

Getting At Uneconomic Practice

Recently a local of the plasterers' union in Los Angeles refunded to an employer the wages paid four men who had performed no work but still had been hired on union demand. This was done in compliance with an order from the National Labor Relations board.

This little practice, of course, is known as featherbedding. It is one of the most pernicious practices utilized by a minority of labor organizations, whose leadership has been shortsighted. Featherbedding, not always so clear cut a case as this one, simply is forcing employers to hire men for services which they do not perform. It is like destroying crops or other form of production. It is cancerous in that it consumes and yet contributes nothing. Labor leaders who have taken the long look are earnestly against such practices for they realize that they are not only economically unsound but that they redound to the ill will of labor before the bar of public opinion. Thus, there is cause for gratification that one blow at least has been struck at this practice.

The law is yet vague on the point and it needs clarification. Labor and management alike can contribute singular service on this point by an earnest desire to help rather than to resist or to harass. Fairness and open mindedness by both sides can contribute much to sensible

Concerted Control Possibilities

A rather dramatic if relatively quiet battle goes on in this area as farmers fight to combat a worm menace. Infestation at this turn of the year is usually severe.

One extremely disconcerting development is the discovery of pink bollworm specimen in fields in the Elbow area, where there was an alarming rate of infestation last year. This has provoked the bureau of entomology into carrying on an extensive dusting program in that section to destroy this crop and to attempt to prevent two or three other cycles or generations from coming to pass. This is a highly important fight for all in the cotton industry in the high plains area, for no pest has yet matched the destructiveness of the pink bollworm when it comes to ruining cotton.

On other fronts reports are more encouraging. Extensive use of DDT dusting powder is said to be extremely effective in most fields. County Agent Durward Lewter has been so impressed that, he has reflected on the possibilities of a concerted county-wide campaign at some future date. If the counter measures prove to be effective in curbing the systematic reproduction cycles, then what the agent suggests will merit serious consideration. The economic value of such action would be tremendous.

Ideal Radio Give-Away Prize Is A Maharajah

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, (AP)—The ideal prize on a radio give-away program today is the Maharaja of Baroda.

What lady wouldn't rather win him than a new refrigerator? This princely Indian ruler is stocked with diamonds; a refrigerator only yields ice cubes.

And as for lettuce! No kitchen cooler ever built holds as much "lettuce" as the Maharajah—the kind that grows in the mist in big crinkly stacks.

But said to relate, the Maharajah is accused of being a self-filling lettuce container. His legislature says he spent $10,000,000 in six weeks from the state treasury.

The Maharajah has gone home to answer the $64 dollar question—or rather the $10,000,000 question—himself.

The Maharajah has scoffed at the charge he raided the Baroda treasury for such paltry pocket money. He's one of the world's richest men.

But what puzzles the average American husband, who has trouble explaining to his wife the $5 he lost on a horse race, and the answer to that is a loud yawn.

Some Indian Maharajahs can and probably have.

In the good old days there were no legislators around to harry this privileged class. Anybody who dared to question what one of these absolute monarchs did with the people's money would be staked down alive as bait for the annual spring tiger hunt.

Take, for example, the Nizams of Hyderabad, beside whom even the rich Maharajah of Baroda rates as a poor country cousin.

The Nizam's daddy kept 300 concubines and thought nothing of handing a dancing girl $5,000. He used to toss $30,000 trinkets to a favorite servant, Abid, who put him to bed after his benders. Abid got only $2 a month salary, but is reported to have died worth $8,000,000. This, of course, is only one man's way of ending the servant problem.

The present Nizam shows no such signs of spoiling the hired hands. He is undoubtedly the richest man on earth, but at 62 he lives simply, wears threadbare old clothes and watches his pennies closely.

The Nizam, perhaps as a gesture to the memory of his robust father, does keep 50 automobiles and 50 to 100 concubines. And gesture or no gesture, he also is reported to have more than 100 children.

Conservative estimates of his wealth start at $2,000,000,000 (B) and go as high as the fantastic figure of $250,000,000,000 (B).

