Paducah impressed me

I have never seen a high school basketball team's starting five like Paducah's before.

I was impressed. Now, I realize that at the high school level basketball and football players aren't recruited, right? So I am sure the Paducah fans were really happy when two star basketball players transferred from other schools to Paducah last fall. It didn't hurt.

The worst part is that several of those stars aren't seniors. They will be back to haunt state teams next year. And this is a Class A school? It's a good thing their student population isn't larger; they might be able to beat the Russians in the 1988 Olympics.

The other thing that amazed me was the large turnout of Steer fans at Plainview for the Farwell - Paducah contest. To say half the town turned out might not be too far-fetched an exaggeration. I've never seen such support in larger communities I have lived in. It was great to see.

Anyway, after a disappointing football season, the Farwell kids turned it around and end with a super basketball season. Like Bruce Springsteen sings in "Glory Days," it was the kind of season that will never be forgotten.

I realize as editor of the Twin Cities' newspaper, that not as much ink has been devoted to Texico's teams this year (or the Farwell varsity girls' team). This has been an off-year for these squads and I feel they will rebound next year.

Texico has some excellent young players coming up; that talent will show quickly. And remember that Farwell's 8th grade football and basketball teams were unbeaten this year; that bodes well for the future.

One thing we try to do in this newspaper is to cover all the school teams, down through 7th grade. I've always felt that the parents of a 7th grader playing on a school team are just as proud of seeing their youngster's name in the paper for athletic (or scholastic, for that matter) prowess as the parents of a high school senior are.

Here are some statistics from the annual performance report of Farwell Schools that you might find interesting:

Of the 466 students, 65.5 percent are white; 35.5 percent Hispanic, and 1.1 percent black. On the free and reduced lunch program are 37.6 percent of the total enrollment.

The combined average experience of the teachers is 11.0 years. Forty-five percent of the teachers have taught from 11 to 20 years, a statistic much higher than the state average (31.3).

Nineteen percent of the teachers are now on career ladder status, meaning they receive an extra $1,560 a year.

The school personnel total breaks down this way: teachers, 79.8 percent; support staff, 13.5 percent, and campus administration, 6.7 percent. Also, 52.9 percent are female and 47.1 percent are male.

The average actual salaries are: teachers, $20,545; support staff, $22,433; and campus administration, $33,760.

That bill by New Mexico state Rep. Vincent Gallegos to change the New Mexico - Texas border was the subject of a Dallas Morning News article, reports Carrie Anderson.

The bill wants a slice of Texas placed in New Mexico; it would include Farwell.

In 1911, Congress decided to have the current boundary stay in perpetuity so it is doubtful that Gallegos' bill will get very far.

