I support the hospital

A couple of years ago, I wrote a column saying that if the Muleshoe Hospital were to be successful, a tax base is needed.

Nothing since then has caused me to change my mind.

On June 20, Bailey County and a portion of Parmer County (part of Lazbuddie) will be voting on whether to establish a hospital district. There is no question in my mind that the informed voter must vote YES.

At the beginning of the voting process, it appeared that a hospital district would be voted in overwhelmingly. But then some misinformation entered the process so it could be in doubt.

It shouldn't be. A hospital is needed in the Muleshoe area. And the cost in taxes will be slight.

The Farwell area showed good foresight years ago in establishing a hospital district. Thus, it is able to offer a local physician, dentist and pharmacist to its community. Well done.

Now it's time for folks who use the Muleshoe trade area as their home to do likewise. The advantages of having a local hospital are tremendous. And, to reiterate, the cost in tax dollars is slight.

One of my Muleshoe friends stopped by the Tribune last week to tell me about some of the misinformation. It was downright silly. No, the tax rate won't be 75 cents. And, no, you won't be paying an additional $400 in taxes.

The maximum rate at which the district may tax without going back to the people for a vote is 25 cents per $100 of assessed value. And that's the maximum. If all goes well, with increased state aid to rural hospitals as expected, the tax rate should be less.

And let's take a look at the many advantages:

- If you or a loved one suffers an emergency situation and you need a physician's help immediately, it's 30 miles to Clovis or 68 miles to Lubbock. In an emergency, we all know what could happen by then. Going just five or six blocks can mean a life saved.

- The jobs to be created, through nurses and nursing home and hospital employees, will be a big plus for the local economy.

- It will boost property values. Having a hospital in the community is a good inducement for folks and industry to move here.

- The offshoots of a hospital: nursing home, local physicians, a pharmacy become available. This translates into complete medical care - at home.

And all this for a few tax dollars. It's worth it. Well worth it.

Please, if you are in the Lazbuddie area included in the proposed hospital district, or if you are one of our Bailey County subscribers, make sure you cast a yes vote on June 20.

We're talking about our community's future: let's make it a positive one.

News for folks looking forward to Border Town Days:

It now appears definite: Charlie Phillips and his band will play here July 28.

Well, Lela, you know I picked the A's to win the World Series this year so you may get a chance to see your cousin pitch in that annual event.

I'm on a roll right now: my last pick of a champion was in the NBA last October - the Detroit Pistons.

Monetary award to be increased

Dustin Hardage was this year's winner of the Farwell High School Loving Cup.

Currently there is a drive to increase the monetary award to accompany the trophy. Persons interested in this scholarship drive should contact former school superintendent W. M. Roberts, or Mrs. Mildred Cooper, or her son, Dr. Larry Cooper. It is hoped that a self-perpetuating scholarship fund can be set up so that there will be a tangible reward for each recipient in the future.

Farwell faces end to burning

The Farwell City Council Tuesday faced what it would do when open burning in the city ends Aug. 30.

Water Supt. Dee Hammit presented some equipment estimates: a new compactor, to pick up trash, at $62,000; a 1981 rebuilt compactor, at $23,000; dumpsters to be placed in alleys, at $69,000. Or $93,000 for a 5-year lease purchase agreement including a compactor and dumpsters.

If the city handles collection, one contractor would be needed and one person would operate it. Dumpsters would be placed in alleys.

It was stated at the meeting that various options that might be available the city were:

- Contract the pickups to a private firm. Haul the refuse to Amarillo.

- Have residents buy their own individual small compactors.

- Dump items such as tree limbs at the Clovis landfill.

It was noted that once the city's landfill fills up, it is unlikely that Farwell could finance a new landfill since new federal rules virtually prohibit new small landfills.

Hammit was asked to check into the options and report back at the council's July meeting.

In other business, the council:

- Okayed budgeting $2,500 in next year's budget for a computer and printer for the water and sewer department due to the increasing number of reports that must be filled out for state and federal agencies.

