Y'all come

First, a personal note today. We've moved into our new home and, thankfully, most of the packing boxes are out of the way. And my family would like to say "thank you" to those who've helped us set up in this fine community. So, we're going to have an open house (is that the right term?) where folks we've met, or those we haven't, can come over and say hello (and there's no need to bring anything). We'll have some coffee, punch and cookies, and it will give us a chance to tell the folks of the Twin Cities how much we appreciate their welcoming us here. The open house will be from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday, March 3, at our home, 105 "I" St. in Farwell. For those who may not know where it is, it's near the Beauty Box.

One important point to make: there are TWO homes using the same address (and naturally I'd have to buy one!). Next door to us is the Darren Sudderth home. He uses the number "105E" and mine is "105W" -- although there's no "W" with it at present. Anyway, just look for the maroon Chevy Nova in the driveway -- the one that has oxidized; it's a dead giveaway that it's our place.

Of course, if you wander into the wrong house, I sure hope Darren and his family have some refreshments ready for you, too!

Well, we're getting close to the election deadline for several races: Lazbuddie school board, Farwell school board, Farwell city and Farwell Hospital District.

C'mon, you folks who have been talking of being in a leadership position. Get on the stick. Get out there and sign up. The more folks who sign up to run, the better. It gives the community better options. Plus, you are performing a community service by willing to volunteer your time and expertise to help lead your area.

A "thank you" ought to go to the folks who helped run the Farwell and county livestock shows, and who have taken the time to go with our young adults on the San Antonio and Houston trips.

If you run into any of those folks, be sure to give them a tip of your hat. That's a lot of time they are taking -- and it's very worthwhile. Speaking of "thank you's," I thought a really nice job was done at the Farwell Convalescent Center chapel open house and the dedication of the Allen organ at Hamlin United Methodist Church.

A pat on the back for the folks who put on those affairs, too.

I see that another old, abandoned building has been torn down along the highway in Texico. Way to go.

The sooner some of these monstrosities can be demolished, the better. When I first arrived in the Twin Cities with my family, I had to do a lot of explaining that we were not moving to a ghost town. Unfortunately, the first sight visitors get of the Twin Cities is a negative image due to that aspect.

I don't know much about getting some of these antique, abandoned places demolished, but it seems to me that Farwell sure could take a lesson from the folks in Texico.

Nice job, Texico.

Those folks on the Farwell Hospital District Board have done a super job at filling an important community need: getting a drug store here.

Folks, I know that people like Don Williams and Tom Nichols have worked many, many hours on this project. And it has worked out just great.

If you get a chance when you meet one of those board members, let them know that you appreciate all the hours they put in, first to get the building, then to get an individual to invest a great amount of cash in order to open a drug store in the Twin Cities.

