More Kids

The London press screamed "murder" at the announcement by the British government of the sinking of an English refugee ship with a toll of 293 persons, 83 of whom were children en route to Canada.

The ship, her name not disclosed, was torpedoed 600 miles west of England and sank in a stormy sea within 20 minutes after she was attacked.

Of 406 men, women, and children aboard, only 113 were brought back alive by a warship which reached the scene at dawn-almost eight hours after the torpedo struck. Stories of heroism and horror told by survivors of the disaster indicated that many lives were lost in the terrific explosion which ripped the vessel. Many others were swept from lifeboats or died of injuries and exposure.

The children were from 5 to 15 years old, and were the first lost in the child evacuation movements which have been under way ever since the war began.

The attacking submarine was not identified, but the tragedy was described by government officials as "another example of the barbarous methods associated with Nazi Germany."

Care of Idle Heater. QUESTION: How can rust be pre-vented from forming on a furnace during the summer?

Answer: Rusting is only one of the troubles that can come to a heater during the idle months; as a matter of fact, one idle season may do more damage to a heater than many seasons of operation. There are several steps in protecting a heater against damage. As soon as the fire goes out, any kind of a heater should be cleaned inside; ashes removed, and dust scraped and brushed from the flues and other inside parts. The inside should then be given a coat of oil. Lubricating oil can be used, but nothing is better than crankcase drainings. Using an inside spray, the oil is spread on all inside surfaces.

Rusting is due to condensation. To avoid this trouble, it is best to take and to store it in a dry place. All doors and openings of the heater thus improvise a knockout. should be left standing wide open through the summer. If the smokepipe cannot be taken down, the turndamper should be left in the wideopen position. Edges and hinges of doors should be oiled.

If it is necessary to change the water in a steam or hot water boiler, this should be done in the fall, and at the beginning of the heating season. When a steam boiler is put out of commission in the spring, the water should be left in, and more added until it is completely filled; this can be done by holding the safety valve open. Radiators and pipes remain empty. A hot water outfit is left filled as it was during the winter. When starting up in the fall, water should be changed only if it is noticeably dirty. Otherwise only enough is drawn off from a steam boiler to bring it to the correct level.

Outside rust should be taken off with steel wool, and the metal finished with high temperature asphaltum or aluminum paint.

Finish for Walls.

Question: I have two upstairs bedrooms with smooth plaster walls that were whitewashed several times. I want to put something else on the walls, but how can I get them clean? What can I use for a finish? How can I fill cracks in the plaster?

Set upon by a blizzard of troubles, financial and domestic, two years ago, Brer Fox Wynn retired to his Park avenue cave to sit around in his pajamas and bite his nails. OUESTIONS

To keep marshmallows moist, store them in the bread box.

A novelty container which will hold several of the handsome vine plants is a clear glass bowl about five inches in diameter. Plants such as the ivy or philodendron will take root in such bowl filled with clear water, and the effect is stunning.

Men usually like food in which the flavors are not concealed. They favor, for instance, broiled steak and French-fried, onions, lamb chops and buttered asparagus, pork chops and mashed pota-toes, broiled fish and sliced tomatoes. Women, on the other hand, like a la king mixtures, deviled crab and similar dishes in which the flavors are blended.

THE WAR: Aerialistics

The British said it would take Hitler 40 years to wipe out London, at the present rate of progress. But at the same rate of progress, the German air force might be wiped out in 40 weeks. For the first time, just the same, a funny thing happened. The British and Germans both admitted that the other side had outshot them. The British said they had lost at a ratio of 7 to 4. The Germans said they had lost at a ratio of 3 to 1. This was completely unprecedented, not only in the checkered annals of Anglo-German warfare in the clouds, but also in Sino-Japanese, Jap-Rus-sian, and Spanish civil conflicts. Nobody could quite figure it out. It seemed peculiar.

The big question, which vexed the critics, was whether the Germans would actually try a land invasion of England this fall. There were all sorts of stories. The royal air force bombed alleged German troop concentrations along the channel coast, and in Norway. They damaged flat-boats and similar equipment. Whether this equipment was merely a blind, or not, remained to be seen.

There was a yarn that 200,000 Nazis were massed in Norway, for a drive across. Some critics declared that the light German tank had proved utterly vulnerable to the two-pounder British anti-tank gun. This, they added, had caused Hitler to delay his invasion, and might 37 states and 453 electoral votes. postpone it indefinitely. That, again, remained to be seen.

C Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, applied for a commission in the U.S. army air corps. He is 30 years old, and it was reported he might be assigned to the "specialist reserve."

Mayor LaGuardia of New York city told a United States conference of burgomasters that the U.S. has an 80 per cent chance of escaping war, with the acquisition of the new Atlantic naval and air bases. The conference was held in N. Y.

CAMPAIGN: Spirit of 1776-'40

The drums beat. The bugles blared, the fifes tooted, the crowds cheered, the urchins ducked in and out, while women fainted, and candidates kissed babies, and wrapped themselves in the old red, white and blue bunting. The electoral campaign of 1940 still was in progress. The latest Gallup poll galloped all over Mr. Willkie's chances. It told the following sad tale-that is-for Republican Vice Presidential Nominee McNary is pictured as he spoke at Au-rora, Ill., opening his midwest campaign. He engaged in a bitter attack on the Hull reciprocal trade agreements. the Grande Olde Partisans. According to Gallup, Roosevelt would get According to the same Mr. Gallup, Willkie would get 10 states and 78 electoral votes. This did not look any too encouraging for the Willkisti. Said an old cynic: "This is one golf matters, you must look for some game where the caddies are going to beat the country-club members."