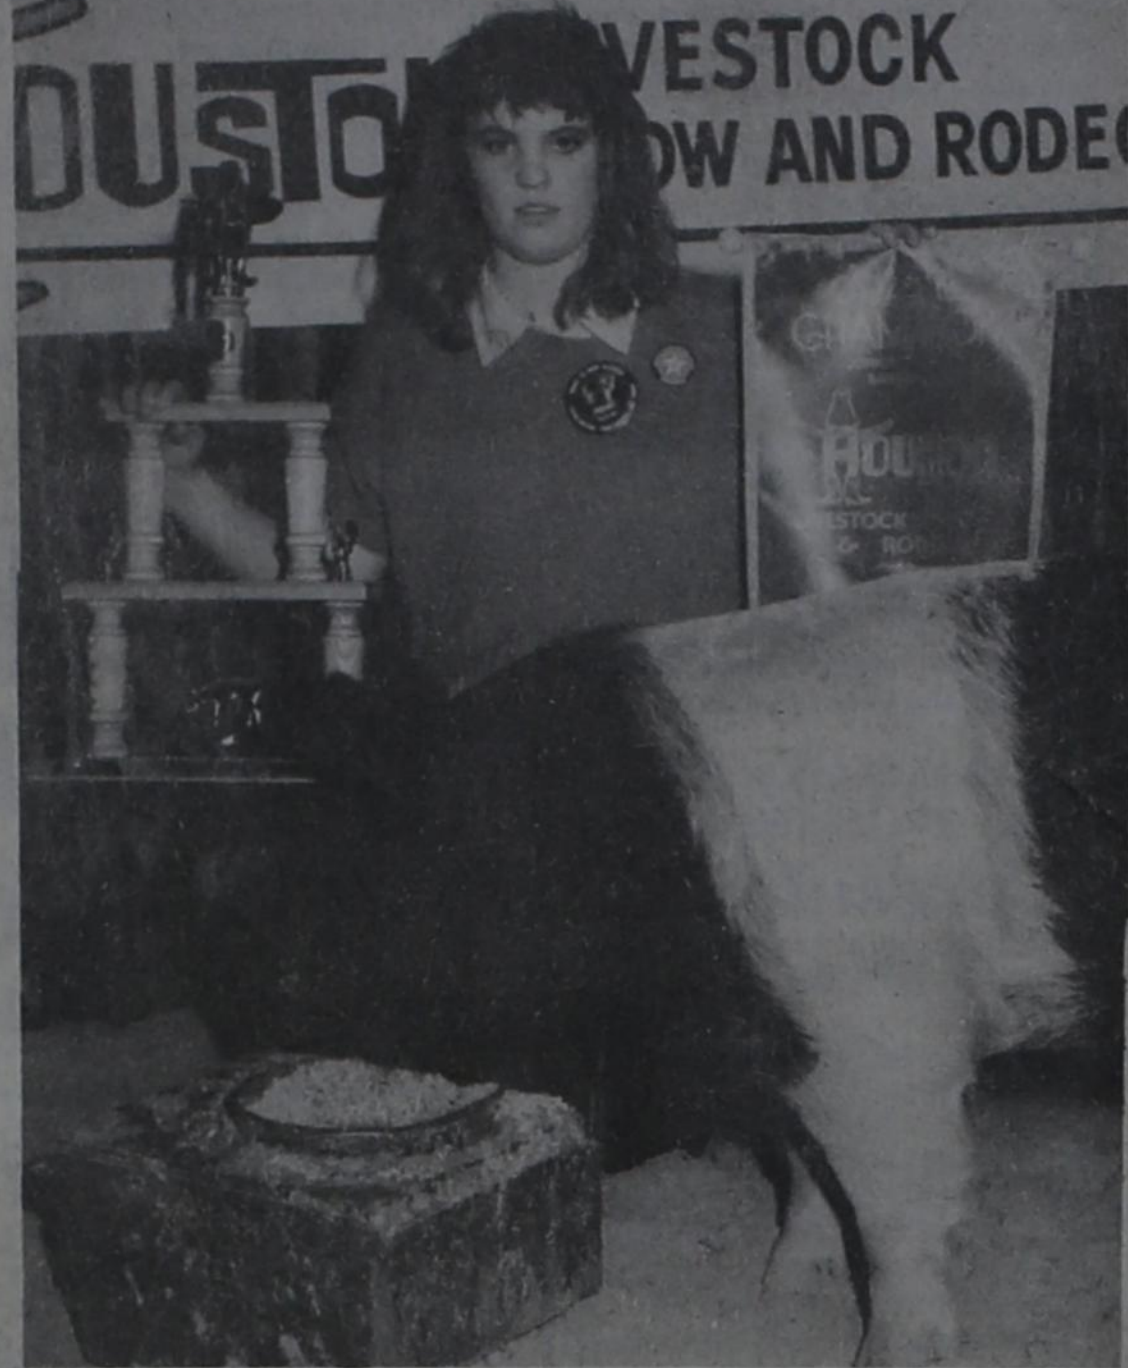

The Texico-Farwell Lions Club Monday voted to donate $50 to both Texico and Farwell schools in support of their Boys' and Girls' State program.

A Bailey County history book is being put together.

