FORTY-FIRST YEAR

FARWELL, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1952

FROM THE HOPPER By HOP

The speaker at the Chamber of Commerce banquet last Friday evening called attention to the progress that had been made in America during the last fifty years.

Taking his cue, my mind reflected back through the years as I watched powerful caterpillar tractors uprooting trees on the courthouse grounds with an ease that made me marvel at the strength of those powerful American-built machines.

My mind went back to the days when land-clearing was always necessary before the land could be put into cultivation. As a lad, I lived in Hill County, where the best land was always timber-covered and brushy. To put this land into cultivation, it first must be cleared.

My mind went back to a time when I as a boy of about 15 years of age, contracted to clear just one acre in the midst of a heavily timbered section of land. I enlisted a couple of more lads, both about my age and just about as trifling, to assist me. Weeks rolled by as we toiled on the one-acre job.

The old swimming hole was too conveniently located for us to keep our minds on our business of clearing the land, with the result that days would come and go—and no timber cut.

Our job was to fell the trees with hand axes, cut up the wood in 4-foot lengths and cord is up in ricks; then burn all the brush. After we had toiled on the job most of the summer, my dad and uncle came by one day to lend us a hand. With their help, we finally completed the one-acre job.

That's the way land was cleared in my boyhood. But what a wonderful transformation has taken place since that time. Now a powerful machine moves in, rams into a tree of enormous size, and after a few snorts of that machine the tree yields and topples over. Then the machine just backs off, drops the blade to the base of the tree and kicks it off as though it were a pitchfork full of dry hay.

Yep, times have changed, when you begin to consider the advances that are evident all around you.

Progress always messes up things. Right now Third Street is impassable while the street paving crew is at work. Can hardly wait until the completed job greets my eyes.

Speaking about street paving, I would like to suggest that these boys keep their heavy cat tractors off the caliche streets in town. They have done considerable and useless damage to caliche-surfaced streets in town.

And furthermore, on the subject of street paving—why can't the property owners along Second Street get together and get this street paved while the crew is here?

Naturally, I am interested in this particular street because I happen to live on it. But when you consider everything, Second Street is one of the best residence streets in town, and it certainly should be paved while we have the opportunity.

Come on, fellows, let's get this job done!

Wheat Harvest Moves Toward Final Stages

Interrupted for some three days over the weekend by rains that fell here Friday afternoon and night, harvesting of the light wheat crop in this area moved toward the final stages by the middle of the week.

Most combines that were stopped Friday at noon, moved back into action Monday and Tuesday to complete the light job of gathering the 1952 yield.

While the yield is generally light this year, most growers say that it is exceeding their expectations in most cases. However, top yields have been running a slight 15 to 20 bushel average—and such yields are not common over the country on dry land plantings. Irrigated fields, quite naturally, are coming up to expectations, with some yields up to 35 bushels being reported.

As the harvest moved to the final stages, growers were taking advantage of the moisture in the fields and turning under the stubble just as rapidly as the combines were out of the way.

SPEAKS AT CHURCH

Reuben E. Nieves of Clovis was speaker at the Hamlin Memorial Methodist church Sunday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. M. H. Stroup.

"Must Resell America" Banquet Speaker Says

"We need to resell America," D. D. Monroe of Clayton, N. M., abstractor, world-traveler and internationally known speaker, told attendees at the Farwell Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night, in the high school auditorium.

Monroe asserted that too many Americans have fallen down on the job, that the general attitude has been to "let George do it, and now we are running out of Georges. We'll have to learn to do things ourselves," he added. "Why, we don't even raise our own kids anymore," he exclaimed.

The speaker advised that the Chamber of Commercés over the United States can begin selling America on the local angle; and can help build up Americanism in homes, businesses, schools, and above all, in the government.

"We've had both hands out getting something for nothing," he added, as he stressed that everybody in this country needs encouragement. "So many of us always have the urge to blame someone else," he says, "and now people must wake up to the fact that mankind has charted the last part of this earth and there is no place to run to, we must learn to face up to things." He pointed out that our part of the country, the Plains, is the last of the American frontier.

The speaker compared "Main Street" of Farwell with other cities and towns, adding the biggest and most basic part of America can be found right here in Farwell "on Main Street," which is the beginning spot to build America back to its former glory. He emphasized that citizens must work so that democracy won't die, and pointed out once great nations who had been reduced to poverty, when the people didn't work together.

Monroe then told Chamber of Commerce officials that they could bring people together who would otherwise be strangers and help them to work together. "There is so much selfishness, and this is a mighty poor time for (Continued on last page this section)

Four Fat Steers Die When Lightning Hits

The heavy thunder shower of the past Friday afternoon brought cheerful smiles to practically everybody except Jewel Castor, operator of the Farwell Feed Pens, located 2 miles south of this city.

At the height of the rainstorm, a bolt of lightning hit in the midst of Pen No. 3, instantly killing four fat steers that were hoisted together.

Castor said that the steers were fat and "ready for market" when the bolt struck. He estimated their weight at 1100 pounds each, with a value of "around $360 a head."

The carcasses were removed to a rendering plant in Clovis for disposal. "All we saved was the hides," Castor related.

Annual 4th of July Picnic Is Tomorrow

Plans are nearing completion for the annual Oklahoma Lane picnic, which is to get underway tomorrow (Friday) at 10 o'clock in the morning. Basket lunches will be served at noon and the day will be climaxed with the annual married man vs. single men baseball game.

The married men have their last year's title to defend in the annual game; with youngsters making plans to defeat their elders. The public is invited, Harold Carpenter says.

Doctor Considering Farwell Location

Dr. George M. Malouf, at present a major in the Air Force and located at Perrin Air Force Base, is considering Farwell as a location for medical practice.

Dr. Malouf has written local members of the Chamber of Commerce that he and his family of a wife and two girls will be here Friday evening to investigate this as a location for practicing his profession. He is described as a man of 45 years old, and is soon to be released from the Air Force. He says in his letter, "When I locate now, it is going to be for good . . ."

Local CC members and businessmen are arranging a reception for Dr. Malouf upon his arrival here late Friday.

Absentee Voting To Begin Here July 7

County Clerk Loyde Brewer stated today that absentee voting in the first Democratic primary election would begin here on Monday, July 7, and close on Wednesday, July 23.

Resident voters who plan to be away from home at the time of the election on July 26, may cast an absentee vote by appearing at the County Clerk's office, where they will be provided with a ballot, which may be cast immediately.

Parmer County residents who will be absent from their home voting precincts during the absentee voting period, will be required to contact the County Clerk's office and make application for an absentee ballot, which will be sent out by mail. Such ballots must be back in the hands of the clerk before midnight, July 23, Brewer stated.

He also said that special efforts would be made to see that all servicemen, eligible to vote, would be provided with that privilege this year. He suggested that members of the serviceman's family make application for the ballot, which would be forwarded direct to the man in service wherever he may be located. Such ballots, after they have been voted by the serviceman, must also be back in the clerk's hands before the end of the deadline on absentee voting.