Record Filibuster Planned By Leaders Of Republicans

By Edwin B. Haskinson (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A history-shattering filibuster will open the next regular session of the Senate on January 4 if Republican leaders carry out their plans to close two loopholes now allowing filibusters.

"It will be a filibuster to end all filibusters," Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter before leaving the capital. "It may take a month or longer, but it's an issue that should be settled."

Many attempts have been made to get a rule to permit Senate debate to be cut off. The only one that succeeded—the present cloture rule adopted March 8, 1917—has at least two big loopholes in it.

Taft and others who want to tighten the rules declare that the national security conceivably might be endangered by filibusters. If a few senators opposed going to war with some nation threatening an invasion they might prevent or at least delay action for benefit of an enemy.

Advocates of present Senate rules insist that filibusters and unlimited debate have prevented more bad laws than good ones.

But attempts to join through anti-lynch and similar measures have developed two loopholes in the cloture rule.

Senators discovered that the cloture rule did not apply to the daily routine of correcting the official journal of the previous day's session.

Those wanting to filibuster could move to insert the chaplain's prayer or the names of senators answering rollcalls or to change a comma to a semi-colon. This could take days and days.

Then senators learned that they could debate a motion to take up an objectionable bill and cloture would not apply. It is these two loopholes and any similar ones that Taft and other leaders want to close.

GOP leaders say the start of next session fits their plan. Congress will meet for about two weeks before the President is inaugurated. Debate could start then and continue until the issue is decided.

Southern democrats are certain to stage a bitter and determined battle against the change.

Taking The Pulse Of Europe

False Money Values Hinder Trade Recovery Through West Europe

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third of a series of letters dealing with present conditions in western Europe.)

Zurich, Switzerland, Europe, 1948

Dear Son:

Climbing through mountain passes from Lake Como to the Swiss Customs, we waved a friendly hand backward. We remembered most a waiter at Klorencia saying, "We Italians have one big enemy in Russian Communism, but we've got that ghost laid for five-year period through the last month's elections. We may have one small enemy in the United States. Sometimes it seems as though the United States wants war soon with Russia to get it over with. We want to be a nation of Italians at work in peace."

Snow-clogged mountain passes made it necessary to take the Gotthard railroad tunnel.

It is difficult to speak of cleanliness as a national institution, but certainly an introduction to a Swiss electric train, railroad station windows reflecting into beautifully-kept cow barns, told a psychological story of self-respect, independence, and national pride. Only Holland with Switzerland reflected the higher American standards of personal life.

HCL MAIN TALK

Of course throughout Switzerland from Luzerne, a beautiful mountain lake city, to Zurich, the Swiss financial New York, to Basel, the city of intrigue, to the Lake Geneva country, a bit depressed through lack of tourists and students, money and the high cost of living was the main talk.

After leaving a brave and busy Italy where a chauffeur took care of a family of four on $10 a week through a hard winter at Genoa, we had not too much sympathy for a grumbling Swiss chauffeur who thought his $25 a week a great hardship because his wife's business was not doing as well as last year. We even doubted whether the five meals a day customary in Switzerland had been shortened.

We saw no unemployment. The people were as stocky and hard-muscled as the ever-present brown Swiss milk herd. There was little talk of war among the people. War was always happening and the Swiss were always out of it. The stories of William Tell stand to them symbolic of permanent independence. Of course all bridgeheads are mined permanently awaiting the electric button to block an enemy at all borders should an invader try to come.

The most significant industry of Switzerland, outside of intrigue of foreign refugees and international spy rings, is money. At Zurich every day the money of every nation, except Russia, is freely exchanged at banks. Official rates such as an English pound for $4.600 Italian lira for $1,300 French francs for $1, are totally ignored. Zurich makes the money market everywhere in Europe. The English pound is worth about $2.75. French and Italian money is discounted from 10 to 20 per cent. The Swiss franc as tied into the American dollar on a basis of 25 cents a franc, has become a one-way street which foreign currencies must walk along for what they are really worth. This money reality, based upon gold both in New York and Zurich, forecasts a future. It shows that today, at least, Bretton Woods and an international currency are very far away. It shows that free world trade awaits a monetary cleanup. And when one reaches the French border with English pounds bought at $2.75, we find a complete indifference whether one has English pounds, American dollars or Traveller's Checks. But there is an intense concern that no one crosses into France with more than 4,000 francs $12. And when one crosses into England or Belgium or Holland with pounds or Belgian francs or Dutch money the same intense concern stops every traveller at the border.