There's no charge to put histories in it but memorials, tributes and business pages are being sold. The book will cost $55. Deadline for turning in stories is March 15.

Histories should be sent to Muleshoe Library, 322 W. 2nd, Muleshoe, Texas 79347.

Benefiting Youth Supporting Education

Redwine shows Grand Champion at Houston Show

The naming of Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion Market Barrows at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo was a true "family affair" as first cousins Susan Redwine and Melissa O'Donald took home the championship trophies.

Only minutes after 16-year-old Susan showed her champion Cross-breed barrow, judge Howard Parrish of, Edon, Ohio, was slapping "Sparkplug's" rump once again, naming him Grand Champion Barrow.

Cousin Melissa's barrow was the next to enter the limelight as Parrish awarded her 243-pound Hampshire champion, "O'Donald," the Reserve Champion Barrow trophy.

The cousins come from a family of veteran winners at the Houston Livestock Show. Melissa's mother showed the grand champion market barrow at the Show about 20 years ago and the girls' two uncles are both previous grand champion winners.

"Sparkplug" is a 247-pound Hampshire-Duroc cross that Parrish said shows the right amount of muscling for the industry today. Parrish said he based his judgments on the changes the industry is striving for which include larger, sounder, leaner and more practical hogs to raise.

Susan, a Parmer County 4-H member, is the daughter of Harroll and Charlotte Redwine of Lazbuddie. She has been exhibiting at Houston for six years, but this is her first championship trophy.

Breeder of the Grand Champion Barrow is Joe Tartar of Farwell.

This was 12-year-old Melissa's first championship banner at the Houston Show. A Potter County 4-H member, Melissa is the daughter of Danny and Theresa O'Donald of Amarillo, Texas.

Breeder of the Reserve Grand Champion is Rick Seaton of Parmer County.

After two days of marathon judging a total of 1358 hogs, Parrish admitted to being tired. But he said he enjoyed the caliber of the show and complimented the exhibitors on their pride and the excellent way they presented their animals.

He also congratulated show officials on a tremendously organized show. Parrish summed up his comments with a few pointers for the exhibitors.

"It is pretty tough to tell half the youngsters their hogs aren't good enough after all the hard work they put in. But life is tough, and if you all learned that, then you are all champions," he said.

Susan Redwine received $35,000 from a group of seven businessmen from the Houston area for her Grand Champion Barrow.

This will be the last year that Susan will be able to show a barrow at the Houston Livestock Show, but her mother said that, that would be okay with her, because winning at the Houston Livestock Show is a once-in-a-lifetime deal.

Jerry Engelking and Melvin Morris, the Lazbuddie School Board incumbents, were the only ones to sign up for election to the School Board.

A personnel meeting will be held March 12.

Texico man charged in local burglaries

Benny Kingston, 22, of 221 Anderson in Texico, was arrested March 6 by the Curry County Sheriff's Department after approximately $5,000 in stolen merchandise was found at his residence, police said.

A Texico man had spotted a jacket belonging to the owner of a local trucking firm being worn by Kingston. The jacket was one of a set of five that belonged to the employees of the firm.

The man then called City Hall to report that he had spotted the jacket and was referred to the Curry County Sheriff's Department because the Texico marshal was out of town.

Deputy Randy Johnson said Kingston said that he had bought the jacket. Kingston gave them permission to search the premises, he said.

Johnson said he found CBs, radar detectors, tool boxes, car batteries, cutting torches, sanders, jewelry, a coffee maker, saddle, television sets and numerous other items stored in the closet, bathroom, dresser drawers and under the bed in Kingston's apartment.

It had been incorrectly reported that Kingston was working with his neighbors to help form a Neighborhood Watch. Ann Cooper, chairman of the Neighborhood Watch program in Texico, said that she had never seen the man and he wasn't involved.

"He had nothing to do with the Neighborhood Watch," said Mrs. Cooper. "This was just an understanding between him and one of his neighbors that they would watch each other's homes when one or the other was away."

