RAIN·RAIN·RAIN

The slow, drip, drip you heard early Saturday morning was RAIN. Muleshoe proper received an official .53.

With the best moisture received since November, farmer's sagging spirits were slowly lifting as soft gentle rains fell in the area, breaking the long dry months past.

Mrs. Jack Hodnett in the Maple area reported from 1 inch to 1 and 1/2 inch generally for that area. Maple also received good moisture last week.

Lazbuddie Farm Supply reported, 60 inch in the area north of town.

Claunch Gin at Bula had reports varying from 9/10 to 1 and 2/10 inch in that southern part of the county.

The West Camp-Progress area reported approximately 1/2 inch of rain early Saturday morning and with still a light drizzle.

Needmore community reported approximately 7/10 of an inch in that area; the area West toward the State line from Stegall reported 1 to 1 3/10 inch.

This moisture is a greatly needed boon to the economy of this area and will be very beneficial to the newly planted crops, as well as the underground moisture, needed for cotton and grain sorghum.

Library Week Termed Successful

By Anne Camp
National Library Week was a very enjoyable and successful week. The library would like to extend thanks and appreciation to all who helped make it a success. Special thanks to the news media, the Muleshoe Journal, KMUL and TV Channel 6 for the excellent coverage in informing the public of all the activities; the Muleshoe Study Club, and it's members for their work on the Book Sale; all the students who brought their History projects to display during the week; and all who came to visit and buy books from the sale.

I understand that the Study Club did very well with the book sale, and the Lanny Trussell family seemed very happy to have been named Library Family of the Year. Thanks to all who participated.

Thirty five children were present this week for Storyhour, in spite of the weather. The Pledge of

'Messiah'

Aired On KENW-TV

A performance of Handel's "Messiah" by the Roswell Symphony will air Easter Sunday at 2 p.m. over KENW-TV, Channel 3.

Soloists for this performance of the famous oratorio are Manuel Melendez, tenor; Emilia Simone, soprano; Clara Sue Arnold, alto; and Kyung Wok Shin, bass.

Music director for the Roswell Symphony is John Farrer. Performing with the symphony are the Roswell Community Chorus directed by Ralph Kaler and the Artesia Community Chorale directed by Marian Johnson.

Allegiance to the flag was given, and the Good Morning song was sung. Two films were shown, "Sparky the Little Firefly," and "The Fable of the Woodcutter." Linda Turner from the Young Homemakers told the story of "Why the Skunk Has a White Stripe on His Back" and served a treat for the children as they left. Those who had time saw a filmstrip of "Little Red Ridinghood," upstairs and got to see Red Ridinghood, her grandmother, and the wolf all in one doll, furnished by Mildred Neely.

The library has just received a large shipment of new Spring books--there are about 40 childrens, 25 young peoples romances, 20 science fiction for young people; 15 western fiction, and 2 new Nancy Drew Mysteries, and 3 Charlie Brown books. Something for everyone.

We would like to have more people bring their coupons to exchange--there are hundreds in the box now. Come and get them!

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan
Sponge cake appeals to most appetites when it's topped with fresh fruits and whipped cream. Since the strawberry season is near, and sponge cake (layer or individual) can be frozen--this is a good time to stock your freezer--you can be ready for a quick dessert at a moment's notice.

To bake perfect sponge cakes the following steps should be used:

1. Measure all ingredients. Sift sugar through a fine sifter one to four times before measuring, then sift four times.
2. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and beat in gradually 1 tablespoon sugar for each egg white (out of sugar called for in recipe) and set aside.
3. Beat egg yolks with the same beater until thick and lemon colored. Beat in remaining sugar.
4. Combine yolks and whites.
5. Mix remaining dry ingredients and cut and fold into egg mixture. Do not beat after adding flour.
6. Do not grease pan.

Sponge Cake

- 1 c flour
- 1/4 t salt
- Grated rind 1/2 lemon
- 1 1/2 T lemon juice
- 1 c sugar
- 5 eggs

Bake in tube pan in an oven 325 degrees for an hour. If in layer cake pans or individual tins, bake 25 to 30 minutes in an oven 350 degrees.

Williamson stressed the fact that the "farm facility loan has been changed drastically and anyone wishing information on this should contact the ASCS office."

"A new variable interest rate has been set for 1981 crop loans being 14.5 percent, which will be due for adjustment every October 1 and April 1," Williamson stated.

In reminder of dates important to area farmers, the committee asked that the following information be printed for their farmer's benefit.

Final sign up for spring seeded crops measurement service is June 12. This is the insurance for the 1981 program benefits.

