The bomb was needed

This is the 50th anniversary of dropping the atomic bombs on Nagasaki and Hiroshima and it seems the event is being covered by every media possible.

My thoughts on the topic are simple: President Truman made the correct decision in dropping the bombs.

It's very obvious that if the bomb had not been used, the U.S. would have had to invade the Japanese mainland at a tremendous cost in human lives on both sides.

Those losses would easily have exceeded the number of folks who died during the bombing.

Yes, I know there's a school of thought, especially among liberal historians that it was not really necessary since Japan planned to sue for peace.

That's false.

Here's what the situation was in the Japanese military government at that time:

Basically, you could say there were 10 folks heading the government -- 8 military and 2 civilian.

The two civilians were involved in secret peace initiatives. The military folks were not. The military folks were set firmly on a "no surrender" policy.

That's why I fully believe that the peace initiatives by the civilians, in a minority, were doomed to failure.

But, enter the revisionist historians. Books are published about the peace initiatives -- with the question of whether the bombs were needed.

That's like asking why the North fought in the Civil War since there were some Southerners who opposed the war.

I think I will end this column now. It's just common sense that the bombing was needed.

From Teresa:

Research has shown that one of the most remembered scents from our childhood days is the smell of Crayola Crayons. This smell has now begun to permeate the air in every store in the area, which only means one thing ... it's time to go back to school!

It's a funny thing about how we really do remember the smell of our crayons, but what is even more interesting to me now is that the Crayola company has now manufactured scented Crayons. They release their scent as you color.

Teachers and students will now have memories of Cherry Red and Blueberry Blue instead of just Red or Blue!

And, as if scented crayons weren't enough, there are now varieties that are glittered, neon and washable crayons (I thought that all crayons were washable...I left enough of them in my mom's washer to prove this theory!).

There is now an even bigger and better box of Crayons on the market. The big box of 64 crayons with the sharpener in the back now takes a back seat to the box of 96 crayons with a pencil sharpener and a coloring guide in the back.

I remember standing in the store on the school supply

Rip's Western Wear in Texico is undergoing extensive remodeling, inside and outside the local landmark. Canopies have been placed outside the store. The Tribune will carry more photos later of inside remodeling.

Regional water leaders work on Ogallala plan

Regional water leaders are currently working to develop a High Plains Ogallala Regional Water Management Plan.

The reason this is being done is that water from the Ogallala Aquifer is being used faster than it is being naturally recharged, and there are limited opportunities for the development of additional surface water reservoirs to satisfy the needs of a growing municipal population.

The area is unique inasmuch as it has a large regional aquifer, the Ogallala, and several public surface water reservoirs whose combined yields have historically provided an adequate water supply to satisfy the water needs of the residents of the towns and cities in the area. In addition to supplying a portion of the municipal water needs of the citizens of the area, the aquifer has historically provided enough water to supplement the precipitation received in the area to the extent that the region's farmers have been able to produce large, dependable crop yields over a long period of time. Agriculture, the largest water user, provides the principal economic base for the region.

To further complicate the depletion problem, the aquifer varies in thickness throughout the region. Even prior to large-scale development, some areas in the region had very limited ground water reserves, whereas in other areas ground water appeared to be abundant. Forty to fifty years of use of water from the aquifer has resulted in a partial depletion of the ground water reserves throughout most of the region. This partial depletion has resulted in declines in well yields, especially in the thinner sections of the aquifer.

Farmers' use of improved water conservation equipment and technology has helped to offset the well yield declines, making sufficient water available for the crops. Crop yields have remained high for most crops grown in the areas as a result of this effort. As an example, a well producing 1,000 gallons per minute from which the water being applied was only 60 percent efficient would only make 600 gallons a minute available to the crop being irrigated, whereas a well producing 700 gallons per minute which is being used with equipment that is 95 percent efficient would make 665 gallons per minute available to the crop.

The significance of irrigation water-use efficiency became very evident during the 1980s. From 1980 to 1990, rises of the water levels in the aquifer occurred over approximately 50 percent of the area. Improved water-use efficiency, above average precipitation, and acreage enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program contributed to reducing the long term depletion rate. Additionally, the amount of natural recharge to the aquifer undoubtedly was above normal during this period of above average precipitation.