Reports exchanged by area law enforcement agencies, which list uncovered stolen property, allowed the Sheriff's Department to trace many of the owners. Johnson said that most of the merchandise had already been identified or claimed.

Parmer County Sheriff Bill Morgan said Kingston had been accused of involvement in burglaries in the Parmer County area. "Approximately eight of the burglary cases have been cleared up," said Morgan, "including merchandise taken from Loomix, Spears Trucking and several homes."

Kingston was charged with five counts of auto burglary over $100; two counts of residential burglaries under $100; four counts of larceny over $100; one count of possession of stolen property under $100, and one count of possession of a controlled substance.

He was arraigned March 9 and his bond was set at $40,500. Johnson said the investigation will continue to try and locate any other stolen merchandise that Kingston allegedly may have taken.

Morgan said warrants for Kingston's arrest have been issued in Parmer County and they have placed a hold on him.

Gikas, Farwell council move on vacant city buildings

Mayor Chris Gikas discussed the Farwell City Council's vote last month to attempt to purchase the McDorman property down the block from city hall.

It contains the former laundry building. Criticism had been voiced of the purchase. No one attended the Tuesday meeting to voice their views pro or con.

Gikas said that the building, if purchased, would be torn down by city employees free of charge. If the property were cleaned up, he said, someone could buy it and the city would make a profit on the transaction.

The city has voted to spend $3,000 from federal revenue sharing funds to buy the property if legal obstacles were removed.

Gikas said Farwell residents have stressed two major problems since he took office as mayor last year: dogs running loose and the unsightly appearance of the McDorman buildings.

The mayor said a valid question was asked during this matter: If the city buys the building, how many others should be bought?

"We don't have to buy any," he said in reply to this question. "But there are some we might."

After further discussion, the council voted to have city officials write to property owners whose vacant buildings could be considered safety hazards, urging they be upgraded.

In favor were councilmen Fred Chandler, Martin Kube and Curtis Smith. Councilmen Ysleta Kittrell and Elizabeth Phillips were absent.

The other main discussion at the meeting involved upgrading the alleys. Instead of its annual seal-coating project, the city plans to do some street patchwork and use the funds saved for alley work.

At the request of Shorty Hughes, the council agreed to place street lights along Ninth Street at Avenues

D, E and F.

The council agreed to have some city street signs repaired or replaced.

Texico topic: water rights

Texico City Attorney Duane Hamar suggested to the City Council Tuesday that they investigate buying water rights for the community.

Hamar cautioned that some small towns 20 years down the road could disappear due to the water situation.

"You don't have to do it in a big way, like Lubbock," said Hamar. "There are lots of choices, like buying, leasing, options. You ought to look at your budget and designate funds."

The attorney pointed to the Tulia, Texas, situation where he said the city is paying a lot more money for water since it has to buy it from a larger city.

He said that communities which don't plan ahead could find themselves at the mercy of larger cities which have bought up the water rights in their area.

The council took no action on the matter.

In other business, the council: -Approved Roger and Alta Jesko as city pool managers again this summer.

-Asked Hamar to draft an ordinance covering license fees for certain businesses, such as pool halls, palm readers, circuses and wrestling matches. Currently, such businesses which want to come to Texico would have no fee to pay. A fee schedule will be set up.

-Decided to look into the possibility of an ordinance covering the protection of curbs and gutters.

-Approved the final payments to contractors who worked on the new city well, pending a final field test by the engineer. The pump has been installed and everything looks okay, the engineer said.

Farwell takes play honors

The UIL District 1-A West Zone One-Act Play contest was held at the Farwell Auditorium March 10 with Farwell and Bovina taking the honors.

Farwell's play, "The Bald Soprano," and Bovina's play, "Of Poems, Youth and Spring," were designated the winners.

Andy Chisom of Farwell received the honor of Best Actor. Trisha Fox of Bovina received the honor of Best Actress.

Amherst's one act play, "The Porch Swing," was chosen as an alternate.

