AUSTIN, March 17. (AP)—Fetter condemnation of the attitude on oil and gas conservation taken by Governor Ross S. Sterling and Pat M. Neff, member of the railroad commission, was made today on the floor of the house by Representative Long of Wichita Falls. Sterling was charged with listening to representatives of the Humble Oil and Refining company, of which he

WILBUR OFFERS HEARING WASHINGTON, March 17. (AP)—Secretary Wilbur today requested the oil states advisory committee to postpone its session in Washington so a hearing could be given them by the oil conservation board April 9 or 10.

The interior secretary expects to have a report of the committee on petroleum economics, covering supply and demand factors in the industry for the next six months on the morning of the 9th.

Previously he had suggested to Cleo R. Murray, chairman of the oil states committee that his group be heard April 3 or 6.

Murray's committee had intended to meet in Washington March 30 to form plans for a pronouncement between the oil states.

Formerly was president, instead of the people, while Neff was accused of playing "petty politics."

Long made the charges while speaking on a point of personal privilege.

HOMETOWN TALK

BY BEDDY

Numerous letters already have been received by Big Spring druggists thanking them for certificates accorded fellow druggists during last week's convention.

Among the letters is one to Shine Phillips from Walter Cousins, publisher of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, the world's largest drug publication. Walter is a former West Texan and was intimately acquainted with most of the delegates here. His son, Walter, Jr., accompanied him here.

The Herald acknowledges with deepest appreciation a letter thanking it for publicity given the convention. The Chamber of Commerce, the Big Spring Drug Association and all other local groups working for the betterment of the community are assured this newspaper's daily desire is to serve them.

Anonymous approval by the house appropriations committee of the $500,000 anti-bollworm remuneration bill is one step toward passage of the act that would do so much for this section of the country at this particular time.

Presence of farmers and business men from this section was the most powerful force in Monday's hearing, we are sure. Big Spring needs to get a habit of dispatching delegations to Austin when any bill of direct value to this area is being

COPS TO BE UNIFORMED

City policemen will be clad in uniforms within the next few weeks, it was announced by Mayor E. R. Hutham, city manager.

An order for uniforms was placed Monday. Blue gaberdine material will be used. Only day policemen will use the uniforms. Night patrolmen will continue to wear civilian clothes.

Within the next few days, four men, including Chief of Police E. A. Long, will be on duty.

College President Who Has Studied Them Says 1931 Co-Ed Better Physically Than Of Yore

BY R. A. BRUNER

ASHLAND, Ohio, March 17. (AP)—Betty Co-Ed of 1931 is a better girl physically than Betty Co-Ed of 50 years ago. She weighs more, is taller, and has a greater lung capacity and chest girth.

This was revealed today by Dr. Edwin E. Jacobs, president of Ashland College, who during the last 15 years has studied the physical measurements of 6,000 girl freshmen in five institutions of higher learning during the last half century. The ages of the girls measured were 18 or 19 years.

In his analysis Dr. Jacobs used index fingers indicating for comparison the averages of the measurements. The figures are:

	50 Years Ago	Today
Weight	113.3	123.2
Height	159.9	161.6
Lung capacity	150.5	165.5
Chest Girth	78.1	80.7

Dr. Jacobs' analysis indicated that the improvement has been steady.

Three Seek City Offices

Gilmour, McCollister and Winslow Bring Total To Seven

W. A. Gilmour, W. L. McCollister and J. S. Winslow became candidates for the board of city commissioners Tuesday.

Announcement from the office of the city secretary brought the total seeking the two places to be filled in the April 7 election to seven.

The two men polling the largest number of votes will be elected.

W. A. Gilmour finished his second term as a commissioner. He was the first to announce Tuesday. His application for a place on the board was made in person, as were those of H. Hinman, J. L. Webb, W. J. Wooster and Walter Vastine, who previously had announced.

Request that the names of Mr. McCollister and Mr. Winslow be entered was made by Martel McDonald, attorney, said the announcement from the city hall.

March 24 will be the last day on which names may be entered on the ballot through application to the city secretary, according to provisions of the city charter. After that date petitions bearing names of fifty qualified voters of the city must be filed to place a name on the ticket.

Cauble and Jensen Talk

Rotarians Hear Hereford Breeder's Recipe for Prosperity

Frank Jensen, general passenger agent of the Texas & Pacific company, and formerly a district governor of Rotary in Louisiana, and F. B. Cauble, noted Howard county Hereford breeder, were speakers at Tuesday's session of the Rotary club.

"When I came here thirty years ago we had three industries—the railroad, beef cattle and horses. Are the latter two slipping? We must breed good cattle, feed them home grown stuff and get home people to consume home-grown products," said Mr. Cauble.

"Plant good cotton on good land and raise good baby beavers on the rest of the land," he admonished. Mr. Jensen told the Rotarians that "there isn't much to Rotary unless you live it."

He told of incidents experienced while attending a Rotary International convention in Ostend, Belgium, and expressed the hope local members would go to the next annual convention to be held in Vienna.

Robert T. Piner was in charge of the program.

Next week's program will be in charge of W. C. Blankenship, Dr. E. O. Ellington and Bruce Frazier.

Guests of the day were Mrs. Lee Weathers, Albert M. Fisher, Jr., Richard Harr, M. K. House, I. B. Cauble, F. S. Hofues of Fort Worth and C. H. Shepard of Midland.

Entertainment included a reading by Mrs. Lee Weathers and a pianist by Albert M. Fisher, Jr., and Richard Harr, accompanied by Mrs. Weathers.

Mrs. Bruce Frazier led a series of songs.

Stanton Boys Here to Give Friend Blood

ATHLETES GATHER AT BIG SPRING HOSPITAL FOR TRANSFUSION

Athletes of Stanton high school are back in the lobby of the Big Spring hospital today, awaiting an opportunity to give their blood to a prominent Stanton resident.

Strong boys, healthy appearing youths, with their big yellow sweaters they won at Stanton high school, sitting around the waiting room. Two girls—students in the Stanton high school—daughters of the man the boys this afternoon will give their blood to.

A. J. Sloan is the man. Several weeks ago he underwent a major operation at the hospital. He has not been doing so well. A blood transfusion became necessary, and the volunteers were those husky-looking football players. The type was obtained, and the transfusion made.

After that the patient rallied. Another transfusion became necessary. This afternoon a pint or more of blood will be taken from one of the Stanton boys.

They were sitting in the lobby today, waiting for the doctors to make the blood change.

Crude Output Goes Upward

East Central Texas Chief Cause For 22,342 Increase

TULSA, Okla., March 17. (AP)—East Central Texas led the way for an increase of 22,342 barrels in the country's daily average crude oil production last week says the Oil and Gas Journal in estimating the production at 2,177,972 barrels.

East Central Texas showed an increase of 29,479 barrels with an output of 118,822 barrels.

Production of the entire mid-continent area was piled at 1,190,912, a gain of 24,857 over the preceding week's average.

Included in the mid-continent figures, in addition to East Central Texas, were:

Oklahoma 508,605, an increase of 7,692; West Texas 234,639, a decrease of 7,692; North Central Texas 89,862, a decrease of 3,224; Kansas 111,150, a decrease of 985.

Eastern production was down 2,000 to 109,500 barrels, while the Rocky Mountain area had an increase of 2,888 at 94,244 barrels.

California production declined 2,000 to 524,500 barrels.

Songs, Dances Add To Show

'Here Comes Arabella' Performance Scheduled Friday Evening

Songs and dances will punctuate a play of unusual laugh-provoking qualities Friday evening at high school auditorium when "Here Comes Arabella," a three-act musical show in which 91 persons will appear is to be presented under the sponsorship of Parent-Teacher association units.