County Chairman G. D. Anderson said today that the placings on the ballots had been completed and would be turned over to the printer this weekend.

TO NEW YORK

Aubrey Sprawls and daughter, Darlene, plan to accompany First Lt. Duane Sprawls to New York, N. Y., where the latter will sail for overseas duty in Europe.

The trio expects to leave here Friday by automobile, and Mr. Sprawls and daughter will return home by train. Lt. Sprawls has been given permission to let his car accompany him overseas. He expects to be stationed in Germany or Austria when he receives his assignment.

ORDERS CHANGED

Mrs. J. C. Robertson has received word that her son, J. C. (Junior) Robertson, who was slated to arrive home this month has received a change of orders and been recalled to the front lines. Robertson stated that he didn't know when he would be back in the states.

Bovina To Stage Huge Fireworks Display 4th

Final plans were being whipped into shape early this week by the businessmen of Bovina for the most spectacular fireworks display ever staged in Parmer County on the night of July 4th.

The huge display will start promptly at 9:15 p.m., Texas time, and move with rapid succession until the last display is sent aloft. The fire works will be touched off at the city park, directly in front of the high school grounds.

Frank Truitt and Scott Levins will have charge of touching off the rockets, and Truitt suggested today that spectators not try to crowd in too close. "Actually, they will be able to get a better view if they are three blocks away," Truitt emphasized, pointing out that all the fire works were of the aerial type that would go aloft when lighted.

With the exception of the aerial bomb blasts, the display will consist of rocket-type displays of brilliant lightings and showers of colorful streaming sparks, and fireballs. "We went in for beauty and not noise," Truitt said in discussing the fireworks display that the businessmen of Bovina have spent some $500 for.

The ladies of the Eastern Star are preparing an old-time country concession stand, which will be located on the grounds where refreshments, cold drinks and sandwiches will be sold the visitors. Money realized from the sale will be used in the charitable undertakings of the Eastern Star chapter.

Truitt emphasized that there would be no charge for viewing the fireworks display and he said that the Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the event, was expecting a great crowd to be present.

Livesay Trial To Begin Monday In Haskell County

The trial of Thomas L. Livesay, charged with the fatal beating of Joshua Blocher, 85-year-old recluse of Progress, last August, will open at Haskell Monday, when selection of a jury from a special venire will get underway.

When his trial opens in Haskell, Livesay will begin the third chapter in his effort to escape the electric chair for his part in the fatal beating of the aged Progress resident.

Twice previously, a mistrial has resulted in hearings in his case when efforts to obtain a jury were fruitless. After being brought to Parmer County from Bailey County, where the crime was allegedly committed, he was remanded to jail without bond when a jury could not be obtained.

Then Judge E. A. Bills transferred his case to Swisher County, with the same results. On Monday a third attempt will be made to bring his case to trial.

Livesay is charged as a co-defendant in the Blocher beating. Lester D. Stevens, who was charged with Livesay, was sentenced to the electric chair by a Bailey County jury. Both Livesay and Stevens were Amarillo smelter workers and are alleged to have fatally beaten the old man with robbery as their motive.

Paving Meeting Is Called Monday Night

Residents and property owners on Second Street will meet at the courthouse Monday night to consider plans for paving the street the entire length.

Edgar Martin, head of the D. & T. Construction Co., said today he would arrange to be present and offer his assistance in working out a satisfactory deal to pave this street.

The meeting will be held in the county court room, beginning at 8 o'clock and every property owner along the street is urged to be present. Other interested parties are welcome.

CITY'S INSURANCE RATE IN JEOPORDY

Farwell's fire insurance rate is in jeopardy and stands a good chance of being boosted considerably in the immediate future, according to a letter from George C. Hawley, chief engineer of the Fire Insurance Division of Texas.

The letter, addressed to Chief F. S. Thigpen, points out that the local fire department is not meeting the requirements with reference to drills and crew members.

"We wish to take this opportunity of pointing out to you that . . . we shall be forced to take drastic action and possibly raise your key rate to approximately $1.00, placing your city in an unprotected class," if steps are not taken immediately to remedy the situation that exists.

(Local insurance agents said the present key rate for the city was 79c.)

Otis Huggins, secretary of the local department, said today that the department must have additional firemen attending regular drill sessions to meet the requirements of the Insurance Division; and furthermore, at least two members of the department should attend the State Firemen's Training School at College Station in August.

More Street Paving Hinted for Farwell

With the work of paving Third Street moving along satisfactorily, speculation was being heard early this week that additional paving work was being considered.

The latest project, which seems to be working out favorably, would include a 3 or 4-block strip along C Ave., extending from Second Street east to the Church of Christ. Other programs are being talked, but as yet, no definite progress is being made.

Property owners on Second Street are to meet at the courthouse Monday night in an effort to work out a program that would pave this street the entire length.

Mrs. J. C. Robertson visited her daughter in Amarillo last week.

Farmers throughout this immediate section report a general improvement of row crop conditions following the good rains that visited this area last Friday afternoon and night.

Young crops that were beginning to wither under the intense heat and continued dry weather, have responded to the moisture and are showing much promise, farmers contacted early this week, report.

Unfortunately, the rains did not cover as much country as could be hoped. The thunder shower that moved in shortly after noon Friday, came from the southwest and moved in a general northeast direction. During the night, the rain clouds moved in from the northwest.

Farmers living southwest of here seem to have benefited most from the moisture. W. J. Matthews, living six miles down the state line, reported two inches. Jewel Castor reported 2½ inches at his feed lots, also down the state line. John Hadley, who farms west of the state line, said three full inches fell at his place.

To the southeast, the rain extended as far as Lariat, where it was lighter to the south and east of there. Lee Jones said that a full inch fell at his home, but, "down in the field, where I needed it, less than a half inch fell." Jones added that he never cut his irrigation wells off.

Tom Burnett of the Pleasant Hill community, said that the moisture did not extend "more than six or seven miles north" of here.

"In Texico-Farwell, rain gauges registered two and upwards to 2½ inches.

Farmers in the rain belt report crops looking good after the rain. Characteristic of such reports was given out by Ed Muckelroy, southwest of Texico, who said that he believed crops in his community were "as good as I have ever seen, although they are late."

Finish Farm Road Now Open to Travel

The new farm-to-market road No. 1731, that begins at the Oklahoma Lane community on the south and extends to 8½ miles north of Bovina, was completed last week and is now open to travel the entire distance.

Construction crews moved off of the job early last week and highway crews have been erecting signs along the route this week.

The modern all-weather, black-top road taps the rich farming communities of Okla. Lane on the south and then extends north of Bovina for a distance of 8½ miles to "cross roads," tapping another prosperous farming section.

The business loop of Highway 86 connects the north and south roads through the town of Bovina.

Inspect House Every Spring

A house, like an automobile, requires periodic inspections to make sure it is functioning properly. To detect damage resulting from the winter battle against snow, rain, and wind, an inspection in the spring is an essential part of the home maintenance program.

