Soviets Liberate Prague As Fighting Drags On

Nazis Surrender French Ports; Moscow Rejoices

By ROMNEY WHEELER
LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Russian troops and tanks, striking swiftly by night from the north, liberated Prague at 4 a. m. today—four hours after the official deadline for all Germans to lay down their arms—Premier Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Warfare between Germans and Russians apparently continued beyond the time set for complete cessation of hostilities. Earlier today, a station calling itself the Prague radio said German planes bombed the Czechoslovak capital and three other points in the republic shortly after Russian troops had entered Prague.

Stalin declared "troops of the First Ukrainian front, as a result of a swift night maneuver by tank formations and infantry, having smashed enemy resistance, today, May 9, at 4 a. m. liberated from the German invaders the capital of our ally, Czechoslovakia, the city of Prague."

He ordered a salute in Moscow of 24 salutes from 324 guns. Hostilities in Europe officially ended at 12:01 a. m. battlefront time. At about the same time the Germans surrendered the three French Atlantic ports, St. Nazaire and La Rochelle. A French communique said they had been occupied. The only Germans remaining unsundered on French soil were some 12,000 at Dunkerque, the channel port through which the British expeditionary force escaped in 1940.

About 79,000 Germans were believed to have yielded in the three surrendered ports—all important submarine bases when German undersea raiders threatened Allied victory.

Russians joyously proclaimed the unconditional surrender of Germany before dawn, 19 hours after President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill proclaimed V-E Day following Germany's capitulation at Gen. Eisenhower's advanced headquarters at Reims in France early Monday. A formal ratification of the surrender took place in Berlin yesterday.

Actions such as the reported last gasps at Prague are outlawed under surrender edicts, and German participants may be treated as francs-tireurs—subject to summary execution.

The unconfirmed Czechoslovak broadcast said Prague and three other points in Czechoslovakia were attacked by air. Melnik, Kralupy and a Jewish concentration camp at Terezin, 40 miles north of Prague, were said to have been bombed.

The station did not say where the German planes came from. The possibility was not overlooked that the entire situation might be a German trick in an attempt to get the western Allies to attack the Russians.

The patriot radio earlier had said last-ditch Nazis SS fanatics reopened fire at 1:50 a. m. (7:50 p. m. Eastern War Time Tuesday), almost two hours after the agreed deadline for cessation of hostilities.

Vinson Orders Curfew Lifted

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Immediate lifting of the midnight entertainment curfew and the ban on horse and dog racing was announced today.

Fred M. Vinson, director of war mobilization and reconversion, said that the action was effective as of today and quipped: "The curfew shall not ring tonight."

He told a news conference that the lifting of the ban on race meets did not affect restrictions of the Office of Defense Transportation on the shipment of race horses, and referred inquiries respecting these restrictions to ODT officials.

Captured Goering Claims Adolf Hitler Had Sentenced Him To Die

PARIS, May 9 (AP)—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Field Marshal Albert Kesselring have been taken in custody of the U. S. Seventh army.

The fat reichsmarshal said he was seized by the Germans on April 27, held at Berchtesgaden and ordered executed. He last saw Hitler on April 22 in Berlin, he asserted.

He said he believed Hitler died on April 27 or 28.

Kesselring was the last German commander in chief on the western front. He was shifted from Italy to succeed Field Marshal von Rundstedt, captured earlier by the Seventh army.

The corpulent 51-year-old Goering is the self-styled "most faithful paladin of the fuhrer" and had been designated by Hitler as his successor. But that was before the reichsmarshal fell from favor in the closing months of Nazi Germany. He is one of the world's greatest collectors of medals, uniforms and art—the latter largely pilfered from countries which

HERMANN GOERING

Germany overrun. Among other things, he was Prussian prime minister, minister of aviation, president of the reichstag, minister of forestation, reich-master of the hunt, director of the Prussian state theaters and opera, president of the German academy of aviation, director over foreign exchange and raw materials and plenipotentiary in charge of the four-year plan.

His arrested wife was the blond, blue-eyed former actress, Emmy Sonnenmann who in earlier days was Hitler's leading hostess.

The text of the announcement: "The Sixth army group headquarters announces that Herman Goering, reichs air marshal, and Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, commander in chief of the western front since early March, are now in custody of Lt. Gen. A. M. Patch's Seventh army. Goering, who had been Hitler's right hand man, and supposed successor to the fuhrer, said he had been condemned to death by Hitler for suggesting on April 24 that he take over. He declared he had been arrested by SS troops, but was rescued by members of his Luftwaffe."

Commanders Talk Openly Of Invading Japanese Homeland

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Ranking U. S. commanders talked openly today of the forthcoming invasion of Japan as returning American pilots reported the crippled enemy air force failed to send a single interceptor against their raids on Nipponese airdromes and transportation lines from the home islands to the Indo-China border. Plans are in the making "for us to invade Japan," said Fleet Adm.

Chester W. Nimitz, who added that navy planes would be flying continually over Japan today if he had three times his present force of carriers.

Japanese ground forces, only potent stumbling block to conquest of Japan, made their first successful counterattack in the southern Philippines; held U. S. lines on rain-soaked Okinawa; retreated on Tarakan off Borneo and lost 3,000 of a force of 4,000 in fighting out of a trap in China.

The Mikado's air force has been wasted away trying to stem the invasion of Okinawa island, top rung on the island ladder to Japan.

More than 3,000 planes have been lost in these abortive attempts, leading Adm. Teijiro Toyoda, Nippon's munitions minister to call on the Japanese aircraft industry to use materials lavishly and liberally "to turn out defensive planes quickly."

Nipponese attacks on the U. S. Third fleet, broken off Tuesday for the first time in more than a week, have sunk 26 small ships. In today's communique alone, American commanders announced 22 Japanese ships were sunk or damaged, mostly off the coasts of Japan and Korea.

The U. S. 14th Air Force in China got the rest. With the aid of Philippines-based bombers they also destroyed 13 locomotives in continuing bombardment of China, Formosa and Indo-China rail lines.

The first Japanese counter-attack on Mindanao in the southern Philippines smashed through a thin American line near Davao, isolating a battalion of the 24th pines, the 37th division joined the 25th and 32nd in the protracted mountain battle for Balete Pass, key to fertile Cagayan valley.

Australians and Dutch Colonials occupied the evacuated enemy headquarters on Taragan.

Tokyo claimed suicide planes were at it again yesterday, sinking a cruiser and damaging two other U. S. Ships.

Surrender The Real Thing, Says Stalin

LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Marshal Stalin in a personal broadcast to the Russian people tonight said Germany's final act of surrender in Berlin "is not only a piece of paper," but a "true capitulation of Germany."

"Now we can say with full foundation that this is the day of complete victory," he declared over the Moscow radio.

"All the suffering of the trials of our people in the defense of our motherland were not in vain."

"Hitler said three years ago, 'we shall destroy Russia.'"

"Now, three years later, Germany has been completely destroyed."

Molotov Leaves Conference To Return Home

Commission Members To Resume Polish Talks In Moscow

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9 (AP)—Soviet Commissar V. M. Molotov left the United Nations Conference today for Moscow, where negotiations for a broadened Warsaw government may be resumed.

The plane of the Russian foreign commissar took off from Hamilton Field, an army airfield north of San Francisco, a few minutes after 10 a. m. Pacific war time.

Before the day is over, the British and United States members of the three-power commission on Poland also are departing for the Soviet capital.

The suspension of negotiations, which the United States and Britain announced after the Russians arrested sixteen leaders of the Polish underground, was interpreted in some diplomatic sources to apply only to San Francisco, making possible re-opening of the talks in the Soviet capital.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8 (AP)—A meeting of President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin is expected by United Nations diplomats to be arranged soon after V-E day.

