Gunner Arthur Sundy, left, and Capt. Thomas Harris buckle the last strap as one of the local Guard battery's 105-millimeter howitzers is readied for the trip to Fort Hood. The battery, in 10 vehicles and trailing two of the big guns, was to leave at 5 a.m. today for the two-week summer encampment.

Guardsmen Head For Fort Hood Exercises

More than three score National Guardsmen pulled out of Big Spring at dawn today, on their way to North Fort Hood and one of the biggest peacetime military exercises in the history of the Texas Guard.

The Big Springers will join about 9,000 other members of the 36th Infantry Division at Fort Hood for their two-week summer encampment.

The local unit, Battery B of the 132nd Field Artillery Battalion, was to hook up with other elements of the battalion at Roscoe, to form a long motor convoy scheduled to reach the campsite about 4 p.m. today.

Fatal Mishap Brings Homicide Charges

STANTON—Charges of negligent homicide were filed here Saturday morning against Horace Don Crowmover, 26, Andrews, in connection with a collision that claimed the life of Vicki Yvonne Latty Thursday evening.

The 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Latty of the Humble Camp at Florey 15 miles northwest of Andrews, was killed instantly when the pickup in which she was riding overturned when in collision with the Crowmover car.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

Signs are pointing to a busier last half of the year. For one thing, the State Highway Department has asked for bids on July 20 on the U. S. 80 freeway from Big Spring to the Mitchell County line. This work has been estimated at more than a million and a quarter dollars. Work could get going on this by Aug. 1.

Water consumption set a new record during the week. On Wednesday the draw was 7,805,000 gallons, which was 156,000 more than for the previous peak on July 26, 1954. Total consumption Sunday through Friday was 43,874,000 gallons, or better than 7 1/2 million a day.

July 4 activities drew their usual big response. Jerry Bill Hutchens captured the Soap Box Derby chase while around 4,000 looked on. There were five or six thousand in the amphitheatre for the beauty pageant which saw Judy Douglass named Miss Howard County and Anne Rowe named Miss Big Spring.

Didn't Know He Signed For Land, Vet Testifies

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN, July 9 (AP)—A World War II Army veteran, second witness in the theft trial of ex-Land Commissioner Bascom-Giles, testified today he didn't know he signed an application to buy under the veterans land program in 1954.

The witness, Tom J. Regan of Temple, looked at the application handed to him by Dist. Atty. Les Procter in 98th District Court and confirmed that his signature appeared in two places.

But Regan said he thought he was signing the paper to get a $100 loan from L.V. Ruffin, Brady land dealer now under indictment in the veterans land scandal.

In the witness chair a little more than an hour before the trial was recessed until 9 a.m. Monday, Regan denied repeatedly that he knew the application was for purchase of part of the Rosewood Ranch in Kinney County.

He is listed in the Veterans Land Board files as one of 54 veterans participating in the block purchase. Giles is being tried on counts of stealing $6,800 in that transaction and of aiding Brady land dealer B.R. Sheffield in the alleged theft.

None of Regan's testimony connected Giles with the transaction, and defense attorneys repeatedly objected to questions about what transpired in the office of Ruffin when Giles was not present.

Regan testified he signed the paper in question in Ruffin's office. "I never did read the paper. A lady showed me where to sign," said Regan.

"At the time you signed it, did you know what it was?" asked Procter. "No, sir, I didn't," replied Regan, who also said no one ever told him that the paper purported to be an agreement under which Ruffin was to sell the land through the state to Regan for $7,500.

Under the 100 million dollar veterans land program, the state buys land for resale to veterans on a 40-year easy-pay plan. Many of the indictments resulting from investigations have alleged that veterans became purchasers without knowing it.

Giles, maintaining a relaxed, confident appearance most of the time, listened attentively to testimony of Regan and Clark Diebel, executive secretary of the veterans land program since Jan. 25. They are the only two witnesses to take the stand thus far.

Diebel, who preceded Regan in the witness chair, was questioned by Defense Atty. Clint Small Jr. concerning an audit investigation of the General Land Office and Veterans Land Board made while Diebel was on the state auditor's staff. Diebel said one audit had been made covering a period from the beginning of the veterans land program in 1949 through the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1953. Then, he said, a "rather detailed audit" of block transactions was begun in October of last year. That was when investigation bringing the veterans land scandal to light got under way.

John William Orr, 66, Texas & Pacific locomotive engineer, was killed instantly Saturday morning as he jumped from the cab of his engine seconds before it collided with a big transport truck in Midland.

Mr. Orr was reported dead on arrival at the Midland hospital. State Highway Patrolman Bud Newberry said that Mr. Orr's body was found along the right-of-way about 100 feet behind the point of contact.

The crash occurred at the grade crossing near the stockyards just east of Midland and south of U. S. 80 Highway.

SAYS IKE PLAYING IT SMART, IN NOT REVEALING '56 PLANS

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) said today that President Eisenhower is "doing the right thing" for the country in withholding any announcement of whether he intends to run again in 1956.

Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in an interview he is convinced Eisenhower will seek a second term.

But he said the President ought not to tell even his best friends what his plans are until about next March at the earliest. He said there was "a lot of precedent" for such a delay.

"The moment he announces that he will be available again, he will become the target for partisan attacks," Goldwater said. "His every proposal will be regarded by some folks as partisan and some of his great usefulness would be diluted."

ON THE SCHOOL FRONT

Texas Makes Moves Toward Integration

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN, July 9 (AP)—Major strides toward century-old color lines came from half a dozen state-wide and local public school agencies in Texas this week.

Local school boards, the State Board of Education, the University of Texas regents and the Interscholastic League took actions reflecting the impact of the historic U. S. Supreme Court desegregation decisions.

These were the major policy-making actions: 1. The State Board of Education reaffirmed that it cannot order desegregation in local districts, but it ruled that state aid money will be distributed to all schools regardless of whether they are segregated or desegregated. It offered local schools its technical advice on how to work out administrative problems in the integration process.

2. The University of Texas Board of Regents ordered admission of Negroes on the undergraduate level at its Texas Western Branch at El Paso, announced the same policy would be put into effect on the main campus at Austin a year from now. Graduate and professional schools have admitted Negroes for several years.

Amarillo Plan Draws Protest

AMARILLO, July 9 (AP)—A plan which Supt. Charles M. Rogers says will end segregation in the Amarillo public schools by Sept. 1, has been criticized by Negro leaders here as "a shameful attempt at evasion" of the Supreme Court ruling.

The plan, which received informal approval by six of the seven members of the school board Thursday night, is to be considered formally Monday night.

The plan provides for the setting up of attendance areas for the two Negro elementary schools as is done for other elementary schools in the city, setting the attendance area of the Negro high school to include the areas served by the two Negro schools, and providing for the transfer of students.

3. The Interscholastic League, a university agency for high school competition in athletics and literary events, will permit Negroes to compete from schools that have been white in the past, but which will now admit Negro students. It will not admit to membership schools that were all-Negro in the past and which may become desegregated next year. That means there may be a few Negro boys playing football in competition with whites next year, Negro children taking part in such league literary contests as typing, speaking, play-acting.

4. The school board at San Angelo instructed its administrators to begin working out a three-year plan for erasing color lines in the public schools.

5. The school board at Harlingen voted to end segregation in the high school Sept. 1.

Lyndon Johnson Still Improving

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) was reported in satisfactory condition today although he will be on the serious list for some time because of the heart attack.

Hong Kong Steamer Attacked By Planes

HONG KONG, July 9 (AP)—The British steamer Inchewell reported she was bombed and machine-gunned by two Thunderjet aircraft in the Min River today.

The master of the ship radioed there were no casualties but that there was slight damage to the stern, and that he was continuing his voyage to Shanghai.

The nationality of the attacking aircraft was not mentioned in the announcement of the incident.

Speaks Friday Shortly Before Geneva Takeoff

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower will report to the nation Friday night on his plans and hopes for the summit conference.

Two hours after the television-radio broadcast, he will take off for the conference in Geneva.

The broadcast will give him an opportunity to do some diplomatic stage setting for the meeting and to counter Russia's pre-Geneva propaganda line.

The heart of this propaganda, as shown in a new Investia editorial today, is that the Soviet government is working vigorously for world peace and that the Western Powers must do a lot more than they have done to help produce East-West settlement.

The White House announced that Eisenhower will make his 15-minute broadcast at 7:15 p.m. EST on Friday. At 9:30 p.m., EST, he will leave by plane for Geneva.

The summit conference, bringing Eisenhower to the same table with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, will open the following Monday.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said "the President will indicate some of the world problems he expects to come under discussion in the conference and describe his hopes for accomplishment there."

All four TV networks will carry the talk at the time of delivery and so will ABC and CBS radio. MBS and NBC radio will broadcast the speech at later hours Friday.

Eisenhower has made clear in recent news conferences that his approach to the historic meeting is one of hopefulness. But he said Wednesday that his hope "has got to have greater food" before it can become expectation.

This line, which has also been taken by Secretary of State Dulles, is the opposite of Soviet propaganda. Dulles has asserted that so-called "concessions" which the Soviets have made, such as agreeing to an Austrian treaty, are actually things which should have been done long ago.

Eisenhower, Prime Minister Anthony Eden of Britain, and Premier Edgar Faure of France will work together as a team, dividing See IKE SPEAKS, Pg. 6, Col. 2

Car Leaves Highway, Five In Family Dead, Four Others Injured

PERRYTON, Tex., July 9 (AP)—A one-car crash 17 miles south of here on State Highway 70 killed five persons and critically injured four others today.

Hospitalized in Perryton were Mary Ann Holt, 3; Jimmy Cindy Holt, 6; Carol Yvonne Holt, 9; Dallas Arling Holt, 8.

The auto left the highway, traveled 486 feet down a ditch and struck a concrete bridge abutment, Highway Patrolman Joe Culp said. The driver apparently went to sleep at the wheel.

2 Youths Held In Sea Disaster Hoax

By FRANCIS STILLEY
NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—A damped boy of 17 and a sullen pal of 21 were jailed today as the perpetrators of probably the greatest Atlantic Ocean disaster hoax in history. Authorities said it was they who sent out the sensational—and phony—radio SOS early Thursday which set off an uproar along half the Eastern seaboard. A huge array of ships and planes searched a 4,000-mile area in a futile 30-hour search for a flaming "fishing boat" as well as a "foreign submarine" which supposedly took aboard 21 survivors and vanished. The Coast Guard estimated the search cost $50,000.

It all came about, officers said, because the two culprits fell to talking about radio during a tour of bars and the elder decided to show his young pal how a "real radio works."

Victoria, Mexico Looks To Heavier Tourist Traffic

By MAX B. SKELTON
CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico, July 9 (AP)—This picturesque little city at the foothills of the San Carlos Mountains is preparing for a tourist boom. Most automobile traffic to Mexico City has passed through Victoria since the opening of the Pan-American Highway but tourists now are beginning to see the town as more than just a gasoline stop. Victoria confidently expects that by the end of the year its hotel and motel facilities will be buzzing with tourists. The reason is a 4 million dollar modernization program under way on the Matamoros-Victoria Highway. Governor Horacio Teran of the state of Tamaulipas this week told a group of Texans here the highway will be completed by the end of the year. The governor and other Tamaulipas officials say the new 193-mile route will be one of the finest gateways to the Mexican interior. The route also offers the tourist a glimpse of a rural Mexico virtually untouched by commercialization. The reasoning behind Victoria's optimism is a matter of automobile mileage. The Pan-American and Matamoros highways form a "Y" at Victoria, but it is 325 miles to the border at Laredo compared to the 128 to Brownsville. Monterrey, 145 miles below Laredo, is the first major stop on the Pan-American route. Victoria will be the first for those leaving out of Brownsville. Victoria businessmen estimate only 15 per cent of the Pan-American tourists stop overnight here. They believe this figure will jump to 75 per cent for visitors using the Matamoros route.

Customers Feed The Free Meters

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Habit is a great thing. Parking meters are free in Washington during the transit strike but one out of 10 motorists is still feeding nickies into them. "It's remarkable, but it's true," said Dist. Collector of Taxes Guy M. Pearson. The city collected $800 the first week of the strike, against a normal take of $8,000.

Circus Maximus A Sports Arena Again?

ROME, July 9 (AP)—Rome's city fathers are debating whether to turn the old Circus Maximus into a flower garden or a sports center. The site of the old gladiator games has been abandoned since Roman times except for a few months 30 years ago when a cement floor was laid for textile and mineral exhibits. The rest of the time neighborhood children have played soccer amid the weeds and rubble.

Theater Operator Wins Damage Suit

HOUSTON, July 9 (AP)—A Federal Court Jury awarded $20,000 damages today to an independent theater operator who had brought suit against virtually all major Hollywood film producing and distributing companies. Judge Lamar Cecil, who presided over the month-long trial, also scheduled an Aug. 22 hearing in Beaumont on I. B. Adelman's plea for an injunction against current film distributing practices. Adelman, owner of Houston's suburban Delmar Theater, seeks to obtain first run films through competitive bidding. The jury deliberated over 24 hours in returning today's verdict in favor of Adelman, who filed his petition seven years ago. He had asked triple damages of $2,436,000 for alleged losses from 1946 through 1948 due to refusal of film companies to let him purchase

Envoy Expresses Optimistic View

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Joao Carlos Muniz, 61, Brazil's veteran ambassador to the United States, left for a European vacation with this observation on Moscow's apparent softening attitude toward the West: "We can't tell whether the Russians are simulating virtue, but even if you only simulate virtue long enough, you may become virtuous."

Jury Called For Duty This Week

Three weeks of jury trials open in 118th District Court Monday. Judge Charlie Sullivan has summoned a jury panel of 60 persons, including 18 women, for 10 a.m. Monday. Criminal cases will be heard this week. Civil suits have been set for trials the following two weeks.

First case to be called Monday involves narcotics charges against Manuel Pineda. He is accused of possessing heroin.

Raymond Franco, charged with second offense DWI, also is scheduled for trial. District Attorney Guilford Jones said one or two other cases may be tried during the week if witnesses are available. Several cases had been set, but six defendants entered guilty pleas in court Thursday and Friday. Twenty-five civil cases have been tentatively set for the weeks of July 18 and July 25. Panels of 60 members each will be called for those weeks also.

GOLD-PLATED AWARDS T&P Gives Out Safety 'Oscars'

The Texas & Pacific Railway Company is matching the movie trade with its own "Oscars," and nine of them, emblematic of outstanding safety records, were presented here Friday noon. Presentation of the handsome gold-plated awards was made by A. C. LaCroix, Western Division superintendent at a safety luncheon at the Wagon Wheel. The "Oscars" constitute another safety innovation by the T&P and are given to the terminal or section fore, within certain numerical limitations, that complete the calendar year without injury.

Accepting the trophies—and without exception they specified it was on behalf of their men—were L. C. McDaniel, general foreman of the mechanical department, Big Spring; A. McCasland, agent, freight and passenger station, Big Spring; J. T. Culpepper, district roadmaster, Big Spring; R. L. Elland, general foreman, mechanical department, El Paso; A. J. Pierson, general foreman, mechanical department, Toyah; W. A. Fetterly, general foreman, mechanical department, Baird; C. O. Elliott, general foreman, mechanical department, Sweetwater; O. T. Daugherty, supervisory agent, Abilene; and J. L. Moore, district roadmaster, Sweetwater. LaCroix warmly congratulated the department heads "on the splendid accomplishment of you and the men and women under your supervision in your perfect safety performance during 1954." Johnny H. Williams, T&P superintendent of safety, pointed out that the Western division had won nine of the first Oscars to be given, while the Eastern division, with a substantially greater number of people, had only seven.

"This perfect safety record by so many of our railroad's forces on the Western division for the full year is truly remarkable in that it embraces several million man-hours of railroad precision work without injury," said Williams. "We are heartened by such constant care and caution in the performance of duty by these various segments of our railroad. They merit these 'Oscars' which signify safety perfection."

LaCroix appealed for continued emphasis upon safety and urged that no one place absolute reliance upon mechanical or electronic safety devices but rather to be constantly vigilant against conditions which might contribute to mishaps. He said the Western division wanted desperately to bring back the road's President's Safety Trophy. Division officers of Big Spring were guests of the luncheon and paid tribute to winners of the awards. Accompanying Williams here for the "premiere" for the "Oscars" was Al Malone, Dallas, member of the personnel and public relations department.

OTHERS CONVICTED

Four Prisoners Moved To Penitentiary Saturday

Four felons were transferred from the county jail to the state penitentiary Saturday by sheriff's deputies Floyd Moore and Tommy Cole. George Jackson, Herbert Searcy, Joe Gomez and George Bruce Browning were the prisoners transferred. Gomez is starting a 20-year term assessed last winter following his conviction on second-offense charges of possessing a narcotic. Jackson faces a 10-year sentence, which resulted from his plea of guilty Thursday to robbery charges. He was convicted of hijacking the Downtown Liquor Store last April. Searcy drew two penitentiary sentences Friday. He pleaded guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and was assessed five years and was sentenced to another three years after he pleaded guilty to forgery charges. Browning was sentenced to two years Thursday when he pleaded guilty to theft charges. He admitted taking $113 from Mrs. Isaac Medina.

Another person received a penitentiary sentence, three were placed on probation, and another was fined after guilty pleas were entered to felony charges Friday. Herbert Searcy's wife, Rose Mary Searcy, also pleaded guilty to forgery charges and was assessed three years in prison. Paul Horn, Jimmie Wynn and Ray Flores were put on probation for two years. Horn and Wynn pleaded guilty to car theft charges and Flores pleaded guilty to forgery charges. A $250 fine was assessed against Raymon Valiz, who pleaded guilty to second-offense (felony) charges of drunken driving.

Water Usage Continues High

Though water consumption was still high here during the latter part of the week, Wednesday's record of 7,805,000 gallons continued to stand. Use during the 24-hour period from 8 a.m. Friday to 8 a.m. Saturday was 7,585,000 gallons. Another seven million plus day was expected for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Thursday the amount of water used was 7,350,000 gallons. Other heavy days this month have been July 1, when 7,736,700 gallons were distributed here, and July 5, when 7,609,000 gallons went out to water customers. Last year's record, already surpassed twice, was 7,649,000 gallons. It came on July 26.

Water Superintendent Roy Hester stated that an increase in the water use is expected here during the latter part of July and possibly in early August.

Most of the water being consumed here comes from Lake J. B. Thomas and the Colorado River Municipal Water District, Hester said. However, some water has been taken daily from Lake Powell and the O'Barr water wells. Use of water from these auxiliary sources will continue until the CRMWD reservoir northeast of town is again in operation and distribution problems are solved.

Papers Arrive For Fairview FM Road

Deed forms arrived Saturday for right-of-way for a Farm-to-Market road from Fairview to a point five miles to the west. County Commissioner Ralph Proctor reported. Proctor said he will start contacting property owners this week in an effort to complete the roadway as quickly as possible. The FM road will connect with U. S. Highway 87 at Fairview and extend westward five miles. Proctor said the county hopes to eventually connect the paving with East Knott. Land for the roadway must be secured from 21 property owners.

Cities Drawing Peak Water From Lake

Continued hot and dry weather has bestowed a record thirst on cities in this area. Last week, the three cities and other users connected with the Colorado River Municipal Water District consumed water well in excess of 30 million gallons per day.

O. H. Ivie, production engineer for CRMWD, said Saturday that the two pump stations at Lake J. B. Thomas had put out more than 29,000,000 gallons in five days—Monday through Friday.

Teacher Salary Boost Listed In Texas U. Budget

AUSTIN (AP)—The 1955-56 University of Texas budget calls for "substantial" salary increases for faculty members on a merit basis, the Board of Regents announced yesterday.

The budget sets aside $489,913 for pay boosts and $315,756 for 72 new teaching jobs, President Logan Wilson said. The increases and provision for new faculty positions are to improve and to maintain standards of teaching at the maximum level possible in face of a sharply increasing competition among top institutions for faculty members and of rapidly expanding enrollment.

Of this amount, 54,650,000 gallons were produced at the Snyder station. SACROC required 32 million gallons, Snyder just over 1 1/4 million, Sharon Ridge 7 1/2 million and Lion Oil 3 1/4 million.

The Big Spring station averaged 6,900,000 gallons per day, all of it going to Big Spring. In addition to this, Big Spring produced another 2,769,000 from Powell Lake and the O'Barr well field, according to Roy Hester, head of the city's water production and processing department. Monday through Friday Big Spring consumed 37,269,000 gallons, an average of 7,454,000 gallons per day.

Hester predicted that a new record daily draw would be set soon if current conditions continue. The district has been delivering 11 1/2 million gallons per day to Odessa, although consumption has been averaging 12,600,000 gallons per day. The difference has been coming partly out of the big terminal storage reserve. Odessa wells have been pressed into service to close the gap. The district could have supplied all of the take, but Odessa pumps cannot take water out of the storage that rapidly.

Snyder also was using its wells. District production for the five days amounted to 152,150,000 gallons. Municipal production sources added at least another five million per day and may have produced enough to make the overall total for the five-day period around 160 million gallons.

Saturday, with the district making use of the Powell Creek water, part of the Lake Thomas water was thus diverted to filling the 15-million gallon storage north of Big Spring. Ivie estimated that the level would reach 10 feet before the weekend is over and that by Tuesday the level would be sufficiently high for the Cabot Carbon plant to draw off the reservoir instead of the supply line as now the case. Demand at Snyder has been so great that filling of the 15-million gallon reservoir near there has not been possible. However, by using Snyder wells, Ivie felt that some headway could be made to filling that reserve.

Vessel Advised To Unload Cargo Or Go To Court

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Harbor Commission, after voting unanimously not to unload the freighter Fossum here, recommended the vessel return to Sheboygan with its load of clay for the struck Kohler Co.

Milwaukee union officials opposed unloading the Norwegian ship here. The commission suggested, in a resolution, that the ship return to Sheboygan—50 miles north of here on Lake Michigan—and try to unload its cargo there or seek legal relief in the courts.

The Fossum came here Thursday after pulling out of Sheboygan Wednesday night following an outbreak of mob violence there Tuesday. Sheboygan's mayor, Rudolph Ploetz, refused to permit the ship to unload.

The Kohler Co., of Kohler, Wis., which ordered the clay, was struck 15 months ago by Local 833 of the UAW-CIO. Major issue in the dispute is union security. The firm, makers of plumbingware, is now in production and officials said loss of the clay would not force it to close.

Attorneys for the owners of the clay began personal service of a letter to Milwaukee's Socialist mayor, Frank Zeidler, and other city officials, demanding an agreement from the city that it will unload the vessel.

Minister Draws Sentence In Italian Church Controversy

By FRANK BRUTTO
ROME, July 9 (AP)—A three-word sign, "Chiesa di Cristo," is once again the center of controversy in Italy.

After more than a year of dispute between police and leaders of the American-supported Church of Christ, Cline H. Paden of Brownfield and Lubbock, Tex., today was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined 3,000 lire—$5—for reaffixing the sign to his church building in Rome after police had removed it.

The sentence against Paden was suspended pending an appeal which was filed immediately. Paden, one of a small group of Americans who came here at the end of the war to establish the Church of Christ in Italy, was found guilty of violating a police regulation.

Scientists Foresee World Destruction

LONDON (AP)—Just before his death, Albert Einstein and eight other scientists signed an appeal to world rulers to end war lest nuclear weapons destroy mankind.

Bertrand Russell, the 83-year-old British philosopher who is now an Earl, drew up the statement. He disclosed its wording and the details connected with its signature at a news conference attended by 200 persons.

Russell said he received Einstein's signature to the document a day before the propounder of the theory of relativity died in the United States on April 18.

