Commissioner, and won the primary, she lost in the general election.

Following the elections, the Governor of Girls State appointed Elayne as Director of the Financial Assistance Bureau.

As city clerk, she attended all city meetings and took minutes.

"We made a lot of posters, and gave and heard a lot of speeches during the first two days," said Elayne. "We attended party rallies and conventions, and participated in whistle-stop campaigns. Once all of the officers were elected, the state officers, including the governor, were all sworn into office, and we attended an inaugural banquet."

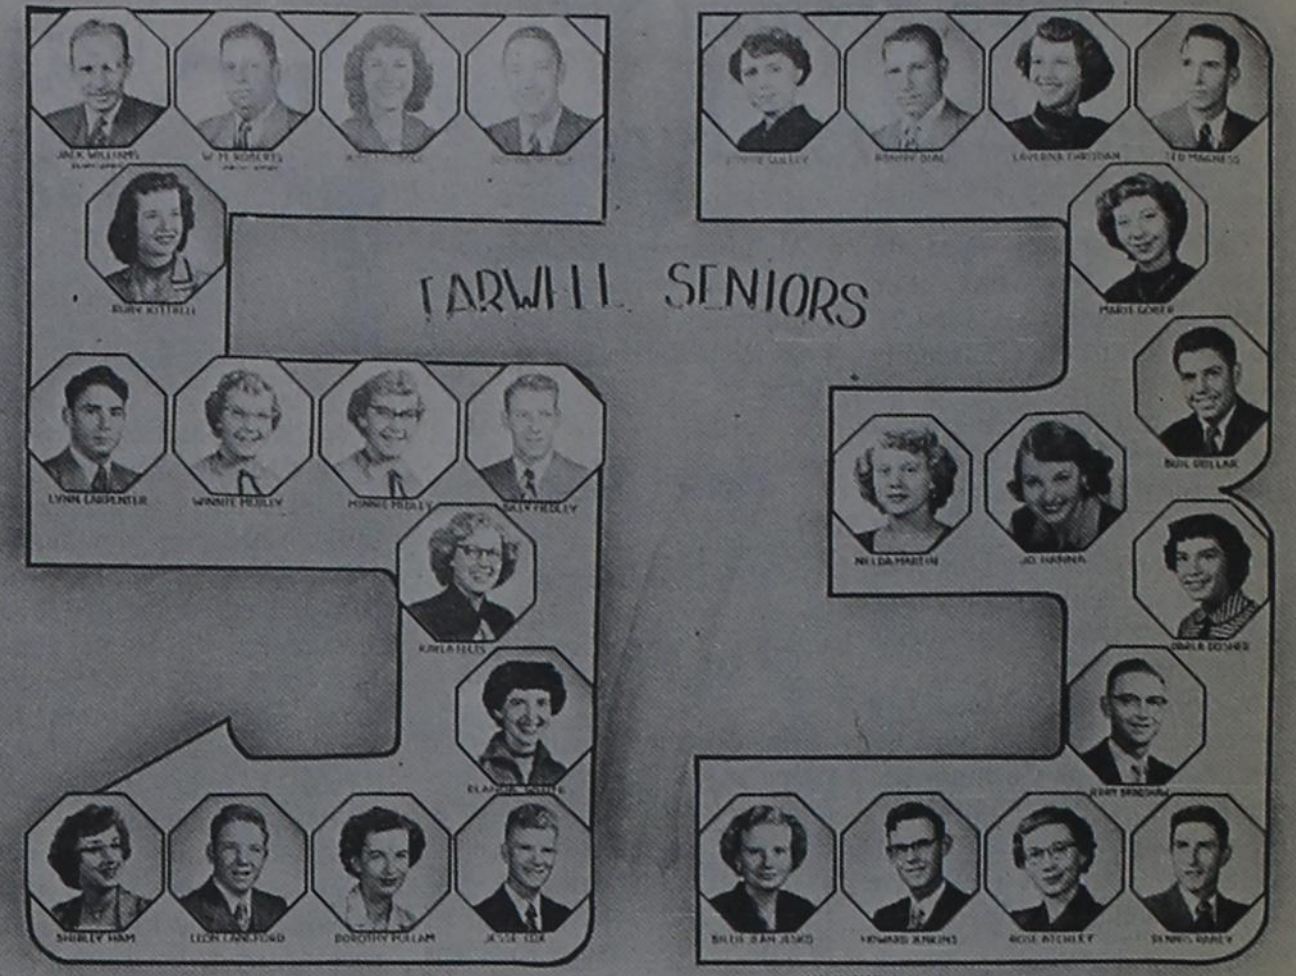

Following all of the whirlwind campaigning, Elayne said she really enjoyed participating in and helping build the government. "I really enjoyed seeing the government in action, and I really learned about parliamentary procedure," she said.