These authorities believe that only a gathering of the Big Three—probably somewhere in the European area—can solve some of the urgent problems now arising from the total defeat of Germany and lay the basic plans for restoring civil order and real peace to Europe.

The immediate impact of the ending of the European war is to reinforce demands of Secretary Stettinius, Foreign Minister Eden, Russian Commissar Molotov and other leaders that the conference lose no time in finishing its task.

Meanwhile the dawn of V-E day found ranking diplomats of the big powers agreed on another big matter in addition to the general security system. This is that the powers should take separate but parallel measures to make sure that for the next half century or so Germany will be denied the resources and industrial development necessary to plunge the world into another war.

The official statement on Japan's war policy was adopted at a special meeting of the full cabinet, called by Premier Adm. Baron Kantaro Suzuki, and approved by Emperor Hirohito. It followed the tenor of reported Tokyo newspaper editorials saying Japan's determinations was "absolutely unaffected" by Germany's surrender.

Japs Whistle Past Surrender
SAN FRANCISCO, May 9 (AP)—The Japanese government announced today the collapse of Germany "will not bring the slightest change" in Japan's determination to fight to the finish.

This was reported by Tokyo radio which simultaneously announced new preparations to meet an invasion of the home islands.

Broadcasts recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said the army simplified its "air defense conscription in order to prepare for the possibility of our mainland becoming a battlefield."

Another said barricades would be constructed throughout the nation "in the event of an enemy landing on Japan proper."

Lt. Gene Hardy Flewellen— Legend Of "One Plane Airforce"

The New York Times recently carried a feature story sent by wireless from Guam concerning the legend of Lt. Gene Flewellen, son of Mrs. V. H. Flewellen of Big Spring, who is a B-29 pilot with the 21st Bomber command in the Pacific.

According to the article Lt. Flewellen and his plane, Experiment Perilous, have gained considerable circulation and the pilot and his crew are considered a "one plane air force."

According to the Times, the legend started on the night fire attack on Tokyo April 16, when the Experiment Perilous by itself bombed the Japanese capital long after every other superfortress but one observation plane had left. Lt. Flewellen took his place through columns of ack ack fire and brought it back to base.

The April 16 Tokyo mission started like any other.

"We ran into a few clouds and there was a terrific wind" Lt. Flewellen said. "We got separated from our formation and when we came out of the clouds we were up the coast, almost to Kocayama, about 250 miles southwest of Tokyo and 200 miles off shore."

"We held a sort of vote and all of us said we might as well go on up to Tokyo even though it was getting pretty late."

Coming into Tokyo around 3 a. m. they spotted the fires which could be seen for 60 miles around and smoke was coming up to 15,000 feet. So late was the Experiment Perilous in arriving over the target that the lights of Tokyo were on again.

Flewellen and his crew had no way of knowing it then but high above them in the darkness another Superfortress was circling. It was a brigadier general, the commander of the wing to which the Flewellen squadron was attached. He had been charting the fires from his observation plane and was preparing to head for home when Experiment Perilous entered the scene.

The Perilous headed northwest across the city and the lights went (See FLEWELLEN, Pg. 8, Col. 3)

Keitel Arrogant To Last

NEW YORK, May 9 (AP)—After signing the articles of surrender during the ratification ceremonies in Berlin today Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German general staff, shut his portfolio, arose and marched out, CBS Correspondent Howard K. Smith said.

CBS said Smith attended as the only representative of American networks.

Following is Smith's broadcast in part: "The greatest V-E Day of all happened yesterday in, of all places, Berlin."

"The Russians demanded that, in addition to the articles of surrender signed three days ago in

Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters, the commanders of all three German armed forces meet them for ratification of that surrender in the capital of Germany. This morning I have just come back from Berlin after watching the new signature last night in Marshal Zhukov's headquarters in a suburb in eastern Berlin.

"The event was dominated by the tangible presence of two men—Gregory Zhukov, Russia's greatest, and perhaps one of the world's greatest, military commanders, and Hitler's field marshal, Wilhelm Keitel, the personification and, if humanity is lucky, the last gasp of Prussian militarism. It was humiliation for Field Marshal Keitel to stand before, as the Prussians call them, "a proletarian from Red Russia," and beg surrender. He fought back with all the arrogance he was capable of.

"He entered the dining hall of the German army engineering school, where the ceremony took place, and saluted stiffly with the field marshal's baton given him by Hitler and bearing the engraved swastika of Hitler.

"Keitel was nervous and irritated. He kept bobbing his monocle into his eye and out again. He signed the documents of capitulation but as soon as he had done

Truman Signs Draft Bill

Norwegians Jail Vidkun Quisling

OSLO, Norway, May 9 (AP)—Vidkun Quisling, whose name became a synonym for treachery in this war, was taken to the Oslo jail today from his estate outside

... in his own jail

Oslo, and will be arraigned publicly in court some time this afternoon under Norwegian law.

The Norwegian Nazi chief, broken by the swift events which toppled his five-year grip on Norway, drove up to the Oslo police station in a bullet-proof car with six of his cabinet members.

While immediate arraignment is scheduled by law, some police officials said he might not be arraigned until tomorrow morning.

(Dispatches from Oslo yesterday said Quisling had been in his lavish suburban home "Gimle," guarded by homefront men.)

The Norwegian home forces rounded up 400 other Quislings throughout the capital.

Quisling was assigned to a cell in the famed Moellegatan 19 prison, from which hundreds of his own political prisoners have been released since Germany's capitulation.

The first outbreak of violence occurred in Oslo during the night when two Norwegians and a German sailor were killed in a skirmish outside the office of the newspaper Aftenposten.

Authorities said a drunken Nazi sailor tossed a hand grenade at homefront soldiers, killing a civilian and an Oslo policeman.

The German sailor was killed in the resulting exchange of shots.

Measure Extends Present Law For Year Or Duration

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—President Truman today signed legislation extending the selective service act as a "compelling necessity in the continuance of military operations against Japan."

The president said he signed the bill extending the military draft a year from May 15 (or until the war has ended on all fronts) with reluctance because he did not wish his action to be interpreted as expressing concurrence with a section of the legislation placing "added restrictions on the war and navy departments in their management of the fighting forces."

The measure, as passed by congress, prohibits the use of 18-year-olds in combat unless they have had at least six months of training.

The president's statement: "I am reluctantly giving my approval to this legislation. I do not wish this approval to be interpreted as expressing my concurrence in section 2 of the bill, which places added restrictions on the war and navy departments in their management of the fighting forces. I signed the legislation only because the immediate extension of the selective service act is of compelling necessity in the continuance of military operations against Japan."

The war and navy departments opposed the restriction on use of 18-year-olds when the bill was before the house and senate.

An end of the war with Japan would automatically terminate the draft authority.

Jimmy Green Looks Back On Eight Years Of Action

Eight years ago today J. H. "Jimmy" Greene took up his task as manager of the Big Spring chamber of commerce. On April 30 preceding directors of the organization had drafted the veteran civic worker who had headed the Colorado City chamber for years. Looking back on eight years devoted to working for Howard county, the chamber of commerce secretary's minutes keep pace with the progress of the city and point the way toward post war plans. The only similarity in the plans is that they concern betterment or expansion of the city.

JIMMY GREENE

Eight years is a long enough time to stop for a moment and look back and Greene can well be pleased with what he has seen accomplished during that time. Every new road building plan, every industry or plant moved here, every needed reform has had chamber of commerce support.