Mrs. Jack Kilway will appear in the title role that of a little girl who had been kidnapped by gypsies as a baby and who wanders into the studio of Bob Adair, an artist while looking for her little dog.

Bob Adair, the leading man, will be represented by Glen Gulick. His splendid tenor voice adds much to the show as the part calls for a series of numbers with the girl's choruses, stunningly costumed.

Many ludicrous situations, snappy lines and a series of novelties that surprise are expected to hold a capacity audience in close and amused attention Friday evening.

Captain and 117 Men of Steamer Destroyed by Explosion Succeed In Reaching Island; 25 Lose Lives

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 17. (AP)—The captain and 117 men of the sealing steamer Viking which exploded and sank off Horse Island Sunday night with the loss of at least 25 lives have reached the island after 24 hours of suffering and misery on the ice floes.

The news came from Miss O. Bartless, the 15-year old wireless operator on the island, when communication was re-established early today. Captain Abraham Kean, Jr., told Miss Bartlett that Varick Frisell, young New Yorker who was aboard the Viking, to make sound movies of the sealers, and his companions, A. E. Penrod, cameraman, and Russell Harry Sargent, explorer, were missing.

Accused As 'Hired' Lingle Slayer

WASHINGTON, March 17. (AP)—Texas railroads and civic organizations interested in the proposal of the Texas and Pacific Northern railroad to build 338 miles of new line from Big Spring to Vega today submitted to the interstate commerce commission conflicting arguments on several phases of the project.

The Rock Island Railroad company, which operates in that region, asked the commission to refuse the Texas and Pacific Northern authority to construct that portion of the proposed extension which would traverse Oldham and Deaf Smith counties.

A joint association of the cities of Lubbock, Big Spring, Vega and other points to be reached by the line asked for a full approval of the entire Northern on its own behalf.

"It is difficult to overstate the importance of the proposed railroad to this region," the joint brief of the Texas communities said. "It would make railroad facilities available to a greatly enlarged area, and would remedy important shortcomings of present rail service."

While the Rock Island representation asserted there was not sufficient traffic to support the intended new line, the Texas and Pacific Northern, in its own behalf declared that "unless the past history of railroad building in Texas is discarded, the new line will bring with it added developments."

"It is the future rather than the existing traffic," the Texas Pacific Northern said, "that justifies new railroad extension in this section of Texas."

But One Vote Against Bill To Pay Losses

Farmers from Big Spring, Stanton, Ackerly, Knott Are Heard

$478,142 IS TOTAL

Lamesa Ex-Solon Joins In Presenting Case At Hearing

(Special To The Herald) AUSTIN, March 17.—With but a single adverse report the house committee on appropriations approved payment of claims amounting to $478,142 for compensation in 1929-30 of West Texas farmers in the pink bollworm zones whose years' costs of fumigating and other costs incurred in handling cotton under the regulations.

Approximately 20 farmers and others appeared before the committee.

After the former Governor Dan Moody's veto, the farmers had abandoned hope of getting paid for 17's costs and losses.

Former Representative Carl Rountree, Lamesa, presented the claim for the delegation. J. M. Del Curto of the department of agriculture furnished records on the cost of $283,552 for 1929 and $194,588 for 1930, and he explained Glasscock, Martin, Howard, Dawson and Borden counties this year have been released from the bollworm zone. He said the El Paso district produces nearly half the cotton of the former quarantine area.

Watson Heard C. T. Watson of Big Spring explained to the committee the effect of the quarantine, and that if the farmers had not accepted it for the local area the entire state would have been treated with federal quarantine. J. S. Blackford, Stanton farmer, testified his costs were "about as much as he will get." Sam Little, Howard county farmer, told his expenses in complying with the quarantine and fumigation law.

County Judge Lamar of Martin county and Representatives Lee Satterwhite, Odessa, and Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo, members of the appropriations committee, took part in presenting the case. The payments, Mr. Satterwhite explained, are to be made on farmers' claims by the Pink Bollworm Compensation Board.

Delegation Among the delegation were C. T. Watson, G. A. Woodward, Sam Little, Reese Adams and E. C. Aikhart, Big Spring; Judge Lamar, Martin county; J. S. Blackford, Stanton; A. B. Davenport, Ackerly; J. S. Lamar, John Atkinson, Stanton.

Other counties affected besides those taken out of the quarantine this year are El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Terrell, Pecos, Reeves, Ward, Loving, Winkler, Crane, Upton, Ector, Andrews and Midland.

Three Jurors A. B. Burns, 78, Are Selected Interred Here

CHICAGO, March 17. (AP)—Alert and interested in every detail of his case, Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster watched as the state proceeded with his efforts to get a jury qualified to send him to the electric chair if deemed necessary for the slaying of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

None of the prospective jurors questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney C. Wyland Brooks gave indication of any scruples against sending the defendant to the chair. Brooks explained carefully, however, he was not suggesting the disposition of the case but that he wanted to know the jurymen's thoughts in the event the evidence resulted in a verdict that would put the question of capital punishment up to them.

Three jurors had been tentatively accepted by both the state and the defense when court was opened today.

A question to veniremen, intimating that the Chicago Tribune instead of the state was prosecuting Brothers, halted the trial temporarily today.

For the first time since the examination of veniremen began yesterday, the prosecution made heated protest to the line of questioning employed by the defense.

"Your honor, the state of Illinois is prosecuting this man, not the Chicago Tribune," said Assistant State's Attorney Brooks.

Judge Joseph Sabath sustained the objection and ordered Attorney Tyrrell Krum not to draw such an inference again. Defense counsel went into conference for several moments and then submitted the man to the state.

Another new question appeared in the defense examination today. Veniremen were asked whether they would consider, in the testimony of police officers and others, the fact that they might be actuated by the $50,000 rewards offered for information leading to conviction of Lingle's slayer.

Work on the Boy Scout hut and other improvements at the city park is proceeding rapidly, and should be completed within the next few days.

The work includes a stone entrance to the park, curbing around the driveway, a concrete dip across the creek, and a swinging bridge.

The work was aided materially by help donated by men whose families were given provisions by the Community Chest officials.

Although the men did not have work, they were willing to donate work at the park in exchange for food furnished by the chest fund. The work was directed by Dr. J. R. Dillard, and official of the Salvation Army.

The men gathered practically all of the rock for the native stone hut which will be used by the Boy Scouts.

Chapter 24
MARJORIE MARRIED

JIMMIE met Richmond by appointment at police headquarters and noticed he looked much happier than when he had last seen him at the time of Green's confession. "How is Green?" he inquired of the superintendent.

"About the same," he replied, then adding, "Mr. Haswell, I do want to thank you for your help for we were a bit at sea. I am grateful to you."

Jimmie smiled his thanks and then told him that he had come to read a letter that had just come. After Richmond had dismissed his assistant, Jimmie unfolded the communication and explained.

"This," he said, "is from Miss Marjorie Blake, or at least from the lady we knew as Miss Blake. She is now Mrs. Richard Stirling. 'Mrs. Stirling? Well I'm blasted. Why was she carrying on with Dr. Netherton?' There was no doubt as to Richmond's surprise.

"You must not forget that they denied what you call their carrying on and I warned you it would explode your case against the doctor if it happened that he and Marjorie did not want to marry each other."

"So it was Stirling! That means when he went there that night in his car he had really come to see her?"

"Perhaps," suggested Jimmie, "you'd better hear the letter." Richmond agreed and Jimmie unfolded the several sheets of paper dated from a hotel at Dover.

"Dear Mr. Haswell," the letter began, "by the time you get this I shall be Captain Stirling's wife. Green's confession has made our marriage possible, but both Dick and I feel that there are things we should tell you.