The Republicans, of course, failed to agree with this estimate. Sam Pryor, director of the eastern division of the Republican national committee, couldn't endorse the Gallup estimate. Pryor thought that Willkie would get 300 or more electoral votes, leaving Roosevelt with 231 or less. Pryor added that about twothirds of the country editors were for Willkie, and that these editors conceded Willkie more than half of the popular votes in their editorial districts.

Etc., Etc.

Each side accused the other side of dictatorial ambitions. The Democrats said the Willkisti were planning a "fascist" big-business dictatorship, while the Republicans said the Rooseveltens were scheming a personal sort of "war" dictatorship. Earl Browder wanted the dictator-

Answer: You can take off the whitewash with liberal sponging with warm water. Go over the wall two or three times, squeeze out the sponge, and go over the wall again to pick up the softened whitewash. After cleaning and drying it may be necessary to smooth the wall with fine sandpaper. Cracks should be filled with patching plaster, to be had at a hardware or paint store. Directions for use are on the label. In refinishing the walls you can use a cold water paint which is washable when dry. It comes in the form of a paste, to be thinned with water.

Radiator Finish.

Question: My radiators are now finished with bronze and silver comeback. paint. Before I refinish them with oil paint, must this bronze paint be removed? What should I use for repainting?

Answer: Go over the radiators with a wire brush to take off all loose particles. Silver and bronze paint that resists can remain; the new paint can go on over it. After brushing, radiators should be wiped with turpentine or benzine to remove all traces of grease. (Be careful of fire!) At a paint store you may be able to get a special kind of paint intended for radiators, or you can use top quality flat wall paint thinned with 1/8 as much turpentine and put on in two or three thin coats. Radiators should be cold when they are painted, and should remain so until the paint has dried.

Slow Drainage.

Question: Water in a second floor sink runs out very slowly. This is not due to a sluggish drain, for the pipes have been cleaned out several times without benefit. Could air be holding up the drainage?

Answer: Slow drainage would not be from air, but from an obstruction in the pipe. As ordinary methods of cleaning have not helped other obstruction; possibly a faulty connection.

Kitchen Sewage.

Question: A correspondent asks about filling a pit 5 feet long, 4 feet wide and 3 feet deep with small and medium sized stones. Into this pit he intends to empty the kitchen waste. Answer: The pit would quickly clog up with grease and refuse. He will do much better by building a cesspool. Put ORANGES in School Day Lunches!

Everyone likes to peel and eat an orange! Or to sip a glass of the fresh juice. Just to enjoy the delicious, fragrant taste!

And nothing else that's so delicious is so good for you! For, says the Department of Agriculture, hardly half the families in America get enough vitamins and minerals to permit the best of health.

And oranges are your richest everyday source of vitamin C and a good source of vitamin B1. They also supply vitamins A and G, calcium, phosphorus and iron.

So put a healthful Sunkist Orange in every lunch box. Let health begin at breakfast with BIG glasses of fresh orange juice for all the family. Order a supply of Sunkist Oranges-the pick of California's best-ever crop of wonderfully juicy Valencias.

Two dance floors, the large reception room, and the lounge at Cousin's Hall will be used, and there will be two circus tents just outside. One of these will house the carnival, where barkers will ply their trade, hotalogs and soft drinks will be sold, and fortunes will be told. The other tent Tikely will contain the western room with its "bar," string orchestra, and mld-time dancing.

One of the reasons for enlarging the floor space is to provide more room for "visiting" by homecoming ex-students and their families. The constantly growing program for this annual occasion will include repetition of such popular features as the morning assembly program, coronation of the homecoming queen, a luncheon for queen candidates, the football game at 2:30 o'clock, coronation of a football queen, and the homecoming fiesta in the evening, with dancing, games, a radio broadcast, floor shows, and general gaiety and fellowship.

Mrs. Tommie Montfort, general chairman, is assisted by Clarence Thompson, Guy Hart, Supt. J. B. Speer and other chairmen, which within a week will number more than one hundred persons.

Patriotic decorations will be used this year.

ARMY AND BUS LINES In speaking to and with the National Association of Motor Bus Operators, I learned something to add to the many things I do not know.

This country is now a gridiron of motor roads. A considerable part of its passengers and freight transportation moves over these roads in automotive vehicles.

