

BY HOP JR.

The other day I was in Amarillo, which you couldn't exactly call a really big city, and I saw a couple of high school kids walking along the sidewalk. One of them kept looking up and eyeballing the multi-story buildings they were walking by as if he had never seen anything like them before. This kid is probably from a little Plains town, just like me, and he has the disease they call "rubbernecking" that makes him stand out like a country hick in a big town.

However, I sure sympathize with his affliction, and will in fact take up for him. I started this rubbernecking stuff at an early age and still actively pursue it. And I don't apologize to anybody for it.

Rubbernecking, if you have to call it that, is just being interested in what is going on around you. This world is so full of sights and sounds, smells and tastes, that to deliberately pass up your opportunity to enjoy it is to cut off and throw away part of life itself.

I like to look up at buildings when I walk by them, not because I'm especially awed by their height, although I do have a healthy respect for engineers and builders, but because I want to see who has his windows open and who doesn't, when the building was built, whether there's a flag on top of it, or if the weather has made it a good candidate for a sand blasting job.

In the same way I look up to see if I can spot an airplane when I hear the noise of the motor. (The jets have really made this a fine art. You can have the sound nearly knock you down and never get a glimpse of the plane.)

I think it's fun to see what kind of people drive what kind of cars, whether the streets are paved with bricks or concrete slabs, and if there are any "don't walk on the grass" signs where the grass looks especially inviting.

If a kid is crying I'm curious to know what his trouble is, and if a man in a blue suit is knocking people over getting through the crowds I like to see what his hurry is.

There are a few things I try not to stare at, too. If a young couple strolls dreamily by, obviously enjoying the ecstasy of one another's presence even in public, I usually try to look the other way.

I have made it a rule not to stand and stare when some poor soul gets stopped in the middle of the street by a cop and looks bewilderingly around while the gendarme writes him out a ticket. This has happened to me and I know how idiotic it makes you feel.

I also try not to look at pretty girls when they walk by. Especially if my wife is looking at me. This rule is still in the experimental stage.

Anyway, this is quite a world that we live in, if you can forget about the bomb shelters and switchblade knives for a while, and I enjoy drinking it all in occasionally. There's no need for any apology.

A few weeks back while attending a layman's retreat in New Mexico's Sacramento Mountains, I struck up a nice acquaintance with a young physician from Artesia.

If you don't know I should tell you that Methodist laymen don't always discourse on ecclesiastical subjects, even while attending laymen's retreats, and during one of these lighter moments the doctor was telling several of us who were eating lunch together about some of his experiences.

Somehow or another the conversation had drifted around to what they fed us while we were in the service and when it came his turn he said he felt sure that on several occasions he had eaten horse meat, it wasn't bad, he said, and he stomachached it pretty well, although some of the other guys in his outfit raised Cain at the very idea.

But the thing that really got him, he confessed, was when he and his wife read an account in the newspapers of San Diego where a certain restaurant operator had been arrested after a number of cat skeletons were found in his garbage at the back of the eating house.

This was a pretty high class Chinese food house it turned out. The doctor and his wife had

Lazbuddie Debate Enthusiastically Received

One of America's precious freedoms was exercised at Lazbuddie Tuesday night, and from the response, it was indicated that Americans, at least in this area, enjoy such freedom. A near-capacity crowd attended the public debate at the Lazbuddie High School Auditorium, coming from near and far to hear two area farmers give opposite views on the nation's farm program.

Paul Lewis, Littlefield farmer-stockman, defended the Democratic farm program, while Frank Hinkson of Lazbuddie pointed out what he considered the weaknesses of the program, and his suggestions for improving it. Each of the men was given a time limit in which to make his opening remarks, his main presentation, and a rebuttal. Bill Woolley of Hub served as moderator of the program. Hinkson attacked the recently defeated Farm Bill as an example of what he termed "Agrarian Reform." He also spoke against the government loan program and government controls such as exercised through the ASC. "Those who would trade freedom for prosperity will lose both," said the Lazbuddie Republican. "Prosperity is the result of freedom and individual responsibility," he added. Lewis said that while our present system is by no means perfect, the American farmer has enjoyed the "greatest prosperity in history." "I think we all agree that farmers can produce too much. Our main disagreement is in the method of controlling production," Lewis said. Hinkson stated that farmers as a unit were better qualified to take care of the supply and demand problem than was the Secretary of Agriculture. "If we're going to let a few people make our decisions for us, why should we waste our money on education?" asked Hinkson. Lewis charged that most of the farmers' problems were caused by the expensive program authored by former Secretary Ezra Benson. "Benson and the Farm Bureau decided we didn't need an Agriculture Department," Lewis said. President Kennedy's administration has not had a chance to reverse this program, Lewis said. "The Republican party and the Republican press are determined that they won't have this chance," he charged. Hinkson advocated a new agency to replace the Commodity Credit Corporation, as well as scraping the laws of acreage controls. He bemoaned the national debt, the nation's "giveaway policy," and charged that the "financial solvency in this nation is questionable." Lewis warned the Republicans against making erroneous reflections on the president and his administration. "A lot of people would have you believe that Democrats are the same as Socialists," he said. "Some Republicans would have you believe that God is on their side. Let's not drag The Almighty down into the muck of politics," Lewis requested. "It's your responsibility to support your government when Democrats are in office the same as when Republicans are. We should all work together for a strong America," he said. Lewis' parting shot said "It's your privilege to disagree. But let's disagree disagreeably." And that was the way it was at Lazbuddie Tuesday night.

