Tribune Wins Award

The State Line Tribune was named a winner in the Better Newspaper Contest of the West Texas Press Association at its annual summer convention at San Angelo last week-end.

The award received was a second place for Advertising Composition "in cities over 3,000 population." Inadvertently, the Tribune was judged in a higher classification instead of the category "in cities under 3,000 population" which made it compete with much larger newspapers.

Publisher and Mrs. John Getz were in attendance at the meeting which lasted from Thursday until Sunday. Getz is a member of the board of directors of the Association.

Man Injured

Edward Ted Engram of Farwell was injured in a tractor accident near Howard's roping arena east of Farwell on Wednesday morning.

The Farwell Emergency Vehicle was called to the scene and transported Engram to the Friona hospital, according to the ambulance attendants.

At press time, details of the accident are not known, but reportedly Engram was assisting in unhitching a plow on a tractor when the tractor rolled back, pinning him between the plow and tractor.

According to one of the ambulance attendants, the doctor at Friona believed that Engram had three broken ribs and a broken pelvis, but it was not known what treatment would be necessary.

Commissioners Approve County Housing Authority

During the regular meeting of the Parmer County Commissioners Court held Monday, Aug. 11, a discussion was held and a resolution passed concerning the creation of a Parmer County Housing Authority.

Commissioners agreed that a Parmer County Housing Authority be created and that Community Action Corporation of Amarillo, with offices in Hereford, be authorized to administer this program at no cost to Parmer County. Letters requesting an extension of time are to be forwarded as needed.

County Judge Paul Fortenberry explained that the housing authority is a rental subsidy program. "It is hoped that this program can be established to aid persons in the county in securing decent living space and in making rental payments." Money for the program was allotted the county under the Federal Housing and Urban Development program. Personnel in the Hereford Community Action Corporation office will administer the program due to the fact that at the present time they have the facilities to do so and Parmer County does not.

A discussion relating to a County Health Officer for the county resulted in the appointment of Dr. Paul L. Spring of Friona as health officer for a period of two years beginning Sept. 1 of this year.

In other business coming before the Court, a discussion was held concerning Highway 214. It was reported that W. D. Miller with the Highway Department in Lubbock had visited the county in relation to the appraisals for the highway project. Miller stated that there were a few errors in the appraisals which he would have adjusted. He also stated that papers to be sent to Austin will be completed by his office and mailed to the local Court for proper signatures before being forwarded to Austin.

Commissioners approved a resolution stating that the cost of fences in the right-of-way be included in the appraisal to the land owner, and that the County Judge be authorized to sign the papers on behalf of the Court and forward them to the Lubbock office for their forwarding to the Austin office.

It was reported that the budget for the Bookmobile had been received and Parmer County's portion would be approximately $385 more than last year, or a total cost of $4,857.50.

A plan of maintenance on the Running Water Draw Watershed was presented by Herb Evans of the Soil Conservation Service for study. Evans will meet with the Court at a later date to review the plan.

It was suggested to the Court that a letter be written to the Highway Department in Lubbock to request the installation of stop lights at Clay's Corner, Bruegel and Sons Elevator, Black, Oklahoma Lane and Hub.

A motion was made and accepted that the Commissioners Court request of the Board of County and District Indebtedness the return to Parmer County's lateral road fund account the amount of $31,466.71. These funds are to be used for the improvement of Parmer County lateral roads.

Joe Jones of Farwell was appointed by the Court to serve on the Veterans' Land Board Committee for the county.

Commissioners okayed the payment of $99.10 to County Extension Agent Jana Pronger for food and travel to various meetings and camps with county 4-H groups. A total of $200 is to be issued to the Parmer County 4-H Fund to supplement this fund for expenditures at the County Camp.

SWCD News

by Herb Evans

Last week we talked about the advantages of grass as a conservation practice. This week we want to talk about grass varieties and planting methods.