"What we need is . . ." This is a familiar cry of many Big Springers but a check of minutes of the secretary's book shows that the chamber manager and directors usually have already discussed or taken steps to secure that need.

As long ago as May, 1937, a road from Big Spring to Andrews was promoted and plans were begun to secure the right of way. In August of that same year the first of the annual Howard county livestock shows was sponsored by the chamber, and the city park amphitheatre was secured with WPA assistance.

Even eight years ago the chamber was working on what was thought then to be an "acute housing shortage."

During that same year the chamber bought the right-of-way for a railroad spur track to the state hospital and applied for an air mail stop of the west-bound plane. For a new manager it was an auspicious year and a good start.

During 1939 when war was still just a memory of 1914, Big Spring became "convention town." Everybody wanted to hold conventions here and was encouraged to do so. The West Texas Teachers association, the Managers and Secretaries Association of West Texas and the West Texas Druggists conventions were all scheduled for March.

That year the chamber agreed to take the lead in helping the Big Spring high school band buy much needed uniforms. Managers of independent gins in the area were invited to Big Spring and the ground work was laid that secured an oil mill here. The group also obtained the north and south air mail stop and the highway from Post to Big Lake through Gail, Big Spring and Garden City.

Another step forward came in July when the chamber of commerce incorporated and applied for a charter. The state hospital, nearly finished by now, had a cornerstone laying ceremony and formal opening which everyone attended.

Need for a new courthouse was recognized and a group of men was sent to Washington to secure PWA funds for a new building although this plan wasn't successful.

By 1940 airplanes and airports were taking precedence over everything else. A group of local men was sent to Washington to seek a north-south airline route. Dollar Day every fourth Monday was started and the chamber agreed to support the drive for Permian Basin memberships. Even the struggling baseball club was given a financial hand.

Tourist trade was booming in the spring of 1940 for Big Spring and a "Courtesy School" was started for all those who met the traveling public. Travelers were allowed to park cars all night on the streets and the housing committee worked on getting homes for employees of Cosden moving here with the Fort Worth home office.

As far back as May of that year the aviation committee reported that Big Spring would probably be appointed as a training school site for aviation. A successful horse show, sponsored by the Rotary club, was given aid by the chamber. Seeing the shadows of war darken, the chamber authorized the National Defense Committee.

A "Modern Salesmanship and Personal Development" school was held for business personnel and the directors heard reports of the CAA ground training school. Efforts were made to reinstate mail service between Big Spring and Sweetwater while more trips were made to Washington to secure a north and south airline.

The year 1941 started like a very normal year with planned Good-will dinners with rural communities begun. A banquet to honor Reuben Williams, member of the highway commission, was held and another tourist school opened.

In June a bond issue was voted on for relieving congested conditions of the Mexican and negro schools and amateur hours were held at the city amphitheatre. The chamber heard that continuance of airport enlargement by WPA labor would probably have to stop due to lack of workers. The directors urged buying of Defense Bonds and participation in the USO drive. Then in October the directors met to try and get the county included in the Farm Security Administration farm purchase area.

The next meeting was scheduled for December 8, 1941. Who felt normal on that Monday after Pearl Harbor Sunday? Yet the chamber of commerce kept to its tasks. The groups agreed to make an effort to have Big Spring designated in a National Defense Area, and have a national guard unit located here. War had to be incorporated now into general business for the directors.

In April of 1942 the chamber began a campaign to tell the public facts about the need for extension of sewer and water lines to the future site of the bombardier school and a bond election was scheduled. The group asked for an increase in sugar and other rationed commodities which was based on the 1940 census. An estimate of 2,000 more persons were now residing here. During July a city-county health unit was proposed and later became a reality. The ODT was given permission to use the chamber of commerce as its headquarters.

Spring of 1942 saw the chamber working hard to solve the feed shortage and to secure the highway to Garden City which was finally begun. Directors took time out to praise Manager Greene for his work on that project.

In June the chamber started working on the proposed National Highway No. 87 and committees reported results for the meat butchers and for farmers short of needed wire. August brought the news that after a 14-man delegation went to Austin, designation had been granted for a highway from Big Spring to Snyder as a post-war project. The chamber agreed to assist in establishing a private flying school and secured a freezer-locker plant.

In March, 1944, the directors voted to enter the county in the Inter-County Agricultural Production and Improvement Contest, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and a foods exhibit was scheduled to be held. Then in May of 1944 the north and south air service by Continental Airlines was established and Big Spring had an airway system of transport to be envied. Since the beginning of 1945 more new plans have been formulated in the directors' monthly meetings and the man whose 24-hour a day job is selling Big Spring is full of new ideas to make Howard county a bigger and better place to live in.

While others dream or complain, Manager Greene and the directors work and plan for the interest of 26,000 people banded together within the confines of some 900 square miles of land called Howard county. Looking back on eight years of service, Greene could well stop for a moment of backward reflection but he is too busy right now—planning for post-war times and more improvements for his adopted home town.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Licht

"Oh, Mamma is just at the awkward stage—too old to understand the way we behave, and not old enough to be philosophical about it!"

What We Need—

ATTAWAY BOOSTER FOR MORE PARKS

A rural mail carrier for 25 years, nine of them in Big Spring, qualifies Paul Attaway to make observations both critical and complimentary about his 'home town.' And Attaway, who says "there haven't been many minutes when I wanted to leave Big Spring," thinks that for rugged and beautiful scenery Howard county is tops. He likes the town for he says it isn't too small nor too large.

"We also have one of the prettiest parks in this part of the state," Attaway declared, "and I'd suggest for post war plans that we continue to improve and start other parks that would beautify the city."

For improvements of the city that don't have to wait until after the war, Attaway suggests that stricter regulation of traffic rules in both the city and county could be enforced. Driving as he does every day with his mail, Attaway declares that many times he has to avoid being run into. This is unnecessary, he believes, and a situation that should be corrected.

Another point for improvement that Attaway has reason to notice is the haphazard types of mailboxes in the city. "In the county the residents must provide uniform, prescribed boxes but in the city areas boxes have been made of every conceivable material, are placed in every sort of place imaginable and are a disgrace to a city as large as Big Spring," he pointed out.

Attaway also discussed road improvement for the county and declared that in his opinion wherever the school bus travels, the roads should be improved as those are the roads usually carrying the heaviest traffic in the county. He also believes that Howard county should provide its own funds for road improvement rather than waiting for state and federal help to finance the projects. "There has been just too much of waiting for outside help in the county in the past few years," he pointed out, "and it is our job not someone else's."

CAA Requests Air Markers Be Placed

Recognizing the air navigation problems that will face several thousands of postwar "Sunday driver" pilots, the CAA is advocating a nationwide network of air markers. The CAA hopes that more than 100,000 markers eventually will point the way for the half million private pilots who may be flying regularly within the next decade.

The CAA program suggests an extensive system of air-marking for Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Louisiana, the area controlled by the fourth regional office of the CAA, located at Fort Worth.

A Capella Choir Sings Before Rotary Club

The A Cappella choir of Abilene Christian College appeared at the noon meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday, singing several numbers under the direction of Dr. Leonard Burford, director of music.

Beginning its program, the choir sang the "Star Spangled Banner" followed by "United Nations on the March," "The Lost Chord," "Playing an Echo," "God So Loved the World" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." A girls sextet sang "Yohon" and a male quartet sang "Paul Was a Little Boy."

The German city of Stuttgart was famous for a library collection of 8,500 Bibles, printed in approximately 100 different languages.

Freedom of Enterprise

"there is a white cross on Iwo Jima"

THERE is a neat little white cross on Iwo Jima. It marks the grave of a boy I knew—a young lad who wanted so much to live. Hope beat high in his heart the last time I looked into his smiling, boyish face—a hope that was thrilled by the presence of his sweetheart who was walking with him to the railway station that evening of the last precious day of his leave before "going over."