The roof, which takes the worst beating because it is in the most exposed position, deserves first consideration. Also inspect windows and doors, sidewalls, and foundation.

The whole house can suffer if a leak. From a single small hole in the roof, water can seep through interior walls to woodwork, crack plaster and ruin paint. That's why the time to get on a new roof is before an old roof starts to leak.

Unless a roof is damaged in one place as it might be by a falling limb, the first leak is a sign that the roof is "starting to go" over. Roofing material wears out at a uniform rate. For this reason, re-roofing is much more satisfactory than patching.

Asphalt shingles are the most extensively used material in home roofing jobs. The material itself is economical and expensive application methods are not required. Asphalt shingles usually are applied on top of the worn-out roofing. This eliminates the expense of tearing the old material off.

When inspecting windows and doors, look for cracks between the frames and the sidewall material. If these cracks are minor, they probably can be caulked.

Siding should be checked to see if it is loose, warped, or rotted. Before worn-out siding material is replaced, the sheathing underneath should be inspected to determine if it has been damaged.

All exposed sections of the foundation should be examined for cracks. Foundation cracks ordinarily can be patched, and loose stones can be recemented. Look to see if water has washed away the earth next to foundation walls. In extreme cases, foundations are determined to such an extent that they shift out of position.

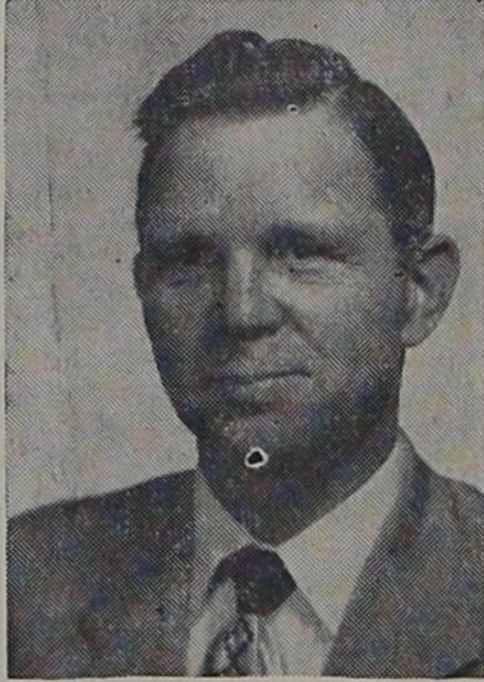

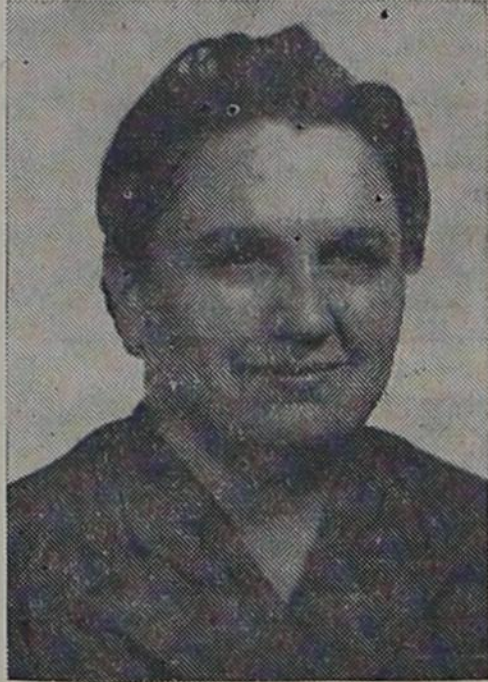

Vaccination of nursing sows is invaluable because it may cause them to stop lactating.

White snakeroot is believed to be responsible for more cases of livestock poisoning than any other plant.

THESE ARE YOUR

Friends & Neighbors

(Third in a series of informative articles revealing little known facts about well known people in and around Texico-Farwell and nearby communities. Our sole purpose is to promote better acquaintances—in the hope of promoting better friendships.)

It was back in the middle of the depression in the early 1930's when Rev. C. A. Hatcher of Texico, met his wife—and after an 11-day courtship, the young couple were married, and they have been together practically ever since. She was 19 at the time of their marriage and he was 18 years of age.

The above sequence took place in Hollis, Okla. where Mrs. Hatcher had lived all her life, and where her husband was working at the time. She was living at home with her widowed mother; he was originally from Tipton, Okla., but was working in a filling station there.

Mrs. Hatcher remembers their meeting easily. She was with another boy at a medicine show, when Hatcher walked up and asked the boy "Who's the girlfriend?" The two young people were introduced by the mutual friend, and the three of them were together that evening. From that time on, the Hatchers were inseparable.

Rev. and Mrs. Hatcher have been in Texico for about three years, where he is pastor of the United Pentecostal church.

The Hatchers remained in Hollis about three weeks after their marriage, then moved back to his home town, Tipton, where he farmed until 1940. They moved from there to Duncan, Okla. where he was employed by the Rock Island Refinery Co. for seven years. Along about this time, Bro. Hatcher was troubled with a great decision.

So in 1947, he abruptly quit his job and went to Abilene, Texas where he entered the ministry, under the direction of Rev. J. J. Kinsfather. The Hatchers remained in Abilene for two and one-half years, then moved to Hereford for three months, before making their home in Texico. "The best decision I ever made was to go into the work of the Lord," the pastor states. At the time of his decision, he had been a member of the church for eight years.

"I felt the call, so I just gave up my job and obeyed the Lord," he states.

Rev. and Mrs. Hatcher have three children, all girls. One daughter, Margie Ann, passed away at the age of three months. Daughters are: Mary Lou, who just completed her high school work at Texico Schools; Patricia, 15 years of age; and Carol, 8.

Asked about any numerous incidents which they recall about their married life, Mrs. Hatcher relates that her husband was living with his grandmother at the time of their marriage. "She always accused me of kidnapping him since I was a little

Agent Jones Explains Top Pasture Production

COLLEGE STATION, July—Pastures and meadows are a cash crop and should be used as such, Joe Jones, county agent, says. E. M. Trew, associate agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service points out that many Texas pastures are not giving maximum production because they are mishandled.

He says farmers cannot expect high yields of beef or milk from land that is low in organic matter or minerals. The first step in building a pasture is to determine what factors are limiting its production of forage. Poor forage production can be caused by many things, but physical condition, mineral deficiencies and organic matter content of the soil are major considerations.

Trew points out that many soil production and management problems are directly or indirectly related to organic matter. Poor physical condition of soils is usually caused by a lack of organic matter. The establishment and maintenance of a plentiful supply of organic matter in the soil is important for maximum production. Once perennial grasses or legumes are established on a piece of land, the decomposition of the roots of these plants increase the organic matter which improves infiltration of water, reduces losses from erosion and furnishes food for bacteria. The bacteria in turn will break down the organic matter into nitrogen and minerals for the use of succeeding plants.