New Officers Chosen By Young Republicans

New officers were chosen at the regular meeting of the Farmer-Bailey Counties Young Republican Club Monday night in Farwell. It was the club's first meeting in Farwell.

Clarence Mason, a farmer from the West Camp Community in Bailey County, was chosen president, Harold Wilson of Lazbuddie is the retiring chairman.

Vice president is Glenn Lust of Lazbuddie, Mrs. Joe Briggs, also of the Lazbuddie community, was elected secretary, and Buddy Peeler, Muleshoe, was named treasurer.

Speakers for the meeting were John Zahn, Farwell candidate for state senator, 30th district, and Frank Ford, candidate for state representative, 91st district.

Ford outlined what the people of Texas "must do in order for us to have a two-party system of government."

"We have to elect Jack Seale and Dennis Taylor to the U. S. legislature, and Jack Cox as governor of Texas," said Ford. "Texas needs a powerful conservative voice in the 1964 convention, or else we won't have the two-party system we need," he added. "We need to return to the Constitutional form of government as outlined by our forefathers. Our system of checks and balances must be kept strict," Ford said.

Ford stated that another reason the state needed a strong conservative delegation to the 1964 convention was to stop Nelson Rockefeller, whom he referred to as "John D. Rockefeller III" from gaining the nomination.

"He says he's conservative, but he's just as liberal as John F. Kennedy," said Ford. Ford briefly outlined his stand on several of the issues which he considered important to the voters.

Zahn told the club "I got into this race because I'm sick and tired of the socialist trends which we now have."

He said that he was following the pattern set forth by all of the Republican candidates--that there was a job to do, which must be done in the coming election.

Zahn warned that anytime a person votes a straight Democratic ticket, they were voting a liberal ticket.

"There will be an attempt to re-district the state in the next legislature, where our area would lose representation. We need to have someone in Austin who will fight against this," Zahn said.

He stated that unless there were some Republican senators elected in November there

New Building; No Reids

With the beginning of school in Texico this year many changes will be noted at the school among which will be a new high school building and no "Reids" in school for the first time in twenty-three years.

It was at the beginning of school in 1939 that the first of the seven children of Mrs. Ruth Reid and the late Levi Reid, W. O., began his formal education in what is now known as the old building, but what was then the only school building on the Texico school grounds. During the next twelve years the other six children began their education in the same classroom and four of the seven with the same first grade teacher, Mrs. Leroy Faville.

None of the Reid children was ever to attend school in any but the old building since when the new grade school building was erected a few years ago, Don, youngest of the Reid children was a little too advanced to get to attend classes there.

In 1951 when W. O. Reid was a senior in high school, little brother Don, began his education, thus the Reids had seven children attending the school at one time. At the end of that year W. O. received his diploma from high school and Kenneth received a certificate of promotion into high school. Thus it went the next year with Margie graduating from high school and little sister, Sue, being promoted into high school. In 1955 the same thing happened all over again with Kenneth graduating from high school and Jerry being promoted into high school.