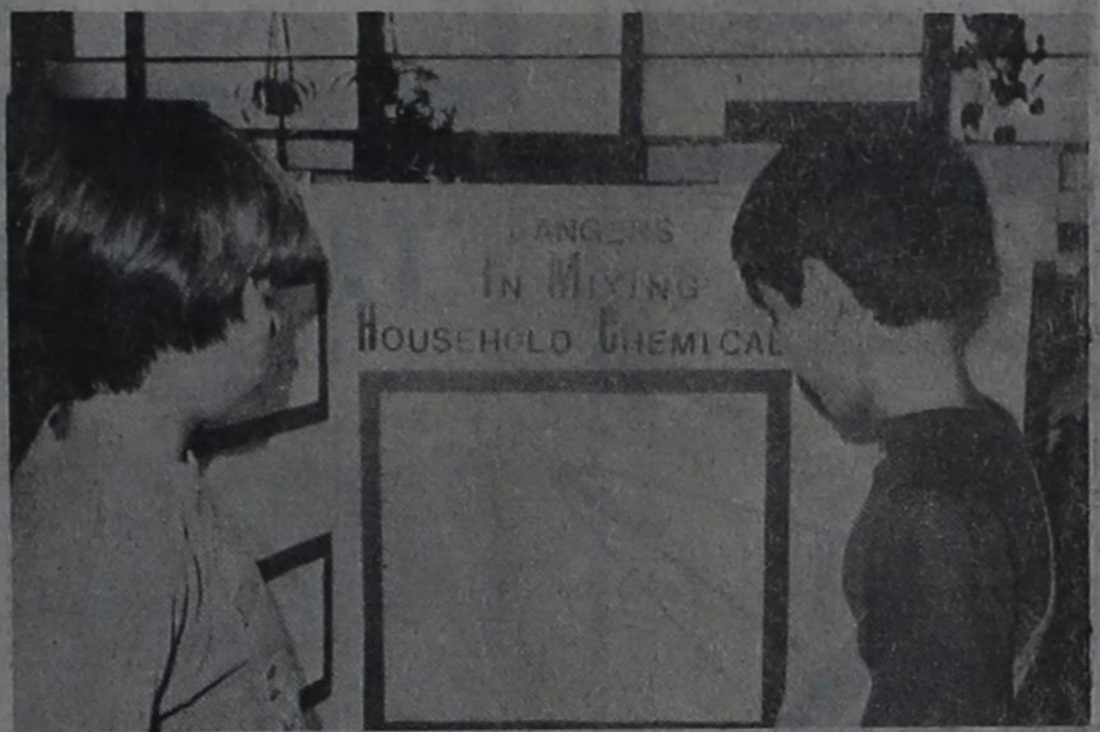

I guess that's why I decided to come here: folks work together to get the job done.

And this particular job was very well done.

Child abuse hotline number given

Roberta Johnson of Farwell recently was elected chairperson of the Parmer County Child Welfare Board.

Mrs. Johnson's term on the board will be up in January 1987. Her term as chairperson will be over December 1985.

Mrs. Johnson said, "With my being on the board is a personal interest. I am becoming more aware of child abuse in our community. It is also a God-given interest for becoming more involved."

Funds for county schools put on hold

After legal questions were raised, the Parmer County Commission voted last Friday to rescind its decision to divide up about $875,000 among the four county schools.

On Feb. 11, the commissioners voted 2-1 to give Friona, Bovina, Farwell and Lazbuddie schools the bulk of money in the county schools trust fund. In favor were Robert White and Tommie Williams, with Ernest Anthony opposed. Raymond McGehee was absent due to illness.

But last Friday, County Attorney Charles Aycock appeared before the commission to state that, in his opinion, there were some legal questions that needed to be answered before the commission could go ahead with its plans.

So the commission voted 3 to 1 to reverse its Feb. 11 decision and not to divide up the money among the schools until a written opinion is received from the state Attorney General's office, at which time the request to divide up the money will be reconsidered.

In favor of this motion were Anthony, White and McGehee. Williams was opposed.

Major questions raised by Aycock were these:

1. According to state law, the schools can only use money from the trust fund, which is under county jurisdiction, for either reducing bonded indebtedness and or making permanent improvements. Yet, when school officials made their request for the funds, officials of Farwell, Bovina and Lazbuddie schools indicated that if they got their share of the funds, they would be put into a savings account until needed. Only Friona officials said they had an immediate use for the money -- to build new classrooms.

2. State law, apparently, says that if the trust funds are divided up, it must be done on a scholastic basis -- i.e., based on the number of children ages 6 through 18, in a school district whether or not they attend the public school.

Yet, when the commission approved dividing up the funds Feb. 11, it was based on the recommendation of the school officials to use the past five years' daily attendance for each school as the yardstick.

The chief reason school officials gave in seeking the funds now is that they feared the state might try to take back the money, especially in a time in which the state is seeking more revenue. Questions have been raised since the Feb. 11 meeting as to whether the state could legally do this.

The fund consists of monies gained from partial mineral rights in Gaines and Andrews counties. This system was set up years ago by the state. The amount of funds Parmer has gained from these minerals -- including an oil-producing well -- has declined over the years.

If it turns out that the commission legally can divide up the money among the four county schools at this time, there still could be a problem. The commission had voted 2-1 to do so Feb. 11, with McGehee absent. But McGehee, who has returned to work after a short hospitalization in Muleshoe, has opposed giving the schools the money at this time. Thus, a new vote likely would result in a 2-2 tie, with Judge Porter Roberts to be the tie breaker. Roberts also has indicated he doesn't favor changing the current system at this time.

McGehee and Anthony have both said that if it was an emergency, they would be glad to give the schools the money. But they thought, at this time, it would be wiser for the county to keep control of the funds.

Texico takes action on vacant buildings

The Texico City Council Tuesday night discussed moving ahead to get demolished vacant buildings along the highway.