Unfortunately, the weather cycle in the area has changed again from wet to dry. During the first half of the 1990s, a drought occurred in the region. The deficit in the amount of precipitation received had to be satisfied with water pumped from the aquifer; and also little or no water was available from precipitation for natural recharge to the aquifer. Water levels in the aquifer again began to fall, as did the levels in the public surface water supply reservoirs. Larger amounts of ground water had to be pumped for municipal uses to offset reduced reserves in the surface water reservoirs. Droughts occur and reoccur in the region at unpredictable frequencies, as do above-average precipitation events.

A rapidly declining water base will hinder the growth and development in the region, plus reduce the opportunities to

Farwell Schools hire three

The Farwell School Board hired three new staffers at its Tuesday meeting.

Jon Cullison will be the new vocational agriculture teacher. He has two years experience teaching in western New Mexico schools. He replaces Richard Montgomery, who took a position in Dalhart, Texas.

Brittany Willis, the wife of a new state police officer living in Farwell, will be the new special education teacher. She replaces Cindy Landers, who resigned to take a post in Clovis.

And Weldon Killough, who has been the counselor at Yucca Junior High in Clovis, will be the new high school counselor. Last month, the board had hired Pam Cornelius for the job, but she didn't take it.

Texico Schools approve out-of-district policy for students

The Texico School Board approved an out-of-district school policy.

This deals with students who don't live in the Texico school district but who wish to attend Texico schools. Previously, there was no board policy.

The new policy leaves it up to the discretion of the principals and superintendent whether to allow out-of-district students into Texico, and when to remove them if necessary.

Also, since the state has mandated class sizes, Texico school officials will make sure that out-of-district students don't cause classes to be overloaded to force extra classes and teachers.

Some of the policy highlights include:

-- Admission of non-resident students shall be made for periods of one school year at a time.

-- In admitting non-resident students, the superintendent may give consideration to whether admission of that student will enrich the existing educational program...or will place a disproportionate demand on the resources of the school district.

-- Admission of non-resident students shall not be on a first-come first-serve basis. The principal may maintain a waiting list but shall not be bound to adhere to it.

-- Admission into Texico Schools of children who don't live within the district is purely a privilege, not a right.

In other business, the board:

-- Awarded the milk bid to Bell Dairy.

-- Have surveyed a potential site for the new ag farm (on Hwy. 108 just north of the city) and is getting it appraised.

-- Reviewed the track and field project. There are some bad spots without grass and some funds are being held back until the area is corrected.

-- Hired Indolina Meza an instructional assistant for 3- and 4-year-olds. This is an additional employee.

-- Received the resignation of cook Elisa Chavez. A new cook will be sought.

-- Was told that Richard Luscombe coached the South All-Stars in basketball to an upset victory over the North.

Lazbuddie eyes facility grant

The Lazbuddie School Board discussed a state grant that might be available that could provide up to $500,000 for facility improvements.

Supt. Phil Warren reported that the grant would be a matching 80-20, with Lazbuddie providing 20 percent of the funds. He discussed renovation of the bathrooms and classrooms. He will further investigate the possibility of this grant.

In other business, the board:

-- Signed a mutual use pact with the city of Friona, which is seeking a grant for a new pool. By signing the pact, it will help Friona's request.

-- Hired Nancy Welker to teach elementary music and be band director. Mrs. Welker is a recent graduate of Eastern New Mexico University. She and her husband, who works at Cannon Air Force Base, will live at Lazbuddie.

-- Met with Kirby Brantley, of the Parmer County Appraisal District, to discuss appraisal regulations.

-- Approved Farm Bureau and TASB for insurance coverages.

-- Reviewed next year's budget. It will be about the same as

In other business, the board:

-- Set the budget hearing for 7 p.m. Aug. 28. A regular board meeting will follow in which the budget will be approved and the tax rate set. School Supt. Richard Boothby said he expects the tax rate to stay the same.

-- Boothby reported that the state has "recognized" Farwell Schools for its excellent TAAS scores.

