Joe Pickle Reviews
The Big Spring Week

Back in the news during the week was the section of road connecting Big Spring and the new portion of highway No. 9 south. The alternate route mapped by the state highway department took off through the Country Club and city park, and was immediately shunted out of the possibilities for the road.

A neat little publicity stunt for Big Spring as well as for National Airmail Week was the sending of a horned toad from here last week by Postmaster Nat Shick. The toad was dispatched on a journey to the four corners of the nation, boosting airmail week May 16-21.

It may be that the toad's return here, probably this week, will tie in nicely for a proposed survey to check airmail poundage from Amarillo and San Antonio. The survey is slated for April 27-29 and Big Spring is anxious to do its part so that the line, if arranged, would meet with the American Airlines planes here.

And while speaking of mail, news that the postal department had approved extension of the city carrier service was welcomed here. Requests by the postmaster, subsequently recommended by a postal inspector, were passed in their entirety, putting Big Spring in the position to boast one of the most complete carrier services anywhere.

"At long last" is probably the best way to begin comment on a decision by the city to furnish a home for the museum, for which, thanks to the city. The Howard county museum, laudable in its content and purpose, will henceforth be housed in the rock structure on the main road into the city park. The offer of the city, after the association had to make its second move Saturday was most timely.

This development ties in nicely with probable acquisition of the federated clubhouse by the county. Howard county commissioners court agreed to take over the building, by paying $2,000 on the outstanding debt, in order to use the building for office purposes.

This seems to be the season for excursions of good will. Tuesday 115 of Fort Worth's big business men stopped here to visit with Big Spring people. Thursday of this week a Dallas contingent will pause for a time in this city. All of which suggests that there may be something to these trade trips, and that Big Spring might think about one through its territory sometime this year.

Until we saw plans last week, we had no idea of the magnitude of the amphitheater under construction in the city park. When completed, not a city in West Texas can boast an outdoor auditorium such as the one here. The amphitheater would seat around 6,500 people, have a big orchestra pit, a spacious stage, dressing rooms, perfect seating arrangement, and equipped for lights and sound.

Looks like county officials are in dead earnest about pinching down on the licensing of places to sell beer on an all night and Sunday basis. Wets and dries alike will be cheered by this news, for many of the complaints against sale of the beverage have come from the "honky-tonks" and noisy all-night places.

45 Bodies Are Recovered In Mine Blast

Whole Area Searched After Volcano-Like Explosions
GRUNDY, Va., April 23 (AP)—Forty-five charred and broken bodies of miners were taken from the seared depths of the Keen Mountain mine of the Red Jacket Coal company today, victims of volcano-like explosions which greeted the night shift as it entered the mine yesterday.

Overcome By Bad Air
The United States bureau of mines officials said no further bodies were in the "drifts" which extend far under the mountain. Sweating, sooty-faced members of mine rescue squads, worked in thirty-minute relays in the furnace-like atmosphere until they had explored every avenue of the big mine. Two members were overcome by bad air which had to be blown out before the final group of bodies could be recovered.

No word of cheer came for sorrowing wives, children, sweethearts. Only bodies came up from the mine. A sooty-faced miner named plain Bill Smith, who had been riding with bodies down the four-mile narrow gauge railroad for many hours, paused long enough to tell his eyewitness account of the disaster. He was standing fifty feet from the mouth of the mine when he heard the roar and saw flame belched from the mountain.

Like Cannon Shots
"The blast was away from me, and that's why I didn't get hurt," he said. "I saw coal-carrying cars, motors, slate and timber spouted as if from a cannon." "All evidence indicates the underground crew died instantly," said C. P. Kelly, chief mine inspector of the state department of labor. He said federal, state and mine officials would make a full investigation after the rescue work. The mine was a new one, opened last November, and was described as up-to-date in every respect.

WTCC Group Off Today

Local Delegation To Bid For 1939 Convention
Seeking to secure the 1939 convention session of the West Texas chamber of commerce, a score of representatives from Big Spring were to leave Sunday afternoon for the regional chamber meeting in Wichita Falls.

Heading the delegation was B. Reagan, director and one of the "old guard" of the West Texas chamber. Dr. P. W. Malone, president of the chamber of commerce, who will present the city's invitation, was to leave Monday afternoon following a meeting of the local chamber board of directors.

Featured in the Big Spring group were Charlene Fallon, "Miss Big Spring" and a candidate for the honor of "Miss West Texas." Gerald Anderson, "My Home Town" speaking contest entrant, and the Willard Reed, Ruby Bell, and Mrs. R. E. Blount, and the accompanist, Mrs. Anne Houser.

Others who planned to go were J. H. Greene, chamber manager, Jess Slaughter, Lester Fisher, Grover Dunham, Vaston Merrick, E. V. Spence, C. S. Blomahield, W. J. Wooster and Bob Schermehorn.

The West Texans will be spotted on both sessions of the Oil Festival programs as will be Miss Fallon. In addition, they will have places on several luncheon programs. Dr. Malone and Greene will take part in the presidents and secretaries dinner while Dunham and Reagan will attend the affair for directors.

Plans called for gathering at the chamber of commerce office at 12:30 p. m. Sunday and departure half an hour later.

$5 Reward

A reward of $5 will be paid for information leading to the apprehension of anyone stealing copies of The Big Spring Herald after delivery to subscribers. Such thefts have become numerous, and The Herald would appreciate any possible help in putting a stop to such practice. Call B. C. Hargrove, Circulation Manager.

'SHORT TIMER'

When George Jamerson of St. Louis went to jail it wasn't for long, 24 minutes to be exact. Justice Louis L. Hicks fixed the sentence for Jamerson, charged with $2 theft, on the same ratio as the sentence for Richard Whitney, former New York stock exchange head. Jamerson is shown watching his sentence tick away.

Nazis Direct Attack On Vienna Jews

Purge Of All 'Non-Aryan' Influences Is Underway
VIENNA, April 23 (AP)—Jews in Vienna were forced today to picket their own stores. Jewish shopkeepers were made to hold upward at arm's length signs reading "Don't Buy From Jews."

Draped about the necks of persons found in Jewish establishments were placards proclaiming: "This stupid, common person still purchases at Jewish stores." Hundreds of SA (brownshirt) Hitler youth directed the mass anti-Jewish boycott while German officials began a purge of the famed Austrian national library.

The chief librarian was supplied with a list of proscribed "non-Aryan" works to be removed and burned from the 1,200,000 volumes in the magnificent collection. Destroyed or relegated to cellars were 115 works of Thomas Mann, Stefan Zweig, Jacob Wassermann, Vicki Baum and others.

Signs Displayed
In the picketing of Jewish stores, Nazis put up signs, warning "Aryans, do not buy from Jews." Windows of a leading coffee shop was smeared with three foot red letters "Jew."

One aged man, forced to hold aloft an anti-Jewish placard, fainted with the effort. He was revived by cold water thrown into his face, then made to carry on again.

Store owners told police they were prevented from enforcing the 7 p. m. closing regulations by Nazi pickets. They, thereupon were threatened with arrest and a fine.

Meanwhile, it was announced two of Max Reinhardt's fixtures at the Salzburg festival would be eliminated this season. In their brief weeks of domination the Nazis have nearly finished their task of purging Austrian music and theaters of "non-German" and "Jewish" influences.

Playhouses have new managers. Their programs are designed to create "national socialist points of view," and "instruct the people in good German literature." Jewish impresarios could do no business. Jewish actors and singers—there were many in Vienna—lost their positions overnight.

HERE'S ONE WHO LIKES BLACK CATS

HOUSTON, April 23 (AP)—Black cats may be bad luck to some people but Claude Jonnard, manager of the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League, likes them. "My cab ran over a black cat on the way to the ball park last night," he said.

Shreveport won the game, 3-0. It was the first victory of the season for Shreveport after nine straight defeats.

Tax Bill Compromise Opens Way To Early Adjournment

Insurgents Take More Territory

Break Through Government Lines In Three Places
HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), April 23 (AP)—Spanish insurgents announced tonight they had broken through government lines in three places in a new drive on the Teruel front. They reported capture of the highway city of Alaga, in the San Just mountains 32 miles northeast of Teruel, on the front some 100 miles east of Madrid.

By capturing Alaga, insurgents said, and breaking through government lines near Valdeconejos to the northwest and Molinos to the northeast, insurgent columns had encircled six brigades of government militiamen.