"When I come back, Mr. Smith, we'll be wanting you to come to see us," he told me.

But, he'll not be coming back and I'll never be going to see him and his sweetheart in that dream-home that so thrilled him that day. On the hell-blasted slopes of Iwo Jima that dream vanished in the smoke and flame of battle and the young boyish dreamer fell bleeding and broken in death.

He sleeps now under his neat white cross on a hillside of that far-away battle-beaten island. There on that hillside thousands of other white crosses like his lift their pathetic little white arms upward to God from that place of death—and beneath each of them sleeps a boyish dreamer who dreams no more!

All over the earth—in Bataan, Saipan, Guam, Okinawa, in Italy, France, and Germany thousands upon thousands of these little white crosses bloom in the gardens of our precious dead where sleep our young dreamers forever.

They are the lads who have paid the price for our liberty—not theirs, for they shall never enjoy the things for which they have so grandly fought and so bravely died.

When we think of them—so young, so willing and so hopeful our hearts lament with the anguished cry to God:

"Why do they die?"

And the answers should strengthen and sober us.

Surely they do not die to give a few greedy men—either the capitalists or labor leaders—the right to control all the jobs back at home—jobs that are the hope of life and happiness for men who toil.

Surely they did not die to make other men pay tribute to labor racketeers before they can enjoy the God-given right to work.

Surely they died for justice to their surviving comrades who with them have fought through this terrible war. They did not hurl their young lives away in the battle's frightful storm for a system that would discriminate against an Honorable Discharge from the army in favor of a union card issued by some labor boss when they come home to get a job. No. These youngsters died for free labor, both for the union man and non-union man—but never for the corrupt labor racketeer!

They did not die to enforce special privilege for one group of Americans, as against another group as, for instance, the CIO—or any other union—demanding the right to require men to become a member of its unions before allowing them to work.

They did die—and many others are dying now to give labor a just and decent wage—with the right to organize and bargain collectively for themselves but never against other laboring men!

They died to give the farmer and rancher an opportunity for a better and fuller opportunity in life, but never to enforce upon them the harassing tyranny of unjust government regulations.

They died to preserve a government that would safeguard free enterprise and encourage the creative genius of the individual, but never to adopt the harsh tyrannies of Nazism and Fascism that makes the individual the chattel of the state and regulates his every activity from the cradle to the grave.

They died for a free press—free from political coercion and with the will to fight for man's freedom—but never for a press that is bought by the gold of capital or throttled by the labor racketeer's power.

They died to protect the individual from the oppression of the unfair employer, the labor boss, and from the harshness and injustice of mis-government.

They died for free schools, free churches, and free men, and all this spells free enterprise.

The evening wind plays softly around their distant graves. The storm of battle has passed on to other frightful fields. Their living comrades have departed and struggle again in the welter and wrath of war's terrible dance of death.

Will we see defeated on the home front the high ideals for which they stormed into battle? Will we dishonor those little white crosses and the lads who sleep beneath them by allowing to be enforced upon this Country the galling yoke of tyrannies as foul and dark as those bred in the stinking dens of Nazism? Will we disown the great heritage which they left us—consacrated with their blood—by permitting Constitutional Government to be supplanted by the harsh and heavy hand of bureaucratic despotism?

We on the home front must furnish the answer. If we live with the courage in which they died they will not be ashamed of our answer. If we sternly insist that the freedoms for which they died must be made living realities and not the glittering playthings of demagogues—if we have the faith and courage to keep America American—then our lads who rest beneath their crosses in far-away lands and places may sleep in peace.

God grant that we shall not fall them!

"We hope this is only a bad dream"

UP TILL NOW, this is only a bad dream—because our trucks are still hanging together, and we can make deliveries of Pabst Blue Ribbon to our retailers on a regularly scheduled, restricted basis.

But we want you to know, that no matter what happens we'll do our level best to see that you are not prevented from enjoying this truly great beer—even if we have to move it in wheelbarrows! And if you can't always find Pabst—ask again next time, won't you?

St. Louis Rocks Senators, 7 To 1

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis greeted the eastern visitors like long lost brothers today after the overdue Browns rocked Washington, 7-1, in the first inter-sectional tilt of the season.

It was against the brethren from the Atlantic seaboard that Luke Sewell's 1944 "Cinderella gang" clinched the American league flag a year ago and Sportsman's Park customers were hoping the new edition could pull out of the second division in the long home stand ahead.

Nelson Potter, the ace in the hole who was the "stopper" for the Browns last season, turned in his best job of the season with a brilliant three-hitter.

Rookie outfielder Boris Martin, counted heavily in Sewell's winter plans off his 350 season in Toledo, finally began to come through with a single, double and triple off Johnny Niggeling and reliever Al Carrasquel.

Red Embree, another promising freshman who had failed to hit the win circle, finally made it in pitching Cleveland to a 7-1 decision over the league-leading Chicago White Sox.

Cincinnati's night tilt with the New York Giants was washed out but rescheduled for tonight and Skipper Bill McKeechie announced he was benching shortstop Kermit Wahl for Walt Flagler, up from Birmingham.

Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston took advantage of the off day to plug lineup gaps. The Phils sent outfielder Buster Adams back to the Cards again for two infielders, shortstop Glenn Crawford and third baseman John Antonelli, thus apparently forecasting the removal of Jimmy Fox and Wes Hammer from the lineup.

The Braves acquired veteran lefthander Bob Logan from Indianapolis for pitcher Ben Cardoni, infielder Ben Geraghty and two others to be named later.

Phillies Jarred As Foxx Ordered To Bed

PHILADELPHIA, May 9 (AP)—The Phillies hopes of solving their problem of infield jitters received a rude jolt late last night when Jimmy Foxx was ordered to bed.

Manager Fitzsimmons said Foxx "is under doctor's orders for at least 48 hours. We don't know what's wrong with him, but his baby just got over pneumonia."

SURE SIGN OF CAPITULATION
LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Switzerland severed relations with surrendered Germany Tuesday. Sweden, Spain and Portugal had made similar moves in the last 48 hours. Perhaps the only remaining neutral maintaining relations with Germany is Eire (Ireland).

Friedrichshafen was the home town of the giant power-driven, metal framed gas bags designed by Count von Zeppelin for long-distance aerial navigation.

Texas And SMU To Renew Vital Series

AUSTIN, May 9 (AP)—Texas and Southern Methodist open a series today that will go a long way toward determining the Southwest conference baseball championship.

Texas is in first place with four wins and one loss while S.M.U. and Rice are tied for second with four victories and three defeats apiece.

Also scheduled today and tomorrow are games between Rice and Texas A. and M. at Houston.

Moran Socks Way To Win

LOS ANGELES, May 9 (AP)—That veteran handler of fighters, Mike McNulty of St. Paul, must be regretting the sale he made of young Nick Moran to Gus Wilson for $1,000.

Moran, who came here from Mexico City and fought his way through the preliminary ranks, last night socked out a 10-round decision over Cpl. Bob Montgomery of Luke Field, Ariz. Montgomery is recognized by the New York boxing commission as the lightweight champion.