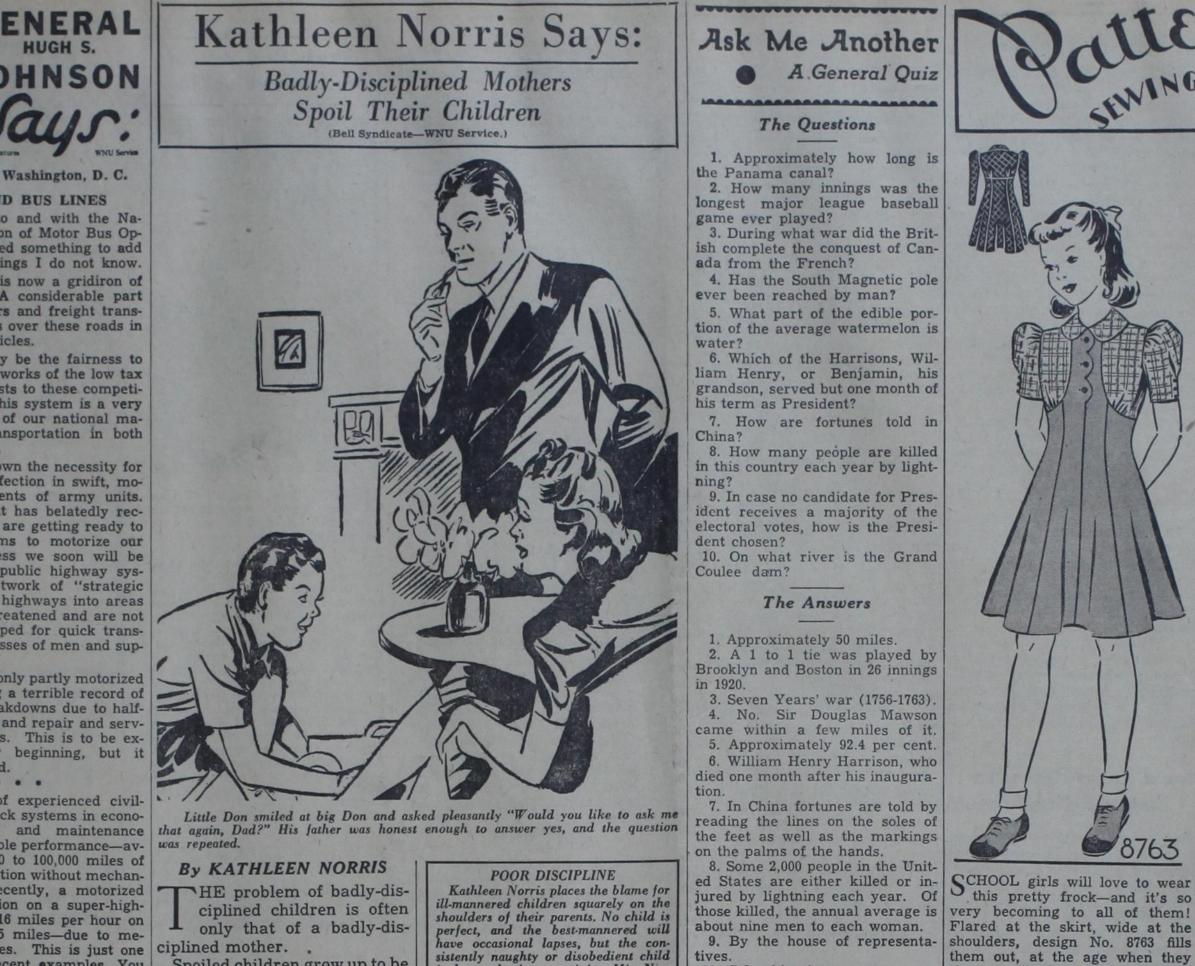

Whatever may be the fairness to the railroad networks of the low tax and roadbed costs to these competitors of theirs, this system is a very necessary part of our national machinery for transportation in both peace and war.

Hitler has shown the necessity for the highest perfection in swift, motorized movements of army units. Our government has belatedly recognized it. We are getting ready to spend vast sums to motorize our army. Doubtless we soon will be adding to our public highway system a new network of "strategic roads"-feeder highways into areas that may be threatened and are not now well equipped for quick transportation of masses of men and supplies.

Our new and only partly motorized army is writing a terrible record of delays and breakdowns due to halftrained drivers and repair and service departments. This is to be expected in any beginning, but it should be cured.

The record of experienced civilian bus and truck systems in economy, efficiency and maintenance shows remarkable performance-averages of 75,000 to 100,000 miles of highways operation without mechanical delay. Recently, a motorized artillery battalion on a super-highway averaged 16 miles per hour on a march of 135 miles-due to mechanical troubles. This is just one of dozens of recent examples. You can't make an efficient motor fleet overnight.

Our plans for a new swift-moving motorized army, capable of striking like lightning anywhere on either coast of our country, should be inte- ting, screaming, fighting, kickgrated closely with our splendid ex- ing when anything disappoints isting civilian system of motor trans-port. It would be foolish to attempt to parallel, it completely for the THE STATE LINE TRIBUNE

Hitler's Emblem

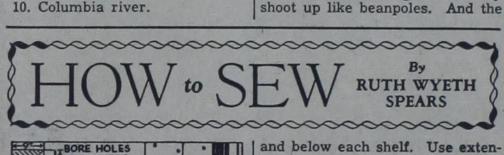

The swastika, used by Hitler as a symbol of German might, has been used all over the world from time immemorial. The emblem originated in India, where it is still used by Hindus, who mark it on their foreheads as a sign of their caste. The word "swastika" comes from "Suvastika," which is Hindustani. The symbol has been found in High Asia, northern Europe, in Buddhist Mongolia, North America and even in such farflung places as the Andes and Peru.

The swastika originally represented the Aryan Fire God, Agni, and the direction of the transoms (the "arms" of the swastika) signified the procession of the sun through the heavens.

One reason advanced by the quartermaster general for refusal to change that bone-headed senility is that the "joint military passenger agreements have been in effect between the railroads and the war and navy departments for over a quarter of a century."

So had the French military methods, which the German swift moving motorized attack smashed in a few weeks, been used for over a "quarter of a century." This reason re-veals the typical dry rot of the Crustacean bureaucracy which is so dangerous in this swiftly moving war- of his plan. It took his mother five like world.

A Mean Disposition.