-- Reports were given on various construction projects, including refurbishing the cafeteria, new handicapped ramps at the elementary school, and painting.

The football stadium will have a new look. Steps, with a railing, have been put down the middle of the home side. New steps were put on both ends. And a metal walkway has been placed below.

Texico gets its $100,000 back from state

Texico got some great news at the Tuesday City Council meeting.

Mayor Butch Tharp reported that the state has repented and given Texico the extra $100,000 it had pledged toward the new community center.

In July, the state had announced it was cutting back the $300,000 in grant funds for the community center to $200,000.

This meant that the center's design would have to be altered to allow for that shortage.

Now, architect Terry Rucker is going ahead with plans for the $300,000 center. He will have those plans ready at the next council meeting.

Lewis Cooper, who has been on the center planning committee, said one hitch has developed: due to federal EPA rules, the center must have commercial food equipment in the kitchen. So this equipment purchase will be postponed.

In other business, the council:

-- Hired Tim Kelly, 24, as the city's third police officer.

Tim comes to Texico from Queens, New York, where he served as a police officer for the New York City Police Dept. for three years.

Tim was the top finalist for the deputy position out of 24 applications.

He has advanced training in various areas of homicide sex crimes and other topics of law enforcement.

Tim came to New Mexico after he visited a friend who is a deputy sheriff in the Curry County Sheriff's Dept. He grew to like the area and decided to move out of the big city and to a place where the crime was not as violent and extensive as it was in New York City.

-- Heard city attorney Marion Ty Rutter report that state officials will be in Texico Monday to see if another well is needed. With water shortages appearing throughout this area, city and school governments are looking to drill new wells.

Texico

Councilman Ronnie War-muth wondered if Texico could buy water from Clovis, if necessary.

-- Received a request from Ignacio Olivas to move a house into town at 118 Opal. The council will view the house before making a decision.

-- Heard that Cecil Montano wants to move a water meter closer to his home. Tharp said the law doesn't allow the city to pay for such a change and Montano would have to pay for it himself.

-- Noted that the post of animal control officer was still open, but a potential applicant may file for it this week.

-- Noted that the intersection of Wheeler and Jewel needs repaving. This will be looked into.

-- Thanked Oran Jay Autrey for his volunteer use of equipment to plant large evergreen trees in the parks.

He is planting 7 to 9 trees, which have been donated, at KKR and Lions parks and also at the new community center site.

City employees Matt Meeks and Clarence Smith also were thanked for their assistance in this effort.

-- Had an executive session on buying property.

Saturday was rainy

Saturday night was a wet one for the region after receiving the first rain of the month.

The rains and high winds lasted into the early morning Sunday in some areas. Winds were reported to have reached in excess of 40 to 50 miles per hour in Oklahoma Lane and Lariat. However, no damage was reported as a result of the high winds.

Sherley-Anderson in Lariat reported .83" as a total from Saturdays' storm.

Sherley-Anderson-Pittman in Farwell reported .75" as did Sherley-Anderson Lazbuddie.

aisle with my mom every year before school started giving my best reasons why I should have the box of 64 crayons.

"It will give me more freedom of expression" I stated. "I'll be better able to define my characters ethnicity and cultural background."

"Teresa, you're still drawing stick figures with triangle dresses and rectangle pants," my mother replied. "Besides the list only asks for a box of 24 crayons."

"But everyone else gets the box of 24. I like a little more choice in my coloring," I retorted.

"Teresa, you're color blind, you don't know the difference," my mother stated, firmly ending the discussion.

The truth hurt. But it was the principle of the matter. I thought that being able to say that I had colored my Christmas tree classroom decoration with "Evergreen" instead of "Green" would make a difference in my life. "Brick Red" houses would have more impact on my artistic impression instead of just "Red." But, my mother won, each and every year.

She especially made the point of not wasting money on a school supply that would only last about 6 months anyway. I was hard on my crayons. I colored hard and they broke in half and then in half again. I tried to make a candle out of the bits and pieces that I had left one time, but I wasn't successful. In fact I burned the pan that I was melting them in. The maintain a strong agricultural economic base. Regional water uses can reduce the rate of depletion of the water supply by being more efficient water users.

