Motion Picture Planned At Methodist Church

On Sunday, August 17 at 8 p.m., an unusual motion picture will be presented at The Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church. Rev. M. H. Stroup says that this picture, "Fire Upon The Earth," accomplishes the miracle of condensing 20 centuries of church history into 26 minutes by combining realistic art in full color with incisive narration. He also says that this picture highlights a fascinating story that started in Galilee and has swept across the earth, is a film that every Protestant should see, and is non-denominational.

There is no admission charge but an offering will be taken.

Jones Again Warns Farmers To Be On Lookout For Insects

County Agent Joe Jones again warns farmers to be on the lookout for cotton insects. He states that this year's crop is late and plants are tender where they have been watered, making this an ideal time for insects to move into the fields.

Traveling over the county in the past week, Jones notes that irrigated cotton is still doing good; but dry land plants are not faring so well. He adds that a light infestation of bollworm is evident, with both large and small insects and eggs found. He also notices a few cotton leaf worms and a fairly heavy infestation of cotton flea hopper.

Farmers are again warned to be on the lookout for all of these; and be ready to poison if infestation should become serious. "A few cabbage loopers in the cotton shouldn't be confused with leaf worm" says Jones.

"My father was a Confederate soldier and Mrs. Smith's father was in the Union army," says County Judge A. D. Smith and good-naturedly adds that the conflict of their ancestors certainly makes no difference to the local couple. They get along fine.

Judge Smith was born in Johnson County, Texas where he grew up on his father's farm. He was graduated from Grand View high school and attended Texas University two years. From Texas, he moved to Ft. Sumner where he taught for 10 years and was county superintendent of De Baca County for four years.

The local man was graduated from New Mexico Normal University, now Highlands, in Las Vegas with an AB degree; and attended law school at Cumberland University in Tennessee, and was graduated with a Bachelor of Laws degree. He passed his state bar examination in Austin and received a license to practice law in Texas.

Beginning law practice in Friona in October of 1931, Judge Smith stayed there for quite some time. He was elected county attorney and held that office until 1945 when he was appointed county judge. He has held the office since that time.

Judge Smith and his two sisters had moved to Ft. Sumner after their parent's deaths, where they resided for quite some time. During that time, besides serving as school teacher, he also ranched. It was after he moved to New Mexico that Judge Smith learned to speak Spanish. He then taught the language.

"When I came to New Mexico, there were plenty of the Mexicans who knew Billy the Kid and enjoyed telling about it," the county official adds.

Judge Smith was married in 1934 at Ft. Sumner and his first wife passed away in January of 1939. He was married to Mrs. W. T. Knight in 1941.

Mrs. Smith was born in Topeka, Kansas, and also grew up on the farm. She lived in a small town, and attended the university of Holton, Kansas and later was a student at Baker University in Baldwin where she studied. The latter school is a Methodist school.

"I have been a member of the Methodist Church since I was 10 years old," says Mrs. Smith. She taught school for eight years in Kansas and for four years was principal of grades in her home town.

She then instructed music in the summer. "I've taught something all my life" she says, but admits that she likes to teach and to work with her students.

Mrs. Smith married W. T. Knight in 1919 and moved to Clovis where she lived until the death of her husband in 1928. She then resided with her two sisters in Kansas and in Florida and returned to Clovis the latter part of 1931. While a widow, she took a special course in dramatics in Florida, then began teaching speech and music.

Judge Smith and Mrs. Knight met at various functions in Clovis. Upon their marriage, they moved to Farwell, where they have resided since that time. Mrs. Smith still likes to teach, and has a limited number of music pupils. "I really like Farwell" she says. "It has the most wonderful people and I'd rather live here than any place I know."

The local woman is a constant worker in the Methodist Church, having worked in the missionary society for many years. She also belongs to several patriotic organizations including both Daughters of American, Revolution and Daughters of American Colonists. She serves as state chaplain of DAR.

Discussing the different views of their ancestors, Judge Smith says his father, Tom Smith, was born in Clark County, Alabama, and his mother, Rachel Kennard Smith, was from Grimes County, Texas.

The judge's father was a first lieutenant in the Texas Rangers during the Civil war and was stationed in Jacksboro, Texas. The soldiers were kept on the frontier to keep the Indians back from the settlements. He also remembers that his maternal grandfather was in the battle of San Jacinto.