Not long ago a four-year-old boy visited us. Obedience was no part hours daily to coax three meals into him. Meat had to be cut fine; then it was too fine. Was there another he screamed for a full hour. He got hold of matches. He threw a kitten into the pool. He cut an angle out of the screen of a door. is the result of poor training. Miss Nor-ris points out that such a child causes his parents shame and concern when he should be the source of infinite lovable little beings. They can be trained into politeness and pleasantness. They will have their lapses, of course. But if a mother can steel herself to a little heroism in the bepride and joy.

All the baby authorities tell young mothers that no child should be fed for more than 20 minutes. When he begins to dribble out the spinach, or play with the bottle, or work food about in his mouth in the manner described by the disgusting word "sloshing," he is having a good time at your expense. If you have the courage to stop right then and refuse him all food until the next feeding time, you won't have to repeat the process more than three times. One reason why many of us grew to strength and stature years ago was because our mothers, with ten, eight, seven children to raise, didn't have any time to waste on our infant vagaries. Besides that, anyone who wanted a second helping of pudding had to make brisk work of the first helping. Puddings, in the nineties, vanished more quickly than they do today, when we all pamper and coax and flatter small appetites too much.

A Cure for Rudeness.

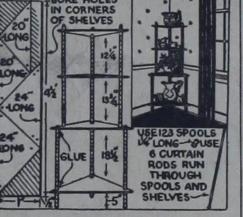

"The one thing of which we had to cure our child was rudeness,' writes a Kentucky mother. "Don was an adorable, well-behaved baby, but at six he returned from his primary school ruder and noisier and bolder every day. We didn't mind the boldness and noise, but to get a surly impatient answer from our adored boy was too much. His father scolded, I sent him from the room, refused lollipops, did everything I could think of. All no use.

"This went on for three or four months, and I began to feel that I had lost my friendly little companion forever, when an older mother suggested a simple cure that she said had worked a miracle with her sons. It was just to give the child warning that a request or command was to be made.

"We tried it, and our problem vanished into thin air in less than a week. Before asking Don anything, or interrupting him in any way, his father or I would say mildly, Don, I am going to ask you in a minute if you realize that it is bedtime, and would like a gentle answer.' Or, 'Don, when I ask you if you want more steak please say yes or no nicely and quietly.

"From the first trial this worked like a charm. It never once failed, except when Big Donald and I failed. Instead of impatient rudeness, the child began to listen and to consider. He is still as wild as an Indian when he is with the other boys. But at home I have my gentleman again.

"Last night," the letter ends, "his father happened to speak to him abruptly and inconsiderately. Little Don smiled at big Don and asked pleasantly, 'Would you like to ask me that again, Dad?' His father was honest enough to answer yes, and the question was repeated. It

HOME Demonstration Agent A wrote me the other day to say that many of the women in her group had made the spool shelves described in SEWING BOOK 3 and the end tables of spools in Book 5. "One member has an interesting collection of pitchers and would like to make a corner whatnot for them," the letter continued.

Well, here it is ladies! With the collection of pitchers all in place. The sketch gives all dimensions and instructions. The triangle shelves are cut from one board as shown at the left. The second shelf from the bottom needs six holes. All the others have three holes each. The design may be varied by using larger spools at the bottom for the first spool above in the contiguous seat, nor even

Fidden Ways By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by officious Tim-othy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra.

"One minute," Miss Agatha commanded. "I should really like to know how you ran across Kenneth Grahame.'

Again I heard the elevator bell. "In books, Miss Paget." She marked the broad servility in my voice and the wrinkles about her alert eyes deepened.

"Then what," she asked, "are you doing in a job like this?"

"At present I'm keeping the elevator waiting. Excuse me."

The bell was silent when I reached the outer hall. I took the car down.

Eddie Hoyt was back. He frowned as I stepped from the elevator.

"Fella," he said, "when you take that thing up you're supposed to bring it back again. Miss Ferriter had to walk up!"

"Eddie," I said, "I've been ridden plenty."

"Bad as that?" he asked.

"Worse," I told him, "and listen: if that blood-sweating behemoth in the circus suit inspired your crack, ask him from me why he had the car skied for a half-hour while you were out."

"Oh ho," said Eddie.

"Oh ho, what?" I asked. He shrugged.

"Just oh ho. You called at the Sphere again, Dave?"

"I did. This morning. Once the answer was, 'No opening at the minute.' Now it's just, 'No opening.' "

"Tough," he sympathized. "Why don't you ditch it and go home? This ain't your sort of work, Dave."

"You're telling me," I replied. "I'll starve first, Eddie. And that may not be so far off either. Higgins is on the prod."

"Easy," Hoyt muttered and, as the signal buzzed, retired to the switchboard. Higgins, still in his borrowed plumage, came lurching in from the sidewalk. The coals of earlier wrath smoldered in his little eyes, and I felt my own anger revive as he paused before me.

"Mallory," he grumbled, "I want to talk to you." I thought of my job and of the odd expression on the face of the girl, Allegra, when I had talked back to Miss Agatha and, though common sense muttered unheeded warning, I said: "Shoot."

ceased. She made a feeble gesture toward the door.

"In there," her whisper rasped. 'He's-"

Her body gave way. It grew so inertly heavy that Allegra and Hoyt and I had trouble holding it. Over the sagging head, I asked Higgins:

"Can you get a key?" He nodded but still stood, gaping and uncertain, till a competent voice spoke from the Paget doorway.

"Allegra, Bertha, Edward," it ordered. "Pick her up. Lay her on my bed, Allegra. Keep her head down. Annie, take some cognac to Miss Allegra."

