Farwell to participate in economic unit

The Farwell City Council voted unanimously Monday to participate in an economic development unit being organized for the Twin Cities.

The Texico City Council had also voted unanimously in May to participate.

The economic development unit will meet at 7:30 p.m. CDT June 19 at Farwell City Hall. All interested persons are invited.

The unit has only had one meeting thus far, at which representatives from both councils were present. At that meeting, it had been determined that full council support would be sought, which included utilizing the services of the city clerks in the gathering of information.

Which directions to take, such as whether to seek housing, business and/or industry, haven't been decided on yet. A discussion on this is expected at the June 19 session.

In other business, the council: --Approved a waiver for the Border Town Days queen contest committee to use the Farwell Community Center three times without paying usual fees.

--Discussed a problem with cleanups after events are held at the Community Center. On the recommendation of the Center board, the council voted to employ R&G Enterprises, of Clovis, for regular cleanup work at $65 a month, in addition to a one-time fee of $311 for a major cleanup, including stripping and waxing the floors.

Groups using the center will be expected to do basic janitorial work, and a deposit amount must be decided upon. Center board members have agreed to take turns inspecting the center after it's used.

--Received two bids for seal coating city streets -- from Eastwood, $27,540, and from Appian, $27,262. The Eastwood bid was accepted.

--Noted that the rabies clinic will be Jan. 19 at the city barns.

--Received three bids for a new backhoe -- from Case, $25,690; Associated Supply, $27,247, and Yellowhouse, $28,850. The Yellowhouse bid was accepted. Mayor Chris Gikas said the John Deere backhoe is actually worth $48,000 and it was a good deal for Farwell.

--Voted to pay the expenses and a week's wages for two firemen to attend a week-long fire school at Texas A&M. Attending will be Barthell Ford and Bob Thompson. The Farm Bureau will chip in with $60 for one fireman.

--Agreed, at the request of property owners Mike Camp and Keith Stephens, to close the east half of Doug Landrum, left, receives a special award from Farwell Mayor Chris Gikas at Monday's City Council meeting. Gikas proclaimed the week of June 22-28 as Doug Landrum Week in honor of his "outstanding work as sanitation superintendent."

Farwell residents favor more industry, business

Two months ago, Farwell residents were sent a questionnaire by city officials to get their views on economic development.

Here are the results of that questionnaire:

1. Are you interested in some type of industry or business locating in our area? 69 said yes, 9 said no.
2. Are you willing to support the business or industry with your dollars? 56 said yes, 20 said no.
3. Would you be interested in a job? 15 said yes, 35 said no.
4. Would you be willing for the city and/or the county to subsidize taxes as an incentive to get an industry or business to locate here? 40 said yes, 25 said no.

5. Would you be willing for the city and/or the county to purchase land and build as an incentive to get a business to locate here? 40 said yes, 25 said no.

6. Do you own land that you are willing to sell for a reasonable price either to an investor or business to further growth of the city? 10 said yes, 53 said no.

7. Are you in favor of annexation of land to the city (this means extension of all utilities)? 44 said yes, 16 said no.

In addition, several persons answered some of the questions with "unsure" or "question mark" or "non-applicable."

Ave. H between 4th and 5th streets. --Accepted the city audit by De'Aun Willoughby, of Melrose. She appointed out various problems with record-keeping procedures and urged an annual audit. She also will be hired, on an hourly basis, to set up the city's books.

Pickup giveaway

The Texico Fire Department is giving away a black 1986 Silverado Chevrolet pickup at Border Town Days. Texico Fire Chief Vane Doshier said, "The money will be used for adding to the fire station. Tickets can be purchased at any business in the Texico-Farwell area."

Fairfield reunion

The annual Fairfield School reunion was held in Texico Saturday. Members who attended the former school, which merged with Texico Schools in the 1930s, came for a barbeque. Fairfield was seven miles south of Texico, along the state line. Among those attending were, from left, Helen [Martin] Bowers, Virgie [Mathews] Harding and Alice [Harpold] Kleeman.

Ardith Bruce is shown riding barrels in Denver in 1971.

Ardith Bruce was a World Champion barrel racer

Ardith Bruce, a professional rider has worked her way to the top. In 1964, she won the World's Champion Barrel Racing event.

Mrs. Bruce was raised on a Missouri farm. She began riding at the age of two. As a child she rode on work horses, hogs and cows.

"We had work horses that I rode. Then I got into race riding during World War II and I would amaze the local businessmen when I raced their horses," she said.

"After the war, I got into horse showing. I showed primarily gaited horses. Everyone in this country calls them 'high tailed' -- three and five gaited. Tennessee Walkers and the Missouri Fox trot.

"I met and married Jim Bruce in 1949 and moved to the Farwell area. There were very few horse shows in this area. Jim and his brother-in-law, Mose Glascock, said I should be a barrel racer. I had never seen a barrel race and didn't know what a barrel race was. So they set up three 55-gallon drums and put me on a ranch horse, about half bronco, and taught me the pattern. About 10 days later they took me to the Muleshoe Rodeo where I won both rounds of the barrel races. So the very first barrel race I saw I competed in.

"Unlike many little girls who dream of being barrel racers all their life, I became an instant racer.