Also with quite an army record, but on the other side of the fence was Mrs. Smith's father, who ran away from home and enlisted in the Union Army when he was 17 years of age, and was in battles from '63 to '65. The local woman recalls that she always wondered why her father was so much younger than all the other veterans, until her mother explained that he was much younger when he entered the service of his country.

Curtis, who was vice-president of the United States, was a friend of Mrs. Smith's father, who helped elector for him.

Candlelight Vows Repeated by Nancy Williams-Douglas Nix

In a candlelight ceremony read in the First Baptist church in Bovina, August 1 at 6 o'clock in the evening, Miss Nancy Lou Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, became the bride of Mr. Douglas Nix, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Nix of Littlefield.

Rev. Jamie Tidenberg of Bovina read the double-ring ceremony before an arch covered with greenery and entwined with feathered mums. The central arrangement was flanked with huge baskets of white mums, gladioli and baby mums, and seven tiered candelabra on either side.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. John Williams of Bovina played "I Love Thee" by Greigg and "In My Garden" by Idabel Firestone, then accompanied Jerry Jones as he sang "Because" by D'Hardelot and "Until" by Sanderson. Traditional wedding march accompanied the wedding party to the altar.

Mrs. Tiny Walling, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid and Mrs. F. R. Hoffer was matron-of-honor. The attendants wore street-length dresses of white nylon fashioned with small Peter Pan collars, cap sleeves and full skirts. Mrs. Walling's dress was worn over green nylon taffeta, with white accessories and a white toque of net covered in boucle button fringe and a small nose veil. Mrs. Hoffer's ensemble was over an orchid taffeta petticoat, with white accessories and the toque of white and green petals, trimmed with a nose veil.

Attendants carried semi-colonial bouquets of pink Rubian Lilies, backed with white net.

Candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Tiny Walling and Ted Walling. Arnold Tanner of Lubbock and Bob Kelly of Bovina served as ushers and best man was Jack Nix, brother of the bridegroom from Vernon.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Williams chose a street-length dress of white organdy, worn over white nylon and styled with Peter Pan collar and buttoned to the waist with rhinestones. The bouffant skirt was attached to a shirred blouse which was interspersed with rhinestones. Her hat was a white feather toque edged with a velvet roll and completed with rhinestones and a dainty nose veil. Her nylon mitts and shoes were white.

The bridal bouquet was semi-colonial, with accent on a central orchid which was surrounded by stephanotis. Long satin streamers showered from the bouquet and were tied with lover's knots.

"For something old", she wore a bracelet belonging to her mother. "Something new" was her wedding attire; she carried a white linen handkerchief borrowed from Mrs. Jessie McSpadden and her garter was blue.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilson chose a two-piece lace ensemble of blue, with a white feather hat and white accessories. Mrs. Nix mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy faille suit with white nylon blouse and navy velvet accessories. Both mothers had shoulder corsages of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding guests were presented to the bride and bridegroom at a reception in the reception hall of the church.

The serving table was covered with a white Irish linen lace cloth over pink; and centered with a three-tiered cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom in a white tulle heart, and encircled in rosebuds. Punch and cake were served in crystal with silver complimenting, by Mrs. Robert Read and Mrs. Jack Nix.

Mrs. Otis White presided at the bride's book. The register table was covered with a hand crocheted cloth and adorned with a bouquet of white asters.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George Brock, uncle of the bridegroom from Lubbock; Mrs. Jack Nix and Jackie Lynn of Vernon; Mrs. H. O. Fencher and Cheryl of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lance, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom of Sudan; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jones of Richmond, Calif.; and Miss Betty Lou Lancaster of Lubbock.

Mrs. Nix was graduated from Bovina Schools in 1949 and spent two years as Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, N. M. For the past year, she has been employed as secretary at Bovina Schools. Mr. Nix completed his high school work at O'Dell, and has been employed by the highway department.

The young couple will make their home in Littlefield, where he will continue as engineer for the department of highway.

IRRIGATION FARMERS, WHERE IS YOUR WATER GOING?

If someone told you that you are losing about one-third of the costly water you are pumping out of the ground for your crops, would you say he is crazy?

We really wouldn't blame you, but why don't you take time to read the article printed here?

Then, whether you believe it or not, come in and talk with us. Let us tell you about some of the other advantages of concrete pipe for irrigation that also will surprise you.