Insurgents on this front pushed government troops back along the highway leading to the coastal city of Castellon de la Plana. At the same time their comrades along the coast advanced southward toward the city despite a stalling government counter offensive.

Government dispatches from Barcelona, 152 miles northeast of Castellon, confirmed reports of the Teruel drive on the strategic provincial capital, new objective in Generalissimo Franco's attempt to widen the area separating Catalonia from the remainder of government Spain.

Japs Drive Wedge Into Chinese Lines

SHANGHAI, April 24 (Sunday)—A Japanese army spokesman said today the Rising Sun banner had been carried across the border into Kiangsu province, when the reorganized Japanese offensive drove a deep wedge into Chinese lines in southern Shanghai. The Japanese silent, he said, was a few miles east of Taierchuan where the invaders suffered a smashing defeat April 6 after they had occupied the city and crossed the border into Kiangsu for the first time from the north.

Twenty thousand Chinese were reported retreating in the direction of Pihaiun, about eight miles from the Lunghai railway, vital east-west line, which the Japanese have been trying to reach for months.

Franklin said the explosion occurred when he lighted a match as he entered his room this morning.

Museum Given New Quarters

Will Be Housed In Building At The City Park
After a see-saw career during the past several months, the Howard county museum Saturday had a new home. Faced with the necessity of moving from the federated clubhouse, to be taken over by the county when a pending deal goes through, the museum was given quarters by the city in the space that was formerly allotted to girl scouts.

The city Saturday afternoon started the task of moving the museum and equipment and collections to the building on the main entrance drive of the city park. Dr. F. W. Malone, president of the museum association, was highly pleased at the city action. He had been leading a fight for quarters for the institution since it became apparent last autumn that it would have to vacate its home in the old city hall building.

He announced that the museum would be rearranged and open for formal inspection again first on May 1 when the city park will be thrown open in its entirety for the 1938 summer season. The library, also housed in the federated clubhouse, was moved and stored for the time being in the basement of a local business house. What efforts would be made to secure a home for it remained to be seen. Howard county officials indicated that the federated clubhouse would be used for space for various governmental agencies for which the county provides offices.

Heavy Week Ahead For Congress

Other Messages From Roosevelt Are Due Soon
WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Leaders today arranged a heavy program for congress next week and set June 1 as an approximate adjournment date.

To Go Fishing
President Roosevelt intends to complete his legislative recommendations during the week and leave Washington Friday for a fishing trip. Messages are expected from the executive on monopoly, removal of tax exemptions on salaries of public employes and income from federal and state securities. Administration leaders on Capitol Hill hoped to send the tax revision measure to the White House next week, obtain senate approval of the naval expansion bill and clean up a half-dozen odds-and-ends of legislation in the house. The president's multi-billion dollar spending program will continue its journey through the house appropriations committee.

Drafting of a compromise tax law in the form it probably will go on the statute books hinged only on action of a senate-house conference committee in reconciling numerous details of separate bills passed by the chambers.

Speaker Barkhead asserted he was "greatly pleased" that the agreement had been reached and predicted that the house would approve the compromise. Predictions of senate approval came from leaders in that chamber.

British Budget Being Drawn

Will Be Presented By Chancellor On Tuesday
LONDON, April 23 (AP)—Treasury experts ended their search today for more revenue to meet heavily increased rearmament and other costs in the fiscal year which began April 1.

The public will not know from whose pocket the cash will come until Tuesday, with Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, presenting the 1938-39 budget to the house of commons. Britain faces necessity of finding millions of pounds sterling additional for rearmament under handicaps of slowly declining business and a tax rate already the highest in her history.

The cabinet will be given the budget. See BRITISH, Page 6, Col. 6.

BAND TO COMPETE AT SAN ANGELO

The municipal high school band, under the direction of Dan Conley, will go to San Angelo Friday to participate in the annual West Texas school band contest. Conley will have 65 pieces assembled for competition in the class A division this year. The unit will be sporting new uniforms, worn for the first time here recently in the annual spring concert.

THIRD PARTY TALK RENEWED; FDR STRENGTHENS POSITION

providing the business-criticized undistributed profits tax should be retained in a greatly modified form. This gives the president at least a tactical advantage in his apparent effort to make this year's democratic primaries and general elections a test of the administration's popularity with the voters. Both house and senate are expected generally to approve the tax compromise. Their announcement of it may influence final outcome of the renewed White House drive to write a wage-hour act into the statutes at this session. In event both the tax bill compromise and a rewritten wage-hour bill were forced through congress by Presidential approval, Mr. Roosevelt could go to the country during the campaigning with a new state of leadership accomplishments. Local Awards Also To Be Made By Ritz Theatre

How would you like a free trip to Hollywood, via American Airlines? How would you like to tour the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio? How would you like to meet in person Clark Gable and have him present to you a flying suit similar to the one he wears in his newest picture, "Test Pilot"?

Big-Mouthed Comedian At The Queen

Joe E. Brown Appears In 'Wide Open Faces'

Joe E. Brown, helped and sometimes hindered by Lyda Roberts, Alison Skipworth, Jane Wyman, Alan Baxter, races through another story beginning at the Queen theatre today and continuing through Monday. Titled "Wide Open Faces," the bright little tale presents Brown as the typical Brown which should be enough.

He blossoms forth in the beginning as a soda jerker but that is just a sideline to the spacious mouthed one. His claims as an amateur detective of the first water soon get a test and the laughs roll on.

'King Kong' On Lyric Screen

Picture Of Giant Ape Returned For Local Showings

"King Kong," RKO-Radio's contribution to movieland's menace extravaganza, returns to the Lyric theatre today for a two day run.

Starring, of course, the giant ape concocted by Merian C. Cooper and an army of assistants, the picture also features Fay Wray in a role that reestablished her in Hollywood, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot among others.

Cooper's excellent story bridges the great gap between life as it was lived millions of years ago and present day man by bringing King Kong and his associates into existence on a distant, uncharted island and an expedition from the new world to capture him.

The dangers of the mission, their successes and failures and of the final havoc that is wrecked when Kong breaks his chains while on exhibition in a great American city all are presented in exciting, entertaining fashion before the eyes of the cinema going public.

GOLDEN VOICES, GOLDEN WEST

In their fourth co-starring picture, Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald are heard in a total of ten songs. The picture, "The Girl of the Golden West," is at the Ritz today and Monday, and combines romance, adventure, gaiety and music in pleasing proportions.

Music In Abundance Offered In MacDonald-Eddy Film At Ritz

Two Blend Voices In 'Girl Of The Golden West'

Ten new songs are featured in the new Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy feature, "The Girl of the Golden West," appearing at the Ritz theatre today and Monday.

Miss MacDonald contributes her golden voice in "Shadows on the Moon," "The Wind in the Trees," and "Dream of Love," combined with Eddy to duet "Who Are We to Say," and is assisted by the Boy Choir in the number "Ave Maria."

Eddy is featured with "Benorita" and "Soldiers of Fortune." Buddy Ebsen holds the spot in "The West Ain't Wild Anymore," while production numbers include "Sun-Up to Sundown" and "Mariachie."

Helping to make the story a success are such valuable character actors as Leo Carrillo, Walter Pidgeon, Fiedella Lawson and H. B. Warner, while Carrillo, Ebsen, Cliff Edwards and others produce much of the comedy.

Miss MacDonald is cast as the owner of a saloon somewhere in the southwestern part of the then unsettled United States. Pidgeon is Sheriff Rance, Ebsen a faithful blacksmith.

Eddy comes into the story as a gay bandit, Ramerex, who robs a stage in which Miss MacDonald is riding. Struck with her beauty, he allows the coach to continue on its journey after taking the patrons' valuables but decides to follow and make friends with the lovely girl.

They meet with Eddy in disguise as an army officer and friendship blossoms into romance.

Rance, in love with the girl, intervenes and attempts to force Ramerex to leave the country but he is outwitted and the romance progresses until Nina, an old girl friend, hears of the infatuation and turns the bandit over to the law.

The sheriff, however, turns between love and duty, decides to give Ramerex a chance for his life and challenges him to a duel before the girl.

A novel if not surprising finish should please the fans of the two singing sweethearts as well as those interested in the film's adventure.

JOE LENDS A HELPING HAND

Joe E. Brown is an accommodating fellow, as witness the assistance he gives little Jane Wyman. The two appear in Joe's latest starring comedy, "Wide Open Faces," a hilarious piece about a soda-jerker turned detective which is at the Queen today and Monday.