"I rodeoed around this area for a while. Then we moved in 1952 to Colorado. I competed in the amateur association in Colorado, winning state my first year. I repeated for seven consecutive years and was all-around champion as well as barrel racing champion.

"In 1961 I joined the Women's Professional Rodeo Association.

"I rodeoed professionally from 1961 to the present time. I am a Gold card member of the WPRA. I got into the cattle events as well, such as goat tying, calf roping and steer decorating. Steer decorating is taking a ribbon off the steer's back."

She has gone to National Finals nine times. She uses three to four different horses.

Mrs. Bruce and her husband have trained and sold about 35 horses. When asked about the easiest horse to train, she said, "A six year old trail riding palomino horse that was a double registered quarter horse gelding."

The horse should have the brains, athletic ability, a strong heart and aptitude of barrel racing. A very good cow horse may not be a very good barrel racing horse.

She has won major events in Houston, Ft. Worth and Denver and has competed from California to New York.

She became the first woman to be licensed as a rider at a recognized race track. She was an outrider on a pari-mutual race track back in the 1960's.

Once she worked at a race track in Colorado. Her job was to get race horses to the starting gate without any problem. She also worked as an outrider at Pike's Peak Downs near Colorado Springs. She was also a pony girl and outrider at Centennial.

For the last few years the Bruces haven't trained horses.

The Bruces have one son, Danny, who lives in Fountain. He is a horse trainer and shows horses in Colorado. They also have a foster daughter who is a barrel racer in South Dakota. "Any person of any age can learn to ride in barrel races. A person wanting to ride barrels needs to have a burning desire to do it. Natural ability and lack of fear of a horse are musts," she said.

The Bruces returned to Farwell last year and are active in the Farwell Arena Association.

Four current members of the Texico-Farwell Rotary Club were among its charter members 25

Williams to lead Rotary Club

Mark Williams has been chosen as the new president of the Texico-Farwell Rotary Club.

His term begins July 1 and he succeeds Charles Aycock as president. Other new officers are: Chris Gikas, vice president; Ron Fechner, secretary, and Joe Jones, treasurer.

Aycock received a special plaque for his service last Friday night at a special Rotary Club banquet in Clovis commemorating the club's 25th anniversary.

Guests present included Dean and Karen McIntyre, W.T. and Virginia Perry, Gil and Jean Patschke, Dewey and Dessie Langston, L.W. and Edith McGuffin and Parker Woodol.

Special entertainment was provided by Richard and Marilee Cage, who sang songs from Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate."

The Texico-Farwell Rotary Club was organized on May 31, 1961, by a group of 25 local business and professional men.

Meeting with Bob Brooks, a special Rotary representative in the Lebow Cafe (situated in the former Texico Hotel building that was torn down last year), the men voted to apply for a charter to Rotary International.

Those present at that organizational meeting were Smokey Gast, Buck Doran, F.O. Burk, Bud Petyon, Rip Snodgrass, Bob Crume, Harry Sheets, Scotty Levins, James Patrick, Ed Combs, R.O. Tomlinson, Prentice Mills, Herb Potts.

Also, John Spearman, Sam Aldridge, Joe Crume, Ernest Cain, Bob Anderson, John Aldridge, Johnny McDonald, Jerry Bradshaw, Dudley Hughes, Joe Jones, Ray Mears and Bill Boling.

Chosen as the club's first directors were: Tomlinson, president; Doran, treasurer; Crume, secretary; Levins, vice president, and Potts, sergeant-at-arms.

The new club was sponsored by the Clovis Rotary Club.

That's service

Service. A small word. Doesn't seem out of the ordinary. Yet so important.

Each of us, in his or her own way, serves. We serve our families, our neighbors, our nation, our God. There aren't a lot more important words, are there?

The Twin Cities is a service area. There are many folks here who go the extra mile to serve.

Take the service clubs, for example. Beta Sigma Phi, ESA, Farwell Study Club, JCCA's, Lions, Rotary, scouts and others.

Ever stop to think how those American flags got up on those flagpoles last Saturday, Flag Day? It was because Lee Hutchins and Virgil Fiske took the time at 7:30 in the morning to place them at various businesses and homes throughout the Twin Cities as a Lions Club project.

That's service. And the surplus food program whereby cheese and butter are given to folks in need. Did you know that members of Beta Sigma Phi took the time one Thursday a month to handle the forms and give out the commodities.

That's service. Have you asked how the Farwell Community Center came into being? It didn't just happen. It took Rotarians like Martin Chandler and Joe Jones to spearhead the project and provide a wonderful meeting place for the Twin Cities.

That's service. And soon we will have an intricate piece of playground equipment at Farwell City Park. Kids will spend hour after hour playing on it. But it only came about because ESA raised the funds to provide it.

That's service. And wasn't it great when our high school seniors had the opportunity to win scholarship money, something so necessary in these days of high-cost college education? And when some received those checks, did you wonder how that money was provided? Did you recall the JCCA baseball cap sale?

That's service. And when you see the beautiful float in the Border Town Days that Farwell Study Club members spent long hours on to help make our Border Town Days parade a success and build pride in our community, remember that it took a lot of work.

That's service. As we know, you don't have to be a club member just to provide service.

Have you seen that beautiful patriotic display in the State Line Tribune window? Gloria Atchley of Farwell provided it, in honor of the Fourth of July.