Here Are Some of Them:

Grow crops on ALL your land. No broken ditches. No evaporation. Run water uphill, downhill, at controlled speeds. No weeds around ditches. No bogs to cross in your car. Greater convenience and safety.

FERGUSON PIPE CO.
FARWELL, TEXAS

CONCRETE PIPES SAID TO SAVE 30 TO 40% WATER

LUBBOCK, July 15—Can you imagine losing 30 to 50 per cent of every class of water you try to drink?

Of course, the example is far-fetched, but the figures are right for water loss in open-ditch irrigation, according to Dr. Arthur Young, head of the department of agriculture engineering and agronomy at Texas Tech.

Tech has eliminated water loss in a 200-acre, livestock pasture irrigation venture installed in April. Dr. Young said its all done with underground concrete pipes and risers, spaced at desired intervals. Surface caps allow the water to be used or shut off as needed.

Dr. Young estimates the cost of installing such a system from $1 to $1.10 a foot, depending on the number of risers. Water savings from evaporation and seepage offset the cost of installation, he said. In addition, there are no longer the open ditch problems of how to get water uphill and keeping weeds from growing around the ditch.

Dr. Young pointed out that seepage loss in the open ditch will always be the same regardless of the amount of water used in any situation. From this, he explains, the farmer with a low-flowing well should be particularly benefitted by an underground system.

Proper joint fittings and the use of rubber seals, both to stop underground seepage will increase water use efficiency, he said.

These and other problems have been worked out, and Tech's livestock pasture irrigation system stands as an example of efficient underground watering.

How long can a refrigerator roll dough be kept refrigerated? This depends partly on the quality of the dough, but chiefly on the temperature within the refrigerator. A good roll dough, a little richer and sweeter than plain bread dough, can be refrigerated especially well. The dough keeps best at 45 degrees to 50 degrees Fahrenheit. At this temperature most doughs can be kept satisfactorily for three or four days. Remove portions for each day's baking without keeping the entire batch out of the refrigerator for more than a few minutes.

BIGROW Guaranteed LIQUID FERTILIZER — EASY TO USE (Read carefully)

Apply at rate of 1 to 3 gallons per acre diluted with 5 to 20 gallons of water, depending on type of sprayer equipment available, for leaf or foliage absorption. Also through overhead sprinkler system or as side dressing along sides of rows with converted cultivator attachment.

U. S. ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION, January, 1952. "Atomic Energy in Plant Science" reports results of use by college researchers of "tagged" liquid fertilizer atoms in proving that foliage spraying of plant nutrients is an efficient, economical and rapid method of applying a portion of all of the plants' nutrient requirements. Foliage spraying can be incorporated in with insecticidal and fungicidal spraying, thus two tasks are performed at the same time. Foliage spraying of liquid fertilizers is readily adaptable to aerial applications.

Advantages of BIGROW Guaranteed LIQUID FERTILIZER

1. For use on cereals, small grains, forage crops, legume crops, cotton, peanuts, sugar beets, potatoes and wine crops, etc.
2. Applied to the foliage, enters the sap stream immediately to supply the plant with a complete balanced plant fertilizer... Plant response is fast.
3. It is more economical because it produces more, influences earlier emergence, better quality, higher yield and hastens the growing season... Can be used on any kind of crop requiring fertilizer.
4. All of Bigrow Guaranteed Liquid Fertilizer is immediately available to plant life.
5. It is easy and convenient to handle... Eliminates hard, wasted labor as in handling 800 lbs. of useless filler in each 1,000 lbs. of dry fertilizer.
6. Cannot be lost by leaching or be blown away or remain in soil, unused.
7. Cannot burn or otherwise harm plant life, used as recommended.
8. Reduces mortality of young plants—helps them resist blight.
9. Can be mixed and applied with 2-4, D, or bug dope.
10. Contains trace elements of manganese, copper, zinc, iron and boron, in a balanced, soluble mixture.

Maj. Sides Thanks Bovina W. M. U., Asks for Additional Contributions

Printed below is a letter to the members of Womens' Missionary Union, Bovina Baptist church, Bovina, Texas, from David Sides of the air force in the Philippines. The letter is self-explanatory.

"Last Sunday I took to the Baluga Village the two boxes of clothing which you recently sent me. I delivered them to King Alfonso, ruler of the local tribe of Balugas, so that he might distribute them among his people according to their needs.