- Discussed a request from Dickie Magness, owner of Art 'n Such, who asked that her garbage rate be adjusted downward since the trash there is only emptied about four times a year, it was said.

It was indicated that if the council approves an adjustment, other city businesses may seek the same changes. The council tabled the request until further investigation.

- Approved a request from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boling that they be allowed to buy one plot at the city cemetery and use one headstone since they plan to donate their bodies to medical science.

- Received a letter from Cooke Cablevision saying that Cooke will be increasing its basic rate by $1, additional outlets by 25 cents and HBO by 95 cents, effective July 1. All other rates and charges will stay the same.

The letter said that the "cost of living" adjustment was due "to increased operating costs and sizeable capital expenditures. Considerable resources have been expended to ensure that our cable system complies with new FCC signal leakage rules."

- Approved four permit applications: Ted Mesman, a fence; Bill Roberts, a storage building; Mike Woods, a back porch deck, and Frank Galvan, a garage.

- Rejected a variance request by Jerry and Shondra McIntosh to place a wooden garage on their property on Second Street. It only recently was found that the property is in a fire zone.

Metal or masonry structures are okay.

The council had tried to find a way to approve the request but a letter from the State Board of Insurance killed the consideration. The letter noted:

"Currently, Farwell is receiving credit for enforcement of the building code. Furthermore, there is the possibility that additional credit (to the key rate) may be extended in the future, depending on how well the code has been and is being enforced. Naturally, this should be determined during the next inspection of the city.

"While the construction of a single wooden structure may not result in removal of credit and a resulting increase in the charge, it may serve as an example to justify future consideration of this type of building or other building that do not comply with City Codes. If this were to happen and additional structures were built that do not comply with existing codes, then the likelihood for removal of the existing credit would increase. Naturally, the probability of future credit would diminish."

The key rate determines how much fire insurance city property owners must pay. The more credits, the

Texico seeks deputy marshal

The Texico City Council voted Tuesday to seek applicants for a certified police deputy's post.

The vote was 4-0. Bryan Kube was absent; he has had surgery at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

Persons who are certified police officers may pick up an application at City Hall and submit their resumes there.

The topic of whether to add a deputy arose at the May 23 council session when it was noted that City Marshal Brent Byrum was working 70 to 75 hour weeks.

The question facing the council was whether to have Byrum maintain that schedule while being paid for 40 hours work; whether to pay him more; whether to have him cut back without adding a deputy, or whether to have him cut back and add a deputy.

Mayor Steve Chancy reiterated his view that the safety of the residents should be a priority and pressed for adding a deputy. He noted that $14,000 is included in the city's working budget for such a post.

The main discussion involved whether to add an uncertified deputy at a salary that could be as low as minimum wage or to seek a certified officer. The question now is whether any certified officers will seek a post at the salary budgeted.

Byrum said that he knew of three retired Air Force officers who would be willing to work at minimum wage for the city as uncertified deputies. But they would want to stay living in Clovis.

"I would prefer a deputy live in Texico," said Byrum. City Attorney Duane Hamar stressed that if the city adds a deputy, it would be wiser to have the deputy certified (which involves extra training and passing state tests) due to legal reasons.

In another major topic left from the last meeting, the council discussed how to reduce the amount of delinquent water and sewer bills.

After the newspaper article appeared, there was a big improvement in bills being paid, it was stated.

Hamar discussed two options when bills become delinquent: liens can be placed against the property or folks can be sued in court.

The council had a problem with placing liens against property since many of the bad debtors are renters. And the problem with suing is the high cost of a filing fee.

Chancy said the council needed to raise the current deposit (now $30) and pursue the delinquencies aggressively if they fall two months behind. Also, cut-off procedures need to be established. "I think the people who run up the delinquencies should be the ones to pay," he said.

Chancy said more information was needed before a decision could be made so the issue was tabled until the next meeting.

The council also: - Said the committee that had been appointed to see what could be done to rid the city of junk hadn't met yet. The committee consists of Hamar, Byrum and City Judge Howard Billingsley.

- Heard councilman Butch Tharp say that two anonymous residents have complained about the zoning and debris situations "getting out of hand."