The region's water supply can be increased by implementing a precipitation enhancement program. (Increasing precipitation will reduce the demand on the ground water reserves, increase the catchment in the surface reservoirs, and increase the natural recharge to the aquifer.)

When completed, the regional water management plan should provide the guidance and encouragement necessary to insure the region's water supply base for many years into the future.

Dr. Lloyd Urban, Director of the Water Resources Center at Texas Tech University, and A. Wayne Wyatt, Manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, serve as co-chairmen for the High Plains Ogallala Regional Water Management Plan team. The team is comprised of about 60 members representing municipalities, industry, agriculture, educators, universities, federal, state, and local governments, as well as individual interested citizens. The region being addressed is a 22 million acre area in 46 High Plains of Texas counties. Lubbock and Amarillo are the two largest cities in the region. The final plan document should be completed in about two years. However, work has already begun on implementing programs and activities to accomplish the group's objectives.

this year, although salaries go up automatically according to state guidelines.

-- Increased the school's contribution for health insurance for each employee to $65 a month.

-- Agreed to repair a major water leak in the transmission line to a housing unit.

-- Plans to build a backup water well due to current water problems.

-- Approved the DARE (drug education) contract.

-- Heard Warren report that the state gave Lazbuddie a satisfactory accreditation rating with exemplary status for its ACT scores.

-- Heard Warren say that Follett schools has agreed to buy 82 weighted ADA which means an additional gain of funds for Lazbuddie.

All seniors are to report to the auditorium at 9 a.m. with their money for the picture deposit fee.

The Curry County Fair kicks off on Aug. 14 and several kids from Texico and Pleasant Hill have animals that will be shown at the fair. The Tribune will be carrying the results of these participants in the next two issues.

Richard Montgomery, former ag teacher at Farwell High School, received the 20 year Service Award at the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas annual awards program on Aug. 2 at the Abilene Civic Center.

Montgomery received a plaque and gold lapel pin to commemorate the occasion. The Association presents tenure awards based on years of teaching while being a member of the Association.

All parents and fans of the Farwell Steer football team are invited to a Watermelon Feast at the practice field on Aug. 16 at 8:30 p.m.

This will be after the last two-a-day practice for the team and is being sponsored by the Farwell Booster Club.

Everyone is encouraged to join the Booster Club in showing the Steers support for the coming season.

Stroebel optimistic about grid season

Farwell Varsity Football coach Stan Stroebel is looking forward to a great season this year with the Steers.

"We're looking for big things to happen with the team this year," he stated. "I feel that we're going to be in a good position to compete and possibly win a District Championship."

Stroebel was open to admit that the team was going to have to improve on several things and work very hard to strengthen the team, especially on the offensive line.

"Several kids have got to come up on the offensive line to get it to a competitive point," Stroebel commented.

Avoiding injuries will also be a key point with the team this season.

Four All-District players will be returning for play on the squad this season: Chase Hardage, Brock Anderson, Landon Lunsford and Steven Miller.

Fransé attends poets' confab

Lucille Fransé, who teaches English and U.S. history at Farwell High, recently spent three days in Washington, D.C.

She attended the International Society of Poets convention at the Washington Hilton and used the opportunity to see some of the historical landmarks of the nation's capitol.

The convention was a gathering of poets from all over the world with workshops, publishing information and entertainment. An interesting feature was the open microphone where poets could read their own materials.

The first banquet featured the "Shirelles"; the second was the Johnny Cash show.

The tour included various famed monuments and the Smithsonian and U.S. Capitol.

This is the third convention for Mrs. Fransé and she looks forward to networking with others who attended.

Things will start cookin' soon in Farwell

by Teresa J. Mesman

When school starts on Aug. 17 in Farwell, things will really start cooking for Linda Moss.

As the director and manager of the Farwell Schools cafeteria, she takes on the tremendous task of planning and preparing nutritious meals for the students and faculty each and every day of the school year.

This task is a labor of love for the 19 year cafeteria veteran. Linda began working in the Farwell school cafeteria in 1976 under the direction of Robbie Johnson. Two years later, Linda was promoted to the directors' position and she has since been managing the staff and overseeing the food selection and preparation for the 17 years.