That's service. Ever see that man removing pop and beer cans that sometimes litter the Farwell City Park on Sunday mornings? That's Hugh Moseley, who takes the time to help keep our parks clean, especially for the Lord's Day.

That's service. Did you know that 23 Texico and Farwell residents attended the Twin Cities' Neighborhood Watch organizational meeting last week. Those block captains and Watch organizers were there because they want to help provide a safer environment for all of us.

That's service. I could go on and on. Each of you could add so many names to this list. And you, yourself, probably would be on it. Because you recognize the need to serve.

Man is a social animal. He has a need to participate and be involved. Few of us become hermits; rather, we become active members of our society. And service becomes a welcome responsibility of our social involvement.

I was thinking of "service" the other night when I attended a Border Town Days Committee meeting. I looked around the long table at the 20 folks who were there, thinking how great it was that we live in a community where folks are willing to participate in worthwhile enterprises.

Let's remember to thank the folks who take the time to provide needed services. Let's remember to show our appreciation. And, last of all, let's remember to help serve our fellow man and our God.

Rumor of the Week: The planned widening of the highway to Amarillo will not happen this year. Let's hope 1987 will be a different story.

Scholarship given

Kevin Owen of Farwell was presented a $4,000 scholarship by the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth at the 1986 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University on June 10. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dee Owen of Farwell.

Trap shoot set

The Texico-Farwell Lions Club will have a trap shoot June 22 at 1:30 p.m. Five pounds of bacon will be given away.

School periods to be shorter

Starting in September, Texico junior high and high school students will have 52-minute periods, instead of the current 60-minute periods. School Supt. James Pierce said the change to a seven-period day was mandated by new requirements from the State Legislature. They increased training in math, English and social studies. So that three math, three social studies and five English courses are needed. The elementary periods will remain the same.

Arcade opens

Twin City Arcade has opened in the building on the north side of Farwell's main street in the 100 block.

The game arcade features video games, pool tables, juke box and soft drink and food machines. It is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

The arcade is owned by longtime Farwell residents David and Carol Rounton.

Accounting procedures explode in Farwell schools

BY JOHN GRIGSBY
Farwell School Superintendent

Although all state funding is directly tied to student population, the purposes for which we must spend the money are directly tied to specific purposes or programs.

The money does not come in the form of a block grant. There are specific things they must be spent on - whether we need the money for those purposes or not. This really moves us to a misleading position. The state tells that we are receiving all these extra dollars, which we are - but, we have to spend them on certain items for which we don't really need the money.

Transportation is a good example. The monies generated for transportation can be spent on that account alone. If we were fortunate enough to have any extra dollars, we could not use that money for other needs. I'm not saying that this is all bad; only restrictive.

If we receive monies for special ed, it must be spent for those purposes, regardless if that is where it is needed. In all fairness, we rarely receive any surplus monies for any account, but it would be desirable if we could use the monies in a spot where it is most needed. Instead, we must spend local dollars.

In the summer of 1984, the accounting procedures for tracking the dollars received and expended went through a total revision. As a result, an item which used to take a single entry may now take as many as five entries on separate ledgers and in several accounts.

A high school teacher must now be paid through accounting procedures by courses taught. So, a single teacher, instead of a single payroll account, may now have to be paid from as many as nine accounts, according to all the duties performed. Our accounting requirements have grown 200 percent as far as time, manpower, and paperwork to document and track expenditures and revenue.

What does this mean? Simply, there is more paperwork and accounting for our school of 450 students than there was when this District had over 800 students. Because of the details required, paper ledgers can no longer be managed effectively, forcing the District to purchase very sophisticated computers and programs - at a very high cost. I must say that an enterprise the size of our school needs to be computerized, but the reasons forcing this move seem excessive.

Shopping for a serger

BY JANETTE PIERCE

If you have been looking for a new sewing machine, you no doubt have stopped to look at a small, strange looking machine called a serger. Sergers are not new.

They've been used in factories for years, sewing all types of fabric, including knits, sheer fabrics, and denim. The industrial machines are large, heavy and very costly. Today's scaled down version performs the same functions as the industrial giant, but weighs only 20 to 25 pounds and costs considerably less.

If you are looking for a supplemental sewing machine because you want a new type of stitch, the serger becomes very attractive. It sews a totally different stitch than your conventional machine, but cannot replace all the functions of your standard machine.

Some models stitch the seam, finish the edge and trim away excess seam allowances in one step. Others do only an overlock stitch for seam finishing. There are sergers that do a "flatlock" stitch (used on sweatshirts) similar to a felled seam; ornamental braiding, pin tucking and a rolled hem (used on napkin and tablecloth edges).

On June 10, Victor Vela, 20, Lubbock, was charged with burglary of a building. He was sentenced to three years probation, and to make restitution and pay court costs.

The following Grand Jury indictments were handed down June 10.

Fabian Gomez, also known as Fabian Salazar and Fabian Gomez Castaneda, 32, Bovina, was indicted on a charge of sexual assault. His case is pending before District Court.

Jessie Nava, 22, Friona, was indicted on a charge of aggravated assault. His case is pending before District Court.

Harold Denton Stanberry, 39, Bovina, was indicted on a charge of driving while intoxicated, subsequent offense. His case is pending before District Court.

