

Original Cast Of 'Four Daughters' Is Back In New Film Sequel At Ritz, 'Four Wives'

Lane Sisters Head Cast Of Sunday-Monday Offering

"Four Wives," sequel to last year's "Four Daughters," will headline the Ritz theatre's program for today and Monday. "Four Wives," in which Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola Lane, and Gale Page play the title roles, features the same cast as "Four Daughters," including John Garfield, who died in the original story. He returns in vision form in the new picture.

Others in the original, family portrait who are prominent in "Four Wives" are Jeffrey Lynn, Claude Rains, May Robson, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran and Vera Lewis, the gossip "gate-keeper" of "Four Daughters."

There's a new and very delightful addition to the family, too, Eddie Albert, the young comedy star of "Brother Rat," plays the young doctor for whom Rosemary Lane successfully sets her wedding bonnet in the film. Rosemary, you will remember, is the only one of the four daughters who didn't "get her man" in the earlier picture. Also added to the cast is Henry O'Neill, in the role of Albert's father.

Bill other additions to the family tree are four girl babies. First of these to make her appearance in the film is the year-old child which is adopted by Lola Lane and Frank McHugh in the story. Then Priscilla gives birth to a girl baby, and Lola caps that by having twin girls.

"Four Wives" takes up the story of the Lemp family where "Four Daughters" left off. The two oldest daughters are already married, Priscilla, the youngest, widowed in the earlier film, is about to marry her first love, played by Jeffrey Lynn, when she learns that she's to have a baby by her dead husband. The fourth girl, Rosemary, puts on a matrimonial campaign, as mentioned above, with the help of all her sisters.

Suggested by the Fannie Hurst novel, "Sister Act," the script was written by Maurice Hanline, Philip G. and Julius J. Epstein. Michael Curtis directed.

THE QUARTET AGAIN, AS WIVES

The Lane sisters—Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola—with Gale Page appear in a sister act again, playing at the Ritz today and Monday in another of that family series. This one is called "Four Wives," and the story takes up where "Four Daughters" left off. There was also an intermediate chapter, "Daughters Courageous."

Schoolboy's Affairs Told In Picture

Jackie Cooper Featured In Queen Film, 'What A Life'

The trials, tribulations and triumphs of rampant and romantic high school youth will be unfolded to Queen theatre audiences today and Monday when Paramount's picturization of the prize-winning Broadway hit, "What A Life," takes over the screen. Jackie Cooper and Betty Field are starred with John Howard, Janice Logan, Lionel Stander, Hedda Hopper and others in the cast.

Cooper takes his first top-flight comedy role in his portrayal of Henry Aldrich, the believable youngster whose ability to get into trouble is matched only by his cause-making genius for getting out of it.

Henry is sorely beset by George Bigelow, his popular and cocky rival for the affections of Barbara Pearson, George tattles on Henry for drawing a biting caricature of their teacher; but this attack is capped by Henry's victory when the portrait wins him new respect as a great talent. Barbara meets George's duplicity by inviting Henry to the school dance, but Henry's parents decide he can't go unless he passes his history exam.

Henry, who never bothers his textbooks because they never bother him, resorts to cribbing. A novice in the art, he is trapped by answers which are word for word his neighbor's. Henry is suspended.

Even the fates underestimate Henry's ability to get up off the floor after a knockdown. When the school band's instruments are stolen and all the evidence points to hapless Henry, that genius in the art of worm-turning comes through in what must certainly become one of the screen's classic laugh sequences.

Henry goes to the head of the class in a blaze of glory—and to the dance in a taxi.

ABELENE, Jan. 13—With completion of fall troutouts and early season engagements, personnel of the Cowboy band at Hardin-Simmons university has been announced by Director Marion B. McClure.

Much in demand for programs, concerts and radio performances, the late winter and spring season will be a busy one for the H-S-U musicians, widely acclaimed as they typify the traditions of Texas and the Southwest with their cowboy regalia, spirit and music.

The Cowboy band is already scheduled to play a prominent role as Hardin-Simmons university observes its Golden Jubilee, or semi-centennial celebration, in 1941 and 1942. Its membership this year is the largest in several seasons.

Its personnel, as announced by Conductor McClure, its maestro-composer, includes Addison Cotton, Lawrence Presley and Loran Warren of Big Spring.