- Heard Chancy appoint Tharp and Oran Jay Autrey to a two-man committee to oversee street repairs. City employees have been preparing equipment to do repairs, too. A tar pot has been bought; the air compressor fixed, and parts will be bought for the cutting torch.

- Heard Chancy tell city employees to stake out a burn pile and a metals pile at the former landfill site so city residents could take items there. The transfer station is in place, too.

Residents who want to bring limbs, etc., to the burn pile, or items to the metals pile must fill out a form at City Hall, pick up the key there and will have a city employee watch while they dump the materials.

The landfill itself is closed for garbage.

- Approved the Chamber of Commerce's plans to order materials to cover the inside wall of the community building. Lewis Cooper is in charge of the project. Although the city is paying for the project (the Chamber is donating labor), donations are accepted.

As for the outside wall, the council plans to repair it. Autrey will recommend the best way to go about it.

Although there is the possibility that down the road the city would like to have a new building, "we need to fix the outside wall now," said councilman Doyal LaRue.

- Agreed to buy a liner and tool box for the new city pickup and authorized the purchase of a case of weed killer.

- Heard Chancy say that he has passed his New Mexico real estate test and will work part-time for Pierce Realty.

- Heard Chancy report that the city was turned down on its request for $200,000 in state funds for street repairs. Streets were a low priority with the state.

He said Texico can re-submit an application for the CDBG funds available next year and perhaps a different project would be sought.

Parmer questions penalties

Parmer County is unwilling to pay penalties to the state of Texas for having kept open the Lazbuddie dump site.

At Monday's Parmer County Commissioners' meeting, a letter was received from Burgess Jackson, assistant Attorney General, Environmental Protection Division. He wants Parmer County to pay the state a civil penalty of $1,500, plus $1,000 in attorney's fees and court costs.

Jackson wrote that it's the state's policy to collect penalties on all suits. He also said he did not tell the commissioners at their meeting last year that if Parmer County agreed to close the dump and clean it up, there would be no penalty.

The commissioners' viewpoint is different. They say that Jackson indicated there would be no penalty. Furthermore, they question why they should pay court costs and attorney's fees since there was no suit - just the threat of a suit.

The commissioners authorized County Attorney Charles Aycock to write to the state Attorney General and say no penalty should be involved.

Meanwhile, the long-running discussion of the Permanent School Fund again came up when Friona School Supt. Hal Ratcliff attended the meeting.

Ratcliff presented a "plan of action" so that the county could distribute Friona's portion of the fund to Friona. It said:

"Between 1989 and 1995, Friona Schools plan to make the following permanent improvements (with approximate costs cited):

- Administrative offices, $225,000;

- Remodel existing administrative offices at high school into classrooms, etc., $20,000.

- Install ceiling fans in all classrooms, $20,000.

- Construction of new classrooms if required by state, $200,000.

- Install stadium poles and lights at Friona High School, $40,000.

"At the end of the six year period, any of the Permanent School Fund remaining would be utilized to pay off the final year of our bond payments.

"Each year the facilities which will be constructed will be presented to the Commissioners' Court for their approval.

"All of the Permanent School Fund would be placed in a Capital Acquisition Fund and would not be commingled with any of our school funds. The Commissioners' Court will be provided documentation as soon as each project is completed and a copy of each year's audit report would be sent to the Commissioners' Court."

The letter did not include mention of the overpass over the highway for the junior high students, which was earlier noted by Friona officials as a priority project.

As for the administrative offices' funds, Friona Schools want to buy the vacant Friona Industries office.

The Commissioners voted 4-0 to reject giving Friona its portion of the Permanent School Fund for these projects. Ernest Anthony abstained.

Instead, the commissioners indicated that when Ratcliff returns with a project with a solid price tag and specifics

Planned hospital district discussed

About 35 Lazbuddie residents attended a meeting Monday night to find out about the proposed new hospital district in Muleshoe which would include parts of Lazbuddie.

The Lazbuddie residents who have Muleshoe addresses are those who have been included in the proposed hospital district. The election is June 20.