Miss Paget sat on her threshold in a wheel chair. She trundled herself into the hall to make way for slowly through all the room. those who bore the senseless woman and looked from Higgins to me. The elevator bell shrilled frantically and frightened voices called in the air shaft.

"Just what," Miss Paget asked calmly, "was all this about?"

Higgins answered in a husky voice, "Something's wrong in there," and nodded to the reticent door. There was an instant of silence. Then the old lady asked politely:

"What are you waiting for, Timothy? Or perhaps you two men would rather have me look." The superintendent fumbled in his uniform with a sickly grin. He looked at me with less dislike than he had shown all day.

"C'm on, Mallory," he ordered, did you think of it?" and moved toward the door. He

"Nobody on the switchboard," he stuttered. "I'll go down meself," and rushed from the room. Miss Agatha called after him:

"Timothy. Be sure the door is locked behind you."

"Yes'm," he replied and we heard it slam. The old lady looked hard at me as I moved toward the hall. "It might be well," I explained. "to look through the rest of the apartment."

She shook her head. I have seen few murders, even at my age, but I understand it is best to do nothing till the police come. Usually, thereafter, they follow your example."

She sat quite still in her chair by the door and her eyes searched

After a moment she asked, nodding toward the concealing couch: "When did he come in?"

"I don't know," I replied. "I never saw him."

She leaned back in her chair, her hands folded in her angular lap, her eyes narrow with thought. She asked at length:

"When did Ione-Miss Ferritercome in?"

"I think it was she who rang the bell while I was in your apartment. She had to walk up.'

She appeared to turn this over in her mind. The clock ticked loudly. Miss Agatha emerged from whatever inner communion she had held wrote about, and what kind of a and looked at me again.

she shrugged at last and said:

get it." "No, it wasn't," I replied slowly.

"It's just that I hadn't thought of it before. You mean there was something more than fright in the sound?"

"Do I?" she retorted.

I went on: "Well, I mean it then. She was frightened by finding a man dead on her floor. There was something else. A deeper terror perhaps."

Her gaze abashed me a little. I grinned and shrugged.

Ferriter is a gifted screamer. She sounded like the Eumenides on the where and by whom he was won to wing." Her thin eyebrows arched. Again

I felt that she regarded me as a curiosity and once more it irked me.

Reading a book is a privilege and should be an illuminating and stirring experience. What a pity that so few read good books in our day! To study a book is a far more fruitful and interesting experience. Few are the books worthy of prolonged and repeated study. Therein do we find one of the great differences between books of men and God's Book -the Bible. Again and again we turn to its pages and find its truth inexhaustible, ever interesting, informing, and soul-stirring in its beauty and power.

In reading any book, we want to know who wrote it, what kind of a man he was, why he wrote, what he book he wrote. We recognize that "You heard her screaming. Our information regarding Luke is found in the New Testament, in the introductory words of the books he wrote (Luke and Acts) and in the writings of his friend and coworker, Paul. There we learn of his

> . . . NEW AID FOR BRITAIN

Another historic move to aid Great Britain, almost as significant as the destroyer-islands deal, is now on

It is a plan to sell to the British United States government and now tied up in the James river, Virginia. The vessels, built during the World war, are desperately needed by Great Britain because of her severe shipping losses in submarine and aerial warfare.

In the once-scorned James river fleet, controlled by the maritime commission, are the only readymade vessels in the world today that can be purchased in quantity. The fleet consists of 92 ships of about 8,000 to 10,000 tons each. The engines are in fair condition, having been turned over periodically by the navy. However, considerable repairs will have to be made to other parts of the ships by the British, totaling $165,000 each.

The British plan to offer about $30 a ton for the vessels, which is considered high in view of the fact that they will have to spend $165,000 or about $20 per ton for repairs. The total price paid to the United States for the ships will be in the neighborhood of $8,000,000, while the total British repair bill will be about $5,000,000.

My flippancy stung him.

"What I want to know," he said heavily, "is what you meant by that crack about 'doubling in brass.'"

'Simple," I told him. "A joke." I pointed at the gilt trappings of the doorman's coat.

"Brass," I said. "Superintendent masquerading as doorman. Therefore doubling in brass. Begin to get it?"

Higgins looked dubious and then insulted.

"The trouble with you, me lad, is that you think you're too bloody good for your job. I'm-"

From the switchboard's alcove, Hoyt called:

'Hey, Mr. Higgins, Ferriters' line must be on the blink. They've left the receiver off or something.'

"I'll tend to that presently," Higgins informed him. "What I want to tell you, Mallory, is-"

"Hey," Hoyt said tensely. "Hear it?"

Above someone screamed and I saw the red fade from Higgins' face. The sound ceased. It broke out again, louder, shriller, as though horror had abolished all self-control. It soared and fell and rose again like a siren gone mad. Higgins crossed himself. Hoyt babbled from the switchboard with the receiver still clamped to his ear:

"It's up in Three B."

CHAPTER II

Higgins' rush thrust me aside. He slammed the door in my face as I reached the elevator. I ran for the stairs and took them three at a time toward the screeching that tore the pious silence of the Morello to tatters. I reached the third floor ahead of the ancient car.

Before the closed door of the Ferriter apartment, Allegra seemed to wrestle with Miss Ferriter. Nearer me, in the hall, someone in a maid's uniform hopped about, making silly sounds, and on the threshold of the Paget flat, a stout, older woman wrung her hands and gaped. I heard Allegra gasp as she tried to control the wrenching body:

"Ione! What is it? Answer me." A new spasm shook Ione Ferriter. She began again those longdrawn bursts of screaming and over Allegra's shoulder I saw a white face, wide-mouthed, distorted, like a Greek tragic mask.