"SOFT" AND "HARD"
So Europe today is divided between the "soft" and "hard" currencies. The only "hard" honest money in Europe is Swiss—almost as "hard" as Scandinavia. The "softest" is English. The forecast is that the English pound must reform, probably within a matter of months, to its real value in world trade. By Marshall Plan help the money exchangers at Zurich will place the world price of pounds at $3. Then perhaps Italy and France and even depressed Holland may find their money hardening. Only then will the road block of fake money be ended. Only then may the slow approach be made to a world money where all may trade in all countries, save those under Russian control, without black markets and cheating and smuggling of money and goods.

While all Europe slowly is climbing toward a better standard of living with more merchandise everywhere, there can be no full recovery until American gold and the American dollar can move in justice and freedom within those countries which American gold and goods are to hasten toward money solvency.

And so on over the low rolling cattle-studded western foothills of the Alps into France.

NEEDS ONE MORE

It was not until we reached Paris that the real bothersome business of money became apparent. The franc is worth three different prices the same day. A hotel concierge willingly cashes a Traveller's Check for 315 francs to a dollar. The perfume merchant takes your check for 300 francs. The black market runner meets you near the American Express office and offers you 340 francs for an American dollar bill and 325 francs for American Express Traveller's Checks. But at the Paris branch of the Chase National Bank you meet an official French control rate of 247 francs as a so-called export rate. In effect this means an American can drink a bottle of champagne or buy a bottle of perfume in France for use there on the same basis as a Frenchman—but if he intends to take it to America, it is 30 per cent more. There can be no good-will in trade until such dishonesty is ended.

As one French worker travelling as interpreter said: "This world needs one money everywhere—at least, in a United States of Europe."

Claire Trevor Decides She Wants To Be Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—After all these years, Claire Trevor has decided she wants to be a star. Claire has specialized in first-class supporting parts, such as those in "Stagecoach," "Dead End" and "Murder, My Sweet," while taking an occasional flier at leading roles. This has been going on for 15 years and she now says she's aiming at the top bracket.

"Until now I always thought of the movies as a temporary arrangement," she explained on the "Lucky Stiff" set. "I had always thought of myself as a stage actress. But I had a few flings at the stage and I decided I like pictures better."

"Now that I no longer feel temporary in the movies, I want stardom. Heretofore I never felt the demands were worth the advantages. But I realize that's the only way I can get top roles, top directors and top cameramen."

Mack Sennett will be honored with a dinner at the Masquers club this week. Frank Capra, Leo McCarey, Harold Lloyd, Buster Keaton and Frank Fay will be among the speakers. Hollywood's consciences has been hurting since D. W. Griffith died in obscurity. Cecil B. DeMille has figured to reheat mashed potatoes so that they are fluffy and delicious add a well-beaten egg and pile lightly into a greased baking dish; brown in a hot oven

If You Aren't Married Don't Worry One Bit About Status

This I write in defense of the unmarried women of the world—dubbed "old maids" and looked upon with pity. It is not that I myself aspire to evolve into one. It's just that I am convinced they may have something there.

As a child—nay, as a babe—I began to see the handwriting on the wall. The unmarried uncle on my mother's side—ah, he could spend the week, even the month with us unasked, simply because he was a boon to civilization. But the unmarried aunt on my father's side—"Well," someone whispered, "I suppose you know the story..."

At the age of nine months, when I could not ask how I should behave, it became impressed upon me by example how I must carry on with my two unmarried relatives. When Uncle Casanova (the card) breezed into my presence I was to sit erect in my crib, blink my eyes and gurgle—giving out my best baby smile. Yes, and when Uncle Casanova (the card) gave me a resounding smack on my outer extremities (as he was certain to do) I was to be beside myself with childish glee. If Uncle Casanova should hold his hand out to me, I must grasp it because it meant Uncle Casanova (the card) was going to hold me on his knee. Ha, ha, yes, no matter what the age, women just went for my Uncle Casanova (the card!)