There are two different kinds of grasses in Parmer County. One kind is warm season and the other is cool season. Warm season grasses produce forage, four to five months a year; cool season grasses produce seven to eight months a year.

Two varieties of cool grasses are wheatgrass (Western and Tall) and Fescues (there are several of these). Each of these grasses have their place and use. These grasses should be planted in the last part of August and first part of September for best results. Do you realize it is mid-August now?

These grasses should be planted in good crop residues (wheat stubble is good). The ground should be Chiseled, smoothed, and allowed to settle.

It is not only time to prepare your seedbed, but it is time to buy your seed. If you come by the Soil Conservation Service office in Friona we can discuss such things as variety, planting rates, planting methods, and planting depths.

We think cattlemen talking "grass fat" are talking good conservation.

Bicentennial Notebook - -

A Rag-Tag Army Formed By Colonies

by Donald Whisenhant

George Washington was usually a patient man. However, 200 years ago this month, his patience was undoubtedly running short.

Only a few weeks earlier he had been named commander-in-chief of the American army. The militiamen of Massachusetts had driven the British away from Lexington and Concord; in August, Americans were still basking in the afterglow of Bunker Hill, even though technically a defeat, that had shown American courage and ingenuity.

When Washington arrived in Cambridge to take command of the hastily-assembled Continental Army, he was not so impressed. He took command of a force that could truly be called a "citizen army."

Funeral Services Conducted For Former Resident

Funeral services for Ola Mae Richey, 79, a former Texico resident, were conducted Sunday, Aug. 3, at the First Baptist Church of Belen, N.M.

Mrs. Richey died Thursday, July 30, in her home in Belen after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Bowie, Tex., Aug. 27, 1895, the youngest of five children, all of whom have preceded her in death. She was married to T.H. Richey Dec. 26, 1917 in San Antonio. After living in Duncan, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Richey moved to Texico in 1925 and resided there until moving to Belen 10 years ago.

Mrs. Richey was a member of the Texico Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, T. H. of Belen; two daughters, Joyce Murphy of Belen and Ernestine Molina of Seattle, Wash.; one granddaughter, Patricia Murphy of Phoenix, Ariz.; two grandsons, Jim and Steve Murphy of Belen; and several nieces and nephews.

Interment was in the Terrace Grove Memorial Garden in Belen.

Equipment and supplies were virtually non-existent. Since each man had provided his own materials, no standards existed at all. Particularly in short supply were munitions. In fact, the supply of powder and shot was only about eight or nine rounds per man, so few in fact that Washington dared not fire a morning or evening salute. This shortage was all the more critical because Washington's forces had the British sealed off in Boston; if the British had known the American condition or had decided to break out of the city, continental forces would have been able to do very little.

Appeals for powder and supplies were made to the states, but the response was very poor. In New Jersey, however, a young Elias Boudinot, recently converted to the patriot cause, was able to find six to 10 quarter-casks of powder that he secretly forwarded to Washington. When they arrived on August 20, 1775, they were the first received from any colony.

Boudinot's action was significant in three ways. First, he weakened the defense of his native New Jersey by his action, a situation that could have been personally difficult had New Jersey been attacked. Second, Boudinot was brought to Washington's attention, a fact which probably had some influence later when Washington appointed him the first commissary-general of prisoners. Third, in 1782 Boudinot was elected President of Congress, an act that made him Washington's commander. The relationship between the two men was close throughout their lives.

The Virginian, mentioned last week, faced a very different situation in the Spanish Southwest. Sailing from New Orleans to St. Augustine, Florida, John Peyton's ship was blown off course in a storm in the Gulf of Mexico. Captured by a Spanish vessel the whole crew was taken to the mouth of the Rio Grande where they were held for several days before being marched to Santa Fe.

The next several months proved to be very trying on Peyton and his associates.

Tour Of New England States Creates Memories For Magnesses

from across the desk of Joann Getz

From time to time, as space will allow, the State Line Tribune has been running a column "Bicentennial Notebook" written by Dr. Donald Whisenant, professor at Eastern New Mexico University. In this bicentennial year, the articles are very meaningful and we hope you have been enjoying them.