Winiberto H. Barron Jr., 23, Friona, was indicted on a charge of aggravated assault. His case is pending before District Court.

Jesus A. Gonzales, 21, Roswell, was indicted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. His case is pending before District Court.

Valentine Castillo, 21, Friona, was indicted on a charge of aggravated assault. His case is pending before District Court. On June 11, his bond was set at $10,000.

Richard May, 37, Clovis was indicted on a charge of theft over $750. His case is pending before District Court. On June 12, his bond was set at $5,000.

The following arrests have been made:

On June 11, Virginia Barron, 25, Friona was arrested by the Friona Police Department on a charge of retaliation. She appeared before Justice of the Peace Albert Smith. Her bond was set at $1,000. Her case is pending before the Grand Jury.

On June 16, Lupe Prieto, 20, Friona was arrested by Friona Police Department on a charge of evading arrest. He was fined $100, court cost and given three days by County Court Judge Porter Roberts.

On June 16, Everado Rivera, 21, Amarillo was arrested by the Sheriff's Office on a charge of burglary of a habitation. His bond was set at $5,000. His case is pending before District Court.

No net change recorded

Contour maps of the net change in the depth-to-water for the 10-year period 1976-1986 and the five-year period 1981 to 1986 graphically illustrate the change in water levels in the Ogallala aquifer in the 15-county service area of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1.

"In the last five years, particularly in the southern part of the District, actual rises in the water level in many wells have occurred. These rises may indicate a stabilizing of the aquifer. Some of the rises may be a result of the filling in of cones of depression created over years of continual pumpage of some wells, and some of the rises may be the result of natural recharge," explains Don McReynolds, District Geologist and Director of the Geohydrologic Division at the High Plains Water District.

The Water District annually measures the depth-to-water level in a network of 950 privately-owned observation wells scattered throughout the District's service area. Actual measurements of the depth-to-water in these observation wells were used in construction of the contour maps. The 1985-1986 water-level change recorded from these observation wells averaged "0" when all water-level measures were taken into consideration, indicating no net change in the quantity of water in storage throughout the District's service area.

A combination of many factors has contributed to the reduced rates of decline.

BEEF STROGANOFF

With this gourmet way of serving beef, you can stretch your food dollar and please the palate as well.

- 1 lb. beef tenderloin, lean beef round or sirloin
- Fresh ground black pepper
- 1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
- 1 onion sliced
- 3 Tbs. oil
- 2 cups beef broth
- 2 Tbs. tomato paste
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/4 tsp. Oregano
- 1/4 tsp. dill weed
- 2 Tbs. Sherry
- 1/3 cup low-fat yogurt

Remove all visible fat from the meat and cut into thin strips, about 2 inches long. Sprinkle with pepper and let stand in a cool place for 2 hours.

In a heavy skillet, saute mushrooms in oil until tender. Remove from skillet, and saute onions in the same oil until brown. Remove from skillet.

Brown meat quickly on all sides until rare. Remove and set aside. Blend the flour into the oil in the skillet and gradually add the broth, stirring constantly until smooth and slightly thick. Add the tomato paste, dry mustard, oregano, dill weed and sherry. Blend well. Combine the sauce with the meat, mushrooms and onions in the top of a double boiler. Cook for 20 minutes. Beat yogurt (to prevent it from curdling). Blend in the beaten yogurt 5 minutes before serving.

Serve over rice or pasta.

Band students work for uniforms

Farwell High School band students are now taking orders for odd jobs to earn money for new uniforms.

Jobs will be done the week of July 7-12. Other projects for the summer include: a successful rummage sale held June 6 and 7; Border Town Days ice cream and fruit juice booth; Sesquicentennial balloons for sale along the parade route and in park; a second work week Aug. 11-16; and tentative plans for some dances.

Plans do not include door-to-door selling this year. If anyone would like to make a donation toward new uniforms, there is an account being set up for this purpose.

If you wish to schedule a job for the band or need more information call: Vicki Jones, 481-9420; Cheryl Burton, 481-3418; Sherry Curtis, 481-3854, or Mary Lou Hillock, 481-9510.

K of C gift used to purchase important machine

The special education resource program and the speech therapy program are an important part of Farwell School.

To help understand its importance, for a few minutes, go on a trip to another society. Let it be one that assigns you a particular job—your entire future is determined by whether you can succeed at this particular work. As it turns out, it is a position that is a very desirable one. There is just one problem—try as you will, you cannot do what is expected of you! Your peers begin to see you as a "goof-off," or else less than bright.

Needless to say, your self-esteem begins to drop. The anxiety level grows higher for you each day, until the very thought of another day on the job is unbearable! You know there is nothing in your future unless you can succeed at this point. Here you are—extremely anxious and with no hope for things to improve in the future.

This is the same position in which the student with a learning disability is placed. School has always been held up as the first place one must succeed. Yet, try as the student may, the desired learning will not come.

The same anxiety level, lack of self-esteem, and feeling of hopelessness described in the imaginary situation is very similar to that felt by a student with a learning disability. This is a person with average to above-average intelligence, but lagging behind in achievement in one or more academic subjects despite making every effort to learn. In a few instances, a student may have a behavior disorder, usually resulting from not knowing how to handle stressful situations.