Also, May 31, 1981 is the final date to put 1980 crop cotton, grain sorghum, corn or soybeans in the loan.

With regard to turn row and terrace wheat: if any small grains are planted for harvest or cover, regardless of where it is, it must be either certified or destroyed. If destroyed, it will not be counted against grain for harvest acreage. A date has not yet been set for the destroying by the State committee as yet.

DO NOT destroy any program crops before contacting the ASCS office. If this is done, no benefits will be received.

Final date for small grains certification is May 15. Be sure to certify and to do so accurately.

Measurement is important. Even though no normal crop acreage (NCA) and cross or off-setting compliance apply, this year still has a tolerance level. It is more strict than last year's. If reporting is missed by the larger of 1.0 acre or 5 percent of the reported acreage, your farm will not be eligible for program benefits. This applies to each crop as well as individual irrigated or dryland crop acreages.

Through Stotler, Griffiths has at his fingertips modern and fast communication equipment which can provide up-to-the-minute quotations on the leading commodity exchanges and a teletype which serves as an information source form Stotler with updates four times a day.

Services Griffiths can provide his accounts include personal plus company advice to both speculators and hedgers in the market. He can also execute an order directly with the floor with no exchanges being transmitted through another firm. Griffiths receives information on current prices and Stotler recommendations before trade opening, at mid morning, noon, and closing. "Working through this office is the closet one can come to trade without being on the floor."

Attending Easter Services

The Meaning Of Easter

By James Johnson

I hope that this Easter we will all reflect on the sacrifices made for us by Christ. The life he lived, the death he gave and the glorious resurrection. Indeed that resurrection was glorious and it is that event that usually takes our attention on this holiday. I wonder if we realize the gift that we received through this conquering of death. In Romans the sixth chapter we read this account of the gift: "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore, we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection."

The death that Christ died was a death to two things. He died physically and spiritually. When he conquered death he, therefore, conquered both death and sin. Christ never fell to temptation even though he was tempted in the same ways that we are. When he arose from the tomb he was therefore, victorious over sin and death. Those of us who have been baptized into Christ have been buried with him into his death. The apostle Paul speaks several times of the comparison of our baptism and the grave of Jesus. When we are baptized it symbolizes our death to sin and also our resurrection into new life. This glorious resurrection which we remember through this holiday is a resurrection which all of us can enjoy in our own lives. WE can die to the sin of the world and be raised to walk a new life, we will even be resurrected again on the day of judgement to live through eternity. Christ conquered sin. WE, through Him can conquer sin. Christ conquered death. WE through Him can conquer death. Christ arose from the grave to walk again. WE can arise from a watery grave to walk a new life.

"Therefore we have been buried with Him through baptism into death in order that as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we too might walk in newness of life. Romans 6:4

EDITORIAL

Haig & Propaganda

Secretary of State Alexander Haig is rightly concerned over the new and subtle method being used by Soviet officials to utilize American television for propaganda.

For some two months, Soviet officials at the embassy in Washington have been carrying on a campaign to get free time on major television networks and stations to present Moscow's view, and criticize Washington's.

This is new, in degree, and is acceptable in a free society up to a point. Haig objects to the special campaign to utilization of the airwaves in this country because U.S. officials are not allowed to speak on Russian television.

That is why he ruled recently that a soviet official's visa would not be renewed. He was attempting to force the Russians to give Americans equal or similar exposure in Russia. Of course, they have never been given that opportunity, and one recalls the doublecross of Mr. Nixon in 1959, when he had been guaranteed, in the trip planning, that his speech at a Moscow fair would be telecast. It was—but there was no translation!

Closed societies such as the party dictatorship in Russia fear truth from the outside, from the truly free, and always will. That may mean Russian television will never be opened up to U.S. critics. That does not, however, mean U.S. officials should not do everything in their power to pry open the door of truth, and to expose the paradox—and Haig did that.

Roadblocks For Reagan Plan

guest editorial

SOMETHING NOT so funny has happened to President Reagan's economic program as it headed down the track toward Congressional consideration.

Not only is the President's across-the-board, three year tax cut program in jeopardy, but the "guts" of his economic recovery plan—major cuts in the federal budget—also face major roadblocks.

The culprits, to get to the point quickly, are a bunch of diehard, mostly liberal, oldline Democrats who don't want to give up the gravy train they have been riding in exchange for votes, for these many years.

As a result, instead of an objective, cooperative effort toward solving one of the most dangerous economic threats to the nation in the past 40 years, it's "politics as usual" for a certain segment of Washington.