20 MINUTES A LONG TIME; JONES CAN'T ENTER OPEN

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK April 23 — Bobby Jones will not return to national open golf championship competition in June because some people figure 20 minutes is a long time.

That may not be the only reason, but it's a timely one to start on. Now here's the situation:

A suggestion was made that former champions be exempted from sectional qualifying rounds.

This drew the enthusiastic support of Chick Evans, title-winner in 1916, while Jones remarked he might play under such circumstances.

Jones also "reckoned" the public might like to see the old time ace, even though their chances of victory were negligible.

But the U. S. G. A. replied: "Mr. Jones and other ex-champions" will have to qualify."

Exemption List Big Enough

Its reasons were that the exemption list (30 low scores in the previous tournament) would have to be increased, thereby reducing places available to golfers through the land, or the entry limit would have to be increased.

Evans remarked: "I think the exempt list and the available qualifying places could be increased. The association owes it to former champions."

The U.S.G.A. pointed out there were 170 places available. Exemptions

Explains Reasons For Setting Prices On Muni Swim Rates

The following communication has been received by The Herald from E. V. Spence, city manager, in regard to swimming pool rates for the coming season:

Mr. Hank Hart, Sports Editor, Big Spring Daily Herald, Big Spring, Texas.

Dear Sir:

On Tuesday, April 19th, under your column "Sports Parade," in The Big Spring Herald you wrote an article under the heading "A Local Mystery" giving your personal criticism on one item in the schedule of rates charged at the Municipal Swimming Pool as being unreasonable as compared with the season ticket charge at the swimming pool in Del Rio, Texas.

In fairness to the public, and especially at this time when the Boy Scouts are selling season tickets to the swimming pool on a commission basis, all facts pertaining to the schedule of rates and the services rendered at the municipal pool should be again published in your paper, and those that enjoy clean, beautiful, supervised swimming privileges should be the ones to pass judgment as to whether the rates are such a "mystery."

The Big Spring Swimming Pool represents an investment of $21,000 by the Federal Government of which approximately $22,500, or 70 per cent, will have to be repaid in ten years from revenues only. The balance of approximately $9,500, or 30 per cent, was a gift from the Federal Government to this community. This pool is the only one in the state of Texas which was financed in this manner; that is, the debt will be repaid from revenues and not from taxes on property.

To obtain this swimming pool, the Federal Government required that the swimming pool and golf course be operated as a combined system with the revenues from both the pool and golf course being pledged to repay this loan, and that the following rates be charged. You will note that the schedule is prepared with the idea of meeting almost anyone's requirements.

The Big Spring Swimming Pool is one of the most modern built in the state at this time as all precautionary measures were included to safeguard the health of the public. The water in this pool is circulated through sand filters and then chlorinated, killing all germs and making the water absolutely pure. Read what the State Health Officer has to say about the pool:

"City Manager,
"Big Spring, Texas.
"Dear Sir:

"We have before us a report on your Municipal Swimming Pool made yesterday by one of our Department who happened to be passing through Big Spring.

"We want to congratulate you, your City Health Officer, and the pool operator, not only on the construction of this splendid pool, but also on the excellent precautions taken in its operation and maintenance to guard against disease and accidents. This pool is a credit to any community and you should be proud of it.

"We are sorry our representative did not contact you and the City Health Officer while there, but it was so early in the morning he did not call you.

"We appreciate the courtesies extended him by Mr. Akey, pool manager and your interest in maintaining such a pool.

"Very truly yours,
"Geo. W. Cox, M. D.,
"State Health Officer."

Pools operated like the one we have in Big Spring are few and far between, and the season ticket charges for same should not be compared to those at Del Rio, where the pool is operated by three service clubs and the water is furnished by a flowing spring and is not filtered or chlorinated. Unfortunately, you have been misinformed as to the charges for an individual adult season ticket at Del Rio, as the cost is $5.00 instead of $2.50 as stated in your article.

Isn't it worth a little more to go in swimming where every known disease prevention method is used to protect the health of the swimmer? If a person swims a great deal the season ticket is advantageous. On the contrary a coupon book or a single admission may be the best in some cases.

I believe this statement is due to the public in view of your published opinion, and you have my permission to publish this letter with the understanding that it is published in full.

Yours very truly,
E. V. Spence,
City Manager

MODERNIZED STATE GOVT. AND 'NO NEW TAXES' STRESSED BY M'CRAW IN CAMPAIGN OPENER

ARLINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Attorney General William McCraw came to his birthplace today and took the formal plunge into the governor's race with a plea for modernization of state government and a declaration favoring no new taxes.

He chose this spot—once the mecca of horse race fans in North Texas—to affirm opposition to legalized gambling "in any form" and pledge insistence upon enforcement of local liquor laws by local officers to "relieve the state of a substantial portion of the heavy expense it now incurs in practically taking over this phase of law enforcement."

Arlington citizens and friends of the attorney general from all parts of the state arranged an old-fashioned political rally to back-ground red-headed McCraw's home-town approach to the campaign. In his own summary of his platform, McCraw emphasized modernization of the state government and urged that taxation be "systematized rather than increased."

Attorney General Record Carefully explaining that the experience did not qualify him for the governorship, but had given him valuable contact with the common folk, McCraw told how he sold newspapers on the streets of Dallas as a boy. He outlined his World War service with the 36th division and cited his record as attorney general. He said the department had brought more than $6,000,000 into the public treasury from varied litigation during his administration. McCraw reviewed the battle for control of hot oil.

"With the aid of your legislature we made a determined stand in the courts of Texas, and stopped the racketeers. We banished the threat of federal control, and established and have maintained the right of the people to control natural resources," he said. "We have a record of 100 per cent victories in the field of public utility regulation."

McCraw said the state constitution of 1876 was suited to its "age and time," but "almost unnoticed, waste, extravagance, duplication, and inefficiency have become the companions of state administration." He said the state government might continue its "altruistic, wasteful" course if it were not for the necessity of caring for aged citizens, the blind, dependent children, and matching of the teachers' retirement fund.

Merit System McCraw promised if elected to exercise the governor's authority as chief budget officer and rid the capitol of "political favorites, lame ducks and the inefficient" and to "lay the basis for establishment of a merit system of employment that will insure a full day of official work for every day's pay."

The attorney general urged a single, consolidated department for administration of social welfare in his pledge for "humanized old age assistance" that would at the same time be economical. He said current payments were inadequate under present living conditions, and many persons were not on the rolls who ought to be there, but decried "self-seeking politicians who talk about liberal aid to the needy . . . when we have relieved need, then it will be time to talk of liberality."

McCraw said he could see no need for an income or sales tax, and declared against any increase in ad valorem taxes on farms, homes, and business.

McCraw advocated enactment of a labor relations act "which will give assurance to industrial peace in Texas," favored legislation to "strengthen regulation of all business affecting the public interest" and favored "readjustment of our conservation

Typist Wins At Abilene

Christene Shannon Places Third, To Go To State Meet

Christene Shannon, member of the high school typing team, Saturday remained as Big Spring's sole representative in the state inter-scholastic league meet.

She finished third in the regional typing events Saturday at Abilene and qualified for the state competition May 6-7. Writing at the rate of 51.33 words a minute and with 85.56 per cent accuracy, she scored 136 points, only two behind second place. DeAlva McAllister, other Big Spring typist, was sixth in the competition despite nine machine errors. Discounting these errors, due to a faulty margin stop, she would have been only a fraction of a place behind the winner.

Virginia Stover of Mineral Wells took first place in the competition. The Texas district council, Elders William Kitcher of Oklahoma City and Elder Glen Reed of McCook, Neb.

City Host This Week To Council Of Assemblies Of God Churches

Leaders at the Texico district council of the Assemblies Of God churches, to be held in Big Spring Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, are pictured above. They are, left to right, Elder A. C. Bates of Amarillo, district superintendent; Rev. J. J. Grubbs, secretary-treasurer; and Rev. Homer Sheets, host pastor.

Big Spring will play host to several hundred religious workers this week as the eighth annual district council of the Assemblies of God Churches is convened in the city. Sessions will be held at the municipal auditorium, beginning Tuesday and continuing through Thursday. The council is that of the Texico district, which includes all of Texas west of Oklahoma and Sweetwater and south to Del Rio, and all of New Mexico.