Thriller Yarn Is Offered At The Lyric

'Return Of Dr. X' Tops Program For Today And Monday

Synthetic blood, murder, disappearance, chills and thrills will fill the Lyric screen today and Monday in the picturization of "The Return of Doctor X."

Warners made it hard for themselves when they had Lionel Atwill killed in the original "Dr. X" seven years ago. Film audiences like to have their favorite horror characters return to the screen in series of stories such as the Frankenstein, Dracula and Doyle's Dr. Moriaty yarns. But here is a story that revolves around "The Return of Doctor X."

When a young newspaper reporter, portrayed by Wayne Morris, comes across the lifeless body of an actress, the lovely Lya Lya, a series of wild adventures follows. Morris prints his story, and several days later the actress reappears to press charges. Morris loses his job and sets out to do some private sleuthing.

A wave of murders and disappearances leads him to a hospital, where he meets and falls in love with an attractive nurse, Rosemary Lane. Here, he becomes suspicious of Doctor X, Humphrey Bogart, who is assistant to a laboratory scientist, John Litel. Lane disappears, and with the help of her friend, Dennis Morgan, Morris solves the intriguing mystery. Vincent Sherman directed.

Finnish Relief Fund Goes Over The $100 Mark

The Finnish Relief Fund man at the Herald office got a bit impatient Saturday. Local donations in the early afternoon had reached $98, and he was anxious to bring the total to $100 for Sunday's report.

So he tapped the pockets of co-workers for what change they had, and raised $2.25. A dollar of the sum came from the Typographical Union employees in the composing room, the remainder from office workers.

But there was no need for such "pressure" tactics, because local citizens cheering the Finns in their battles came in later in the day with other donations, so that Saturday ended up with a total of $107.25.

The fund grows steadily, if not rapidly, every day. Checks will be accepted, with proper acknowledgment, at the Herald office, or at either of the two banks, and every cent donated goes to the relief of Finland. There is no deduction at all for any local purpose.

Besides the Herald "collection," money came in Saturday as follows:

H. F. McKinney, $2; M. K. House, $1; Elsie Willis, $1; W. F. Edwards, $5; and Mrs. L. S. McDowell, $1.

Trimble, first assistant state superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of the University of Texas; Col. Paul L. Wakefield, Austin; Dr. Joe F. Harris, county superintendent of schools, Dallas; Dr. Geo. D. Wilcox, professor of education, Texas A. & M. college; and Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction.

Herald Austin Bureau
AUSTIN, Jan. 13—With a view of carrying education by radio into more than 3,000 Texas schools through regular state-wide network programs, State Superintendent L. A. Woods this week announced plans for the inauguration of the Texas School of the Air.
Hailed as one of the major developments of Texas education in recent years, the School of the Air will begin operation immediately, presenting a regular schedule of educational programs for Texas schools during the second term of the school year, beginning in February, Woods said.
"For a number of years the importance of radio in American life has been recognized by the teaching profession, but there has been little organized effort toward providing educational programs for those in school and those seeking post-school education," he declared. The Texas School of the Air will bring together the teaching pro-

Red Cross Needs $39 To Meet Its Campaign Quota

Although the customary time for the annual Red Cross Roll Call is long past, Chapter Chairman Shine Phillips took a look at the records Saturday and announced, with dismay, that the local campaign was still short $39 of the goal fixed.
The goal sought is $2,200, the same sum raised in 1938.
"I know it's late," said Phillips, "but I also know that there are 39 people in Howard county who haven't joined the Red Cross for this year, and who want to join. This is to advise them that we need and want their memberships. If we fall down on our quota now, it will be the first time we have ever failed in that respect.
"I hate to be short of the goal, and I know other people feel the same way. This is an appeal for an additional $39."

Two Outposts Staked In The Snyder Pool

Two important outpost locations in the Snyder pool were to be staked this week, affording another test of productivity of the northern edge of the area.
Dave C. Reed, Austin, will sink two tests on a 40-acre tract, and Partin Drilling company will do the drilling.
D. C. Reed No. 1 D. H. Snyder will be 330 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 28-30-1s, T&P. The second well will be a direct south offset from the No. 1 well, and will be a north offset to one of the Partin-Snyder tests. It will be located 990 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the east line of the same section.
Work is due to get underway within 10 days on the tests.
In northeast Howard county, M. L. Richards prepared to start operations on his wildcat No. 1 J. A. Shaver, north and slightly west of Vincent. Drilling was not due to get underway before Tuesday. Contract calls for a 3,500-foot hole or sulphur water at a lesser depth.
The test is located 300 feet from the south and east lines of section 32-35, H&TC, and is about six miles west and north of the Sinclair-Frairie Oil company No. 1 E. E. Erwin, which ran eight and one-quarter inch string and drilled ahead to 2,130 feet in gray lime. The latter test is a rank northeast Mitchell county wildcat.