"I have always loved to cook," Linda said. "I walked into the cafeteria kitchen looking for a job the first part of the school year in 1976 and was put to work right away, that very day."

But cooking is just part of the job that Linda has to do in order to put together the meals that are served.

The federal government has put high expectations on the school lunch and breakfast programs in the area of nutrition and food combinations. One way that Linda and other cafeteria directors keep up with these guidelines is in attending a yearly training session that takes place every summer. The one that Linda attends is sponsored by the Texas School Food Service Association and the Texas Education Agency.

Here she learns the updated requirements and guidelines that are expected and outlined by the National School Lunch Program.

This workshop is a hands-on conference that is a good place to learn new food techniques. It is also very important to a director in learning the rules and changes that are to be implemented in the coming school year. There are also other topics dealt with at the workshop. Twelve to 14 different classes are held ranging in topics from sanitation to marketing.

Linda explained that the government is very concerned with the nutritional well-being of children. The federal government supplies the cafeteria with commodities to feed the children and to help in meeting the students' nutritional needs.

The National School Lunch Program is only required to meet one-third of the daily nutritional requirements outlined for children. For many children, the lunch that they get at school may be the only nutritious meal they get for the day.

Farwell Schools also participate in a Breakfast program in order to help the nutrition situation. It has been scientifically proven that students who eat a well balanced breakfast perform and comprehend more during their school day. Any student in the school system can eat breakfast at the cafeteria for .60¢.

The prices for the school lunches are $1.15 for Elementary students, $1.20 for Junior High and $1.25 for High School.

The government requirements for school lunches for students in grades K-5 are 1 1/2 oz. of meat or meat alternative, 1/2 cup of vegetables and/or fruit, 1/2 pint of milk and 8 bread servings per week. Sixth through 12th graders get 3 oz. of meat or meat alternative, 3/4 cup of vegetables and/or fruit, 1/2 pint of milk of 8 bread servings per week.

Linda and her staff pride themselves on planning a wide variety of meals. They try to accentuate a season, holiday or activity with a theme and type of food served. Kid preference is also a big factor in deciding the weekly menu.

"If the students really like something, I like to be told because I'll plan to serve it as often as possible," Linda stated.

Linda also likes to introduce new food items to the students. Food and the culture it comes from can be a real learning experience. She also likes to use old-fashioned recipes and ways of preparing some of the meals.

"The taste you get from certain foods is best when it's done the old-fashioned way," Linda said.

Farwell Schools have a strong lunch program and it gets great support from the students, teachers and the parents. One of the reasons that the program is so strong is because of the staff that puts the meals together on a daily basis. Linda works with Joy Stanton, Lillie Hughes, Stella Garcia, Lupe Saenz and Maria Vidaurri, and they all work well together. They create great tasting food in a fun and supportive atmosphere.

Linda encourages the students to bring their artwork, class projects and posters to the cafeteria to display. These displays only add to the atmosphere in the cafeteria. Parents are also encouraged and invited to come by and see the cafeteria in action.

Because, when one see Linda Moss and the staff of the Farwell Cafeteria in action, you soon see (and smell!) that there is always something cooking!

1 serving

What counts as one serving on the daily food guide?

Breads, Cereals, Rice and Pasta - 1 slice of bread, 1/2 cup of cooked rice or pasta, 1/2 cup of cooked cereal or 1 ounce of ready-to-eat cereal.

Vegetables - 1/2 cup of chopped raw or cooked vegetables or 1 cup of leafy raw vegetables.

Fruits - 1 piece of fruit or melon wedge, 3/4 cup of juice, 1/2 cup of canned fruit, 1/4 cup of dried fruit.

Milk, Yogurt and Cheese - 1 cup of milk or yogurt, 1- 1/2 to 2 ounces of cheese.

Meat, Poultry, Fish, Dry Beans, Eggs and Nuts - 2-1/2 to 3 ounces of cooked lean meat, poultry or fish, count 1/2 cup of cooked beans, or 1 egg, or 2 tablespoons of peanut butter as 1 ounce of lean meat (about 1/3 serving).

Fats, Oils and Sweets - LIMIT CALORIES FROM THESE especially if you need to lose weight.