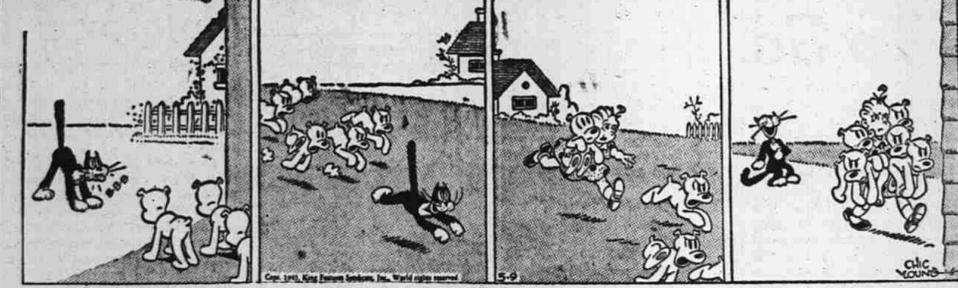

CONSTIPATION Is the cause of MUCH SUFFERING

Constipation may cause no symptoms for a long time, but unless corrected will finally impair the health. Symptoms associated with advancing constipation are loss of appetite, heavily coated tongue, tired feeling and mental depression. Headache, dizziness, anemia, and skin disturbances such as acne, are commonly experienced. In severe cases, neuralgia and joint pains occur. Indigestion, with gas formation and colic, and piles and fissures frequently result to the discomforts of severe chronic cases.

No matter how many other medicines you may have tried for constipation, we urge you to try B-L PREPARATION, with the understanding that B-L PREPARATION must bring you satisfactory results or your money back. Caution: Use only as directed.

DAILY STORY FROM THE BEST-SELLING BOOK
By BENNETT CERF

FRANK CASE, amiable Boniface of the Algonquin Hotel, tells the story of the day the late DeWolf Hopper protested to him that nowhere in New York could he find his favorite dessert, brown betty, on the menu.

"I'd have it here for you," Case said, "if I thought there would be a reasonable demand for it."

"You put it on your menu tomorrow night," proposed Hopper, "and I'll see to it personally that the demand develops."

The next night brown betty was duly added to the Algonquin bill of fare, and Hopper, much gratified, made a personal tour of every table in the dining room. "I am DeWolf Hopper," he announced to the surprised patrons, "and I personally urge you to sample the brown betty this evening. It's delicious."

Hopper then repaired to his own table, toyed with a beefsteak, and summoned his waiter. "Now," he said, rubbing his hands in anticipation. "I'll have a double order of brown betty." "I'm very sorry, sir," said the waiter. "It's all gone."

Army Ready For Sports Program

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Now that the war with Germany is over, the army will swing swiftly into allied athletic championships in Europe.

The purpose of these games is to keep combat men physically and mentally fit for the occupation job in Europe and for carrying on the war with Japan.

The athletic branch of the army service forces also will start a vast program in the Pacific theater. Approximately $7,500,000 worth of athletic equipment is available for the games in Europe, and plans are well under way for starting competitions soon.

The army hopes to get almost every man in Europe into some form of competition.

Paris, Rome and London will serve as key points for these eliminations.

Thursday Mothers Day In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 9 (AP)—Tomorrow is Mother's Day in Mexico.

It is called the "Day of the Mexican Mother" and presents are distributed as in the United States.

Mrs. Soledad Orozco de Avila, Camacho, the president's wife, will give a month's supply of provisions to each of a number of mothers of poor families.

The defense department will award to mothers of men serving in the Mexican Expeditionary Air Force, the famous 21st Fighter squadron, a diploma testifying she has given a son to Mexico. The squadron is now in the Philippines with MacArthur.

Do You Know HOW TO SHAVE?

MANY MEN shave all their lives, yet never learn how! They simply smear a little lather or brushless cream on their face, grab a razor, and shave. Result: scratch, scrape, pull—an irritated skin—an unsatisfactory shave—and much unflattering comment about blade, razor, soap or whatever!

TO SHAVE PROPERLY, the first requirement is adequate preparation. Wash your face thoroughly with hot water and ordinary soap to remove the grit, oil and perspiration that ordinarily coats the face, and to soften the hair. Use good hot water—the time required for proper softening decreases rapidly, the hotter your water is. Then rinse the face thoroughly.

Now apply a good shaving soap (rubbing the lather in well with fingertips) or, if you prefer, a brushless cream. These preparations further emulsify the natural oil of the skin and permit the hairs to be wet more thoroughly. Allow from two to three minutes, or even longer for these simple tasks, and your shave will be quicker, easier, and more satisfactory.

AND NOW, the last requirement of a good shave—the blade you use. There are many satisfactory blades on the market, but one is quite unique and offers a great advantage over usual blades. This blade is hollow ground. Usual blades are ground like a jack-knife, like this . The hollow ground blade is . Due to hollow grinding, this blade is not held rigid by the razor guard. The slight "play" at the flexible edge permits the blade to follow facial contours effortlessly without "bearing down". And it's "bearing down" that irritates tender skins and wears out delicate blade edges prematurely.

So men, prepare your face properly, use plenty of time and water, get yourself some of those hollow ground blades and—learn to make shaving a pleasanter, easier task.

Two Down And One To Go

The War Today

by Dewitt Mackenzie
Associated Press War Analyst

Germany's capitulation will release a tornado of military power against the remaining world enemy—Japan.

Japan yesterday received stern warning from both President Truman and British Prime Minister Churchill of the storm which will rend her unless she surrenders unconditionally. Mr. Truman, however, injected a significant note which is receiving wide attention. He held up to the Japanese people the advantages of capitulation, and concluded a statement to the press with this:

"(Unconditional surrender) means not prolonging the present agony and suffering of the Japanese in the vain hope of victory.

"Unconditional surrender does not mean the extermination or enslavement of the Japanese people."

Many congressmen looked on this statement as making it easier for the Japs to quit their suicide war. Some legislators also thought it lent support to rumors of Nipponese peace overtures.

Well, it's legitimate for us to consider the possibilities of an early surrender, if we do so cautiously. The Japanese leaders already know they're beaten, and on this basis the more moderate element might force a termination of the conflict as a matter of horse-sense.

However, we shall be foolish if we don't follow the lead of our high command, which may recognize this possibility but most certainly doesn't accept it as a probability. We are going right ahead with all-out war, which among other things contemplates invasion of Japan.

The fall of Germany is a terrific blow to Japan. The London Daily Mail sums up the situation graphically thus: The Japanese leaders realize what their people are only just beginning to realize—that Germany has been the real outer defense of Japan, that the frontiers of Japan have been protected by the Rhine, that the death throes of the third reich are the first spasms of Japan's own death agony, and that Japan without Germany is in much the same unenviable position as a tortoise without its shell.

Coincidentally with the collapse of Hitlerdom, the Japanese have suffered another capital blow in being routed from Burma. By this great victory the back door to China once more is opened for the movement of vital supplies from the outside world. The great port of Rangoon again is in Allied hands, and ships from the Indian ocean will be able to steam up the Irrawaddy river to Mandalay where their cargoes can be transferred to trucks for the tortuous journey over the famous Burma road to

The now familiar slogan of "Two Down and One to Go" is as expressive of the war situation as it is possible to be.

It doesn't imply we necessarily are two-thirds of the way to victory; rather that we have one more arch foe to destroy before hopes of peace can have any real substance.

How long it will take to overwhelm Japan is a matter for conjecture. Unless there are unforeseen developments, it would seem on the face that some six months will have elapsed before we can transfer sufficient forces to the Pacific theatre to bring the full might of the Allies to bear against the Japanese.

Moreover, it is evident that we are posing a tremendous supply problem in pitching operations on a heretofore untried scale for the war in the East. While the demands for shipping to Europe may be lightened by the end of the war there, it is well not to expect too great an amount to be cut back for getting material there to prevent as much starvation and suffering as possible, to maintain our occupation forces, to transport troops to and from the continent will require an unbelievable amount of ships.