Despite pious pledges of help in putting into practice the mandate of the voters in last November's election, it is now plain that certain Congressional Democratic party leaders, special interest groups and those who feed at the public trough have no intention of cooperating.

ALMOST FROM the moment the President laid out his program to a joint session of Congress and the nation, House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, the Democrats' longtime liberal spokesman, let it be known that some changes were in order.

As time went by, others, including House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, also voiced reservations, although the Texas solon sometime left the impression he wasn't really trying to block the President's plan.

But, as things got down to the nitty gritty this past week in House committee hearings it became evident that certain Democrats had no intention of cooperating.

First, the Democrats, who control the House and it's committees, trotted out their own widely heralded "reform" budget package.

Second, voting as a bloc and giving the Republicans and the GOP program short shrift, they rammed through the committee their version of key budget changes with what seemed to be sly smiles of satisfaction.

Then, even the GOP-controlled Senate Budget committee got cold feet and backed off from the President's plan. Obviously, the battle will not be an easy one.

IN THE DAYS following the attempted assassination of President Reagan and the temporary "truce" which prevailed on Capitol Hill, it was thought by some that the incident would aid the President.

But within two days of the shooting, Rep. Wright let it be known that feeling sorry for the President was one thing, buying his program was something else.

We have no argument with this as a realistic political matter. But, we do take issue with Messrs. O'Neill and Wright, and the other Democrats who in effect are seeking to maintain the status quo—of tax, tax, and tax and spend, spend, and spend.

No doubt the aforementioned Democrats will take umbrage at the accusation. But, the fact is, key Democrats adamantly oppose any major tax relief for the rank and file wage earner as well as any meaningful budget reform.

The argument that much of Mr. Reagan's tax plan benefits the rich the most is hogwash. The similar argument that people would spend any tax refunds and thus fuel inflation is in the same category. If they did spend it, a survey just out reveals, it would be for "current necessities and old bills..."

THE DEMOCRATS' budget is a familiar one: maintain high taxes, cut the President's military budget and put some $4.3 billion back into the welfare program.

The Democrats' budget could run as much as $8 billion over that proposed by Mr. Reagan. The Democrats argue that this is not as bad as it seems because the President's proposals do not take inflation into account.

On the contrary, that is exactly what the whole thing is all about—Inflation with a capital "I" as it applies to most citizens in the U.S. today, poor, middle class, and even the affluent.

Fortunately, there are those, even among the Democrats who are still in touch with the people and reality and are working to come with at least some sort of compromise program which more nearly addresses itself to the real problems.

On such person is Lubbock's own Rep. Kent Hance, who although pressured and wooed by both sides, has kept his

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—One of my goals during the 67th legislative session is to make the current laws relating to campaign financing more defined and understandable. Many of the current articles in the Texas Election Code addressing this issue have become ambiguous and the actual intent of the language has become lost.

House Bill 1903 is an omnibus campaign reporting bill which I have authored and which I firmly believe will be a step in the right direction. The changes made in the bill relate to the making, accepting, and reporting of political contributions and expenditures.

Under current law, candidates and office-holders must file periodic campaign statements which list all contributions received and all expenditures made. House Bill 1903 requires that each statement list the date, amount and purpose of each payment that is not an expenditure if the payment is made from a contribution.

The question of when a candidate accepts a contribution is another gray area in the current Election Code. House Bill 1903 seeks to clarify this matter by specifying the exact procedure for accepting or rejecting a contribution.

A contribution received but not accepted is not required to be reported. However, a candidate must make a decision on accepting the contribution before the end of the reporting period during which the contribution was received. If such a determination is not made, the contribution is considered accepted and must be reported. A contribution that is not accepted by the candidate must be returned to the contributor not later than the 30th day after the deadline for filing a statement for the reporting period during which the contribution was received. It is a Class A misdemeanor if a candidate fails to return a contribution under these provisions.

Two other areas addressed in House Bill 1903 are forms of contributions and restrictions on contributions to legislators during the regular session. The bill makes it unlawful for a person to make or accept a contribution in the form of cash that exceeds $100.

Legislative members and specific-purpose political committees that support legislative members are restricted from accepting contributions during a period beginning on the 30th day before a regular session begins through the 30th day after adjournment.

House Bill 1903 has been referred to the Elections Committee for further study and a public hearing. It is my firm belief that we need to eliminate the gray areas which now exist in our Election Code for the benefit of all candidates, political committees and the citizens of Texas. The end result will be a better state government.

feet on the ground thus far. One of Rep. Hance's proposals would exempt up to $2,000 per person, $4,000 per family, of money earned on savings.

THE REAL battle over the budget and tax reform is still to be fought.