City Attorney Duane Hamar and City Clerk-Treasurer Marie Christian reported that a city abatement ordinance was not needed because state statutes cover the types of problems the city wants to solve.

The reasoning behind the move to get old, vacant buildings torn down is that they can be considered a nuisance, hazard and dangerous to the community. Named as being on the city agenda are the Olson and Freeman buildings west of City Hall.

Contest champs

Winner's in the Texico F.F.A. Parents and Faculty judging contest were (from left) Alice Pierce, livestock; Gary Singleterry, horses; Radonna Snipes, entomology; Mike Scott, welding; Kay Singleterry, wildlife; Ted Horner, tool identification. In the horse judging contest, each contestant judged 6 classes of 4 horses each, with the winner being determined by the most accumulated points. Livestock contestants judged two classes of cattle, sheep, and swine each class consisting of four animals. Entomology contestants had to identify 20 different types of insects. In the welding contest each participant had to make a butt weld. Wildlife contestants had to identify 20 different species of wild animals. Tool identification contestants were given 20 hand tools to identify.

Davis, Kittrell file for city election

Two more Farwell residents -- Wesley Davis and Ysleta Kittrell -- have placed their names on the ballot for the April city election.

Davis and Mrs. Kittrell both filed for aldermanic posts. They join Curtis Smith, Martin Kube and incumbents Jerry Monk and Fred Chandler in seeking the five positions.

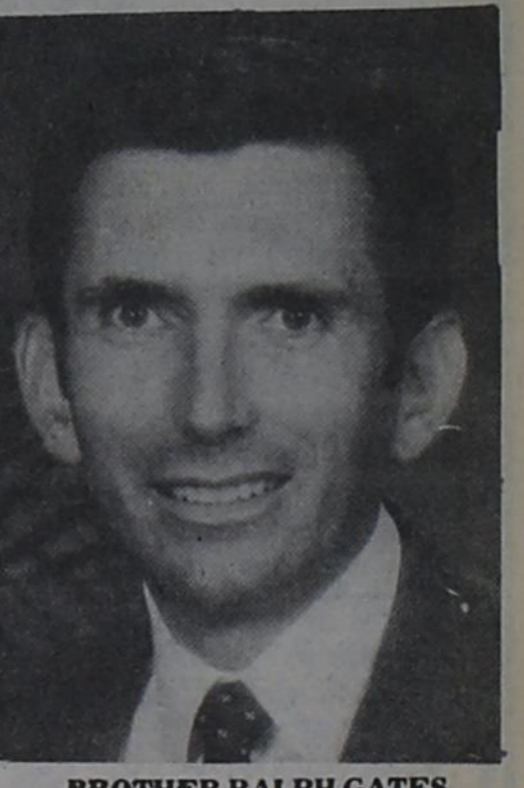

Incumbent Walter Kaltwasser is still the only person to file for the mayoral post.

Thus, contrary to what some feared, there are enough candidates to fill the five aldermanic posts, plus the mayoral position.

The deadline for signing up is March 6.

Farwell voters decided in a special election in January to change the form of government from two councilmen and a mayor to five aldermen and a mayor. The election will be in April. The mayor will have a two-year term. But after the five aldermen are elected, they will draw lots to see which get one-year terms (two of them) and which get two-year terms (three of them). After this year, all will have two-year terms.

Texico to get computer

With the UPC labels collected thus far, Texico will be able to get their computer.

At the present time, they have collected 7,000 labels with the help of three schools—Nazarene School in Clovis, Roy and San Jon. These schools were collecting labels, also, but Texico was getting closer to their goal so they gave Texico theirs.

According to Texico teacher Ronnie Warmuth, they still need 500 or more labels for a complete computer system. The deadline is Feb. 28.

A method will be worked out to decide how the computer will be shared between the schools.

we had been working on all year. The Melrose game was our finest defensive game of the year, as well as our finest shooting night of the year. Littlejohn said he was pleased with these points: "As a team we shot 36 percent from the field. The team averaged 37.5 rebounds per game, 14 steals per game and 7.5 assists per game. We had six people shoot 40 percent or better from the field. "We would have liked a few more wins, but I feel like we learned a lot from start to finish. The kids played and practiced hard all year. From this group will come some of next year's starters." The final record for the JV boys is 8-9.