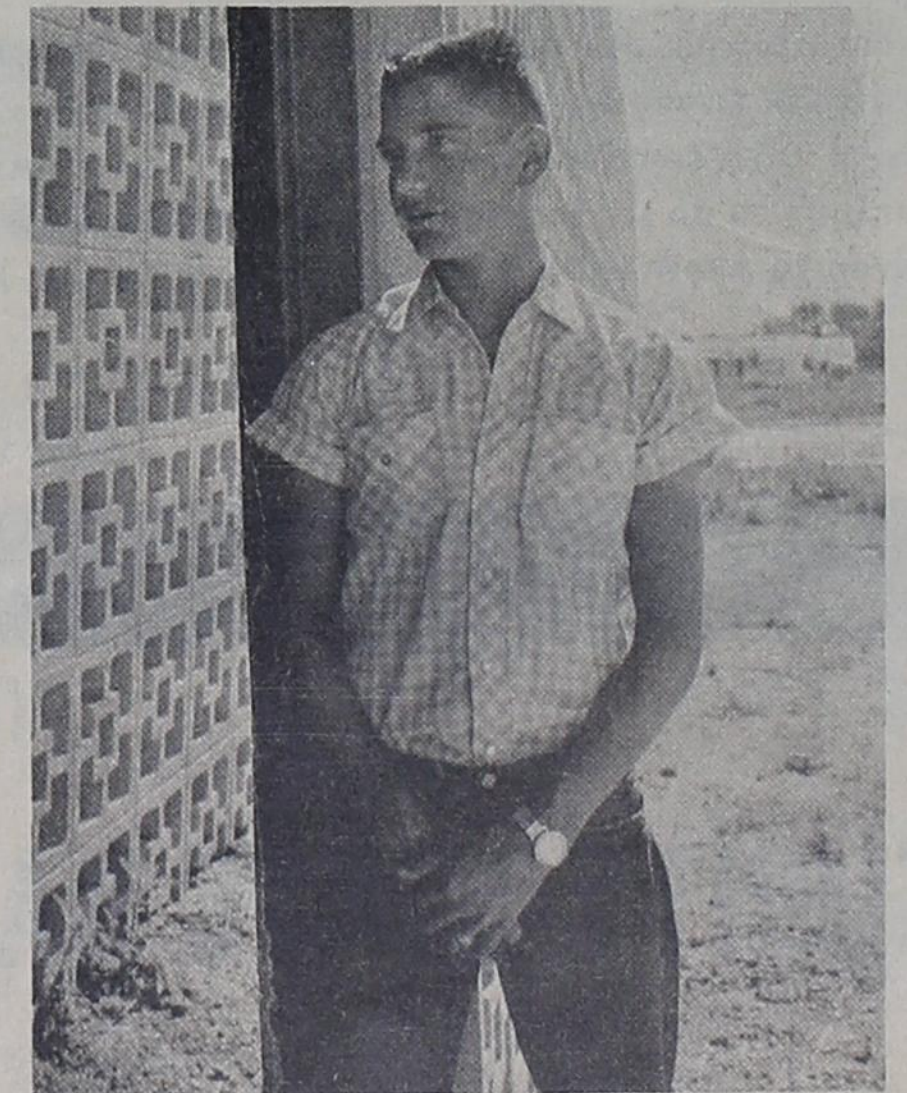

Brothers Bill and Don came along a little later to complete the roster of Reids in the high school, Bill graduated in 1961 and Don in 1962.

Through the years the Reids did their part to keep the name of the Texico school on the calendar with all seven of the children being an athlete in his own right. They also were active in other phases of school life with each in his turn serving as a class officer or an officer of FFA or FHA in which they were particularly interested. Three of the seven children graduated with honors and five of them were chosen the same year for class favorites in their respective classes, with a sixth being chosen as runner-up in his class.

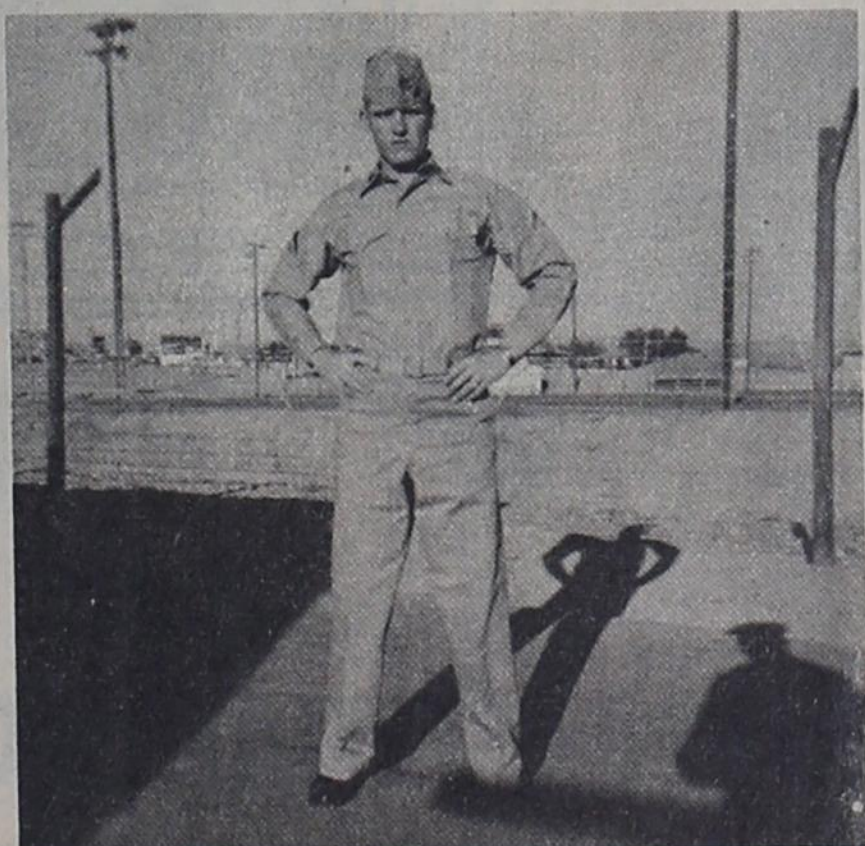

Thirty-eight perfect attendance awards were received during this period by this family for having been neither absent nor tardy from school for a full school year.

"Where are the Reids?" one may ask. W. O., the eldest is married to Marsha Peterson, also a Texico graduate and they have three sons and live in Dallas where he is employed by the telephone company. Margie, is married to Arlye Crooks, a Texico graduate and they live in Clovis. She is the mother of two children, a daughter and a son. She is employed by a builders supply company as bookkeeper. Sue, the other daughter is married to Doyle Webster, also a graduate of Texico High School and lives in Littlefield where she is em-

Defoliants Play Important Role In Mechanical Cotton Harvest

Last year 64 percent of the Texas cotton crop was machine harvested -- 13 percent by mechanical pickers and 51 percent by strippers. The trend is upward for this type of harvesting, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

An important consideration in the machine harvesting of cotton, he says, is the use of either defoliants or desiccants for preparing the cotton plants for the harvesting process.