The statement said: "In view of the fact that in any future war nuclear weapons will certainly be employed, and that such weapons threaten the continued existence of mankind, we urge the governments of the world to realize, and to acknowledge publicly, that their purposes cannot be furthered by a world war, and we urge them, consequently, to find peaceful means for settlement of all matters of dispute between them."

Russell, who was one of the signers, issued the statement at a news conference. Einstein's scientific studies led to the development of the atomic bomb and eventually to the hydrogen bomb, which he called "the very essence of evil."

In addition to Russell and Einstein, the signatories to the document were: Prof. P. W. Bridgman of Harvard, Nobel Prize winner for physics; Prof. H. J. Muller, formerly a professor in Moscow and India, and now at the University of Indiana; Prof. L. Infeld, University of Warsaw and member of the Polish Academy of Sciences; Prof. Hideki Yukawa, professor of Kyoto University and Nobel Prize winner for physics; Prof. Joseph Rotblat, professor of physics at London University; Prof. C. F. Powell, of Bristol University, England.

Advertising helped make the difference

FARMERS DON'T RECKON with real horsepower any more — a tractor can do the job better. Today's farm is an open-air factory with a specialized machine for every task. And America's mechanized farming produces more food . . . and better food than any other country in the world.

But to mass produce the millions of tractors, plows, combines, pickers, cultivators that are found on modern farms, manufacturers must be able to sell them by the millions. Only by advertising can a manufacturer talk to millions of farmers at the same time.

ADVERTISING TELLS the story of new farm machinery and equipment — and helps sell it. The more it sells, the more must be made — keeping the production lines and the jobs going. The result: newer, better farm machinery at prices more farmers can afford to pay. Advertising helped make the difference — in farming, and in our American way of life.

Second Car He Ever Owned!

Time was when a man wouldn't have considered a Cadillac until he had owned four—or five—or even six different motor cars.

But nowadays more and more motorists—like the happy man you see in the picture above—are stepping right up from their first car to a Cadillac.

There are, we think, two basic reasons for this wonderful change.

To begin with, the temptation to make the move to Cadillac has never been greater than it is today.

The car's arresting grace and beauty . . . its captivating luxury and graciousness . . . and its heart-winning performance have all been brought to new peaks of perfection for 1955.

And secondly, the path to Cadillac has never before been so clearly marked or so easily traveled.

Take original cost, for instance. The purchase price of the lowest-priced Cadillac is actually little more than many models in the medium-price field.

And then consider Cadillac's economy. Few automobiles of any size or make will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline . . . and the car is all but free from any save the most routine costs of maintenance.

And, finally, there is the car's resale value. Year after year, Cadillac cars return their owners a higher percentage on their original investments, than any other automobiles in the land.

So if you want a Cadillac—don't feel that you have to advance gradually to the car of cars.

If you are ready to make the move, the automobile you now own is the perfect steppingstone.

Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? You'll find that we have some very pleasant news for you about cost and delivery.

Gains Support In Fight Against Forced Reserve

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) lined up some Republican support today in his dispute with the Pentagon about forcing service veterans to continue active drilling under the new reserve program.

Sen. Case (R-SD), a member of the Armed Services Committee now considering the "national reserve plan" urged by President Eisenhower, said in an interview that he sides with Chairman Russell.

"I think that legislation dealing with a citizen's army must be written by Congress rather than by the Pentagon," Case said, "and the trained reserve is a citizen's army."

Nub of the controversy is a request by Secretary of Defense Wilson that draft-age men who have completed active service, either as draftees or volunteers, be required to continue active reserve training for a total of eight years, counting both active and reserve duty.

Russell protested that this was putting "double liability" on service men who either enlisted or accepted two years of draft duty with the understanding that this ended it unless there was a general war or national emergency.

As a substitute, Russell proposed a $400 bonus for all veterans of more than 18 months regular service who volunteered for three years active reserve training in combat units of the Army or Marine Corps.

He said the other reserve units, including the Air Force and Navy, testified they have no trouble filling their ranks.

Russell and Case said that thousands of young men believed they could get their military service out of the way by completing a hitch on active duty.

"Now they face an uncertain period of 48 weekly drills and 15 days of field duty each year," Case said. "They are unable to complete college, start their careers, or plan marriages and families."

Both Case and Russell favor placing all such veterans in the inactive reserve during their obligated period. They then could be called to active duty in peacetime only with approval of local draft boards.

The senators point out that thousands of young men of draft age, 18 to 26 years, have escaped any military service or duty, while those who were drafted or volunteered now are asked to continue reserve training as well.

Thus far no senator has questioned the basic new proposal of the President's reserve program, which would allow up to 250,000 teen-age youths to volunteer for six months of active duty training, followed by 7 1/2 years in an active reserve unit.

Transit Strikes In 5 Cities Bring Out New Transportation

By The Associated Press
More than two million Americans have rediscovered walking, the neighborliness of car pools, the woes of downtown parking or the cost of taxicabs.

They are the habitual riders of five transit lines now idled by strikes in eight cities of the country.

Strikes are on in Los Angeles; Washington; Little Rock and North Little Rock, Ark.; Scranton, Pa.; Tucson, Ariz.; Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y.

In all of them, members of the AFL A amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees are seeking wage increases.

Another bus strike threat hangs over Philadelphia, where a million more riders would be affected. It's a different kind of dispute with the CIO Transport Workers Union threatening to strike if the company lays off 158 maintenance workers as it wants to do. Somehow, the people are getting to work. Some are having fun. A former bus rider in Los Angeles said he enjoyed hitchhiking because he met such swell people.

A 72-year-old grandmother in Washington appeared on the streets riding an old tandem bicycle with her granddaughter.

The government girls in Washington show their ingenuity. Some have stood on corners with printed signs giving their destination. Some have walked in flat-topped brogans, carrying their dress shoes in their hands.

Washington drivers have had a field day, parking across streetcar tracks downtown, in curbside bus zones and at meters where there's no need for a nickel while the strike is on. Washington had a tremendous traffic clog the first day of the strike but surprised itself, cleared up much of the congestion.

The oldest current strike is at Scranton, Pa., where 256 operators and maintenance employees walked out April 5. The strike closed the only public transportation system in Scranton and affected some 200,000 customers. Strikers are running courtesy cars to help get the public about.

Scranton operating workers now get $1.56 an hour and are asking a 4 cents hourly increase. No settlement is in sight.

The Los Angeles strike began June 20, affecting nearly a million daily riders. They're using two other bus lines, taxicabs and car pools—and cars. Los Angeles County has an estimated 2,150,000 cars.

Downtown stores reported declines in business despite a publicity campaign showing auto traffic is no heavier than normal.

The Little Rock strike began June 22 when 178 drivers and mechanics left their jobs with Capitol Transit Co., which operates intracity service in Little Rock and nearby North Little Rock. The company is giving limited service in Little Rock, using nonunion drivers. It withdrew from North Little Rock after the City Council threatened to ban buses because of "untrained" drivers. The company filed a suit to stop North Little Rock "interference." The

Texas Harvesting Some Crops, Still Needing A General Rain

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., July 9 (AP)—Texas farmers and ranchmen, working at full speed harvesting crops, need that general rain which would replenish soil moisture for growing crops and range grass now "feeling the pinch" of a lack of surface moisture.

Conditions range from record yields of some crops and hay baling in some parts of the state to very low yields and a shortage of range and pasture grasses for livestock in other areas.

North Texas pastures and livestock are in good condition, except some corn and grain sorghum is beginning to need rain. However, prospects for both are reported extremely good. Grasshoppers have damaged corn and cotton. A very good hay crop is being baled and stored for winter feed.

Hay baling conditions in Central Texas are ideal as farmers and ranchmen cut an abundance of good sorghum, alfalfa and grass for hay. Cotton, corn and grain sorghum are in almost all stages of growth, but showing effects from a lack of surface moisture and some insect damage. Pastures also are drying out. The peanut crop outlook in the West Cross Timbers is good. However, more rain is needed.

Many ranchmen in the south central area of the state are selling their calf crop early as lack of moisture has resulted in a critical shortage in range grass and a shortage of stock water in some counties.

In the Edwards Plateau, sheepmen continue to ship their spring lambs to market. Very few lambs are being contracted by buyers. Grass is burning badly and crops are beginning to suffer from the moisture shortage. Much hay is being baled in the eastern half of the Edwards Plateau.

In East Texas where a record supply of excellent quality watermelons are ready for market, the price has dropped so low that some farmers are feeding the melons to hogs. A general rain is needed especially for pastures and late corn as top soil is dry. Livestock is in good condition.

Tomatoes, cantaloupes, squash, cucumbers and bell peppers are moving to market in heavy volume in Northeast Texas with digging of early sweet potatoes expected to commence next week.

In the panhandle, farm work will be at a peak for the next 30 days as the grain sorghum crop is almost completely planted, the wheat harvest will wind up soon, and the potato harvest is scheduled to begin in the Hereford area. All grass land and most crop land is short on moisture.

Ranges in far West Texas are suffering even though thundershowers fell on very small areas, said Joe M. Glover, district agent at Fort Stockton. Ranchmen are feeding herds in the Davis Mountain and Trans-Pecos areas. Irrigated crops are making good growth.

In the Rolling Plains where a month ago moisture conditions were the brightest in five years, high temperatures and hot, dry winds are removing moisture rapidly from the soil and a general rain is needed.

Cotton growing conditions have been favorable in much of the South Plains as temperatures soared to 100 degrees in some locations. High winds damaged crops in some localities. Dry land cotton south and west of Lubbock needs rain.

Phone Strikers To Return To Jobs During Negotiation

SAN ANGELO, July 9 (AP)—Striking San Angelo workers of the General Telephone Co. of the Southwest today voted to recess their "continuous meeting" and to return to work beginning at midnight Sunday.

Union leaders said they would attempt to get other striking workers back on the jobs in the five-state telephone system while negotiations continue. Workers at about 40 exchanges have walked out since July 1, when the CIO contract with the firm expired.

About 300 were on strike here. All along, union leaders have said the strike was unauthorized. John Limmroth, San Angelo unit steward, presided at the "continuous meeting" here this afternoon. A joint statement by the company and union was read and Limmroth asked for a vote to recess the meeting. The workers agreed. Then he asked that the employees return to work Sunday at midnight, and this also was approved.

Rex E. Harp, president of the local said he was sending division representatives to contact unit stewards where walkouts have occurred to attempt to persuade the employees to return to work at midnight Sunday.

The joint statement by union and management negotiators read, "The parties have reached some further understanding with regard to collective bargaining matters. The meetings have been recessed until 10 a. m. Monday. During this recess, the union will contact the employees in regards to returning to work."

The first major walkout occurred here last Wednesday and spread to many other exchanges. The company and union were reported still in disagreement on several issues. The union is demanding an increase in starting pay from the present 73 cents an hour to $1.25 an hour.

The company operates 242 exchanges in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

R. W. Staley and Curtis Fletcher, international officers of the union, The Federal Mediation Service is sitting in on the talks.

Texans In Capital Enjoy Barbecue From Back Home

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—The Texas State Society of Washington, headed by Mrs. Dale Miller of Dallas, today held its fifth annual "imported" Texas barbecue.

Several hundred transplanted citizens of the Lone Star State, including many of the congressmen and their families, dined on barbecued beef and chicken prepared by Walter Jetton of Fort Worth. The food was cooked in his special "chuck-wagon" truck while his crew of helpers drove from Texas.

Small Plane Crashes, Occupants Unhurt

LUFKIN, July 9 (AP)—Two Laredo Civil Air Patrol fliers today escaped injury when their small plane crashed two miles east of Lufkin in a pasture.

The two occupants, Warrant Officer F.W. Critchfield, 35, and Warrant Officer J.G. Austin, 33, were en route to Tyler to take part in a practice air rescue mission.

Their plane developed engine trouble and they were attempting to reach an airport 10 miles away when they went down.

7 Topics On C-C Directors Agenda

Seven topics are on the agenda for discussion at the Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting Monday, said Manager J. H. Greene.

Dan Krauss will lead the Chamber of Commerce dues re-evaluation discussion, and Dr. W. A. Hunt will discuss the public relations course which the Junior College and Chamber are sponsoring next week.

R. L. Beale will give a progress report on the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, and Roy Bruce and Seth Lacy will report on the July 4th fireworks display.

Manager Greene will report on the meeting at Lamesa recently concerning the incentive bonus for cover crops.

Other items planned for discussion include the request for a third post office sub-station in southeast Big Spring, and the highway right-of-way action to date.

Administration Planning To Wreck TVA, Kefauver Charges

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said today the Eisenhower administration policy is aimed at dismantling the TVA and this plan had its "genesis" in a hitherto secret report by Adolph H. Wenzell, a key figure in the Dixon-Yates controversy.

Kefauver said the Wenzell report, dated September 1953, "is the first mention anywhere that we have yet been able to unearth of the proposal that TVA's future power needs be furnished by a corporation organized to produce power and feed it into the TVA lines."

He said this is in fact, "the Dixon-Yates proposal with the intervention of the Atomic Energy Commission as middleman."

President Eisenhower directed the AEC last year to enter into a contract with the Dixon-Yates private utility group to build a 107-million-dollar plant at West Memphis, Ark., to replace TVA power needed for atomic installations in the Tennessee Valley area.

Opponents have charged this project is an opening wedge to destroy the government's TVA system.

Asked for comment on Kefauver's attack, the White House said Eisenhower's "well-known" views on TVA have not changed since he reviewed them at a news conference almost one year ago.

At that conference last July 21, Eisenhower said anyone who suggested the private power project was an attempt to destroy TVA was "to put it in the mildest way he knew—in error."

The Dixon-Yates steam plant already is under construction, but Eisenhower ordered administration officials to consider cancelling the contract after the city of Memphis, Tenn., announced it would build its own plant rather than take Dixon-Yates power. The city now is one of the TVA's largest customers. It was to get most of the power from the Dixon-Yates plant.

Wenzell was first brought into the Budget Bureau as a consultant in May 1953, while he was a vice president of the First Boston Corp., which later became a financial agent for the Dixon-Yates contract. He now is a World Bank official.

A Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee headed by Kefauver has been looking into Wenzell's role in the Dixon-Yates negotiations. Eisenhower has described the part played by Wenzell as entirely proper.

The Wenzell report said "wholesale steam-generating companies could be organized to supply (expanded power needs), selling power to the corporation (TVA) under long-term contracts." This apparently was viewed by Kefauver as the "genesis" of the Dixon-Yates plan.

18 Crippled Children Treated To Westward Ho Swim Pool

Eighteen crippled children splashed in the Westward Ho Motel pool Friday, according to Jewel Barton, of the Howard County Health Unit.

The swimming on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday between 10-11 a.m. in the warmed water is one of the best things for polio victims, the nurse said.

The children are being accustomed to the water at the present time, she said. Tuesday at 6 p.m., Tom King, a Midland physiotherapist, will be in Big Spring to show the kids how they can improve their condition in the water. Nurse Barton expressed hope that the program will expand to include transportation to the pool is no longer a problem, she said. A mother of one of the crippled children has offered to pick up any child that doesn't have a way to the pool each Monday and Friday. On Wednesday, Lt. Robert Hall of the Salvation Army has volunteered transportation for anyone.

Lt. Hall is a member of the Lion's Club which donated towels for the children to use at the pool. Miss Barton said the children will be pretty well equipped for the therapy as soon as they receive life jackets. They will need the jackets for more extensive use of the pool, she said. So far, the life jackets have not been donated.

YMCA swim instructors, two Boy Scouts, and members of the Howard County police chapter are donating their time to assist the youngsters. The Westward Ho Motel has donated the use of the pool.

U. S. Paratroopers Descend On Japan

By VERN HAUGLAND
ASHIYA AIR BASE, Japan, Sunday, July 10 (AP)—Huge Globemaster transports rode swift tailwinds into this western Japan base like clockwork last night and this morning, disgorging hundreds of paratroopers fresh from the United States in the Army's biggest and longest aerial troop movement.

By early morning five planes had landed with about 430 husky, shouting paratroopers, who immediately sat down to meals of steak, potatoes, dessert and coffee.

A tent city was rising next to this Kyushu island base as the C124s roared in at two-hour intervals with about 90 paratroopers in each.

Within three days, 43 of the mammoth planes were to have transported the entire 4,000-man 508th Airborne Regimental Combat Team across the Pacific from Ft. Campbell, Ky.

The 508th is relieving the Korean war-tested 187th Airborne RCT on Kyushu. The 187th on Tuesday will start leaving on the same planes for its new home at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

"When do we make our first jumps in Japan? Bring on the Japanese girls! Where is Mt. Fuji?" shouted the men of the 508th as they charged down the plane ramps into waiting trucks for the trip to the adjacent tent city and their first hot meals, showers and change of clothing in the flight of 48 to 52 hours.

This base is 700 miles west of Tokyo and 800 miles from Mt. Fuji, Japan's national mountain.

The first plane in the airlift, a part of Operation Gyroscope in which the Army rotates whole units instead of individuals, landed at 4:03 p.m. yesterday — 2:03 a.m. Saturday EST — about six hours ahead of schedule because of the tailwinds.

Big Spring Woman Injured In Alaska

Mrs. Peggy Wood, wife of Cpl. Victor Wood Jr., is resting well in the White Horse Army Hospital after serious injury in an automobile mishap June 29 in the Yukon Territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wood Sr., 1411 W. 4th, were notified by telephone Saturday that Mrs. Wood, who is in a cast with a fractured vertebrae, will be flown out to the hospital at Fort Richards, Alaska, where her husband is stationed with the 53rd Infantry Regiment. She also suffered a broken cheek bone.

Cpl. Woods, who has been stationed in Alaska for several months, came here June 15 to return his wife and two small children to Fort Richards. They left here June 22 to drive through in their car.

The machine went out of control on a steep hill in the Yukon Territory and plunged over a 50-foot embankment but did not overturn. Cpl. Wood and the children were unhurt. The car was a loss. The Big Spring man served with the 45th Infantry Division in Korea before he was reassigned. He re-enlisted last November.

THE WEEK

Spring — and for the fireworks display. There were about that many more on roads in the vicinity of the fireworks.

Transfer of license for a television station from Big Spring Broadcasting Company to Big Spring Television, Inc. was approved last week by the FCC. There may be definite announcements before long about when work on the TV station will be started. This topic matches the weather as a conversation piece.

Bank deposits stood steady in comparison with a year ago. Reports of the two banks showed $24 1/2 million on deposit, up by $322,000. The level was somewhat lower than in April. Loans were up under the pressure of continued drought.

Another traffic fatality came to our vicinity last week. Vickie Lally, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lally of Andrews, was killed when a car sideswiped the pickup in which she was riding, causing it to overturn. What a pity that a tiny life must be sacrificed to prove once again that two cars can't meet in the same lane.

The city this week will open bids on a 20-inch pipeline loop for eastern Big Spring — and for other shorter extensions. The big-inch supply will be the first leg of the project to send treated water to Coahoma and Sand Springs. Before long their water district may be asking bids on that line.

Our nomination for the hottest sports personality for the week will pass up Jake Morgan for young Jay LeFevre. Jake won the County Club golf tournament for the fifth consecutive time, QED you might say. But Jay buried his third no-hit no-run ball game of the season in Little League play. He not only didn't allow any runners to reach first; he only gave up one foul ball.

Truck Overtakes On Highway 80

COLORADO CITY—A huge gasoline truck driven by H. L. Robertson of Big Spring overturned about six miles west of here Saturday afternoon.

Robertson, who suffered a head injury, was taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring for first aid treatment. His condition was not considered serious, and he was not detained at the hospital.

Robertson's truck was loaded with 5,735 gallons of high octane gasoline at the time of accident, and he was enroute from Big Spring to Sweetwater. The vehicle apparently got out of control, struck two culverts and overturned in a narrow ditch.

The wrecked transport did not burn, but gasoline poured from it steadily, causing fear of an explosion. Highway Patrolman H. B. Slaughter cleared the highway, and cars were detoured around the accident scene for over an hour.

The accident occurred about 1:45 p.m., but it was several hours before the vehicle could be moved. Conventional wreckers were unable to handle the bulky transport. A heavy winch truck was able to right the truck but was unable to tow it and its heavy load.

Gasoline had to be transferred to another transport before the damaged truck could be pulled away. It was finally moved about 9 p.m.

Man Disappears, Taking Along Mysterious Fortune

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Money man Frank Ellsworth has disappeared, taking with him a mysterious fortune of $57,000 in cash. Investigators for the U. S. Internal Revenue Department sought to question Ellsworth, 36, soon after he was freed and his money returned by police last night.

His lawyer said Ellsworth had left town, but would be back Monday.

Ellsworth and Ray Wilson, 33, were booked on suspicion of robbery Thursday after they flashed wads of new $100 bills at the dice tables of Las Vegas casinos.

Ellsworth was freed on $1,000 bond and a writ of habeas corpus returnable Monday. His bond will be forfeit if he doesn't appear. Wilson, still in jail, was expected to gain his freedom today on a similar writ and $3,000 bail.

After their arrest Ellsworth told police he sold magazine subscriptions. Wilson said he had been "saving C - notes a couple of years."

Police checked the serial numbers on the bills and sought to determine if the men were connected with history's biggest cash bank holdup, the $305,000 robbery last April of the Chase Manhattan Bank of Queens.

But yesterday Frank McGlynn, a New York assistant district attorney, flew here and quizzed the pair. He reported it "doesn't appear possible" that either had anything to do with the Queens robbery.

Both men came here from Tampa, Fla.

Police said both men have records. They said Ellsworth is free on $13,500 appeal bond from Tulsa, Okla., assault and burglary convictions. Detectives said Ellsworth was from Omaha, Neb., and Wilson from Tulsa, Okla. The attorney said, however, that Ellsworth is from Kansas City, Mo., and Wilson from Sioux City, Iowa, and St. Joseph, Mo.

Three Named In Rape Charges

GARLAND, Tex., July 9 (AP)—Rape charges were filed today against three Negro men accused of participation in the rape of a 17-year-old white girl early today.

Charged with the actual assault were Flaudent Fite, 26, and Timothy Pierce, 21, construction workers, T. J. Hall, 18, a farmhand, and one being an accessory to the crime.

Asst. Dist. Atty. D. A. Bell said the state would seek the death penalty for all three men. They were picked out of a police lineup today by the girl.

The victim told officers she was raped twice by each of two men while her escort was held at gunpoint.

The three were arrested shortly after daylight by deputy sheriffs. The attacks occurred on a road known as Mud Lane, about a mile east of Garland.

The dark-haired pretty girl said she was hit in the mouth with a gun, then made to get out of the car and pull off her clothes. She said the men attacked her by the side of the road, then repeated the assault later after forcing her to walk into a field some distance from the car.

The youth with her said the two attackers took turns guarding him in the back seat of the car. They took his watch and billfold.

184 Communicable Diseases Reported

A total of 184 cases of communicable diseases were reported to the Howard County Health Unit last week. Diarrhea, gastroenteritis, tonsillitis, and upper respiratory diseases made up the majority of the cases.

For the week there were 54 cases: upper respiratory, 33; tonsillitis, 30; gonorrhea, 3; influenza, 8; measles, 1; whooping cough, 1; strep throat, 21; and trench mouth, 3.

Heavy Damage In Kentucky Floods

LANCASTER, Ky. (AP)—Flash floods in this rich burley tobacco-growing area of central Kentucky yesterday left one man missing and damage estimated in excess of a million dollars.

Sheriff L. C. Daniel said Clyde Newby, about 54, remained unaccounted for and was presumed drowned. Two children reported to have drowned were found alive and unharmed.

Four inches or more of rain fell on Garrard County in less than two hours, guffing streams and sending an overflow down the valleys.

Tobacco, corn and young grasses washed away. Soil erosion was great.