"The main reason that I'm supporting this is that we need a hospital in this area. We've used the hospital in Muleshoe as long as I can remember," said Darrell Jennings who is a member of the current hospital board. "If I had a problem, I'd like a good facility for them to take me or anybody to."

Jennings said the current facility needs to be upgraded and personnel need to be added.

He explained that the current board had re-opened the West Plains Hospital in Muleshoe when they did because they would have had problems with re-licensing if they had waited. Had they waited any longer, the facility would have had to meet new building codes, and that would have meant costly renovations.

"I'm going to vote for it, but just because we have a hospital district, doesn't mean we will have a good hospital," said former board member Frank Hinkson. "We will need a competent administrator and board, and we will need to ensure that people pay their bills."

"It is real important to have you, the people of this district use this facility," said Hinkson. "It cannot function if we don't use it."

He added that good doctors and medical staff must be recruited.

Speakers explained that the hospital needs to increase the current staff before it can qualify for Medicare patients. Once it gets back the Medicare patients, the hospital and nursing home can begin to pay its own way.

The proposed tax rate with current valuations would generate about $500,000 per year from the entire district including Bailey County and Parmer County residents. It currently costs about $125,000 per month to keep the facility going.

If the new hospital district is approved, the new temporary board would have to acquire West Plains Hospital from its current board, and to restructure current debts so that they can keep things going. Then they would have to upgrade the facility so that it would qualify for Medicare patients.

Speakers stressed that all of the problems would not be solved over night.

Former board member Demp Foster told those present about his son who had been in an accident. He was stabilized at West Plains Hospital, and a nurse was sent along with him in the ambulance to Lubbock.

"She worked on him all the way," said Foster. When he arrived in Lubbock, "they told us if we had gone 10 more miles, we would have lost him. I'm going to vote yes."

Residents asked questions about who can vote in the election, and how the taxing would be done. They also asked about the current debts and assets of the West Plains Medical Center.

They were assured that the new hospital district would have to function as school boards do - with open meetings and open disclosure of the financial records.

Jennings said Methodist Hospital in Lubbock has been assisting the West Plains Hospital in seeking a new administrator for the nursing home and for the hospital itself. The current board has also gotten a new accounting firm to set up an accounting system with checks and balances so that they know what is going on.

Questions were asked about forcing indigent patients to pay their bills. They were told that the truly indigent have never been a problem here. In Muleshoe they often see people who are working, but have no medical insurance. They have a job and some assets, but they don't qualify as truly indigent.

The meeting ended rather

Storm hits our area

High winds and some hail accompanied the storm on Monday night that brought 80 mile per hour winds and rain to the area.

Storm shelters in Muleshoe were open, and roads were closed there.

Fred Chandler at Sherley Anderson Pittman reported that .75" of rain fell at the elevator Monday night, and 2 evergreen trees were blown over.

Walter Curd reported 1" of rain fell in Texico.

Lonnie McFarland reported that at least 1" of rain fell in Lariat. He reported some hail damage east of the Sherley Anderson Grain elevator which ripped up some corn and cotton.

"My elevator superintendent went to the basement and he said it was the worst wind he had seen here," said McFarland. The elevator was also without electricity for a while Monday night.

Rain!

Cool, steady rains brought between one half inch and a full inch of moisture to Twin City residents on June 8.

Bobbie McFarland reported .7" of rain at the Sherley Anderson Pittman Elevator in Farwell, but she said that residents from the south end of town such as Johnnie Williams reported 1".

Yalonda McFarland reported .5" - .6" of moisture near the Sherley Grain elevator in Lariat.

Dana Murrell of the Sherley Grain Elevator in Lazbuddie reported 1" of rain fell there.

Rose Longley reported .75" fell at Farwell Feed Yard.

There was some hail reported with the rain, but it was small hail that did minimal damage in most places.

- Received one bid for a used bulldozer to be used at the city landfill. The bid from Tharp Dragline, for $7,000, was accepted. The machine will need work.

- Received one bid for the annual audit, from De'Aun Willoughby, for $3,000. It was accepted.