Stocks Have Worst Week In 10 Months

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—With irregularly lower tendencies prevailing, the stock market today emerged from its worst week in about 10 months.
While the feverish selling of Thursday and Friday dried up appreciably, and an assortment of issues managed to post modest recoveries, buying power was lacking throughout the brief proceedings.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 2 of a point at 49.3, and, on the week, was down 21 points, actually the largest weekly decline since April 8, last year. The week's turnover, though, was much under that of April. A year ago the composite stood at 51.2. The 1939-40 high was 77 and the low 41.6. Transfers amounted to 424,130 shares against 341,820 last Saturday.

MERCHANT MARINE IN BETTER SHAPE THAN IN 1914

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The maritime commission told congress today the general picture of the American merchant marine is far more satisfactory than it was in 1914, despite disturbing factors growing out of the war in Europe.
The war and the passage of the neutrality act, said the commission in its annual report, seriously disrupted the normal operation of American merchant ships.
"The initial blow strikes most keenly at the ships and men whose employment is jeopardized," it

No Trouble On Pension Aid, Connally Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) telegraphed Gov. Les O'Daniel today there would be "no difficulty" about federal old age assistance payments to Texas for January, despite disagreement over a joint merit system council for the Texas Unemployment Compensation commission and the state welfare department.
Connally said he had discussed the question with Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, who told him the board disagreed with an opinion of the Texas attorney general that the two state agencies could not set up a joint council to examine and certify applicants for appointment in conformity with the board's regulations.
The board insisted, Connally said, that each of the two agencies still would make its own appointments if a joint board were created, "and that the merit requirements would only be a method of exercising the power of appointment.
If a joint merit council were undesirable, the board said, "it is clear that each agency may establish its own merit council and exercise its own power of appointment without requiring the concurrence of the other department."
Connally was advised by the board, he added, that as to the Texas Unemployment Compensation commission, the administrative expense resulting from merit council operations might be borne by the federal government. Out of such funds stenographic and other clerical assistance available to both agencies for examination and certification could be supplied by the commission.
The board also suggested, he said, the possibility of securing as members of the merit council public spirited citizens who would serve without pay, since meetings probably would be held only twice a year to establish eligibility lists. The same individuals might serve as separate merit councils for the two agencies, preparing separate lists.
Connally said the board urged prompt action.

TODAY'S TRUE STORY

Loyalty is a wonderful quality for a woman to possess. A young lady of Big Spring, Texas, whom we shall call Miss Blank, had for years had this quality to an excessive degree.

Miss Blank needed a complete new spring wardrobe. She had listed for purchase a spring suit, one dark and one pastel dress frock, 5 hat on the time, 2 make-up shoes, 2 pairs of shoes, 2 make-up long story short, Miss Blank naturally first visited the store of her mother's choice.

Everywhere there were bright, cheery spring clothes - not a vestige of a fall coat, dress or suit, Miss Blank looked upon LaMode, who she was suddenly in another world.

Chapter 32 Prosperity
Just before six, after an exhausting afternoon of furniture placing and unpacking of books and clothing, sweet Mary Hampton arrived with a hamper of steaming food.
"What a lot you've accomplished!" she exclaimed admiringly.
"Ah what lovely old furniture you have! That Chippendale desk is a beauty."

Washington Daybook
WASHINGTON—Usually nobody pays much attention to primaries in New Hampshire and Wisconsin, but this year they could really raise more political rumpus than a bull in a ballot box.
New Hampshire has the first regularly scheduled primary this year, coming on the second Tuesday of March. President Roosevelt carried the state in 1936 to the amazement of democrats and the sorrow of republicans.

THIRD TERM INVOLVED
Such a move in New Hampshire might do any one of several things. It might compel the president to reach an earlier decision on his third term business. If he failed to step out immediately and smash a drive for third-term delegations the flood-likely would be on, as convention delegates are just like individual politicians—they want to be early on the bandwagon.