Robert Hagan, county road engineer, said half the county's bridges and culverts were washed away or severely damaged.

None Injured In Minor Car Crashes

Four minor automobile accidents were reported to police here Friday and Saturday. Officers said there apparently were no injuries.

Joseph Brady, 402 Galveston, and Mildred Bailey Jarratt, 329 Edwards, were drivers of vehicles in an accident in the 2100 block of Main Street about 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

At 8 a.m. Saturday an accident at the intersection of Mesquite and West 2nd involved drivers Vernon Edward Howerton, 206 Lockhart, and Jesse C. Gilbert, 1107 N. Garland.

Mrs. R. L. Remington, 107 E. 6th, and Richard H. Duke, Abilene, were operators of cars which collided in an accident in the 1290 block of Wood Street about 2:35 p.m. Friday.

At 1:05 p.m. Friday cars driven by Federico Barraza Nunes, 308 N. Main, and Joe Douglas Brewer, Fort Sam Houston, were in an accident at the intersection of Northeast 2nd and Benton.

They Average Two Pounds Each

ete Womack, J. E. Heffington, and Mary Womack hold up as many of the catch as they can, while the rest are at their feet. The group, which included Red Kinman and Jimmie Walker, brought back approximately 225 pounds of catfish from a fishing trip into Mexico in the region of Rio Concho. They left here last Saturday, crossing the border at Presidio. They returned to Big Spring yesterday with approximately 110 fish. The group made the trip in two trucks, carrying their camping equipment with them. Womack operates the Womack garage here.

Lower Valley Drenched With Four-Inch Rain

The tail end of a tropical storm brought as much as 4 inches of rain to some Lower Rio Grande Valley areas Saturday and caused crop.

Although the Weather Bureau reported the rain had slacked off about dark Saturday, more rain was forecast from thunderstorms over the Gulf which were expected to move inland.

The 4-inch rain was reported on a farm two miles north of Los Fresnos. Macomb reported 3 inches.

Heaviest official report was at Brownsville, where 2.43 inches fell in the 24 hours preceding 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Other rainfall in the area up to 6:30 included Raymondville .68 inch, Harlingen .35, McAllen .55, Edinburg .45, and Rio Grande City .34.

The rains extended past the 24 hours ending at 6:30. Weslaco reported 1.20 inches in the 24 hours ending at noon Saturday, and at that time Edinburg had received .80 inch and McAllen .68.

The rains extended into other parts of South Texas and up the Rio Grande. Corpus Christi reported .54 inch, Victoria .33, Palacios .11, Del Rio .01, Salt Flat .10 and Cotulla .03.

Midwest Gets Some Relief From Heat

Much of the Midwest cooled off Saturday but heat held firm in the East, South and Southwest.

A line squall moved swiftly across Northern Illinois and whisked on into Michigan and Ohio.

Freeport, Ill., was doused by two inches of rain. Benton Harbor, Mich., reported half and winds up to 70 m.p.h. A thunderstorm, with gusts up to 75 m.p.h. was reported at Lima, Ohio.

A four-inch rain flattened corn stalks around Mount Vernon in the southwest corner of Indiana.

Chicago had less than an inch of rain but the brief, hard shower ended nine consecutive days of temperatures of 90 or higher.

Showers also fell in other areas in the eastern half of the country.

Note May Be Trace On Missing Editor

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—A note found by police in the hotel room of a missing New York magazine editor shed new light on his disappearance today.

Howard Rushmore, 45, editor of the magazine Confidential, was last reported seen early Thursday. He came to Chicago Monday and appeared on a Chicago TV program Wednesday night.

He said over the air he was looking for a Chicago Communist party leader and was working on a story in connection with the death of James Forrestal, former secretary of the Navy and Defense Department.

Rushmore was former film editor of the Communist Daily Worker but broke with the party in the 30s. He was a reporter on the New York Journal American, specializing in articles about communism, until last fall.

Police investigating his disappearance said he returned to his hotel after appearing on the TV program, then went out again in response to a message taken by the desk clerk.

Police said the message, purported to be from a man named "Larry," asked Rushmore to meet him at 1:15 a.m. at Roosevelt Road and Halsted Street.

Tom Duggan, on whose ABC-TV program Rushmore appeared, said the editor requested that anyone knowing the whereabouts of the Communist leader phone Rushmore at his hotel. He gave the name as "Lazarovich." The note indicated Lazarovich also was known as "Lawrence."

In examining Rushmore's room in the Ambassador East Hotel, police said they found a note addressed to Rushmore which read: "During the time I was an informant for the FBI I saw Bill Lawrence on many occasions. I knew him to be a former commander of the (Abraham) Lincoln Brigade in Spain.

"While I was in the waterfront section of the party in New York, Lawrence was a policy maker for the Communists, although he stayed in the background.

"Lawrence would be one of those who gave directions on strongarm tactics and I would classify him as one of the dangerous comrades. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds. He has brown eyes and dark brown hair. He spoke with a slight accent.

"He was a thorough Marxist and would carry out any assignment to which the party assigned him. To my knowledge he disappeared into the underground in 1945, and I have not seen him since.

"I know his true name to be William Lazarovich."

Police said the note was signed "John Huber." There was no address and police could not otherwise identify Huber.

Anne Crocker To Lead Girls' Work At Kate Morrison

Initial response to the girls' activities in the citywide summer recreation program at Kate Morrison School has been most encouraging.

Anne Crocker has been assigned to directing activities for the girls, said Grover Good, YMCA general secretary and who is also directing the summer program. Johnny Johnson is handling the boys' program under the lights provided by the Kiwanis Club.

One problem which has presented itself is that so many of the girls are youngsters and thus cut down on the time available for the teen-age misses. Good asked for those who have comic books, picture books, etc. to leave them at the YMCA as a diversion for the volunteer help one or two nights a week with these younger folk.

The latest teaching methods will be used to present the material. Teaching aids will include blackboard illustrations, flip-charts, flannel-board presentations, 16-mm sound film, and a wire recorder. No examinations will be given, but all persons completing the course will receive a certificate from the University.

The course is designed to improve customer services, increase the volume of business, and develop better community relationships. Topics for the discussion will include "What Public Relations Means to Everyone," "How to Get Along With People," "Memory," "Use of the Telephone," "Group Relationships," and "Speech."

Rehearsal Set For Community Band

Rehearsal of the Community Band, made up of adults and youngsters who play or have played instruments, is slated Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Band Room.

Director Clyde Rowe stated that the band will play for the forthcoming rodeo parade. An open air concert will also be presented sometime during the summer. Anyone interested in playing is invited to attend the rehearsal, Rowe stated.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By FRANCES WALKER

Dear Jayhawkers,

HCJC girls gave a good showing in the Fourth of July Beauty Pageant last Monday evening. Judy Douglas was crowned "Miss Howard County" to follow Peggy Knight Crooks who received the honor last year. Anna Mae Thorp was third-place winner of the "Miss Big Spring" contest.

We were also represented by James Underwood who sang "Saturn's Shore," Gail Brooks who portrayed the "Gull duckling," Don Anderson who helped introduce the contestants, and Peggy Knight Crooks who presented Judy her awards. I might also mention that Elvon DeVane's sister, Rosalee, who may someday be a Jayhawker, introduced the show and "danced on Saturn's Shore."

I ran into a number of Jayhawkers at the Soap Box Derby and Beauty Pageant. A few of them were Lola Fletcher, Jimmy Porter, Jimmy Merrick, Myrna Talley, Clifford Draper, Barbara Abbott, Coach and Mrs. Davis, and Jan Burns.

Jan, incidentally, was sporting a lovely diamond on her left third finger. She and Wayne Medina have not yet set the date.

I understand that Paschal Wickard was here for the Fourth weekend, but Jim Knotts was not. You may remember that I mentioned last week that Jim might come.

Donald Denton and Delbert Davidson are no longer working in Lubbock, but have been measuring cotton here. They, along with Edwin Elmore and Robert Roberson, will be leaving today for National Guard Camp in Ft. Hood.

Nancy Conaway has been very busy lately planning for her wedding which is to take place next Sunday. She will be the bride of Dick Gray.

Barbara Abbott journeyed to Sweetwater Monday to attend the wedding of one of her close friends.

Bob Patterson spent the holiday weekend visiting in Meadow. He reports having seen Jimmie Castleberry, who recently traded his car in on a brand new Chevy pickup and visited his fiancée, Myrna Sproul in Anthony, Kan.

If you chance to drop in the Howard County Library, you will no doubt see a familiar face behind the desk. Mr. Paul Vagt, college librarian, is working there this summer.

The Green and Phil Stovall recently returned from Fort Worth where they have been working for the past few weeks.

I received a card from Martha Winans and a letter from Francene Walker this week. Martha is enjoying her work at the Glorieta Baptist Assembly in New Mexico. If you'd like to drop her a line, send it in care of the Assembly, Glorieta, N. M. Francene is working at Webb Air Force Base, as are Frankie Marstrand and Mary Ellen Hayes.

Nancy Milford is vacationing with her family in New Mexico and Colorado.

Dorwood Blagrove recently came by Poncho's News Stand when I was working. He is farming this summer. He introduced me to Darrell Blagrove, his cousin who plans to attend HCJC this fall. I'll tell you more about Darrell later.

Connie Crow and her family are spending this weekend in the Davis Mountains.

I understand that Sue Neal is soon to begin working for the telephone company in Levelland.

Mr. Bruce Frazier tells me that an unavoidable delay has come up, and his book will not be published quite as soon as I had previously announced.

Here's some more info on where Jayhawkers are working this summer: Wayne Lankford is at Eergusson-Steer Motor Transport; Roy and Loy Loudamy, Quick Lunch Cafe; Charlie Ross, Lead's Shoe Store; Carroll Cannon, Cosden Refinery; Clifford Draper and Lonnie Martin, an oil company in Fortson; and Edwin Elmore, an oil company in Sweetwater.

That's about all I have this week. I'd like to ask a special favor of all of you Jayhawkers: Please let me know any news you have. Whether you realize it or not, there are a lot of people who are interested in YOU, and what YOU are doing—even if you just take a weekend trip or purchase a new car.

Further Postponements Seen In Trial Of Duval Co. Cases

TYLER, July 9 (AP)—Another scheduled court test of the accusations made in a long and sensational grand jury investigation of Duval County affairs may be postponed.

Defense attorneys asked this week that the trials here of D. C. Chapa and Oscar Carillo Sr., both charged with misapplication of Benavides school district funds, be indefinitely postponed.

Chapa is scheduled to go to trial at 10 a.m. Monday on six counts of the Duval County grand jury. Carillo is up for trial a week later, July 18.

The motion for discontinuance, which will be argued Monday morning, said a local defense attorney, Alex Page, still suffered from injuries received in an automobile accident about a year ago and was unable to represent his clients at this time.

Last Tuesday the scheduled trial of South Texas political boss George B. Parr and 11 other defendants, all accused of mishandling the Benavides school funds, was indefinitely postponed at New Braunfels. The delay was ordered because of the illness of Dist. Judge John R. Fuchs.

Another docket of Duval County cases is scheduled July 28 in Brenham. Defendants are R. W. Milligan, Benavides school superintendent charged with misapplication of school funds, and Tyson Summy, charged with making false statement of notary public.

In addition Parr faces trial July 18 in Austin on a federal income tax evasion charge.

There has been some speculation that trial of the remaining 198 indictments returned by the Duval County grand jury might be legally delayed until the outcome of the federal tax case is known or the state Criminal Court of Appeals acts on the case of the only Duval County official who has been tried on the grand jury charges.

R. L. Adams, former Duval school superintendent, has appealed his conviction at Bryan last year on a charge of misapplication of school funds. He was sentenced to two years in prison. The appeals court recessed for the summer without acting on the case and will not meet again until October.

After discontinuance of the 12 cases at New Braunfels last Tuesday Luther Jones, an attorney for Parr, charged that 7th Dist. Atty. Sam H. Burris and Assistant Atty. Gen. Sam Ratliff were causing the court delays.

The decision on the Adams appeals may have a sweeping effect on the prosecution of the other indictments returned by the Duval grand jury. One defense issue made in the appeal is the contention that the grand jury was not legally empaneled. Should the appeals court reverse the Adams conviction it could mean the quashing of all the other indictments by the same grand jury.

Woman Stands Up To Reds, Finally Wins Her Freedom

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—A plucky Englishwoman who refused to bend under Communist pressure today won a seven-year fight to leave Czechoslovakia and come home with her three children.

The Prague government gave up trying to hold Mrs. Phyllis Sispera, a pretty 32-year-old matron, who is a Czech citizen by marriage. The Czechs told British Ambassador George C. Pelham: "She is free to go."

The Czechs also agreed to grant exit visas to her British-born children: Martin, 13, Clarence, 12, and Jennifer, 10. All three have been held in a Prague institution.

She is not yet united with her children but is staying in the apartment of the family of a British legation secretary in Prague.

The four Sisperas won freedom after Britain fired off to Prague this week two angry protests warning that the widely publicized case was poisoning relations between the two countries.

The official protests were backed up by demands for action in the British Parliament and a spate of indignant editorials in British newspapers.

Britain is now getting ready to give Mrs. Sispera a heroine's welcome. The story of how under Red threat she "held out for freedom" has been splashed over London front pages. She has been hailed as a "supreme example of British courage."

Mrs. Sispera is expected to fly home with her children within a few days. She will leave behind her former husband and the father of the three children. He is Jaroslav Sispera who is imprisoned in a Czech jail on treason charges. The Reds were reported to have compelled her to divorce him last year.

In a final effort to persuade Mrs. Sispera to stay on in Czechoslovakia, secret police picked her up early Tuesday morning at her Prague apartment and drove her to a surprise meeting with her husband.

Police told her if she agreed to stay Jaroslav would be released, given a mining job and the whole family would have "a nice villa" to live in. Then her former husband was brought in. Mr. Sispera later gave British diplomats this account of their conversation:

Jaroslav: "Phyllis I am sorry for all this unhappiness. Can't we be reunited, happy with our children?"

She replied: "I would never prevent you from seeing the children if I went to England, but I regard our marriage as ended. I have made up my mind to take the children to England."

'FRIEND' GOES, SO DOES MONEY

Police Saturday were looking for a man who stole money and other items from an individual who befriended him.

The victim was Louis Lee Thompson, who told officers that he allowed a man named "Jackson" to stay in his hotel room Friday night. Saturday when Thompson awoke, "Jackson" was gone. So were a wrist watch, a knife, a lighter, two books, some personalized checks and $7 or $8 in bills.

Thompson told officers that the man was about 28 years of age, five feet and seven inches tall, and weighed about 170 pounds. He told Thompson he was from Sterling City.

Officers said that a man who gave him his name as Jackson purchased a used car in Sterling City last week, and that the car was found abandoned here Saturday.

'Teen-Town Social' Crowds Growing

The Teen-town Social, organized as a part of the citywide recreational program, is attracting increasing interest.

In addition to the regular activities at Lakeview School, the Negro young people have started a social hour on Thursday evenings. Richard Deats, who is supervising the activity, said that the first week drew only 15, the second 35 and last Thursday there were 80 young people taking part.

The First Methodist, Wesleyan Methodist and First Presbyterian churches have served as sponsors to assist in the program. Tri-Hi-Y and Rainbow Girls are to serve as sponsors Friday. The First Baptist young people assisted by promoting a skating party for the Lakeview project.

CRITIQUE

By Glenn Coates

The Wall Street Journal estimated that retail sales of Davy Crockett merchandise during the first two months of the current year totaled more than 100 million dollars. Part of those sales is in books. There are 11 Crockett books available and two more coming out in the near future.

One of the better Crockett books was reviewed in these pages a few weeks back. It is "David Crockett: The Bravest of Them All Who Died in the Alamo" by V. F. Taylor. Published by the Naylor Company in San Antonio and written by a Texan, the book covers the life of Crockett simply and well.

Speaking of David Crockett, a nationwide magazine recently ran an article deriding Crockett, the Alamo, and just about everything connected with the two. This magazine, which has never been known to print anything without bias, goes on to note that Crockett is a fraud and the Alamo, a farce. Certainly no answer to such "banjo-swinging" is necessary, but while the editors are stating that there is no such thing as "Crockett," wonder why they haven't exposed Santa Claus and the Easter bunny?

THE SEVEN YEAR ITCH

By George Axelrod

For 25 cents you can get a copy of the rave of Broadway in any Big Spring drug store. The movie version of the play will be booked into local theaters in the next few weeks. It stars Marilyn Monroe and Tom Ewell. Incidentally, Ewell also starred in the stage production.

The play is a three-act romantic comedy first produced on the stage in November, 1952. Hollywood grabbed it up and the picture is reported to be very good. Reading a play is not quite as satisfactory as seeing it, in this case, the acting is more important than the story.

Richard Sherman is a "Walter Mitty" type character who has delusions of grandeur that come true. His wife and daughter leave him in town alone while they visit a summer resort. This is the first time he is left alone in seven years of married life.

His life becomes complicated when he inadvertently meets the girl who has an apartment upstairs. She complains that all the men she knows fall in love with her, but she feels safe with Richard because he is married. He is much too shy to be a wolf, but his daydreams run rampant. However, they do have an affair.

The play is humorous even when read.

There are several new books scheduled for the next few months that should be of better than average proportions. Here are a few that you might want to investigate:

"Year of Decision," Vol. I, by Harry Truman will be out in October. The second volume of the president's memoirs will be published early next year. Each of the two volumes will sell for five dollars, but you can get the two for $8.50 if you purchase before Jan. 1, 1956.

Herman Wouk's new novel, "Marjorie Morningstar," will be the Book of the Month Club selection for September and in the Reader's Digest Condensed volume for October. His first book was "The Caine Mutiny."

Harrett T. Kane has another "spy" story coming in October. It is the biography of Belle Boyd, a famous female spy in the War Between the States. Title of the new book will be "The Smiling Rebel."

Pierre LaMure, author of "Moulins in Rouge," a fictionalized biography of the artist Toulouse-Lautrec, has another book of similar character that will be published in November. It is "Beyond Desire" and will be the life of Mendelssohn.

The author of "Battle Cry," Leon Uris also has a new one for October. It is "The Angry Hills" about an American in Greece during World War II running from the Gestapo.

"Waterfront" by Budd Schulberg is scheduled for September publication and was written from the author's screen script of "On the Waterfront." "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" by Tennessee Williams was published in June. "Big Woods" by William Faulkner is coming in October; and "10 N. Frederick," by John O'Hara is scheduled in November.

On the lunatic fringe, "Inside the Space Ships," by George Adamski is a sequel to the author's, "Flying Saucers Have Landed." His first book has sold 80,000 copies and this probably will go as high. Adamski claims to have been inside space ships.

INCIDENTALLY... "Bitter Sweet" is the current State Fair Musical presentation in Dallas. The musical stars Jeannette MacDonald. The program will change the 18th of this month, when Gordon MacRae will star in "Carousel." "Run Silent, Run Deep," by Edward L. Beach and a current best seller has been sold to Hollywood and is scheduled for early production. Two Budd Schulberg novels, "The Harder They Fall" and "What Makes Sammy Run" are both headed for the films. "Blood Alley" is a 25-cent paperback novel that has been made into a movie. It will be released in September and stars John Wayne and Lauren Bacall.

False Wreck Alarm Sends Ambulances On Fruitless Run

A Valley ambulance went to Fairview after receiving the report. Police also received a similar report, and dispatched Highway Patrol officers and the ambulance on a second trip.

The ambulance turned back five miles north of Ackerly on the second trip, after a motorist from Muleshoe said he had seen no sign of a wreck.

Highway Patrolman Amon Jones said the highway was checked all the way to Lamesa. Dawson authorities also received a report of the "wreck," he said.

A River ambulance drove to Sterling City recently in response to a similar false alarm. Officers said the Friday night incident was the third such false report received in the last few months.

Stanton Gains Six New Families

STANTON, July 9—Stanton has gained six new families as a result of the establishment of the Dr. Pepper bottling plant here.

The new residents include Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Brumley and family, former Big Springers; and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Simonek and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Trimble and family; Mr. and Mrs. Buster Caddell and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carrol and family, all former residents of Midland. Ken Wilson also has moved to Stanton from Midland and Ed Hall, plant manager, expects to move this week.

Youths Must Write Essays To Atone For Gas Thefts

HOUSTON, July 9 (AP)—Six juveniles arrested for stealing gasoline must write 1,000-essays.

Two of the youths implicated the others after being arrested Thursday night with gasoline taken from trucks parked at a service station.

Pasadena Police Chief Varreese Berry released the teen-agers to their parents under these conditions:

1. That they attend church every Sunday and report to Berry every 30 days for six months.
2. That they stay off the streets at night and not associate as a group at night.
3. That each personally earn money to repay the cost of the gasoline.
4. That each write a 1,000-word essay within a week on why they should not steal.

Berry said he has used this method of probation for over 150 juveniles the past three years and that only six have gotten into trouble again.

Scout Advancement Committee At Work

The advancement committee of the Lone Star Boy Scout District is making rapid progress on its new list of merit badge counselors.

Joe Clark and Maj. Robert Kalshed are directing this phase of the work. It was reported at the monthly district meeting Thursday evening. Sam McComb, camping chairman, urged registration of troops for the July 25 aquatic camp at Lake Sweetwater. In the Cubbers section Bill Horne was in charge. Jim Scrimshire, in charge of the Scouters, stressed aquatics for the August program.

A fire alarm was sounded shortly after noon Friday when trash at T. Willard Neal Transfer, 104 Nolan, caught fire. Firemen said the trash fire was put out quickly and there was no damage. It was caused by a cigarette.

Area Shows Pronounced New Well Gain In First Half

By CLIFTON LAWHORNE
The immediate seven county area had 273 oil well completions during the first half of the year, and the aggregate daily potential was 34,312.43 barrels.

These figures were compiled from The Herald reports of the last six months on Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Mitchell, and Sterling counties. Quarterly figures for April through June show 149 completions for combined potential of 17,785.47 barrels. This is slightly better than the 124 completions during the first quarter which netted potential of 16,526.96 barrels per day.

There have been more completions so far this year than during the first half of last year, but the wells this year have been, on the average, smaller than those finished during the first half of 1954.

January through June of this year saw 273 wells finished in this area. In the same period last year there were only 199. That 199 wells had combined potential of 40,760.27 barrels, however, as compared to the 34,312.43 of this year.

HOWARD COUNTY is still leading this area in oil development, having so far this year made 126 completions which were worth 15,066.12 barrels on potential gauge. Last year in the same period there were 99 wells completed for 31,066.70 barrels.

Howard County's record during the first quarter this year was 57 wells for 7,931.77 barrels. During the second quarter, 69 wells were completed for 7,374.35 barrels. In all there have been 23 projects plugged.

MITCHELL COUNTY rose in prominence during the second quarter of this year. The April through June 14 total shows 41 new wells for combined potential of 5,295.37 barrels. Only six ventures were plugged.

This gives Mitchell County a total of 73 wells for the first half of the year. Aggregate potential is 8,335.17 barrels, and total number of plugged projects is seven. Last year in the first six months only 23 wells were completed for 3,386.05 barrels.

BORDEN COUNTY showed a slight rise in activity during the second quarter of the year also. Fourteen wells were finished between April 1 and June 30 for daily potential of 2,950.40 barrels. This compares with the 11 drilled during the first three months for 2,242.10 barrels.

The Borden total for the year now stands at 25 wells which had initial potential of 5,192.50 barrels. Fourteen projects were plugged, 10 in the first quarter and four in the second. The first half of last year showed the county with 24 completions for 6,219.93 barrels.

Sterling County had a big jump in activity during the second quarter. January through March showed only five completions for 706.8 barrels. April through June, however, showed 19 completions for 1,049.62 barrels.