"My main object is to explain about Dr. Netherton. First, it is necessary to remember that Aunt Annabelle's views as to marriage for Evelyn and myself. That explains why Dick and I had to keep our love secret.

"Dick was disabled and could not do much to make a home. I always thought that Aunt Annabelle would provide for Evelyn and myself. Dick and I did not want to lose our happiness, yet we did not wish to lose what she could do for us.

"Then, somehow, I thought of Dr. Netherton. I knew that I could not tell Aunt Annabelle of my love for Dick, but I recalled that his father had been her physician and that he had inherited the professional standing and influence that sometimes gives one the right to speak in matters of this kind. It was not easy to ask him to intercede for me, but we had always been pals, and he knew of Aunt Annabelle's views.

"On the night that Aunt Annabelle was killed things came to a point. I waited for him while he was seeing Mrs. Frater and then took him into the garden. Aunt Annabelle's words made me despair. Why she said we should not tell anything when we married, I don't know. She must have suspected something between me and Bill, or it might have been only for my benefit. Anyway, it determined me, and I went to the bottom of the garden with Bill and told him everything, of our love and our desire to marry—but at the same time to avoid losing the things that Aunt Annabelle could do for us. Though Bill and Dick had never been good friends, Bill said he would help me.

"So that is what Bill and I were talking about. I don't blame the policeman for being suspicious, but I did not feel we could reveal our secret."

"Pretty cunning to get out of it like that," commented Richmond, "but now we know the truth we can forgive them."

"Then Bill left me," the letter continued. "I did not tell him that I was expecting Dick to come along. After I waited a few minutes, I thought I had better see if Aunt Annabelle was ready to go in. You know what I found. Despite her hardness I was fond of my Aunt and it was terrible to discover what had happened to her, also I honestly thought it must have been an accident.

"Dick is not a liar, but he did deny that it was his car at the bottom of the garden shortly after I left it, and then, as I did not come, he went toward the house. He was coming through the Dutch garden and he actually saw Aunt Annabelle lying on the ground with the broken figure beside her. Then, hearing voices, he slipped into a covered place and could hear me tell Evelyn and the others what I had found. His first impulse was to join us—but how could he explain his being there? Finally he decided it would be best to get away. So Green saw a car when he crossed the links and it was gone when he came back. No doubt he made the most of it to divert suspicion from himself.

"When I heard a car had been seen, I knew it must have been his, I was horribly frightened, although I would not allow myself to suspect him. Bill was splendid all the time, refusing to say anything that would make things worse for me, even though his refusal made them drag him into it. After the funeral Dick and I decided to marry as soon as possible. I telephoned Bill about it, but he advised us to wait until things were clearer. I felt happier than in many days."

"I was at the Nethertons' when she 'phoned," said Jimmie. "I noticed after that that she seemed more cheerful but I could not guess the exact reason."

"I observed it too," said Richmond. "I put it down to the effect of the will. She stood to get a tidy fortune."

"She refers to that. Apparently she had left home before it was discovered. She says—"

"I think there is little doubt that Aunt Annabelle destroyed the will. If Mr. Morgan told her the conditions would not be binding, she would have attained her end some other way, but Green's wicked act prevented her doing it."

"I want you to do what you can to prevent people thinking wrongly about Bill Netherton. I do not mind what is said about myself.

"Give my love to Nancy and Donald, and thank you, Mr. Haswell, for what you did. This long letter has been written a bit at a

Popularizing Cotton Fabrics

KING COTTON is about to give silk and satin a run for their money, if we are to take seriously a dispatch from Chicago.

It is related that Phil Stone, described as President of the International Garment Manufacturers' association, directed the attention of the organization's 3,000 members in convention assembled to the growing importance of the wash dress.

He asserted that the leaders of the industry are determined to dress the women of this country in cotton not only for morning wear, but afternoon and evening as well.

"Palm Beach and other resorts have gone calico-conscious," Mr. Stone asserted.

The cost, he added, could be anything "from a dollar up."

Thus it may come about that the cotton growers of the South will get relief from a totally unexpected source.

If it becomes fashionable to use cotton fabrics where silks and satins have been considered necessary, the consumption of the South's staple crop will show a feverish rise and there will be an immediate reaction in price.

Why not? Cotton under any other name is cotton still. Cotton for its own sake, because it is a first rate and quite fashionable material, would be something again. Consider calf's liver, and how its consumption has increased and its price hiked because it became suddenly fashionable to eat liver. Also, if you like, consider prunes and miniature golf courses.

Hollywood Signs HOW'S your HEALTH

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Myrna Loy whose honest freckles have not dimmed her style as an exotic strenuous of the screen, might have become a conventional heroine had her movie career continued in the paths indicated by her first big part. But it was part she never played. When they were casting "Ben Hur," Myrna Loy then an unknown, was given the role of the madonna. Playing it would have typed her as "sweet and pure" for other characterizations.

But she remained in the cast only four hours, at the end of which it was decided a better-known player should have the part.

Betty Bronson, fresh from her triumph as "Peter Pan," replaced her, and Myrna went on to the kind of role she now makes her own.

BEGINNINGS

Fate ruled similarly in the case of Edward G. Robinson. Had the actor made his picture debut as the lovable, meddlesome "Kibitzer," or in some other of his stage characterizations instead of as a gangster, he might never have played "Little Caesar" or been cast for gangster roles at all.

Both Miss Loy and Robinson would like to escape the brand the movies have put upon them, but occasionally destiny saves a career by changing its course.

Louise Fazenda, just another of Mack Sennett's troupers, one day was pressed into duty as a comic maid with pig-tails and big shoes and the results were so hilarious that she never again "played straight."

Had it not been for that day's need of a comedienne, Louise Fazenda would probably be today in the same forgotten boat with many of the bathing beauties of pleasant memory but little present or future.

DOOR KNOBS

There is a well known surgeon in New York noted for his abhorrence of door knobs.

He never opens a door without putting his hand into his coat pocket and using the underlining of coat front as a sort of glove for the grasping hand.

Long experience as a surgeon taught him to have respect for germs, and his abhorrence of door knobs is due to the fact that he rightly conceives them to be a source of infection.

Since many persons handle door knobs, each is liable to deposit thereon, as well as take therefrom germs of many kinds. Door knobs may be the point of dissemination of infectious diseases, among them, notably, the common cold.

Fortunately, most of the dangerous bacteria die in a few moments when left resting on a cold metal or porcelain door knob.

While this extreme caution may be conceived as a sort of monomania, in reasonable degree it would go far in the control of communicable diseases, particularly colds.

To the physician, acquainted as he is with the great harm germs can cause, the relative indifference and carelessness of the average lay person to infection and infectious material appears like a foolhardy recklessness.

A child with a running nose and all the flaming signs of an infection of the respiratory tract, may not uncommonly be seen playing about with healthy children.

Or, if the mother concedes a point and puts the child to bed, she may still allow the neighborhood children to come in and entertain the little invalid. Toys are passed around, food is shared and infectious material is spread all around.

To develop a phobia on germs, of course, very easy. But it should be possible to avoid this morbid state and at the same time to have wholesome respect for infection and infectious materials.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

The Santa Fe's Protest

FT. WORTH Star-Telegram: THAT the Santa Fe should exert every resource in the effort to prevent the Texas and Pacific Northern from building its projected line in West Texas was to be expected. The Santa Fe long has asserted an exclusive claim to a large area of West Texas in the face of repeated showings that the road's service is not adequate to present needs of the country, not to mention one of the most important of railroad functions, which is the opening up of new territory. But that the Santa Fe should seek to achieve its objective by derogation of the region it serves is rather a departure in railroad policy.

The protest of the Panhandle and Santa Fe filed Friday with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the granting of the T&PN of permission to build, asserts, among other things, that "the Santa Fe contends from its long years of experience that the territory will not support another railroad line."