In addition, beginning this week in the Tribune is a new column "Tricentennial Century" offered to our readers by ENMU, concerning the next 100 years.

Tricentennial Century will forecast things to come and is prepared by Dr. Jack Williamson, professor in English and science fiction writer for nearly 50 years.

Through most of human history, change was very slow. Now it is explosive and the next hundred years promises to be a century of crisis for the human race, believes Dr. Williamson. His work is a moderately optimistic voice of the future where we can build a good new world or wreck the only planet we have, reports the Information Services at the University.

Author of over 30 science fiction books, Dr. Williamson was the son of pioneering parents of the Arizona Territory. He received B.A. and M.A. degrees from ENMU in 1957 and earned a Ph.D. from the University of Colorado in 1964. His dissertation was on the early science fiction of H. G. Wells which has now become a book, "H. G. Wells: Critic of Progress."

"I think that we as a people have lost too much faith in ourselves, our science, and our destiny," Dr. Williamson explained. "Though the next century does threaten us with a whole galaxy of dangers, I think we can survive them if we face them with intelligence and understanding."

Tricentennial Century will be the first science fiction columns offered to newspapers since H. G. Wells, according to ENMU Information Services.

Mrs. Ted (June) Magness and children, Kim, Kris, Kirk and Karen, returned home last Wednesday from a two-week stay in Freehold, N.J., with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams and William.

While in the area, the group made visits to many interesting and historical sites.

In Philadelphia, Pa., they toured Independence Hall which includes Congress Hall where the Federal Congress met from 1780 to 1800, Independence Hall where the Declaration of Independence was adopted, and where the Liberty Bell is now located; Second Bank of the United States, Old City Hall and many other buildings and homes which have been restored as they were in the days of the Revolutionary War.

They also made a tour of the Philadelphia Mint where they watched pennies being made. The Magness Children were disappointed that they weren't given free samples that day according to Mrs. Magness.

Also in Philadelphia the group sat in on an organ recital played at the world's largest organ which is located in the John Wanamaker Department Store. They report that this was really fascinating with the organ having some 964 stops. They were able to sit right next to the organist and ask questions about the famous instrument.

One Sunday they attended church in The Great Auditorium at Ocean Grove, N.J., along with about 6,000 other persons. The open-style auditorium was built in 1894 and was the scene of Methodist Camp Association meetings for many years. Located only a few blocks from the beach, the services there attract local persons and tourists by the thousands for events there all during the week.

At Allaire State Park they saw an entire community that has been restored, including residential sites, blacksmith shop, bakery, carpenter shop, post office, church, general store, carriage house and barns. All have relics and furniture of the era of the bog iron industry which was the livelihood of the community.

Also visited was Washington Crossing State Park in Bucks County, Pa., which was the site at which George Washington crossed the Delaware River on Christmas Night 1776 to fight the battle of Trenton. Durham boats like the ones Washington and his troops used to make the crossing are on display and one can visit The Old Ferry Inn where Washington ate his evening meal prior to the crossing. Nearby one may visit the Thompson-Neely House which was a residence requisitioned for use by Washington's officers during the latter part of December 1776. It is totally furnished with relics and artifacts like those used at the time Washington was there.

Back to the modern day scene and to New York City, the group first went to the waterfront to see ships loading or unloading, but were disappointed to find only one at dock. They then rode the ferry out to the Statue of Liberty, an impressive visit even though they admit that none of them made the entire trip to the top of the statue. Mrs. Magness and Kirk made it four stories up into the statue proper, but with the temperature at 115 degrees and a narrow spiral staircase, the prospect of making it eight more stories was out, they say.