Feelings of anxiety are also a major factor involved in speech problems—especially that of stuttering. Before stuttering can be controlled, the student must learn how to handle stress. Many times the student finds it necessary to withdraw from the social aspects of school, as just opening one's mouth allows others to be aware of the problem.

Fortunately, most of these students are discovered quickly by our alert teachers, so that the period of agony can draw to an end sooner. Once the individual is referred, tested, and placed in a resource and/or speech therapy program, the pupil can begin to learn with other methods and compensations.

One of the new tools that helps to cope with these feelings of anxiety is the galvanic skin response machine. It measures the skin's response to stress by a change in the pitch of a tone. With its use, the student can be taught to be aware of, and to control one's reactions to stressful situations. When a student learns to relax, test scores, classroom behavior, speech problems, and social skills may improve.

Once the ability to relax oneself has been learned, the machine will no longer be needed. The G.S.R. machine is also useful to help relieve stress-related diseases such as hypertension, migraine headaches, and ulcers.

Farwell School is very fortunate that its special education classes are the recipients of a generous gift from the Knights of Columbus of the San Jose Catholic Church in Texico.

With these funds, the G.S.R. machine will be purchased to help many children in the resource and speech therapy programs. This group is to be commended for its interest, concern, and willingness to help bring an end to the problem these children face daily.

Naval exploits of Maj. Burton celebrated

1836: SATURDAY, JUNE 18. U.S. Senator Henry Clay today submitted a report of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations recommending recognition of the independence of Texas as soon as it becomes evident that she has a civil government in operation "capable of performing and fulfilling the obligations of an independent power."

Referring to the war between Texas and Mexico, the report states: "If the contest has been unequal, it has, nevertheless, been maintained by Texas with uncommon resolution, undaunted valor, and eminent success." It further states that "the recent splendid victory," in which General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, President of Mexico, was captured, "may be considered as decisive of the independence of Texas."

1836: SATURDAY, JUNE 18. Today the report of Veslaco is celebrating the naval exploits of Major Isaac W. Burton and his company of rangers, to whom they have given the name "The Texas Horse Marines." Major Burton sailed into port today with three captured Mexican supply ships, and a remarkable story of how he and his rangers obtained them.

On May 29 he had been dispatched by General T.J. Rusk with 20 rangers, well mounted and well armed, to scour the coast from Guadalupe to Refugio for Mexican soldiers and fugitives. On June 2 they received information of a suspicious looking ship in Copano Bay. They found it to be the Watchman. Early the next morning, several men signalled the ship, as if they were in distress. The ship first hoisted American colors, and the men made no response. It then hoisted Texas colors, and again the men did not respond. When it hoisted Mexican colors, the men signalled back enthusiastically. A boat came ashore with a landing party of five, including the captain. They were taken prisoner and replaced with 16 rangers, with arms well hidden. They boarded the ship and captured it without much resistance. It turned out to be loaded with provisions for the Mexican army.

They ordered the vessel to sail to Veslaco, but the captain claimed that contrary winds made this impossible. This continued for almost two weeks. Perhaps he was hoping to be rescued by the Mexican brig-of-war Vencedor del Alamo, which he knew to be nearby, since it had conveyed them to Texas.

Yesterday, two other ships, the Comanche and the Fanny Butler, hove into the bay. Major Burton ordered the Watchman's captain, on pain of death, to lure the other two captains aboard, which he did. The rangers captured them as hostages, and their ships surrendered without resistance.

All three ships were brought to Veslaco today. Major Burton estimates the cargoes to be worth some $25,000, and the supplies will be of great service to the Texas army. The Vencedor, meanwhile, is understood to be lying off the mouth of the Rio Grande River, waiting to escort the three ships back. It will have a long wait.

1838: MONDAY, JUNE 18. President Sam Houston this week issued instructions to the Chief Justices of four counties in southern Texas to sanction the movement of Mexican traders across the Rio Grande River into Texas. The counties are Bexar, Victoria, Goliad and San Patricio. However, the same order prohibits Texans from trading southward with Mexico.

A flourishing system of illicit commerce has developed during the past year across the Rio Grande, due in part to the French blockade of the Mexican coast. Mexican traders have been willing to pay high prices for goods bought in Texas, much of it imported from the United States, and the mercantile establishments of San Antonio have found this highly profitable. In addition, Mexican traders have brought in horses and mules, and food items like flour and beans for trade. The Houston Telegraph and Texas Register last year commented on the friendly deportment of the traders, saying that it "showed that they were desirous to renew their former intimate connections with our citizens. There was a cheering prospect that a friendly intercourse would gradually extend into the interior of Chihuahua and Tamaulipas, and eventually pave the way for a lasting peace."

Earlier this year, Congress attempted to stimulate trade by lowering the tariff on cotton goods to 10 per cent, and by removing duties entirely from food items like sugar, coffee, tea, salt and flour, as well as from furniture and utensils, books and stationery, lumber, bale rope, cotton bagging and similar items.

Secretary of War Barnard E. Bee proposed to Congress last April 24 that it consider a specific law to open trade officially across the Rio Grande, despite some concern that France might consider this an interference with her blockade of Mexico. No action was taken by Congress, because the same week, the Mexican government severed commercial relations between Coahuila, Sonora and Nuevo Mexico with Texas and the United States.