The answer to that contention is found in the briefs filed with the commission by the Texas Railroad Commission and the communities in the territory affected. It will be found in the opinion of all West Texans, borne out by statistics in every line, that development in all its phases, far from having been finished and exhausted, has but begun in West Texas.

The Texas and Pacific Northern project represents not only an attempt to render a railroad service which will stimulate the development of a great region particularly adaptable to agriculture, but also a project for turning the channels more beneficial to the people of Texas of a flow of commodities now being carried out of the state. The Santa Fe's claim to exclusive rights in this territory is a claim to the right to divert Texas resources to the support and benefit of cities and citizens of Kansas and other Middle Western states.

It is a right founded only in expediency, and the necessity of that expediency is past. A transportation service turning the flow of these resources into their natural channels is proposed by the T&PN.

TWICE WHEN CARDUI HELPED

Lady Tells of Nervous Weak Condition Which This Medicine Relieved.

Corseana, Texas.—Mentioning a disorder which troubled her in early womanhood, Mrs. Drucilla Lipford, of 812 South Nineteenth Street, this city, says she obtained relief through her mother's confidence in a well-known medicine which women have used for over fifty years.

"Mother thought Cardui would help me," writes Mrs. Lipford, "so she got it for me, and it wasn't long until I was all right. It corrected my trouble in just a little while, and I felt good."

"After I was married, this trouble came back. I felt weak and no account most of the time. My back ached, and I would have nervous spells when I felt blue and despondent. I did not enjoy doing anything. I never valued good health until I did not have it."

"I remembered how Cardui had helped me before, so I began to take it again."

"I improved from the first. I took seven bottles, as it was doing me so much good. I did not stop until I was in good health."

WILBERT SET FOR GREAT CONFLICT

Boyes House, Ranger Times sports editor, in commenting on Suppl. Ben McLain's recent statement regarding the degrading effects sports writers have on the school morale in general, and the otherwise peaceful life of school superintendents in particular points out that the Sweetwater superintendent's sentence structure is atrocious. He brings to light several flaws, which wrinkle up the meaning of the whole thing, and muddy the entire school masterpiece. Surely that cannot be. Someone should write a master's thesis on it, as it were.

San Angelo track aspirants must be reckoned with. The Tom Green county speedsters whose heels have been flying around like knots for more than a brace or a bracket of years now, are still soaring. Although they did fall to take high school honors in the Southwestern Exposition meet at Fort Worth last week, the gallant little Bobcats placed second. Smokey Brothers was the sensation of the meet when he not only sped by Howard Green, Abilene's gift to the clunder path, but established a new exposition record of 51.2. In addition to that the famous galloping quartet—the relay team—again captured honors. The combination, composed of C. Cobb, Brothers, Delker, and Simpson foxtrotted over the mile stretch to grab first honors. Relay winning is becoming a habit with the Bobcats' track charges.

Art Shires refuses, utterly, to stay down. He says so himself. King Arthur, holds three things responsible for his present predicament. They are, to-wit:

1. Being shipped back to the minors.
2. Loss of money in a building and loan association.
3. Getting married.

And the greatest of these is the last one. In other words, Shires is married and married, but in justice to Mrs Shires it might be said he was married before marriage. Shires is starting the climb once more. When he was up before he said it with fists and newspaper ink. Then he went to the Senators and couldn't quite grasp the thinking faculties of a man who would leave him on the bench and let a bunch of hams play baseball. At the present the Great One is sojourning at the Springs, where he is giving his annual broadcast from radio station A. R. T. He predicts Shires has a great future. And congratulates the Milwaukee Brewers on having such a rose in their garden of black eyed peas. Mr. Shires, he said, may be down, but never down far enough to where the majors are not in touching distance. He is on his way back to the big show, and he would like the center ring, please, with the spotlight and the silver coated horse.

And another club to replace nature's sunlight with kilowatts is the Dallas baseball unit. Night baseball will be added to Dallas' night life.

Sometimes within the next few months school officials of the state will congregate and ballot, no doubt on whether the one-year eligibility ruling shall apply to high school sports. It is a huge question, and one that deserves the utmost concentration of every school athlete to attend a school a year before participating in athletics, should the transfer from another. It sounds like a good remedy to a deplorable situation, doesn't it. But, come to ponder over it, for it doesn't sound bad in itself. Pondering over the one-year transfer rule, what will it accomplish? And will the accomplishments be greater than the hardships it will work on innocent parties of the first or second parts. For example, if an example is needed in this bit of argumentation, take the Puritanical athlete. He is good. His family moves to another town for reasons other than that their offspring can pass, boot or gallow. This youth, who probably is more interested in the square on the hypotenuse than the 100 yard dash through the broken field, must remain out of athletics for a year. That is a year lost. He wants to get out of high school. And he isn't going to remain in just another year just in order to have another season of the gridiron. He is the sufferer. The one that transfers to another school because he is compelled to, is the one who gets it in the neck. If he wants to sling slang about it, the ruling, of course, is designed to eliminate the semi-professional athlete. But will it? A youth that puts athletics primary, and transfers to another school in order to further enlarge his scope, had just as son stay in school a year living off the populace as not. All he would do would be to sit around and twiddle his thumbs, (unless the ruling also effects thumb twiddling) until the next season rolls around. He would still have his three years, or two years, as the case might be. A year or so means nothing in the lives of the vacation rovers. The years' eligibility ruling deserves study. It is nothing to be thrown aside as a good thing, or a bad thing. Whether it will remedy the ill is the main thought. Will it or will it not help that is the interrogation. We're inclined to think it will not come up to the expectations of those fostering the bill, namely Mr. Duncan of the Lubbock high school.

Basketball, some days, isn't so hot when it comes to drawing the crowds. Saturday night when two teams meet in Kansas City to determine the national amateur basketball championship, 10,000 witnessed the battle. In the week's tournament, 85,000 saw the games. Of course, three times that many have seen football games. But not so many years ago 10,000 was a good crowd at a university battle.

Mike Hicks, the lad that grew up in Koscoe but drifted, is having a good time running around Sweetwater's athletic circles. Hicks is a transfer; a legitimate transfer, we guess. Anyway, one could find by asking Mr. McLain, we feel certain, as to Hick's status.

Array of Hard Hitters To Be Ready

The Old Gentleman Has Instilled Fight In Charges

(NOTE: This is another of a series of Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.)
By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor
CLEARWATER, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Picture a portly, kindly looking old gentleman with a twinkle in his eye, a chew of tobacco in his jaw, instilling ferocity into a band of baseball hi-jackers and you have an idea what your uncle Wilbert Robinson is doing with his Brooklyn boys.

Uncle Robbie has developed the killer-instinct. Lively ball or no lively ball, and Robbie says you can't tell the difference, he has put together a heavy collection of sluggers calculated to strike fear into the opposition.

The outfield, composed of Lefty O'Doul, Babe Herman and Johnny Frederick, averaged 370 at bat last year and should do as well or better this year. Frederick and Herman are still on the upgrade as ball players. O'Doul, obtained from the Phillies during the winter with Fresno Thompson, second baseman, has been interrupting the stitches off the new ball in camp.

The regular infield, consisting of Captain Glenn Wright, at short, Wally Gilbert at third, Thompson at second and Del Blonsonette on first, also averages over 300 at the plate. Wright and Blonsonette are two of the most reliable cleanup men in the league.

Tampa Al Lopez, catching sensation of 1930, hit for 308 and should go many notches higher. His 210 pound understudy, Ernest Lombardi, hit 370 with Oakland on the Pacific coast league last season.

With a sort of ferocious glee, Uncle Robbie watches these fellows go up to the plate and, as he says, "Battle the boards."