Defoliants are used to prepare the cotton plants for spindle picking and two groups of material are available -- dusts and sprays. Dust defoliants require leaf moisture to activate them and therefore give best results when applied late in the afternoon or early in the morning, says Elliott. Spray defoliants are available as chlorate and organic phosphorus materials. They may be used in the absence of moisture and at lower humidity levels. Thorough coverage of the plants is essential.

With ground sprayers, 10 to 20 gallons of water is recommended as the carrier for the material used, depending upon the type of sprayer and the extent of plant growth, explains the specialist. Applications of the defoliants should be staggered in order to stay just ahead of the harvesting operation and as a means of reducing regrowth, points out Elliott. He emphasizes that only recommended defoliants should be used. When 60 percent or more of the bolls are open most defoliants can be safely used, he says.

Arsenic acid and pentachlorophenol are the materials commonly used for desiccating purposes, that is preparing plants for stripper harvest. These materials can be used in water as recommended by the manufacturers. Desiccant applications should be made when more than 60 percent of the bolls are open under dryland conditions and on irrigated cotton when more than 80 percent of the bolls are open. No fiber damage should occur when recommendations are followed, Elliott says.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Youngsters looking for a business which isn't overcrowded might consider opening a shoe-shine parlor, according to Irving J. Bottner, president of a shoe polish firm (Esquire).

Bottner said a survey showed there are less bootblacks in the United States than at any time in the last 30 years. "The old bootblacks are dying off and aren't being replaced," he said.

THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE

—John 8:32

The rights and freedoms guaranteed in the basic documents of our country, and secured by men who gave their lives to protect them, would be jeopardized if dictatorial control were imposed upon our search for truth. For, not only will knowing the truth make you free, you must be free in order to know the truth.

To find the truth, there must be free access to all facts related to a subject, and the mind must be trained to use the facts in drawing intelligent conclusions. An education in a free society opens the way to all knowledge.

In our country we have such freedom of education: Schools are open to all, rich and poor alike. Schools are supervised by the will of the people, with each school district governed by parents within that district. And, most important, students are free to seek any source for knowledge; they are free to think.

And, in our country, education need never end. Not only are education courses open to adults, but public libraries, fine inexpensive books, specialized magazines, and your own fact-filled newspaper all offer important knowledge and a way to truth.

A nation whose people are educated to think for themselves and will do so, is a nation of strength — a bulwark of freedom. It is, then, not only our privilege to have an education, and to think freely and intelligently — it is our duty to do so; for freedom rests on truth. This opportunity we are given to know truth is our Right — it is our American Heritage.

Something you should think about if you're about to buy a truck:

If all trucks were built the same way, cost the same to keep up, were worth the same at trade-in . . . then probably the price tag would be your only concern. It can't be, of course, because some trucks have more quality than others. And marks of quality are the real keys to low cost.

Chevrolet trucks, for example, have double-wall construction, which gives bodies and cabs more strength. Cabs are insulated against heat, cold and noise. A big part of road shock, which shortens truck life, is damped out by Chevrolet's suspension system; it also makes riding in the truck a pleasure. Pickup bodies and cabs are separated to eliminate stress between them.

Value such as this has induced more people to invest in Chevrolet trucks every year since 1937.

This can be a good time to buy a modern new Chevrolet truck

Late summer traditionally is the season for all-around savings on a new Chevrolet truck . . . selection is still good . . . deliveries are prompt . . . and Chevrolet dealers are doubly anxious to put you into a new vehicle in order to make way for next year's models. Coupled with the efficient performance a new Chevrolet truck will give you, it seems evident that you couldn't buy at a better time. Come in and take full advantage of it!

Kay Burleson Is Runner-up In Miss Texas REA Contest

Kay Burleson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Burleson, tied for runner-up honors in the Miss Texas Rural Electrification contest at the annual meeting of the Texas Electric Cooperatives last weekend. Winner of the contest was Miss Tonda Curry of Ropesville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Curry. She will represent Texas next year in the national contest in Las Vegas next January.

Miss Burleson tied with Miss Shirley Stafford of Roaring Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Stafford.

Brainpower, unselfish courage, and tolerance will be the key to meeting the challenge of change for the betterment of all mankind, John B. Connally, Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, told some 700 rural electric leaders last Friday in Corpus Christi. He was the principal speaker for the convention.

He posed three specific challenges for the future of Texas: attracting industry, water conservation, and education; and challenged the rural electric leaders to "accept change as inevitable and make it work for the good of all."

Other speakers gave added emphasis to the need for a broad concern for the welfare of the whole state and to the need for laws protecting the rights of the rural electric systems in the territories which they have developed.

Preston Smith, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, joined Connally in stressing the need for attracting industry, especially to the rural areas of Texas, and added his own challenge--that of supporting a program of bringing more tourists to Texas.