I informed King Alfonso that the clothing was the gift of some of his American friends, a group of Christian women of the Baptist church at Bovina, Texas. He was most grateful for the clothing and asked that I thank you for sending them.

In order that you may know something about the people to whom you have made your gift, I shall give you a brief account of them. Some of my information is hearsay and I cannot vouch for its authenticity. However, I am sure you will find the information interesting.

The Balugas are Negritos, or little Negroes. They are the original inhabitants of the Philippines. They are a primitive people who subsist by hunting, gathering fruits and by cultivating small plots of ground where in they grow beans, corn, sweet potatoes and rice. They hunt and kill with their bows and arrows deer, birds, wild pigs, lizards and wild chickens that are in the hills surrounding Clark Air Force Base.

The people of the Baluga village just outside Clark Air Force Base, a tribe of about two hundred people ruled by King Alfonso, also make bows and arrows and gather wild orchids to sell to visitors from Clark Air Force Base. A few of them are also employed by the base for patrol work.

The Balugas occupy about the same unfortunate position as did our American Indians a few decades back. Before the coming of the Malays, the Spaniards, the Chinese and the other peoples, the Balugas were the kings of all they surveyed. However, over the past two hundred years they have been pushed back by the forces of civilization. Their numbers have been steadily dwindling due to insufficient food and unsanitary living conditions brought about by the crowding population.

Unless something is done for them by the Philippine Government and other interested persons or agencies, the Balugas are destined to join the ranks of the extinguished peoples.

As I said before, the Negritos are little people. King Alfonso, who is one of the largest men in the tribe, stands a mere four feet, eleven inches. Offhand, I would say that the men and women are about the sizes of our ordinary fourteen or fifteen year old American girls and boys. They live in rudely constructed huts of bamboo and nipa palm, the floors of most of which are three or four feet above the ground.

The Negritos have adopted little of our present civilization and they have no modern conveniences or facilities which we consider so essential. They have little concept of Christianity other than the practical aspects exhibited by the Americans of the Armed Forces with whom they have come in contact.

Though the Balugas do not have a very definite grasp upon the meaning of the term Christianity, they do have a most definite idea as to what is a friend. The Americans who were at Clark Air Force Base prior to its capture by the Japanese had developed the Balugas as friends. Due to the inability of some American soldiers to escape, many of them owe their lives to the Balugas who sheltered, fed, nursed them in their illness and hid them during the occupation of the islands by the Japanese. And many a soldier who was engaged in re-taking the Philippines is indebted to the jungle-wise Balugas who led them safely through ambushes where death dealing Japanese lay in wait.

As a result of their help, King Alfonso is now an honorary colonel in the United States Air Force. Mauricio Laxamana, village chief of police, is an honorary lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army and also an honorary major in the U. S. Air Force. Laxamana personally annihilated fifty Japanese troops with his bolo knife—and had the heads to prove it.

You may have no one dear to you who has been helped by the Balugas. It is entirely conceivable that you would not know a person who has been so helped. But even so, I doubt that you could look at their gaunt little bodies, open wounds festering from lack of medical attention and their nakedness partly hidden only by rags of cast off clothing and not develop a strong feeling of compassion for them—even if you were not sure they were your friends.

We in America are blessed with so many material things that we find it impossible to envision the misery, poverty and destitution of less fortunate people in other portions of the world. The food we throw into the garbage, the serviceable clothing we cast aside and the materials we waste would seem priceless treasures to the Balugas.

King Alfonso made no plea that additional clothing be furnished to him because he is no beggar; but on his behalf, and on the behalf of his people, I would like to make that plea. King Alfonso's loyalty cannot be purchased and his friendship is not for sale to the highest bidder, as was fully demonstrated during the Japanese occupation of the islands and the Japanese offered a price for the heads of American soldiers—and none were forthcoming.

If any of you should have growing children from the ages of sixteen down who have outgrown serviceable cotton clothing, particularly overalls, pants, shirts and dresses, I would greatly appreciate it if you would mail them to me for delivery to the Balugas. My address is:

Major David W. Sides, USAF
OSI District No. 2 (IG)
FEAF APO 74
% Postmaster
San Francisco, Calif.

Thank you so much for the kindness you have demonstrated in sending the two boxes of clothing. Had you been able to see the look of appreciation on King Alfonso's face when the clothing was delivered to him, I am sure you would have been amply repaid for your participation in the project.