Another factor to be considered in building the pasture is the nitrogen content of the soil. A soil low in organic matter is low in nitrogen and a soil with sufficient organic matter may also be deficient in nitrogen. Trew cites as an example a Titus County demonstration. In the fall of 1950, a bermuda grass pasture was renovated, manured and 500 pounds of 0-14-7 commercial fertilizer applied. The following July ammonium nitrate was applied at rates of 150 and 300 pounds per acre. The check plot received no nitrogen and produced 1,440 pounds of hay per acre.

older than he," Mrs. Hatcher explains, "but I really didn't, he proposed."

She adds that since they were married in the heart of the depression, they did have a hard time, but they stuck it out and worked together. "I think hardship makes you appreciate each other more," she adds, "especially when you have to struggle to be together, and then we lost our first child too," she adds.

Rev. Hatcher's father is also a minister, at Burnett, Texas.

The plot receiving the 150 pounds per acre application produced 3,280 pounds of hay and the 300 pound application resulted in a hay yield of 4,840 pounds. The cost for fertilizer was $6.40 and $12.75 respectively for the two applications.

The increased yield within the month produced hay at less than $7.00 per ton. The response from nitrogen was rapid and in addition to an increased yield, the protein content of the hay was higher.

By using all possible soil improving practices, Texas farmers may increase the production from both their row crop land and pastures. Continuous row cropping will deplete the organic matter in the soil, but by rotating row crops and pastures matter may be maintained at a profitable level, Trew says.

Timely Talks

FROM THE TRIBUNE

This Week:

Concrete Evidence of Advertising's Worth

There is a certain businessman in Texico-Farwell who advertises regularly and thoroughly in The Tribune. One particular item in his place of business was selling in quantities of from 10 to 12 each week. The businessman singled out this particular part of his business and decided to give it a "shot in the arm." He slapped a low price on the item, gave it prominent attention in his next week's ad, and ordering 60 of these items for the next week, sat back to await results.

You guessed it, he sold all of them. This, he confided in us recently, was after hearing an employee of his store remark he must be crazy to be ordering so many. No, we are not presenting testimonials. We are driving home hard, authentic facts about advertising in this newspaper. The businessman did his part by lowering the price and spending some time preparing the announcement for the advertisement. The ad did the rest.

There is another Texico-Farwell merchant who we are sure would have no objection to our using his name in connection with this series of Timely Talks. However, we will refrain from a personal reference in these columns if we possibly can. This particular businessman is as thoroughly sold on advertising as anyone we have ever known. He even inspires us on occasion. He uses The Tribune as a medium in conjunction with radio and direct-mail advertising. He is sold on advertising, period.

Here we are chiefly concerned with newspaper advertising, but reference to him will point up some good points in all three mentioned mediums. This particular man does business in a huge volume, considering the size of Texico-Farwell, and knows that the secret of big-volume business lies in big-volume advertising. Because of his tremendous volume, he can do business on a small margin of profit. Beyond any doubt, he has made his competition felt for hundreds of miles. What does this mean to you, the reader and the consumer? Nothing but good news!

If his volume is big, he must employ additional personnel to handle his merchandise, thereby providing for jobs in this community. That's good.

If his profit is small, you are a direct beneficiary to his method of doing business. That's good.

If his competition is keen, he also either brings down prices of competing merchants, or brings their service up. That's good.

In addition, he is satisfied with the return from his labor and investment. It is an ideal, workable situation for all concerned.

Advertising is a practical, applicable phase of this community's, as well as the nation's, business.

Newspaper advertising is not an undeveloped, unproved field in any sense. Likewise, advertising in well established weekly newspapers is an established good business practice. Weekly newspaper advertising does not need to be proved. The fact that it exists at all is proof positive that it is a necessary, vital part of the nation's economy.

Only 16 Prisoners Committed in Past Ten Years

Huntsville.—Parmer County in the past ten years has committed 16 prisoners to the Texas Prison System.

This was revealed recently in a study conducted inside the prison by graduate students at Sam Houston State Teachers College, under the supervision of Dr. Rupert C. Koeninger, head of the college's sociology department.

In number of commitments per thousand population, the County ranked 80th in the state with 2.76 persons per thousand committed, the study further showed.

Ten counties during the period, 1942 to 1951, representing 41.73 per cent of the total population based on the 1950 census, committed 50.27 per cent of the prisoners.

In the order of the number of commitments they were Harris, Dallas, Bexar, El Paso, Tarrant, Hidalgo, Jefferson, Travis, Cameron and Wichita. These counties committed 11,424 of the 22,705 total commitments.

Highest among them in percentage of population in commitments was El Paso County, which sent 5.77 men per thousand and ranks ninth in the State in percentage of commitments. Next was Hidalgo, which committed 4.51 per thousand, nineteenth in the State. Others and the number per thousand committed were Harris, 4.07, Wichita, 3.76, Dallas, 3.38, Cameron, 3.13, Jefferson, 3.18, Bexar, 2.87, Travis, 2.74 and Tarrant, 2.66.

In 1951, the order of number of commitments ran according to the ten year average, except that Nueces County was eighth. Over the ten years, Nueces County, which ranks seventh in population, is twelfth in number of commitments.

In number of commitments per thousand, Culberson County heads the list the ten years, having sent an average of 14.25. Next is Sterling with 11.7, Dallam County is third with 10.21. Fourth is Hartley with 7.32; then Stephens with 6.98.

Two counties—Kennedy and Loving—have not committed anyone to the prison in the ten years.

More persons were committed to the prison in 1951 than in any other year during the study. There were 3,056. The lowest year was 1943 when 1,597 were committed. The number has increased each year since, except in 1948 when the number fell below the 1947 mark.

The percentage of increase in number of commitments in 1951, however, fell below that of the previous four years. There were only two per cent more in 1951, as compared with a 13.7 increase in 1950.

Delicious Quick-Frozen Frying Chicken Is Versatile, Tempting Main Course

Fried chicken is a versatile main course that fits well into almost any sort of menu. And if you start out with a quick-frozen chicken that comes in packages of specified weights, 1 lb.-14 oz., 2 lb.-6 oz., you can get just the size you want for the number of people you have to serve and you will be sure of a delicious and easily prepared mainstay.

French-fried potatoes go well with the fried chicken. You can buy them quick-frozen, like the chicken, assuring excellent flavor as well as easy preparation. Potato balls are good with the fried chicken, too. The easiest and most economical way to make them is to scoop them out of raw potatoes, which have been pared, and to boil them and the rest of the potatoes separately until tender. Drain both when done. Send the potato balls, with melted butter and minced parsley, to the table; put the rest of the potato in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. Next day cut it neatly and serve with a medium white sauce, hot and well seasoned, as creamed potatoes.

Any of the delicately flavored vegetables goes with fried chicken, and you can get these quick-frozen, too. Quick-frozen golden sweet corn, boiled and spooned into parboiled halved green peppers, seasoned with butter, pepper and salt, and baked for 10 minutes, is sure to be a favorite.