The amount you eat may be more than one serving. For example, a dinner portion of spaghetti would count as two or three servings of pasta.

Darren Haseloff, Lorre Johnson wed

Lorre Deann Johnson and Darren Wade Haseloff were united in marriage on Saturday, June 3, 1995, at the First Baptist Church of Lazbuddie. Lorre is the daughter of Mr. And Mrs. Errol Johnson of Lazbuddie. Darren is the son of Mr. And Mrs. Richard Haseloff of Farwell. Bro. J.L. Bass, of Brownfield, grandfather of the bride, officiated over the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length white satin gown complimented by a V-neck in front and back and featuring puff sleeves of organza and lace gathered above the elbow with a satin bow on each sleeve and lace extending to a point at the elbow. The bodice and sleeves were embellished with beading and sequins highlighting the V-waistline in the front and a large satin bow at the back waistline. The skirt which included a flowing train was of white satin with lace and organza insets accented with sequins, beading, and silk bows and completed with a scalloped lace edging. To complete her attire the bride chose a floral wreath adorned with pearl beading and sequins. The attached veil was of multi-layered waist-length tulle with finished edging and pearl beading scattered through each layer.

Lorre carried a bouquet of white Casa Blanca lilies, white tulips, bridal white roses, stephanotis, and tiny white alstroemeria lilies in a background of ferns and English ivy arranged with bridal tulle, pearls, and lace.

For something old, the bride had an old penny in her shoe. Something new was her dress. Something borrowed was her necklace from the mother and something blue was her garter.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with tails complimented by a white vest trimmed with black.

Rachel Cotton, roommate of the bride, of Miami, Oklahoma, was the maid of honor. Best man was Derrick Haseloff, brother of the groom, of Farwell. Other bridesmaids were Kaci Stephens of Farwell, Tiny Dull of Waco, and Kim Giles of Bossier City, Louisiana. Groomsmen were Greg Actkinson of Lubbock. Chris Aycok of Waco, and Duane Haseloff, brother of the groom, of Farwell. Hannah Burnett of Lazbuddie was the flower girl and Will Lewis, cousin of the groom, of Preston, Oklahoma was the ringbearer.

Candlelighters were Megan Johnson, cousin of the bride, of Farwell, and Zane Drager, cousin of the groom, of Texico.

Guests were registered by Heather Hensley, cousin of the bride, of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. Ushers were Brad Johnson, brother of the bride, of Arlington, Shannon Cook of Pampa, and Marcus Sullivan of Plainview.

Organ and piano music was provided by Marcella Jennings of Lazbuddie and Mia Jennings of Dallas. Vocal selections were sung by Brad Johnson, brother of the bride, and Christi Harper of Kingwood, Texas.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the fellowship hall. Serving at the Bride's table were Amanda Johnson, cousin of the bride, of Farwell, and Tina Sasser of Hitchcock, Texas. Dana Scoggin, sister of the groom, of Midland, served at the groom's table and Angie Sullivan of Plainview served the punch and coffee.

Special out-of-town guests were Mr. And Mrs. J.L. Bass of Brownfield and Mr. And Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Farwell, each grandparents of the bride. Also Mr. Adolph Haseloff of Farwell, and Mr. And Mrs. Ohland Morton of Eufala, Oklahoma, all grandparents of the groom.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner on Friday night catered by Winkler's Meat Market, at the Bailey County Coliseum in Muleshoe.

The bride was honored by a brunch given in the home of Mrs. Doyle Johnson of Farwell on Saturday morning. Hostesses for the brunch were Susan Johnson, Roberta Johnson, aunts of the bride, and Eva Dean Stephens, all of Farwell.

The couple now reside in Lubbock, Texas after a honeymoon trip to Pagosa Springs, Colorado.

The Latest

It's back to school time for students in the area!

Students in the Farwell and Lazbuddie districts report for classes on Aug. 17.

Texico Schools begin on Aug. 21.

Wayne and Janene Fogle of Dallas were in town visiting Jane Morris and Berny and Teresa Mesman of Farwell.