STERLING COUNTY'S total at the half year point was 15 wells for 1,756.42 barrels. Eleven projects have so far been plugged. Last year in the same period only six wells were finished for 525.49 barrels.

GLASSCOCK COUNTY had 19 completions during the first half year and they were valued at 2,249.35 barrels on initial potential gauge. This was 10 wells for 1,756.42 barrels during the first quarter and 11 for 525.49 barrels during the second quarter.

MITCHELL COUNTY had 41 completions during the first half year and they were valued at 5,295.37 barrels on initial potential gauge. This was 10 wells for 1,756.42 barrels during the first quarter and 11 for 525.49 barrels during the second quarter.

field to the south. Leonard's No. 1 E. E. Erwin was finished for 84 barrels as a northeast edge to Westbrook production. Both were listed as wildcats.

Magnolia No. 1 Jesse York was completed as a Borden County discovery about 13 miles east of Gall. It was finished in the Wichita Albany sector of the lower Permian and made 102.44 barrels. Choya and McDermott No. 1 Charles Cannon, about two miles northwest of the Jo-Mill field was completed as a Spraberry discovery for 242.79 barrels.

In Howard County, Adolph Woolner No. 1 M. M. Edwards was finished as a discovery about two miles southwest of the Snyder field. It made 54 barrels of oil. Dec Oil No. 1 R. P. Davis was completed as a six-barrel discovery two miles west of Sterling City in Sterling County.

A breakdown of operations in each county during the second quarter of this year follows:

BORDEN—Jo Mill field, seven completions for 1,735.20 barrels; Arthur (Spraberry), two for 379.54; Arthur (Canyon), two for 169.90; Fluvanna, one for 177; Good North-east, one for 143.33.

Deepening Due After Test Has Water, Shows

Large amounts of salt water were recovered on tests of the lower reef formation over the weekend at Goldston Oil Company's No. 1 M. E. Ooley, wildcat just east of the Luther Southeast field in Howard County.

Drilling operations had continued Saturday, and interested observers say that the project will probably dig to the Devonian.

A drillstem test from 8,208 to 8,228 feet yielded heavily oil and gas-cut mud and some salt water. The test was for 15 minutes. The second test, for 25 minutes, was from 8,228 to 8,250 feet. It yielded salt water entirely.

Indications are that the shows are not sufficient for commercial production. Actual pay zone above the water table is too small.

Location of the No. 1 Ooley is 1,880 feet from north and 660 from west lines, 24-32-2n, T&P survey. This places it a half mile southeast of Luther and a mile east of the Luther Southeast field.

Scurry Logs Three Producers In Different Pay Formations

Scurry County logged completions in the Fluvanna (Ellenburger), Diamond M (Clear Fork), and Sharon Ridge-3400 fields.

The Fluvanna completion is Superior and Intex No. 1-536 F. Lanham, C NE NE, 336-97-H&TC survey. It made 184 barrels of oil through a 10-64th-inch choke in 24 hours.

There was no water, gravity measured 42 degrees, and the gas-oil ratio was 73-1. Tubing pressure was 180 pounds, and there was a packer on the casing. Completion was natural.

Elevation is 2,745 feet, total depth is 8,386, seven-inch casing is bottomed at 8,386, and pay top is 8,350. Perforations are between 8,350 and 8,355.

Felmont Oil No. 3 C. T. Mc-

Laughlin, 1,060 from south and 1,140 from east lines, 179-97-H&TC survey, pumped 67.66 barrels of oil in 24-hours on a Diamond M (Clear Fork) potential.

Elevation is 2,327 feet, total depth is 8,186, the 5 1/2-inch goes to 3,111, and pay top is 3,130. Gravity measures 28.8 degrees, and gas-oil ratio is nil.

French M. Robertson completed the two Sharon Ridge-3400 field ventures. The No. 4 First National Bank of Snyder made 122 barrels of oil in 24 hours. The No. 5 First National Bank of Snyder made 127 barrels per day.

The No. 4 is 963 from north and east lines, 129-97-H&TC survey. Elevation is 2,301, total depth is 2,592, the seven-inch casing goes to 2,492, and pay top is 2,420. Perforations are between 2,441 and 2,451 feet. Gas-oil ratio is 200-1, and gravity was not reported.

The No. 5 First National Bank, which is 990 feet from north and 330 from west lines, same section, had gas-oil ratio of 220-1. Perforations were from 2,437 to 2,452 feet. Pay top is 2,425, the 5 1/2-inch goes to 2,495, and total depth is 2,495.

DRILLSTEM TEST

Dawson Venture Checking Shows Of Oil From Cores

Seaboard Oil Company was taking a drillstem test this weekend at its No. 1 T. L. Reed, wildcat about four miles north of Ackerly in Dawson County.

Zone being sampled is opposite the Dean sand from 8,275 to 8,388 feet. Cores from 8,318 to 8,388 feet had recovery of lime sand and some oil shows.

Location of this wildcat is 2,175 from south and 467 from west lines, 35-34-T&P survey.

Blackwood and Nichols No. 1-66 Richard, a wildcat 12 miles west of Lamesa, had bit turning at 5,612 feet in lime and shale.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines, labor 66, league 278, Glasscock CSL, on a 708.6 acre lease.

New Oil Recovered With Residue In Crockett Explorer

Some new oil was recovered along with load and residue during swabbing operations opposite the Grayburg formation at Silk Oil and Finley Holbrook No. 1 Weger, North Crockett County wildcat.

Operator is now swabbing to clean out and test in zone between 2,280 and 2,302 feet. Treatment has been with 10,000 gallons of sand oil.

Total depth is 2,972 feet, and the 5 1/2-inch casing is bottomed at 2,600 feet. The section from 2,600 to the bottom of the hole had no shows for commercial production. However good shows were uncovered on cores all the way from 2,220 to 2,560 feet.

If the interval between 2,280 and 2,302 feet does not flow oil, it is possible that production tests will be conducted lower in the Grayburg.

Location is nine miles south of Big Lake, 330 feet from north and west lines, 49-GCSF survey.

Drilling Activity In Slight Increase

DALLAS — A total of 2,937 rigs were active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week of July 4, 1955, according to a report to American Association of Oil-well Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company. This compares with 2,908 reported a week ago, 2,900 a month ago, and with 2,736 in the comparable week of 1954. A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks shows: West Texas and New Mexico with 545 on July 4, a gain of 18 for the week.

Cosden Ready To Complete Snyder Well

Cable tools were being moved in Saturday to complete Cosden Petroleum Corporation's No. 1 O'Daniel, project in Howard County's Snyder pool.

Plans call for perforations to be made early during the coming week. The seven-inch casing has been set at 2,831 feet. Location is 330 from north and east lines, 29-30-1s, T&P survey.

C. D. Turner and Humble Oil Company's No. 1 TXL, another Snyder field project, was drilling at 2,470 feet Saturday. This location is 330 from south and east lines, 37-31-1s, T&P survey.

Blue Danube Oil No. 2-A M. H. O'Daniel, also in the Snyder field, was digging below 2,445 feet in blue shale and gray lime. Site is 330 from south and west lines, northeast quarter, 39-30-1s, T&P survey.

Nathan H. Swartz No. 9 Snyder spudded and set surface casing Saturday.

In the Howard-Glasscock field, Duncan Drilling Company's No. 4 Chalk is still bottomed at 2,837 feet, but it will probably be completed this week. Location is 990 from south and 1,650 from east lines, 124-29-W&NW survey.

Spraberry Trend Projects Are Recompleted In The Clear Fork

Two Spraberry Trend projects in Southwest Glasscock County were re-completed in the Clear Fork formation over the weekend.

They are Hanley No. 1 Edwin Moeller, which flowed 243.5 barrels of oil on potential, and Soho No. 16-A Davenport, which made 24-hour-flow of 450 barrels of oil.

These two wells are the second and third Clear Fork producers in the Spraberry Trend area.

Hanley No. 1 Edwin Moeller flowed oil from perforations between 6,404 and 6,414 feet after treatment with 500 gallons of acid. Recovery on test also included three barrels of water.

The No. 1 Moeller had originally been completed in the Spraberry formation from 6,892 to 7,000 feet, but production in that zone depleted.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines, 10-37-5s, T&P survey.

Soho No. 16-A Davenport made its 450-barrel potential through an 18-64th inch choke from perforations between 6,387 and 6,397 feet. Treatment was with 500 gallons of acid.

Gas-oil ratio at the No. 16-A Davenport was 422-1, and gravity was not reported. Potential was based on an actual 22 1/4-hour flow of 423 barrels of oil.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines, 14-37-5s, T&P survey.

Soho has announced that its No. 16-C Davenport, old Spraberry producer about three-quarters of a mile north of the 16-A Davenport, will also be completed from Clear Fork Pay. This location is C SW, 11-37-5s, T&P survey.

Court Action Seen If State Excluded In Off-Shore Work

BATON ROUGE, La. — The dispute between Louisiana and the federal government over offshore oil has developed into an exchange of threats of court action.

Both plan to ask bids on the same Gulf of Mexico tracts on July 12.

Chairman John W. Olvey of the State Mineral Board warned yesterday the state will haul into court anyone trying to "exploit or develop" offshore lands within three leagues (10.5 miles) of the Louisiana coast without a lease from the state.

This threat came only a week after U. S. Interior Department warned it would seek a federal court injunction to prevent Louisiana leasing the 28 tracts covering 73,500 acres in the "twilight zone" off the coast of southwest Louisiana.

Reagan Well Ready For Completion

Cosden Petroleum Corporation's No. 2-34 M. L. Douglas, a Spraberry venture in Reagan County, is scheduled for tests early in the week.

The project has been treated with 21,000 gallons of fracture fluid and 31,500 pounds of sand. It was uncasing Saturday. This location is 330 from south and east lines, 37-31-1s, T&P survey.

In Tom Green County, is drilling at 5,961 feet.

CHINESE NATIONALIST MEN TO STUDY COSDEN'S PLANT

Three engineers from Nationalist China are expected to arrive here during the weekend to inspect operation and processes at Cosden Petroleum Corporation's plant.

They are Wei Chow, Y. C. Chow, and S. K. Fan. The three had come to the United States to observe first hand the operation of a catalytic cracking process licensed by Socony. It is almost identical to one to be constructed at Kachuang, near Taipei, Formosa. While in the States, it was decided to inspect operations at some other plants. Cosden extended an invitation through an export agent and it was accepted owing to the varied processes which Cosden employs in its versatile operations.

The three men may be here a week or more.

R. D. LANE

MEET THE 'seniors'
OF THE COSDEN FAMILY...

This is the fourth in a new series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

Few Cosden veterans can match the record of R. D. Lane in having worked under the same supervisor for their entire tenure with the company. When Lane joined Cosden on Jan. 6, 1940, he was assigned to the maintenance department under Rufe Morton. Although he was promoted to insulator and bricklayer on June 24, 1948, his work continued to be with Morton. He has never had a mishap of consequence and has enjoyed every day of his work.

Lane was born near Comanche and attended school there. In 1928 he moved to Big Spring and farmed until 1931. In that year he returned to Comanche and was married to his childhood sweetheart, Gladine Nichols on Sept. 16, 1931. Back in Big Spring he served as a contractor and carpenter before becoming associated with Cosden.

His work at Cosden includes insulating of miles and miles of pipe, thus no one is more aware than he that Cosden has more than doubled in size since he became a member of the Cosden family.

His favorite pastimes are hunting and fishing. Whenever possible he goes to Possum Kingdom or Lake Colorado City where company cabins are available. He's not much of a hand at gardening, figuring that when he left the farm he was through with the soil.

He is a Baptist and a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Mr. and Mrs. Lane own their own home at 502 Owens and they have seven children, Mrs. James F. (Gaynelle) Harper, 23, Odessa; Mrs. Bobby Lou Distole, 21, Texarkana, Ark.; Kenneth Lane, 14; Sandra, 11; Danny, 9; Jan, 5; Judy Kay, 3. They also have one grandchild, Donald Frank Harper, 6 months old.

Ninth Inning Rally Flops

ARTESIA, July 9 (SC) — The Big Spring Cops got the tying runner up to bat in the ninth inning here Saturday night, but he went down swinging to end the game and give Artesia an 8-5 Longhorn League victory.

The final frame looked like the big one for the Big Springers, with Nick Cappelli getting on first safely as Artesia Shortstop Joe Cocca bobbled the ball. Frank Billings then grounded out, but Caballero got on through an error by Paul Dobkowsky. Pepper Martin kicked out, and Eddie Lock came in to relieve Buford on the mound.

Lock promptly gave up a wild pitch, advancing both runners. Big Jim Zapp then came to the plate and fouled off three good pitches before being fooled on a third strike.

The Cops had scored three runs in the second, one in the third, and one in the sixth. Artesia, opening strong, scored four in the initial frame and got four more in the sixth for the winning margin.

In the Big Spring half of the second, Costello led off with a walk, followed by Floyd Martin who also walked. Huck Doe then tripled to right field, scoring both runners. Doe came in when Art DiCesare hit a sacrifice fly to left field.

Barber Holds Slim Lead In St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9 (UP)—Jerry Barber of Los Angeles clung grimly to his St. Paul Open Golf Tournament lead today as Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., moved into the runner-up spot and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., slipped to third at the 54-hole mark.

Barber, running into his first poor golf of the tournament on the second nine with three bogies in four holes, finished the 54 holes with a 188, two shots over the record set here by Henry Ransom of St. Andrew's, Ill., in 1932.

Bolt, eight strokes behind Barber after 10 holes of today's round, picked up five of them on the last eight holes to finish with 201. Palmer stands at 202.

Barber, out in four-under-par 32 today, birdied the 10th hole to go five under and build an eight-stroke lead over Bolt. Then Tommy birdied 11, 12 and 13 and got a par at 14 while Barber was going par, bogie, par and bogie to pick up five shots in four holes.

Palmer slipped on the last four holes with two bogies to finish with a 70 and drop to third place.

Fred Hawkins of St. Andrew's, Ill., put on a great finish on the last nine with a four-under-par 32 for a 69 to tie with Art Wall Jr., of Pocomo Manor, Pa., at 205. Deadlocked at 206 are Wally Ulrich of Rochester, Minn., and George Bigham of Kansas City.

Ulrich shot a 69 today and Bigham a 70.

Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N. Y., the game's leading money winner, shot a 67 and Billy Maxwell of Big Spring fired a 65 to climb into a five-way tie at 205. The others are Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., Jerry Kesseling of Toronto and Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill.

Coahoma Gains Playoff Finals

COAHOMA, July 9 (SC) — Coahoma moved into the finals of the Coahoma Softball League playoffs Saturday night, defeating Cosden 9-0 behind the one-hit pitching of Jim Ward.

The Coahoma team will meet the Webb Dusters in the best three of five playoffs, starting Monday night. Games are set for Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and, if necessary, Friday and Saturday nights.

The Dusters got into the finals by eliminating first Maintenance Thursday night.

In the Saturday night game, the Coahomans scored on run in the first inning when George Ray got on a fielder's choice and Billy Paul Thomas tripled. They scored another in the fifth when Jim Ward followed Rube Baker's triple with a double.

Then, in the sixth, Coahoma padded their lead with seven runs. Grady Barr opened the show with a single. Jack Morrison tried a sacrifice bunt and got on safely when an effort was made to rub Barr out at second. The play failed.

David Hodnett then singled Barr to third. Connie Morrison drove out another single scoring Barr and advancing the other runners. Baker then singled, scoring Jack Morrison; George Ray walked, forcing in Hodnett.

Billy Paul Thomas slammed out another single to score Connie Morrison and Baker. Roy Overturf then hit to score Ray and Thomas.

Ward gave up but one hit, a double in the seventh to Cosden's Paul Soldan. He walked none and struck out four.

Arch Ward Is Death Victim

CHICAGO, July 9 (UP) — Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune and a promotional genius who originated the All-Star baseball and football games, died in his sleep this morning of a heart seizure.

The calm, mild-mannered 56-year-old Ward died in his Lake Shore drive apartment where he lived with his wife, Helen, and their son, Thomas, an employee of the United States Steel Corp.

The veteran sports authority, who had been with the Tribune since 1925 and head of its sports department 25 years, was renowned internationally for his promotions which netted some five million dollars to charities. He was vice president of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which sponsored among others, the All-Star games, Golden Gloves boxing tournaments and international bouts, and Silver Skates ice skating meets.

EDDIE HARRIS Junior Tittist

Eddie Harris Wins City Junior Golf Title With 34 On Back 9

By LADOVCE LAMBERT

Eddie Harris shot a blazing 34 on the back nine of the second 18 holes today to become the medalist in the City Junior Golf Tournament sponsored by the Jaycees.

Harris had a 36-hole total of 154, shooting an 80 on the first 18 and coming back with a 74 on the second 18 holes.

The boys, who were all under 18 years of age, played the first 18 holes at the Mundy Course Saturday morning, and topped it off with a second 18 holes at the Country Club Course Saturday afternoon.

It was a neck and neck race between Harris and Frank Powell. Powell was one stroke ahead of Harris at the end of the first 18, but Harris rounded the second 18 in 74 strokes which was three under Powell's 77. Powell ended up with a 79-77-156.

Harris and Powell, along with Roland McKinzie who had an 83-78-161, and Charles Johnson with an 80-86-165, will represent Big Spring in the state playoffs in Abilene next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

This will be an all-expense-paid trip for the boys and they will have a chance to be one of the four low scorers in the playoffs to go to the Nationals in Columbus, Ga., Aug. 15-20.

The fifth and sixth placers, Lefty Morris, who shot a 90-86-176, and Donald Lovelady, with an 85-82-177, will serve as alternates to the state playoffs in case one of the first four does not get to go.

Bill Gray, Ralph McLaughlin, and Fred Taylor of the Jaycees were in charge of the tournament, and C. A. DeWees, local professional golfer, supervised the play.

At their regular meeting Monday, the Jaycees will present awards to the winners and discuss plans for the trip to Abilene next week. The award presented to the medalist, Eddie Harris, will be a revolving trophy.

Other players in the tournament and their scores include Bunky Grimes, 96-90-186; Bugs Wright, 48-51-99 (first 18 holes); Terry Lewis, 66-62-128 (first 18 holes); and Larry Rodea, 67-73-140 (first 18 holes). Whiskey Reynolds and Avery Falkner withdrew during the second 18 holes of play.

Polio Threat In Sterling Averted

Acts of neighborly kindness may have helped to avert a polio outbreak in Sterling City recently, and if not, it certainly did help place the minds of parents at ease.

It started when little Ronnie Allen, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen of Las Vegas, Nev., died of bulbar polio June 29 after returning from a visit in Sterling City. His family had come to spend a week with the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Foster, and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Reynolds.

Ronnie had attended a Vacation Bible School, gone swimming and participated in parties. Notified of his illness, Mr. and Mrs. Foster started at once for Nevada, but they were intercepted at Big Spring and notified of his death.

The Sterling City News-Record told how John M. Stuckwisch, administrator of the hospital in Sterling City, contacted Dr. J. M. Wood, all in Big Spring. He in turn got in touch with Jewel Barton, health unit nurse, who quickly arranged for gamma globulin from the State Health Department. While they were getting the materials together here, a telephone committee was organized at Sterling City. The Norstadata Club helped make out cards.

By 8:45 that evening Dr. Wood, aided by the staff nurses and Miss Barton, was giving shots to all possible contacts. By midnight the job had been completed with administration of 106 shots. Gamma globulin has been found to be effective for temporary immunity or resistance to polio.

"We owe undying thanks . . . to

Rodeo Bowl Gets Repairs

The Big Spring Rodeo Bowl is undergoing extensive repairs, in preparation for the rodeo which starts Aug. 3. The fences are being straightened and gates are being rebuilt, according to E. P. Driver, secretary of rodeo association.

Carpenters are building 40 more stalls for the contestant to keep their horses in, which will make a total of 80 stalls altogether. Hereafter, Driver said, some of the rodeo performers had to leave their horses tied in trailers or find places around town for them.

The big parade will start at 4 p.m. on the opening day. Driver is seeking floats and bands to take part in the parade, and neighboring towns are especially invited to participate.

Uniformed Postal Workers To Get Clothing Allowance

For the first time in their history, postal employees who are required to wear a uniform while on duty will receive an allowance to help defray their uniform expenses.

City mail carriers, special delivery messengers, guards, elevator operators and other postal employees who must wear uniforms will receive up to $100 a year to help purchase uniform items. Congress provided the funds recently.

E. C. Bostler, local postmaster, estimated that 20 Big Spring postal employees will receive the allowance. Bostler said that the $100 would not completely cover the costs of the uniforms for the first three years.

Since summer uniforms and winter uniforms are required, he said it would take at least three years to obtain a large enough supply to operate on $100.

The law, which went into effect in April provides that for every $25 a postal employee spends on a uniform he will be reimbursed, up to $100 per year. A bill of sale must accompany each request for reimbursement and the money must have been spent on a regulation item.

The law also specifies that an employee must work a minimum of four hours a day to receive the allowance. The money may be applied to shoes, coats, jackets, shirts, sweaters, vests, belts, caps, helmets, ties and rain coats as long as they are of the standard uniform type.

New Line Formed For Atlantic Route

MONTREAL, July 9 (U.S.)—A new company, the Europe-Canada Line, has been formed in Bremen to operate the first postwar passenger ship service between Germany and St. Lawrence River ports. The West German Republic flag will be raised over its liner "Seven Seas" at a ceremony July 16 in Bremerhaven.

FOR WALKING COMFORT — members of the European-bound group were advised to take lowheeled shoes with cushioned soles. They will be needed for walking on the many cobblestone streets in the overseas towns and villages as well as on the sight-seeing journeys. Mrs. Lee Rogers has planned her wardrobe so that she can use these dark and light colored pumps with all her suits and dresses.

BON VOYAGE LUNCHEON HONOREES — one of the nice things about being feminine is that parties and luncheons are given for you when you plan to do something unusual, like taking a jaunt to Europe! Boys are just kinda overlooked in the entertaining, but they'd probably think it was sissy, anyway. Marie McDonald, seated, was hostess recently at a luncheon honoring Janice Nalley, Sallie Cowper and Kenda McGibbon, reading from left to right.

Europe, Here We Come!

This day will probably go down on the calendars of a local group as a red-letter day, since it is the beginning of a trip to Europe.

Leaving this morning for Dallas are Mrs. Lee O. Rogers and Glenn, Janice Nalley, Sallie Cowper, Kenda McGibbon, Wade Simpson, Tom Henry Guin and David Read. On Monday, the group will go from Dallas by plane to New York, from where they will sail for Liverpool, England, on July 14.

The crossing will be made on the Britannic, while the travelers will return on the Elisabeth.

The main purpose of the trip is to attend the World Conference of the YMCA, which will be held in Paris Aug. 12, 13 and 14. About 10,000 are expected to attend this meeting, which will have 77 countries represented.

Mrs. Rogers has been appointed one of the tour leaders for a group of about 32, including the Big Spring delegates. On that basis, she will travel at the expense of the YMCA.

Beginning at London, the tour is scheduled to include parts of England, Denmark, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, France and Germany.

Much planning of travel clothes has been done in order that the group will have the correct attire with the least amount of luggage. Since there will be four occupants to a room, each person has been limited to two pieces of luggage.

For the feminine half of the group, there will be ensembles built around a basic color, with accessories, blouses, scarves and sweaters that are interchangeable. Suits will form the main part of the costumes with one semi-formal frock — also only one can-can petticoat — and that of the kind which can be rolled easily.

Hose will be an important part of the packing as all the young women attending the conference will be required to wear them while in Paris.