Two of the most immediate reflections of Europe's ended war may fall on Japan in the form of still heavier aerial and naval blows. The air corps has a more flexible force and can transfer its equipment and men more readily than other branches. In seas already given to American naval supremacy, such an overwhelming congregation of power will be made available that Allied fighting ships can go almost anywhere they desire. That will mean the garroting of Japan for supplies.

In the long run, the considered statement of President Truman on the effects of unconditional surrender for Japan may have greater weight than even our armaments. This might well be the door through which a miraculous capitulation would enter. When one thinks of the lives it might save and of the suffering and damage it might obviate, then it becomes apparent how significant his overture really is.

Incidentally, there are several sections in Block L near Fabens, in El Paso county, ready for lease now. You should be warned, however, that it is deep sand and that the last man who had it gave it up as a bad job.

University land lies in 17 West Texas counties, and its value, as well as its rental value, varies from 5 to 25 cents an acre, at present rates. These counties are El Paso, Crockett, Ward, Upton, Reagan, Andrews, Dawson, Gaines, Martin, Pecos, Irion, Winkler, Terrell, Schleicher, Loving, Culberson and Crane.

The biggest lessee is the Huxco Cattle company, which pays 7 1/2 cents an acre a year for 193,333.7 acres in Hudspeth county. J. E. Baylor has 165,070.6 acres at the same rate in Hudspeth. L. W. Anderson pays 4 1/2 cents for 130,522 acres in Ward, Winkler and Loving. Vince Baler pays 6 1/2 cents for 103,572 acres in Hudspeth. The bigger the ranch the lower the rate, but that's not the board of regents' rule. It's the nature

Mirrors Of Austin—

Hard To Break Into Land Leases

(This is the second of two stories on leased university lands—Ed.)

Ordinarily, death or sale or bankruptcy are the only ways in which this land becomes available to new lessees. However, if a returned veteran had a little capital and wanted to lease some land, he could file application and learn what leases are coming up for renewal soon. Then he could bid against the present holder and perhaps get himself a ranch for at least 10 years. Leases can't be bought or sold unless the university agrees.

The towns of Best, in Reagan county, and Pyote, in Ward county, are both on university land on 10-year leases. The Pyote army field is too. The federal government started condemnation proceedings for four sections there but the regents convinced them that a lease would be better. Now the four sections have joined the army for the duration and six months.

Washington—

Of Those Buried Where They Fell

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—In one way or another, this story has been explored half a dozen times, but it never has been told.

It is the answer to what is going to be done about the thousands of boys buried in our cemeteries scattered all over the world. So far, that answer is simply: Nothing.

For more than 25 years, in seven cemeteries in France, Belgium and England, our dead of World War I have reposed in little replicas of Arlington cemetery just across the Potomac bridge in Virginia. These cemeteries are now becoming numberless. In Hawaii there are men who died at Pearl Harbor. There are cemeteries on Wake, Guam, the Philippines, Guadalcanal, New Guinea, Iwo Jima and a score of other places in the Pacific. American soldiers are buried in North Africa from the Gold Coast to Cairo; and across the Mediterranean from Sicily to Northern Italy and southern France. From the Normandy beach-head to the Rhine and far beyond, the land is dotted with the graves of our fighting men.

So far, there has been no more than suggestions that these bodies be returned to the United States. There already have been bills introduced to permit Gold Star parents and wives to visit these graves once the world is at peace again.

The final decision will be up to congress. The War department will have no authority to do anything about it until congress takes action. Apparently this is something the public generally doesn't understand, for the office of the Quartermaster General, which has charge of our military cemeteries, is becoming daily a greater and greater catch—all for complaints from the relatives of men buried overseas.

On the home front, it's a different story. In the last several congresses there have been bills introduced to establish military cemeteries in almost every state, territory and possession.

The latest of these is the inclusive bill offered by Rep. Chester E. Merrow (R-N. H.), which ties up all those that have gone before into a measure which would permit the secretary of war to establish military cemeteries in every state, territory, or possession with more than half of a million population. It would permit the secretary to take over necessary lands by purchase, condemnation or gift. The U. S. Commission of Fine Arts would be called in to approve plans. After that, the cemeteries would revert to the Office of Quartermaster General for maintenance.

No definite action has been taken yet on the cemeteries on foreign shores, but an extensive research is being made and records kept of every grave. Even in the statistical-minded U. S. Army and Navy, there will be many "unknown soldiers" in this war. The brutal explosives of modern warfare make that inevitable, but neither Army nor Navy is sparing any effort to reduce the list of "missing in action" to an absolute minimum.

The sea-star is the pest of oyster beds, where it feeds on oysters and destroys them in large numbers.

The Unseen Audience

With The AFF: Russian Army On March Looks Like A Great Plague

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS, May 6 (AP) (Delayed)—The Russian army on the march moves over the land in incredible numbers.

It is an almost unbelievable sight, this vast, seemingly chaotic movement of men, horses and machines. It seems irresistible.

No American correspondents have been shown the full power of the Red army—particularly its armored might—but a number have driven 25 or more miles into the Soviet army lines to cover meetings between Russian and American army commanders.

They'll come back a little dazed. Their first reaction was: "How could a people's army such as this ever whip the professional German army?"

American soldiers who have been behind the lines on official missions are inclined to return in the same state of puzzlement. They can't figure out how these ragged, dirt-stained peasant legions ever halted the massed power of Adolf Hitler's panzers, let alone throw them back in their own green Prussian fields.

It is only when you begin to observe the amazing vitality of these people that you get a possible key to their startling victories.

Hollywood—

Sylvia Sidney Leans Toward Peace

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO—When I invited Sylvia Sidney to attend the United Nations conference with me, she asked how she should dress.

"Your pass will say you're a newspaper representative, not an actress," I said, "so you'd better dress as unobtrusively as possible."

"But that's impossible!" she declared. "I've devoted a lifetime to dressing ostentatiously. How can I change now?"

But she said she would try. When I called at her hotel, she looked very fetching and resembled a press representative as much as I resemble Sonny Tufts. She wore a pair of glasses as the sole means of disguise. On the way to the Opera House, where the session was being held, I instructed her in how to whisk past the officials who check credentials.

Two people almost upset our scheme for Sylvia to enter the building without being recognized. As we were about to enter, Sylvia's sister-in-law, the noted actress Stella Adler, approached and uttered "Sylvia" in a clear voice. She was quickly subdued.

At the door, someone remarked, "That looks like a movie actress—how are you, Sylvia?" It was a Broadway columnist. Sylvia said, "There must be some mistake." And hurried by. We managed to pass five successive credential checkers without detection.

We located a space in a box of the diamond horseshoe and Sylvia took in the impressive scene. I pointed out the more recognizable figures—shaggy-maned Tom Connally, suave Anthony Eden, Ambassador Grumpy (Molotov) couldn't make it, Dean Gilder-sleeve, Commander Stassen, Ambassador Halifax.

Sylvia hung over the velvet railing until I had fears that she might drop into the laps of the Yugoslav delegation.

Five minutes later, Secretary of State Stettinius walked out on the stage to begin the session. "Gee, he's good looking," was Sylvia's

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Molotov Evasive On Missing Poles

SAN FRANCISCO—Here's what happened behind the scenes when Molotov dropped his bombshell regarding the mysterious disappearance of 16 Polish leaders in Russia.

Ever since mid-April both the British and American embassies in Moscow had been trying to learn what had happened to the Polish mission. When Molotov arrived here two weeks ago, Secretary of State Stettinius and Anthony Eden immediately asked him what happened to the Poles. Molotov said he didn't know. The Anglo-Americans kept up the pressure and finally at an informal dinner of the Big Four, Stettinius spoke up and asked Molotov if he'd found out yet about the missing Poles.