Ice Cream Is Good For Reducing Lunch

Nutrition studies at Cornell University recently show that plain ice cream makes a first-rate reducer's lunch says the Dairy Products Institute of Texas.

Dr. A. C. Dahlberg of the Cornell Experiment Station revealed that the ice cream meal gives topnotch nutritional quality in protein and important minerals and vitamins.

"A dish of ice cream gives between 200 and 400 calories, varying with size of scoop and richness of the cream," says George Clarke, Institute vice president.

"This is well within the lunch time allowance of slimming diet. However, it must be a dish of plain ice cream. No chocolate sauce, no nuts or whipped cream or syrups.

"Since ice cream can be obtained at any restaurant or soda fountain, it's an easy answer for reducers whose lunchtime is limited and who don't want to scan a long menu in search of non-fattening foods."

Sausage Links Served In Batter Pudding

Today pork sausage is welcomed as a dinner as well as a breakfast meat. Here's a typical thrifty main dish with sausage links in a batter pudding. According to Reba Staggs, home economist, to prepare this dish simply place the links over corn meal batter and bake.

Sausage Links in Batter Pudding
1 pound sausage links
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup corn meal
4 eggs

Heat milk in double boiler. Add salt and corn meal. Stir constantly and cook 10 to 15 minutes. Cool slightly and add well-beaten eggs. Pour mixture into a well-greased baking dish and place sausage links on top. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 to 45 minutes.

Miss Doris Kent, Cpl. Donald Christian Repeat Nuptial Vows

Oklahoma Lane Methodist church was the scene of informal nuptial vows read for Miss Doris Kent and Cpl. Donald Christian Thursday evening. Rev. Vernon Willard, pastor of the church, officiated for the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Kent and Cpl. Christian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Christian, both of Oklahoma Lane.

Background for the exchange of vows, was a high arch decorated with huge pink lover's knots and white love cord, with bouquets of white and pink gladiolas and carnations on either side of the Central arrangement.

Miss Caryetta Grissom accompanied Miss Ruth Caldwell, as she sang "Because"; and "Oh Promise Me" was used by Miss Grissom for the processional. Miss Caldwell also sang "The Lord's Prayer" to conclude the ceremony as the couple knelt at the altar.

Candelighters were Scott Gober and Billy Don Crume, who also served as ushers. Little Steve Foster, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer, and best man was Wendol Christian, brother of the bridegroom.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Billy Joe Foster, who chose a dress of pink embroidered organdy, with a corsage of white carnations and white accessories.

Miss Grissom played "Lohengrin" softly, as the bride entered the church. Given in marriage by her father, Miss Kent chose a simple street length dress of white linen lace over blue satin, which was cut with a fitted jacket and three quarter length sleeves. Completing her costume was a short white veil hung from a lace toque.

The bride carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses and star lilies. "For something old," she wore a blue sapphire ring given her mother by her father during their courtship; "something new" was her necklace of pearls, which were linked together with a gold chain, a gift of the bridegroom. For "something borrowed," Miss Kent carried a white Bible belonging to Caryetta Grissom; and something blue was a blue garter, a gift of Bettie Foster.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kent chose a beige dress of eyelid shantung and Mrs. Christian wore a lilac string lace dress. Both mothers had corsages of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, guests were invited to the basement of the church for a reception honoring the couple. The lace-covered serving table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake which depicted minute white wedding bells and pink roses, and was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The crystal punch service completed the table.

Miss June Christian, sister of the bridegroom, served cake; and Mrs. Wendol Christian assisted her at the punch service. Mrs. Tom Foster presided at the guest book.

Following the reception, the bride and bridegroom were escorted to another class room, where they found a shower of gifts displayed.

Mrs. Christian is a 1951 graduate of Farwell High School and has attended McMurry College in Abilene for one year. Cpl. Christian is a graduate of Oklahoma Lane High School and attended Texas Tech in Lubbock for three years before entering the Air Corps.

The bride and bridegroom departed on a brief honeymoon to an undisclosed destination. They will be at home in Roswell, N. M. as long as he is stationed there.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Kent and son, Joe Bob of Sweetwater and Jackie Feagan of Amarillo.

Must Resell America

anyone who wants to stay in business, to be selfish," he adds.

Monroe stated that the number one problem in the United States today is not soil erosion or inflation, but mind erosion. "If we fail to imbue ourselves with the leadership of which we are capable, we are guilty of the most inglorious of acts," he pointed out.

Most people in the United States don't remember World War I, 52 percent do not remember the Republican administration; and many do not even remember the conditions after World War II, the speaker told listeners. "People tend to forget," he says. "People are just affected so often and so much by so many things," he adds.

He emphasized that in 50 years, civilization has conquered time, and space and has seen the world shrink to postage stamp size. Things considered impossible in 1900, now are commonplace; for instance, one can now transact business anywhere on the globe, in just a few minutes, he told listeners.

"If you want to know the changes that have taken place in 50 years, merely compare everything you do in a day, with the way it would have been accomplished in 1900," he said. "Yes, we've had wonderful progress in the past years, but there is always tomorrow," he warned.

"We need to stop and think, too many people just sit and wait for the future. Too many people have lost faith in themselves, and leave the solution of all problems to someone else. Americans spend so much time on things that are urgent, they don't have time for things that are important," he said.

The speaker then stressed need for leadership. "A machine can do the work of 50 ordinary men, but it can't take the place of one extraordinary man," he advised, and he told attendants that America never has been or ever will be perfect, but the things in this country were accomplished by men working for their own security and with free enterprise. "Things didn't just happen, they were created by the American way of life," he recounted.

As he encouraged listeners to look into the future, he added. "In the year 2000, people will be making a living at things that we do not now know about." He urged the Chamber of Commerce to find a common ground and a common interest with all with whom they come in contact. "It's not the go-getter who is important, but the go-giver who leaves the community happy." And he points out, that the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce are not isolated. They are found all over the United States.

"I urge you to take a new civic pride in the place you call home," he said, as he concluded "May the happiest days you've ever known, in the past, be the saddest days you will ever know in the future."

About 150 people were present for the banquet, including visitors from Portales, Amarillo, Bovina, Friona, Lazbuddie, Topeka, Kansas; Almagordo, N. M. and Muleshoe. Carl Davis, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce was master of ceremonies.

Monroe replaced Wes Izzard, publisher of the Amarillo Daily News, as banquet speaker, when Izzard was forced to cancel his engagement.

Hurshel Harding Gets Special Recognition

Hurshel R. Harding, a second year law student in the Baylor University School of Law, and son of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Harding of Farwell, recently received recognition for his work on the "Baylor Law Review," the law school's quarterly legal publication.

An article written by Harding and published in the winner, 1952 issue of the "Law Review," was chosen by a national publication. "The Insurance Law Journal," for reprinting in their May, 1952, issue, in a symposium of life insurance case comments. The comment, entitled "Presumption of death from seven years unexplained absence," was one of four such comments selected from law reviews throughout the country for reprinting.