Shoes, also, will come in for much attention, not only because there will be quite a bit of walking, but on account of the cobblestones used for streets and walks in the European countries. Heels will be low, and soles will be cushioned with some of the composition materials.

The masculine wardrobe has been assembled around two suits, one black and one brown, with interchangeable sports coats and slacks. Sports and dress shirts will be packed, as will comfortable walking shoes. Mrs. Rogers has definitely ruled out boots and blue jeans as part of the attire.

Smallpox shots are the only ones that are compulsory for re-entrance into the United States, but for safety's sake, diphtheria and typhoid shots have been added. Just as an added precaution, too, a bit of "sickness medicine" has been tucked away in the luggage!

BOTH STUDY AND YAK YAK — have gone into the plans for the trip to Europe as well as for attendance at the World Conference of the YMCA, which will be held in Paris, France, August 12, 13 and 14. Wade Simpson, left, and David Read have just learned from the brochure, which David holds, that officials are expecting about 10,000 to attend the meeting. There will be about 77 countries represented.

WHAT CAN I LEAVE OUT? — wonders Tom Henry Guin, above, as he tries to pack the essentials for a two-months (almost!) trip into two bags. Even at that, the boys don't have quite the problem of packing that the girls do, since dressing, for them, is so much simpler as we all know.

DRESS REHEARSAL — is held by Glenn Rogers, right, as he plans just which slacks and shirts to take for the sports coat which he is trying on. It is a tweed in colors which will go nicely with basic black or brown and will be especially good with gray flannels. (Photos by Keith McMillin.)

Key For TV

This new television set can not be tampered with, Kay Ming, president of Epsilon Alpha Society, explains as she presents the key to Mrs. Shine Phillips, president of United Council of Church Women. Bo Bowen, welfare chairman, and Mrs. Fred Stitzell, vice president, witness the presentation. The Lions Club will furnish the antenna.

ESA Gives TV Set To Play Center

Members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority presented a television set to the Westside Recreation Center Friday afternoon. Mrs. Shine Phillips, president of the United Council of Church Women, accepted the gift, since that group sponsors the Center. Kay Ming is president of the sorority. Various methods of raising the money to buy the set have been used by the group, and they now are planning a style show to be held some time in August. A definite date has not been set. Under the sponsorship of the United Council, improvements have been made at the recreation center, and much redecorating has been done. They are instrumental in having a caretaker in charge all the time.

Books and magazines are furnished, although there is a constant need for both, especially current magazines. Anyone having either to donate is asked to call Mrs. Shine Phillips at 4-8043 or Mrs. G. C. Graves at 4-8043. A movie projector is urgently needed for the center at this time, since films are available from various sources. The council feels that this would add quite a bit of interest to the gatherings held there.

Senators' Helpers Forget Sometimes

Visitors to the Capitol Hill office of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, (D-Mo) were intrigued by a scrap of paper taped over the knob of the door leading from his sanctum. On it was scrawled in red crayon, "oysters."

It seems one of the senator's secretaries had bought a batch of the bivalves from a Chesapeake Bay oyster man who makes the rounds of senators' offices every Friday and was afraid she'd forget to take them home for the weekend. "It's just one of those reminders," she said.

Ice Cream Sandwiches Go Over Big

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Make ice cream sandwiches at home for small fry. They'll love you dearly for this treat! Nutritious cookies made with rolled oats and flavored with chocolate can be prepared ahead, then sandwiched with slices of ice cream just before serving.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM SANDWICHES

Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 3/4 cup shortening (soft), 2 ounces (2 squares) unsweetened chocolate (melted), 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups uncooked rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned), prepared ice cream.

Method: Sift together the flour, salt and sugar. Add shortening, melted chocolate, egg and vanilla; mix together until smooth. (Dough will be quite stiff.) Mix in rolled oats. Roll out between two sheets of waxed paper to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into rectangles 2 1/2 by 3 inches.

For a decorative edge, use a pastry wheel for cutting. Place on greased cookie sheets 1 inch apart. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 8 to 10 minutes. Cool a few seconds before removing from cookie sheets; remove to racks with spatula and cool thoroughly. To make ice cream sandwiches, place a slice of ice cream between each two cookies and serve at once. Amount of ice cream needed will depend on how many sandwiches are to be served. Store remaining cookies in tightly covered container to be served plain. Recipe makes 3 dozen cookies.

Hubby Overrates TV

Mrs. Zuleta-Angel, wife of the Colombian ambassador, says she would rather listen to her husband talk than look at TV.

"He's amusing, gay, and has a wonderful voice," she told friends. "Anyway, with three grown daughters in the house, it's always a struggle; everybody wants a different program on TV. When we have time, we go to the movies."

Childproof Playroom

A rubber tile floor for the playroom can tone down the clatter of children's play. The flooring can be installed easily even by a do-it-yourself handyman. It is easy to remove spilled paint, glue and ink from the rubber.

HI--TALK

By MARY SUE HALE

Electric excitement filled the Cowper home Tuesday night as the seven Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y delegates with their parents and their sponsor, Mrs. Lee Rogers, discussed their approaching trip to the YMCA Centennial in Paris, France, this month. The group left Big Spring by car and will meet in Dallas where they plan to stop over until tomorrow morning. Then they will continue their journey to New York City by plane, stopping briefly in Washington, D. C. They will sail the 15th from New York on the liner, Britannia. The group has plans of visiting well-known cities and scenic spots in England, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, Germany, and France, before attending the Paris Centennial. Ten thousand delegates from 77 different countries are expected to attend this conference, with the theme being "Living Together." Attending persons will be provided lodging; the local group has been assigned to a dormitory in the University of Paris. Here's wishing a pleasant journey to Sally Cowper, Glenn Rogers, David Read, Kenda McGibbon, Janice Nalley, Tom Henry Guln, Wade Simpson, and Mrs. Rogers, and may they have a safe trip home early in September.

Mariene Mann and Margaret Fryar left last night bound for Monterrey, Mexico, where they will attend the Spanish workshop.

This school is a new idea for high school students interested in learning Spanish as a second language and will be held July 11-25. Also, the opportunity for some 40 United States students to study Spanish in a Spanish atmosphere, is provided. Some of the history, cultural achievements, folklore, and economic and industrial progress of Mexico is there for the learning, so don't be surprised if these two girls are unable to converse in English upon their return to the U.S. and Big Spring.

John Robinson, James Underwood, Judy Bishop, Ross Roberts; Susan Landers, George Peacock; Sue Boykin, Terry Graves; Luan White and Gerald Lackey were a few of the couples who attended the Country Club Friday night. These dances, which begin at 8:30 p.m. and end at 11:30 p.m. are sponsored by the Country Club for its teenage members, each being allowed to bring a date and one guest couple.

Anne Rowe was selected "Miss Big Spring of 1953," and Judy Douglass was chosen "Miss Howard County of 1953." In the annual beauty pageant staged at the amphitheater Monday night. These choices ended the search for a pair of cover girls by make-believe magazine editors. Don Anderson, John Lawrence, and John S. Davis. Robert Angel played the part of Francois, the French painter, who was seeking an inspiration for the "Great American Painting." Toni Barron was runner-up in the Miss Big Spring contest, while Anna Mae Thorp placed third. Second place winner of the Miss Howard County contest was Sue Garrett and third went to Beverly Meador.

An invitation to all young people in Big Spring was extended by the Baptist Temple Church to the city-wide Youth Revival which was held July 3-10. The Rev. Darrel Robinson conducted the revival.

Jane Watson, a schoolmate of ours who moved to Austin last summer, was a house guest of Sandra Webb this week. Jane arrived last Friday and returned home a week later.

Anne Mary Gray, a student at NTSTC at Denton, is back home visiting her family and friends. Anne will be a sophomore upon her return to Denton in the fall.

Joyce Horne and Maxine Rosson are vacationing in New Mexico with Joyce's parents, part of their time being spent at their cabin there.

Patsy Potter has spent a few days of the week visiting in Floydada with friends and relatives.

The job of corresponding with YMCA directors in this entire area has been done by Bennie Compton, regional Hi-Y vice president. He has notified secretaries in the towns of Midland, Odessa, Lubbock, San Antonio, Plainview, and Abilene of the event of San Antonio

"Y" camp, located near Kerrville, and to be held August 21-26. Just a reminder to you who are planning to go: if you haven't as yet deposited your registration blank and $2.50, please drop by the "Y" and do so at your earliest convenience, this week at the latest, because the report must be mailed soon. George Oldham and another sponsor, as yet unnamed, will attend the camp as Adult Sponsors from Big Spring.

Cecelia McDonald's dance, held Tuesday night, at her home in honor of the Paris bound bunch, had ample decorations to prove its theme. Darlene Agee, Ray Dabney; Gary Tidwell, Gwen McCullough; Sue Boykin, Jerry Graves; Kenda McGibbon, Wade Simpson; V. A. Jean LaCroix, Wesley Grigsby; Nancy King, Bobby McCarty; Londa Coker and Bobby Fuller, helped make up the approximately 45 couples who attended.

Another bon voyage party for Kenda McGibbon, Sally Cowper and Janice Nalley was given by Marie Hall at her home at 704 Texas, Friday afternoon. About 15 attended to say good-byes to the girls going to France.

Darrel Saunders has returned from a four-weeks summer band school at Texas Tech. Besides being an outstanding music student, Darrel proved his superior ping-pong ability by winning second place in an extra-curricular ping-pong tournament while attending the school.

For 30 minutes well worth your while, tune in KBST some Sunday evening at 10:30 to hear Robert Morehead's program of inspirational stories and poems.

Las Artistas Workshop will not meet this summer until they have a quarterly meeting in the latter part of August when a nominating committee will be appointed.

Newcomer Mrs. Thelma Lewis hangs up her merchandise as she gets ready to open her dress shop Tuesday at the corner of Johnson and Eleventh Place.

Newcomer Will Bring Another Shop To City

Even though Mrs. Thelma Lewis has lived in Amarillo for about ten years, she feels as if she were coming home in making a move to Big Spring. That's because she has been a frequent visitor here in the home of her "baby," who is Mrs. Steve Baker.

Giving up a dress shop in her former home town, she is working hard now to get a shop ready at the corner of Johnson and Eleventh Place. She plans a formal opening on Tuesday.

The shop, which occupies part of the building recently vacated by

Mrs. Womack Gives Informal Parties

Mrs. Odell Womack, 1602 Tucson, was hostess Friday morning at a coffee for the Friendship Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church.

A brown linen cloth was used with pink napkins and an arrangement of mixed flowers decorated the table. Silver and crystal appointments completed the table service. Mrs. W. F. Taylor gave the devotion for the group and she presided at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Womack was also hostess recently at an informal party honoring Mrs. Good Graves of Plainview. She is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Laswell and of her sister, Mrs. Tommy Gage, and Mr. Gage. Pink, brown and mahogany were the colors used in the decorations for this party, which about 22 attended.

The service table was laid with a white Irish linen cutwork cloth and centered with a crystal punch bowl. Refreshments of white cake with pink and white icing and punch were served by Mrs. Gerald Willborn and Mrs. Gene Haston. Mrs. Larry Shaw conducted games.

The honoree was presented with a white and blue basinet loaded with gifts. Hostesses included Mrs. Haston, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Gaskins, Mrs. Roman, Mrs. Fred Roman, Mrs. E. L. Roman, Mrs. Morris Barnes, Mrs. George Chapman and Mrs. Willborn.

Learning Step By Step

Mrs. G. F. Gideon, sewing instructor at the Singer Sewing Center, pins Jeannette Johnson's dress to fit as Raheadine Smith, left, and her sister Wyetta Smith, right, watch.

Young Seamstresses Will Enter Contest

Twelve Big Spring girls are busy working on their dresses during their class periods at the Singer Sewing Shop in order to enter the junior dressmaking contest. Sept. 3 the girls will model their completed costumes in the shop and three judges will select first and second places from both the junior and senior groups. First prizes will be a scissors set, and a fitted sewing basket will go to the second place winner. These two finalists in both groups will have an opportunity to compete in the regional show. The four top national winners and their mothers will receive a three-day trip to New York City.

Presently enrolled in the Singer sewing course taught by Mrs. G. F. Gideon, include in the senior group, ages 14-17, Carol Lewis and June McElrath. The juniors, ages 10-13, are Kay LaFon, Sherry Gentry, Beverly Martin, Julia Ann and Mary Flynn, Mary Olinphant, Lana Wren, Jeannette Johnson, Rheadine and Wyetta Smith.

The girls said they enrolled in the sewing class to learn to sew quickly and have something to occupy their time during the summer vacation. Also each is interested in trying to win the contest prizes.

In eight lessons, each two and one-half hours long, the young seamstresses learn to select patterns, take their measurements to correspond with pattern measurements, to alter patterns, to cut out the material, to mark the darts and details with a tracing wheel, to baste by hand and then to do the machine stitching and hand work to complete the garment.

Each girl has had some sewing experience, so they are learning to make their dresses quickly.

Do you know anyone who has some old dolls? Not the Damon Runyan type but the kind that has a kid body and a painted china head or something like that. Anne LeFever and Joyce Connaway feel that dolls have a lot of appeal and fascination not only for the younger set, but for their grandmothers who were once members of a very young set. They would like to do some feature stories on them along with some pictures. If you have some or know of anyone who has some, let them know at The Herald office. Texas Made Fashions Slated For State Fair

The best of "Made in Texas" fashions will be modeled in 37 free style shows during the 1955 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 7 through 23. The third annual Texas Fashion Round-up of prize-winning entries of Texas apparel manufacturers will be presented in the Women's Building with shows at 2 and 4 p.m. daily. A 7 p.m. showing will be added Saturdays and Sundays. There will be approximately 136 categories of entries in Adult Wear, Children's Wear and Accessories, Men's Wear, as well as women's apparel will be included. Deadline for entries is Aug. 15. Nationally known fashion experts, representing the national fashion scene, the consumer and the retail merchant, will judge the entries Aug. 19. Fairgoers will be provided with information on stores in their home towns which will handle the fashions displayed at the fair. Winning fashions will be available at retail stores throughout the Southwest at the same time they are featured at the State Fair. In the stores, the Fair fashions will be identified with a blue ribbon tag. An Honoree-of-the-Day will be presented in connection with the special events program at the fashion shows each day. More than 300 fashion-producing firms in Texas will be invited to submit entries in the competition. Every type of apparel made in Texas from dude ranch attire to high-fashion ball gowns, is expected to be entered. Thirty-two prominent fashion-minded women from all over Texas will be invited to serve as patronesses for the Round-up, including Mrs. Allan Shivers, wife of the Texas governor. Dallas Fashion Arts, Inc., a non-profit organization devoted to the promotion of Texas fashions, is sponsoring the shows in cooperation with the Women's Department of the fair.

Too Much Catsup

WASHINGTON — G. Cullen Thomas, of Minneapolis, Minn., who is chairman of a committee selected to study the work of the Food and Drug Administration, dislikes catsup. Thomas, now vice president of General Mills, Inc., was once a member of Dr. Harve W. Wiley's famous "poison squad" and also served as a guinea pig for the "father of the pure food law" on some of his inspections. One of his assignments was to consume daily two ounces of catsup to which benzoate of soda was added. After some weeks, his task was shifted. He consumed two ounces per day of catsup without benzoate of soda. To this day he doesn't care for catsup.

MRS. DON BRINEGAR (Photo by Barr)

Miss Houser Becomes Bride Of Lt. Brinegar

White candles in fern-entwined candelabra formed the setting for the exchange of wedding vows between Susan Houser and Lt. Don Brinegar Saturday evening at the First Methodist Church.

With the couple kneeling on a prayer bench, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church officiated for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, 101 Cedar Rd. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brinegar of Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Edward Holley, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Wanda Lou Petty as she sang "How Do I Love Thee?" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, Eddie Houser of Eden, the bride was attired in a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle net over satin. The bodice of lace was fashioned with a V neckline and sleeves coming to a point over the hands. The full skirt of lace and net combination swept into a train.

The bridal veil was attached to a Juliet cap of lace, pearl-encrusted, while the bouquet was a white stephanotis. The bride carried a Bible, with a cover of olive wood, carved in Jerusalem. This was something old; for something new, she chose her wedding gown. A handmade lace handkerchief was borrowed from Mrs. Tom Harris and a garter was blue.

The feminine attendants were dressed in identical dresses of blue or yellow crystalettes, waist-length, and each carried a bouquet of shasta daisies in contrast to her dress.

Mrs. Bobby Wheeler of Stanton, as matron of honor, wore a yellow frock and carried blue daisies. Maid of honor Ann Crocker was dressed in blue and carried yellow daisies. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Eddie Houser of Eden, and Karen Gentry of Abilene. Junior bridesmaids were Susan Zack and Karen Koger.

Deborah Duncan was flower girl, and Blake Tollett acted as ring-bearer. Candelighters were Kay McGibbons of Big Spring and Bill Keller of Houston.

Haywood Brinegar of Marysville, Tenn., served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Fred Way of Amarillo, Lt. Roger Daniels of Del Rio, and Lt. Jack Durham of Sterling City. Guests were seated by Ben Bob Keller of Houston and Jim Farmer of Big Spring.

A reception, following the wedding ceremony, was held in the home of the bride's mother, with Mrs. Houser, the bridesmaids, and the brother of the bridegroom assisting the bridal couple in receiving guests.

Additional members of the house party included Mrs. S. H. Gibson, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. E. R. Keller, Mrs. K. H. McGibbons, Mrs. J. R. Farmer, Mrs. Jim Zack, Mrs. J. W. Maddrey and Mrs. R. L. Beale.

The bride's table was decorated with white agapanthus and white carnations in combination with silver fern and glittered tulle. A six-layer cake was trimmed with hearts, double rings, wedding bells and a bit of veiling with a tiny sack of rice.

Serving was done by Miss Petty and Sue Craig. Mrs. Dalton Olson registered guests. Piano music during the reception was played by Barbara Lewter, Barbara Coffee, Kendra McGibbons, Kay Jamison, Prissy Pond and Lila Turner.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Brinegar wore a black linen suit with a wide collar. Her hat was of black straw, and her pumps and bag were turquoise. White gloves and a single strand of pearls completed her costume.

The bride was graduated from North Texas State College, where she was a voice major, and has had the lead in several of the musical presentations of the college. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, a social sorority, and Alpha Chi, a national honorary group.

The bridegroom was graduated from Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., where he was president of Sigma Mu Fraternity. He is listed in Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities and is a letterman in football and crew. He was vice president of the Varsity Club and treasurer of the student body. Lt. Brinegar served with the 58th Fighter Bomber Group in Korea and is now an instructor in jet fighters at Laughlin Air Force Base in Del Rio.

After September, the couple will live in Miami, Fla.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Olive Birdsong of Edwards, Miss. Mrs. Elizabeth Gromatsky of Eden and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hughes and Genell of Brownwood.

For the rehearsal dinner given Friday evening, guests were seated at quartette tables around the swimming pool at the K. H. McGibbons home. Mr. and Mrs. McGibbons and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cowper were hosts for the party.

Dinner was served buffet from a table decorated with a basket of mixed flowers and holding a small bride and groom. A wedding bell was suspended over the figurines from the handle of the basket. Candles and flowers in the honoree's chosen colors of blue and yellow were used on the small tables.

Guests, other than those in the bridal party, included Bobby Wheeler of Stanton, Ed Holley, Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, Jim Zack, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Koger, B. H. Keller of Houston, Mrs. Roger Daniels of Del Rio, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tollett, J. R. Farmer, R. L. Beale, Mrs. Dorothy Ragan and Mrs. Elia Farmer.

Gathers And Cumberbund Make 'Young Perfection'

It's feminine — it's flattering — it's by Fogarty! In every design she creates, Anne Fogarty demands and achieves fashion excitement. "Young Perfection" best describes the sure and lovely lines of today's dress. Gathered above and below the bust for the new, high-rounded look, the lined front bodice buttons up to a low neckline scoop. The cumberbund is tacked in soft folds over the fitted midriff. Four tapered gores are gathered into a diminutive waist to form the full, full skirt with side seam pockets. Long, zippered back-opening. Made with or without the tiny sleeves, your choice of fabrics for this delightful summer charmer is unlimited — chambray, novelty cottons, shantung, striped or plaid silks, gingham, to name a few. And made in taffeta, peau de soie, or surah prints, who's to say it won't be your favorite party dress all winter.

This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard Pattern Measurements.

City Does Little To Stop Tourists

By GLENN COOTES

Big Spring may be situated on two of the most traveled highways in the Southwest, but apparently very little is done to encourage the travelers to stop here.

location, Greene said. A map of the city is available to tourists and sometimes distributed through service stations and motels.

To mention a few of the local "sights," there is the City Park, the State Park, the "big spring," and Webb AFB. Then, there is the Historical Museum at City Park and the beautiful view from scenic Mountain in the State Park.

Various other cities have built some sort of local "phenomena" to attract the tourist. In Lubbock, there is a "prairie dog town" situ-

East First Could Aptly Be Called 'Oil Avenue'

By CLIFTON LAWHORNE

East First Street, one of the city's busiest thoroughfares, could properly be called Big Spring's Oil Avenue.

In a distance of six blocks, the "avenue" has no less than eight petroleum distribution centers. And large oil trucks have a three-to-one edge on other vehicles traveling the artery.

Bulk stations operated on East First are for Standard Oil, Phillips 66, Cities Service, Shell Oil, Magnolia Petroleum, The Texas Company, Gulf and Continental.

These eight outlets employ approximately 35 people and they distribute products to well over 100 service stations here.

It is from the eight firms that gasoline, oil, butane, automobile accessories and related products are furnished to all of Howard County and parts of Glasscock, Martin, Scurry and Mitchell counties.

All eight of the bulk stations have oil field and farm accounts too, and several regular supply routes to rural areas are made weekly.

Located on the extreme east end of the street, at III E. 1st, is the Standard Oil Company of Texas office, which is headed up by Hack Wright.

Traveling westward the next establishment is Phillips 66's outlet, the K. H. McGibbon Oil Company, at 601 E. 1st. Then comes the Cities Service warehouse, run by T. H. McCann Jr., at 501 E. 1st.

Shell Oil Company's distribution center, Westex Oil, comes at the intersection of First and Gollad. Westex Oil is parent organization to three other distribution companies in West Texas and New Mexico, and the local office is fairly large.

U. S. Army Turns Human To Ease German Friction

GIESEEN, Germany (U)—A middle-aged German couple was strolling through a park when an American GI accosted the woman. The husband was severely beaten trying to defend his wife.

A German mayor was invited to an open house at a U. S. Army post. He couldn't speak English, and no one met him at the gate. The guard chased him away at gunpoint.

The first incident was individual waywardness, the second Army bungling.

The civil affairs office of the local U. S. Army detachment took over.

There are many such offices in the American Zone. Giessen's is among the best.

Maj. Isaac Pickhardt, civil affairs officer, finds that violent misbehavior is increasingly rare. Goodwill and friendship are spreading.

A German-American advisory council of German officials and U. S. troop commanders deals with complaints such as these:

From the Germans: "The soldiers are wrecking the furniture in the railroad station waiting room. What can you do about it?"

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Among other letters about parakeets is one from Mrs. Leah D. Bowen, who writes:

"My parakeet is named Blue Boy, and is fond of jingles. He will say, 'Little Bo Peep has lost her sheep' and 'Roll a ball, a ball, a penny a pitch.' He and I will carry on a conversation like this: 'Hello Blue Boy,' and he replies, 'You're sweet, yes you are!' and I reply, 'I know it.' I taught him to say, 'I love you a bushel and a peck.' Now, after I say the first three words, he breaks in with 'a bushel and a peck.'"

"My grandson from Chicago visited us and bought a turtle for a pet. He asked me to teach Blue Boy to say Samuel, the turtle's name. Soon the bird was saying 'Samuel' very clearly.