But whenever my Aunt Callopo (poor thing) peered in my nursery door, I must draw myself up and stare at her blankly. Were she to go at me, I was to begin to whimper and turn on the tears. Aunt Callopo (poor thing) would be sure to want to pinch my cheek—but I must pull away. And oh! what if Aunt Callopo (poor thing) should want to pick me up? Well, other relatives would have to watch closely. Why, Aunt Callopo (poor thing) just adored children and might even abduct me right from under my roof! It was such a pity about Aunt Callopo (poor thing!)

And then I began to grow up and see things as they really were. Dear Uncle Casanova (the card, women's choice, men of men) would be the death of my grandmother yet. The good-looking scoundrel, turned up not as a wolf at the gals door, but as an accessory to the wolf at granny's door. He would wine, dine and charm, but work—ha! He didn't even know what WPA stood for! His cloak of glory was as a shroud on an skeleton (in our closet!)

And Aunt Callopo (poor thing). She was the backbone of the family. Frivolous and alluring relatives could always find in her a tender touch—financial and otherwise. She owned her own business, made a fortune, outdressed every female in town and retired with a household of servants. And she detested children—and had brushed off a dozen men.

This "old maid" stuff is fostered by the married women who feel they've really done something in snagging a man. I even suspect the married among my young friends looking at me askance sometimes, perhaps wondering "how on earth she can bear making a good salary, and not having to save all she can to buy new hings for the garage door." Boy, how I suffer.

So if you're not married, don't worry about it. (Anyway, this is leap year, you know.)—LEATRICE ROSS

Navy Still Is Favoring Its Annapolis Men In Courts

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Speaker Joe Martin and Sen. Alben Barkley are on the opposite sides of the political fence, but, meeting by accident at a social function the other day, Speaker Martin went up to Barkley and said:

"Senator, I am sorry I have not had the opportunity to congratulate you on the high honor that your party has seen fit to bestow upon you."

"Well, you know it reminds me of the story of the man who had two sons," replied Sen. Barkley. "One of them became a sailor and went to sea, the other became vice president and he hasn't heard from either one of them since."

OBSCURE COURT-MARTIAL

Effective Feb. 1, the Army will revamp its system of military justice—thanks to a last-minute amendment which Congress tacked onto the draft act. But the medieval Naval code, which mete out separate justice for the gold braid and the bell-bottoms, still remains unchanged.

Actually, Navy justice hasn't altered basically since the rough-and-tumble days of John Paul Jones. Even among the gold braid, Annapolis-graduated officers get preferred treatment before Naval courts. For example, a junior officer who came up from the ranks was forced to take the rap recently at Washington's Naval Research Laboratory, while his commanding officers got off with a figurative slap on-the-wrist.

Lt. Jg Kenneth L. Curtis was charged and convicted of stealing a Navy generator. Despite his conviction, the amazing fact is that the generator was found bolted to the floor of the summer cottage of his senior officer, Commander Louis R. Hird, at Gray Eagle Lake, Minn. Curtis hadn't even signed the papers authorizing the shipment.

Commander Hird, an Annapolis man, got off with a light reprimand for "unauthorized use of Navy property." He had several charges against him, but all were dismissed, and after the trial, he shook hands all around and joked with the officers who had tried the case. Lt. Curtis, on the other hand, was convicted on stealing the generator.

Capt. Hilford Owen, the research laboratory's commanding officer, another Annapolis grad, also was accused of "borrowing" Navy equipment. But apparently wanting to get out of the Navy, he pleaded "insanity." A Navy doctor, Comdr. John Edward Nardini of Bethesda Naval Hospital, testified that Capt. Owen was "flustered" and suffered from "mild depression." His "continuity of ideas" also wasn't what it should be. His examination of Capt. Owen had lasted only one hour and 30 minutes.