All too often, those across the nation who have things to say about how they are governed write only to their own Congressmen.

While this is commendable and certainly in order, there are times when such persons as House Speaker O'Neill and Majority Leader Wright also need to hear from those who pay both their salaries and for the billions they toss around so easily.

The battle is still ahead. If it is won, it may be the Average American may have to win it by letting all Congressmen know what the score is, or could be.

Cotton Council Supports Tax Cut

The National Cotton Council has expressed strong support for the Administration's proposed tax cut for business and industry.

In a statement filed with the House Ways and Means Committee, the Council recommended special write-off provisions for non-productive equipment and installations mandated by government regulations.

Taxes also were cited as having bled off capital needed for research and for expanding and modernizing production facilities.

The Council also recommended: (1) significantly greater depreciation allowances; (2) elimination of double taxation of corporate dividends; (3) reduction or elimination of taxes on the portion of personal income that is invested, especially capital gains; and (4) eligibility of all agricultural buildings for investment tax credit.

A bill to assess and collect fees for cotton classing and warehouse inspections has been introduced by Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Helms (R-N.C.). Under the proposal, fees would be charged beginning July 1, 1981.

It's safe to say that successful gardening in this area generally depends upon a good source of water. Although gardens can be grown "dry land," your chance of success with vegetable gardening is greatly increased if a water faucet is nearby.

To many of us one of the most enjoyable aspects of home gardening is watering. It can be quite enjoyable to see garden vegetables respond to a "drink" during the head of mid-summer. Despite the fact that watering can be a great deal of fun, it is often associated with problems. Many of the things which can plague us each year, such as bitter fruit, sunscald, disease problems, poor fertility, poor quality, poor yields and a dozen other things, can be related to poor and improper watering.

Many of us enjoy watering our garden after a hard day's work or just as a form of relaxation. So it is not at all unusual that many gardens get watered two, three or more times a week. Unfortunately, in most cases this is one of the worse things you can do since it can result in poor root development.

Light, frequent waterings have a tendency to cause a concentration of roots in the top inch or two of the soil. This type of "limited" root system does not post any real serious problem early in the season when plants are young and sufficient moisture is generally available. However, as the season progresses and moisture becomes less and less available, you may be forced to water the garden several times a week just to keep plants from wilting severely. This practice results in insufficient nutrient uptake, poor growth and disease problems.

Water the garden not by looking at plants but rather by examining your soil. Look at the soil surface. If it appears dry, then scratch to a depth of 1 to 2 inches to determine if moisture is present. If soil is relatively dry beneath the surface, then watering is necessary. If sufficient moisture is available, wait a couple of days before applying additional water. Another point to consider is your garden soil. Obviously a sandy soil that drains well will require more frequent watering than a heavy soil which holds water.

How much water to apply is another mystery that confronts us. The amount of water to apply must be determined for each and every garden in the county. Apply enough water until you feel your garden is well watered. Then, take a sharpshooter or shovel and dig down and see if the soil is wet to a depth of at least 6 inches. If the soil is wet at that depth, you've watered enough. If it's relatively dry, then water some more. After doing this a couple of times, experience will tell you when you have watered enough.

How you water the garden is important, but adequate watering at the right time and in the right amount is more important than the method used. Most gardeners prefer the furrow or flood system as a means of applying water. Others prefer to use a sprinkler.

There are advantages and disadvantages to each method. The primary advantage of flood or furrow watering is that individual rows can be watered while this is not generally possible with a sprinkler. The main advantage with a sprinkler is that large areas of your garden can be watered without moving the hose from row to row or from area to area. One disadvantage of the sprinkler system is that wet foliage can lead to disease problems. If you prefer to use a sprinkler, then water in the morning to allow foliage to dry off before cooler evening temperatures set in.

Another method gaining in popularity is drip or trickle irrigation. This system is an effective and efficient means of watering your vegetable plants but its initial cost is high.

Proper use of water in the garden will be reflected in the amount of produce that you take from the garden to the kitchen.

Next I'll discuss some ideas on equipment for controlling garden pests.

Ag Committee Reports On 1981 Farm Bill

A House agriculture subcommittee has reported a bill covering the cotton portion of the 1981 farm bill. It generally includes recommendations approved by National Cotton Council delegates.

Two major amendments were adopted. One would set the target price at 120 percent of the loan rate. The other would make the set-aside specific to cotton.