"We weren't allowed to attend senate and house hearings, but we were allowed to see the district court in action. We held a mock trial and threw someone into the county jail. We also held a mock marriage in which I was the groom. It was really funny."

All in all, Elayne said she had a really good time, and really enjoyed meeting new people. "I made a lot of new friends of all types, while I was there, and really learned a lot about the government. A lot more goes on in government than anyone realizes."

"I especially want to thank everyone who had a hand in helping me attend Girls State, it was a good experience," said Elayne.

Elayne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Horner of Texico.

Girls State Delegate

Elayne Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Horner of Texico, recently returned home from attending Girls State at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. During the session, Elayne was elected as city clerk, and was appointed by the Girls State governor as Director of the Financial Assistance Bureau. Elayne said she enjoyed the session very much and learned a lot more about government.

The Creative Woman

BY SHERYL BORDEN

On June 19 and 23, viewers of "The Creative Woman" show will learn about weight control through behavior modification, and cooking with dry beans, peas and lentils. Carolyn Ruiz is a counselor with Mental Health Resources, Inc. in Clovis-Portales. She will discuss how weight control can be changed through a change in a person's attitude or behavior.

Agnes Palmer, Extension home economist from Aztec, will discuss the importance of cooking with dry beans, peas and lentils. She'll talk about the different types of legumes available, why we should use legumes in our family meals, cooking methods available, and how to combine beans with other foods to make a complete protein.

On June 21 and 24, viewers can learn to sew with silks and silk-like fabrics, how to use rice salads in their meals, and some travel tips.

Sewing with Silks - Part I, will be presented by well-known sewing expert, Susan Pletsch, with Palmer/Pletsch Associates in Portland, Ore. The two-part series will be completed next week. She will discuss buying, pre-washing, rinsing, and drying the fabric, interfacing recommended for the sheer fabrics, and show garments made in various styles from silks and silk-like fabrics.

Diane Duncan, home economist with The Rice Council in Houston, suggests we let a tasty rice salad come to our rescue, whether we're cooking for family or friends, or need to carry a dish to another function. Rice not only saves money, but is easy to prepare and satisfying, too. She will prepare two rice salads on the show.

Did you know that women take more than 30-million business trips a year by air alone? Beginning this week, "The Creative Woman" show will feature a five-part series on the traveling business woman. Featuring the fashion, travel and beauty editors of Glamour Magazine, it will carry tips, trends, and facts about the business woman on the go. Maybe it will help you if you are planning a business or pleasure trip of your own.

Three topics will be presented on the show on June 16. These will include bread dough art, cheese souffles, and making perfect hems. Doris Greig, a homemaker from Lovington, will show an assortment of bread dough items and share some of her secrets for doing this art technique.

Courtesy of the American Dairy Association, viewers can learn to make perfect souffles. According to them, anyone who can make white sauce and beat egg whites can make a perfect souffle. A step-by-step demonstration, through slides, will be presented.

Betty Chalker, a sewing instructor from Atlanta, Ga., will show how to do a perfect hem. It is the same technique used on expensive ready-to-wear, and it really is a time saver, too.

"The Creative Woman" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs at 12 noon MDT on Tuesday and Thursday, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, and at 5 p.m. on Sunday on KENW-TV.

Bob Wieland - -

Man Without Legs 'Walks For Hunger'

by Leigh Ann Woods

Twenty-one months ago, Bob Wieland left Knottberry Farm in California headed for the White House steps in Washington, D.C. Since then, Bob has walked on his hands over 1,105 miles of this country, approximately 40 percent of the way.

Bob, 38, lost his legs 13 years ago while serving his country with the U.S. Army in Vietnam. He swings his body with his arms, using his padded hands as his feet.

Last week, Bob came through Texico trying to make the Texas-New Mexico state line before nightfall. He stops at night, staying in different homes along the way.

Bob is taking the walk, a Spirit of America "Walk for Hunger," in an effort to raise money to aid the poor and starving people in this world.