Back downtown, they made it down Fifth Avenue for a shopping tour, and on to St. Patrick's Cathedral which, they commented, was one of the loveliest sights anywhere. After dinner at the Dallas Cowboy restaurant, they went to Shea Stadium to see the baseball game between the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians. "Saw Catfish Hunter pitch and wondered whether or not he's really worth all that salary!"

Next they went to Washington, D.C., and since it was a Saturday and because Congress was in summer recess, they city was not crowded at all and was really quite nice. "We had expected turmoil, traffic and disorder in general, but found quite the opposite. In fact, if you didn't have to drive through the ghetto section and see all the buildings, you'd think it was really a pretty city. All around the Capitol building and the area, it is really beautiful. We toured the capitol and decided our senators and representatives don't have such a bad place to work after all," the travelers commented.

The rotunda was the most beautiful part of the building, although all of the building features beautiful art work, paintings and architecture, they report. "The house of representatives was not as impressive as it seems on television when the president is speaking."

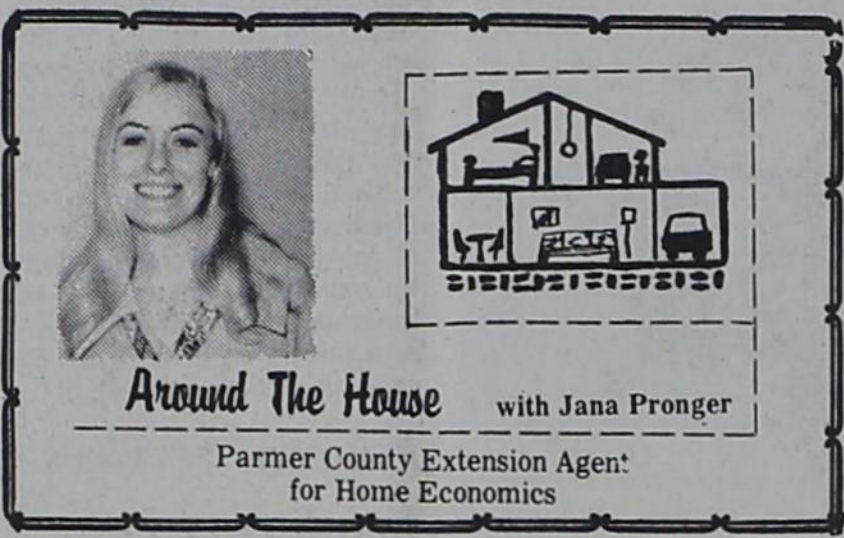

They toured the White House grounds, but did not go into the building since tours are only made in the morning hours. They also went through the National Archives Building to see the original documents of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

They went to the Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument and around the Watergate, the Tidal Basin etc. At Arlington National Cemetery they viewed the gravesites of John F. and Robert Kennedy and also witnessed the 7 p.m. changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

"Of course no trip to that area would be complete without trips to the beach," said Mrs. Magness, "and we saw the ocean on both blue and gray days, and the water seems to take on the hue of the day, seeming very sad and forlorn when the sky was also gray. The tides were not conducive to staying in the water very much because of Hurricane Blanche causing rough waters, but the children enjoyed catching starfish and other various and sundry sea-things that were washing up on the beach."

One of the most enjoyable evenings for the children was attending a performance by the Carpenters and Neil Sedaka at the Garden State Arts Center, an open auditorium starring big name performers every night during the summer month.

Around The House with Jana Pronger
Parmer County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Eight 4-H'ers from Parmer County, with a complete record of their accomplishments, experience and development compiled neatly in one small package, vied for first place in district senior record book competition Tuesday, Aug. 12.

(Editor's Note: Results of the competition were not available at presstime.)

Only the best of each of the 44 program entries will be selected to represent District I instate competition next month.

The record books will be forwarded to Texas A&M University to compete at the state level against the best books from 12 other districts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Compiling their years of work into a binder complete with clippings, photos, and records of achievements, the senior 4-H'ers competed for scholarships, plaques, government bonds, a trip to the National 4-H Congress in November, and other awards.