Hoyt came toiling up the stairs behind me. Higgins blundered from the elevator.

"Hey," he bawled. "What's all this-?" Another shriek tore through his unlocked it but stood aside for me to enter.

The furniture sat in self-conscious, orderly rectitude. There was a trophy of arms above the fireplacerapiers, claymores, sabers and less familiar blades, which shone coldly in the wintry light, and there was a long couch beside the hearth.

'Everything's oke," Higgins said more to himself than to me. "Maybe she's gone daffy; maybe she got bad news or something. She could of been stewed. Let's look around the rest of the place."

"Hold on," I told him.

"What?" he jerked.

"The phone," I said. It stood on a table between the couch and the wall. The receiver hook was empty. Something else was out of place. A fringed lampshade lay on the floor beyond the couch. I peered over the sofa's back into the space beyond and saw the lamp's overturned standard and beside it-

I heard Higgins' low moan. I felt his breath come and go upon my neck. I said:

"He's been killed."

"Who?" Higgins asked in a whisper.

A man lay on his back beside the fallen lamp. His head was tilted so that his black beard pointed upward like a charred stump at the telephone receiver dangling from the table. His hands were drawn up as though he had tried to clutch the lapels of his coat and the left side of his vest was glistening and sodden.

I answered, slowly, for my mouth was sticky.

"I never saw him before."

A low but steady sound came toward us. Higgins held his breath. I tiptoed toward the door as Miss Paget propelled herself into the room. She looked at us with a parental severity.

"Well?" she prompted. In relief we babbled our discovery. I began, but Higgins' heavy speech beat mine down and took command.

"Right over there, Miss Paget," he rattled. "Behind the couch where nobody'd be likely to see him. If you'll roll forward just a little-"

The old lady's calm voice sheared through his babbling. "No doubt," she replied. "May I ask what you intend to do now?"

Higgins stared.

"In such cases," she told him, "it is usually customary to notify the police, I believe."

The superintendent blundered toward the telephone, shrank back from the presence of the concealed body and, reaching across the couch

"Whew!" he said. "That girl do

Higgins emerged from his basement apartment. He had doffed Wilson's regalia, evidently on the theory that one uniform at the door was all the house required. He squinted about the foyer and then ambled over to the switchboard. His breath was heavy with the fumes of a recent drink. I envied him.

Alcohol had softened him and something less apparent worried him. He bent confidentially toward me

"Listen, Mallory," he said with the glibness of rehearsal. "Maybe I was a mite hasty a while ago. We'll let bygones be bygones. Listen: They'll be questionin' all of us. See? There's none of us to be leavin' the buildin' till they're through. You do me a good turn,

To have written a book may be a doubtful distinction, but to have G. Campbell Morgan, we note:

4. Its Purpose. Luke wanted Theophilus (and others who read his Gospel) to know with "certainty" (Luke 1:4) those things in which he was already instructed by word of mouth. Important matters must always be written down, carefully and in order. To pass things on by word of mouth inevitably results in change, conscious or unconscious. So desperately vital a matter as our eternal salvation calls for writings, exact and complete. Luke, who had a knowledge of all these things, was moved by the Holy Spirit to write, and thus we have this glorious Gospel which we are fast as your backs and ends? We haven't seen many Hubbards in football. Or Fat Henrys either.

The 1940 rush may break all records, both among the colleges and the pros. Sport remains the big mind distractor and football leads all other competitions in this respect.

I can't recall when the college game had so many strong teamsscattered all over the map-Cornell, Princeton, Fordham, Tennessee, Alabama, Tulane, Texas A. and M., Southern Methodist, Ohio State, Minnesota, Michigan, Notre Dame, Southern California, Washington, Duke, Oklahoma, Missouri, Nebraska, L. S. U., Texas, T. C. U., Georgia Tech and Santa Clara. And even this list is only a partial roll call.

There should be at least 35 exceptionally strong college teams this year and they cover all known and explored sections of the map.

The Football Phenomenon

Pound for pound, one of the great football players and one of the most amazing is 150-pound Dave O'Brien of Bert Bell's Philadelphia Eagles. Little Dave has one record that is almost beyond belief. As I recall the vital statistics O'Brien's slight frame has never left a football game through injuries in five years of college and pro play. He finished three years with T. C. U.'s hard schedule minus a dent in his small but solid. system. And he was always between a 50 and 60-minute man.

He was supposed to be too small for the pro game. But in place of being rumpled into a shapeless mass Little Dave went along passing and running and kicking without any trouble.

You might ask Steve Owen of the N. Y. Giants about him.

"One of the best I ever saw," Steve said, "smart running his team, a fine ball carrier and one of the best of all passers. And above all as tough as green hickory when it comes to taking his share of being knocked about."

O'Brien completed 40 passes in his last two pro games a year ago. That ought to be a record-and I think it is.

FROM MISSOURI

One of the greatest publicity drives in U. S. political history is about to be launched.

From thousands of billboards, posters, window signs, movie screens, radios and sound trucks, the voters of the country will be bombarded with arguments, slogans and oratory until November 5 as to why Wendell Willkie should be elected President of the United States.

The campaign will be under the auspices of the Republican national committee, but its real authors are a group of live-wire St. Louis business men headed by bustling Edgar Queeny, president of the Monsanto Chemical company, one of the biggest such firms in the country.