Preliminary to the council proper, a meeting of district officers will be held Monday evening, and an evangelistic service is scheduled for Monday evening at 7:30 at the First Methodist church.

The following schedule of meetings will be followed daily:

Ministers' meeting at 9 a. m.; devotional service at 10 a. m.; business session at 10:30 a. m.; message at 11:30; devotional service at 2 p. m.; business session from 3 to 4:30; C. M. meeting at 7:30 p. m. and evening evangelistic service at 8 o'clock.

In addition to delegates from over the district, the meeting here will attract delegates and ministers from other states. Expected to attend the meeting are Elder Doyle Davis of Fort Worth, district superintendent of the Texas district; Elder William Kitcher of Oklahoma City and Elder Glen Reed of McCook, Neb.

In charge of the convention will be Elder A. C. Bates of Amarillo, district superintendent. Assisting him will be Rev. J. J. Grubbs of Hereford, secretary-treasurer; Rev. E. R. Committees include the following:

Ordination—E. R. Foster, W. A. Gilbert, J. A. Thomas, W. A. Vanzant. License renewal—H. M. Reeves, B. H. Caudle, H. M. Fuller, I. M. Brice. Resolutions—H. E. Comstock, Mont M. Walker, A. L. Henderson, M. E. Stubblefield. Program—Homer Sheets, Roy Stewart, J. G. Goodwin. Roster—W. A. McCann, Robert Ridner, O. W. Edwards. Missions and evangelism—E. R. Winter, H. P. Hines, H. A. Baird.

The Texico district of the Assemblies of God churches was organized about seven years ago and the number of churches and ministers have been doubled under the leadership of Rev. A. C. Bates who has held the office of superintendent since the council was organized.

The council comes to Big Spring largely through efforts of the local pastor, Rev. Homer M. Sheets, whose invitation was accepted at a mid-winter convention at Childress. Big Spring was selected at that time over Lubbock and Carlsbad.

The local church is now in a building program. Since Rev. Sheets came to the city two years ago, a lot and a four-room parsonage have been purchased on the corner of West Fourth and Lancaster streets. A new building there will be a stucco structure with full basement and will cost about $4,000.

Goods Stolen From Big Spring Home Recovered Before They Were Missed

Dr. P. W. Malone Saturday experienced a mixed feeling of bewilderment and satisfaction with recovery of $150 in materials taken from his home by a burglar. Officers had located the stolen goods before he had missed them, and had the culprit in jail shortly after he had learned that an intruder in his home had taken two guns and a suit of clothes.

While he and Mrs. Malone had noticed that someone had entered their home two nights previously, they missed nothing. Then Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf called to ask if he had lost two guns. Dr. Malone was sure he hadn't, but looked—and found them gone. Into a carefully laid trap, George Newman, negro, walked with the two guns after attempting to sell them. Using a cloth sample, the sheriff's department quickly located the suit in a local establishment.

Saturday George Newman was in the jail without bond, while Dr. Malone was happy about the whole thing.

Sports Lose Again

HOUSTON, April 23 (AP)—In a game marked by a series of misplays, the Houston Buffs trimmed the lowly Shreveport Sports, 6 to 1, here today.

The errors were charged against the clubs, six to the visitors, and none of the runs was earned.

Left-handed Harry Brecheen turned in a fine pitching performance for the Buffs, granting but five singles to register his second triumph against no defeats in the Texas League campaign.

Meanwhile the Buffs struck their hitting stride, combing Fullerton, Armbrust and Fritz for 11 safeties, three of them by Dick Lang. It was faulty fielding more than Houston's offense which hurt the Shreveport pitching efforts, though.

Geysers attain their highest development in Iceland, New Zealand and the Yellowstone park.

Prepare For Scout Affair

1,000 Boys Expected Here For Annual Roundup

Gathering of approximately 1,000 boy scouts from a 15 county area here for the annual spring Round Up was only two weeks away Saturday.

A. S. Darby, chairman of camping and activities for the Big Spring district, said that committees were being appointed to arrange details for entertaining the crowd. Ed McCurtain, said Darby, is shaping up a program as district director.

The scouts from an area east to Sweetwater and west to Pecos and Elnmore will start arriving here the afternoon of May 6. A campfire program, to which the public is invited, will be held that evening.

On Saturday the boys will compete in contests including first aid, knot tying, signalling, chariot race, pony express relay, scout pace for the mile, water boiling and string burning by friction and flint and steel, antelope race, tug-o-war and an unannounced event. At noon they will be treated to a barbecue luncheon.

The event is easily the biggest on the council calendar.

The Big Spring high school junior softball team, the Rooters, returned to take consolation honors in the district softball meet at Sweetwater Saturday after losing to Snyder in their initial go.

The locals, in earning an eight-inch trophy, defeated Rotan in the semi-finals 10-3 and Jayton in the last game, 9-3, to win.

Fred Boswell had two circuit blows in the semi-final game to decide the outcome while Lamun and Miller led the attack in the last battle.

Players making the trip with Coach Gene Gardner were Lamun, Graves, Boswell, Barton, Battle, Merrick, Patton, Rowe and Young.

Girl Here As Exposition Envoy

Presents Invitation To Golden Gate Attraction

Zoe Dell Lantis, "most photographed girl in the world" and ambassador of the 1933 Golden Gate International Exposition, spent several hours here Friday en route to Austin to present an official invitation to Governor James V. Allred.

With E. Carl Wallen, manager of the photo division of the exposition, she arrived here Friday afternoon on the American Airlines plane. Miss Lantis spoke briefly over the radio and was guest at a dinner given by Glenn Golden, Mrs. Golden, and Mrs. Gold.

By special arrangement, the east-bound plane stopped here at 10 p. m. and she and Wallen continued their journey. Saturday they were to visit the governor.

While here she presented J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager with a scroll invitation to the exposition. It was one of 25 such invitations to go to dignitaries along her itinerary which includes a stop at Charleston, S. C., to preside as queen of the Azalea festival. Washington, D. C., to visit President and Mrs. Roosevelt; and to New York to invite Mayor LaGuardia.

Familiar with her geography, Miss Lantis knew that "this is the section where all the cowboy stories originate." She professed a liking for West Texas and New Mexico, having spent her vacation in the area last summer.

Famous as the girl whose picture has appeared more than 100,000 times in newspapers and magazines throughout the world, Miss Lantis is also "in the movies," having completed a picture with Paramount. While here, she appeared in her pirate's costume, one of her favorites in advertising the exposition.

DAIRY SHOW CLOSING

PLAINVIEW, April 23 (AP)—Prize winning dairy animals paraded through Plainview streets today as the eleventh annual Panhandle Dairy show was brought to a close.

Shirley Temple, Now Nine, Is A Year Nearer Her Fortune

AP Feature Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Eleven years from Saturday, which was her ninth birthday anniversary, Shirley Temple will come into a fortune.

How great a fortune is a riddle. All her earnings—minus expenses and taxes—are being saved for her in trust funds and annuities.

Nobody besides the Temples and their immediate circle knows exactly what Shirley makes. Shirley has a "sealed contract."

But Mrs. Temple admits freely that Shirley is in the 70 per cent income tax bracket, and that last year every cent the child received for endorsements—dresses, dolls, books, and so on—went to the government, plus $20 extra from her film earnings.

Greatest Since Coogan

Everybody else having guessed—and wrongly, Mrs. Temple insists—I will guess too: Shirley's gross income is around $500,000, her taxable income after deductions around $300,000, and her taxes—or receipts from endorsements—around $360,000. She gets at least $100,000 a picture (Hollywood figures it's closer to $125,000).

Shirley is the greatest child star since Jackie Coogan, who left the screen with $2,000,000 in the bank. The Coogan fortune, by investment, increased substantially through the years. (His recent suit against his parents set the present figure at $4,000,000.) But Shirley, who may earn as much as Jackie did, probably won't have that much in the end. Taxes, you know.

Shirley was three when she first faced a camera, but she was five before she got a contract at $150 a week. She was six before her salary approached her importance at the box-office, and seven before it attained real "big money" proportions. At nine she has two and one-half years to go on her present contract.

It's Up To Shirley

Then what? "As I've always said," Shirley's mother affirms, "the moment Shirley says she's tiring of picture work she will stop it. As long as she enjoys it, and the public wants her to, Mr. Temple and I will let her keep on. We haven't any definite plans for her next few years—those will depend on Shirley."