WISCONSIN PROBLEM
Wisconsin presents an even more interesting proposition. The primary law in that state requires a statement from the presidential candidate to be filed if he is willing to have a delegation pledged to him.
He doesn't have to say that he is seeking the delegation, so the statement cannot be interpreted as an outright announcement of candidacy. But it does require that the candidate file a statement saying there is nothing to disqualify him for the presidency. The statement must be filed 32 days ahead of the primary coming on the first Tuesday in April.

I am a writer. You have probably never heard of me, not because I don't work, not because I don't produce a good many pictures, but because you are not interested in reading titles and the studios are not interested in publicizing writers.
As a writer I must face the fact that I will have a professional career in pictures lasting about 10 years. Four of those years have already been spent. Hence I have six years to go. I earn a salary many times that of a good worker in most other industries. Since my career is of such short duration, I must necessarily be recompensed by a much higher salary than the man who lives next door to me who can work a lifetime.

Exquisite Reticence Of Debussy's Works Created Effects Not Known In Musical Compositions Before
(In connection with the release of Debussy's compositions as the newest symphonic recordings in The Herald's Music Appreciation campaign, the following article on Debussy is reprinted from the Washington Star. It was written by Dr. Hans Kandler, conductor of the National Symphony orchestra. The Debussy recordings, sixth of the groups of musical masterpieces, are now available at The Herald office.)
By HANS KINDLER
The essence of Debussy's music is its constant reticence, its exquisite reticence. Nowhere is this "economy of means" more perfectly illustrated than in the opening bars of the first nocturne, called "Clouds."

In The Aviation Parade
It took a little negotiating by some local civic leaders to convince Civil Aeronautics Authority representatives that Big Spring would be a good place to locate one of this state's two training centers for the non-college student civilian aviation program.
It is extremely gratifying to know that more than 75 were present to enroll in the preliminary class, especially when a great percentage of this group is not eligible for future scholarships for actual flight training. It is evidence that West Texans of all classes and ages are interested in aviation to the extent that they want to know its background, principles and theories of operation.
Many of these people no doubt plan at later date to continue actual flight training, on their own, and are taking advantage of CAA facilities to get in the currently offered groundwork.

George Tucker
Man About Manhattan
NEW YORK—As my secretary was thoughtless enough to elope with a trombone player over the holidays, I'll have to answer these letters myself:
Dear T. H. M., Flint, Mich. The restaurant that hires only red-headed waitresses is in the basement of 50 Rockefeller Plaza, but I wouldn't recommend that you come to New York solely on the strength of your crimson tresses. Since red hair is mandatory, no doubt they have a waiting list. They would almost have to have one. In case you are still determined, perhaps it would be best to state your qualifications to the manager of the News Center Restaurant.

Dear M. R. G., Steubenville, Ohio, Blue Barron does use the same musical signature, "Sometimes I'm Happy," that the late Henry Thies made famous, but the arrangements are different. Henry's was based on an unforgettable trombone solo. I knew Henry well and, like everyone else, was stunned at his death. Since then I have tried vainly to find a recording of his signature, but presumably he never made one.

Dear L. R., St. Louis, Mo., Peter de Rose, who has written hundreds of songs, including "Deep Purple," is the same man who is the husband of May Singli Breen. I think they have been on the air 15 or 16 years, and recently N.B.C. gave them a birthday party. From now on no matter what De Rose does he will always be plagued with "Deep Purple," similar to the way Rachmaninoff is by his Prelude. Everywhere he goes they play it. His very appearance is the signal for the orchestra to swing into that very lovely melody. The last time I saw him, and then only long enough to say hello, was New York's Eve at the New Yorker. Paul Whiteman immediately played the number, and with spotlights beaming down on him, De Rose had to rise and bow to the crowd. There were other composers of note present, but Peter de Rose was the only one given this recognition.