Clyde Sanders, manager of Karnes Electric at Karnes City, was elected president of the board of directors of the association. Milton Potts, manager of Sam Houston Electric at Livingston, was elected vice-president; and F. C. Luedtke, manager of McLennan Electric at McGregor, was named secretary. New members of the board are W. J. Parks, Comanche County Electric, Comanche; W. C. Casparis, Tri-County Electric, Azle; D. L. Knight, Dickens County Electric, Spur; and Curtis Maynard, Mid-South Electric, Navasota.

Other speakers at the meeting included Richard A. Dell of Washington, D. C., deputy administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration; R. A. Yarbrough of Childress, president of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association; and Tom Reavley of Austin, general counsel for Texas Electric Cooperatives. Dell, a veteran of 25 years in rural electrification, declared that legislation is vital to keep investor-owned utilities from invading areas developed and served by home-owned rural electric systems. He also stressed the need for generation and transmission facilities which would help free the rural electric systems from "dependence on an unfriendly commercial power company for essential power supply."

Reavley stressed the need for a reappraisal by rural electric leaders of their relations with the investor-owned power companies, with the public, and with the state and federal governments. "The investor-owned power companies comprise the richest and most powerful industry in this country," he said. "They operate plants valued at approximately 50-billion dollars and serve 140-million customers. It should not be given to these companies to decide what will happen to the electric cooperatives; and yet tornadoes and ice storms do not cause us nearly so much trouble as they do."

EXAMINING SOME of the early cantaloupes being processed at Bovina is Charles W. Flynn, owner-manager of Gateway Produce Company.

Harvest Begins For '62 Cantaloupe Crop

Harvest began this week on the 1962 cantaloupe crop in the Bovina area.

The first melons were picked last Saturday, and the harvest continued Monday afternoon on a 50-acre patch belonging to Tom Caldwell, who farms four and a half miles south of Bovina. Charles W. Flynn, owner and manager of Gateway Produce Company in Bovina, said the harvest should be in high gear "in about another 10 days."

"So far, the melons look good," said Mario Trevine office manager at Gateway. "We have a good market presently. The demand is good, but we don't have the volume. By Monday, we should have the volume up to meet the demand," he said.

Gateway packed 600 crates of cantaloupes Saturday, and another 400 crates Monday. The picking Monday got off to a late start due to showers early Monday morning.

"The only thing that would hurt us now is the weather," said Flynn. "And that would just delay us a bit," he added.

Price on the cantaloupes so far is $4 to $4.50 per crate for number one melons.

The are approximately 450 acres of cantaloupes to be harvested this year, which is quite a drop from last year's more than 800 acres. Some of the farmers who raised cantaloupes last year found it necessary to plant maize this year, in order to protect their acreage history in that crop.

There were some 500 acres planted originally, but approximately 50 acres were lost to hail.

In addition to the cantaloupes, there are 125 acres of cucumbers in the area, 80 acres of pepper, 80 acres of cabbage, and various acres of other vegetables.

Gateway officials estimate that in all, there are about 900 acres of vegetables in the area this year.

Trevine pointed out that the local cantaloupes were the only ones in West Texas this year. Other points in the general area, such as Dimmitt, which had several acres last year, did not raise them this year.

All the vegetables seem to be of good quality and yield. Also, the market is good for each vegetable.

Vote Scheduled On Wheat Referendum

County wheat farmers will go to the polls Thursday, August 30 to vote on the 1963 wheat referendum, according to an announcement from the Secretary of Agriculture.

The vote will be on the basis of 55 million acres. The Secretary also announced that the national average support price for 1963 wheat, if quotas are approved, will be $1.82 per bushel (75 per cent of parity).

"We can still hope for a day to come when we can be a party to their power polls and rely safely upon them for the greater part of generation of power. We might be able to work out mutually satisfactory divisions of territory, should that ever become constitutional in Texas."

J. R. Cobb, general manager of Texas Electric Cooperatives, also stressed the desire to work peacefully with the investor-owned utilities; but he warned that the task would not be easy.

If the quotas are disapproved, support price to cooperators will be on the basis of a national average of $1.21 per bushel.

"It appears that we'll be voting under the 1958 law, which means that the wheat allotment for Parmer County will be within one per cent of the 1961 crop," stated Prentice Mills, office manager of the Parmer County ASC.

Mills stated that he would announce voting places and times next week.

Any person who will be engaged as owner-operator, cash tenant, standing rent or fixed rent tenant, landlord of a share tenant, share tenant or share-cropper in the production of more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in 1963 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

A landlord of a standing rent, cash rent or fixed rent tenant will not be eligible to vote. For practical purposes, any producer that has a 1963 farm wheat allotment of more than 15 acres will be eligible to vote. Any other person that will have an interest in a 1963 crop of wheat for harvest as grain of more than 15 acres will be eligible.

On the basis of present provisions of law, 15 acres or less of wheat may be planted, harvested and marketed on any farm in 1963 without incurring a marketing quota penalty. The 200-bushel exemption will not be in effect in 1963.

Mills Elected To District Office

Prentice Mills, office manager of the Parmer County ASC, was elected district director of the Texas ASC County Office Employees Association in an election by mail ballot recently.