Many in Hollywood believe that Shirley, if she wishes, can continue as a star right through the "awkward age."

Recently the Temples refused an offer of $10,000 a week—for 26 weeks—for personal appearances by Shirley. They likewise rejected $100,000 for radio work. They think pictures are enough. The "endorsement money" doesn't require any work on Shirley's part. Shirley at nine is in grade 5 B, a year ahead of her age level. She lives in a pleasant, unpretentious Brentwood home, which doesn't boast a guest room. It has a swimming pool, in which Shirley is just learning to swim. The household includes a housekeeper, a chauffeur and bodyguard, a cook, a part-time gardener, and a high school boy who helps take care of Shirley's extensive collection of pets.

Shirley knows now that she's famous—but the realization has come so gradually that it hasn't affected her. Mrs. Temple has just stressed—as part of her "unspoiled" Shirley system—the thought that Shirley is applauded for hard work she's done, not because she is a glamor child.

As tight-lipped about their charities as about Shirley's earnings, the Temples nevertheless devote a substantial part of their income to helping others. A boy's camp is supported each summer by Shirley. In the past year Shirley's most important acquisition has been a new coiffure.

Third Party

In his lending-spending message, the president made much of the fact he had recommended to this congress "only four measures of major importance to business." He enumerated the farm bill, legislation to plug income tax loopholes, the wage-hour bill and a measure revising the undistributed profits tax "to remove inequities."

The first two were already accomplished, the president's message said, and the others were still before congress.

If the tax revision compromise proves an accurate indication of the outcome of the wage-hour controversy, Mr. Roosevelt could write that whole program off as achieved, despite party rifts and democratic-republican coalitions that have checked his legislative leadership increasingly ever since the court bill fight began in February, 1937.

As further evidence of his regaining control, the senate's expected approval of the naval expansion bill next week has not been ignored in presidential strategy. The navy bill already has been approved overwhelmingly by the house.

The president's strategy appears to be aimed first of all at democratic congressional primaries.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO AT BAPTIST CHURCH DIRECT PROGRAMS

Young people take over at the First Baptist church Sunday in the absence of the pastor, Dr. C. E. Lancaster.

In the morning services, W. C. Taggart will speak on the subject of "A Home Run That Was Not Made." Joe Hansard will lead the choir, and Lillian Read Hurt will be at the piano.

Sunday evening, developing the theme of "Reflected Lights," Ed McCurtain, Henry Etta Bowling and Taggart will speak. There will be special candle service by the choir with Tillman Bryant directing and Lottie Lee Williams furnishing accompaniment. J. N. Routh is in charge of ushers for both services.

TO OPPOSE PATMAN

PARIS, April 23 (AP)—George P. Blackburn, sixth state district judge, announced today he would be a candidate for election to the United States congress, opposing Rep. Wright Patman.

Blackburn has held public office since 1920 and never has been defeated in a political campaign.

Invalids "Perk up" with PURSANG

It is remarkable how much better Pursang makes invalids feel. And not only invalids but those who always feel "half sick" because illness, overwork, wrong food or lack of exercise have reduced the iron content of their blood.

Physicians and hospitals now often prescribe Pursang as an aid to convalescence. It is a scientifically developed hematonic, containing copper and iron compounds which help to correct iron deficiency in the blood. Pursang aids in building red blood corpuscles, so necessary to all-around physical well-being.

If you are tired, run down and nervous, can't sleep or eat well, or find it hard to recover from simple illnesses, try Pursang. See how much better you feel after two or three days. In a week or more you'll hardly recognize yourself for the same person!

HOSPITAL BUILDINGS ARE TAKING SHAPE

Steadily the first fruits of this city's successful fight for the new state psychopathic hospital are taking shape a mile north of town. Above, the administration building construction is progressing rapidly, with most of the brick work finished and steel structure in place. To the right is the psychopathic hospital, on which brick laying is started. Between them the columns of the north ward building may be seen. Below, the warehouse is nearing completion. In the background, the power plant is shown, also far along in construction.

Hospital Will Be A City In Itself

Work Goes Ahead Steadily On Several Units

A city within itself is rising on the rim of the caprock just north of town.

With vexing delays overcome, construction on the Big Spring state hospital is now geared to a steady pace as all buildings are "out of the ground." One of the structures, the warehouse, is in the final stages of building and the power plant unit is not far behind.

When completed, this $317,000 unit will be opened to the mentally ill of West Texas and the state. Virtually a city in its own right, the hospital will contain a beautiful administration building, psychopathic hospital, general hospital, employes building, two ward buildings, a warehouse and power plant.

In the Warehouse

The warehouse offers an example of the self-sufficiency of the unit. In it is cold storage space for meats, fruits and vegetables and cereals. There will be a butcher shop next to the meat vaults, ample storage space for staples shipped in mostly in car lots. In the front will be offices for accountants and storekeepers. Soon an ice plant will be installed in the building.

Dr. George T. McMahan, superintendent of the hospital, predicts that this building will be one of the first to be enlarged. Any increase in the size of the hospital will mean additional storage space, and wings may be added to the building to solve this problem.

The power plant is much more adequate to the needs of the institution. It is constructed to care for a much larger unit than the first building program calls for. From two huge boilers will go steam and water lines through a large tunnel to the other buildings of the new hospital.

Half-Mile Tunnel

This tunnel, started last week, will be four feet wide and six feet deep. In all, it stretches more than a half mile in length, reaching to the administration building, both hospital structures, the employes building and the two wards.

The administration building, a stately structure of Georgian colonial design, will house the officials and their working rooms. On either end will be open air wings to add to comfort of employes and patients on pretty days.

Psychopathic and general hospital units, which flank the administration building, will be devoted to the more acute cases. Two ward buildings on the north and south side of the courtyard just back of the administration building, will be for other patients. An employes building is situated on the extreme south of the building plot.

The completed project will include such things as a beauty parlor for women patients and barber shop for men. Almost every need of the patients will be supplied on the grounds when the new hospital opens its doors to begin treatment of mentally ill with the most modern of methods.

YELLS CHARGES

Summer Gerard (above) shouted at senators on the lobby investigation committee that their conduct of an investigation was "nothing short of disgraceful." He asserted the committee had attempted to be "smirched" his organization, the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government. The incident followed a charge by Senator Schwelbenbach (D-Wash) that the organization had "put in charge of your New York office a man who is an ex-convict."

Everyone knows some of the problems the budget figures must solve for it has been predicted 1938-39 expenditures will amount to $4,700,000,000 against an estimated revenue of $4,550,000,000 to $4,575,000,000.

Rearmament estimates—exclusive of money to be spent on the new naval construction program—alone call for expenditure of $1,809,925,000 during the year.

For the 1937-38 fiscal year which closed March 31, the government had a technical surplus but 7.4 per cent of the income was borrowed money.

The same principle of borrowing, instead of taxing, to make a surplus may be applied this year by Sir John.

MOTHER LOCATES HER MISSING SON

AUSTIN, April 23 (AP)—The frantic three weeks' search of a young Louisiana mother for her four-year-old son ended here today. She found the boy in an Austin rooming house where he had been left by a man who did not return.

The woman "hitch-hiked" here from Baton Rouge. She said she and the boy's stepfather quarreled at New Orleans, after which she went to Baton Rouge, taking the child with her. She obtained work there in a cafe. Her husband followed her to the Louisiana capital, she told officers, and spirited the lad away.

MEXICO AND U. S. ASSERT FRIENDSHIP

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—An exchange of cordialities between United States and Mexican officials imparted a friendly tone today to conversations regarding the Mexican seizure of oil properties owned by firms of this country.

Replying to felicitations from the majority bloc of the Mexican chamber of deputies, President Roosevelt spoke of the "common aspirations" of western hemisphere nations "to solve our problems in a spirit of friendly cooperation."