The Naval court, however, turned Capt. Owen's case back to the convening authority because it found "reasonable doubt" of the defendant's sanity—if normal procedure is followed, the captain will get his discharge—but probably no punishment.

Note—Both Capt. Owen and Commander Hird were able to buy new Buicks at dealer's price through Waldo Andrews, a Detroit promoter who was seeking contracts from the Naval Research Laboratory for manufacturing precision tools. Yet Lt. Curtis, who didn't get a Buick, was the only one convicted by the Naval court-martial. Curtis is not an Annapolis man.

GOP YOUNG BLOOD

Two bigshot gamblers, Dan Sullivan and Lincoln Fitzgerald, were led into a courtroom at Mount Clemens, Mich., last week to stand trial. They had fled from Michigan nearly four years before, and their return marked a triumph for go-getting Young Republican Ed Jacob, prosecutor of Macomb County.

It also highlighted a row inside Michigan Republican circles which flared briefly at the Philadelphia convention and which probably will be followed up by the Dewey administration—if there is one.

At Philadelphia, the strong Vandenberg contingent of the Michigan delegation put the skids under pro-Dewey Mrs. Dudley Hay as secretary of the Republican National Committee. Only Michiganian who stood up for Mrs. Hay was Young Ed Jacob.

Mrs. Hay had helped him in his crime cleanup of Macomb County, which stands cheek-and-jowl alongside Detroit and gets a backwash of Detroit racketeers and gamblers.

From Macomb County, gamblers Danny Sullivan and Lincoln Fitzgerald fled to Reno, Nev., in 1945. There Ed Jacob pursued them, and with the help of Nevada's Gov. Vail Pittman and Attorney General Allen Bible last week finally brought them back to Michigan.

Powerful GOP forces in Michigan, allegedly backed by Frank McKay, the GOP race-track oil-shot, are now out to defeat Jacob. Whether he wins or not, however, the Dewey boys are watching Jacob. They haven't forgotten his help at Philadelphia, and are looking round for young GOP blood anyway.

Actor Gary Merrill Declares Army Fitted Him For Career

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—Actor Gary Merrill says that the U. S. Army was exactly the outfit to fit him for a successful postwar career.

Gary, recently featured in the Broadway play "Born Yesterday," and currently starred in a network whodunit program called "Dr. Standish, Medical Examiner," says he was deeply disappointed after he was greeted and grabbed by Uncle Sam. Fired with a true thespian's imagination, he hankered for an adventurous career. But his superiors had different ideas. Gary found himself assigned to Special Services for the duration. His orders were to help maintain GI morale by entertaining his uniformed brethren.

Until he entered the Army in April, 1941, Gary was an obscure theatrical job hunter. His record of greasepaint achievement was negligible, to give him the best of it. One month after his discharge, four-and-a-half years after his entry, he was winning the huzzahs of drama critics for his skillful performance as a reporter who gets the girl in "Born Yesterday." Gary got that job at the last moment, while the play already was in Boston on its tryout pre-Broadway tour, on the recommendation of Moss Hart, who liked Gary's work in Hart's Air Forces' epic, "Winged Victory."

In his first army year he worked under Ezra Stone's direction at Camp Upton in "Brother Rat," "Boy Meets Girl," "Three Men on a Horse" and similar spoofs. When Irving Berlin organized "This is the Army" at Upton, Gary was drafted into the cast. This led to a part in Hart's "Winged Victory."

Born in Hartford, Conn., 33 years ago, Gary got his initial yen for the stage, when, as a 13 year-old with a freshish premature baritone, he was cast as a deep-throated villain in a one-act play. "I still have the same baritone voice and the same ambitions for a stage career," said Gary. "The only difference is that now I'm getting paid well for my ambitions."

Jean McCall Becomes Bride Of Bill Stuart

An informal double ring ceremony in the Guy M. Stuart home, 700 Alyford, Monday afternoon united in marriage Jean McCall and Bill M. Stuart. Vows were solemnized by Dr. P. D. O'Brien.

The wedding party stood before a wall-length mirror draped in deep rose satin. Runners of ivy extended to baskets of pastel-colored summer flowers.