Other provisions of the bill would: (1) continue the present loan formula with a 55 cents floor; (2) extend the disaster program for one year in counties where federal crop insurance is offered and for four years in counties where it is not available; (3) continue the acreage reduction and paid diversion features of the 1977 act; (4) continue the extended loan/import quota formula; (5) remove any duty on cotton imported under the special import quota; (6) create a revolving export credit fund for cotton; (7) require reimbursement to growers when cotton embargoes are imposed; (8) eliminate the Normal Crop Acreage (NCA) and cross-compliance/offsetting - compliance provisions of the 1977 act; and (9) make the offering of a seed cotton loan program mandatory.

Vice President George Bush has also asked the National Cotton Council to identify the cotton industry's priorities for regulatory reform.

Specifically requested is the documentation of "... regulations that could be changed in order to increase benefits or decrease costs, thereby generating greater net benefits to society."

National Cotton Council President Frank M. Mitchner, Jr., has told the Senate Agricultural Appropriations Subcommittee all cotton industry segments strongly back efforts to stop runaway inflation.

The explosion of government regulations in recent years has been a primary contributor to a real decline in productive cotton research because it has necessitated shifting of resources into non-productive areas, the NCC president pointed out. He said Congressional action to eliminate needless and excessive government rule-making would effectively increase productive research without raising current outlays.

Wage Revisions Made In Certain Farm Jobs

The U.S. Labor Department has revised the minimum wages to be paid domestic and temporary alien farm workers in 14 states where most aliens have been legally admitted for agricultural jobs.

The department also has proposed withdrawing a rule that would have established a new single national minimum wage rate instead of state by state rates, as the department had been doing the past 18 years.

The hourly rates are revised annually to prevent an adverse effect on wages paid similarly employed U.S. workers. The new 1981 rates become effective immediately.

Known as "adverse effect wage rates," they are the minimum the department has determined must be offered and paid by employers of temporary alien agricultural workers.

The 1981 hourly wage rates were increased an average of 21 cents, ranging from 1 to 60 cents, as follows (the final 1980 rates are shown first with 1981 rates following):

Arizona, $3.73, $3.87; Colorado, $3.79, $3.93; Connecticut, $3.32, $3.35; Florida (sugar cane only), $4.09, $4.69; Maine, $3.43, $3.44; Maryland, $3.23, $3.80; Massachusetts, $3.30, $3.35; New Hampshire, $3.58, $3.59; New York, $3.18, $3.48; Rhode Island, $3.30, $3.35; Texas, $3.54, $3.97; Vermont, $3.53, $3.54; Virginia, $3.51, $3.81; and West Virginia, $3.28, $3.62.

The Labor Department has asked the public to submit by April 27 written comments on the proposed withdrawal of a national adverse effect wage rate.

Both notices were published in the March 27 Federal Register. Further information can be obtained by writing to the Employment and Training Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, Rm.

DANCIN' PEOPLE TO PERFORM....The Dancin' People, part of the Lone Star Ballet Company, will perform for the Muleshoe school children Thursday, April 23, at 1:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

Dancin' People At High School

The DANCIN' PEOPLE will bring the excitement of movement and music to the children of Muleshoe on Thursday, April 23, 1:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

They play imaginary games, dance with umbrellas, tease the audience into moving with them, dance on their toes, balance and stretch, and dip and glide in the beautiful motions of classic ballet dancing.

They wear T shirts, and stretch bags, and flowing dresses, and rainwear, and clown costumes and challenge the imaginations of the children in their audiences to copy them and feel the fun of motion and feeling the music.

These dancers are part of the Lone Star Ballet Company who are touring this spring with a program designed to open new doors for children by encouraging them to move and imagine and watch. They have appeared in Hereford, Canadian, Ama-riilo and Canyon, and will dedicate the Amphitheatre on the shores of Lake Meredith in Fritch under the auspices of the Junior League and the Lone Star Ballet Inc.

DANCIN' PEOPLE is one of nine traveling companies in the state chosen for recognition by the Texas Commission on the Arts, sponsored by The National Endowment for the Arts. Programs outside of Amarillo and Canyon are financed through touring grants.

Mrs. Jack Rennels of Muleshoe is in charge of the arrangement.

Less time in the feedlot for leaner beef and lower costs is the outlook for the future according to a number of cattle experts. Many authorities now believe that because of two important developments: 1) the 30 percent increase in grain prices; and, 2) the American consumer's demand for leaner beef, feedlot operators are going to be changing their ways of finishing cattle. Research indicates cattle, after reaching certain weight levels, and depending on breed, tend to lay on only fat which must be trimmed and discarded. In order to provide cattle which will efficiently produce greater amounts of quality lean beef in a shorter feeding time, cattlemen believe an increase of larger-framed, higher cutting cattle is needed.

LOOKING HER BEST FOR Easter

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