Two Entertain With Party At Forsan

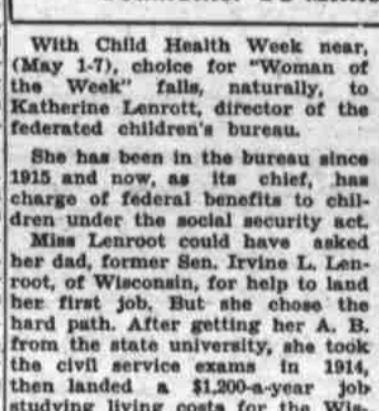

By NANCY PHILIPS LUBBOCK, April 23—Dormitory breakfast at Texas Tech: Meal—Promptly at a quarter to seven every morning the "get-up-if-you-can" bell clangs, banks and shrieks through the sleeping dormitory. You turn from your left to your right side preparatory to getting up. There is no further movement—the dormitory still sleeps. At 7:10 the warning bell rings good-naturedly, you open one eye, sit up, drag your feet over the edge of the bed and close the eye again. The "now-or-never" bell jumps impatiently for the last time at 7:15. You jump up, pry your eyes open, grab your convenient "breakfast" dress and put it on as you grope your way down stairs. Once in the dining room you place your elbow on the table (anti-Emily Post) and rest your weary head on your wobbly hand, then rouse enough to be proud of yourself for getting up and try to say something intelligent to your non-committal neighbor. Thus physically you go to breakfast but mentally you're still dreaming.

Breakfast Is Dreamy, Lunch Is Sometimes A Surprise, At Tech

Lunch—For 10 minutes before lunch you spend your time and all your friend's time wondering what the table spread will have to offer. You try desperately to recall what hasn't been served in the past week that is bound to come today. In spite of all your mental calculations there is always a surprise, pleasant or otherwise. Dinner—There is no doubt in your mind about what is to be served this time as you have spent the latter part of the afternoon with your nose pressed against the screen of your window watching what comes and goes from the kitchen and trying to inhale the smells issuing from within its sacred portals. The bell rings, you rush madly to the dining room, eat ravenously, wonder where they keep the rest of it, and eye those who haven't finished contemptuously as no one is allowed to leave until everyone has consumed all they are going to. You leave slower and more satisfied than when you galloped in and wonder, dreamily, who has a cigarette.

Woman Of The Week

Katherine Lenroot: Godmother To Millions

With Child Health Week near (May 1-7), choice for "Woman of the Week" falls, naturally, to Katherine Lenroot, director of the federated children's bureau.

She has been in the bureau since 1915 and now, as its chief, has charge of federal benefits to children under the social security act. Miss Lenroot could have asked her dad, former Sen. Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, for help to land her first job. But she chose the hard path. After getting her A. B. from the state university, she took the civil service exams in 1914, then landed a $1,200-a-year job studying living costs for the Wisconsin industrial commission.

The quiet, gentle, forty-ish woman has specialized in juvenile and domestic relations court work. She has thick blonde hair, silvery in spots. She talks slowly in a soft voice. She's punctual at her desk and is as ambitious as the newest stenog in the bureau. She likes small dinners, with good talk.

Miss Lenroot wears tailored clothes (lots of open blue) in the daytime, and lush satins at night. On days off she likes to go driving over the Virginia and Maryland hills without a hat, stopping for lunch and dinner wherever she happens to be when she's hungry.

Mrs. L. A. Mayfield, whose home burned at Forsan a short time ago, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower recently at the home of Mrs. Bob White in Forsan.

A PROGRAM FOR THE OPPOSITION

We argue about the wisdom of "pump-priming" by government expenditures is at the moment rather beside the point.

The president's program is only in a very minor degree, if at all, a pump-priming operation. For the essence of true pump-priming is to make a sudden sharp increase of government expenditures financed neither by taxes nor by the loan of real savings. Merely to spend a lot of money is not pump-priming. Unless the president's program represents a true deficit out of what the government spends over what it takes in, and unless the deficit is financed by inflationary money, there is no pump-priming. Thus in 1937-38 the government has been spending a huge amount. But because it has taken in more, including the social security taxes, about as much as it has spent, and has done almost no net borrowing except to buy gold, there has been no pump-priming.

LIBRARY PROBLEM FACES THE CITY

The proposal whereby the county would acquire ownership and operation of the federal club building on the courthouse square would be a step toward clarifying a problem that has confronted interests for some time, and the move should be acceptable. If the county can effect a saving through the trimming of office rental costs, its part in the deal will be justified; and liquidation of the debt on the building will relieve a group of public spirited citizens who made the building possible in the first place.

The problem of housing the library is, of course, yet to be solved. If it is to be moved, perhaps a wise step will be taken in that the whole affair will be crystallized to the extent that the community must take definite action.

Big Spring and Howard county should face the fact that a modern, well-equipped library is essential to the full development of the community. We are making progress in a commercial way and in other phases. New businesses are coming to the city, building is going ahead, we are erecting new schools and adding a state hospital. Big Spring should keep pace with the advance of the times.

We have not kept pace, however, with the cultural processes that a library and a museum represent. We can build commercially as rapidly and broadly as we please, but until we offer the cultural refinements expected of a representative city we will always be shy in what we have to offer the visitor—and with it Howard county—is keeping pace with the advance of the times.

The federated building change may be a proper step. But along with that move, Big Spring should map a definite program toward establishing permanent, adequate and attractive quarters for the library and museum.

CONFIDENCE IN JOHN GARNER

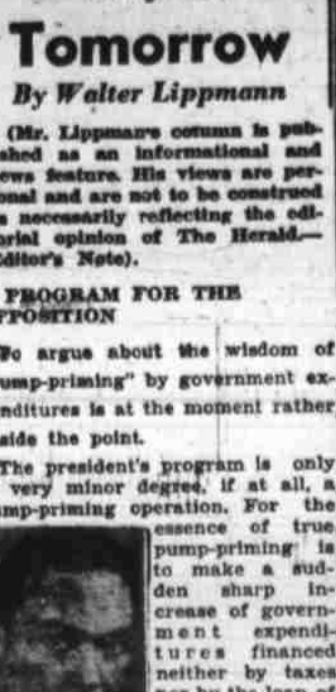

Once considered a burial ground for politicians, the vice presidency cannot be given that designation while John Garner occupies the place. Not that John is spectacular and seeking prominence by doing out-of-the-ordinary things. Charlie Dawes tried that some years ago when he tried to abate the tariff. It is his unmitigated debate and move faster. Dawes made the front page with it for a few days and then was forgotten.

Garner is a different personality. Consider the interest shown by newspaper men and the public in his reputed spat with the president over increased and renewed government spending. No one has discovered if there was such an exchange of words, but many people believe there was, and that belief has not lowered John a particle in the people's estimation.

Years of experience in government from the Texas legislature on up, or down, has given John Garner knowledge not only of political government but of economic and social affairs, and his mental agility is such that he can differentiate between them. He does not expect political government to take over and accomplish things that are a duty of economic or social government. His understanding of political government is that it is intended to make laws for the guidance or restraint or liberty of all the people—not the few—and to see that those laws are enforced when necessary. With that done, political government has done its duty.

And because people believe that John Garner holds such views they have confidence in him and believe that his advice on the course this nation should pursue is sound. The man who can increase the public's estimation without occupying the position of a man who, in the language of "something,"

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

THE INSPIRATION TO BECOME AN AUTOGRAPH COLLECTOR

There is nothing more thrilling than to see a man who has just won the Pulitzer Prize for his novel "The Grapes of Wrath" surrounded by a mob of admirers who are clamoring for his autograph.

It is doubtful whether the new program calls for any considerable amount of pump-priming. The only important increase of expenditure proposed, for W.P.A. is not really an increase of expenditure. It is merely a proposal not to decrease the rate of expenditures, not to retrench in 1938 as was originally intended when the new budget, which goes into effect this coming July, was formulated. The other part of the scheme, the proposal for P.W.A. loans and grants, would eventually look like pump-priming. But as this money cannot be spent quickly and in large forceful doses, it cannot be regarded seriously as pump-priming.

The fact of the matter is that the Roosevelt administration entered this depression with expenditures already at such a high level that it does not dare to step them up suddenly and drastically in order to prime the pump. Because Roosevelt failed to retrench in the good years, he does not really dare to prime the pump in this bad year. So he is adding no important positive stimulus through government expenditures. He is merely negatively refraining from carrying out the retrenchments that he talked about hopefully a few months ago. He is pretending to prime the pump, and rather hoping to create the impression that this is what he is doing, when in fact he is merely proposing to continue spending and taxing at the high level which he reached about the time of the 1936 elections.