In his instructions to the Chief Justices today, President Houston ordered that any Mexican party greater than 10 must give 24 hours notice before crossing the Rio Grande. Also all Mexican traders must check their arms with the Chief Justices immediately upon arrival. In return, President Houston has decreed that no Texian armed company can go south of the Nueces River.

1844: WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19. General Adrian Woll, commander-in-chief of Mexico's Army of the North, today sent a notice to President Sam Houston officially informing him that the armistice between Texas and Mexico, observed since June 15 last year, is now terminated and that since June 11 "hostilities were renewed and declared to exist." He said that his government was highly indignant at the "perfidious conduct" of Texans toward the armistice. Despite this cancellation, no military action from General Woll is expected.

The armistice was declared last year by President Houston and President Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna to provide an opportunity for exploring the grievances between Texas and Mexico. Two preliminary commissioners were appointed by Houston, Colonel George Hockley and Samuel M. Williams, who travelled to Sabinas, Coahuila, some 75 miles south of the Rio Grande, to meet with their counterparts appointed by General Woll. Their main purpose was to try to obtain a meeting in Mexico City for commissioners clothed with full powers to negotiate a permanent peace.

They were not successful, and fearing for their safety, they signed an agreement on February 18 continuing the armistice, and hurried across the Rio Grande. The agreement extending the armistice referred to Texas as a department of Mexico, and President Houston took no action on it, "further than to reject it silently," as he has stated, "hoping to gain time by silence."

Mexico has been under increasing pressure from the United States to acknowledge the independence of Texas. This is due in part to the urging of the new U.S. charge d'affaires to Texas, General W.S. Murphy, who hopes to counteract what he considers to be undue influence by the British in Texian affairs. The U.S. Minister to Mexico, General Waddy Thompson was instructed by Secretary of State Abel P. Upshur to inform the Mexican government that the United States viewed the war between Mexico and Texas as having lost its high character, that it had become only a war of plunder, pillage and robbery, and that while the U.S. did not dispute Mexico's right to re-subjugate Texas if she could, she questioned the manner in which the war was being kept open, and demanded that it be ended at once, either by negotiations or by arms.

Mexico interpreted this as a move toward the annexation of Texas, and threatened that should this occur, she would declare war on the United States. U.S. President John Tyler considered this an idle threat, and in his message to Congress last December 5 stated: "The United States has an immediate interest in seeing an end put to the state of hostilities existing between Mexico and Texas."

I'm what they call a night man

Mark Cole of Farwell was picked from the freshman class for a feature in the June-July issue of "The Magazine of Baylor University."

MARK COLE

Here's what Cole, who achieved a perfect 4.0 average his first year, said in the article, entitled "I'm What They Call A 'Night Man'":

Baylor freshman Mark Cole thinks he has the best part-time job around.

It offers him a chance to earn extra spending money, there are not too many interruptions, and he can't beat the restful atmosphere.

He works in a funeral home. "I'm what they call a 'night man,' which means I answer the phones and escort families around," said Cole, a student from the tiny town of Farwell, Texas, of his "different" kind of job.

"It's a perfect job for me—I get a job, which I need, plus the hours suit me fine. I work from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. every other day. They have some living quarters there for employees, and I get more sleep there than I would in a dorm room. You get used to the bodies after a while. The first time I had to move and close a casket with someone in it, it made me kind of nervous. But now it doesn't affect me at all."

Cole is a journalism-political science major and prefers not to participate in a fraternity. "I think a lot of students here at Baylor are like I am—they don't care that much about getting involved with fraternities or sororities."

"I would like to get into a service organization soon, maybe Chamber of Commerce, because I believe the service organizations do a lot of good things, and they can really help people."

"I'd also like to put more time into the Baptist Student Union. The mission work there appeals to me. But there are only so many hours in a day, and the hours I work don't leave a lot of time for too many things. I get kidded about working in a funeral home, but the hourly schedule is just right for me."

When I was growing up a favorite treat was Sunday afternoons when we made homemade ice cream.

My grandma would get everything ready for papa and me. After the ice and salt were packed we put flour sacks on top and there I say to hold the freezer steady while papa turned. It seemed to take forever for him to say it's ready.

Never in my life have I tasted such nectar! Just the thought makes your mouth water. Just like they did for the ice cream social the Ladies Auxiliary had for us last Monday. The ice cream was heavenly! So many different flavors. Delicious.

To the ladies who baked the Angel Food Cakes - made the ice cream and took the time to come and help serve it - Thank You's aren't enough. Each and everyone of you are special! You are what we think of when we describe giving of ourselves! Thank You!

Rebecca Stanford is in Clovis High Plains Hospital for hip surgery. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Howard Carlyle has returned to us much better. Welcome home, Howard.

Clyde Newell moved to a nursing home in Lubbock to be closer to his family. We wish him well!

Historic Recipe of the Week

ECONOMICAL MEAT DISH
Often Used During The
"Depression"

Ten cents' worth of round steak, put through food grinder; Melt a lump of butter in a skillet, slice a small onion into it and fry until brown. Put in the ground meat and brown quickly. Add a small tablespoonful of flour. When well blended add a pint of boiling water and let simmer slowly for fifteen minutes.

Collected by the Farwell Study Club

To generate electricity why not use... Wind? Solar? Nuclear?