- Received two bids for street seal coating, from Eastwood, of Clovis, and Donahue, of Lubbock. The lower bid from Eastwood, of $29,700, was accepted.

- Tightened regulations on groups using electricity at the city park gazebo. To get the key at City Hall, a deposit of $10 will be asked. Loud music that bothers nearby residents will be prohibited.

for using the money, it likely will be approved.

As for the other county schools, Bovina has had its plans approved but hasn't requested money for them yet. Farwell and Lazbuddie haven't approached the commissioners yet.

The Permanent School Fund, of nearly $1 million, is in a Certificate of Deposit which matures at the end of June. It will be divided on a scholastic basis (number of possible students living in each district) among the four schools when they present specific plans and costs.

In other business, the commissioners received eight bids for janitorial services.

It awarded the contract to the lowest bidder, R&G Services of Clovis, the present contractor, for $860 a month.

Sanders to be inducted into Hall of Fame

Norma Sanders of Texico will be inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage on June 17. The former lady auctioneer is one of three Western Heritage recipients from around the U.S. this year to be inducted. There will also be three Cowgirl Honorees inducted.

Ms. Sanders will attend the Honoree Reunion supper on June 16 which is for inductees and invited guests.

On June 17, she will attend the Honoree Induction Ceremony at the Hereford Community Center, Park Ave at Ave. C, Hereford. She will be inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame at that time. There will be a luncheon for the inductees and their friends and family following the ceremony. The cost of the luncheon is $15 per person.

The Hall of Fame will be open from 3 - 5 p.m. for visiting with the new inductees.

At 7:30 p.m. there will be a trick roping exhibition by inductee Joan Wells.

On Saturday evening at 8 p.m. the annual Rhinestone Roundup and Benefit Auction will be held at the Hall of Fame. There will be a ranch supper, a silent auction, and a dance. Ms. Sanders will be the guest auctioneer for the oral part of the auction. There will also be prizes awarded at the "Last Chance Saloon Drawing" that evening. Tickets for the Rhinestone Roundup and Benefit Auction are available for $25 per person.

The weekend ends at 8 a.m. on June 18 when Ms. Sanders may attend the Farwell Breakfast and program for Inductees.

Below is the information that the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame will present about Norma Sanders:

"Glamour entered the livestock auction arena when Norma Sanders of Texico, New Mexico, graduated from the Missouri Auction School and held her first sale three days later. Sanders retained the title of America's Only Cowgirl Auctioneer from 1952 into the 1960's.

"After graduation from Texico High School, Ms. Sanders enrolled at Eastern New Mexico University as a music major. An accomplished musician on many instruments, she had ambitions to be a concert violinist. However, the lure of the livestock world had been fed by years of going to sales with her famous auctioneer father, Colonel John A. Sanders, and the young woman decided to follow in his footsteps. She started in the business by writing sales tickets for the livestock barn in Texico, and her involvement moved rapidly forward from there.

"From the very beginning, Ms. Sanders was deadly serious about her work as a lady auctioneer and was determined to do well not because of her unique role as "the only cowgirl" in the business, but because of her excellence as a skilled auctioneer. When she was hired to sell a rancher's horses, she tended strictly to business in order to sell those horses at the best possible prices.

"Her schooling as an auctioneer lasted for two weeks, with classes in session from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. and time off for just bites to eat. She confesses to being nervous when she stood before her class for the first time, something she obviously overcame since she graduated at the top of her class which consisted of 39 men, in addition to herself. She had received training in how to classify livestock types and how to evaluate objects for sale. Also, she learned how to be a good salesman by catching bids and how to chant the bids.

"A free lance auctioneer from the beginning of her career, Ms. Sanders had brochures printed to advertise herself and her business acumen. She also dressed herself in well-tailored western suits, high heeled boots and a big black western hat which became a trademark.

"The press loved Ms. Sanders from the very first, often interviewing and photographing the young saleswoman. True, she was unusual in the profession she had chosen and was thus newsworthy, but the most important reason for her popularity was that she was good at selling horses - good, bad or indifferent horses.

