America, America, how truly great it really is; how proud, how humble, how rich, how compassionate. This country has scaled the heights of material wealth as no other country has ever dreamed about. This country has poured out compassion and wealth to those less fortunate in greater quantities than any country ever dreamed possible. Yet we are about as universally disliked as any country. Within our borders we have strife, dissension, and some relative poverty. We have far too many of our citizens condemning this country for things which in reality are not nearly as bad as they would make us believe. One of the great fallacies told to the American public is the extent of poverty in the U. S. A.

Probably the most actual "poverty" to be found in this country is the lot of various Indian tribes on some of the remote and desolate reservations. Strange how little we hear of this segment of our population. Strangely we hear so much of poverty from a relative affluent group, the American Negro. Here is where the argument starts. Well, for a starter, let's look at the Negro in Africa. Indescribable ignorance and savagery is the only words to assess the lot of 98 per cent of black Africans. The slums of our big cities are bad, but in the Chad area of the Sudan in Africa almost all of the adults are blind from a disease-bearing fly. Millions never even see, hear, or tell of sanitation, medicine, or any of the attributes of civilization.

No matter what anyone says, life in America, even under its most appalling conditions, is infinitely better than in the biggest percentage of this old Earth's area. You don't believe it! Well how many of the Negroes would trade Harlem for the Congo? How many Chinese would trade San Francisco for Peking? How many of most anybody would trade living in the United States for where they came from originally? Very few, that's how many.

Poverty can't be whipped by pulling the top down to the bottom. It can be whipped by raising the top, and the whole structure will rise with it. Poverty can't be whipped by destroying initiative, or by destroying the incentive to work and accumulate. Poverty can't be whipped by a central decree. Poverty can be whipped by providing each person with the incentive to work and to assure himself the rewards of his labor. Poverty can be whipped by providing this country with a stable business and industrial climate.

Reduced to its simplest terms, in this country "poverty" is more a state of mind than an actuality. By this we mean, by applying oneself to the opportunities of education, most anyone can better himself if he has the mental fortitude and discipline to make the sacrifices necessary for his specific improvement. This society can provide some of the tools of selfhelp but the real answer lies within and cannot be cured by spending vast sums of federal money.

ball dropped through the basket to throw the game into overtime.

"In all the years I have been playing and coaching basketball I have never seen such a great effort as was displayed by the Farwell girls at the game with Springlake Friday night," stated Coach Vernon Scott early this week. "The girls went onto the court in a fighting spirit and never lost an ounce of fight during the entire game although they were finally defeated by Springlake 53-50."

He gave special praise to the girls who came from the bench into the game and took up the fight in the same spirit as those who started the game. Jackie Gast led Farwell scoring with 29 points, Nelda Winegeart had 12 points and six rebounds in the game. Deb Hargrove had five rebounds.

Two Killed --

7 Accidents In Dec.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated seven accidents on rural highways in Parmer County during the month of December according to Sergeant W. E. Wells, highway patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in two persons killed, three persons injured and an estimated property damage of $6,820.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the calendar year 1966, shows a total of 109 crashes resulting in five persons killed, 57 persons injured and an estimated property damage of $83,704.00.

"When the final reports are tabulated, we will find that more people were killed in Texas traffic accidents during 1966 than in any prior year in the history of this state," the Sergeant stated.

The final count is expected to be about 15% more than the 3,028 traffic deaths in 1965.

The veteran patrol supervisor cautions all motorists to beware of ice spots at bridges, underpasses and in shadows.

Fertilizer Use Up --

Soil Test Now More Important

Expanded use of fertilizer in the Panhandle has increased the importance of using professional soil testing as a guide to profitable fertilization, according to an Extension Service soil chemist serving the area.

The recently published Panhandle Economic Program (PEP) report shows fertilizer use multiplied more than three times from 1959 to 1965, says Jim Valentine, who operates the Extension Service soil testing lab at Lubbock.

Panhandle farmers used about 73,000 tons of fertilizer in 1959 compared with more than 225,000 tons in 1965, according to the PEP report.

Valentine says all of the fertilizer probably contributed to increased yields, but in many cases a soil test would have indicated that a different rate and analysis of fertilizer would have produced a more profitable yield.

To get an accurate fertilizer recommendation for a field, the Extension Soil Chemist says a farmer must do two things.

First, he says the sample should be taken from 10 to 15 representative locations in a field.

Second, an information form should be carefully completed so the recommendation can be based on crop history, available irrigation water, past fertilization and yield goals.

Valentine said soil test information forms and instructions are available through the county agent's office.