Clarendon Plans Big Celebration for Fourth

CLARENDON.—Over two thousand dollars in Rodeo prize money, a handsome handmade saddle and shop made cowboy boots is proving very attractive to the rodeo performers of the amateur circuit and surrounding ranches as can already be judged by the entries that have been received for the big three day celebration to be held in Clarendon on July 3rd, 4th and 5th.

Sixteen beeves will be served in the free barbecue on the courthouse lawn at 11:30 on the mornings of the Fourth. Free barbecue and rodeos are traditional with the Clarendon celebrations and this year is no exception. H.M. "Flip" Breedlove, Donley County Agent is in charge of the barbecuing which will be served with all the trimmings.

"Cowboys from over a hundred and fifty miles from Clarendon have already called to enter the rodeo contests" according to Jimmy Faulkner, Chamber of Commerce manager who is acting as rodeo secretary. Rodeo events include the girl sponsors barrel races, the wild bull rush, wild mare races, calf roping, bareback bronc riding, bulldogging, bull riding, ribbon roping and cutting horse contests. "The number of contestants promises to reach an all time high which will make the rodeo better than ever" Faulkner continued.

Other attractions are the dances each night at the American Legion Hall with Emmett Allen and his Sunset Rambler, the Old Settlers get-together and the matched horse races on the afternoon of the fifth.

Bertha Owens Gives Girls' State Report

I enjoyed my trip to Girls State at Austin very much, it was really interesting although the weather was very hot. I left Farwell on June 16 about 11:00 p.m. and arrived in Austin the next day around noon. There we were met and taken out to the State School for the Deaf where we were to stay.

When we arrived at the School for the Deaf, we registered and were assigned to our rooms and political parties. We were also assigned to the House or Senate. I was a member of the Senate. The next morning, the study of our city, county, and state government began. Many interesting activities had been planned for us. One which was very interesting was a trip to the state capitol where we met in regular session just as our state senators and representatives do. Gov. Shivers made a speech to us while we were in session. We also visited in the Governors mansion and many other interesting places.

Ruth Parker of Port Arthur was elected governor of Blue Bonnet Girls State. June Knolle of Houston and Sharon Jones of Beaumont were chosen to go to Girls Nation which is held at Washington.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks to the American Legion Auxiliary and others who made it possible for me to attend Girls' State.

CARD OF THANKS

The recent bereavement which has visited our home has brought to us a greater appreciation of our friends. Such kindnesses and neighborly thoughtfulness can never be forgotten.

Texas Girls' State Report Is Given

By Kayla Felts

I returned home from Austin at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. All of us that went to Girls' State have sufficiently recovered, but I doubt that Austin will ever be the same, after the influx of 300 Girl Staters.

By the time our bus reached Austin, there were sixteen of us on it. Most of the regular passengers scheduled to take the bus cancelled their reservations after getting a glimpse of us.

We arrived at the terminal in Austin a few minutes after lunch (of which we had none, by the way) and were taken in taxicabs immediately to the Texas School for the Deaf. There we registered and were assigned to our dormitories.

The dormitories were called cities, and there were from twenty to forty beds in each city. It was a cause of first come, first served about the window situation. Fortunately, I got there first, and I grabbed a bed by a window. It really came in handy as a place to hang, put, or throw my junk in those crowded conditions.

In our city, there were approximately thirty girls, and a wider variety of contrasts you have never seen. We had blondes, brunettes, redheads; tall and skinny, short and fat; tall and fat; short and skinny. We were Protestant, Spanish, Norwegian, Catholic, and German. A girl four feet, eleven inches tall bunked next to a girl who was six feet and one inch.

The first night we named our cities. After much discussion and argument on the "manless" situation: "No Man's land" "Manless Junction", "Old Maid Corners" and the like, we finally decided on "Waldorf Hysteria." Very appropriate, and the counsellors proclaimed it the best of all.

Everyday routine was principally the same, reveille at 6:30, flag raising at 6:45 with exercises following. We weren't supposed to get up until the bugle blew at 6:30, but the idea of three hundred sleepy girls getting up, dressed, and out in fifteen minutes is haywire. So we got up anywhere from 6:00 to 6:15.

Every night, and sometimes in the morning and afternoon too, we had an address by a prominent member of the Auxilliary, politician, or a person connected in some way with the University of Texas.

The House of Representatives and the Senate were organized the first night. Every sixth girl that registered was assigned to the Senate, and those of us that were left comprised the House.

Pierce Johnson, a member of the Texas House of Representatives helped organize the House. He gave us the form by which House Meetings are carried on, and we practiced them faithfully during the entire week.

To study parliamentary procedure in civics is one thing, but to practice it in a regular session of Congress is quite another. One can't realize the actual formality of the thing until he participates in it himself.

For instance, if a girl has the floor, and another member wishes to question her on the particular bill, resolution, or amendment he has authored, the Speaker of the House must be addressed first. Then follows such a rigamarole, the poor girl is likely to forget the question she wanted to ask in the first place.

Complicated. For three periods of one hour each, we studied city, state, and county governments under the supervision of our Junior Counsellors. Most of us had studied civics in school, so we at least knew which side was up.

The first day, we organized our parties. We had two, the Federalists and the Nationalists. I was a member of the former and a Federalist Governor was elected. Our slogan was "the top heads for the feds", and when the election returns came in, that chants echoed from one end of the assembly hall to the other. When the parties were organized, the Feds were on one side of the building, and the Nationalists were on the other. It was a contest from the first to see if one side could out yell the other. P.S. It was a tie.

Filing for public offices had to be completed by noon, Wednesday, and we had to pay our poll tax by then, too. Fees for state offices were 50c, county, 25c; city, 10c, and our poll tax was 1c. I was elected Fire Chief of Waldorf Hysteria. So?? No fires.

Primary elections were held Wednesday, general elections, Thursday. When the final returns came in, five Feds and five Nationalists were elected to the ten top offices of the state. It can be said that neither party was better than the other, but we really had our opinions.

Thursday night, the banquet honoring the newly elected officials was given, and to put it very mildly, "a good time was had by all." There was special entertainment provided by an instrumental trio from the University, and our junior counsellors put on a floor show. Flashbulbs popped merrily during the whole affair, and to top it all, John Ben Shepperd was our speaker. Not that we were prejudiced, but he was the favorite of every citizen of Girls' State. He was a honey. He firmly believed that Girls' and Boys' States should be held together. Need I say more?

Friday we went in a group (all three hundred of us, with a police escort, yet!) on a tour of the Texas Memorial Museum on the University campus, the Governor's Mansion, and the State Capitol. We were all completely taken with the whole trip, but the biggest thrill of all was in the capitol. We convened the House and Senate Chambers just to get the "feel" of it, and it was so wonderful. In a joint session of congress, Governor Allan Shivers gave us an address.

Saturday was our day. We went swimming at Barton Springs all afternoon, then returned to the School for the Deaf for barbecued chicken. I think they had three hundred chickens for three hundred girls, and we really did them justice.