The two losses were against Hart, in overtime, and against Bovina in the final of the Bovina Tournament of Stars.

By virtue of being seeded first in the district playoff, Texico will not play until the championship game at 7 p.m. March 2. The tourney is at Texico. game, but we started playing better defense. "They double teamed both Cheryl and Kelly inside and made us shoot from the outside. Kathy and Karen hit the outside shots, especially in the first half. "I thought our press and our rebounding was exceptional against a team that has been playing well the last four games."

Gymnasts place in Muleshoe meet

The Gymnastics Elite boys traveled to Muleshoe last weekend for their third meet of the season.

This was a practice meet (un-sanctioned by U.S.G.F.) against the Muleshoe School of Dance and Gymnastics.

Coach Clay Burch said, "Since this was only a practice meet there was no pressure on the kids for their routines. We received a week's notice before the meet (two workouts prior to competition) and it was pretty good just to have another meet under our belts before we went to the National Invited Farmers Branch competition."

He added, "I didn't expect any great performances from the kids. They were having a good time during the competition. It's pretty difficult for the team to give the 110% required when there is no pressure, either mentally or physically. Even though we went over to have a good time the team still turned out some pretty good performances."

On the parallel bars, the awards were given to the following: Ross Stewart, second place; Kevin Mitchell and Corey Mitchell, first place; Jeremy Sizemore, third place, and Jonas Hernandez, second place.

On the side horse event: Ross and Corey, first; Kevin, second, and Jeremy, third.

On the high bars: Ross and Corey, third; Kevin, second; and Jeremy and Jonas, first.

On the rings: Ross, second; Jeremy, third; and Jonas, Corey and Kevin, first.

On the floor exercise: Kevin, first; Jeremy, third; Jonas, Ross and Corey, second.

On the vault: Ross, third; Kevin, second, Jeremy and Corey, first; and Jonas, fourth.

On the all around: Ross and Jonas, second; Kevin and Corey, first, and Jeremy, third.

Property leases to be let

The Parmer County Commissioners Friday agreed to advertise for bids to lease Labor 8 and 9, League 315, in Gaines County.

Bids will be opened March 25. L.E. Oppermann met with the commission to discuss leasing some Parmer County School land in Gaines County. Then the commission decided to seek bids.

In other business, the commission paid Hale County $115 for a mental case hearing.

A request was received asking for help on a funeral. The request was denied because it didn't meet guidelines allowing this type of help.

A county resident asked for help to go to John Sealy Hospital once a month. It was turned down.

Mrs. Johnson feels the main purpose of the board is to get people more aware of child abuse.