Another parakeet, with the name of Treasure, is described by Mrs. Ormond Walsh, who writes: "Our beautiful dark blue parakeet says 214 sentences. He says: 'Treasure is a sweet little bad boy, also 'Can't you go to sleep?' and 'What is the matter with little baby?'"

"The other morning he said, 'Good morning, precious baby. Do you want a bath? Do you want to go to school?'"

"He whistles parts of tunes, and calls 'Bob White,' likewise 'Whip-poor-will.' He likes to trun his toy Ferris wheel.

"Treasure says so much that I have nine full pages of his words and sentences. I write down everything I hear him say."

Miss Sue Ragan relates that her beautiful green parakeet, Joey, seldom talks in front of visitors, but he opens his mind, or at least his tongue, to her. He says various things, including these:

"This is a crazy world—people fly and birds talk."
"Sue is a sweet girl."
"Where are you going?"
"I'll get you!"

Weather Service Restoration Served

NEW ORLEANS (U)—A proposed $145,000 allocation to restore weather ship operations to the Gulf of Mexico won the approval yesterday of Gordon Cartwright, chief of station facilities for the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Cartwright said he would recommend the project to the U.S. Weather Bureau and Dept. of Commerce officials on his return to Washington.

The station would be located 350 miles south of Vermillion Bay off the Texas and Louisiana borders, using ships furnished by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission and the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical Research Foundation.

Mental Health Unit Does Good Job

During the past week, women from Odessa were busy at the Big Spring State Hospital helping to hang drapes that had been observed and appreciated in the the State Mental Health Development Association. This was but another of many examples of good neighborliness on the part of this organization toward the patients of the Big Spring State Hospital.

tion of its efforts has produced striking results. Dr. Roy C. Sloan, superintendent, has said time and again that there is no way of calculating the immense value to patient morale which has come from the efforts of the association.

'Disarmament' From A Practical Standpoint

There is a growing impression that the Soviet Union would like to talk seriously about armaments. Mr. Molotov has been saying so in private conversations, and in the Soviet proposals published on May 11 there are some striking passages which show that the Kremlin has been taking a new look at the modern technology of war.

This does not mean that they are likely to accept the proposals which we have been making during the past ten years. There is no more chance of that than there is of our accepting their proposals. If anything at all is to come of the new discussions, if they are to be lifted above what Mr. Selwyn Lloyd once called "the morass of disagreements," it will be necessary to rethink and to redefine the problem of armaments.

It seems to me, if I may be so bold, that in these ten years' our proposals have been based on a fundamental misconception. What have we meant by the word "disarmament," and what have we been trying to do about it? In a United States memorandum of 1952 we laid it down that "the goal of disarmament is . . . to prevent war . . . by making war inherently . . . impossible."

The goal — to make war "inherently impossible" — is itself inherently impossible. For the proof we have only to look at how elaborate and Utopian are the schemes put forward to attain the goal. As the powers are to agree to make themselves inherently incapable of waging war, they are to agree, as a Western memorandum of a year ago said, on "all types of weapons, all types of armaments, and military facilities of all kinds."

They are to agree even on the number of "military rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols"; for wars can be waged, wars have been waged, with rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols.

To supervise and control these infinitely complicated agreements we have been proposing that all the powers agree to construct a little tin god, to be known as the Authority with a capital A: "The Authority would be empowered to supervise and control progressive and continuous disclosure and verification of all armed forces, including para-military, security and police forces, and all armaments including atomic armaments."

The fallacy of the conception we have been working with is, I believe, to suppose that there is such a thing as absolute disarmament — such a thing as making war inherently impossible. The alternative conception is to recognize that each nation's armaments are relative to the armaments of its rival and adversary — no matter whether the military forces are at a high level or at a low level.

The true goal is not to deprive nations of the capacity to wage war. Men can fight with clubs. The true goal is to make victory in war, to make profitable war, improbable, and so to inhibit the will to start the war. Wars can always be waged. There will long be men who are willing to wage wars. What will inhibit them is not that everyone is less well armed but that they have no plausible hope of winning a war.

This is a feasible goal, which is attainable now and then — whenever military rivals find they are in a balance of power which makes it most unlikely that they could win a war. As a matter of fact, the East and West are now in such a balance of power. The existence of this balance of power is the reason why they are beginning to negotiate, and the preservation of this balance of power can be — and ought to be — the guiding principle of these negotiations.

When we talk about armaments, the leading question should not be the size of the armaments. It should be their deployment. In view of the destructiveness of the modern weapons, the great question is what measures can be agreed to which will prevent the kind of massive surprise attack which could be decisive in the first assault. For with both sides possessing nuclear weapons, a profitable victory is conceivable only with a knockout by surprise. What the modern world needs is not so much inspection to see that armaments stay reduced but a very early warning system — much earlier than the one which we are building in Canada — against the mobilization for surprise.

The same consideration applies to the conventional forces on the European continent. If they were reduced to the level where a surprise attack could not be launched without the mobilization of reserves from the Soviet Union itself, European security would be much greater. And it would not matter so much how many divisions the Soviet Union had at home.

GM's Stock Split Affirms Faith In The Future

The Irish have their sweepstakes and we, Americans, have General Motors.

The dream of every man for sudden riches, for overnight largesse, was dramatized in a fine capitalist way when directors of General Motors Corp. voted to split the company's stock three-for-one.

The next day, G. M. shares climbed 14 points — more than a billion dollars for the total issue. In banks, brokerage offices, and in rare instances, on the street, men and women asked one another: "Have any?" Smiles of congratulation when the reply was, "Yes, I had a few shares."

G. M. has proved to be a winning ticket in Wall Street. One thousand dollars invested in G. M. stock in 1928, when the company was organized, would be worth $600,000 today. Add to that about $300,000 for dividends paid. Or, more recently, a thousand dollars invested in 1929 would be worth more than $15,000 today. That's American capitalism for you — at its grandest.

And the decision to split is audaciously capitalistic. It's an affirmation of faith in the future. It's in keeping with G. M.'s recent promise to the nation to spend another half billion in new plant and equipment. It's a pledge to some 500,000 shareholders of a higher dividend.

This isn't a hunch. G. M. officers and directors are serious, sensible and successful men. Their record proves that. They're not playing with numbers just to have three times as many shares outstanding as any other company. G. M.'s already tops with nearly $3,000,000 shares. No, we have to assume the directors have a purpose and a plan.

When the company split its stock two-for-one five years ago, it said: "An increase in the number of shareholders is considered an advantage to the corporation." G. M. shareholders will be partial to G. M. products. And half a million stockholders with a strong sense of partiality is something Ford doesn't have. But Ford's going after stockholders. The Ford Foundation has indicated that it will sell some of its Ford stock. By splitting its stock, by reducing the price, G. M. makes its shares more competitive price-wise with Ford stock. The advance hope is Ford stock will come out around $50 or $60 a share. And the front-page news of G. M.'s split might make a prospective purchaser of Ford stock say to himself: "Ford stock is unseasoned. But G. M. — well, look what it has done." In capitalistic America, competition is total — on car dealers' floors and investment dealers' shelves.

The new G. M. stock, if recent prices hold, will sell around 40. The $5 annual dividend rate on the old shares is equivalent to $1.67 on the new stock. That's an odd, awkward figure. A reasonable presumption is that directors will bump that to $2, or 50 cents quarterly. That's a return of about 5 per cent.

A $2 dividend would be well within the company's capacity to pay. It would require about $560,000,000 per year on the 279,000,000 shares to be outstanding. In the first quarter, the company earned more than $300,000,000, better than 50 per cent more than in 1954, and for all of 1954 earnings were just under $800,000,000 on the common.

The G. M. decision is part of the expansionary mood it helps to create. Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks declared that the rest of 1955 will be almost as good as the first half, that this will be the best year on record. United States Steel Corp., and the other steel companies had no hesitation in boosting steel prices an average of $7.35 a ton to more than recompense themselves for the July 15-cent-per-hour wage increase to David J. McDonald's United Steelworkers.

This steel settlement followed the juicier Ford and G. M. 20-cent-per-hour agreement with the United Auto Workers. Assumption: Buyers will take the price boost. Demand's plentiful. So's purchasing power. The optimism leaps at you. Look at business loans (see chart). They're at an all-time high. Business men are rebuilding inventories — in contrast to their pulling-in policy of last year. They wanted to beat the steel price rise. And now they want to beat other price advances which recent wage settlements are likely to generate.

Yet, not all of Washington or Wall Street is as gay as the Secretary of Commerce and the bully stock market. The June National City Bank letter warned: "The recovery has reached a point from which it might take an unseasoned and, eventually, harmful turn. In one sense the news is too good. . . . The elements making for caution may have been weakened while inflationary expectations have been promoted."

Only three weeks ago, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, counseled that it's important to "prevent confidence that generates prosperity from passing into overconfidence that generates speculative booms."

That's why the Federal Reserve Board has been retreating in credit. Zaver checked into the record and sure enough, found he had neglected to pay a personal property tax of $3.24 for the last half of 1951. With penalty, the amount due was $4.38. Zaver paid up.

Around The Rim A Determined Ultimatum-For The Birds

This is for the birds. I mean straight to the birds. Those sparrows, mocking birds, scissor-tails, linnets and assorted other winged species who seem to have established domicile in our yard.

Listen, birds, I do not mind having you around; in fact I like to watch you once in awhile, and have even put out one of those fancy pedestal baths for you. You are welcome to drink and bathe, and zip around the trees and on the nearby phone lines.

But the time has come for us to draw a line. To issue fair warning, as it were. What I'm trying to tell you is, stay away from my tomatoes.

Goodness knows, I've had enough trouble with tomatoes already. Last year, lots of vine, no fruit. This year, much babying of plants to protect them from such ravages of Nature as freeze, flood, wind and sandstorm. Much labor in pinching off the suckers, of staking up the vines, of spraying, fertilizing and watering, poking, examining, etc., etc.

There's a slim chance that a tomato or two will come on to fruition, before very long. And after I have gotten this far with a couple of little ole weedy tomato plants, I'll be darned if I will stand by idly and watch the tomatoes go for bird food.

So I'm telling you. Keep off. There are a few things I could do, if I have to. But I did not want this cold war to flare into sudden, hot conflict. So if you will just stay away, we can maintain a sort of armed truce.

Otherwise, I could take action. A scarecrow, for instance. This has been given due deliberation and has its disadvantages.

No clothes in the house, for instance. If I have to attire a scarecrow in fitting fashion, it means taking the clothes off my very back, and thus I would have to spend the summer at home.

I could establish some of those weird whistle noises, like using scraps of tin and open-mouth bottles. Only point to this is that the neighbors would object, both to the din and clutter and the weird decorative effect. And you might even be attracted to the music.

I could throw up a protection screen over the entire bed. People have tried this, and some say it works. The trouble is that if the covering is made bird-light, then there is no way to get in to pick the tomatoes, unless a tunnel arrangement is undertaken. I am loath to start construction of a tunnel in the back yard.

Or, I could sit on the fence near the tomato vines, BB gun in hand, and sit there and knock off each of you birds as you come in for sustenance. This would be the last resort, you understand, and is pretty drastic. It would mean we would have birds for supper instead of tomatoes, and I prefer tomatoes.

But I would undertake any — or all — of these defensive tactics if it becomes absolutely essential. It could mean, as I say, open war. I probably would lose my tomatoes in the conflict, but some birds are going to get hurt, too. Nobody wins in a war.

So let's be neighborly, youse birds. Go follow a street cleaner, or go after mulberries, or bugs, or something. Stay away from my tomatoes. This is an ultimatum, and it takes no meeting at the summit to change things. You have had your warning.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Clements Due To Follow Johnson's Policies

(The Washington observations of Thomas L. Stokes are being printed here while Marquis Childs is on vacation).

By THOMAS L. STOKES
WASHINGTON — Stocky, a miable, politically-wise Senator Earle C. Clements of Kentucky now steps full into the limelight.

It has become his job as acting Democratic Senate leader to direct his party in management of the Senate for the rest of this session of Congress. Upon him will fall responsibility for completing, as far as possible, the program left unfinished when Senator Lyndon B. Johnson was stricken over the July 4th week end and had to relinquish his post as majority leader.

In addition, the Kentuckian will inherit the challenge flung a few days ago to Senator Johnson by President Eisenhower who listed a number of unfinished measures which he insists the Democratic Congress pass before its recess, now expected in early August. That is not, of course, altogether in the hands of the Senate; in fact, it is more a problem for the House which has not yet acted on a number of important bills already passed by the Senate.

Devoted to Senator Johnson, with whom he has worked closely in his post as assistant leader, Sen. Clements is akin to the Texan in some respects that are significant politically, and we may not expect any decided change from the course pursued by the party under Senator Johnson.

Senator Clements has similar talents as a skillful legislative manager and political negotiator. Like Senator Johnson, the Kentuckian is adept at bringing diverse-minded colleagues into compromise. Also like the Texan, he would prefer always to settle differences, both within the party and in the Senate, by compromises off the floor, worked out in the cloakroom or in the privacy of Senatorial offices, rather than risk open conflict in debate on the Senate floor. Senator Clements is patient, soft-spoken, and always a good listener. He gets along with all elements of the party, from "conservative" Senators of the South to "liberal" members of the North, East and West.

He lacks Lyndon Johnson's intense drive which kept the Texan forever at his job, day and night, and was responsible for the splendid legislative record of the Senate so far this session — and, undoubtedly, for his cracking under the fast pace he set for himself.

Senator Clements is a man of more repose, though with a force and persistence on major aims, that he displayed more openly when he was governor of Kentucky than in his six years in the Senate. At 59, he is a dozen years older than Senator Johnson.

Here, he has kept mostly in the back ground. That has been so even since he has been assistant leader. Senator Clements has been very helpful in his own quiet way, doing his business in conferences on the Senate floor or in the cloak room.

He is what might be called "a Senator's Senator." That's the sort of confidence he enjoys among his colleagues. In his they recognize a master craftsman in the art of politics. He knows it from the group up, for it has been his career. He began in his own Union County in western Kentucky which he served as county clerk, sheriff and judge; later he went to the State Senate where he was majority leader; then to the House of Representatives here for two terms before he became governor of Kentucky in 1947. He was elected to the Senate in 1950.

Which means that he is up for reelection next year. That brings up a distraction of a political nature that keeps his eye peeled toward Kentucky and his ear cocked in the same direction, while attending to his leadership duties here.

Senator Clements may be expected to follow Lyndon Johnson's policy of co-operating, so far as compatible with Democratic party philosophy, with President Eisenhower. While he has not hesitated to criticize the President and his Administration on specific matters he shares with Senator Johnson the belief that the President is still very popular with our people.

With Faith, You Find The Best In Everything

On the Queen Elizabeth, returning from a European trip, I had a deck chair on the top deck. The first morning of the voyage, I stepped out on deck into the most glorious day I ever expect to see this side of heaven. The sea sparkled like myriads of diamonds; a cool, salty wind was blowing off the ocean; and the ship itself moved like a silent, gleaming thing of white across the blue water. It was simply wonderful.

There was a woman standing on the deck whom I did not know. But I was so inspired by the beauty of the morning that I didn't let that make any difference to me. Enthusiastically I exclaimed, "Isn't this a marvelous day?" "It's all right so far," she replied glumly, "but the weather report says there's a big storm ahead."

"Well," I answered, "let's take the day we have while we have it and deal with that storm when it comes."

Next day I met her again. "I've been reading some of your writings," she said. "And I'm glad we've met again because I want to talk to you. My life is filled with many difficulties." Then she went on to tell me in considerable detail how badly she felt and how she was a victim of "all kinds" of fears and unhappiness.

"You need to recollect your mind and revamp your thoughts," I advised her. "To begin with, don't anticipate storms, as you did yesterday. On that glorious day you were thinking only of difficulties ahead, but the storm didn't come. So it was storming only in your thoughts. Practice seeing the beautiful things of life while you have them."

"You wait and see about that storm," she warned me.

"All right," I agreed. "But remember that even storms have beauty and power, and human beings are meant to grow strong with storms. You will have a creative time experiencing that storm if you think about it from that positive point of view.

"And why not take those old unhappy thoughts out of your mind and drop them into the ocean?" We crossed to the railing together. "Now," I told her, "drop them from your mind into the water and watch them sink and disappear of their own weight."

She got into the spirit of this imaginative thought-changing technique. Of course, you cannot actually toss thoughts overboard, but by firm thought control, of which that act is a symbol, you can change your mental attitude to one of peace and joy.

"Now," I went on, "fill your mind with big thoughts, with thoughts of goodness and beauty. Fill it full of God thoughts. And always keep looking for the best!"

A few days later, we entered New York harbor on the tail of a whistling hurricane. It was blowing, rolling and raining; there were huge clouds of fog. I saw this woman standing on deck. As I approached, she grinned at me and said, "Isn't this the most beautiful storm you ever saw?"

The problem of this woman and people like her is that they allow apprehensive thoughts to control their minds. They are, "just sure everything is going to go wrong," and actually by such negativism they do their best to make things go badly. However, the woman on the boat was learning, by the time she got to New York, to look for the best and find it in what previously would have seemed the worst.

She was mastering the art of finding the good. And it is amazing how that attitude improves and even remakes one's life. With the help of God, through a strong faith, you can find the best in everything.

Officer Sees Need For Firing Range

By LA DOYCE LAMBERT
 "The people of this town should back the city in building a practice shooting range."
 This is the feeling expressed by State Highway Patrolman Jimmy Parks in regard to law enforcement marksmanship requirements. Parks indicated that efforts to keep proficient in the use of firearms were severely hampered because there is no place to practice. He said not only would a public shooting range be useful to law enforcement officers, but it would also be helpful in corralling civilian shooting fans.
 As it is now, Parks said, people who want to practice shooting must go to some deserted place and shoot at tin cans or bottles. He emphasized that this could be dangerous to surrounding property and to passing individuals.
 Local highway patrolmen are frequently invited to practice at private ranges around town. Parks said they practice as much as possible — just as any officer of the law should do, he said.
 There are no strict marksmanship requirements for either patrolmen, police officers or sheriff's deputies. Any practice they do is strictly on their own.

Robbers Pick On Wrong Man

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — Grocer Charles Siacotos gave two robbers a hard time.
 Siacotos, 55, grabbed a gun from one as they were marching him to a back room yesterday.
 "I held the gun to his stomach and pulled the trigger, but nothing happened," Siacotos said. "So I beat him with it."
 The gun broke. The bandits started throwing tin cans. Siacotos fired back with empty bottles and some canned goods. The men fled. A parking lot owner captured one suspect. The other escaped.

Historic Paper

RICHMOND, Va. (U) — H. Hill Sandidge Jr., wondered when the house he bought through J. B. Call Jr., was built. Call didn't know.
 Sandidge and his wife, Joan, were chipping away old plaster from a new coat when they made a find — a newspaper, the Richmond News Leader, stuffed behind the plaster. Quickly they noted the date: Jan. 4, 1894.
 Call, who once worked for the paper, quickly dispelled any idea that it was a "historic" home. He knew the answer: Typographical error.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ridgelea Terrace Resident Objects To Trash Dumping

To the Editor:
 It looks like it is going to take a petition signed by all my neighbors before anything can be accomplished about the dumpground west of the ball park. Maybe this letter will serve as a hint as to what my neighbors are thinking.
 Why couldn't we just have our $1 monthly garbage disposal fee taken off and try to compete with the rest of the people who have little or no regard for us?
 Once in awhile we have our out-of-town friends and relatives in to see us and they say that things like this (ball park trash and trash from the adjoining canyon) are unconstitutional in the city limits of their city! Of course we are few in number and I guess a few out-of-towners' thoughts wouldn't make much difference. They are not paying on homes here, either, but some of our relatives would like to see us protected by the best moral interests of our city's health and law enforcement departments.
 Maybe some out-of-town people who read this newspaper can give you an idea what their laws are regarding such situations. You see, I've written before with two co-signers; if it comes to a petition, remember, there are more than three people on State Street, Ridgelea Drive and Caylor Drive who are sort of getting unhappy about the whole deal.

Favors Public Power Program

To the Editor:
 Herbert Hoover, the greatest depression-builder the world has ever known, comes forth and tells the government to dispose of all public power projects to private interests, and to cease lending a hand to develop the natural resources of this, the greatest country on earth. He was President at a time when banks were popping throughout the country like soda bottle corks at a Prohibition picnic, and when flop houses and soup kitchens appeared on every hand. Did he and the private interests do anything to alleviate the situation? Not so as you could notice it, it took the moral courage of the Democrats, and one of the greatest statesmen the world has ever known, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, to rescue the country from utter ruin. In conclusion, may we ask, if Herbie is

Rutherford May Go Back To Arena

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (U) — Doctors at St. Joseph's Hospital have told Buck Rutherford he may be able to re-enter rodeo competition, where he won honors as all-around cowboy rodeo champion last year.
 Rutherford had been told he would be sidelined for at least six months as a result of a concussion and blood clot suffered in an accident June 10 at Lubbock, Tex.
 The blood clot dissolved unexpectedly, however, doctors said, and Rutherford expects to enter the Frontier Days Rodeo later this month in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Poll Is Taken In House On Gas Price Bill

WASHINGTON, July 9 (U) — A poll of House Democrats is being made by Rep. Albert (D-Okla.), majority whip, to gauge the chances for passage of the pending bill to knock out federal regulation of natural gas prices at the well.
 The bill, by Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), has been approved by a split vote of the House Commerce Committee. Similar legislation has been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee.
 The poll reportedly was undertaken at the request of the House Democratic leadership.
 A top member of the Commerce Committee told a reporter it would be useless to send the bill to the House floor if it were to be defeated. Some supporters have expressed belief the bill can be put through the House.
 The bill first would have to be cleared by the Rules Committee but proponents anticipate no difficulty there.
 Senate leaders appear inclined to await House action before bringing similar legislation before the Senate.
 In a letter this week to members of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, Russell B. Brown, the organization's general counsel, said:
 "Unfortunately, there has been injected into this issue an emotional and unsound propaganda campaign which has confused the public.
 "It has misled many sincere people away from the basic principle involved. The results of this campaign are being felt in Congress.
 "It is imperative that those in the petroleum industry give this matter their immediate and careful attention if the situation is to be rectified."
 He added that federal control of production and gathering of natural gas is "wrong in principle and contrary to the public welfare."
 "If the public and Congress are left free to adjudge the question on its real merits," he wrote, "I am confident that corrective legislation can be enacted during this session of Congress. Everyone in the industry should assume a personal responsibility to bring the question, and the basic principle involved, into proper focus."

Market Hits New Peak, Falls

NEW YORK, July 9 (U) — The stock market swung into the second half of 1955 this week with new record peaks and a sharp fall.
 The break from the top looked to some brokers like a stage setting for the year's fourth corrective reaction.
 So far this year the stock market has been set back three times with reactions that wiped out a major portion of the previous advance.
 But each time the market has halted its drop well short of distress levels and has started ahead stronger than ever.
 The reactions have come at evenly spaced intervals and have followed the same general pattern. Such reactions are normal in the stock market and generally retrace one-third to two-thirds of previous gains.
 Brokers noted that the market had reached a high level that on previous occasions proved favorable for selling. In fact, the current upward thrust of the market this week had gone farther than the others. All that made for caution, and the market eventually became a highly selective affair.
 Despite the severe setback, however, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 40 cents on the week, its eighth straight weekly advance, and closed at $174.00. At that level it was $2.40 under its record high level.
 The week ended with a broad mixture of gains and losses with losers holding the edge slightly but with prices up a shade on average.

THE CAPTAIN'S FIRST KEEL

Little does this young master know that in naval lingo a ship is often a "keel." And he hardly could be expected to understand why.