The pitching defense may not be the best in the league but it is close to it. The high priced Dazzy Vance, William Watson Clark, Adolfo Loque, Ray (Babe) Phelps, who won 14 games in his first major league season; Hollis Thurston and Ray Moss compose the principal firing line. Old John Piesu Quinn and his spiltball promise to be helpful. Phil Gullivan, star youngster from Macon, is the best of the new comers. The Arkansas Hogcaller, Clyde (Pea-Ridge) Day, drafted from Kansas City, may find a relief job.

Glancing At the Majors In Their Training Camps

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 17. (AP)—No more top-heavy, schedules of spring exhibition games for the Braves. Manager Bill McKechnie says they help to reduce training expenses in these heavy schedules of exhibitions are a big handicap to a team's development.

"Playing such clubs as the Yankees, Athletics and Cards every day is too much of a hard," for my regular pitcher," the Tribesman manager says, "and doesn't afford the rookies a real chance to show what they can do."

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Muddy Ruel, Red Sox catcher, says "Ball" ayers are a lot of snakes in the grass. "Muddy's" philosophy of acting as arbitrator on the base lines, he's been convulsing with a split finger and he's not at all fond of his umpiring job. He adds that how Tom Connolly can keep his sweet disposition is "one of the sweet mysteries of life" and Muddy "doesn't want to solve it."

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17. (AP)—One of those California-Florida climate f---s is threatening to embroil Manager J. Welb Enns of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

California thumbed figurative suspenders upon hearing that Enns has built up Outfielder Lloyd Waner's weight by having him take sun baths. For that matter, Outfielder Adam Comstock, Pitcher Charley Wood and others have been prescribed the same tonic.

But here's the rub—Enns says he got the idea at Palm Beach.

BRANDENTON, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Despite a denial from the "Big Boss," members of the St. Louis Cardinals, especially the outfielders, wondered today whether a deal between the Cardinal and the Cincinnati Reds was in the making. Manager Dan Howley of the Reds visited camp yesterday, supposedly in search of an outfielder. President Sam Breadon of the Cards said no deal was pending, but that failed to keep the players from speculating a bit.

WEST PALM BEACH, March 17. (AP)—Infielder Len Storti, up from Wichita Falls, has added one more problem to the already a-seable mystery of Manager Bill Killifer of the St. Louis Browns.

Killifer had about decided on Okey Melillo for second, Jim Levey for short and "Red" Kress for third, but Storti has been in well at all three places lately that Skipper Bill doesn't know what he'll do about it. Among other things, Killifer is considering shifting Kress back to short and sending Storti to third, leaving Levey for No. 1 position on the bench.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17. (AP)—Page Tyrus Raymond Cobb! Harvey Walker and Brother Gerald aimed. Harvey sprinted for third. Gerald made for second. Harvey stole home, and Gerald arrived safely at third on the play at the plate. There are old-timers in Detroit who remember when Cobb used to try that crazy stuff—and get away with it. The Walker boys are rookie outfielders with the Tigers.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17. (AP)—The lure of baseball has proved too strong for Eddie Morgan. The young slugging first baseman of the Cleveland Indians signed his contract last night and shelved his ambition to manufacture boxes for the summer at least. No figures were made public, but it was announced some time ago he had been offered a substantial increase.

TMAPA, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Dan Howley, the Reds' manager, is about convinced the big fellows in his league—the pennant contenders, have no desire to assist the lesser lights. Dapper Dan spent yesterday visiting the headquarters of one of the strongest clubs in the National circuit seeking a player or two but was turned down flat. He returned to his camp discouraged, but determined to keep a keen eye on the waiver lists.

LOS ANGELES, March 17. (AP)—As far as Rogers Hornsby is concerned, a couple of lopsided victories over the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league is no cause for excitement among the Chicago Cubs. The new pilot is not particularly pleased with the work of William Wrigley's team because he considers the caliber of opposition extremely weak.

SAN ANTONIO, March 17. (AP)—Willie Kamm, whose apparent lack of interest in the success of the Chicago White Sox last season did nothing to improve his standing with the club, has earned himself the title of "Hustling Willie" in the training camp.

Kamm had a poor season last year and was mentioned as trading material, but so far this year he has fielded with all his old skill and has hit in style that has pleased Manager Donie Bush.

BILOXI, Miss., March 17. (AP)—The pitchers already have been selected for the Washington Senators' game tomorrow at Gulfport with the Baltimore Orioles—Carl Fischer, Lynn Griffith and Wally Tauscher. They did the mound work in the first game with the International Leaguers satisfactorily enough.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 17. (AP)

—The new ball with the elevated stitching won't change the style of attack very much, in the opinion of Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics. There is no sliding pit at the champions' camp and Mack is not stressing baserunning because he thinks there will be no decided change in the attacking system this year. He looks for a lot of free swinging.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 17. (AP)—John A. Heydler, president of the National League, making a tour of the training camps, remarked the fine spirit displayed by the Phillies despite their reverses in practice tilts. The prey thinks the strengthening of the Boston Braves' outfield—the added batting punch—will make them a factor in the pennant race. He also had praise for the up-and-at-tem attitude of the Cincinnati infield. The Cardinals are "staring in where they left off last fall," and in his opinion are real contenders. The Cubs, Pirates and Giants, which he hasn't seen, also are regarded as possibilities.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Babe Hamburger is all set for a trip to Havana and thereby hangs a drama entitled "The Ball Players' Generosity."
Babe is the clubhouse boy for the Brooklyn Robins and a few days ago he was told he could not be taken on the Robins' forthcoming trip to Cuba. Word got around the camp that the Babe was to be left behind and the players—although money is scarce in training camps—dug up enough to pay his fare.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 17. (AP)—Vernon Gomez, the man with $1,200 worth of bridge work in his mouth, is one pitcher Joe McCarthy thinks will be a big help to the New York Yankees this year. Gomez lacked control last season and never did reach the state of effectiveness predicted for him. This reason he has picked up weight and is putting the ball where he wants it.

SAN ANTONIO, March 17. (AP)—This business of holding out for a few weeks and then coming to terms with a rush just has been too much for "Memphis Bill" Terry, slugging first baseman of the New York Giants.
Bill arrived in camp only the other day just in time to catch himself a mild attack of tonsillitis.

French Net Threat Remains Potent As Indoor Tennis Battle In Third Round

NEW YORK, March 17. (AP)—The national indoor tennis singles championship was in the third round today with the three-fold French threat just as potent as it was when the tournament began last Saturday.

Jean Borotra, Christian Bousnus and Pierre Landry, forming the French contingent, have played only twelve sets in eliminating half that many rivals. Each has played two matches and won them both in straight sets.

Their next tests, however, promise to demand a little more effort on the part of the invaders. Bousnus meets William Ayletts of New York who won the championship in 1928; Borotra, three-times winner of the title, engages Edward W. Burns, of New York, who yesterday put out the seeded player, Donald Cram of Nashville, Tenn., and Landry faces the veteran New Yorker Herbert L. Bowman.

The chief American hopes, Frank Shields, Berkeley Bell and Cliff Butler, also reach the third round although Butler had to travel three sets to eliminate E. Ramey Donovan yesterday.

It costs about 2,000 pounds to clean the column and statue of Nelson in Trafalgar square, London, and it's done about once in 20 years.

Community Hospitality

Big Spring, as a city, has been kind to every legitimate line of endeavor that has entered our gates and cooperated with us for our mutual good.

Times of business depression, with community morale at low ebb, are "duck soup" for opportunists whose community spirit, always of the brother-in-law type, loses its identity entirely under the sinister shadow of greed—the obsession of all opportunists.

Look a-lance at those who, though ignorant, breed demoralization through unbalanced price scales; and frown on those who intelligently strive to bring demoralization about, with motives all their own.