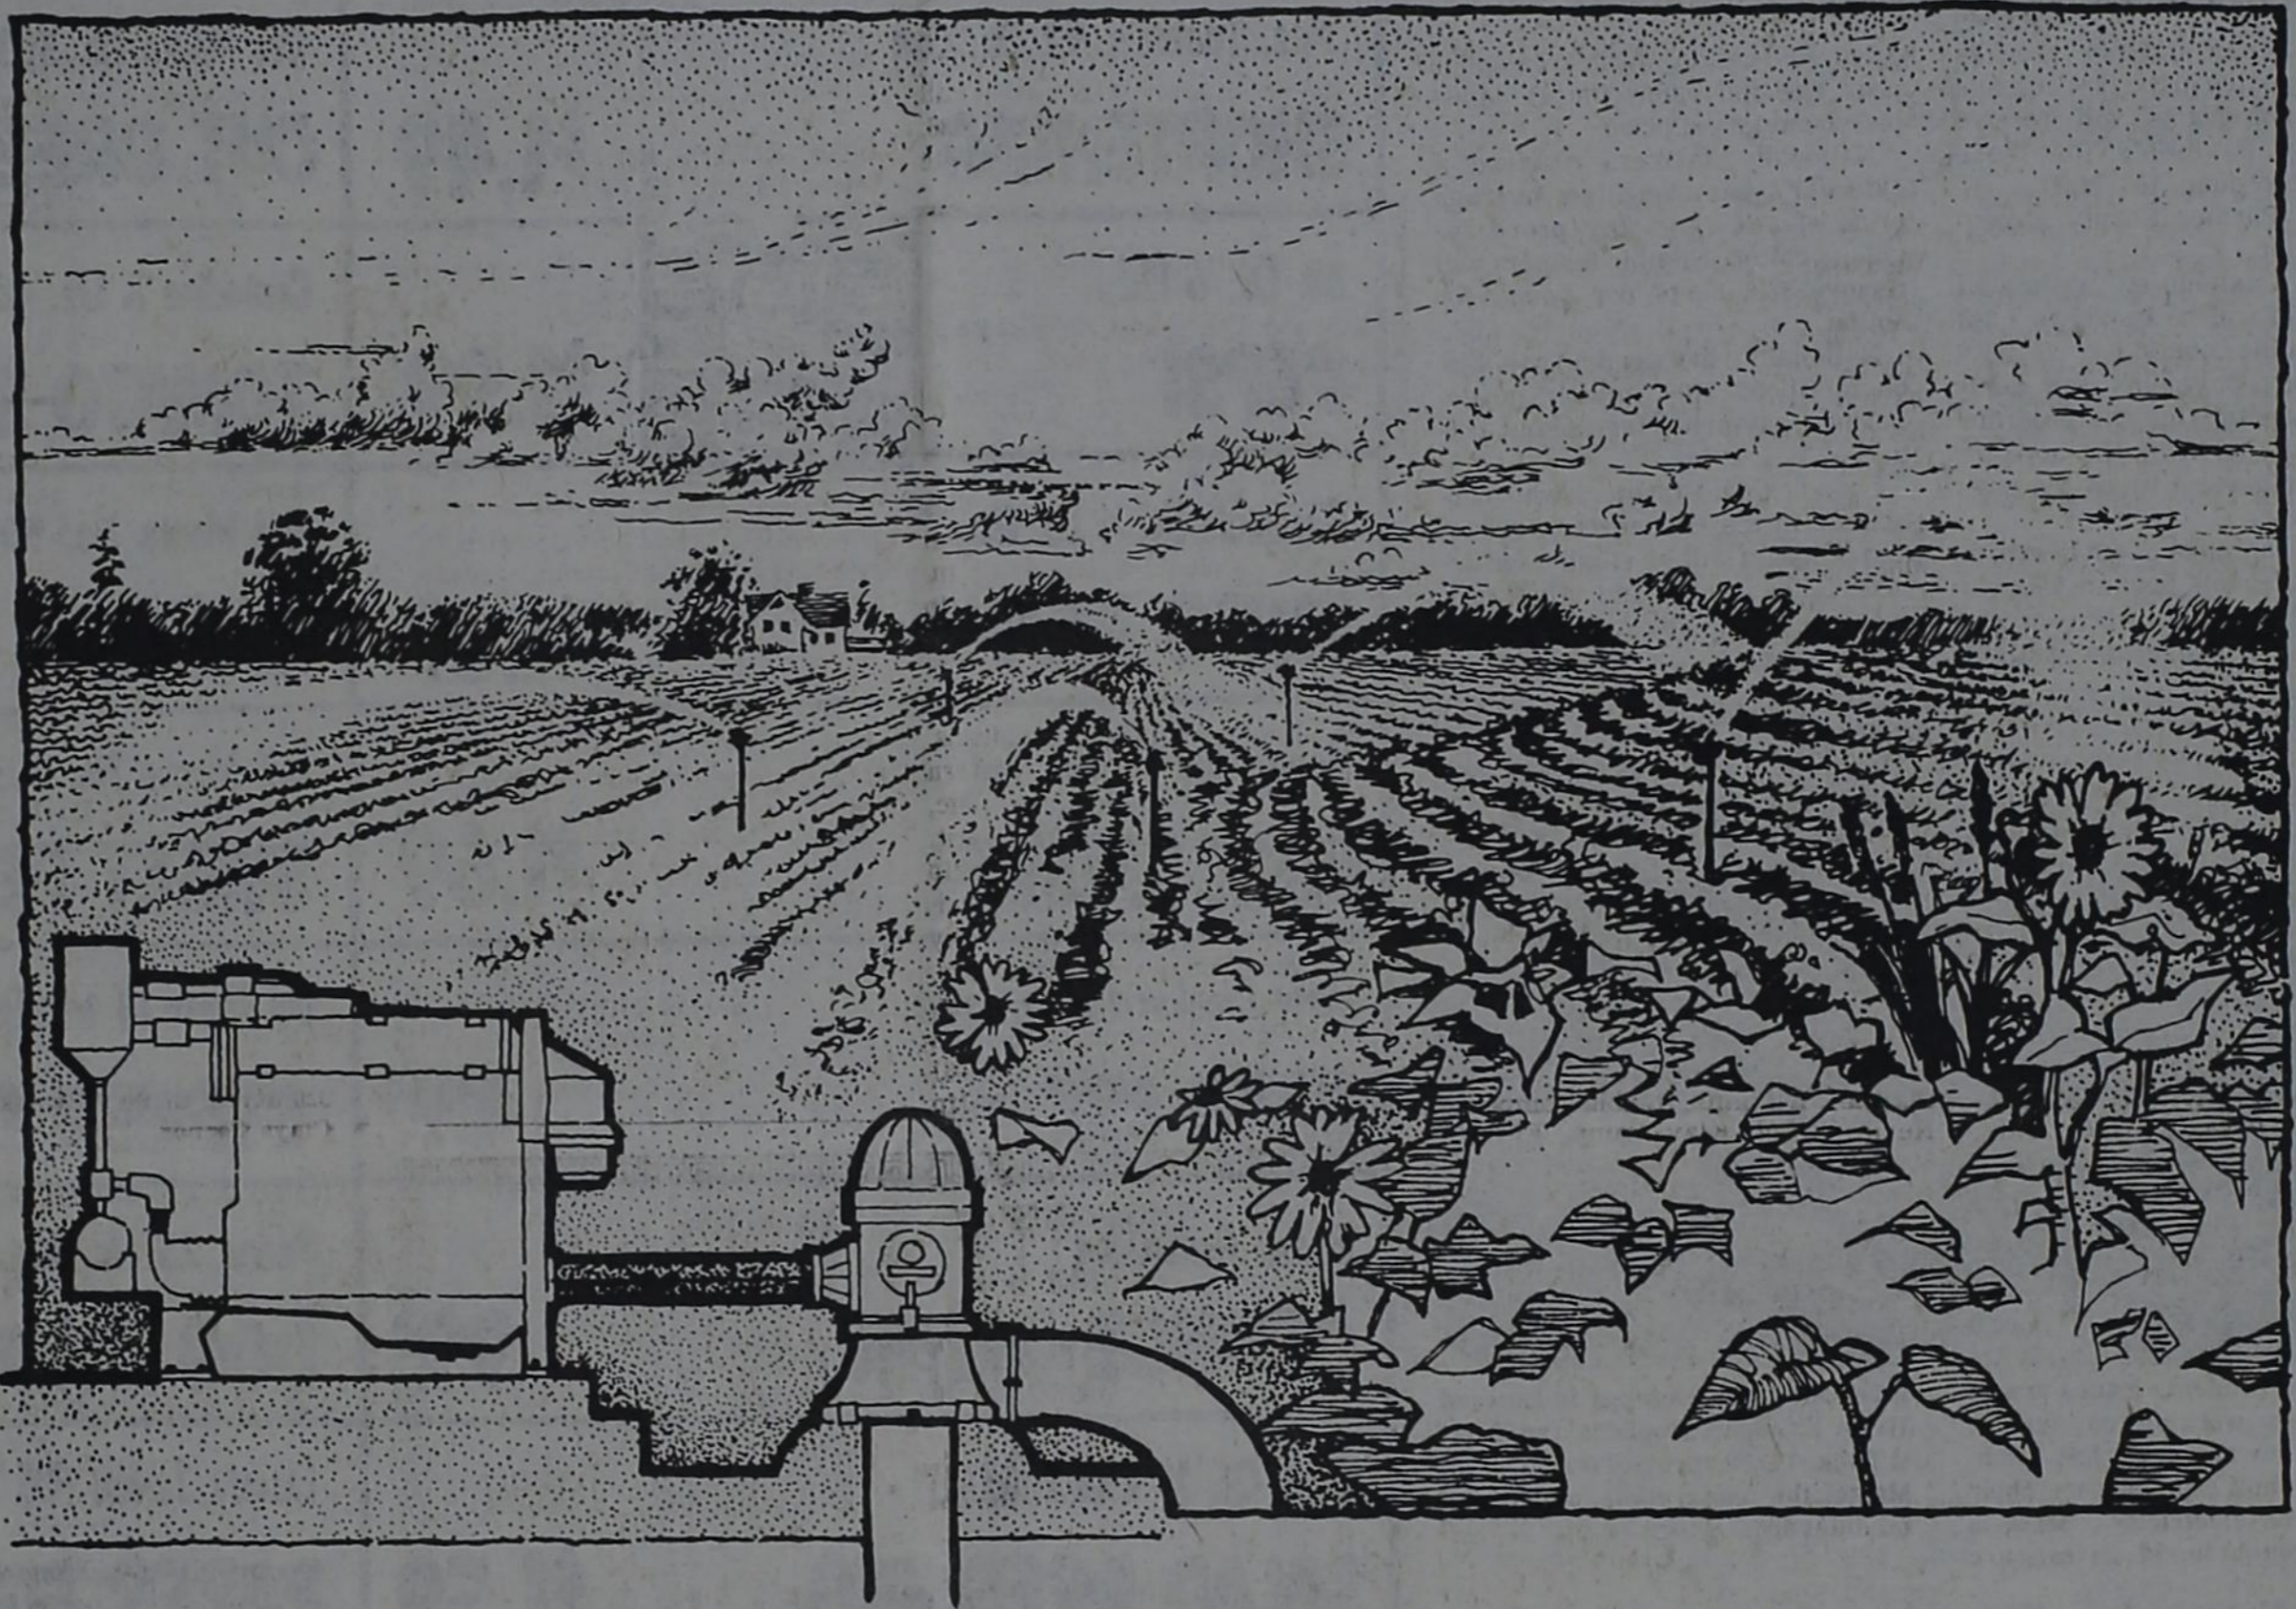

The welfare board works for three counties - Oldham, Deaf Smith and Parmer. The average intake referral per month is 30-40 cases and on-going case load stands at 20-25 cases in Parmer County.

During the board meetings there is usually one case review given by the staff at each meeting. Board members must observe strict confidentiality regarding case information.

The board has purchased two films on child abuse to be shown in the school systems and organizations.

Cheaper Natural Gas for Panhandle Irrigation Farmers.

For the past several months, Western Gas Interstate and Southern Union Gas have been working with the panhandle irrigation farmers, regulatory agencies in Oklahoma and Texas and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to arrive at an equitable rate that will assist the irrigation farmer to operate more profitably.

Recently, all of us agreed, in principle, to settle a FERC rate case. This, when combined with renegotiated contracts with producers, will result in a cheaper natural gas rate to the farmer. More specifically, effective February 1, 1985, Western Gas Interstate's cost to Southern Union Gas will be $3.46 mcf.