Most sincerely yours,
David W. Sides,
Major, USAF

Date Set For Boys' Ranch Rodeo

August 31 and September 1 are the dates set for the big Eighth Annual Boys' Ranch Rodeo.

All the boys from America's First Boys' Ranch will take a two-day rest from their chores and sports to give the people of this area a first-hand look into what kind of cowboys they really are when they present their Eighth Annual Rodeo in Amarillo, Texas, over the Labor Day weekend.

Two performances will be held at 2:30 on Sunday, August 31 and at 8:00 on Monday, September 1 at the Tri-State Fair Rodeo Arena in Amarillo. The Will Rogers Range Riders of Amarillo are sponsors of the rodeo, but the show will be put on entirely by the young cowboys from the ranch.

The boys participate in every event that is seen in any professional show plus added special attractions such as trick riding and roping and the clown acts. There will not be any absence of thrills and spills because the boys are competing for prize money and for the honor of being named as the best all around cowboy of the year, which is judged according to points received in the various events.

Also on hand to entertain the audience will be the world famous and highly colorful Bit and Spur Riding Club of Kansas City, Bud Lucas with his troupe of rodeo acrobats, and the well-known stars of stage, screen, radio and television, the Wippoowills and Georgia Brown, who appear with Roy Rogers on all his programs and in the movies.

Excitement is running high at the Ranch because many of the boys will be participating in their first rodeo. The boys represent 26 states and two foreign countries and many of them had never been close to a horse or steer before coming to Boys' Ranch, let alone participate in a lively, western rodeo. But they have learned quickly and well and they promise the spectators an action studded show.

All proceeds from the Boys' Ranch Rodeo will be used for the Boys' Ranch expansion program which will help provide for many more boys. General Admission tickets for adults are $1.50 and children's tickets are .75. Reserved seats are priced at $2.25. Tickets will be available by mail, at B. F. Goodrich, Vance Hall Sporting Goods and Henry Blackburn's Sporting Goods stores in Amarillo or at the arena on the two days of the Rodeo.

Jane Gallagher Witnesses Olympic Finish; Writes of Interesting Game Sidelights

Dear family,
J. Sigfrid Edstrom, retiring president of the International Olympic committee pronounced the Fifteenth Olympiad closed. The huge military band played the Olympic fanfare, and the great crowd standing in silence, and not a few in tears, and then the congregated world all about us began to dissolve and the huge crowd of many thousands wended its way to the various exits looking toward their various and sundry homes.

And I, well, after not a few almost if not completely tearful farewells will seek out my way back to our special ship, the D. S. Soma which had brought a ship load from Oslo, Norway to the great games. The Soma will be a gala craft for Norway won but hours since, the gold medal in yachting. The Soma has been home to me since I left Oslo, as I have lived on it during the games. Before long—before you get this—I will be on that little old boat as it pounds the waves back to Oslo.

What a joy this reporting of the Olympiad has been; reporting for Reuters News Agency, London during my time-out from my work at the University. The life of a newspaper person has been something here. Our office has been Room 134 Olympic Stadium. It has been a wonderful office even though it has been a veritable mad-house with its six teletypes, nine typewriters, not silent one either, four telephones with round the world connections, London in particular; its one editor, three sub-editors, seventeen reporters, not to mention the host of errand boys, girl scout messengers and sundry other people.

Hours? You ask. What are those things? Yesterday I began work at 9 a.m. and was at it until 2 a.m. and did not get back to my stateroom until 3:00 a.m. and had to be up and at work the morning following at 8 a.m. And that isn't all. Water polo games were scheduled for 6 a.m. on the days they were held. Can you imagine what it is like at 6 a.m. in Finland? After looking the situation over my personal opinion was that they should give anyone who would jump into that icy blue cold water at the unholy hour a gold medal. It was desperately cold. The sun wasn't even up. We who were fully clothed shivered. We had all available clothing that we could call our own on, but those boys floundering around in that water reminded us of polar bears. The thermometer ranged between 6 and 8 degrees in what ever system Finland uses. It seemed about that cold on our standards believe me.