In a moment he'll launch his vessel on the crest of a dying wave, and barring mishap, watch it ride to sea until the next breaker drives it again to shore. And if, perchance, she stays upright and turns again to sea he'll never realize that her seaworthiness is primarily a matter of having the right keel.

The Captain's life will be like his ship! He'll have to face the breakers' roll just as the rest of us do. Whether he remains upright, ready for the next onslaught, or washes up on the beach, is going to depend on the moral and spiritual undergirding of his life.

We can't expect this Captain to know how important a keel can be. But everyone expects his parents, with the help of the Church, to provide him with the best keel a young master can have—a positive, courageous faith in God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

DO IT YOURSELF A Table To Fit With Any Type Home Decor

By BILL BAKER
I've got an unusual do-it-yourself item for you today—a provincial drop-leaf table that has many different uses.
But what happens if my home is furnished in modern? I can't use the table then, can I?
You can use this table, no matter how your home is furnished. If you like traditional or Early American, there is no problem. And in the modern home this table adds just the note of distinction interior decorators encourage. A provincial piece adds the right change of pace for an otherwise modern room.
How big is the table?
With its wide drop-leaves lowered you have a surface measuring four feet long by more than two feet wide. It is small enough in this closed position to take up little floor space, so it can fit in a hall or in a dining "L." The table doubles in size when the wide-graced leaves are brought up.
Would the table be a good item for the dining room?
It certainly would, especially in the home where only a small dining area is available. The com-

This elegant drop-leaf table is Bill Baker's newest do-it-yourself design. Lovely Adele Mara, popular motion picture and TV actress, is shown with the handsome and useful table.

Brookshier is stationed at Camp Fuji, Japan, where his job is chauffeur of a staff car. He has been in Japan since January and in the Marine Corps since July 19 last year.
Brookshier is a 1954 graduate of Big Spring High School and entered the Marines shortly after graduation.

Raymond G. Hancock, seaman apprentice, U. S. Navy Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hancock, 403 Lincoln, was among 410 Naval reservists who left June 20 on a two-week training cruise in the Caribbean.
The men were aboard two escort vessels, a high-speed transport and two patrol craft. They returned last Friday and were released to inactive duty.
Cpl. William C. Moren, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moren, 1301 11th Place, and Cpl. Jackie Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jennings of 1811 Main, recently participated in amphibious training exercises conducted by the 1st Marine Division's 5th Regiment off the southern California coast.

Galveston Wants To Move Academy
GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The City of Galveston is making a strong bid to have Allen Military Academy, a junior college at Bryan, located at Fort Crockett.
Mayor George Roy Clough yesterday appointed a special committee to confer with academy officials and invite them to inspect local facilities. He said he was advised by his assistant, John Browning, that Allen Academy might be interested in Galveston.
Browning said Lufkin is also interested in the academy locating there. He said the school has an enrollment of 800 students and has been a ROTC training program since 1947. Browning said M. B. Allen of Allen Academy had told him of the decision to move from Bryan.
Then you'll find exact-size pattern pieces, one for each section of the table. Using this method, all you'll have to do is tack, trace and cut. See? No problems.
All right, I want to build the drop-leaf table. How can I get one of the pattern packages?
It's easy. All you have to do is send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check, cash or money order to Bill Baker, Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, Calif. Be sure to ask for pattern No. 128.
That's all there is to it.

U Nu Explains His Wrong Impression

DETROIT (AP) — Prime Minister U Nu of Burma explained Friday how he got the impression in Washington "that most of the responsible people are not against" the admission of Red China to the United Nations and that it was a matter of timing. U Nu said it was his own "view" and nothing that was said specifically by anyone.

Announcing a policy of answering no more questions by newsmen during his stay in the United States, U Nu issued a prepared statement to explain his remark on Red China at a news conference in New York.

U Nu's statement said the question did not come up specifically

"as an item of discussion during my stay in Washington. The matter of the easing of tensions between the United States and China was discussed generally, my view being that the seating of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations would contribute toward the easing of tensions. When that was mentioned, the response I got was that China should first behave."

"From this I formed the impression, for which of course I assume sole responsibility, that the entry of the People's Republic of China into the United Nations was, therefore, a matter of timing."

His remarks in New York had stirred up a number of Congress members and led to a demand by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that the Prime Minister name the "responsible officials" who gave him that impression.

In Washington yesterday, the State Department authorized a statement that "there has been no change in United States policy to oppose the seating in the United Nations of a representative of the Chinese Communist regime."

At the White House, presidential press secretary James Hagerty told newsmen the subject of Red China's U. N. entry did not come up in U Nu's talks with Eisenhower and Dulles. U Nu acknowledged this in his statement.

Bartenders Strike Closes Irish Pubs

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—It's a sad day for the Irish. With the temperatures touching 80, there was not a pint of porter to be had in any pub in Dublin.

Sharp at closing time last night Dublin's 2,200 bartenders doffed their striped aprons, draped their barclothes over the beer pumps and went on strike.

Cud-Chewers Never Sleep

NEW YORK (AP)—Feel sleepy? Then consider the plight of cows and sheep which never sleep at all—or only rarely.

So, at least, reports a British scientist in the scientific journal Nature.

From his own and other observations, he concludes that healthy adult cattle and sheep under normal conditions "sleep little, if at all. If sleep does occur, it can only be of a very light and transient nature."

He thinks the sleeplessness is perhaps due to the fact that they are cud-chewers, with double stomachs, and must hold to an upright or particular sidewise position so the double stomachs can work properly without causing kickbacks or a kind of indigestion.

The complacent, cud-chewing cow is, by this view, as badly off as the worrier who has continuous insomnia.

their inability to maintain the normal lying position, and may also sleep."

It may be only normal adult ruminants or cud-chewers which apparently don't sleep, because their digestive system is working fully, he says.

Horses sleep, he says, citing one German study showing that horses kept in a stable slept seven hours out of 24.

Using special test devices, Balch measured the rate of breathing and rate of stomach or rumen activity in some cows. He also observed cows to determine if they ever closed their eyes.

Only a few animals showed the deep, regular breathing customary with sleep, he said. These periods usually came when the stomach activity slowed down.

County Okays Drainage Study

Big Spring's drainage problem moved a step nearer to solution Friday. A meeting in the commissioners' court room Friday afternoon had representatives from the Big Spring city commission, the Howard County commissioners court, the Texas and Pacific Railroad, the State highway department, and private individuals owning land in occasionally flooded areas.

The area on the H. S. Moss land on the east side of the city was of primary concern in the discussion. Through the urging of County Judge R. H. Weaver and a suggestion by City Manager Herbert Whitney, plans to avert future floods may be realized in the near future.

Whitney suggested that an engineering firm be brought into the area to make surveys and recommendations concerning work that is necessary to divert the excess water. The cost of the survey would be jointly shared by the city and county.

The suggestion was approved by the county commissioners on the spot. Whitney said he would bring the matter before the city council at its next meeting and ask for approval. With the city approval will come the first step toward more concrete arrangements to solve the flood situation.

Much of the discussion was about some sort of construction to provide an outlet for the water in the vicinity of Sulphur Draw. The creek is not sufficient to allow the water to drain away rapidly. The recommendations of the engineering company to be hired will apparently be used to solve the drainage problem.

Love, Gold Clash At Ritz Today In 'Foxfire' With Jane Russell

"Foxfire," a lost gold mine, is Jane Russell's competition for the love of Jeff Chandler at the Ritz today. The Technicolor picture pits Chandler's love for sudden riches against the love of Jane Russell and leaves him little choice in the matter.

Dan Duryea, perhaps the best "heavy" in Hollywood, is also in the film and he, in turn, falls for Jane Russell. Mara Corday acts as Dr. Duryea's nurse and supplies much of the "dash" to the picture. She has been called the "most photographed girl in the world."

socialite. A whirlwind romance ends in marriage which is hotly opposed by Jane's mother who has found out that Chandler is a half-breed Apache Indian. The marriage is straying on the rocks when Jane turns to Chandler's best friend, Dr. Dan Duryea, for sympathy. Trying to remain aloof and a friend to the last, Duryea falls in love with her. As more of Chandler's time is taken up with his Foxfire mine, (which he believes is rich in gold,) more of Jane's time is taken up with Duryea.

Jane Russell And Jeff Chandler

Love at first sight brings together Jane Russell and Jeff Chandler in "Foxfire" at the Ritz today through Tuesday. The Technicolor film is set in Arizona in a copper mine area. Chandler is looking for gold as well as the love of Jane Russell in the picture.

Jane finally leaves Chandler and her mother rejoicingly flies out to Arizona to be near her. Then the inevitable mine explosion occurs, seriously injuring Chandler with severe burns. But not before he is able to see that all his men are safe and well.

Love then proves to be stronger than anger and the two are reunited. But there is much more to be discussed between them. This film is unique in that it gives Jane Russell a chance to act a dramatic part for a change. Many of her past films have depended upon sensational costumes or dance routines to get the star a part.

Duryea, of course, is up to his usual antics. As he has put it, "I like to chuckle when I strangle a guy; giggle when I plunge a knife into his back." There are no scenes like this one in the film but the same type of performance is given by Duryea. He gives the impression that he is not altogether sane, regardless what part he plays.

This picture was taken from the novel by Anya Seton and is available in a 25-cent edition. The Woman's Home Companion will publish a condensation of the book on July 15th. The picture plays through Tuesday.

'Lady And The Tramp'

The premier showing of this Walt Disney feature-length cartoon will show Wednesday at the Ritz. It is the first cartoon feature in CinemaScope. The story is about the love of a well-bred spaniel, Lady, for a happy-go-lucky mongrel, Tramp, and all their friends, including the boys at the pound.

'Lady And The Tramp' Is Ritz Cartoon Feature

"Lady and the Tramp" is the first full length Walt Disney cartoon feature since "Peter Pan" and could easily be one of the best he has ever done. The film begins at the Ritz Wednesday and plays through Saturday.

'Beachhead'

Tony Curtis and Mary Murphy face ruthless Japanese in the Lyric offering today and Monday. The color picture is set during World War II.

'Shotgun' Stars Sterling Hayden At Jet Tonight

Deputy Sterling Hayden sets out to hunt the killer of his former boss with a shotgun, the same one the killer used, at the Jet tonight. "Shotgun" co-stars Yvonne DeCarlo and Zachary Scott.

The Technicolor film might well be the best western to come from Hollywood since "Shane" and "High Noon." It is as good a picture as either of them. Hayden sets out alone to hunt the killer with the killer's shotgun, anxious for revenge.

He meets Yvonne DeCarlo and saves her life along the way. But he is continually trying to get rid of her so as not to endanger his hunt. Next he meets Scott, who is a bounty hunter. That is, Scott hunts men who are wanted by the law and kills them for the reward.

The hunt then becomes a race between the two men to see who can catch the killer first. After numerous narrow escapes and exciting sequences, the trail ends at an Indian camp. Hayden convinces the Apache Indians that he should be allowed to fight a duel with the killer with shotguns, Apache style.

The closing scenes complete an exciting film.

'That Lady' Stars 'Oscar' Winner, Olivia DeHavilland

Twice, the winner of Academy Awards, Olivia DeHavilland can hold her own among the talented and beautiful of Hollywood. She has played many different types of roles and it is doubtful that any actress in the film capital could handle them better. This week in Big Spring she plays in "That Lady" at the State.

Once more, she plays a difficult role and makes it seem authentic and exciting. She is the Princess Ana de Mendoza at the Spanish court of Philip II in the year 1570. The black patch she wears over one eye, enhances her beauty rather than detract from it.

The CinemaScope and Technicolor picture casts Gilbert Roland opposite her as friend and lover. The court intrigue is furnished by the horror of the Catholic Inquisition. The life Olivia plays is a strange and perplexing one, little

War Feature Is At Lyric Today

"Beachhead" makes a return engagement to the Lyric today and stars Tony Curtis, Frank Lovejoy, and Mary Murphy. The color picture concerns four Marines who are sent on an exploratory mission to Bougainville Island during World War II.

Their mission is to investigate a mine field before an assault is made to take the island. Mary Murphy is a French planter's daughter who assists the Marines in obtaining the information they want. The group encounter numerous dangerous skirmishes with the enemy Japanese before getting back to headquarters and Mary and Tony fall in love.

This picture is a documentary of the South Pacific war.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Glenn Cootes

There is a considerable audience for actresses like Olivia DeHavilland. She is perhaps one of the best in Hollywood and she has two "Oscars" to prove it.

She does something for a role that other actresses never seem to do. She makes it seem real and not just a celluloid representation.

For excellent examples of her work, recall "Gone With The Wind," "The Snake Pit," and "My Cousin Rachel." There is another of her superb pictures playing in Big Spring today ("That Lady") and two coming in the near future: ("Not As A Stranger" and "Lelia").

"That Lady" will rank with the best films in the city all week, and it is possible that she will receive her third Oscar for her performance in "Not As A Stranger."

Bullfighting had its beginnings when wild bulls once roamed the plains of Spain and were hunted much in the same manner that foxes are hunted in England. Similar to the Anglo-Saxons, the noblemen of Spain were the primary hunters.

As the bulls became scarce, they were bred for the purpose of fighting in arenas but still the noble men did the fighting from horseback. When Columbus discovered the Americas, this last phase of bullfighting was at its peak. In the film "That Lady" at the State today, the audience will get a chance to see bullfighting done in this old style. Back then, the bull-fighter was called a "torreador."

Western movies, taking one with another, are pretty much alike. There are only a few basic plots which the film makers use and these are sometimes overworked. An exception to what has been said is the Jet showing tonight of "Shotgun."

The picture is not another "Shane" or "High Noon," but it is an above average picture. Sterling Hayden, Zachary Scott, and Yvonne DeCarlo are the stars and each of them play excellent, though unfamiliar roles. An attempt was made by the director to develop the characters of each of them in something more than the usual "all good" or "all bad" type of people.

This is enough alone to make the picture fairly good because "black and white" casting is not limited to westerns. If you haven't seen "Shotgun," give it a chance.

There are two Walt Disney films of superb caliber in Big Spring this week. One is his latest full length cartoon feature, "Lady and the Tramp" at the Ritz. The other is a return engagement of "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" at the Jet.

This latter film is probably Disney's best fictional film with real life characters. The story, as written by Jules Verne, was a prediction of the present day submarine, long before the actual ship was invented. Even the use of atomic power was envisioned by the writer.

James Mason plays the invincible, but mad, Captain Nemo and Kirk Douglas is the common sailor who is the downfall of Memo's achievements. The photography in the picture is very beautiful.

SANTA FE — The State Game Commission held a session in Santa Fe, the only major city in New Mexico with daylight saving time.

Chairman C. M. Bots, who ate breakfast on standard time, wanted to know if the commission recessed for lunch on daylight or standard time. The folks who ate breakfast on daylight time favored going to lunch on the same basis. They prevailed.

Hog With Interest

GILMAN CITY, Mo. — For a year a razor-back hog rampaged around these parts, eluding dogs and would-be pig hunters. The sow escaped from Virgil Warren as he attempted to unload her after a trip back from Arkansas.

Finally, a dog cornered the grunter out in the woods and she was roped by the farmers at the end of a battle.

When captured she had seven husky piglets running 15 pounds apiece.

'FARM AND HOME DEVELOPMENT FAMILY'
Mrs. Schroeder and daughters dip into home food stocks

Mitchell Farm Family Starts Drive To Purchase Own Place

By TOM JAY GOSS II

COLORADO CITY — "Farming for the Future" is the slogan of the E. J. Schroeders, farm family living near Loraine in Mitchell County.

They have entered a new farm and home development program which practically brings the Extension Service into their home as a partner. In Mitchell County, the program is under the direction of Associate County Agent James Trammell.

The aid offered to the Farm and Home Development Family is an extension of those services previously offered by the county agent's office and the home demonstration agent and serves to provide the farm family with expert advice on everything from corn to couch covers.

"When the Schroeders came to us," says Trammell, "we went into their plans, reviewed their past income and set goals toward which they could work. We then worked out plans and alternate plans to enable them to reach those goals."

The Schroeders are a tenant family, farming 310 acres belonging to four landlords, and their first goal was to buy land. The Extension Service studied the soil and advised Schroeder of the crops best suited to them, told him how to build up his soil with a nitrogen adding crop such as guar — all of which should provide Schroeder with a better yield and more income. Additional income should allow Schroeder to begin acquiring land.

Other goals which will require cash to complete are those of buying more livestock and a home freezer. Of course, more livestock will bring in more income, which will assist in reaching the first goal — that of becoming a landowner.

Other goals which will require more work than cash are those of improving and landscaping the yard around the farm home, and raising more food for canning and freezing.

Already, Mrs. Schroeder and two daughters Carolyn Sue 7, and Bobbie Lou 6, have planted flowers around the house, leveled the yard and are growing a lawn. A garden at the rear of the house is busy producing vegetables for the table and for canning.

Not yet wealthy enough to say "I can buy 'em cheaper in town" the Schroeders get their own eggs fresh from the henhouse. They keep two cows for milk and a sow will probably assist in solving a future meat problem. With advice from the county agents and the Soil Conservation Service, Schroeder is developing a permanent pasture from a plot of rough unproductive land, at little cost other than the grass seed.

With a lot of work and a little money, Operation Bootstrap is paying off in the neat appearance of fields and farmhouse, but the Schroeders hope for more than that — they hope that their investment in planning and labor will lead toward a farm of their own.

Injured Fliers' Careers To End

OAKLAND, Calif. — The injuries they suffered when Russian MIGs shot down their patrol bomber June 23 will end the active Navy careers of Thaddeus Maziarz 33, of Oakland, and Edward Benko, 25, of Chicago.

The Navy disclosed yesterday both will get disability discharges and pensions. The men were flown here last week with five others hurt in the bomber's crash landing on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea.

Maziarz suffered burns and fractures. Benko's upper left arm was shattered.

World War I Vet Finally Gets Medals

PORTLAND, Ore. — Frank Lechleider, World War I Infantryman who saw action in France in 1917, has a couple of new medals from the Department of the Army.

Proudly displaying a Silver Star and Purple Heart, he said they arrived only this week, more than 32 years after they were awarded.

The 73-year-old Portlander says he was told of the decorations upon his discharge from the Army in 1923. But it took all these years and three letters to Washington, he said, before he got action.

Lechleider said the latest query was mailed two weeks ago.

More Than 64 Million Employed During June

WASHINGTON — More than 64 million Americans were employed in June, the greatest number in the nation's history, the Commerce and Labor Department reported today.

Postmen Get Carts

PADUCAH, Ky. — After 35 years as a mail carrier, J. E. Lovvo finally decided there must be an easier way to tote the heavy leather bag. So he bought a two-wheeled caddy cart. Three other carriers also bought carts. And the post office ordered seven more for the rest of the carriers.

In this issue: ENCOURAGE Your Child to Be Independent!

AS YOU WERE SAYING...

A Tip to Mothers-in-Law

BECAUSE I was just 20 and still in college when I married an only child, I worried somewhat about how much "independence" we would have. But I owe a huge vote of thanks to a mother-in-law who never once gave me advice on cooking, housework, or child care until I asked for it. In fact, she consulted me on new utensils and decorating tricks, bolstering my self-confidence through those first months of flat-as-a-pancake omelets and bullet-like biscuits. To top off her role of gracious mother-in-law, she faithfully took care of our first baby while I was finishing three courses of college work. Perhaps other mothers who don't get along with their married children might take a tip from my wonderful mother-in-law.—E. H., Milford, Conn.

The Immortal Texas

The most interesting man I have ever heard about—outside of books, anyway—was my father-in-law, Forest Cruse of Nacogdoches, Texas, who had been dead for 20 years when I married his son. When my husband and I went to East Texas on our honeymoon, his family and friends all had something to tell me about his fabulous father.

Even now, 29 years later, whenever we visit Nacogdo-ches, an old-timer will start talking about Mr. Cruse. "Six feet, four inches tall, he weighed 320 pounds, but he was nimble as a dancer and could outrun anyone. . . ."

He's best remembered, however, for his genius as a teller of tall tales; and that, podner, will almost earn a man immortality in Texas!—Mrs. Forest Cruse, Austin, Tex.

It Does Pay to Be a Teacher! Many ambitious young people place teaching far down on their lists of possible vocations, primarily because of the low salaries. Teaching, however, offers a personal satisfaction that I doubt is possible in other more lucrative fields.

A teacher is sometimes the only real friend a young child has. One little girl took our music supervisor's hand and said to her, "I wish you were my mother."

A mother wrote me just before Christmas: "I am glad you disciplined my son the way you did. He seemed to grow up. It was the best Christmas present I will get."

Our basketball coach was selected as "The Outstanding Young Man" in our city for 1954, primarily for his work with our young boys.

Financially, I'll admit, the teaching profession still leaves much to be desired; but morally and spiritually, teaching pays and pays.—Roger L. Lundquist, Principal, Senior High School, Moorhead, Minn.

Remembrance of a Pioneer Grandmother

I do not collect rare glass and I am not a bird fancier, but a white owl has a place of honor on my shelf. The owl is a sugar bowl and his head is the lid. His kind is rare, I am told, but no collector would ever want him, for he frankly shows his age. Hair-like cracks mar the smoothness of his features, and his eyes, once rosy pink, now reflect a cold, milky stare. Yet I would never part with him.

He was new, without fault or blemish, on my grandmother's wedding day in 1849. He was one of her prized gifts, and she brought him with her when she moved from Kentucky to Missouri before the Civil War. Grandmother was never able to acquire many lovely things, but she kept those she had, including the sugar bowl, and passed on through her children a love for the lovely. Her body has slept in a little pioneer cemetery for more than 60 years, but her memory lives on with me every time I look at the old white owl.—L. F. D., Wyconda, Mo.

A New Approach to Dieting

Here is the system I have devised for keeping my weight down:

When I set the table for a meal, I put a large dinner plate at each place, but at my own place I set a small saucer. Then I keep telling myself one helping is all I'm going to eat. I fill my little plate and eat slowly, so I won't finish before the rest do.

By using a saucer, I can't put too much on my plate, and by eating slowly, everything's gone by the time I'm finished. The happy result is I can keep my weight down or lose a few pounds whenever I want.—Mrs. Joseph A. Mullen, Marion, Ind.

It has not been a good day. It has been a turbulent day filled to the brim with my mistakes, my longings, and my forebodings. I am glad it is done with.

I came here to my window to rest a while. I found a cloud. Nothing special. An ordinary cloud, white-curling at the edges, drifting as I am drifting.

As I sat here, the sun touched the trees for the last time this day and left them. The night has begun to comfort the grass and soothe the late robin, homeward bound. The sky is deeper blue now and the cloud has ebbed across its darkening face. Soon it will be gone.

My eyes are tired. The night is kind to them.

I think there is a young star across the meadow. It has been hesitating there, waiting for its hour. It's a very little star, not even bright. But it is the first.

The moon will rise. I remember how it rises lush and orange in its fullness, slim and white in its newness. I have never known which is more beautiful, when it pours like liquid through my window or when it tantalizes with its young elusiveness. It doesn't matter. It must change, too, like the cloud.

It is good to feel warm and contented and loved at dusk, or it is a sad hour. If you are alone, even the last cloud is poignant, even the first star is painful.

But if you are tired when the day goes to sleep, then it is good to rest in the twilight and dream a little.

Now it is quite dark. The trees are spilled ink on the sky and the dew has pattered across the lips of the leaves. I can hear music somewhere and the sound of voices, but time is still and waiting.

It has not been a good day, but it is ended. Soon the moonlight will find me and I will forget the day and my eyes will close in the perfect gift.

Sleep . . .

ENCOURAGE Your Child to Be Independent!

by Gilbert P. Lane author of "So Much to Learn"

This happy family group includes the author, his wife, Loretto, and son John.