To be chosen to go to Girls' State is an honor. You meet the most wonderful people in the state, and you have a marvelous opportunity to learn the procedure of our government.

BONE DRY HUMOR

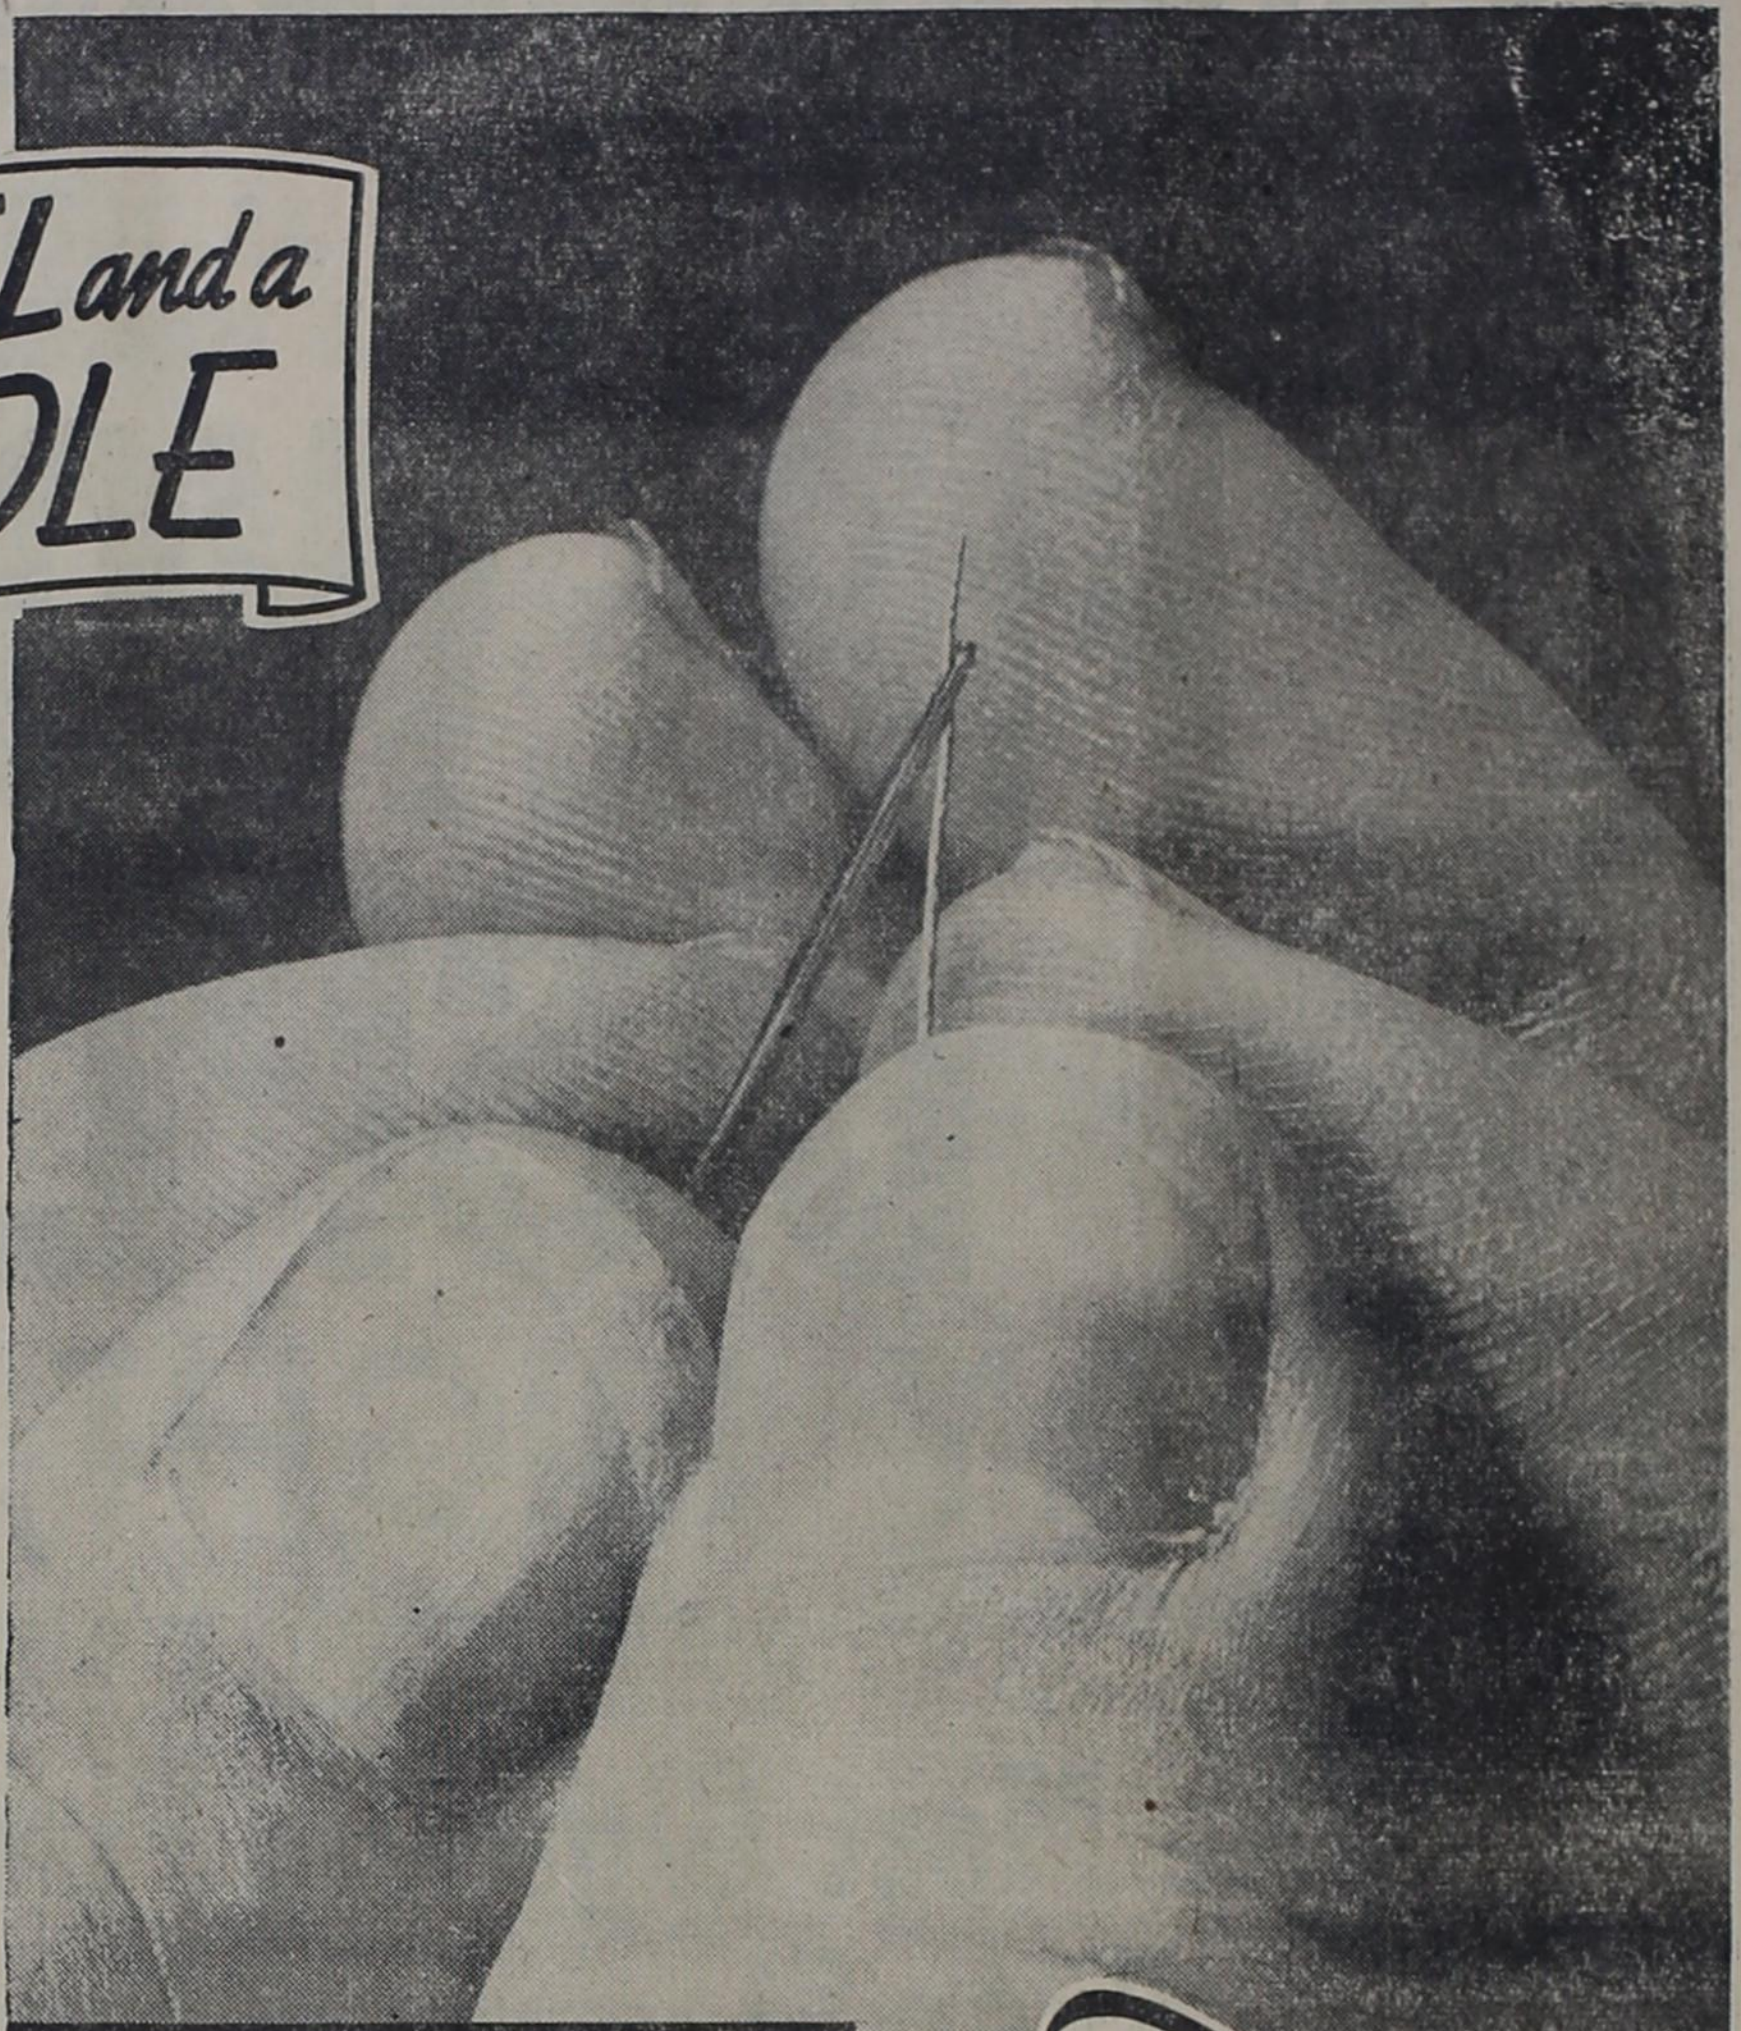

The butcher was weighing a roast when his customer observed: "Say, you're giving me a lot of bone there, aren't you?"

"Oh, no," answered the butcher. "You're paying 99 cents a pound for it."

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Teacher: "If your mother gave you a large apple and a small one and told you to divide with your brother, which would you give him?"

Johnnie: "Do you mean my little brother or my big brother?"

The world's great Teacher has left us with a word of wisdom that never loses its charm nor its truthfulness, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

There are some things that money cannot buy; in fact all the really great values of our world cannot be bought. Money can secure food and houses and clothing and all sorts of necessary goods for our convenience and our comfort. But money alone is pretty weak and foolish. The old Spartan mother said to a son who complained that his sword was too short, that he must add a step for himself to lengthen the sword; and that was the absolutely essential part of the equipment. That is still true. Helpful as money may be, you are more important. Real friends and genuine fellowship wait for the extra step that you must take. Love and happiness in a home are not bought; they are the product of loving and trusting and dependable souls.