"Oh yes," replied Molotov, "I forgot to tell you. They were arrested by the Red army."

"What for?" asked Eden.

"We call it diversionist efforts against the Red army," replied the Soviet foreign minister.

"But what are the real charges?" asked Stettinius.

"Oh, those—they'll come out at the trials," answered Molotov calmly, continuing to eat.

"You mean you're going to try them all?" asked Stettinius, perturbed.

"No," answered Molotov, "only the guilty ones."

At this point, Stettinius told the Russian official he planned to make a formal statement about the matter to the press. Molotov said he had no objection, and the announcement was made by both Stettinius and Eden the next day.

The full story of the mysterious 16 Poles, as pieced together from diplomatic sources, follows:

Actually, these 16 Poles had never been outside Poland since the war started in 1939. Some people have gained the impression that they were emissaries sent from the Polish government in London. However, they had been working underground in Poland, and in March sent word to the Russian commander that they would like to discuss the question of cooperation between the Lublin and London Polish governments.

The Russian commander suggested that they talk to the Lublin government, but they replied that they only wanted to talk to Molotov or Stalin. They asked for a guarantee of safe conduct which, according to the London Poles, was given.

They were then put in a truck and sent to Moscow. After arriving in Moscow they were treated very well at first, and U. S. Ambassador Averell Harriman sent a cable to the state department that Stalin planned to place eight of these Polish leaders in the revamped Lublin government in conformity with the pledge he made to Roosevelt and Churchill at Yalta.

Then something happened—nobody knows exactly what. Suddenly also, Stalin changed his mind.

Ambassador Harriman has been unable to give Secretary Stettinius any explanation for what happened, except to say that sometimes after Stalin has made a pledge, he gets back to Moscow and the politburo argues him out of it. Harriman told friends that he has the highest regard for Stalin and considers him one of the few men who can be trusted. However, the ambassador pulls no punches in expressing his opinions about some other Russians.

Unofficial Russian explanation is that the leader of the 16 Poles is general Okulicki who, during the Russian advance across Poland to Germany, operated radio stations in the rear of the Red army and sabotaged the Russian advance. From this diplomats deduce that the politburo, confronting Stalin with this evidence, persuaded him to change his mind and not place any of the 16 in the Lublin government.

Brazilians Irked
Michigan's vicious Senator Arthur Vandenberg slipped word out to San Francisco newsmen (with some pride) that President Truman called him frequently from Washington. Incidentally, Stettinius calls Truman up at least once a day, hardly makes a move without consulting him—though apparently he didn't consult him regarding the immediate admission of Argentina, instead of waiting four days as requested by the Russians. . . . The Brazilians don't like the new leadership assumed at San Francisco by Chile and Mexico. What the Brazilians need is the dynamic leadership of their former foreign minister, Oswaldo Aranha, the most towering figure in Latin America. . . . After the Greek foreign minister voted with Russia to delay seating Argentina for at least four days, Greek Ambassador Diamantopoulos scuttled around to the American delegation to explain that the vote against Argentina was not his doing. . . . Though it was blamed on Latin-American nations, actually, Assistant Secretary Nelson Rockefeller had begun long ago laying the groundwork for admitting Argentina to the United Nations. The British also were strong for bringing in their old friends from the River Plate. . . . Last week U. S. delegates virtually requested Mexico to raise the Argentine question and push for its admission.

Watching Washington
Sir Arthur Salter, British shipping expert, will head the British reparations delegation to Moscow late this month. Sir Arthur is considered a "soft peace" man, close to the clique which wants to rebuild Germany as a barrier against Russia after the war. . . . President Truman has asked Anna Rosenberg, an old friend of Roosevelt's, to go to Europe on a mission. . . . Truman is also trying to persuade Judge Sam Rosenman and David Niles, two members of FDR's staff, to remain with him permanently.

The house judiciary committee is all set to bring impeachment proceedings against at least one of the two federal judges who are being investigated in Pennsylvania.

The house banking and currency committee is reporting favorably on the important Bretton Woods agreement this week. . . . The long-controversial Canal project, the pipeline to carry oil from Canada to Alaska has quietly been declared "surplus" and will be sold—presumably to Canada. This was the pipeline which then "Senator" Truman so strongly condemned, and which General Brenton Somervell defended. Truman's chief peevish with Somervell was not that a mistake had been made, because mistakes are human, but that Somervell never would admit his mistake. At Manila, Gen. Douglas MacArthur hailed the prospect that his command will be reinforced "by those vast and powerful resources of war heretofore employed in the battlefields of Europe."

"Through this additional strength the Japanese empire will the more speedily be vanquished with greater economy of American and Allied lives than would be otherwise possible," MacArthur declared. "With the help of God, we shall not fail."

Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, commander of amphibious forces at Okinawa, called Japanese military strength still "a dark threat to peace and international decency."

Japanese Suicide Tactics Thought To Be Too Costly

GUAM, May 9 (AP)—Twenty-six minor U. S. fleet units, ranking from ammunition ships to landing craft, have been sunk by Japanese aerial attacks during the Okinawa operation "but these losses have not slowed up the Pacific campaign," Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said today.

"I don't think the results they (the Japanese) are achieving compensate for the losses they are taking," the admiral told correspondents at a press conference.

Some 3,000 enemy aircraft have been destroyed since start of the Ryukyus campaign March 18.

He described Okinawa as the largest and closest "rung in the island ladder approach to Japan." It is the most important objective American forces have attempted to take in the Pacific.

Japan's expenditure of its remaining air forces in persistent suicide attacks on American shipping off Okinawa as highly important and is "making sacrifices to defeat us there," he said.

Nimitz held his press conference shortly after issuing today's communique reporting that Navy planes sank or damaged 18 Japanese ships and smaller craft off Korea and Honshu and that army Mitchells damaged another off Honshu.

For a third straight day, battleships and cruisers heavily bombarded Japanese fortifications in the southern Okinawa line Tuesday and fired hundreds of illuminating shells by night to "effectively reduce the enemy's attempt at infiltration."

Statement On Japan Hailed

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—President Truman's statement of unconditional surrender for Japan was widely viewed in congress today as ending the way for the Japanese to end their futile struggle. Some legislators interpreted it too as lending credence to rumors of peace overtures from Tokyo.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) said he regarded it as "confirmation" of peace feeler reports.

Truman asked what unconditional surrender means for the Japanese people and supplied this answer:

"It means the end of the war. It means the termination of the influence of the military leaders who have brought Japan to the present brink of disaster."

"It means provision for the return of soldiers and sailors to their families, their farms, their jobs."

"It means not prolonging the present agony and suffering of the Japanese in the vain hope of victory."

"Unconditional surrender does not mean the extermination or enslavement of the Japanese people."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) called this a "tremendous important addition to the unconditional surrender formula."

so and resumed his chair he began gesticulating and arguing with the interpreters.

"Quickly the rumor circulated about the room that Keitel wanted to withdraw his signature. Keitel was requesting 24 hours more before the surrender went into effect. He claimed he did not have time to inform his troops of the terms of capitulation.

"Finally, the interpreter went over to Marshal Zhukov and stated Keitel's case. But there were three men listening, and three men who, more than any other, have crushed Berlin. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of the American strategic bombers, was one. Chief Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder of the RAF was another and Zhukov, who took Berlin, was the third, not one of them gave any sign of wishing to answer.

"When Keitel saw that he slumped his portfolio, containing the signed copies of the surrender. He stood stiffly, saluted briskly with his baton, and marched out of the room. It was the last word in humiliation for a Junker and a Nazi."