Although Bob's actual trek began 21 months ago, his purpose for making it began 15 years ago. An aspiring young athlete, Bob was in the process of negotiating a contract to play baseball with the Philadelphia Phillies when he was, instead, drafted by a different "team," Uncle Sam's team. Bob became a member of the U.S. Army 14th Battalion, 25th Infantry Division, and was sent to Vietnam.

"During my service in Vietnam," said Bob, "one of the most profound experiences was seeing the starving and diseased children rummaging through our burning garbage dumps for a few rotten scraps of food. I made friends with a few of these war casualties; as I held them in my arms I determined there and then that, by the grace of God, one day I would do something to help."

It was by the grace of God that Bob has this chance to help those people, he came home alive. But he didn't come home unscathed. While serving as a combat medic on a search and destroy mission, Bob's battalion walked into a horseshoe ambush.

With no way out and the battalion being fired upon, the soldiers were being injured and killed all around him. As Bob ran to help one of his friends who lay wounded, he stepped on and detonated an 82 millimeter mortar round. Bob lost his legs, but his life was spared.

After several major surgeries, several blood transfusions, a fever of 105 degrees, and a bout with malaria, Bob woke up to find his legs gone. Not one to stay down long, no matter what, Bob was soon working on getting out of the hospital and resuming a normal life. Most amputee victims spend an average of 12-18 months in the hospital, but Bob went home in six weeks.

Upon his return home, Bob found that weightlifting was a good rehabilitation tool, and he soon began entering amateur weightlifting competitions. Only eight years later, Bob successfully broke the world bantam weight bench pressing record by lifting 303 pounds while competing against able-bodied men.

Contest officials refused to acknowledge the win, however, citing a little known technicality which states that all competitors must wear shoes during a competition as their reason for disqualifying him.

Banned from competition, Bob didn't let his disappointment overwhelm him. He began searching for other physical ways to stay fit.

Bob holds degrees in Physical Education and Recreation. He served six years on the faculty of the California State University/Los Angeles Physical Education Department, coordinating strength and flexibility programs for athletes.

He entered wheelchair races and marathons as a way to keep fit. One afternoon, while working on his racing technique at a local astro-turf track, Bob decided to go it once around without the wheelchair, motivating himself with his hands. It was a long and exhausting struggle, but he made it.

It was this trip that gave Bob the inspiration for his "Walk for Hunger," and it was during a quiet time with God, that he received the encouragement he needed to make the journey, he said.

Bob originally hoped the trip would take only 14 months, but now he is hoping to make it in 34 months, and six million Bob Wieland "steps." He travels approximately five to seven miles each day, walking an average of six days per week.

He makes a trip home to Pasadena for a few days each month to spend time with his wife, Jackie. He also makes stops along the way to speak at various civic functions.

During the last few months of his journey, Bob has acquired a new friend, Marshall Cardiff, a pastor in Newport Beach, Calif., was in New Mexico serving as a regional sales manager of an irrigation sales company when he met Bob.

"God laid it upon my heart to quit my job and go with Bob. I went home, put my furniture in storage, and here I am," said Cardiff. "Bob has a deep conviction in him, and a lot to share. He's a very positive person, kid's just love him. He is doing a very wonderful thing."

The money Bob raises on this trip after expenses, says Cardiff, goes to several different relief programs such as Catholic Relief Services, Salvation Army, Save the Refugees, World Vision, and more.

Bob currently serves as chairman of the board of the Spirit of America, the non-profit organization which was formed to sponsor his walk for hunger. It is this organization that carefully disburses the money Bob raises into these well-known organizations.

Through the forming of the Spirit of America organization, and the "Walk for Hunger," Bob has fulfilled the promise he made to himself to help those starving Vietnamese children that he had held in his arms, and children around the world like them, and has turned it into a reality.

"This 'Walk for Hunger' is my opportunity to help not only those children, but thousands of people here in America and around the world," says Bob. "Through faith in God, determination, and dedication, there's nothing a person can't achieve."

"I am grateful to Adidas company for its support and to the people of New Mexico, as we pass into Texas, for all of the love that they have poured out to us," added Bob. "We are looking forward to meeting the people of Texas."

"Walking" For Hunger

Thirty-eight-year-old Bob Wieland recently passed this way on his Spirit of America "Walk for Hunger." Bob left California 21 months ago determined to "walk" his way to the steps of the White House on his hands in an effort to raise money to aid the starving people in this world. Bob, who lost his legs while serving in the Vietnam war, is making the journey by motivating his body with his arms and hands.