The bride's wedding band was a more than a century old heirloom of the Stuart family. After the bride's tradition she wore the ring as something old, her wedding dress a blue air corps handkerchief, a gift to Mrs. Stuart from her son. Something borrowed was a ring from the bride's sister, Mrs. Paul Eslinger. She carried a penny in one shoe, a Dutch coin in the other.

The bride was attired in a grey suit, cut with three-quarter length sleeves and slim skirt. The fitted bodice extended into a bustle back. Her accessories were in red and she wore a long shoulder corsage of deep rose carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. A. L. Reece of Westbrook, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Reece wore a dress with pink and white figures on a black background. Her corsage was in pink and white carnations.

Jim Hartley served as best man. A reception following the ceremony complimented the couple. The wedding cake, set on a mirror reflector and circled in ivy, centered the refreshment table. Summer flowers comprised a low bouquet at one end. Mrs. Guy M.

Stuart, mother of the bridegroom, was at the punch service.

The bride is a graduate of Wichita Falls schools. She has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Paul Eslinger, since childhood. The bridegroom, a graduate of Graham schools, served four and one-half years with the air force. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart will make their home in Fort Worth, where he is employed with Consolidated vultee aircraft.

Invitation to the ceremony was sent Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stuteville, Betty Stuteville, Mr. and Mrs. George Patch, H. C. Mobley, A. L. Reece of Westbrook, Jerry Sue Reece, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eslinger, Mikie and Shawnee McCall, Leatrice Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Stuart, and C. H. Morris.

WHEN IS SIAMESE KITTEN NOT ONE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17, (AP)—When is a Siamese cat not a Siamese cat?
Four five seconds are up. The answer: When its parents are alley cats.

Rags, definitely an alley cat, gave birth to five kittens. The father, — well, er, he was only seen once scaling the back fence in a hurry. But Rags kittens were Siamese because they were attached to each other by their abdomens.

When one of the kittens died, Rags' owners, Mr. and Mrs. William Rozenbach, turned the others over to the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Samoans Facing Nationality Mixup

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa — Hundreds of Samoans are virtually "captives" on their islands today because administrative interpretations of U. S. nationality acts have shorn them of the right to travel. The nationality acts of 1924 and 1940 did not apply specifically to Samoa. State department and immigration service interpretations differ. As a result, about 30 Samoans qualified for travel permits under the state department interpretation have been detained in Hawaii by the immigration service. And the navy in Samoa has ceased issuing permits to anyone who does not meet the rigid immigration service standard.

By a belated act of Congress, Samoans living in eastern Samoa when it became a United States possession in 1900 became Amer-

CASE HISTORY NO. 212. This young man had a bad fall from the top to the bottom of a stairway. Two days later numbness in the left leg was felt and within six months paralysis in both limbs was such that he had to creep up the stairs on hands and knees. Eminent specialists examined him and said nothing could be done. As a last hope Chiropractic aid was sought. X-rays of the spine were taken and adjustments commenced to restore the flow of nerve energy to the limbs. Response was slow, but within approximately one year the patient could walk without assistance and was ready to return to work.

CASE HISTORY No. 78. This woman came to a Chiropractor complaining of "heaviness" in the limbs, dizziness and marked nervous debility. A diabetic condition was suspected and urinalysis revealed it to be advanced. Spinal adjustments were begun at once to relieve nerve interference between the brain and the pancreas. The first adjustment was successful in bringing considerable relief from the upsetting symptoms, and within a month the patient had recovered her poise and was permitted a nearly normal diet. Today the woman is enjoying excellent health. At no time was insulin administered.

CASE HISTORY No. 127. This patient had had headaches and had been informed that it was a sinus condition and nothing could be done for him. As time went on the pain became steadily worse until at times a mental collapse was feared. A friend strongly advised him to try Chiropractic, which he did. There has been no return of the sinus condition since the first spinal adjustment was given.