"One of Ms. Sanders' most attractive features as a successful auctioneer was the timbre of her voice. Not typically female, her voice is low-pitched and the sales talks she gave during the auction were presented clearly and plainly. She says, "I didn't want them to be sing-songy, catchy cries that didn't mean anything."

"People were naturally curious when they heard that a girl was to auction the animals and this curiosity or skepticism brought them to the sales. Whatever their reasons for coming, they left with the same conclusion - "She can auction all right!" Whether they came to buy or to be entertained, these large crowds were of great benefit to the sales' sponsors and Ms. Sanders' fame and fortune continued to grow.

"Ms. Sanders sold either for a percentage or at a flat rate per sale, depending on the arrangements made before the sale. As an average, her horse sales were usually from 35 to 50 animals and the time from five to six hours.

When asked what may have been her biggest sale, she hesitated and then answered, "Boy, you've got a good one there. It could have been the O.G. Hill and Sons and N. G. Ellison quarterhorse dispersal sale back in 1954 at Plainview, Texas, where they sold such horses as Frank Norfleet, Rawhide Hill and Hired Hand... or it could have been the George Weber Hereford Sale in Lewiston, Idaho, where they sold the Old Prince 64th line of bulls."

"Orville Howard reports that aside from big-time sales and glitter of Las Vegas, Norma Sanders also found time to sell the hometown auctions, farm consignments as well as ranch dispersals and productions across eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle. He adds that she was on a first name basis with about every quarterhorse breeder on the High Plains. Her willingness to help others shows in her holding numerous benefit auctions in the Northwest and Southwest. They include auctions to benefit the V.F. W., the Elks Club, the Eagles Club, country clubs and booster clubs of various organizations.

"Ms. Sanders' life was changed forever when she was critically injured in a traffic accident on a lonely stretch of highway between Weiser and Lewiston in Washington State. She regained consciousness 18 days later in a Boise, Idaho, hospital after suffering a severe head concussion, lacerations and a broken nose. Those 18 days are a blank in Norma's memory, and she credits a big silver-plated belt buckle with probably saving her life.

"After a time of recuperation, Ms. Sanders returned to the auction ring in California but was not able to maintain the pace or the pressure of professional auctioneering and returned to Texico for further recuperation. She later began to take on livestock commission work and teamed up with some Amarillo order buyers in the cattle trading business.

"Ms. Sanders lives today in Texico where she handles special consignments across the Southwest, works in the cattle trading business and helps in managing her mother's rental property. Still, she frequently feels the desire to return to the auction stand.

"'I'd like to give it one more pitch,' says this woman auctioneer. 'I stopped by a horse sale over in Clovis the other day just to see if I could feel the old rhyme and, sure enough, there it was. I do believe I could have raised the market eight dollars that day.'

"Gone for her may be the continuing excitement and clamour of the auction arena of the 1950's and the early 1960's, but this one-time great in the auctioneer's field still has the ability to chant those fast-coming bids and get the very best prices for the animals... and those critters may be either good, bad or indifferent.

"During the 14 year history of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center an auctioneer has not been named an honoree. Throughout time, in all lands, auctioneers have been the pivot for various and sundry sales. In the American West it's the livestock sales, a part of the culture. Few women chose to be livestock auctioneers. The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center recognizes this and thus names Norma Sanders a 1989 Western Heritage Honoree.

"Ms. Sanders not only pursued a career void of women, she excelled in it and was accepted by her peers as being first rate. Every time she entered the auction ring, she was effective and got top dollar for the animals. Norma... adept, expert, talented."

Wells must be covered

Recently there was a television program about the rescue of Jessica McClure from an abandoned water well in 1987. High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 reports that only two open hole related accidents have occurred in the Water District's area since the Water District's creation in 1951.

In 1986, a Randall County 6-year-old almost slipped into an old water well when he stepped of a school bus and ran along the road's shoulder to catch some papers. His watchful mother caught him by four fingers just as he slid into the well.

In 1981, 4-year-old Jared Artho was rescued unharmed 2 1/2 hours after he fell into an abandoned well in Deaf Smith County that his uncle was filling with sand.