Four Local Gymnasts Compete At State Meet

On May 4-6, the Gymnastics Elite team traveled to San Antonio to compete in the U.S.G.F. 1984 Boys State Championship competition.

Team members who had previously qualified to attend this meet were Greg Ackinson, Jonas Hernandez, and Andy Hughes of Farwell; Stephen Benedict of Clovis, and Corey Mitchell of Bovina. Andy Hughes was unable to compete, however, due to an injury he received working out at another club.

Coach Clay Burch, founder of Gymnastics Elite, said, "This was the best state competition we have ever performed in. We had basically a brand new team this year. Stephen and Corey had both just started gymnastics this year and even though Greg and Jonas were repeat performers from last year, Greg had moved up a class and the routines he threw were new to him. He really didn't have enough time to prepare for this meet but he made an outstanding showing."

"As for Jonas, this was only the fourth U.S.G.F. competition he has been in. We were competing against teams that have had three or four years experience with these same routines. Each of the boys who competed did an excellent job. Each one of them missed placing in their individual events only because of lack of meet experience. We had all the tricks, style, and form, but the gymnasts had not performed in enough meets to mentally prepare them for the state competition.

"Next year all of these same gymnasts will be returning, along with some who weren't lucky enough to qualify this year. We are looking forward to having a very tough and seasoned team for next year's state championship."

According to Coach Burch, the Gymnastics Elite club has also competed in two other meets during May, one in Plainview, and one in Lubbock.

"The Plainview meet caught us unaware," said Coach Burch. "May was a very hectic month with the state meet, baseball season, and the end of school coming all at once. We only had two days to get ready for the meet, and only 19 of our team members were able to travel and compete. We did, however, perform up to our usual standard with all but five gymnasts capturing first place honors in their categories."

"The Lubbock meet, I feel, was the best showing our boys and girls teams have ever made. The boys were just getting over the vigorous state competition and the Plainview meet from the previous week. However, they each made an outstanding showing with near perfect routines, and parents and judges alike congratulated them on their performance."

"Corey Mitchell swept his age group with first place finishes in each event with a score of 9.0 on the rings. He won first place overall with a score of 49.0. Jonas Hernandez took first place in a few different events and third place in two others. He had a first place all around score of 47.0. He also had high score on the rings with 9.5."

"Stephen Benedict placed third in every event and the all around behind two very experienced gymnasts from Muleshoe. We had two six-year-old beginners who competed for their very first time. Ross Stewart took sixth on the side horse and Kevin Mitchell placed fourth on the rings, fifth on the side horse and parallel bars, and sixth on the high bar."

"I was extremely proud of our girls team. They looked more mature and professional than any other team there. Debbi Schwerdt swept her age group with near perfect first place performances in every event.

She had suffered a slight hip injury the previous week during workout but was able to overcome and ignore the pain and win the all around. She was ten points ahead of the second place over-all competitor."

"Kimi Schwerdt and Misty Stewart competed in the same age and ability group. They both placed on each event which was the first time that has happened. Both girls are new competitors in U.S.G.F. with only two previous meet experiences. They also both stand a good chance of qualifying for next year's state meet."

"Elizabeth Galvan and Joni Hernandez also competed in the same age group. This was the first time either of the girls had competed on equipment. Even though neither of them placed in an event, they both showed a maturity and professionalism like I have never seen before in girls that age. Even though it will be extremely tough for them to qualify for the state meet, they have shown enough self initiative and drive to be able to place in the different meets we attend this summer."

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Farwell school system. If it hadn't been for their backing and understanding and support of Gymnastics Elite, we would have had a less prestigious season. From myself, the gymnastics parents, and the Gymnastics Elite students, thank you.

Congratulations to all the gymnasts in Gymnastics Elite for an outstanding season and good luck next year."

"Middle age is having a choice of two temptations and choosing the one that will get you home earlier."

The beaten stalks of onions and pounded stems of peas are all that remains in the thriving garden of the Joe Lovato family at the corner of Avenue F and Third Street in Farwell. In the background of the garden patch is the remains of rows of two-foot corn. Hail from golf ball size to pea size fell off and on for 1½ hours Tuesday night along with 1.3 inches of rain. Varying amounts of rain and hail fell throughout the area, but the city proper was one of the areas hardest hit.