The technology is not yet available to economically harness the wind... or the sun to generate electricity. And, you're well aware of the problems with nuclear. So, we're glad we chose coal. It saved you, our customers, over $215 million last year. But our research into other energy sources has not stopped.

We're dedicated to keeping the cost of electricity as low as possible.

What the Lady means

Dear Editor,
It was August, 1942, I had just turned 12 years old and the place was Fort Devens, Massachusetts. The 45th Division was being sent overseas. My dad was transferred to Camp Attebery, Ind. He had some leave, so we went to see New York City.

The Empire State Building was overwhelming, with its 102 floors. Looking down the cars and people looked like toys. Radio City Music hall was fantastic with the Pipe Organ, the Rockettes and the movie "Bambi." On our cruise around Manhattan Island I saw the French ship Normandy which was an awesome site, as she laid there on her side suffering from a severe fire. The George Washington Bridge was huge.

Suddenly I saw the most beautiful lady that I had heard so much about. She was gigantic. I couldn't understand why she was green. My dad explained that she was made out of bronze and the salt water caused the metal to oxidize. Later we took a ferry to Bedloes island, so we could really get to know her. We entered at the base, which was an 11 pointed star then through a tunnel, which led to the elevator, from there it was 10 stories to the top of the pedestal.

Then we climbed, single file a 12 story spiral stairway, 161 steps, to the head. You could see the huge columns that held her weight, 450,000 pounds. The view of Manhattan skyline and the world's largest harbor was breath-taking.

As a 12 year old, I was very impressed with her size and beauty. My dad explained to me that she represented the one thing that man finds most precious—LIBERTY. At her feet lie a broken shackle and she steps forward clasping in her left hand the Declaration of Independence and in her right hand a burning torch to enlighten the world.

My dad taught me as I was growing up, to love and appreciate my heritage, but like many other Americans, I took it for granted. I didn't truthfully realize how precious my heritage was until I spent 2 years in Germany.

Letter To The Editor

On Dec. 12, 1947 I saw Miss Liberty the evening we left New York Harbor on the USS Huddleston. We arrived in Bremerhaven, Germany on Dec. 26. From there we took a train, with broken windows, no heat or lights except the conductors lantern. Every direction you turned there was piles of rubble.

I finished my 2nd Semester of my senior year in Heidelberg. We had a military bus that took us home on Fridays and picked us up on Sunday afternoons to go back to school. There was one village that we always went through at sunset and it was nothing but piles of rubble and on each pile was a white cross that silhouetted against the setting sun. It made me break out in chills.

These people had been senselessly killed by a mad man who wanted to conquer the world. It was there I began to realize how fortunate I was to have been born in America, a land given us by God.

It was August of 1949 that I returned to the States, by myself, on the USS Vance. This trip was a very maturing experience. To leave mom and dad and make a journey from Stuttgart to Belton, Texas. The ship dropped anchor, in New York after I had gone to bed. I got up early, because I had a very important appointment with a Lady.

I went out on deck, but it was still too dark and the fog was heavy. I waited inside. The sun began to rise and the fog slowly began to lift. I ran out on deck and turned and looked at my friend, whom I hadn't seen for 2 years.

I got a glimpse of her light then slowly her form came into view. I was so glad to see her. I had a glimpse of what soldiers felt having returned from battle not knowing if they would ever see her again. I got a lump in my throat and tears began to trickle down my cheeks. I thanked God that I was an American. I recalled to mind what was inscribed on her pedestal.

"Give my your tired, your poor, Your huddle masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, temp-est-tossed to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

I, Gloria Ann Slagel, truly realized what America means. I thank God for my heritage and pledged to love, honor and protect my country and what she stands for.

Jesus said, "I am the light of the World." He was the one that brought America into being. America was chosen to carry His Light and to keep it burning for all to see. Sad to say we have faltered. We have allowed Satan to chisel at the foundation of Liberty. We have allowed Satan to destroy our heritage, to smear our forefathers, in the eyes of our children, who gave their lives, their fortune and their sacred honor, so that you and I and our children could have life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We are to be the Torch bearers for Christ.

"Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty." II Corinthians 3:17

We must turn our eyes upon Jesus and look full in His wonderful face.

"If my people, which are called by my name shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." II Chronicles 7:14

This is what this beautiful, unfaltering, enduring Lady means to me.

Gloria Ann Atchley

Jones elected 'postmaster'

Cory Jones of Farwell attended the Boys State session at the University of Texas in Austin June 7-13. Cory was elected postmaster in the city and voting delegate in the county elections. He also ran for county treasurer but lost by eight votes.

CORY JONES

just what their office duties were. The Boys State Choir sang in concert.

They had lunch on the grounds, walked back and had a last city meeting. Each boy received a pin and certificate, and then flew home.

"It was a real great experience. I didn't know a lot about the government. I listened to all the people and learned a lot. You can learn a lot to how our government is run," said Cory.

Each participant is placed in a city, county and district. Cory belonged to Dunning City, Schlafli County and Lindsey District and the Federalist Party. Each city elected mayors and chaplains.

Every day they had General Assemblies. They heard speakers and they would explain how they got into politics.

During the state party convention, the county delegates represented the state. They organized state chairmen, secretaries and whips. The whips were leaders for the cheering sections.