Also to be judged during the event were junior record books. Blue, red and white ribbons were to be awarded for these entries. There will be 11 Parmer County entries in the junior division.

Record book competition is the critical measurement of achievements of these youths over the years. Records reveal their consistency in achieving goals, their experience in 4-H projects and activities, their experiences in leadership development, and their growth and development in personal, community and civic responsibilities.

Youth competing in this competition were Senior Division, Susan Mimms, Lazbuddie, Santa Fe Award; Holly Hart, Friona, Achievement; Rocky Bartlett, Bovina, Swine; Lezli Williams, Bovina, Horse; Jacquelyn Langford, Farwell, Beef; Linda Gohlke, Dairy Foods, Oklahoma Lane; and Cheryl Gohlke, Oklahoma Lane, Dress Revue.

Chili Challenge - - Hot Flashes From Chilympiad

Put up your dukes, city chili, this here's war!

When an ad appears in a national magazine and calls itself "best" and "real Texas chili," then whoever makes that claim better be ready to defend it. That's how the chili dads of the Republic of Texas Chilympiad feel about it, and they've invited a braggin' dude to San Marcos for a stevin' battle.

Chilympiad, the state chili cook-off held in San Marcos September 18-21, is where the world's foremost aficionados of the gastronomic essence of chili gather each year. And those aficionados just had to chuckle a bit, hombre, when they glanced at a recent issue of "Family Circle" magazine.

In that book, "New York Times" food columnist Craig Claiborne had the audacity... the unmitigated gall... the blind possum nerve to call his chili recipe the best. Said Chilympiad planners, in a special challenge letter to Claiborne, "We hope that the sour cream, limes and pinto beans mentioned by Mr. Claiborne as 'optional' do not invoke the wrath of the mighty Texas chili god - Chilymonga. To put sour cream on Texas chili instead of a baked potato - shame!!!"

"To waste limes on Texas chili?!?!? What will you have with your tequila? And surely Mr. Claiborne knows that Texans haven't put pinto beans, or any other beans for that matter, in their chili since the Great Depression. Venison, armadillo, jackrabbit, and yes, even rattlesnake, but no, no, never sour cream, limes or pinto beans in real Texas chili!"

Although the chili dads agree with Claiborne that Texas chili is indeed the best "bowl of red" around, they disagree that he's the one who cooks it. On the contrary, the best "pot of hot" came from Ed (Chili Lee) Paetzel, of Houston, Tex., and he was crowned Champion Chili Cook of the 1974 Fifth Republic of Texas Chilympiad.

And the Chilympiad dads agree with "Family Circle" that "anyone who calls a chili recipe 'best' must be ready to defend himself," but they disagree with this: "Family Circle" said they're backing Claiborne and are ready to man the barricades beside the chilihead, who claims "a lifelong addiction to the fiery stuff."

(Lifelong addiction? Doesn't he know that small cans of chili are sold in Texas grocery stores next to the baby bottle formula for a reason??)

The dude Claiborne even claims to have "sought the revealed truth in chili at roadside stands, chili bars and swank restaurants all over Texas, and has sampled bowls of it at numerous chili cook-offs, contests, conventions and confrontations..." So, how did he skip Chilympiad? If he'd only come to San Marcos first.

At any rate, with the challenge/invitation to join the best at this year's Chilympiad, Garland Warren, general chairman of the festivities, reminds Claiborne, "I think you'll surely change your recipe after competing against and tasting the REAL 'Best of the Best Texas Chilis' at Chilympiad the third weekend in September.

"After all, a real chili lover never stops experimenting."

Ginger Trimble, Joe Russell Wed In Doublering Ceremony

An evening ceremony in the Pleasant Hill Baptist Church on July 25 solemnized the marriage vows of Ginger Gail Trimble and Joel Glenn Russell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Trimble and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Russell, both of Clovis.