Red Cross Turns To Vet Problems

The advisory council of the Howard - Glasscock counties Red Cross chapter met at the headquarters room Tuesday at 8 p. m. to adopt local policies affecting service to veterans.

Roy Reeder, president, was in charge of the meeting and H. D. Norris gave a short review of the 1945 war fund drive.

Reports were given by service chairman and the group voted to disband for the summer months, meeting only when emergencies arise. Next scheduled meeting will be Tuesday September 11.

Those attending were Albert S. Darby, H. D. Norris, C. O. Nalley, E. L. Deason, Mrs. W. J. McAdams, Mrs. Reba Baker, Burl Haynie, Arthur Stallings, Mrs. Moree Sawtelle and Roy Reeder.

Juveniles Held

Two juveniles are being held by county law officials for investigation of a burglary at the Cauble school house Sunday afternoon. Juvenile delinquent officer J. B. Bruton said Wednesday that a victrola, records, scales and a first aid kit were taken from the school.

Flewellen

off again. The general in the plane overhead watched with grim amusement as the lone raider dodged through scattered anti-aircraft fire.

The crew bombed just outside the fire area and their bombs landed nicely. There were two explosions and flames shot up 2,000 feet. The bomber then headed back to sea and maintained its course to Iwo, where it landed.

Weather was responsible for the second adventure of the Big Spring boy. Flying to Kyushu in the early morning April 27 for a "milk run" attack on airfields, the crew struck thick weather and lost track of the other bombers before going over the target from the assembly point.

After not being able to climb out of it, they headed north and went clear to the northwest corner of Kyushu, a distance of 160 miles from the original target.

"Then we started back down the coast looking for targets," Lt. Flewellen said, "and all of a sudden we saw land. It looked like Nagasaki, but the city itself was closed in, so we began to make a run on a nearby town."

Suddenly they saw the clouds break over the sprawling city of Nagasaki and its great port, around which milled more than 100 small vessels. One large ship began twisting and turning, smoke billowing from her funnel. Then she stopped, apparently undecided as the bomber veered for a run across the dock.

There were two big explosions in the dock area, but there was no anti-aircraft fire which indicated the Japs were taken by surprise. The lone B-29 wheeled and headed south. Several hours later Lt. Flewellen put the craft down at Saipan, with ten minutes of gas left in his tanks.

Rental Investigations Are Conducted Here

Twenty-five investigations involving rental units in the Big Spring area, were made by S. S. Bates, investigator with the enforcement division of the OPA, during his official visit here last week.

Wallace Laws, local OPA rent control director, said Wednesday, that Bates did make an investigation of violations that involved 25 rental units and that it was possible some cases would be filed against local landlords who have not complied with regulations.

EXPENSIVE EGG

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—As the troop train rumbled through Tintah, Minn., someone in the kitchen car tossed an egg out the window. It hit Michael C. Conatell in the eye. The house yesterday passed and sent to the senate a bill to pay Conatell $4,339.20 damages for the injury.

MERRYMAKERS CELEBRATE V-DAY IN ONCE BLIGHTED CAPITALS

By EDWARD J. DENNEHY
LONDON, May 9 (AP)—Buoyant merry-makers in this British capital embarked today on their second V-E day celebration, while parading Soviet citizens in the streets of Moscow held their first rejoicings over the tidings of peace.

There was frolicking in the streets of Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Copenhagen and other cities to which peace had come after long tribulation.

In Oslo, capital of Norway, armed German soldiers strolled about the streets watching the jubilant Norwegian celebrants. That curious V-E day situation was due to the fact that Allied authorities had not yet been able to collect enemy arms.

Street fighting between Danish troops and former Nazi collaborators as well as Germans marred the celebration in Copenhagen.

Despite three earlier talks Prime Minister Churchill appeared on the balcony of the ministry of health at Whitehall last night and exchanged repartee with thousands jam-packed into that section.

Cheering crowds at Buckingham Palace brought King George and Queen Elizabeth out to greet them at midnight for a seventh time. The Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret slipped out of the palace, and accompanied by guards and officers, mingled with the throng.

The victory of the United Nations also was observed in some of Europe's neutral capitals.

In Lisbon Portuguese Premier Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar led the celebration with a toast "Let's welcome victory."

Allied flags—with the exception of Soviet Russia's—fluttered from buildings in Madrid, but there were no public demonstrations in the Spanish capital.

Pineapple "School" Delayed Until May 22

The pineapple preservation demonstration which was to be given here Thursday at the First Methodist church by Miss Marie Wilmett, war food emergency agent of the extension service, has been postponed, according to word from the Howard county home demonstration office.

A message was received here early today that Miss Wilmett is ill, but will give the demonstration on May 22.

Special Crop Fund Available

Prospects that the $16,322 special practices allotment by the AAA for Howard county might be expanded to meet needs were brighter Wednesday after A. H. Jefferies, AAA field representative, met with the local ACA committee.

M. Weaver, AAA administrative assistant, said Wednesday that district No. 6-A has been allocated $130,000 in an emergency or reserve fund to be drawn from in case the limited allowance is exhausted.

It is now possible to grant any reasonable request under any of the six practices carried out under the special allowance appropriation, and indications are that the sum is more than adequate since contractors for tanking jobs have not been too plentiful.

The local office and the county committee in launching the 1945 practices, plan to secure contractors if possible to carry on tanking projects in this area.

DALLAS, May 9 (AP)—Brig. Gen. C. B. Rucker told a conference of Eighth Service Command Personnel Officers today that posts and camps in the five states of the command would again fill with thousands of troops as overseas units returned to be retrained for duty elsewhere or inactivated and separated from service.

Pope Stresses Peace Problems

VATICAN CITY, May 9 (AP)—Pope Pius XII in an eight-minute broadcast marking the end of the European war said today that the continent now was faced "with gigantic problems and difficulties" and called on God to enlighten Allied leaders in bringing about a peace founded on the equality of all nations weak and strong.

"War has aroused everywhere discord, suspicion and hatred," Pontiff said. "It therefore" the world wishes to regain peace it is necessary that falsehood and rancor should vanish and in their stead sovereign truth and charity should reign."

Expressing thankfulness at the termination of the war in Europe, the pope declared his conviction that "if we want to build a lasting and a safe peace, it must be built on justice, comprehension and confidence."

The pontiff listed the "decay of public order, misery and hunger, the relaxing and brutalizing of customs and usages and the lack of discipline among youths" as immediate and disastrous consequences of war.

He said the speedy return home of war prisoners and interned civilians should be the "first element" in European reconstruction.

The Mountain that became a Gold Mine!

...and the company that helped build 11,000,000 war-time tires

This pile of discarded automobile tires (the picture was taken in 1936) is as non-existent today as the Big Rock Candy Mountains—where the cigarettes grew on trees and the springs gushed pure lemonade.

Maybe you remember driving past those junk yards where the homeless jalopies used to rust in the rain, and the pile of tires grew mountain-high.

And then, one day in December, 1941, that mountain became a gold mine!

In a few terrible moments, America's access to the raw rubber of the Indies was cut completely.

Throughout America, junk yards, garages, and back yards were scoured for every scrap of precious rubber that could be found. We were on a spot—a bad one.

The fact that we got off the spot is due, to a great extent, to companies such as Phillips. For it was Phillips chemical research ability and Phillips production facilities that produced an important share of the vital butadiene which is so essential to the manufacture of synthetic rubber!

Today, we think we have a well-earned right to stick out our chests—because the Phillips Petroleum Company is one of the largest producers of butadiene in the United States!

With today's ever-increasing emphasis on the chemical production of new and better things from petroleum, let the Phillips 66 Shield remind you that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.