During the state convention, speeches were given and party platforms set up. Platforms discussed were - pari mutual racing, unemployment rate and immigration, to name a few.

Cory was appointed to three departments - Banking, finance and textbook.

Each city competed against each other in softball, volleyball, baseball, basketball, swimming, racketball, handball and ping pong.

On the last day during General Assembly they presented awards. The Boys State Band marched to the Capitol and gave a concert. While there Gov. Mark White spoke to them.

They toured the Capitol and spoke to the representatives and were told

How spending cuts would affect Farwell

Farwell School Supt. John Grigsby has commented on how suggested state cuts in education would affect the local school system.

Last week, the State Board of Education began discussing how cuts in state funding would affect local public education programs.

Both the Legislative Budget Board and the governor's office requested the Texas Education Agency to submit budget proposals reflecting 10 percent and 20 percent reductions in current spending levels.

The requests were made after Comptroller Bob Bullock projected substantial reductions in the amount of money that will be available for the 1988-89 biennium.

Here's how those types of cuts would impact Farwell.

A 10 percent cut would mean a loss in state revenue of $94,800. A 20 percent cut would mean a loss of $189,600.

Farwell's school district has a taxable value of $59,500,000. The current tax rate is $1.04.

To generate an extra $94,800 to make up for a cut in state funds of 10 percent, an extra 16 cents would be added to the $1.04 tax rate, for a total of $1.20.

To generate an extra $189,600 to make up for a cut in state funds of 20 percent, an extra 32 cents would be added to the $1.04 tax rate, for a total of $1.36 (an increase of 30.7 percent).

Grigsby also pointed out that under state tax laws, if an increase of over 8 percent is sought, taxpayers have the right to call for a rollback election. And if a rollback is supported, there is a lag of one year for school districts. That means the higher tax rate would automatically be in effect for the first year, then cut the second year (There is no year-lag for county and city governments).

TEA officials said the Legislature might have to consider waiving the rollback provision for school districts if state aid is cut.

The state education chairman has said he doesn't think it's reasonable for the state to expect school systems to absorb the kinds of reductions suggested.

Japanese film crew comes to Twin Cities

The Japanese Fuji Television Co. came to Clovis to begin filming a documentary on America during the Pioneer Days Activities.

As they drove through the Farwell-Texico area they were puzzled by the time zones. Since Japan is all in one time zone, the idea of living and working in two time zones fascinated them.

Tim Martin, executive director of Clovis Chamber of Commerce, arranged for them to go to the Marlon Inman's home to film a family who deals with the two time zones daily.

The Inmans explained to them that when they are talking to someone in the Mountain Time Zone they use MST.

For example, their church, First Baptist Church of Clovis, begins at 10:30 a.m. Then, in your own mind, you do the conversion to CST. If someone who lives in MST zone is invited to their home at 7 p.m. they usually make sure they understand that it is CST they are talking about. It may be confusing to someone who doesn't live here but it is a part of our lives that we take for granted and never really think too much about.

The group filmed the Inmans in a "normal" day of activities. The fact that farmers don't have a set schedule for each day was hard for the Japanese to understand. They were also interested in Suzahn's social activities and how she managed the time changes when going to a movie or other activities in Clovis. They completed the film at the state line by the "Entering Central Time Zone" sign in Farwell.

The group had lunch with the Inmans. They were served charcoal hamburgers with all the trimmings, cherry and apple pie and Coca Cola.

The Inmans presented them with some gifts from Texas. They were given a miniature barrel of real Texas crude oil. Karolene gave them one of her personal thimble-collectors' thimbles. They were also each presented a small Rotary Club International banner from the Texico-Farwell Club and the ESA donated Sesquicentennial Pheasant Hunt Caps.

FmHA election set

Election of two Farmers Home Administration county committee members will take place June 30, County Supervisor Weldon C. Rainey announced.

"This is a historic occasion," Rainey said. "It is the first time that FmHA county committee members have been elected. Until now, they have been designated by the agency. The 1985 Farm Bill calls for two elected and one designated member on the committee."

The FmHA county committee assists the county office in determining the eligibility of applicants for certain types of FmHA loans.

Farmers who live in Parmer County, have their principal farming operation within the county or area for which the election is being held, and derive the principal part of their income from farming are eligible to vote.

Nominees for the Parmer County FmHA county committee are: Preston E. Cargile, Henry T. Fangman, and Alfred Hicks.

"This time, we will elect two committee members," Mr. Rainey said. "One will serve for one year and the other will serve two years. In the future, all three members will serve three-year terms on a staggered basis, with one position to be filled each year."

Voting ballots are available from the FmHA county office at 207 Ave. D in Farwell. Marked ballots must be received at the FmHA office by June 30, 1986.

Pioneers to be honored

The Border Town Days Committee is sponsoring a contest to honor the Texico-Farwell area's Pioneer Man of the Year and Pioneer Woman of the Year.

The honors will go to longtime residents who were among the early residents of our area.

Persons chosen will be honored during Border Town Days.

"We hope that folks who came to this area in the 1920s and 1930s submit their names for recognition," said BTDC Committee President Curtis Smith. "We know that a lot of our folks have worked hard during those decades to provide homes for their families and make a living."

Elsewhere in this issue of the Tribune is a ballot that can be filled out. Ballot should be returned to the Tribune.