An original Willkie booster, Queeny has been giving a large part of his time to the job of electing him. He lunches daily with a score of politically smart friends, and it was at these informal powwows that the nation-wide publicity plan evolved.

Originally Missouri was to stage the show alone, but the national committee was so impressed with its possibilities that Queeny was asked to apply it to the entire country. He responded with characteristic zip.

Through his influence, five leading advertising firms went to work with the agency that handles the Monsanto account, the Gardner Advertising company of St. Louis, and assigned two representatives to each state to explain the drive to local G. O. P. chiefs.

One particular point to be explained was that the cost would be too large for the national committee to bear under the Hatch act, and that the state organizations would have to carry the load. The advertising contact men have reported back that without exception the state headquarters are willing to raise and spend the necessary funds.

Wasted Campaign Funds Result From Limitations of Hatch Act

National Committees Lose Control Over Expenditures; Willkie's Voice Holds Key to Success in His Presidential Campaign.

By CARTER FIELD

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) WASHINGTON.—The original idea of the Hatch act was magnificent. There can be no doubt about it. All the arguments against it at the time of its passage were lame—obviously so. For example, the plea of Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky that if federal employees could not be used by federal candidates, whereas state employees were not restrained, it would be tough on the federal candidates!

Barkley was the target of cartoon-ists and editorial writers all over the country regardless of party. What was bothering the Kentucky senator, of course, was that he was in a tough fight for renomination at the time in the Democratic sena-torial primary. His opponent was the then governor of Kentucky, "Happy" A. B. Chandler.

Barkley was renominated and re-elected, and Chandler later got into the senate also, following the death of Senator Logan, so that particular "crisis" has passed. Incidentally Chandler and Barkley are now good friends. Neither one has anything to lose by being friendly with the other. There are mighty few men against expelling him found himself the target on that issue next time he came up for re-election.

Well, the fact is that most of the money spent for Newbury was spent on newspaper advertising!

But the joker of the whole situa-ation at present is the way both major parties are benefiting from huge expenditures OUTSIDE the scope of the national committees, and beyond the reach of the Hatch act. Probably, on the whole, more money is being wasted this year on foolish campaign spending than ever before because there is no one power which can control ALL the spending on either side.

Willkie's Bad Throat Threatens Campaign

Leaving out the possibility that President Roosevelt may make some move in connection with the war; which would turn everything in the presidential campaign topsyturvy, the most important thing to watch is Wendell Willkie's voice. The big question is whether that bad throat of his can stand the ordeal he had planned.

If Willkie can make the sort of campaign those who knew him had visualized, he might be able to work wonders. The man has magnetism. He has the faculty of winning any small group to whom he talks, and this goes for crowds up to 500 and 600, to a degree possessed by few political figures.

No one had thought, much less Willkie himself, that he would not be able to stand the physical strain of the campaign. Willkie has been making two or three speeches a week for a long time, especially in the period immediately preceding the Philadelphia convention.

But making one speech a day, even, to a crowd of 500 to 1,000, is one thing. Making TEN speeches a day from the rear end of a railroad train, with a monster meeting every few days, probably on a na-tional hookup for radio, is quite an-to make it agreeable and easy to take When constipation brings on acid in-digestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "cry-ing the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, com-bined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agree-able carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agree-able to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Lax-ative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

this spring and amended the Hatch act by its various limitations, it really opened the door to the craziest sort of presidential campaign in the country's history, so far as the financing on both sides is concerned.

'Necessary Expenditures' Raise Many Questions

For instance, the limitation on the national committee of each party is $3,000,000 of expenditures. That sounds like a lot of money. It is. But then bobs up the old notion of the politicians that certain expenditures simply must be made.

Literature, for example-pamphlets and leaflets, streamers, windshield stickers and buttons. Does the distribution of any one of these, or all of them, change any votes? Nobody really knows, but the average politician thinks it would be simply murder to stop furnishing them.

Then there is the question of advertising, not only in regular newspapers, but in magazines, special programs of groups which think they merit recognition, billboards, street car ads, etc.

One of the big committees has not allowed a nickel of its budget for any one of the above! No committee of any party ever thought it had one-tenth as much money as should be spent on every one of these items.

Then there is the foreign language press, and the Negro press. Both parties in the past have always subsidized them to a perfectly absurd degree.

Money Spent Outside Scope of Hatch Act

So far one might think, studying this situation, that the Hatch act limitation, with a few possible exceptions, such as honest advertising, is a blessing in disguise. Incidentally, for some reason which has always been a mystery to the writer, the country seemed to take the position, some years back, that spending a lot of money on newspaper advertising for political purposes was a wicked thing.

Remember Truman H. Newbury of Michigan who was elected to the senate, and then pilloried because more than $300,000 had been spent to nominate and elect him? He was almost expelled from the senate, and felt so chagrined at the result that he subsequently resigned. Incidentally every senator who voted of tricks. It is the personal touch of the smaller meetings that is Willkie's magic. It is not the big formal speeches that are broadcast over the land.

Stump Speeches Hard on Voice

Both are vital, but it is UNTHINK-ABLE that he should not make the big speeches. So if one or the other line of attack must be given up because of throat trouble, it will be the little rear end of the train speeches that must be sacrificed.

development, except that for some Willkie's throat could not stand any amount of use. For example, in the 1924 campaign John W. Davis was the nominee of the Democrats for the presidency, and he attempted a nation-wide stumping tour. Davis had been in congress. He had been solicitor general of the United ing. States. He had been and still is regarded as one of the really great orators of the country.