Dear Z. N., Honolulu, I gave Ray Kinney and everyone else your message, but was so late in doing it that you will be able to tell them yourself in a little while now. Ray is winding up a long and successful engagement here and is going home for a vacation. Lani McIntyre is taking his place at Hawaiian Room. I didn't see Elmer Lee. This is just a fill-in until I can give you a decent answer.
Dear J. D., Oakland, Calif. I'll certainly give Herace Heldt your message. He is going very big here now, and his records are among the leaders. When he went with Columbia, they told him that he could name his own numbers and have full say with every recording he made.
Dear Secretary, I certainly hope your husband loves you, because I don't any more. I can't find the way to my bliss. You left everything so orderly that I can't find anything I want. May your children please your old-age, and if any of them turn out to be quite I hope they marry newspapermen.

SMARTER BOYS FROM TEXAS, OKLAHOMA

DALLAS, Jan. 13 (AP)—The navy is getting smarter boys from Texas and Oklahoma.

Lieut. W. B. Cranston, in charge of the regional recruiting office here, says so, explaining that the two states lead all other Southern states for high intelligence of recruits during December. The recruits in this district, which includes the northern half of Texas and all of Oklahoma, scored an average of 73.9 points out of 100 in the navy's educational tests.

The Houston district, which embraces Southern Texas, was second with an average of 73.7.

Having been in the office, he felt that he was now better qualified for the post because of his experience.

He expressed thanks for friends for loyal support in the past and

Residential, Business Construction Noted In Stanton During 'Thirties

By MRS. F. W. WOODARD
STANTON, Jan. 13 (SpI)—With the beginning of a new decade, Stantonites have this month taken time out for an inventory of what the thirties accomplished in the way of construction and building improvements.

The past four or five years have especially shown a marked increase in building new homes, of a type of construction unusual in a town of this size, stucco, brick and rock being used to a great extent, rather than the conventional bungalow so often seen in a small town. Several frame cottages, most of them colonial in style, and having a personality all their own, have swelled the number of new homes and added much to the attractiveness of the residential section of Stanton.

Probably the first modern home built in the 1930's and one which itself set a new standard of construction was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tom. Located in the northeast section of town, it is of concrete block construction. Soon after the completion of the Tom residence, a number of small homes were built, but it was not until 1936-37 that anything resembling a building boom was begun. A shortage of living accommodations at that time served to swell the amount for building new homes or enlarging and remodeling old ones, approximately $37,000. This amount scattered over a period of about four years represents 10 new homes, with cost of construction ranging from $1,500 to $5,000, and approximately the same number of complete remodeling jobs, ranging from $200 to $1,000.

Beginning this period of building was the construction of an eight-room brick dwelling for Mr. and Mrs. Sam Turner, which was almost destroyed by fire only a short time after its completion. Repair work throughout the interior restored it. Also included among the new homes are those of Mr. John Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Woodard. The latter is an early American five-room cottage of white stucco, and the former a duplex, containing a two room and a three room apartment, of white frame construction. A white frame colonial cottage was built soon after these, for Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Moffett. Most recently completed in the list of new homes are the cream brick colonial five-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Price, and a large rock dwelling belonging to Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Houston.

With the building and remodeling of so many homes came a decided change in the landscaping of the yards surrounding many residences, old and new. Owners of property began to take more pride in yards with the result that there are many lovely well kept yards now surrounding Stanton homes.

Construction has not been confined strictly to the residential section of Stanton during the past few years. One of the most helpful projects in recent years, especially to the children of the community, has been the city park—long a dream and only since last summer when it was completed, a reality. The park is located in the northern part of Stanton and covers an area of six acres. Many trees, shrubs and flowers have been planted. A fence of steel cables, supported by stone pillars at intervals surrounds the park. Amusement features consist of a softball field, tennis courts, croquet courts, see-saws, swings, merry-go-rounds, and a wading pool. For picnicking facilities, one section of the park has been set aside for tables and barbecue pits. With the exception of the playground, the entire park has been sodded and landscaped.

Industrial Structures
In 1935 the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. chose Stanton as a site for a nitroglycerin plant. The plant itself was erected in a secluded section northeast of Stanton. Three buildings, however, were built within the city limits & home was erected for the plant manager, L. J. Johnson, and family. Next to it was built a large two-story garage and storage building. Across town, and next to the T. & P. railway a large rock and frame warehouse was also built.

During the years 1937 and 1938, when the government cotton loan program was introduced, the Farmers Gin and Cotton Co. built four cotton warehouses within the city limits, each with a capacity of about 2,000 bales.

Martin county's much publicized and badly needed road construction project has progressed just enough during the past four years to give all who live here great hopes of seeing much more improvement in the early 1940's.