If the president is not proposing to prime the pump, the opposition is not seriously proposing to refuse to spend the money he asks for. This is demonstrated by the bill just introduced by Representative Bacon of New York. It is, I think an admirable bill and of the greatest importance but it accepts the president's estimate about the need of not retrenching on relief. Mr. Bacon, if I understand him correctly, proposes to do what the president wants, namely to spend on W.P.A. at the rate of nearly 180 millions a month rather than at the rate originally contemplated of slightly more than 100 millions a month.

And on the other item, the P.W.A., Senator Glass is objecting not to the idea of government loans and more or less concealed subsidies for more public works; he is arguing that the R.F.C. already has the necessary funds available under a bill he himself recently sponsored.

It is desirable to fix all this in mind if we are to get away from unreal issues and devote our attention to the real issues. There are the first is whether the president is to be left with the huge personal and factional power to allocate several billion dollars. The second is whether congress, exerting its constitutional authority over revenues, will refuse to vote more money until it has obtained concessions on the senate tax bill, on peace with the utilities, or a reform of his labor policy.

The first issue turns on the question of reducing the personal power of the president by taking away his control over immense sums of money. The second issue turns upon compelling him to revise his policies enough to make effective a recovery program based not on government expenditure but on private credit. If the opposition in congress will take a clear and resolute position on these two issues, it will be on firm ground. For at this moment there is no point in discussing the amount of the expenditures. The opposition should center its attention on the control of the amount and on obtaining concessions in regard to taxes, utilities, and labor.

As regards the control of the expenditures, the opposition should, I believe, take its stand on the principles of the Bacon bill. This bill provides that the money for relief shall be allocated not by the president but by a board, presumably a non-partisan board. It would be spent by the states, not by federal agencies, and states could obtain federal money only by purchasing their own relief.

Simultaneously, the leaders of the opposition, more specifically the Garner democrats, should make it known to the White House that they will vote none of these appropriations until the president gives evidence of a willingness to make peace with the utilities, and until he gives them assurances about his labor policy. They have the power, and they could readily obtain the necessary popular support, for the movement of this kind, and there is nothing in such a program which deprives the president of any of his rightful authority or impairs any of his genuine reforms.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — One of the great needs of Hollywood, in the humanitarian point of view, is a Department of Quick Extinction of Film Ambitions.

To it would be sent (when we become dictators) all those nice little girls and boys who come to Hollywood, get enough of a chance in pictures to prove they have nothing for pictures, and then persist in hanging on.

Before these pathetic subjects had a chance to think up alibis (such as unsympathetic roles, directors, cameramen) they'd be sent post-haste to the DQ.E.F.A. There sympathetic psychiatrists would work with them gently but forcefully, removing every trace of the ego from outside the city limits to the Mexican seacoast, cost $35.

The Really Talented Stick
 The loss of real actors and actresses to the screen would be none at all. The people who are going to be stars wouldn't let themselves be led to the DQ.E.F.A. They'd escape the official clutches; or falling that, they'd prove impervious to treatment. These few would be permitted, with cheers, to stay and fight it out—and they'd win, as Betts Davis did, and Norma Shearer, and Jane Withers, and many another who had tough going at first and had to fight to win.

But Hollywood would be minus a pathetic and bewildered portion of its population: the people who've been in a few pictures and ever afterward think they're actors. They seldom give it up and go home. Having been caught on the Hollywood merry-go-round, they won't jump off. It's too exciting, too much fun. Besides, if they went home, people might laugh.

The Free-Lancers
 Some marry, and keep on trying to make the movie grade. Others marry and gratefully retire from the screen. But most of them just stay around and keep on trying.

Sometimes they get leads in little "quickies," or second leads. These are hard to take, but they're taken eagerly. Each one puts off the day when the final decision must be made as to what to do with a life dead-centered on a profession which can get along easily without it and has lives to spare.

It's all much more difficult, of course, if the patient has had an extra strong dose of studio exploitation to begin her career. The "smell of greasepaint" isn't the only thing that gets into the blood.

Man About

Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Like the doctor in "Grand Hotel," nothing ever happens when I'm around. I was in the Howdy Club, a late hour Greenwich Village, last night in an hour before it was held up by the other morning.

Three thugs came in, whipped out guns, clubbed a couple of customers, and made so much noise that the cops arrived in time for a shooting.

Oberson a shooting before they could escape. All three of the thugs and one policeman was shot.

And just the day before I was talking to Merle Oberon about her Regency house in London, which she is rehabilitating in the 1803 style to which it was intended. Shortly thereafter she attended at her theater and was advised by her chauffeur that a couple of jewel thieves had an eye on her.

She was greatly disturbed. She and her two escorts went into the Casa Manana, where Billy Rose called in a couple of detectives and then read her a polite but sympathetic lecture.

"You shouldn't wear so many jewels," he advised her earnestly. "These are unprincipled times. You should be more careful."

The next day I went back to see her at her hotel and the petite star with the honey-colored hair and thin brows like two vague crescents was stunningly attired in a mustard colored dress with fur sleeves and a fur bib. I suppose it was a bib. The front of the dress was fur. She also wore a shining, napoleonic emblem at the left of the throat which was in gold of three colors and diamonds. A ring and bracelet matched.

"But don't worry," she cried. "My jewels are now safe in a vault. They are well locked up."

The Boxwood Barrier

Chapter 35

SOCIETY IN A LUMBER CAMP
 And so life ran placidly—a river of gold with enchantment and allured beneath its surface. Romance served on the table and Love was waiting to take the bait.

Every commonplace happening took on a glory beyond comprehension. To accept a glass of water from Gary's hand. To have him telephone her and say quickly: "You, Judy? I've got to go to the woods—nuisance but I've got to show up on the work occasionally."

"How long are you staying?"
 "A couple of centuries—until the day after tomorrow, really. Will you miss me?"

"As if you didn't know!"
 Happiness radiated from her. Just to come home hungry, discard riding clothes for cool cotton and sit down to one of Lu Wing's simply arranged, perfect meals.

Sometimes a shadow appeared on the golden river of her days—Reuben.
 He came home for week ends—neither eagerly nor reluctantly—a well mannered guest who fell in with whatever project was on hand and before he went away thanked for the household bills, paid such as he could and laid the rest aside.

Gradually the cabin at the top of Winding Hill had become the most popular spot in Camp Site No. 2. People dropped in and found tea was always served at four forty-five to the minute. Served easily and graciously and quite as a matter of routine. They began to stop for pickup suppers on Sunday night or for a chance breakfast after the dance with one of Lu Wing's delicious omelettes.

In a small way Judith was dispensing the Goodie Choice brand of hospitality. Establishing a new social order in the camp at the edge of the forest.

"The beautiful Mrs. Oliver!" People were acutely aware of her. "A Maryland Goodie, my dear!" One of the officials' wives made the discovery. "A gorgeous creature with the air of a princess—"

"What about him?—Has a husband?" asked the handsome young Brent extremely attentive?
 "Gradually they pieced together a few half truths about Reuben. "One of those freak, romantic marriages—Oliver had millions for a brief while—"

Gossip spread. An ambitious matron with a sub-debutante at school in the east was quick to see the advantage of knowing a Maryland Goodie. "It may mean an invitation to the Bachelors' Cotillion, who knows? We might as well run up to the camp for awhile. After all there's nothing really of importance going on in camp until November."

One by one the cabins opened. Big cars with chauffeurs smartly uniformed purred up the hill. Ladies perfectly coiffed, groomed and wearing mostly smart black frocks alighted—a case of the mountain coming to Mahomet.

Judith accepted her sudden vogue calmly. She sent to Cooper Street for her silver casket. Clissy's rug—it was superb on the cabin's big, darkly polished floor. She made quantities of tea. Lu Wing baked innumerable tiny wafer-like cakes.

"Are we trying to outrival Newport?" Reuben asked sarcastically. "Over the week end Reuben shared in his wife's popularity—a reflected glory. He was greeted everywhere with a new cordiality—at the pavilion by the Company's officials on Saturday night, on the golf course on Sunday morning. On Monday morning Reuben became a woodsman again. He tried to remain one over the week ends—declining invitations.

As September, October went by, Judith allowed herself very little thought of the future, as is the way of those happy in the present. The first imperfection that appeared upon her horizon was when Pike belatedly presented his bill. The amount shocked her.

"Bring the first couple of weeks in her new environment. Judith had spent Reuben's money timidly—the horror of jobless days in Fordney's Gulch still upon her. Gradually it lifted. The new order so right, so pleasant, established itself firmly and now—Pike's bill!