But how his throat did crack! He was obliged to get a throat specialist to travel with him, but even with expert medical aid he was unable to do anything like the job he had mapped out for himself, a job he had been confident of his ability to perform.

Some people think that the amplifiers solved the problem of this strain on the throat. Most emphatically they have not. Any one who listened to the broadcast of the two cue. national conventions, where the amplifiers were magnificent, knows that some voices were clear and loud, some muffled and hard to understand. A man speaking into a microphone for amplifiers in a big hall, where the audience must hear, is almost forced to strain his voice, although a man speaking into a microphone in a radio studio can read along in a perfectly natural voice, without straining.

Speaking in the open air, as rear harder on the voice than speaking in a convention hall. . . .

Washington officials of the navy have now stated that they may be forced to invoke the industrial provision of the conscription law in order to establish priority for essential products to be used in the current large-scale naval expansion program.

This included his mains the same. It's the increase stock of goods, something left over | that brings the profit. When he lamented that the electric sign with his name on it cost him $30, that people didn't respond as he expected, that gave me my

"How much did you set aside for promoting this new venture?" I asked.

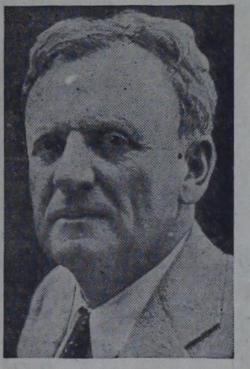

He looked at me blankly.

I explained. "Here you have everything to take care of customers. But what provision and thought have you given to getting the customers to come in and give you a trial? Do you think that when they happen down this way they are going to drop in just because you are a new store? Out of curiosity? Do end train speechers must, is even you trade that way? Perhaps, some one disgruntled with his present merchant, may 'give you a trial.' But trade does not float around, hitor-miss. It must have a reason. 'Dressing Up' Helps.

"Now, you appreciate this a little when you put up a sign, and dress your window. But you let it stop there. that additional 10 per cent."

Storekeeper or Merchant?

This man was not a merchant. He was a storekeeper. There is a vast difference. The storekeeper puts a "sign" in his local paper and whines about its being charity or unnecessary expense. The merchant spends time in preparing each week on paper what he would say to 1,000 prospects if he called upon them personally. He makes it the first item on his weekly calendar. As definite a chore as opening up in the morning or sending out his bills on the first of the month. And the cost of sending this personal invitation into the homes of possible customers he includes not as an expense, but as an investment as important and necessary as the same amount invested in goods on the shelves.

Many successful business men are called, but few are chosen. The buying public stands ready to respond to personality, real service, expert buying. The opportunity may be there. The storekeeper is there, waiting, but the public doesn't know and is woefully indifferent to finding out. The little group of backwoodsmen,

There was a crude little handpress of wood and iron, a strong-box tied with leather thongs jingling with the sound of metal type; two "inkers," (deerskin balls stuffed with wool and attached to wooden handles) and bundle after bundle of paper. The onlookers gazed at the cargo, then at each other. "We are certainly goin' to have us a newspaper," Old Settler drawled. "That's just what we've been need-in' here for a right smart spell." On tributaries of the great Mississippi, or in boom-towns bordering the Great Plains; in mining camps or the cattle country the advent of the printing press was the symbol of civilization. Dismantled into packs for mules to carry, or crowded on the bed of a Conestoga wagon-the press arrived, with the types and paper, and the owner thereof was a westward-faring frontier editor. Hard on his heels, as a rule, came the pioneer preacher, together with the school master. The Press helped to conquer the wilderness. Dixon Ryan Fox, president of the New York State Historical society, has written:

"The printing press is a social instrument, especially when in the regular production of a newspaper it keeps the diary of the community, maintains a forum for its discussions and provides an exchange for its commerce. It is a public institution and yet, at the same time, a private industry. "Seldom in those early days, or later, was a printer 'called' to a community with general and responsible assurances of support, as a minister, or a teacher is 'called.' Each risked not only his time and effort but the capital tied up in an extensive and cumbersome equipment. No pioneers needed more courage to face disappointment than this vanguard of editor-publishers moving on their own frontiers just behind that of the homemakers . . . Heroes of the civil state no less than of the battle field, these men bore a close relation to the American progress and they worked in the elation of public service."

The frontier era of American history is long since erased. But in villages and cities today there are editors who are carrying on the traditions of the pioneers in journalism. Examine the country press for evidence that there are newspapers which "keep the diary of the community," the day-by-day report of life, death, love, business-the intensely human and simple accounts

PANTRY SHELF DINNERS that are excitingly good to eat

by Dorothy Greig

MY pantry shelf often brings to mind Aunt Ellen, who was a country minister's wife. When church women rumbled into town with their eggs and butter they expected, as a matter of course, to lunch with the minister's wife. It behooved Aunt Ellen to think fast and always be prepared.

One of her little stunts was to make dozens of pie shells early in the fall and park them away in the cold room of the cellar to be filled and baked as needed.

Today, one of the tricks of a well pianned emergency shelf is not cold milk. Heat, but do not boil. necessarily quantity but variety. Serves 4-6. planned in terms of putting together a complete meal. For instance, you can always get a meal in a hurry if your pantry shelf Creamed Dried Beef and Eggs: holds several cans of meats, vegetables, fish, fruits, evaporated milk, a package or two of ready prepared biscuit, pastry and cake mixes, a bottle or so of pickles.