WHY YOU ARE ILL. Chiropractors have found that illness and disease are most often caused by pressure upon the nerves which carry vital nerve force from the brain to various parts of the body. The nervous system radiates from the spinal column, and it is here that even slight pressure from a displaced segment of the spine can impede the flow of nerve force from the brain, thus interfering with the function of one or more parts of the body. This nerve interference can be located accurately by the Chiropractic technique. The Chiropractor can then remove the pressure by a single adjustment with his hands only. Drugs and surgery are not employed. Once the cause of the illness is removed, Nature itself restores the affected part to normal.

Johnson Says Voters Must Choose Between Philosophies

DALLAS, Aug. 17.—Lyndon Johnson, who says Texas voters have a choice Aug. 28 between two political philosophies, makes a radio broadcast here shortly after noon today.

Then the 10th district congressman will take his U. S. senatorial runoff campaign against former Gov. Coke Stevenson to Palestine in East Texas.

Johnson outlined to an audience at Denton last night a program he labeled "Preparedness, Peace, and Progress." Then he discussed his opponent.

He said "my opponent thinks you ought to move government back to the county court house." He said voters would choose Aug. 28 between opposing political philosophies.

He said the choice they must make is "between a man who believes we can prepare, have peace, and progress through the central government," and "one who can see no farther than the county court house."

Johnson said he believed "functions which can be performed in the county court house should be performed there." But he didn't believe such problems as "a 70 foot and mouth disease, or construction of REA lines could be handled at the county court house. Both at Amarillo, where he made

Stevenson Charges Opponent Didn't Back Anti-Red Action

HOUSTON, Aug. 17.—Former Gov. Coke Stevenson, after attacking his opponent's voting record in Congress, carried his runoff campaign for the U. S. Senate today into Liberty county and Beaumont.

In a statewide broadcast last night, Stevenson said the congressional directory shows that Lyndon Johnson failed on three occasions to support anti-communist action in the House of Representatives.

"The communists are busy in this country," said Stevenson.

Planes Called Art Window Menace

PARIS.—Lovers of French art are agitating for removal of the Chartres airdrome, whose landing strips are less than 450 yards from the towers of the world-famous Chartres cathedral. They were supported in a recent letter from Education Minister Edouard Depreux to Air Minister Andre Maroseill.

It is said that the mere passage of a big bomber at a low altitude would endanger treasured stained-glass windows by the vibration of its motors. The windows, removed to safety during the war, have now been replaced in large part.

State Health Officer George W. Cox said the new floor will house the offices of the cripple children division, the hospital survey division, the auditorium and additional space for the state laboratory.

Federal Inspection Of Meat Is Attacked

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Only 69 per cent of the 23 billion pounds of meat processed in the United States last year had the "complete" protection of Federal inspection, the food and hygiene committee of the American Veterinary Medical association asserted today.

Only about half of the 203 million pounds of dressed poultry sold to the public had veterinary inspection, the committee told the associations annual convention. Of the poultry inspected, 1,620,000 pounds was rejected as unfit for human use.

Undulant Fever Making Rapid Gains In U. S.

Associated press science reporter SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Undulant fever now is 60 times as prevalent as it was 20 years ago when it first became a reportable disease, Dr. James H. Steele, of Atlanta, chief veterinarian of the U. S. public health service, reported today.

This disease now is one of the "big three" which affect both animal and man, Dr. Steele said in a paper prepared for delivery to the American Veterinary Medical association. The other two he named as sleeping sickness and rabies.

There were fewer than 100 cases of undulant fever reported in 1928. Last year more than 6,000 human cases were reported, he said.

Undulant fever, sometimes called brucellosis, Malta fever or milk fever, is caused by a microbe which is picked up by cows and other animals. It can be passed to humans in raw milk but the great percentage of human infections come from direct contact with animals, Dr. Steele said.

Dr. I. A. Merchant, of Iowa State college, said the veterinary profession could eradicate the disease. He said the veterinarians also were working to curb bovine mastitis, a disease which also can be responsible for the "cholera infantum" that took the lives of many babies several generations ago.

Cow Pox, which can affect milkers, and a staphylococcus germ which causes sinus trouble in humans also are being fought, Dr. Merchant said.