In 1935 after defeating issues in two preceding elections, citizens of the county voted road bonds to the amount of $50,000 for purchase of right-of-way, clearing, fencing and grading a highway from Lenorah to the Andrews county line, and also for a lateral road to West Knott in Howard county. The road to Andrews is completed as far as the bond issue called for. In 1938, a road beginning 13 miles north of Stanton and continuing to the Dawson county line was built, but as yet has not been paved. By far the greatest progress in the road program was in the spring of 1939, when five miles of road beginning in the business district and continuing north on the Stanton-Lamesa highway was built.

School Work
Most recent construction activity in Stanton is the remodeling program being carried out on the grammar school building, and the erection of a school gymnasium. During the first week in November, last, contract was let to Houston Hill of Midland for the complete modernization of the grammar school building. This included new concrete floors, new windows, concrete stairways to replace the former wooden ones, and other needed repairs. Early in December E. F. Horn and Co., of Abilene was awarded the contract for the construction of the gym, a structure which, though started in 1939, will be the first major construction in the 1940 building program. The gym contract amounted to $17,400, while the remodeling of the other building came to $7,639, making a total of $25,119 to bring the 1930s to a close.

Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Odum, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Odum and Mrs. J. L. Coleman have returned from Merkel where on Friday they attended funeral services for a sister-in-law of Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. W. C. Calloway.

Mrs. Calloway succumbed Wednesday night, after a long illness that was aggravated by injuries suffered when she fell on December 20.

The body was brought to a rural cemetery north of Colorado City for burial, following rites conducted at the First Christian church in Merkel.

Martelle M'Donald Seeks Reelection As Dist. Attorney

Martelle M'Donald, district attorney of the 70th judicial district, Saturday announced that he would again be a candidate for the office, subject to the action of the democratic primaries.

M'Donald is now holding the office of district attorney for his first term, having been elected two years ago. Before that time he was in the practice of law after his graduation from the law school of Baylor university in 1920.

Expressing his appreciation to the voters of the district for his election two years ago, M'Donald said that if reelected he would endeavor to continue the performance of the duties of the office in a fair, impartial and conscientious manner and prosecute to the best of his ability cases presented to him.

Because the district, consisting of five counties, is so large and because of the fact that the district court will be in session continuously from this date until August first and his attendance will be required during the sessions of such court, it will be difficult for him to see all of the voters of this county, he wants the voters to consider this as a personal appeal for their support and influence in helping him win this election. (Pol. Adv.)

Dee Purser Asks Election To The Dist. Clerkship

A bid for election to the office of district clerk of Howard county, subject to action of the democratic primaries, was placed before the voting public Saturday by J. D. (Dee) Purser, resident of the county since 1900.

In soliciting support for his candidacy, Mr. Purser said, "I believe my long residence in Howard county and my varied business experience qualify me to make an efficient officer in the clerkship. I hope that every voter will examine my record, and give me full consideration at the polls."

This is Mr. Purser's first announcement for public office. He has been identified with Big Spring business for many years, and long has been a taxpayer. He was with the F. F. Gary firm for 14 years, later was associated with Vic Melinger, operated a furniture store of his own, and since 1931 has been in the real estate business here. Mr. Purser gave assurance of "putting forth my best effort to conduct the office of district clerk properly and efficiently."—(Pol. Adv.)

Claude Debussy's

CLAUDE ACHILLE DEBUSSY

Marco Polo of Music Who Sought New Paths and Blazed New Trails

A great artist, whether his medium is painting, sculpture, literature or music, is always a seeker after truth.

Claude Debussy, pioneer, experimenter and creator of a brand-new musical philosophy, lived in an age that was steeped in academic traditions—an age that regarded every musical innovation with suspicion.

It is the proof of his greatness that in spite of poverty, the scorn of the savants and the indifference and neglect of the music-loving public, he became the most discussed composer of his day—the most prominent figure in French music.

Little is known about Debussy's early life. He was born at St. Germain-en-Laye August 22, 1862, son of the humble owner of a china shop. He received his first piano lessons at the age of nine, and two years later was accepted as a student by the Paris Conservatoire, a bashful, awkward, solidly-built youngster in a sailor cap decorated with a red pompon.