The district is composed of 15 counties in West Texas. Elected president of the organization was Jim Whitfield of Lubbock, a former manager of the Farwell ASC office.

Winners Listed In County 4-H Club Baking Contest

Twenty-two 4-H Club girls took part in the annual Parmer County 4-H Bake Show held Tuesday, August 7 in the Community Room of the Friona State Bank at 2 p.m.

The Community Room was filled with cherry and pineapple pies and sweet milk biscuits. Each 4-H member entered eight sweet milk biscuits and one two-crust fruit pie. The biscuits were judged for appearance, color, moisture content, texture, lightness, and flavor. The pies were judged on appearance, pastry, filling, and flavor. Total perfect score was 300 points--100 points for the one two-crust fruit pie and 100 points for the eight sweet milk biscuits, and 100 points for the 4-H record book.

The bakery products and record books were judged according to three age groups. The age groups were nine to ten, eleven to twelve, and thirteen and older. Each 4-H Club girl was given a number which she placed on her bakery products instead of her name. The judges knew the product by number only. They agreed that all the products were of good quality. Judges were Mrs. H. L. Ivy, Lazbuddie, Mrs. John Lovelace, Farwell, Mrs. Jimmy Briggs, Lazbuddie, and Mrs. Charles Walton. Lazbuddie, homemaker teacher, Mrs. Ivy is a former county home demonstration agent and Mrs. Lovelace and Mrs. Briggs are former homemaker teachers.

Alternate over-all score was made by Cheryl Ramage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ramage of Lazbuddie. Cheryl's score was 266.5 out of the possible 300. Reba Lesley was 1.5 points below Cheryl. Reba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Lesley of Farwell, had a total score of 265.

Risa Howell, Friona, was first place winner in the nine and ten year old group. Ann Blackstone, Lazbuddie, was alternate. The other 4-H members were Nedda Foster, Kathy Coker, and Charlotte Davis.

First place winner of the eleven and twelve year old group was Cheryl Ramage with Karene Miller, Friona, being the alternate. Vicky Kaltwasser, Marsha Schumann, Patricia Tannahill, Janice Miller, Shella Vaughan, and Jill Mimms all received red ribbons for their products and record books.

Scores were all high enough for the girls to receive either a blue ribbon or a red ribbon. Miss Ettie Musil, Parmer County Home Demonstration Agent, presented the girls their ribbons and complimented the girls on the fine work each had done. Miss Celta Patton, Jr., Assistant Extension Agent, registered the entries.

WINNERS OF the Parmer County 4-H bake contest last week were Cheryl Ramage (l), alternate, and Janis Billingsley, overall winner, who will represent Parmer County at the District 4-H bake show in Amarillo September 15.

HD Agent's Notes

BY MISS ETTIE MUSIL

Are you interested in trying to beat the heat? You may try serving some delicious frozen orange juice or lemonade to your family, or for your afternoon break. You might mix juices from canned fruit for a quick energy builder, too.

The 4-H Club girls have a delicious cooler that they made this year in their Favorite Foods unit. Try this for a summer drink. Mix 1 cup cold milk, 3/4 cup cold apricot nectar, 1 tablespoon sugar, and 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice together and blend well. Then pour into glasses. This recipe will serve 2.

Lately we have been victims to the mosquito population. During these summer days camping, fishing, picnicing or just out-of-the-house cooking and eating are so popular, but so are the mosquitoes during the evening hours.

A new insect repellent is now on the market that has been developed by the USDA scientists and is sold under several trade names. The repellent is commonly called deet, and diethyltoluamide is the chemical designation.

Deet is effective and safe for general use on the skin or on certain kinds of clothing materials. It can be used against mosquitoes, ticks, fleas, chiggers and biting flies. However, instructions for the use of the repellent should be followed closely.

If the chemical is not properly used it may affect certain paints, varnishes, and some of the plastic materials. It is safe for use on cotton or wool fabrics if they contain no synthetic fibers. Some insect repellents stain certain fabrics.

When smeared evenly on exposed skin areas, deet is effective for several hours. Another good point is that it has little or no odor and it does not cause a greasy feeling on the skin.

During these warm days perspiration stains on clothing are most common. Perspiration stains normally are acid and usually will wash out of washable fabric. Sometimes the color of the fabric is changed. If so, dampen the stain with water and hold it over the fumes from an open bottle of ammonia. This may restore the color. Old stains may be alkaline. If so, sponge with vinegar.

Perspiration odors may be removed by sponging the stain with warm water to which a few drops of vinegar have been added. Then sprinkle with powdered pepsin. Work the powder well into the stain and let stand one or two hours, keeping the spot moist. Finally, brush powder off and rinse well.

During these warm days we can stay fresh as a daisy with deodorants after a daily bath. Deodorants remove odor only, but antiperspirants check perspiration. In our science courses we were told that antiperspirants could be unhealthy for many people. If a brand of a deodorant irritates your skin, try another until you find the brand that will help you stay neat and sweet summer and winter months.

Perfume and fabrics do not mix either. When applied directly to your clothing, perfume may result in dye rings, color removal, permanent stains and a disagreeable odor upon aging in the fabric.