Seven vie for School Board

Seven candidates filed for the two posts open on the Farwell School Board this year. The deadline for filing was last week.

Competing are Mark Williams, Vista London, Jerry Stover, Bruce Billingsley, Steven Kaltwasser, Roberta Johnson and incumbent Ed Corn.

The other incumbent, Joe Hughes, is not seeking re-election.

There are two other Farwell races this year. One, for local government, features a race for mayor and two council posts. However, no one filed to oppose incumbent Mayor Chris Gikas and incumbent councilmen Curtis Smith and Ysleta Kittrell.

The other contest is for Farwell Hospital District.

There are five posts on the district board up for election, and five candidates - LaMoin Williams, Jerry Monk, Patrick Riley, Steve Breckenridge and Jimmie Mace.

Williams, Monk, Riley and Mace are incumbents. Breckenridge is seeking the post for the first time; it was open because Gwen Hughes is not seeking re-election.

Election day is April 4.

Those voted to the All-Star cast were Billy Suderth, Bovina; Traci Elliot, Lazbuddie; Michael Gunn, Sudan; Teena Newman, Sudan; Anne Smith, Amherst; Tim Miller, Amherst; Trina Johnson, Amherst and Jonessa Jennings, Lazbuddie.

Honorable mention All-Star cast members were Jayson Vincent, Sudan; Brad Masten, Sudan; Melanie Price, Amherst; Kendra Stephens, Farwell; Linda Duran, Farwell; Julie Harris, Lazbuddie; Michael Lovett, Farwell and Eddie Boyles, Sudan.

The District One Act Play Contest will be held at Sudan March 14 tentatively at 1 p.m. The Farwell play will start at 3 p.m.

Sarpalius: Good news for teachers

This past week without a doubt was the most gratifying of our Senate career.

Returning to the Senate Chamber after missing the first seven weeks of the session with a back injury filled us with emotions we can't begin to describe. The warm reception of our colleagues was particularly nice, but then, the senators themselves are a particularly special bunch of people.

After all, here are 30 men and women who don't always see eye-to-eye with us on the issues. We'll disagree with every one of them on an issue at least once this session. We'll even get into some heated arguments with a few.

Yet when we were laid out by a truly devastating injury, they pulled together to help us represent District 31. They helped us pass legislation, and they kept us abreast of issues that were important to the district. Regardless of their own personal ideology, every senator gave a little of himself or herself to make sure our part of the state was represented properly.

Nothing we ever can do or say will thank them enough.

The second best part of being back still lies ahead, and that, of course, is getting to work on the issues. We've still got the budget and taxes to deal with, more prison legislation, sunset bills and a variety of other exciting measures.

There was one last major bill, though, that passed the Senate before our return, and it's a bill we strongly support. We refer to Sen. Carl Parker's bill to eliminate the scheduled subject-area testing for our state's teachers.

Subject-area testing, like all teacher testing, was a questionable idea from the start. It was included in the now famous (or infamous) House Bill 72 of 1984 because taxpayers were demanding more accountability for their education tax dollars. Poll after poll showed Texans would support a tax increase to raise teacher pay if they could guarantee the money was going to well-qualified teachers.

Scheduled for the near future was the second, subject-area test. The idea was that once a teacher's basic competency was tested, their knowledge of the subject area they teach should be measured. This test naturally applied primarily to secondary school teachers.

Subject-area testing, as it turned out, was full of problems. For one thing, our budget crisis had left us without the funding necessary to develop a top-notch test. Also, there were serious concerns as to whether the subject-area tests would reveal any more about teacher competency than the first test. All subject-area testing seemed to be doing for sure was cause morale problems among teachers, who viewed the proposed test as little more than a TECAT II.

Senator Parker argued successfully that it would be best for all involved to forget about the subject-area tests and concentrate on our primary goal of making Texas' public schools the best in the nation. The Senate agreed, passing his bill unanimously.

We would add only that our teachers have paid their dues. We took the TECAT, and we know how little it did to help our school systems. Our teachers have been through a lot the last three years; it's only fitting the Senate recognize the fact.