Camels do not go through needles' eyes; nor do human kingdoms of value answer to the demand of money alone. But with God all things are possible. Rich men may enter God's kingdom if they will love Him more than they love their money. Any man may enter the kingdom on the same basis. People who trust in things and who find that so much can be bought for a price will discover with difficulty that education and love and religion and trust must be gained by sheer personal worth and goodness. Greatly then should we honor men and women of wealth who are first good people and kind and generous. They have proven to be masters of things and not their servants. Let's use what money we have for good but let's never think money is a substitute for character or for piety.

WAS $6.25
NOW $1.37

It's getting to be a rare day when you see a real, genuine bargain advertised. In these days of planned economy everything seems to be included in the plans except economy.

But we have here an honest-to-Pete bargain to tell you about. It's a bargain because it's much more useful than it once was, and costs much less than it used to.

It's the television set.

In 1948 our 10-inch screen set cost $6.25 per square inch of picture. Today, our 20-inch set costs only about $1.37 per square inch, and gives you a much finer picture almost four times the size.

So, you see, with all the forces of inflation, a counterforce has been quietly at work. Research and engineering are steadily plugging along—improving products—making them do more, cost less, and last longer.

At least, that's the way it is at General Electric.

Sure, it's smart to look at the price tag. But it's also smart to look beyond . . . to the performance of the product and the name of the maker. The best possible products at the lowest possible prices—that's G.E.'s idea of good business.