Cosden Refinery is one of Big Spring's prize possessions. Its business activities and payroll have meant much to every individual in Big Spring during these past months of stress. Our every effort is to make the Cosden Refinery grow to even a greater community service.

Like Tea . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

EVEN the Japanese maiden who laboriously picks the tea leaves knows that before you sip the delicate beverage from your cup, leaves of another type of tea must be added, for the best teas invariably are blended.

When the tea merchant takes a quantity of Japanese tea, a bit of China tea, and a touch of Ceylonese, then blends them according to the dictates of his expert knowledge, he parallels the making of CONOCO Gasoline. For this is a blended gasoline. It is blended because this is the only method which brings together in one fuel the desirable properties of several types of gasoline. No one type of gasoline can contain them all.

CONOCO refiners use: Natural Gasoline, for quick starting; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and long mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock properties.

There is no secret formula covering the elements which compose this triple-test gasoline. The secret is in the knowledge behind the blending. Knowing how makes one tea blend better than all others... and knowing how places one gasoline in a distinct quality class. Experience the performance advantages of CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline. You'll find it wherever the CONOCO Red Triangle is displayed.

HAPPINESS

The Dictionary defines happiness as "the pleasurable experience that springs from possessions of good, the gratification of desires, enjoyment, blessedness." It is a high quality which we all possess at times; some of us are blessed more with it than others.

There is no good reason that we cannot be happy most of the time. It is true that all of us have adversities and disappointments but it is also true that those persons who are happy constantly have their troubles but do not show them. They ride on over the rocks of disappointment on the shock absorbers of hope. We all have the same privilege if we will use it.

All of us have known people whom we admire because of their sparkling eyes, constant enthusiasm, and perpetually cheerful countenance. Everyone can attain the same results to a certain extent with just a little effort. It is said that it wrinkles three times as many of the facial muscles to frown as it does to smile. So why not smile?

C. McD.

VALUES

A product that is sold by weight must balance with the weights on the opposite end of the scales. In order to be worth the certain sum which is paid for it, its value lies in the quantities that give it weight and if a certain quantity does not weigh the required amount, more must be added.

People are weighed on the scales of life and of the world. The scales are the standards of the society of which a person is a part and wishes to be a part. If a person cannot balance the scales, it is necessary, first, for him to make his good characteristics stronger, and, second, to discard his weak qualities and replace them with better ones. Having acquired the essential qualities, he will succeed in attaining his goal.

If a football team begins to lose it is necessary for every man on the team to sum up the spirit needed to win the game. If any one fails to do this, the coach replaces him with a player he considers more competent. Then probably the team will win, or tip the scales. It is often that they have become of the desired values to their school.

People need to coach themselves in order to be able to balance the scales by which their value to others is determined.

Book Review

CLAIRE AMBLER
By Booth Tarkington

Claire Ambler, one of Booth Tarkington's recent novels, is a psychological study of a girl whom Tarkington calls "the girl who fails to do this, the coach replaces him with a player he considers more competent. Then probably the team will win, or tip the scales. It is often that they have become of the desired values to their school."

People need to coach themselves in order to be able to balance the scales by which their value to others is determined.

Eleven Faculty Members Attend Eastland Meet

The students are usually the tired and sleepy ones on Monday mornings, but that was not the case on Monday morning just passed, for the teachers seemed to be the ones suffering from a strenuous week-end. The cause of this was a trip to Eastland to the meeting of the Oil Belt Educational Association.

About eleven members of the faculty represented the Big Spring schools at this meeting and although some of them did not arrive in time for the banquet given on Friday evening, they arrived in time for the meeting Saturday.

The program was varied, including musical numbers rendered by orchestras and singers, plays and speeches, which included a twenty-minute address on "What Standards May High Schools Expect?" given by Miss Clara Cox, head of the English department of the Big Spring high school.

Mr. George Gentry, principal of the Big Spring high school, was chairman of the high school teachers' department Saturday afternoon.

About six of the schools hold 1930-31 cent membership but Big Spring seems to have been well represented by the faculty members.

Rev. W. H. Martin Assembly Speaker

On Monday, March 15th, at the regular assembly period Mr. Gentry had charge, and after announcements were made he introduced Rev. W. H. Martin, of the Episcopal church.

Rev. Martin told the story of Saul, a man born in Antioch of Jewish faith, who later became a Christian and helped to revise the New Testament. He read Saul's letter to the Ephesians and compared it to a letter one would write today. Rev. Martin told of the value of an education both in a literary way and in a religious way. He said that in preparing for our future life here on earth one would also think of his life after the life on earth is finished.

In life there are many temptations to shirk one's duty and to do the thing that at that time may seem to be more pleasant, but all these temptations, such as carelessness and indifference, must be ignored and not used if one intends to attain the highest purpose in life. Rev. Martin stated that there is only one thing certain in life and that is that at some time this life on earth will cease and then all must go to the land beyond. This is the life that one should really be preparing for all of the time, he pointed out.

Two Non-Decision Debates Engaged In

The boys and girls debating teams and their sponsor, Miss Kitty Wingo, went to Lubbock Friday afternoon for debating practice. The debates were non-decision but some valuable criticism was given by the critic judges.

The teams and sponsor were entertained Friday night at Lubbock and they returned home Saturday.

Current Event Group Meets

Prof. Boyle, Rev. Lindley Heard; Lomax Aids Museum

The Current Event History Club met on March 10. An interesting report on the recent lecture by Paul R. Frank was given by Prof. Frank Doyle of the science department. A talk was made by Mrs. Bumpass on the trips made to Chalk and Lomax by the club representatives. Miss Clara Cox introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Lindley, of the First Christian church, who spoke on the "World Fellowship."

Everyone enjoyed the program. Nine-gays of violets were given as favors to those attending.

Lomax was the first of the rural schools to contribute anything for the museum, which was a carved statue of Julius Caesar, made by a boy of that school.

Class In Clothing Starts Projects

No idle time is being spent in the first year clothing classes. They are now working on problems including all kinds of under-clothing.

The second year clothing classes is completing tailored garments, and at the end of this study, a three-day imaginary trip will be taken. This morning preparations for the trip were made. By next Thursday or Friday class criticism will be offered, and score cards given. The tailored garments made by this section include dresses, suits, spring coats, jackets, and skirts.

The third-year clothing classes is now completing afternoon and evening dresses. Criticism for garments will be made by the middle or last of next week.

In the near future this department will give a style show in the auditorium.

PERSONALS

A number of faculty members attended the Teachers convention in Eastland over the week-end.

Miss Verda Ruth Graham spent the week-end in Fort Worth with her parents.

Miss Mary McElroy spent the week-end at her home in Denton.

Miss Hart spent the week-end with her parents in Strawn.

Wayne Matthews spent the week-end in Dallas.

Mrs. Etter, Mr. Houston, and Miss Chadd judged debates in Coahoma Saturday.

"Tiger" Flowers and Burma Barley, graduates of B. S. H. S., and now students in Texas Tech, spent the week-end in Big Spring.

Ruster Hall, a graduate of B. S. H. S. and now a student of McMurry college spent the week-end in Big Spring.

Winelle Kavanagh, who is taking a business course in El Paso, returned to El Paso Sunday, after a brief visit with her parents here.

PONDERING OVER THE NEW BALL

Connie Mack (left), manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is probably wondering how his star pitchers led by Grove and Earnshaw will wrap the new pellet around the necks of opposing batsmen. He is examining it with E. S. Barnard, president of the National league, at the A's training camp in Fort Myers, Fla.

KNOW YOUR TEACHER

ELOISE AGNEW

Miss Eloise Agnew was born in San Marcos, Texas. She is the older child of the family having one younger brother.