Nutritional calendar offered

Between a job, family and household chores most of us consider ourselves too busy to take the time to exercise. We ride instead of walk, gulp down our food and spend leisure time in sedentary activities.

We also like to believe that exercising would simply add to our fatigue at the end of the day. However, exercise has been shown to increase energy and help people cope with their stress.

The Texas Agricultural Extension

Service has developed a "Fit For All Seasons" calendar to help you look and feel your best by adding exercise and nutritious food to your lifestyle. Each month features nutrition information, warm-up exercises and a daily walking or jogging program. Use the calendar to keep a record of your exercise program.

Farwell Convalescent Center Chit Chat

BY LYNNE GANN
Activity Director

He was a man who had a love for music. He was our fiddlin man.

Floyd Wall was born in Oklahoma in 1901. He was a giving person. Always a quick smile and a lovely sense of humor.

His way was to do things for others even tho he himself was confined to a wheel chair. One of the chores he assigned himself was to put extra napkins by the place settings of each person who sat at the dining room table with him. He also saw to it each had a bib and with the use of only one hand would assist in putting them on.

He had had a stroke several years ago, so his vocabulary was very limited. Thank you he couldn't get out, but your welcome was heard in its place. You knew he appreciated any thing you did for him.

Any time there was music Floyd was on the front row. He would hold his left hand out as tho he were playing his beloved fiddle and hum the tune. Every birthday party saw Floyd front and center, toe tapping and eyes flashing. Music and his family were his life.

Floyd passed away Monday the 9th. We shall miss him. He was with us since 1980. He was our symbol of hope and love. Goodbye Music Man.

Smith keys Texico win

The Texico Wolverines defeated House, 57-54, in their last regular season game.

Scoring were Rod Smith, 27 points; David Loera, 10; Brett Taylor, 6; Ken Murphy, 8 and Larry Powell, 6.

Coach Borde Williams said, "The kids gave a good effort. I was pleased and proud of how well they played. We took advantage of House's mistakes. This was not an easy victory, but we still won the game."

The Wolverines lost to Elida, 71-64 in the District 6-A Basketball Tournament, March 3.

Scoring were Keith Harrison, 4; Smith, 18; Loera, 10; Brian Rogers, 4; Taylor, 16; Murphy, 4 and Powell, 8.

Coach Williams said, "The game was closer than the score indicated. They had as much as a 13 point lead at one time and we came back and cut it to 2 points. I guess the boys just ran out of gas and didn't have enough to take over and take the lead."

"The boys played hard, like it was their last game. Taylor played his best offensive game of the season. This game finished up the season."

"This team started out an inexperienced team, but I think all of the varsity players came around and improved greatly throughout the season. I think maybe with some practice this summer that his team will be a lot stronger for next year."

Texico finished the season with a 2-19 record.

Keep farm, family finances separate

In these difficult economic times, keeping family finances separate from those of the farming or ranching operation can help with money and stress management.

Household expenses may seem small compared to business expenses. However, relatively small amounts, when added together, can become a drain on family resources.

Good records are a special help in the effort to control living expenses. Many families simply don't know where their money goes each month. But if they wrote down each expenditure - in a notebook, a checkbook register, or even on a piece of paper taped to the refrigerator door - the family spending patterns would become clear.

At the end of the month, the expenses can be divided into budget categories. That can help family members see where expenses might be trimmed. It also forms the basis for planning the next month's spending so you can live within your income.

It's not advisable to mix family and business accounts.

Two new publications suggested to help manage farm/family finances are: Cash Flow Planning for Farm & Ranch Families and Our Management Plan.

These publications are actually work sheets which you can personalize to fit your situation. To receive them, contact the Extension Office at 481-3619 or write to Janette Pierce, Box 285, Farwell, Texas 79325.

Wedding reminder

The wedding of Twila Romayne Donaldson and Brad "Cheyenne" Bickel will be March 14 at 7 p.m. in the Farwell First Baptist Church.