There was a press restaurant—a red and white striped tent behind the stadium where all the journalists were fed at a more or less minimum price. There were a few more than a thousand of us. Outside the flaps of this press restaurant the other day a Finnish newsreel photographer was trying to set up a camera on top of a truck. Something told me that he would have gotten along much better without all the help that he was getting from below. Well, he got the tripod set—next came the camera. More fun. The one on top had his own idea, those below, each of them, had his own. The argument started with three and ended with at least nine giving advice etc. The man on the truck insisted on doing about as he pleased much to the consternation of all others concerned. It was most interesting. It lived up the breakfast hour for a couple of hundred of us. It might have had its international complications had there been any others involved save Finns. Speaking of breakfast—I ordered two eggs, over light, bread and butter, two cups of coffee—bill 205 marks.

We newspaper folks had a special entrance. We have about the best seats in the stands—directly above the finish line for all racing events. If you should see the right news reel of the many American made reels of the races—if you look closely, you might see me just behind the finish line. I'd be on a direct line with the tape for that's where my "special" seat was. Chances are that you would see me hind a telephone as that is where I spent a lot of my time. In order to get in we must show our press passes, various identifications, walk up three flights of stairs, argue for fifteen minutes more or less, every time we do go in, with the Finnish guards, then we push, shove and persuade our way to our assigned seats. And Oh yes, we ride the street cars "for free" by the mere showing of our press cards.

The "stadion," that's what the host folks call it—is an amazing place, very modern and very huge, gray and brown. The temporary enlargements were blended so skillfully into the permanent part of the structure that it is more an "aesthetic" addition rather than a temporary makeshift. The great arena was always like a giant three ring circus with activity in its every corner and races on its track. The tower on which the Olympic flame burned is 210 feet high, high above anything and everything else in Helsinki. There is an elevator in it for "lazy" folks but on the opening day of the games a relay of three runners raced up the outside staircase carrying the flaming torch like a relay baton. Unfortunately a steady drizzle chilling everyone and all we could see from below, was a dark cloud of smoke struggling up through the wet. When it was not raining—and it rained a part of every day of the games—the flame burns brightly and licks out over the edges of the tower with every gust of wind.

Those men of the world of games; they ran, swam wrestled, high-jumped, pole vaulted and all the rest, rain or sun, and broke an amazing number of records every day. They had stamina and courage and tackled anything and everything regardless of weather or the way they happened to feel at the moment. Looking back, I recall as outstanding, the fifty kilometer race—a bit more than 25 miles. Zatopek, a Czech, won it breaking a world's record. He finished a full five minutes ahead of his nearest rival and having finished first, had enough energy left to run around the .400 meter track to receive the applause of the crowd.

Loving the good old USA as I do, it was a great moment when the music was "The Star Spangled Banner" and the day was a great one when that grand old tune was the tune of the day; it playing a victory for our beloved land.

Believe it or not—The Russians held a caviar and vodka press conference for "western" journalists and they talked. There had been some fussing about the judging in certain events like the ladies' gymnastics and they wished to explain their position. Naturally, like all Russian Press conferences, they talked a lot and didn't say anything, at least anything constructive.

They tried to explain, or rather to but the blame on the Finnish Olympic Committee in Helsinki for the fact that the Russian contestants lived not in the Olympic Village with the other contestants, but in a small town of their own on the outskirts of Helsinki all by themselves.

The contestants seemed friendly enough in the actual contests and when the occasion demanded were graceful losers.

They accepted congratulations of the other athletes when they won, but I have noticed in all the events I've witnessed, that the Russians, men and women, always left the field alone or with their own countrymen, never arm in arm with those of other nationalities as most of the other youngsters did.

There is also "pomp" of other than that of the athletes. A few days ago the Dukes of Edinburgh and Kent came for a part of the afternoon. I think I got a couple of very good pictures. In one of the Duke of Edinburgh is looking and smiling directly at my camera. I do hope that nothing happened to the film, or the distance, or the shutter, or the speed lens or whatever else might be wrong with the camera—because if that picture doesn't turn out just perfect I'm going to be broken hearted.

What a picture it could be and what value as a newspaper. Here's hoping. The day the dukes came to the stadium it stopped raining. Of course his countrymen thought it was for him. I did get a honey of a picture—for sure—of the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Kent, and princess Martha of Norway, the latter you see because I have a Norway Press badge etc.

These were sitting and watching the games and not far from me and I'm sure I got a great picture of them. I got a dandy of "Phillip" just as he got off his yacht "Patricia" too.

And so it was and so it is and so I must be on my way.
Loads of love,
Jane