Miss Agnew attended a special training school until she was in the ninth grade when she started to high school in San Marcos. She finished high school at the age of 15. While in high school she was assigned to a girl's club composed of 13 members.

After finishing high school she attended Southwest Texas Teachers college at San Marcos and obtained her degree at the age of 18. While in college she made the "B" average. She belonged to the Latin and Spanish clubs, Girl Reserves, Literary Society.

After finishing her degree she took a post graduate course and also took library work in S.W.T.S. T.C. She worked in the library there one year and a summer.

Miss Agnew attended Texas U. for a semester and a summer term and had charge of the reserve library while there. She worked on her M.A. while there and has it all finished except her thesis.

Miss Agnew intends to attend the University of California next summer to take some more library work and to finish her Master's degree.

She is very fond of swimming, enjoying that more than any other sport.

Miss Agnew likes to read very much. She likes the books of the month, American magazines, and all the current news. Thomas Hardy and Kathleen Norris are her favorite authors.

Miss Agnew has had charge of the B.S.H.S. library for the past two years.

D. H. REED

D. H. Reed, principal of Junior high school, holds from Stanton. He went to high school there for three years, enjoying himself immensely in the small group of high school pupils. They didn't do much—maybe a picnic and a show or two.

He finished high school in a preparatory school at Canyon, going there one year. He played basket-

IDLE CHATTER

By Laelle Rix

Hark! Hark! The dogs do bark. Every girl that went to the big druggists' dance is having a terrible time getting through the halls at school without having her feet stepped on. But the girls aren't the only ones. The boys are complaining about someone who stepped on their corns, etc. Thursday morning when the sun rose, as it will do, the poor sleepy school boys and girls dragged the tired bodies from their good old bed and, with sleepy eyes and leaden feet, trudged up the hill to the house of knowledge, complaining of headache, stomach ache and toothache. Every one went through his class like a dream. But what a dream! I guess all of the girls must have been dreaming about their favorite boyfriend, and all of the boys about their favorite girl-friends; anyway Thursday afternoon in citizenship class Mr. Blankenship asked is anyone interested in Kress and DeKress. I have never heard before. From the way everyone jumped the class must have thought the period was over. Oh well, such is life!

It won't be long now until the beauties and the beasts of the Junior class display their dancing, singing, and acting ability for the approval of whom it may concern. The Freshmen, Sophs, and Seniors have been serenaded during the home room period for nearly two weeks. What we have heard sounds promising and we believe that its going to be good. Come! Come! For the price of fifteen, twenty-five, and thirty-five cents. It's bound to be good—Inez Matthews and Jos. Claire are in it.

Did you hear about the cheerful cherubs, or in other words, Jennie Dorine Rogers and Melva Gene Handley? After school Thursday afternoon, it seems they became weary of those burdensome things called shoes; consequently, they removed them and were flitting up and down the hall, when they were surprised by a very prominent member of the faculty. Imagine their embarrassment.

There's no rest for the weary! So think the members of Miss Butler's economics class and Miss Cox's English class. Imagine having to answer ten economics questions that even Webster couldn't figure out. And a theme with the subject being, "The Most I Have Ever Suffered," or something to that effect. The general opinion on the subject is to be that they have suffered about seven months. Teachers, take care, too much mental strain may cause a breakdown!

Six little maidens of the Big Spring high school have solemnly resolved—so help them Hannah—that they will never again play hookey so long as they shall all live. Someone must have given them a very conscience striking talk, or something to that effect. Well, we must remember that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy—and every doggie has his day.

We're bound to have a dress parade in a week or so. The girls who are in the clothing 3 class are finishing their dresses—or perhaps it should have said trying to finish their dresses—and evening dresses. Some of the dresses will probably be displayed at the Junior Senior banquet, and maybe some of the girls will not be proud of theirs—but outside of some of the sleeves being put in backwards and the hemline slightly ago, we think that the dresses should be rather striking. Now girls, don't be bashful.

On Friday, the thirteenth, escorted by black cats and boy friends, the Lucky Thirteen club had a wailer soot. Under the light of the moon, if there was such a thing, they entertained themselves by eating and playing "three of a kind" and other things too numerous to mention.

The debate teams journeyed over to Lubbock Friday. Seems one team was as good as another as the boys and the girls had a non-decision debate. The Big Spring boys and girls saw some of the Big Spring Tech students while they were there. Everyone seems to be getting along fine.

Joe Faucett lent his melodious voice to the orchestra that played at the Battle Wednesday night. At times it was hard to decide whether he was actually singing or whether he was pouring out his tale of woe. No one made any complaint; however, we don't know whether it was because they weren't paying any attention or whether they liked it. Oh well, everyone is entitled to his own opinion.

INFANT BURED

Ford R. Nixon, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Nixon, was buried Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the new Mt. Olive cemetery.

The Rev. S. E. Hughes, pastor of the East Fourth Street Baptist church pronounced the rites. The baby lived two hours after being born Monday.

ALTITUDE RECORD OKED

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Aeronautic association today approved 28,743 feet, attained by Miss Ruth Nichols on March 6, as the new altitude record for women.

IMPROVING

Henry A. Wilson of Texarkana is reporting improving after undergoing a major operation at the Big Spring Hospital.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. V. Z. Phillips of the Chalk community, underwent a major operation Monday at the Big Spring Hospital.

In 1930 persons leaving farms for Iowa and cities numbered 1,543,000 compared with 1,876,000 in 1929 and 2,185,000 in 1928, the peak year of farm exodus.

Typing Team Is Challenged

The high school typing team has already received three challenges for this week-end, one each from Midland, Abilene, and Big Lake. The team will probably go to Abilene Saturday, provided some means of transportation can be unearched.

These are practice contests in preparation for the district typing tournament which will be held in Colorado on April 13. Mr. Low is the district contest manager.

LOS ANGELES-ATLANTA AIR TRIP INTERESTING

An American Airways mail and passenger speeds across foothills and plains, landing its cargo at Los Angeles 36 hours after it leaves Atlanta.

Grandmother used to ride with the mail in the Overland coach at the top. It took her 35 days to make the journey from St. Louis to California, and she collected a lifetime of anecdotes enroute, especially when the gallant led on top took time out to snipe a few troublesome Indians. And don't think it wasn't a great day when they took off the mail for the certification of a frontier town starved for news.

Below, concerning "news." The pony express rider hung up some enviable records in his day, and so has to regret now that this plane of the American Airways is picked for the job. Ten days from St. Jo to Fresno on a tough little Mustang is not only good, it's perfect.

Attitude

"The actions of the Humble oil and refining company, Governor Sterling and Pat Neff are reflections on the legislature," Long declared. "I just want to correct a few statements that have been made through the newspapers. I don't think Sterling and Neff know what they are doing when they criticize the railroad commission."

Charges Neff Neff was charged with having made a political issue of the waste of gas in the Reagan county field and with having caused dissension in the railroad commission from the time of his election.

Defending the actions of C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, and Lon A. Smith, the other commissioner, Long declared they were given an opinion by Robert Lee Bobbitt, former attorney general, which held the railroad commission had no authority to prevent wastage of gas in the production of oil.

"Despite this fact, Governor Sterling and Neff both claim the conservation laws are adequate," Long stated. "Each time Neff gets into the newspapers, he mentions the wastage in the Reagan county field. Careless waste of 20,000,000 cubic feet a day than Reagan county and Pampa and Amarillo districts three times as much," Long said.

Bill Introduced The Governor's bill to establish an oil and gas conservation commission was introduced in the house a few minutes before Long took the floor. It was introduced by Representatives McDougald of Beaumont, Metcalfe of San Angelo and Johnson of Carrizo Springs.