Blackwell heads county child welfare board

The Parmer County Child Welfare Board elected new officers and added two members.

Officers are chairman Jo Blackwell, Friona; vice-chairman Dixie Jesko, Lazbuddie; Sec./Treas. June Rhodes, Friona.

Members are Billie Carmichael, Friona, Carla Kaltwasser, Farwell, Kenneth Gant, Bovina, Rev. Larry Reed-Farris, Lazbuddie, Barbara Hall, Lazbuddie, Debbie Sweatt, Friona and Judge Porter Roberts, ex-officio member.

The purpose of the board is to educate the community on child abuse and give support to children who are victims of abuse whether it be physical, emotional or neglect.

Some of the projects of the board are remembering the children of Parmer who are in foster care on holidays and getting clothing for each one when school starts. Funding is strictly from donations received from individuals and clubs.

"We also have a clothes closet located in Friona that we help to clothe the foster children. Our clothes closet is in great need of infant sizes and sizes 6 to 12. We appreciate any donations of clothing that are in excellent condition. The trauma of being in foster care is hard enough so we as a board try to find clothes that fit the fashions if possible," said Mrs. Kaltwasser.

If one has a donation, whether it be clothing or money, you may contact any board member or in Farwell Carla Kaltwasser at 481-9266.

To report suspected child abuse call any following numbers: Child Protective Services in Hereford at 806-364-1266, Texas Dept. of Human Service in Amarillo at 806-376-7214 or the 24 hour Child Abuse Hotline at 1-800-252-5400.

Phone policy on agenda

Legislation designed to alter the state's long distance telecommunications regulatory policy is now before the Texas Legislature.

Senate Bill 229 sponsored by Senator John Montford, D-Lubbock, and House Bill 468 by Representative Bill Haley, D-Center, would reduce the regulatory restrictions placed on AT&T and encourage direct competition among the more than 160 long distance companies now doing business in Texas.

"The legislation ensures that all Texans, not just those in major metropolitan areas, receive the benefits of an extensively competitive long distance market place," said Pres Sheppard, AT&T vice president external affairs. "Only an economically sound communications industry can provide Texans with the latest technology and attractively priced services and options."

Today, AT&T is the only long distance company that must endure prolonged regulatory proceedings by the Texas Public Utility Commission before changing its prices, or offering new products and services.

Sheppard said the legislation contains strong safeguards for rural Texans. It assures that all customers in the state have access to the latest technology and that no one is left without reasonably priced long distance service.

Some 26 other states already have approved forward-looking long distance telecommunications policies and are positioned to use those policies in their guests to broaden local economies and attract high-tech industry.

Concert set

The Texico bands will host their winter band concert March 16 at 7 p.m. in the Texico Educational Complex.

Tickets are available at the State Line Tribune office. They cost $7.50.

Ben and Butch McCain were born in Muleshoe, and raised on a farm near Bovina. They started entertaining in grade school and took jobs as disc jockeys as soon as they were old enough to drive. Both brothers began their television careers in Amarillo.

In August 1981, they formed the only news and weather brother team in the country at Channel 4 KTVY in Oklahoma City. Together, they've made News 4 Oklahoma at 6 a.m. one of the highest rated early morning programs in America.

The McCain Brothers have welcomed dozens of well known personalities to their program. The list of those who have set their alarms extra-early include former Vice President Walter Mondale, country entertainer T.G. Sheppard and "Hour Magazine's" own Gary Collins, just to name a few.

When they aren't hosting their morning program, The McCain Brothers are likely to be found in boots and jeans, entertaining folks with one of the things they love best, country music. The McCains have opened concerts for the Oak Ridge Boys, the Bellamy Brothers, Merle Haggard, Ricky Skaggs, Don Williams, Mel Tillis and John Conlee. They've appeared live with Ralph Emory on "The Nashville Network" and have been featured on the popular syndicated television show

"Hee Haw."

Ben started his career at KZOL in Farwell in March 1973.