Southern Union Gas will reflect this savings on meter readings, on and after, March 26, 1985.

What this means to the irrigation farmer is that at the sales pressure the cost of gas will be about $3.10 to which Southern Union Gas will add variable operating costs and a small surcharge to recover certain deferred gas costs. This will result in a cost of $3.50 to the irrigation farmer.

In Texas, irrigation farmers will have a monthly $100 customer charge per meter effective for the March through August billing periods to cover a portion of Southern Union Gas fixed operating costs.

These lower costs are attributable to the cooperative efforts of area producers, Western Gas Interstate employees, regulators, Southern Union Gas employees, and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandle farmers.

Our interim rate request still awaits FERC approval. However, we are very optimistic that all parties to the rate case settlement proceedings will agree to the new rate which provides cheaper natural gas to the Panhandle.

Cotton, rice growers get federal payments

Upland cotton and rice growers who participated in the 1984 acreage reduction programs will receive deficiency payments for these crops, according to Martin L. Chandler, Parmer County Executive Director.

Checks totaling an estimated $4,577,690.14 will be issued to 1,383 farmers in the county.

Deficiency payments are computed by multiplying the program yield for the farm by the acreage planted for harvest times the payment rate.

The 1984 acreage reduction program participants became eligible for federal payments when the national weighted average market price for cotton during calendar year 1984 fell below the 81 cents-per-pound target price.

Nationally, farmers received a calendar year weighted average price of 62.4 cents per pound for upland cotton. Eligible farmers will receive 18.6 cents per pound for cotton.

Nationally, the agency will disburse about $700 million in deficiency payments for upland cotton.

Chandler said farmers who participate in the 1985 acreage reduction program will be eligible for deficiency payments and other program benefits. The signup period closes March 1.