Troy Chadwick, son of James and Tanya Chadwick of Farwell, recently received a $200 Amarillo Globe-News Carrier Scholarship.

Troy will be attending South Plains Jr. College in Levelland.

The eastern part of Farwell was without electricity for about three hours Saturday night when a storm blew in.

An Amarillo grand jury indicted five men Tuesday in connection with a counterfeiting ring.

Included in the indictment, on a charge of passing fake money, was a Friona man, Eloy Castanon, 20.

A $500 reward is offered for information leading to Castanon's arrest.

According to the Lubbock newspaper, police said Castanon was identified as the person who devised the counterfeiting scheme that used a home computer printer.

Donations are needed for the purchase of the T-shirts for the D.A.R.E. program at Farwell Elementary and Jr. High.

The total cost of the shirts is $300. The D.A.R.E. program will pay part of the cost.

Contact Officer Roy Smith at 265-3230 or leave your donation at the sheriff's office.

All these donations will be used for Farwell youths.

There's a story in today's Tribune about Lazbuddie may seek a large state facilities grant.

Farwell School Supt. Richard Boothby said that Farwell doesn't qualify for that particular grant.

Julia Kay Magness was baptized July 29 at Hamlin

Memorial United Methodist Church.

She was born to Kirk and Shelly Magness on Feb. 20 in Odessa, Texas. She is the granddaughter of June and Ted Magness.

Among the 171 summer graduate candidates at Eastern New Mexico University were from Farwell:

Cynthia Jo Cargile, bachelor's degree in elementary education, with "honors."

Joyce Davis Williams, bachelor's degree in history, summa cum laude.

A new radar system in West Texas has been set up by the National Weather Service.

This means that warning responsibilities for seven Texas counties, including Parmer, will be transferred from the Amarillo office to the Lubbock office on Oct. 3.

A New Mexico man died after a one-vehicle accident on U.S. 60 near Bovina early Sunday morning.

Leewayne Tenorio, 23, of Santo Domingo Pueblo, died at the scene.

Police said the driver, a 45 year old El Paso man, lost control on a wet road. The truck rolled over twice.

The group of 5 in the pickup were heading to Wisconsin.

A passenger, Susan Aguilar, 16, of Santo Domingo Pueblo, was listed in critical condition Monday at Northwest Texas Hospital with internal injuries and a broken hip.

Geries appointed to state board

Dickie Geries, a Uvalde banker and Farwell High graduate, has been appointed by Texas Gov. George W. Bush to the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority board of directors.

The board administers the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority that provides financial help for the expansion, development and diversification of production, processing, marketing and export of Texas ag products.

Geries, who was raised in Farwell and is the youngest of four brothers, is executive vice president of First State Bank of Uvalde.

He is the chief lending officer and serves on the senior management and investment committee and board of directors.

Previously, he was with First National Bank of Hereford for 11 years. He is past president of both the Hereford YMCA and Hereford Industrial Foundation.

He is a former director of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association and a member of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Geries receives his bachelor's and master's degrees in agriculture from West Texas State University. He also completed the Intermediate School of Banking at Texas Tech University and completed an agricultural credit analyses school at Texas A&M.

His term on the state board will expire Jan. 1, 1997.

BTD committee has wrap-up session

The Border Town Days Committee held its wrap-up meeting Monday at the Spurt Restaurant.

All funds were turned in and all bills paid.

BTD Chairman Mike Pomper praised the committee members for their excellent work again this year.

He noted that folks throughout a large area admire the Texico-Farwell celebration and it's due to the work of the volunteers who work on the committee.

Various problems were discussed with plans to address them at next year's BTD:

-- A need for more electricity at the city park. The Farwell Chamber of Commerce is addressing this.

-- Positioning of the speakers.

-- Moving the antique tractors further from the gazebo.

-- A barricade needed to help parade entrants turn toward the park.

-- Problems with the parade lineup.

-- Pennants over the highway in Farwell. This year, the Farwell Chamber of Commerce decided to forego the pennants over the highway in favor of banners on the street poles.

The pennants in Texico are purchased by the Texico Chamber of Commerce. They recently bought 10 strands, at $17 per strand, and they last six or seven years.