Rev. Bob Roberts officiated at the doublering ceremony before decorations of pink candlebra flanked by bouquets of pink, blue and green carnations and pink gladioli interspersed with greenery and baby's breath. The bride's chosen colors of pink, blue and green were also carried out in the decorations on the kneeling bench.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a formal floor length wedding gown of sheerganza and Venice lace over bridal taffeta, designed with a high neckline, empire waist, shepherdess sleeves and gathered skirt. The sheer neckline was highlighted by lace applique flowers and pearls. The lace in the bodice was repeated in two rows at the hem and the waistline was accented by a large satin bow in back. Her full length mantilla, edged in lace, fell from a coil and she carried a satin covered Bible atop which was fixed a bouquet of white baby carnations and pink rosebuds. Bridal tradition was carried out by the bride by wearing two coins minted in the years of the couple's birth as something old in her shoes. The coins were from a collection of the bride's late paternal grandmother, Mrs. Maude Trimble. Something new was a diamond wristwatch, a gift from the groom. Borrowed was the white Bible in her bouquet from her mother and blue was the traditional garter.

Music for the ceremony was provided by the bride's brother, Lynn Trimble. As he sang "The Wedding Song" the wedding party stood at the altar, before the vows began. He also sang "Annie's Song" as the couple lit the unity candle immediately after the vows. He accompanied himself on the guitar during both songs. Elaine Kelley of Texico, played the piano before the ceremony and also the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride's attendants were Candi Downey and Cheryl Ward as bridesmaids and Celia Trimble, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor. The attendants were attired in empire style dresses in the bride's chosen colors.

Steve Kerby attended the groom as best man and Donald Dilbeck and David Essex served as groomsmen. Ushers were Jady and Jack Bell, cousins of the bride, and Larry Smith. Shannon and Shawn Russell, sisters of the groom, lit the candles and Jill Bell, cousin of the bride, and Laurie Calvert presided at the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Trimble selected a lime green double knit dress with a sheer eyelet overblouse. She wore a corsage of pink baby carnations and baby's breath.

The mother of the groom was attired in a light blue double knit dress with sheer sleeves. She also wore a corsage of pink baby carnations and baby's breath.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. A lime punch was served by Marty Denton and the wedding cake was served by Johnna Dickson. Hostesses for the reception were Lee Ellen Miller, Delynda Verble, Marcia Bell, Margie Dickson and Bonnie Warren.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Clara's Thursday, July 24, following the rehearsal.

Prenuptial courtesies extended to the bride were a miscellaneous shower given by Candi Downey, Laurie Calvert, Johnna Dickson, Kim Everett, Kelly Mixon and Marty Denton. It was given in the home of Candi Downey. The hostesses' gift was an electric skillet.

A miscellaneous shower at the Pleasant Hill Community Center was given by Geraldine Burford, Lueta Clark, Betty Cloud, Gracie Dane, Margie Dickson, Diane Eshleman, Thelma Eskew, Bertha Kelley, Helen Kelley, Velma Kelley, Nell Lovett, Alice Pierce, Lola Richardson, Peggy Roberts, Clarabell Smith, Faye Smith, Parlee Webb and Wilma Whitener. Hostesses' gifts were a pressure cooker and a tailor's iron.

A bridesmaid luncheon was given by the bride, and her mother at the bride's home.

FIRE CALLS

The Farwell Fire Department did not answer any fire calls this past week, but the Farwell emergency vehicle was called out two times.

Members answered an accident call Thursday, Aug. 7, and transported the injured person to the Clovis hospital. Wednesday morning, Aug. 13, the ambulance was called to the scene of a tractor accident near Howard's roping arena. Ambulance attendants transported the accident victim to the Friona hospital.

Texico Fire Department received only one call this past week. It was a fire call to a grass blaze near the port of entry, but it turned out to be a false alarm.