Open hole accidents sometimes end tragically. In 1949, a 3 1/2 - year old California girl fell 95 feet into an abandoned well as she was running across a field with her sister and cousin. Her body was brought to the surface by rescuers 49 hours later.

"Open holes are a potential death trap. Some unused wells are simply open and may be hidden in a weedy area that the farmer avoids plowing because of the open hole. Anyone walking across the field could accidentally fall in and become trapped. If a child fell into an open hole only a few feet deep and the dirt caved in on top of him, he could suffocate," says Obbie Goolsby, who coordinates the Water District's open hole program.

Goosby adds that humans are not the only ones at risk from open holes. There have been several cases where animals have fallen into open, abandoned wells. "Any small animal, including calves, can easily fall into open wells which do not have a casing."

Open, unused wells can also provide a direct route for contaminants to pollute groundwater supplies. Fertilizer or pesticide applications near an open hole may allow the chemical to drift into the hole and enter the aquifer. "If you have an open hole and someone gets rid of some old chemicals by dumping them into the hole, the chemicals will go directly to the aquifer," says Goolsby.

Texas law and High Plains Water District rules require wells to be properly covered at all times. According to Water District rules, an open or uncovered well is defined, as "any artificial excavation drilled or dug for the purpose of producing water from the underground reservoir, not capped or covered as required by these rules, which is as much as 10 feet deep and not less than 10 inches, nor more than 6 feet in diameter."

Open, abandoned wells must be closed or capped with a covering able to sustain at least 400 pounds. The cap should either be permanently attached to the casing or have a permanently attached weighted pipe extending at least three feet into the well casing or have permanently attached weighted pipe extending at least three feet into the well casing. The weighted pipe diameter should be no more than 2 inches smaller than the well casing diameter. The surface cap should be broad enough to assure that the well will remain covered even if the cap is shifted to one side.

Open holes are usually the result of irrigators removing their irrigation pumps and not plugging the opening into the water well. Goolsby has seen producers cover unused wells with everything from barbed wire to 550 gallon barrels. More than 1400 open wells have been closed since the Water District began keeping count in the mid- 1970's.

Goolsby reminds producers that the possible consequences of having open holes on their property outweighs the small amount of time and expense it takes to close them properly. "You can't justify having open holes out there," he says.

On June 11, the Pleasant Hill Pals will have a hayride and cookout at the Nulls. Volleyball and games will be included.

At the Pals' last meeting, they nominated a committee to make signs for the fair. The signs will have the names of the club and its members and be placed on the pins of the member's animals in the fair.

This is intended to promote 4-H. Committee members are Clyde Jenkins, Dara Jenkins, Sky Byrum, Cody Drager and Eric Drager.

After the meeting, demonstrations were given by Will and Joe Pierce. Connie Moore from SPS discussed electricity and its dangers. Members participated in a game directed by Kristy Adams called "People Bingo." The winners got prizes. Coke floats were served by Connie Jo Miller.

Planted cotton acreage declines

Indications are that acreage planted to cotton on the High Plains in 1989 will fall over 400,000 acres below the acreage planted in 1988. That's the conclusion drawn by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Lubbock, after studying preliminary cotton program sign-up figures received from the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in College Station. The raw figures show planting intentions at 2,740,189, down 486,811 acres from 1988's 3,227,000. But, stressing that the numbers are "preliminary," PCG has adjusted the total to an even 2.8 million based on conversations with ASCS employees in counties where the figures obviously are incomplete.

Parmer County is listed as having 89,587 total base acres, 79,160 effective base acres, 75,645 enrolled base acres, and 48,510 acres intended for planting. Bailey County is listed as having 156,963 total base acres; 118,476 effective base acres, 115,334 enrolled base acres, and 78,976 acres intended for planting in 1989.

As an example officials cite Gaines, largest of the 25 counties in PCG territory. The preliminary count there came to 219,320 intended acres, down almost 76,000 and an unrealistic 26 percent from the acres planted last year.