"It—it must be wrong," Judith figured, added, subtracted a red slide again, reminding herself, rather pathetically, of Gran. She could find not one mistake, apologetically—a new attitude for Judith. She handed the rumpled paper to Reuben, "I didn't realize how much I was spending."

He glanced at the amount. Nearly as much as his monthly salary. He opened his lips to tell her so. To say that this wild orgy of spending must stop. Then he remembered that he had vowed to be as good a man as Gary, and after all a few pounds of tea, a few eggs was not exactly reckless expenditure.

"If necessary to entertain the entire camp every day or so?"
 "—No. Most of them have gone now," Judith said.
 "We can be thankful for that," "I enjoyed having them," frankly.

"She couldn't do it now," Judith thought with satisfaction. She said: "That's an idea! Shall I mail the invitation or will you take it to her?"

"Either way, I'll probably see her during the week."
 He was seeing Clissy—Luckily she didn't care—

Down With A Bang!
 Clissy, dressing in Judith's bedroom for the dance given to honor the buyers and their wives, eased a gown over her white shoulders. It was a black gown, filmy and simple with the simplicity of extreme expensiveness. She said: "Nice shack."

Judith agreed: "I'm crazy about it."
 "Rube is doing well at his job, isn't he?"
 "Evidently." Rube's wife spread cold cream thickly over her straight little nose. "He's had a raise."

"Good!"
 "Perhaps he owes that to your interest, Clissy?"
 "Not at all! Things are moving better since Rube took a hand," Clissy smoothed her dress over slim hips, "but there's more to it than that."

Judith asked no questions. She kept on spreading cold cream. Clissy, determined to pursue this subject said: "There's a lot more to it than that."
 "Than what?" idly.

"My interest," Clissy turned to the mirror. "Galbreath knows a good time when he sees one."
 "Is he here again?"
 "Yes."
 "I think I saw him the day I arrived. Fat man with pig eyes isn't he?"

"The eyes are the least of his piglike qualities."
 "Is he in this camp?"
 "No, across the mountain."
 "Is he gayer on that side?"
 "Much."

For a moment Clissy busied herself pinning down a refractory curl with an invisible pin. This done she said on sudden thought: "Ever notice what a see-saw life is? One side goes up—lights to go up—comes down—bang!"
 Judith laughed gaily: "That's the one thing I have learned about life, Clissy. I've usually had the end seat that gets the hardest bump."

"Guess you have at that," Clissy admitted grudgingly. "I wasn't thinking of you though, but of Gary Brent."
 "Gary? What of him?" Clissy decided. Leisurely she unpinned the curl and worried it with a comb before she answered: "He's had the up end for quite a while. He's due to come down—that's all."
 "Just what do you mean?" Judith hoped her voice was steady.

"Galbreath is looking around for a new superintendent."
 The news struck Judith like a stone between the eyebrows, stunning her. Then suddenly as a Christmas tree ball shatters, her perfect world smashed about her head. If Galbreath got a new superintendent Gary would go home to stay in—destination. She couldn't bear it. She wouldn't believe it.

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) - Secretary of Labor Perkins said today that 80,000 fewer workers were employed in March than in February.

She told a press conference that there was about 2,450,000 more out of work last month than in March, 1937. Ordinarily, she said, between 200,000 and 300,000 workers go back at this season.

One optimistic phase of the situation she noted was the fact that building material industries had picked up somewhat and that weekly factory payrolls had shown a gain.

BACK FROM AKRON
E. L. Gibson of Gibson-Paw Home Appliances, returned Friday evening from Akron, Ohio, where he attended a conference of dealers of the Westinghouse Electric company. Mr. Gibson was guest of the company, being selected as one of 14 representatives from cities and towns of 25,000 and under. Mr. Gibson has been gone for two weeks.

50,000 Expected At WTCC Meet Opening In Wichita Falls Today

Wichita Falls, "the city that faith built," is ready to entertain the 30th annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce which opens with a religious program today and continues through Wednesday.

WICHITA FALLS, April 23—Attendance estimates that 50,000 visitors will attend the four-day sessions of the twentieth annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce were made as officials completed plans for the opening of the WTCC conclave Sunday.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York City and U. S. Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, top a notable speaking program.

READING AND WRITING

"NO NEW FRONTIERS," by John Dun; (The Roycrofters). In this book, John Dun, associate editor of the Toledo (Ohio) Times, has gathered together eleven tales of adventure inspired, he says, "by Arizona sunshine."

West he went in search of new frontiers, but found them not. Rather in Arizona and other points west his "visionary frontiers vanished" and he found people doing the same things and thinking the same thoughts as in the east.

Nevertheless, he found his share of adventure, including a holdup in Hollywood in which he offered to split the contents of his purse with the thief and surprisingly was taken up on the deal. Then there was the tangle with a mountain lion in Bloxton, Arizona ghost town, which he attributes to another, but which circumstantially reads like a personal adventure.

A touching chapter of the book is called "backroom exhibit." "There is, or rather was," he relates, "in the small office in the rear of the sheriff's quarters in the picturesque Pima county court house in Tucson, one of the strangest and most fascinating exhibits in the annals of American criminology."

Connally Speaks Wednesday. Senator Connally, coming from Washington and the national legislative halls, will speak at Wednesday morning's assembly.

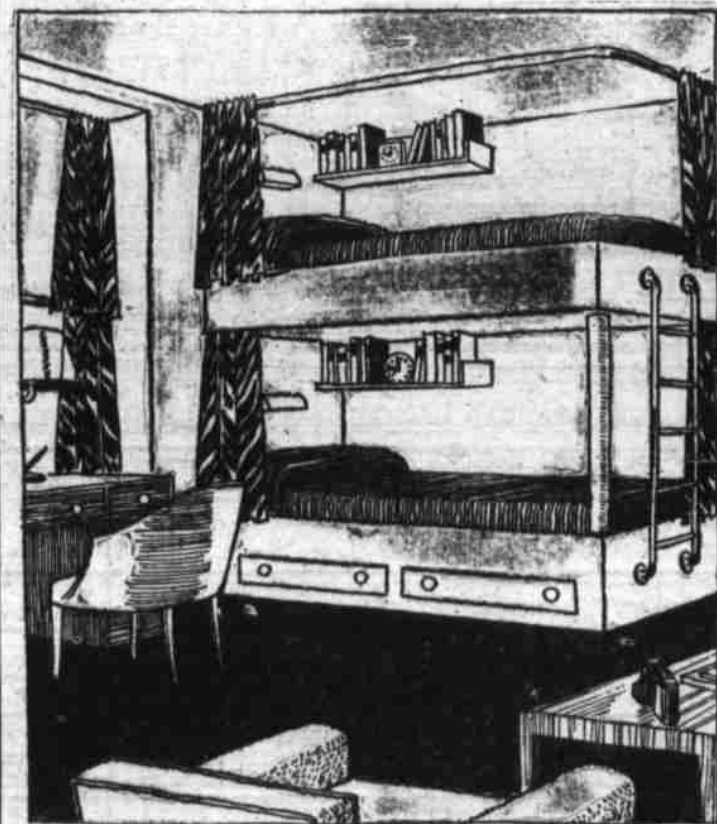

Wilburn Page, WTCC convention manager, predicted an attendance of 50,000 visitors from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma at the convention sessions, and parade.

A gala parade, on Tuesday afternoon, will feature observance of "LaGuardia Day" at the convention. Thirty-four bands, from throughout Texas and Oklahoma, will play along the line of march, headed by the Coleman high school band, named the official WTCC band for 1938 at the annual band contest at the Brownwood convention a year ago.

Business Sessions. Business highlights of the four-day meeting will be the oil, agriculture and livestock conferences.

If You Give Hubby A Room Why Not Put Him In A Brown Study

WHAT MEN LIKE Here's a sturdy room that can be worked out in combinations of browns with red, spruce green or orange.

A boy will like a room with one paneled wall—tongue and groove vertical pine boarding, veneer or flexwood—and three walls painted beige or covered with a paper with Currier and Ives prints in brown tones.

For a man's bedroom we might start with ecceca brown walls and oocyte beige rugs. Venetian blinds would be beige with brown tapes and the draperies and bedspreads green, brown and tomato red stripes with brown trimmings. One chair would be upholstered in tomato red and the others in plain green. Furniture could be either 18th century, with one or two pieces of pine, or modern.