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

BY CORNELIUS R. STAM, PRES.
BEREAN BIBLE SOCIETY
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60635

REDEEMED

"We have redemption through His blood..." (Eph. 1:7). Our English word "redeem" is actually a translation of three beautiful Greek words. Agarazo: to buy at the market. Ex-agarazo: to buy out of the market. Lutro: to set free (upon receipt or payment of the ransom). It is the last of these that is used in Eph. 1:7. The believer in Christ has liberty—purchased liberty—through Christ's shed blood.

First we were "bought with a price" and "redeemed to God" (1 Cor. 6:20; Rev. 5:9). Further, we were "redeemed from the curse of the law" (Gal. 3:13). And now best of all we have been set gloriously free (Eph. 1:7; Gal. 5:1).

Why not turn in your Bible to Ephesians 1:6-8 and read this brief passage thoughtfully to see the boundless generosity of God's dealings with those who put their trust in Christ as Savior.

"To the praise of the glory of His grace" God "hath made us accepted (or, engraced us) in the Beloved One," in whom we have "redemption" and "the forgiveness of sins ACCORDING TO THE RICHES OF HIS GRACE, WHEREIN HE HATH ABOUNDED TOWARD US..."

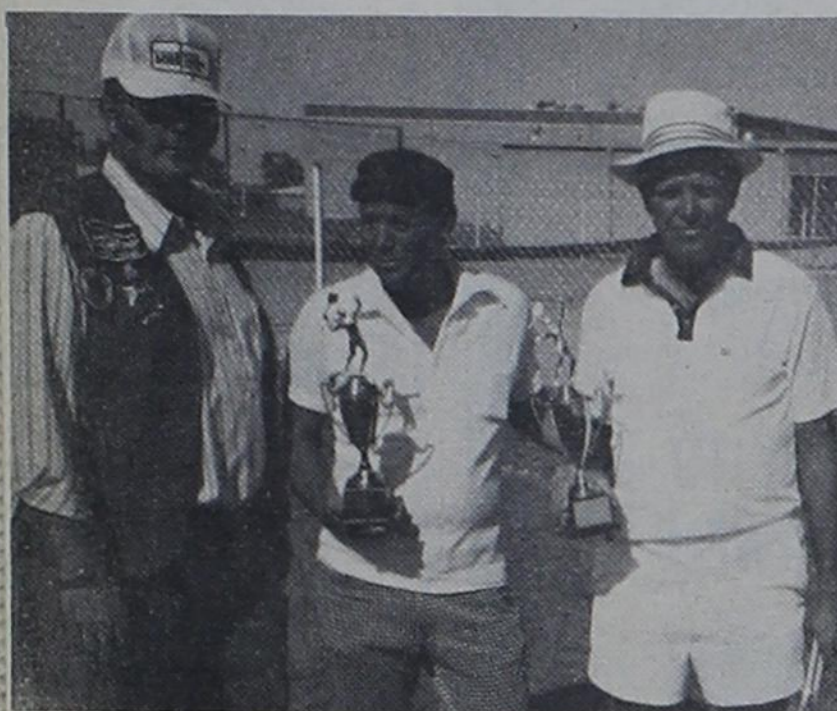

Redeemed! Purchased out of the slave market of sin and the law — and set gloriously free! Does this foster loose, careless conduct? By no means! When our Lord had given a blind man his sight, he said: "Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole," but the record hastens to add that "he followed Jesus in the way." Could anything be more natural? And could anything be more natural than a redeemed, liberated sinner longing to please and serve his divine Benefactor?

P.C. Farm Bureau Insurance

I've been told that after a period of time an insurance policy can pay its own premiums. How is this possible?

There are two ways: automatic policy loans and extended term insurance. The use of the first method will keep the policy in force and the death benefit would be the face of the policy minus the total amount of the loan. The loan can always be repaid and restore the policy to its original status. Under the second method you are insured for the entire face amount for a period, usually of several years. But to restore the policy to its original condition you must not only pay the sum required but prove you are still insurable. Therefore, the automatic premium loan is usually the better method.