A look at cotton

Predicting the outcome of a cotton crop on the Texas High Plains has always been difficult. In recent years, the task has become almost impossible.

During each of the last two crop years High Plains cotton growers have started their crops behind the eight-ball and ended up producing crops well above the area's ten-year average production number. The 1993 and 1994 crop's each topped the 3 million bale mark. The 1994 crop was an especially pleasant surprise coming in at just over 3 million bales despite the fact that early on a lack of moisture almost kept many acres from being planted. Early discussions of the High Plains 1994 crop found most production estimates ranging from 2.25 - 2.75 million bales.

The 1995 crop has gotten off to just as bad a start as the one experienced in 1994. Early season moisture deficits kept many dryland acres unplanted well past the area's normal planting window. A variety of other conditions including cool temperatures, blowing sand, and hail slowed the early development of many late April and May planted irrigated fields. Replanting activity continued through the July 4 weekend in a few isolated areas.

The overall result is that the 1995 High Plains cotton crop was put three to four weeks behind schedule as evidenced by the fact that the majority of fields did not begin to fully enter the bloom period until mid-July.

Warm temperatures helped the crop out on a good fruit load and make up some of the ground it lost early in the season. Some boll shed is being suffered at this time due to severe high temperature stress, a rapid change in temperatures and persistent cloudy weather during the last two weeks.

Temperatures across the area plunged from 100-plus degrees the last week of July to highs in the 60's and 70's during the first week of August. The front, which brought some much needed precipitation to the area, primarily responsible for the cooler temperatures has given way to a low pressure system that so far has prevented the area from experiencing any rebound in temperatures.

"The best thing for the crop at this point after the rains we received last week is a return to warm, sunny weather," says Kater Hake, Texas Agricultural Extension Service Cotton Specialist for the High Plains. "We will probably continue to see some fruit being thrown off as a result of the weather we have experienced the last two weeks. Fortunately the rain we received should prove beneficial and outweigh the losses associated with the cloudy weather and the loss of some small bolls."

The key will be how the crop is able to develop during the months of August and September adds Hake.

We had fun with Border Town Days the 29th. We want to thank Mr. Calder of Clovis for lending his horse and buggy for the residents to ride in the parade and many thanks to Mr. Calhoun for driving us. Mr. Calhoun did a great job of handling the horse and buggy. The residents thoroughly enjoyed being in the parade - and what a great way to travel!

The staff members were really excited when they heard the news that our stagecoach float won first place. Many people worked on this float to make it happen. It took teamwork and hard work to get first place. Congratulations staff members!

Many thanks to our auxiliary members for having their bake sale booth in the park. This is a fund raiser for the FCC and these ladies put in a lot of hard work doing their fund raisers, but they wouldn't benefit without the people of the community participating in them. Many thanks also to the community!

I know that many of you ended your day on the 29th by enjoying the music of Charlie Phillips and his band at the Holiday Inn in Clovis. These guys do this benefit dance for the FCC every year. They do a fantastic job and we do greatly appreciate them!

We are looking forward to an Ice Cream Social for the residents on Aug. at 3 p.m. This, by the way, will be homemade ice cream made by the auxiliary members. Yum, sounds delicious doesn't it?

Welcome to Hugo Barria, our new Physical Therapist. Hugo works full time at the FCC. He comes to us from Lubbock. He is originally from Chile. Having a Physical Therapist on staff is certainly a great asset for us. We all look forward to working with Hugo and seeing many wonderful things happening for the residents.

Some of you may have already heard that we lost our office coordinator and piano player. Aug. 4 was Becky Street's last day at the FCC. We will miss Becky, but we wish her well in her new job.

We are now looking for someone who plays the piano and might want to volunteer some time. We especially need a piano player for devotions on Thursdays and Fridays and possibly more. Devotions only last 30 minutes at a time. If anyone is interested, please give us a call at 481-9027.

John Detelich is our new office coordinator. He is from Portales. We know he will do a great job and we all look forward to working with him. Welcome aboard, John!

We welcome three new residents: Orville Locke, Pauline Castelberry and Nola Wall. We look forward to getting to know these residents and to making FCC a pleasant home for them.

Have a good week!