Almost at once he became the "enfant terrible" of the Conservatoire. He was a serious student and an excellent pianist, but he was considered eccentric, inclined to practical jokes and buffoonery, and his contempt for conventional musical forms was the despair of his teachers.

In 1884, after two failures, he won the coveted Prix de Rome. In Rome he was desperately unhappy, hated the life and despised his fellow students and their conventional methods. His first year was entirely wasted and the compositions he submitted were considered "bizarre, incomprehensible and unplayable."

Of his life after his return to Paris we know little. He associated with a group of Bohemians—painters, writers and sculptors. He visited London and Vienna and for a time was greatly influenced by the work of Wagner. His compositions brought him practically nothing—his sole income was from a few lessons—aided out by the generosity of his friends.

Continued poverty brought fits of depression and it was not until "Pelleas et Melisande" was produced that the financial tension was eased. "Pelleas" and "The Afternoon of a Faun" not only shocked the musical world, but created a veritable battle in musical circles. Debussy's name was on every tongue and he was enthusiastically welcomed in fashionable as well as in Bohemian circles.

With success came more difficulties. Legal troubles—marital troubles—and his expensive tastes kept him in perpetual financial difficulties. And with fame came a horde of imitators, who copied his musical style and exaggerated his musical mannerisms, and who called themselves the "Debussys." French publishers annoyed him by bringing out his early immature compositions and against his will he was forced to participate in musical "politics."

Great honors were heaped upon him, but little by little he withdrew from public life. Then came the Great War, and while his country's fate hung in the balance, inspiration was temporarily frozen.

In 1915 he underwent an operation for an incurable malady. He suffered much and steadily grew weaker. Against his doctor's orders he continued to compose and even took part in the first performance of his patriotic "Ode to France," and, at St. Jean-de-Luz played the piano part of his famous Violin Sonata.

On March 25, 1918—in a war-torn Paris menaced by destructive air raids and long-range bombardments—Debussy died.

Only recently Debussy's heirs received $50,000 in royalties for Larry Clinton's arrangement of the song, "My Reverie"—about ten times as much as Debussy made out of all his music during his whole life.

For clarity of writing, for felicity of expression—for sheer fertility of imagination—Claude Debussy is without a peer in the entire history of music. His superb orchestral works demand a place in every collection of great symphonic masterpieces.

RULES AND CONDITIONS OF THE OFFER

To obtain the 10 symphonies and symphonic masterpieces and the electric Record Player to be distributed in accordance with our Music Appreciation Plan proceed as follows:

First, fill in and mail the Reservation Form printed in the lower right corner of this page. The purpose of this form is not to obligate you in any way, but to enable us to estimate the quantity of records and Record Players to have on hand to meet the demand.

Each day during this music appreciation offer we will publish a reminder coupon setting forth the date on which each symphony will be ready. You can get your first symphony (Franz Schubert's No. 8 in D Major) at once. A new symphony will be released every two weeks and will be available at any time thereafter. Watch the reminder coupon which will be published daily. It is not necessary for you to clip the coupons in order to get your records or Record Player.

You obtain each symphony, which consists of three or four double-faced 12-inch records, for a payment of $1.49. This payment is not for each record but for all THREE or FOUR records. Symphonies, which consist of FIVE double-faced 12-inch records require a payment of $1.99 for the entire symphony of all FIVE records. The Grosse Fugue Symphony in B Minor, an account of its great length, is divided into two units, each unit consisting of three double-faced 12-inch records, and the cost of each unit is $1.49, the same as for any other 12-inch record group.

A quantity of de luxe records, known as Philharmonic Transcriptions, enclosed in beautiful record albums which have been designed individually for each particular symphony, are available at a slightly higher price.

After you have obtained all ten of the symphonies, you can secure the Electric Record Player for a payment of only $5. If you want to get your Record Player earlier, you can do so—you can get it with your first group of records, your second, third, or any other group, merely by making a deposit of $5. After you have obtained all of the 10 symphonies, $5 will be returned to you. Thus, whether you get your Record Player before or after you have obtained all of the symphonies, the cost to you is only $5.

For those who want a more elaborate Record Player, a Symphonic De Luxe Model, enclosed in a walnut case, is available at a higher price.

First, mail the Reservation Form to assist us in our distribution problems. Please check whether or not you want the Record Player reserved. We will acknowledge your reservation by mail. Filling in and mailing the reservation entitles no obligation whatever on your part.