Representative Bond of Terrell asked Long if he did not think things could be thrashed out when the bill came up for consideration and that it was wasting time to discuss the governor and Neff now. Long replied he did not think so and "besides you have wasted enough time yourself."

A point of order was raised by McDougald that Long was not speaking on personal privilege since no attack had been made on him.

Long said that was merely a difference of opinion and that "McDougald couldn't shut him up and will just have to let it go."

Long stated Sterling had not invited the railroad commission to attend conferences at Fort Worth and Terarkana while Sterling attended the Fort Worth conference with Hines Baker, attorney for the Humble, at his side, and sent R. R. Penn, chairman of the central production committee, to Terarkana with Baker as his aide.

"I'm tired of seeing them stab each other in the back through the papers," Long said. "The railroad commission has been enjoined in the Travis county district court from preventing gas wastage in the Panhandle but still by Sterling and Neff, who hasn't signed a proration order for the past two months."

"I think Sterling should be fair and listen to the people he represents instead of the Humble Oil and refining company. He has not counseled with the people of East Texas but with the Humble."

Representative Davis of Brownwood, who had tried to interrupt Long during his speech, characterized Long's talk as "Irish confetti delivered on St. Patrick's day."

Disagree on Hearing AUSTIN, March 17 (AP)—Dissension over a date for hearing the bill sponsored by Governor Sterling, to create an oil and gas conservation commission, threatened a split in the house, oil, gas and mining committee today. The bill was introduced today in the house by Representative McDougald of Beaumont.

Representative Hardy of Breckenridge, chairman, said he probably would call a meeting of the committee March 25, a week from tomorrow, to hold a public hearing on the bill.

McDougald and others urged the bill be set for public hearing Friday night. It was believed likely that if heard Friday night, attempts would be made to bring it out on the floor of the house next Monday under suspension. McDougald said it would be discourteous to Governor Sterling, in view of his submission of the bill as an emergency measure, to postpone the hearing until March 25.

Johnson Calls Pitching 75 Percent As Senators Prepare For 1931 Campaign

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Walter Johnson wants to be the manager of a pennant winning ball club more than he ever wanted anything before in his life.

Yet the man whose team beat the Washington Senators out of last year's American league title and caused Johnson the most bitter disappointment is the man whom the Big Train most admires in baseball.

"Connie Mack, what a wonderful fellow he is," mused the big, easy going man whose smoke ball used to blind them. "He's more like a father to his boys than he is a manager. Why, they'll scarcely buy a hat without asking his advice. That's how I'd like my players to feel toward me."

He means it, too, and he is doing everything in his power to make his boys like him and play their hearts out for him. He did not bring his family to the training camp, so is free to spend his entire time with the team.

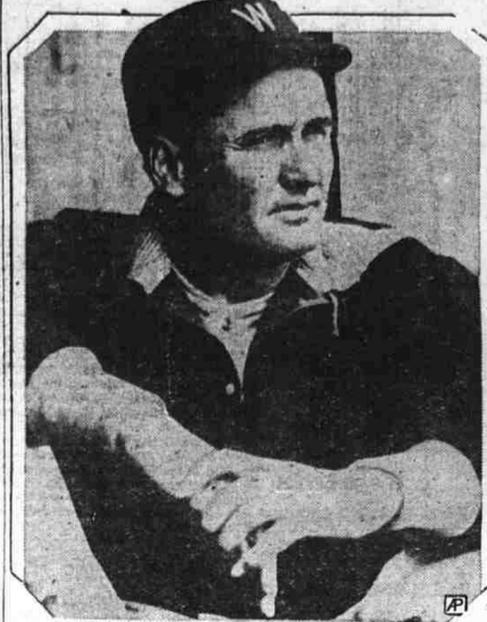

Situated at a quiet resort hotel, several miles from the city and its night life, if any, there are few distractions for the Senators. It suits Johnson perfectly.

In the daily practice sessions, Big Walt is just one of the boys. Tosses them over in batting practice; joins in the high spirits of his athletes; edges around unobtrusively to give a bit of advice here and there; seldom issues an order. He doesn't need to. His men respect him, both for what he was and is.

In the afternoon he golfs, like all of them. His game is somewhere in the nineties, as a rule, but he pates his drive a mile.

In the evening he is at one of the pinocle tables in the lobby, or standing loose-limbed with a group in front of the fireplace, arguing the merits of this or that player.

As might be expected in the only pitcher-manager now in the big leagues, Johnson is inclined to place most of his faith in the efficacy of his mound staff. Pitching he believes, is 75 per cent of his game—not 50 per cent, as others

WALTER JOHNSON

Manager Walter "Big Train" Johnson, who was once something of a pitcher himself, at the Biloxi, Miss., training camp of the Washington Senators, believes that hurling this year will go in the way in deciding where the American league championship lands.

What effect the new ball will have on the game, if any, Johnson is not yet prepared to say. Says he hasn't seen what the modified sphere acts like in a test game, when both the pitcher and the batters are bearing down.

The tip-off seems to be, however, that the Senators' pilot thinks he has a great chance at the pennant, and he is relying on his pitchers to turn the trick.

Most of the men were in their berths although few had retired, Captain Keen said. There was a terrific explosion the cause of which has not yet been determined. Many were thrown from their berths and others were thrown to no deck. The ship was plunged into darkness.

The men in the forward part of the ship, Capt. Keen believes, escaped injury, and were able to get off the craft and on to the ice. Those aft, however, were less fortunate. The explosion was felt in pieces. In the shadow light of the night, motionless forms could be seen on the ice floes and cries for help were heard.

Fire broke out, discouraging efforts of some of the men to salvage personal possessions. Blowing smoke swept across the ice as the 50-year-old Viking was cremated in the ice fields through which it has ploughed so many decades.

Friends of Frisell here said it was more than likely that the young explorer was quartered aft and therefore in a section where the full force of the explosion was felt. There was nothing, however, to indicate he was aft at the time of the blast.

Changes Made In Petsch Bill

Would Give Competitors of Municipal Plants More Rights

AUSTIN, March 17 (AP)—Three changes have been made in the bill introduced by Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg to establish a state public utility commission to regulate rate schedules of public service corporations, Petsch said today.

One would permit the utilities to give bond pending adjudication of rate reductions ordered by the city but would not permit utilities to give bond in event a proposed increase in the rate by the utility was contested by the city.

Sponsors of the bill voted to take out the receivership provision in the original bill which would have placed utilities in control of a receiver for violating the law.

Another change would give utilities operating in competition with municipal plants, authority to reduce their rates to meet the rates charged by the municipal plant.

Petsch said the conference with opponents of the bill had been called off because many of the representatives of the utilities were not in a position to make concessions on provisions of the bill.

The committee which revised the bill was composed of City Attorneys J. Bouldin Rector of Austin, Williams of Galveston, McGlasson of San Antonio, and Mayors Lee of San Angelo and Hockersmith of Vernon.

Those who enjoyed the bluebonnet picture called "Texas Hills" at the recent art exhibit, will particularly enjoy the following piece of verse by Hazel Harper Harris:

New York was an alien land to me
Until the day I found
A painting in a gallery—
A strip of Texas ground—
But this small square of land and sky
Was many a league of blue.
I caught my breath as the wind went by
Over this bluebonnet view,
Over my land where the sunlight spills
Gold on bluebonnet plain—Bluebonnets blurring the far low hills
An aphodol blue after rain.
I was off and away with the wind in my hair
Where the blue stretches out in the sun,
And those who have tasted the tang of the air
Know the joy of a prairie run.
Sea blue and sky blue and Corn-flower blue
Spread out over miles in the Spring—
Bluebonnets bright in the sun
or the dew,
The shade of a bluebird's wing.
So when these gray steel buildings hide
My sky and dim my room,
I bless the artist who lets me
ride
Out where the bluebonnets bloom.