WHEN I STARTED to carry him up the steps of the overpass on our way to the park on his second Fourth of July, John cried: "No! No!" So Loretto and I waited while he climbed the steps, slowly, one at a time. That I was able to smile at this declaration of independence marked a major achievement for me. I had finally learned to accept my son's right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

"Feed him, love him—and leave him alone," Loretto had instructed when she first went back to her law office and left me, working at home as a free-lance writer, in charge of our five-month-old son. At the time I had no idea how hard it would be to learn to leave him alone—or how often I'd have to learn it!

It was such a temptation to help him. But almost from the first he wanted to do things himself. Before he could hold the soap, he insisted on washing his own hands. He struggled to get the top off the tooth paste, and he tried and tried to dry himself after his bath. He tried to dress himself, too, pushing both arms through the neckband and both legs in one legging. How I wished he'd just let me do it!

For weeks after he began holding his own spoon to feed himself, it taxed my self-control to let him do it. He took so long. And so often he missed his mouth and put the strained peas or peaches in his hair.

"How else can he learn?" Loretto asked. "What better time than when he wants to?" she encouraged.

There's a lesson for parents in this story of one father who learned to recognize an infant's right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Loretto brought home a big plastic bib and I allotted more time for meals. When I set the table, I added a wash-rag for him and a mop for the floor.

Shortly after Loretto put us on our own, John learned to crawl, and it was then that I began to appreciate the infant's magnificent urge to independence. He was so determined to do it, and he got so mad for his size when he failed. But he didn't stop trying until he had mastered it.

Not long after this accomplishment John and I shared one of our greatest triumphs and greatest trials. It was a triumph for him. It was a trial for me. He learned to climb into a chair!

Trying to concentrate on my work, I couldn't help seeing him out of the corner of my eye, stretching and straining, swinging and swaying, almost falling as he worked to pull himself up. My muscles stretched with his, strained to swing him in when he swayed out. I had to fight to keep my big hands off and my big mouth shut. Finally—proudly, triumphantly—he made it. My triumph came when I was able to set him back down on the floor—so we could both go through the ordeal again. After three days of this, John had learned to climb.

After a whole year of watching our son grow and learn and do things for himself, I knew enough to keep my helping hands to myself, while he went ahead on his own.

Long before he could look me in the eye and say "No," I recognized a determined yell or an angry cry as an assertion of independence. Now I'm willing to go along with what John is trying to do—once I find out what it is. And I'm proud of his independence and sturdy self-reliance.

How can a parent encourage a baby to develop these qualities?

Judging by my own experience, you don't have to encourage it—you just have to keep out of its way. But there are many things parents can do. Here are some of the things we tried.

Space: First of all, there was the matter of providing space to live in. When John was born, we decided that this was going to be his house, too. We agreed that we would arrange and run it for him as well as for ourselves. After all, we had a baby. Why try to live as though we didn't have?

We put a folding gate on the door, and turned my office, which was also our living room, into a big play pen. The hardwood floor was easy to keep clean, and our unstained and unvarnished furniture was practically baby-proof. Most important of all, John had room to do things.

Things: In addition to space, a baby needs things to do with. John had the usual number of toys, which he used over and over. He pushed them, pulled them, pounded them, and piled them. His first favorite playthings weren't toys at all, but tin cans—empty formula cans. Some babies choose pots and pans or similar objects. And why not? If they like pans or pie tins, why not buy some just for them, so they can pound and dent them to their hearts' content?

John tried to play with our books, so we gave him some pocket-size paper-bound books of his own and a small shelf to put them on. Other objects seemed important, too. Chairs were good not only for learning to climb but also for pushing across the room; rag rugs for stuffing into corners; drapes for hiding behind.

The list of things with which, if you let him, a baby can exercise ingenuity and practice independence could go on indefinitely—cardboard cartons, rubber bands, empty typewriter-ribbon spools, practically anything around the house that a baby can't hurt too much and that can't seriously hurt him.

Helps: If I had been more ingenious and handier with tools, I could have made a lot of things to help John in his quest for independence. The one "help" I made that really worked was a small stool. It was pretty crude, but by standing on it in the bathroom, he could reach the soap and the faucets. He was thrilled to be able to turn the water on and off himself, and tried washing his hands without help.

This accomplishment, like all the others, meant more work for me. I had to mop up the water he splashed around, but it was worth it. I nailed a towel rack and hung a towel where he could reach it (not that he used it); I put up a hook for his toothbrush, and a mirror he could see. I cut a card table down to his size, and set aside space for him to use in the bookcase and the record cabinet and the kitchen cupboard. All these helps made it possible for him to reach things and hold things and do things.

Time and Money: Does an infant's independence cost money? Yes, a little. And I, at least, had to get used to the idea that broken toys, smashed cups and dishes, spilled puddings, strained liver on the floor, and soap and tooth paste down the drain should legitimately be charged to the cost of raising a child. To deny him the right to spill milk or experiment with tooth paste, I finally realized, would be much like buying an older child a handsome box of crayons—and forbidding him to use them.

Time is important. Sometimes it was hard for me to give the extra time it took for him to wash his own hands or feed himself. I admit I cheated sometimes and slipped a spoonful in his mouth before he could stop me.

Before he could walk, I could hardly wait for him to start. After he had learned, as we slowly made our way to meet Loretto's train, I often recalled the happy, carefree days when I could plop him down in the old buggy and roll along as fast as I wanted to. At Loretto's suggestion, I finally allowed 15 extra minutes for the three-block trip, and gave up urging, cajoling, and threatening him.

He needed time for himself, too. Free, uninterrupted, uninterfered-with time to experiment with his blocks, to test his tin cans, to try out his plastic cars. He needed time in which to be independent.

All in all, it was an interesting experience for me as a father, having a baby in my office-at-home. It was challenging, too, and exciting. The sternest challenge was learning that even an infant is an independent person, with full rights to his own life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness!

Fess Parker, a six-foot-five-inch Texan, has won the nation's small fry with his portrayal of the legendary frontiersman.

DAVY CROCKETT

by Robert Fitzgibbon

FESS PARKER is a Hollywood paradox. A virtually unknown actor, he is at the same time the idol and hero of youngsters everywhere. This is because Fess has immortalized that rugged backwoodsman, Davy Crockett, in Walt Disney's television series and in his new full-length movie, "Davy Crockett, King of the Wild Frontier."

When Disney was casting about for someone to play the role of the Tennessee frontiersman, he spotted Parker playing a minor part in an unheralded picture. After an interview, Fess not only landed the job but became the first adult ever signed to a long-term contract by Disney.

In keeping with the epic proportions of the Davy Crockett legend, Fess Parker is a strapping 210-pounder who stands six-foot-five.

A native of Texas, where the real Davy Crockett met his heroic end in the battle of the Alamo, Fess was born in Fort Worth, grew up in San Angelo, and calls "four or five towns in West Texas home." He was graduated from the University of Texas in Austin, then went to the University of Southern California to study drama.

After four years in sophisticated Hollywood, Fess remains a man of honest, homespun charm. His tastes and way of life are simple.

"I guess you'd call me plain," he says in a soft drawl. "I don't go in for show. There isn't anything I want much, except to be a good actor."

Parker's idea of money is equally modest. Asked what he would do with his earnings from Disney, he said, "I don't rightly know. Maybe if I can get a thousand dollars together, I'll put it in some Texas oil stock. Never had that much to spend before."

Though Parker's first name may sound like a Hollywood innovation, it's not. "Fess is my name, and my father's name before me," he declares. "In old English, it means proud. That's me. Been called Fess all my life and don't aim to change now!"

That may be, but to the nation's Davy Crockett fans, Fess Parker will always be remembered as that legendary figure in the coon-skin cap.

This old lithographic print shows how the real Davy Crockett looked. (Original owned by Franklin J. Merz, Editor-in-Chief, American Peoples Encyclopedia)

With his coon-skin cap and trusty rifle, Fess Parker is ready for action in Walt Disney's full-length movie, "Davy Crockett."

In one of his escapades as Davy, Parker whips Bigfoot, the bully, in a bruising fist fight.

At the battle of the Alamo, Davy (second from right) rallies his badly outnumbered troops.

For 13 days the defenders of the fort bravely stave off the Mexican attackers, but finally they are overwhelmed and massacred. Surrounded by fallen comrades, Davy fights on alone.

SUMMER DRINKS

BEVERAGE TIPS—A tall cool drink has a mission to perform. On a hot day or evening it offers promise of refreshment and chilled delight, and there are several ways to be sure that it keeps that promise. Prepare beverages with chilled ingredients. Set the ingredients in the refrigerator well in advance of serving time or keep a plentiful supply of them ready for use in the refrigerator throughout the Summer season. Use chilled pitchers and glasses, too, as further insurance that a cold drink will live up to its name. When using fresh fruits, select ripe fruits at the peak of their flavor. Fruit kabobs are a glamorous and novel accompaniment for sparkling, refreshing iced tea. Choose fruits such as whole strawberries, chunks of pineapple, large grapes, and thin slices of lime or wedges of orange. Maraschino cherries and mint leaves are colorful additions. Thread onto a stirrer or skewer, alternating as desired. Chill in refrigerator. And when planning your repertory of Summer beverages, do not overlook the time-saving and variety-making possibilities of the electric blender. And just as an after thought—tastes vary, so suit the additions of sugar to the palates of those you serve.

Iced Coffee

Preheat a drip coffee maker by filling it with boiling water. Drain.
For each standard measuring cup of water, using standard measuring spoons, measure
4 tablespoons drip-grind coffee

Bring to boiling
Freshly drawn water
Measure and pour boiling water into upper container. Cover. Allow water to drip through coffee grounds, keeping coffee maker over low heat 5 to 8 min., or while coffee is dripping. Do not let coffee boil at any time. Remove coffee compartment and stir coffee.

Crushed ice or ice cubes
Pour the hot coffee over the ice. Serve with granulated or confectioners' sugar, plain cream, or whipped cream. Sprinkle whipped cream with cinnamon if desired.

WORDS ABOUT Music

BY JOEY SASSO

Steve Allen

Popular: "MUSIC FOR TONIGHT." Steve Allen, his piano and orchestra. Coral Album. One of TV's favorites and one of the medium's most talented people, Steve Allen offers a beautiful fare of mood music on his latest album. His sharp piano technique is made more impressive with a full-string orchestra supplying background. Allen is featured on 12 different selections—nine standards ("Long Ago and Far Away," "Imagination") and three of his own compositions, including the title tune "Tonight." This package combines dreaminess with simplicity of taste. Whether or not you like Allen's brand of humor, you're sure to like his piano—and this album.

"LES AND MARY." Les Paul and Mary Ford. Capitol Album. This talented duo again blend guitar and voice impressively, producing an album of popular music at its best. They perform 16 excellent selections. Many of the tunes are standards; the rest fall into less-familiar but interesting classifications. "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "In Nueva Loredo," and "Some of These Days" rate repeated listening.

Jazz: "CHARLIE PARKER." Charlie Parker with orchestra. Clef Album. This is a eulogy on wax to the greatness of the late Charlie Parker. Wherever inspired saxophone is discussed, his name is sure to be included. On this album, Parker's talents are coupled in several selections with the talents of another jazz pace-setter—trumpeter Miles Davis. Contributions by both players should be required listening for all students of the modern idiom—musicians or not.

Classical: "CONCERTO NO. 2 IN C MINOR." Rachmaninoff. Leonard Pennario, piano. The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Vladimir Golschmann, conducting. Capitol Album. Leonard Pennario, one of the youngest and most talented classical pianists, proves his point with this offering of a most popular piano concerto. Pennario plays with warmth and tenderness. This album will meet the most exacting demands of collectors of classical music.

"BEECHAM PLAYS WAGNER." Royal Philharmonic. Sir Thomas Beecham, conducting. Columbia Album. Some of the finest Wagnerian recordings of this age have been made under the baton of Sir Thomas Beecham. One of note, the Overture to "The Flying Dutchman," is given a dazzling interpretation in this album. Another high point is the Prelude to Act III and "Dance of the Apprentices" from "Die Meistersinger." Other selections are "Good Friday Spell" from "Parsifal" and the "Funeral Music" from "Goetterdaemmerung." These Wagnerian favorites are delightfully played and faithfully recorded.

A. Corridor-type utility room stores washer, dryer, and freezer in a row underneath triple windows. The metal wall cabinets at the end of room hold needs for washer and dryer.

B. Adjoining dinette is separated from kitchen by vertical balusters. Fruit-patterned draperies match those over sink. The cart in foreground is handy for transporting foods.

C. Step-saving U-shaped kitchen has a ventilating fan over the range to carry away any cooking odors. Note how corner cabinets make clever use of space. Walls are ceramic tile.

Kitchen with a T-FORMATION

THE CELEBRATED T-formation is a successful arrangement off as well as on the gridiron. Used as the basic design for the kitchen-dinette-utility room in the Harvey Block home in Glencoe, Ill., it saves steps, time, and space.

The stem of the T is the kitchen proper, which features an efficient U-shaped work area. Forming the right shoulder of the T is the dinette with a picture window and fruit-patterned chintz draperies to match those over the kitchen-sink counter. To the left is a corridor-type utility room.

This three-room unit is a model of practicality. For example, the food freezer, located out of the way in the utility room, is still convenient to the sink. There's a closet for brooms and vacuum cleaner, and numerous pink metal cabinets for dishes, glassware, pots and pans, and canned goods, so it's no feat for the homemaker to keep a neat kitchen. In the work area, pink ceramic walls are permanent and easy to clean.

The Mystery of the WIDOW'S ASHES

by William T. Brennan, author of "Yellow Kid Weil: America's Master Swindler"

AROUND 8:00 P.M. on Sunday, July 1, 1951, Dr. Richard Reeser, prominent physician, visited his widowed mother, Mrs. Mary Reeser, 67, in her comfortable first-floor kitchenette apartment on Cherry Street, in the fashionable northeast section of St. Petersburg, Florida. She was seated in an overstuffed chair, reading. She told her son she had taken two sleeping pills and planned to retire soon. Her bed was a few feet from the chair, and the covers had been turned down. Mrs. Reeser planned to leave for a Northern visit as soon as she received a wire from friends in Pennsylvania.

When the landlady went to deliver the telegram at eight the next morning, she grasped the doorknob, which was almost red-hot. Two carpenters who had been working across the street opened the door, discovered that the walls of the room were smoke-blackened from a point about four feet above the floor.

Near the bed, the rug had been burned away in a circle about six feet in diameter. Within the circle was a pile of ashes and, nearby, the coil springs from an upholstered chair. Just outside the circle was a human foot, severed at the ankle. This was all that remained of Mrs. Mary Reeser.

Fire and police officials made a thorough investigation which established these facts:

There was no stench and only a faint odor of smoke. Above the almost-even four-foot line, the walls were smoke-blackened; below it, they were unstained and undamaged. The paint on the wall near Mrs. Reeser's chair had not peeled, the sheets and pillows on the bed had not been stained or damaged.

Plastic switches above the smoke line had melted; those below the line were undamaged and worked normally. The electric clock, plugged into an outlet above the line, had stopped at 4:20. It ran again when it was plugged into an outlet below the line.

The electric refrigerator was still running and appeared undamaged. The toaster, stove, and iron had been turned off, but worked normally when they were turned on. Two electric fans also worked when they were plugged into outlets below the smoke line.

A dinette table and chairs, a table lamp and radio, a second bed, a magazine rack containing newspapers—all were undamaged, though they were near the charred circle. A plastic glass in the bathroom had melted, but below it plastic toothbrushes were intact.

The windows were all open and there was no smoke stain on the frames or sills.

Hundreds of people who had passed the apartment between 8:00 P.M. and 8:00 A.M. were questioned. None had seen a fire; none had smelled smoke. The landlady had been near the apartment at 5:00 A.M. when she had turned off the electric water pump, but noticed nothing wrong. Nor did the newsboy who delivered the morning paper at 6:30, the carpenters who started work at 7:30, and the dozens of people who passed on their way to work.

How had Mrs. Reeser's body, as well as the chair, been so completely consumed without starting a fire, without the odor of smoke or burning flesh?

St. Petersburg police and the FBI sought the answer. Crematoriums advised that a temperature of 3,600 degrees Fahrenheit is necessary to cremate a body; but such an intense heat would have scorched everything for yards around. The FBI suggested that the fatty tissues of Mrs. Reeser's body had kept the fire going; but its origin was unknown.

The police were swamped with answers to the riddle from the public: A ball of fire had rolled in the window; it was an act of God; the body had been soaked in chloroform and ignited; it had been destroyed by lightning. This last was ruled out by the weather bureau; there had been no lightning that night.

History records 50 cases of human bodies catching fire without outside influence. Most victims were female and elderly, with a generous accumulation of fatty tissue (Mrs. Reeser weighed 170). In all recorded cases, the bodies were completely destroyed except for some extremities (Mrs. Reeser's left foot did not burn).

All these deaths have been attributed to spontaneous human combustion—an inner fire that starts from the right combination of gases inside the body. But there is wide disagreement in medical circles about this; many assert that there is no such thing.

Regardless of the cause of Mrs. Reeser's death, it is agreed by everybody familiar with the circumstances that it is one of the most puzzling mysteries of all time.

Dear Miss Barrows:
I live on a small farm with my family.

We have a big herd of nanny goats. They all have babies now. I feed six baby goats on bottles. They are fun to watch. They jump, run, and play around. In spring when we let them out to eat they will eat the bushes and flowers. Some people think they eat tin cans but they don't.

Sincerely,

Aged 10 Dundee, N. Y.
Dear Miss Barrows:

My favorite hobby is making scrapbooks for my friends that have to go to the hospital. First I earn the money for the scrapbook by raking leaves, shoveling sidewalks, or something like that. Then I take my mother's old magazines and cut out pretty pictures and paste them in.

When I was in the hospital to have my tonsils out I sure got lonesome and wished someone would give me a scrapbook, and that is where I got the idea.

Sincerely,

And I think everyone should like it, too!

Hidden Letters

by Jane McHenry

- I do not make a sound, though I'm in doubt. But you can see me when I bounce about. And though three times you'll find me in a bubble, Only once do I appear in trouble.
- Now I am seen at the end of every word. I sound in duck and domino and bird. And lest you think me something of a riddle, Doubled, there, I am right in the middle.
- Find me in happy but not in happiness. And though you stay or go away, I'm with you none the less. I'm written plain in every day, In fact—in everything you say. What letter am I? Can you guess?

Answers: 1. B; 2. D; 3. Y

Riddle Rhyme

In each of the next six lines is a clue to a letter. When the six letters are combined they spell a common object.

- My first letter is in pay but not in day,
My second's in ready but not in yard.
My third is in never but never in revel.
My fourth is found in locks but not in silk.
My fifth is found in lion, not in noble.
My sixth is found in lion, too, in leopard, and in lamb.
So—like me, if you are sharp and make your mark, you'll know what I am!

Play Game Cocks

This is a game to play outdoors. Mark off a large circle on the ground, one about seven to ten feet in diameter. Only two play this game at a time, and the ones selected to start stand just inside the circle at opposite sides. They stand on one foot with arms tightly folded and hop toward each other. The object is to bump one or the other out of the circle. The one who loses his balance, uses his hands, or puts his foot down, loses. Then a new pair takes over.

Golliwog Lapel Pin

If you would like to start a new fad, wear a funny Golliwog pin that you can make yourself. It's not hard to do. The pin is made of a cork, thumb tacks, a brad, a loose-leaf notebook ring, and yarn.

Cut a large cork in half lengthwise and fasten a safety pin to the flat side with adhesive tape. The round side is the face, so push two colored thumb tacks in place for eyes. (See drawing.) And for a nose use a metal brad. The ring is hung from this, but paint a red mouth first with nail polish.

To make the hair, cut several short lengths of coarse black yarn, arrange them like fringe, and tape them to the back of the cork. Now you are ready to pin Mr. Golliwog on your coat.

THINGS TO MAKE

A Boy's Beanie!

Ask father if you can have an old felt hat of his—one you can cut and make into a keen looking cap for yourself. Cut off the brim, remove the band, and pull it down on your head as far as it will go. It will probably be too deep, so turn up the end two or three inches. With some big scissors cut a sawtooth edge. (See drawing.) Now cut small circles, diamonds, hearts—any shapes you like—out of the crown. Don't cut too many, so you'll have room for buttons, pins or decorations you have to add—like your Junior Journalist button.

In this incident from his early life, the Father of our Country showed the qualities of gallantry and tenderness which made him famous.

George Washington's First Love

by Burl Ives. Although best known as a singer of American folk music, Burl Ives has many talents. He's an accomplished actor, author, humorist, and authority on Americana. This little-known story about George Washington is taken from his newest book, "Burl Ives' Tales of America," published and copyright, 1954, by the World Publishing Co., Cleveland and New York. Currently, Ives is playing a dramatic role in the Pulitzer-prize-winning Broadway play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." Between acts, he's working on another book, a collection of New England folk legends.

In a sermon on man's private and public life, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick once said that he, as an American, was very happy that George Washington did not allow his feelings for a certain lady, of whom he was alleged to have been enamored, to bring upon her any shame or even make her the object of gossip. This gave me a great interest in the unknown personal side of Washington's personality. The youthful Washington was strong, soldierly, and manly. But he was also, according to this legend, a man of great tenderness.

SHE MOVED with grace, and her gentleness and beauty were no less captivating because she wore dresses of leather, rode like the wind, and used a rifle better than most men about the country.

She lived with her great-grandfather, Old Abraham, at the point where the Youghiogheny and Monongahela Rivers join. These two were the sole survivors of an Indian raid that had wiped out their family. Marion kept the little cabin neat and clean, and provided food by hunting and fishing. She spent much time reading to Old Abraham from his many books, for his eyes were unable to see the words he loved.

The small cabin was just off the trail along which General Braddock marched to his defeat. Marion and the old man had watched the gay-clad army pass, and had prayed they would defeat the Indians and bring peace to the countryside.

After the battle, the retreating army came back by the same route, and it was with sorrow that Marion watched them straggle by. The French and the Indians had ambushed General Braddock, who was unused to such unimilitary tactics.

Now, during this retreat and while Old Abraham was away from the cabin, Marion heard a knock at the door. She opened it to find an unprepossessing straggler of the defeated army before her, a bony-faced half-breed with red hair, whose name was Red Wolf. Seeing no one but the beautiful girl, he burst into the room. He would have tried not only to make free of the provisions of the little cabin but would have kissed the girl as well had she not leveled her rifle at him. Her steady eye and hand convinced Red Wolf of her courage, and he remained with upraised hands against the log wall. Finally, however, he began a slow movement toward her, his eyes holding hers—daring her to shoot.

Her finger had tightened on the trigger when a young officer in a silver-laced uniform stepped through the open door. He doffed his three-cornered hat to the girl and said to Red Wolf, "Go. I will attend to you later."

Red Wolf slunk away through the door, and Washington, for it was he, apologized for the behavior of the soldier and begged that he might rest awhile in the pleasant little cottage.

Of course he was made most comfortable by the grateful girl and her great-grandfather. Marion's beauty, grace, innate refinement and gentleness did not fail to charm the young officer.

When Washington said good-bye the next day, he promised to return. He rode forward to find the remnants of his shattered army.

When the army disbanded, Washington rode back alone in haste, impatient to see Marion again. He found the cabin in ashes. He called, but no one answered. He walked about the ruins in sadness. Then he mounted his horse and galloped away. He put his hand inside his coat and felt, in the palm of his great hand, a silky lock of hair.

At Mount Vernon, after Washington's death, there was found, folded in a piece of paper, a tress of brown hair. On the paper was written: "Marion, July 11, 1755"