Two factors account for the overall reduction, PCG notes. Farm program regulations in 1989 require participants to idle 25 percent of base acreage, up from 12.5 percent in 1988. And, producers since last year have reduced effective bases by putting another 147,000 - plus acres in the 10 - year conservation reserve program (CRP). That brings total High Plains cotton acres in the CRO to just over 723,000.

What about harvested acres? "With the drought and the weather we're having," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "that's still anybody's guess."

NEED FARM LISTINGS

McReynolds', Williams' resignations accepted

The Farwell School Board Tuesday accepted resignations from Liz Williams and Dorothy McReynolds and voted to extend a contract to Sandy Landers.

The board voted to change the Administrative Secretary's position to a clerk - receptionist position.

Administrative Assistant Gwen Corn presented the results from this year's TEAMS test, and compared the results with previous years. The results were better in almost every instance. The percent of students mastering the objectives at each grade level are listed below.

- First Grade- Math, 97%, Reading, 97%, Writing, 97%.
- Third Grade - Math, 97%, Reading, 85%, Writing, 76%.
- Fifth Grade - Math, 100%, Reading, 97%, Writing, 89%.
- Seventh Grade - Math, 100%, Reading, 100%, Writing, 100%.

Ninth Grade - Math, 87%, Reading, 92%, Writing, 84%.
Eleventh Grade - Math, 88%, Language Arts 98%.

Using scaled scores and graphs, she noted overall results showed little difference between scores of ethnic groups and socio economic groups.

She also stressed that the TEAMS test simply measures minimal skills.

The board also:
- Voted to purchase a new Mercury Sable from Teague Strebeck for $13,300 after the rebate.

- Voted to request the state Attorney General to allow elections for the Farwell ISD and the City of Farwell to be held at the same place each election day.

- Voted to seek bids on band uniforms after hearing the report of band director Craig Zinck. Zinck said specifications for uniforms were set by the members of the Band Booster Uniform Committee.

- Nominated Roberta Johnson as delegate and Katherine White as alternate to the Texas Association of School Board Conventions Sept. 30-Oct. 2.

- Set a date for a called meeting at 5 p.m. on June 27 to discuss strategic planning and open bids for band uniforms.

- Tabled the window renovation project for the home economics cottage.

- Heard a report from coach Rex Cumpton on the camps being held in Farwell this summer.

- Heard a report that the cafeteria sold more lunches in April and May than in March.

- Heard a report from Mrs. Corn on the practice monitoring team's recommendations. These recommendations are not binding on the school system, but they do indicate areas of strengths and weakness that the school system may work on before they face a real evaluation for accreditation.

Supt. John Grigsby noted after the report that four members of Farwell's administration will receive training in the Texas School Improvement Institute, and will become members of monitoring teams.

Letter To The Editor

Anderson articles enjoyed

Dear Editor:
I want to tell you how much we enjoy your newspaper. I have never been to either Farwell or Texico, but my wife, the former Shirley Stover, lived there as a youngster, attended Farwell, and graduated from Texico High School. She knows many names and most places and explains things to me so I have come to know your towns, too. We both read all of every issue.

You do two things that I particularly enjoy. One is your Border Banter column - the first item to be read. Sure it is wild, free-swinging, personal journalism - and the world needs more of it. Compared to you, most columnists are just banal. I don't always agree with your opinions, but I, by golly, read them.

Your second plus is important. Girls' basketball camp upcoming

The Farwell girls' basketball camp will be held in the Farwell gym June 26 - 30.

Coach Fred Libby will charge a deposit of $20 to encourage attendance. If girls attend all 5 sessions, the money will be refunded.

Forms for the camp are available at the State Line Tribune.

tant, I think. That is the series you ran awhile ago about various people who have been (or are) in the service of our country. I spent my adult life in the Regular Army and my only regret is that I could not stay longer. There are fine careers out there for both men and women and I congratulate you for making these opportunities known from the reminiscences of local people.

I particularly enjoyed the pieces by LCDR Will Anderson, and look forward to more. I believe that you do a service for the young people of your communities with these first-hand accounts.

Sincerely,
H.C. Brill