FB Leaders To Attend Policy Meet

Parmer County Farm Bureau leaders will attend a District 2 Policy Development Training Meeting August 22 at the Holiday Inn--Parkway (formerly Parkway Manor) in Lubbock, according to Harry Hamilton of Friona, President of Parmer County Farm Bureau. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m.

H. L. King of Brownfield, District 2 director, will preside at the meeting. J. D. Hill of Lubbock, Texas Farm Bureau field representative, and members of the TFB staff in Waco will assist with the meeting.

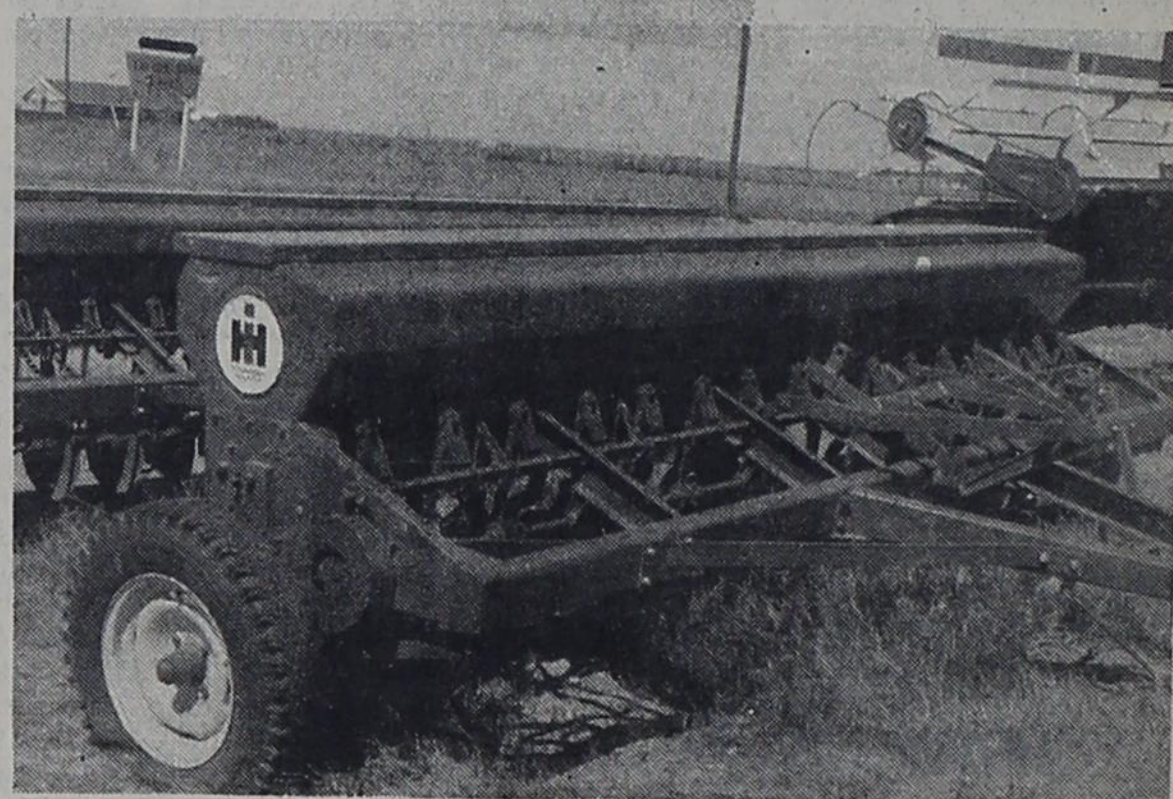

King has specifically invited officers and policy development committee chairmen of the seventeen county Farm Bureaus in District 2.

Similar training meetings are being held all over Texas during the month of August. At these meetings procedures are discussed for obtaining maximum participation by Farm Bureau members in the annual policy development process. In addition, many important state and national problems which are of interest to agriculture at this time will be thoroughly discussed.

Following the District training meetings, county Farm Bureaus will sponsor local discussion meetings on various issues. Out of these meetings will come recommendations which will be voted on in county annual conventions prior to October 31, the end of the fiscal year for Farm Bureau.

Gin Investment On Plains Shows A Big Increase

Shifts in the cotton producing areas of Texas and changes in harvesting methods have greatly affected investments in gins, according to Progress Report 2233 of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The report shows that the Blacklands and East Texas have shown the greatest decreases and the High Plains the largest increases in cotton production. The areas with great declines in production have had comparable declines in the number of gins and those areas with increased production have had opportunities for expanded investment in gins, the report explains.

Cotton harvesting has almost completely shifted from hand picking to hand snapping and mechanical harvesting and thus has created a greater need for cleaning devices in the gin to handle this cotton. This additional equipment has increased the investment that a gin owner must make, the report continues.

There are wide differences in the amount of cotton each gin handles and in the areas of falling production they are not handling enough cotton to be economical, the report points out. The gins in the Blacklands and East Texas are not being fully utilized as are the gins in the High Plains.

These preliminary studies show that model gin plants should be developed as a guide for installing and remodeling gins to get the most efficient operation under different conditions and in different areas of the state.

For details on the effects of the changing cotton picture on the gin operations of Texas write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, and request a copy of Progress Report 2233.

The HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

Perhaps every homemaker in the Golden Spread area has read about or heard about Tom Anderson, publisher of Farm and Ranch Magazine. He has spoken in the area several times and is one of the most quoted men in America today.

What does this have to do with being a happy homemaker? Really, it doesn't have any bearing on the case. Until recently I had never heard of his mother, but learned through reading a feature entitled "Collector's Items" that she was a very good cook.

Five of her most treasured recipes were printed in the feature and we are re-printing them here. Those of you who read Farm and Ranch can just read page 38 of the August issue.

Aunt Polk's Grated Sweet Potato Pudding
1 cup raw sweet potato, grated
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter

1 cup milk
1 cup water
1 egg, well-beaten
juice of half lemon
pinch of salt

Combine all ingredients and pour into buttered pudding pan. Bake in a moderately slow oven until firm and crusted. Pull from sides and lift center 2 or 3 times during cooking period to insure uniform texture.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

BY RAYMOND EULER

Time is drawing near for formulation of resolutions to be considered by the membership of Farm Bureau in October. Resolutions chairman John Henderson and his committeemen will be glad to have you talk to them regarding anything you believe would be good for membership consideration.

Other committeemen are John Armstrong, Raymond Schueler and James Norton. Give serious consideration to attending the convention in October, too. The more people present, the more apt are the resolutions to reflect the thinking of farmers in general, and that is what your organization desires.

We hope it will be possible to have a county wide policy development meeting, too, where the various issues can be discussed and formulated before time for action to be taken on them.

County Farm Bureau leaders will be attending a meeting in Lubbock August 22, where many of these matters will be discussed with a view to getting membership participation in decisions that will be forwarded to the State Farm Bureau Convention for further consideration.

We are glad to report that Farm Bureau is responsible for the amendment to the Trade Expansions Act that would avoid lowering to tariffs on imported products which would lead to declining income for farmers and ranchers.

There are just a few days left for filing for federal road tax refund on farm-used gasoline. If you have not recently filed for the state refund, come in and do that, too.

If you do not favor the administration proposals for re-vamping the farm program you should be a Farm Bureau member.

CONSIDER THIS: Understanding is a wellspring of life unto him that hath it; but the instruction of fools is folly. Proverbs 16:22.

An important consideration in the machine harvesting of cotton, explains Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist, is the use of defoliant or desiccants for preparing the cotton plant for the harvesting process. He suggests that growers contact their local county agent for a copy of the 1962 "Texas Cotton Defoliation Guide" for detailed information.

Extension Agents Take Vacations

Both county extension agents, Deryl Coker and Miss Ettie Musil, are on vacation this week.

Coker and his family are vacationing in Oklahoma, while Miss Musil, County Home Demonstration Agent, is visiting her parents in Stamford. Both are to be in their offices as usual next Monday.

The Vacation Of A Lifetime

(Editors note: The following is an account of a trip taken by the James Craig family, as written by Mrs. James Craig. They were away eleven weeks.)

By Nell Craig

The question most frequently asked about our recent vacation is "What of all the places you've been, did you like the most?" And we six Craigs haven't found an answer, because we are still thrilled beyond description about the 15,000 miles we traveled this summer, into 13 states, 2 provinces and a territory of Canada. We saw 15 National Parks and Monuments and we talked with people from Australia, England, France, Austria, Sweden, Switzerland, and India as well as citizens of nearly every state in the United States and every province of Canada. We enjoy saying that we traveled by land, sea, air and glacier.

Along with thousands of other travelers in the United States and Canada, we lived an exhilarating outdoor life. We were surprised at the numerous traileries and campers we saw along the road and are convinced that the camping and trailering are comparatively new methods of vacationing, the number who do so is bound to increase. All states in which we traveled maintain public campgrounds. Some were elaborately equipped. Some were somewhat primitive. Almost all of them provided running water, comfort areas and firewood.

Those with more elaborate equipment provided bear-proof garbage pails, the rest rooms and tent floors constructed above the ground. Parkways for trailers were graveled and most of the grounds in the North provided community kitchens where those who tent may go inside to cook their meals.

These kitchens usually have facilities for four or more families. As we had cooking facilities in our trailer, we didn't use them, but we did recognize their convenience. Many of the national parks provide showers and laundries. Private campgrounds may be found along the way also. These provide baths or showers with a camping fee of $1 or $2 a night. Many motels provide areas for pickup campers, trailers and tents.

We are convinced that we met the nicest people on earth. In our memories will be the scenes of wonderful friendships made on our journey...

roasting marshmallows with school teachers from California...campfire visits with a doctor's family from New York...coffee with an electrician from Oregon...and tea in British Columbia. We traveled for three weeks with a retired couple from Florida. Many times we put our evening meals together with those of families who camped along beside us. Many offered to watch our children while we went to the laundry or to the market. Everyone trusts everyone else. Camping equipment is left for hours at the mercy of anyone who would take it. No one does.

Our first major stops were in Arizona, where we visited Petrified Forest, Painted Desert, Walnut Canyon, and Grand Canyon. We were especially impressed at the advancements that have been made in recent years under Project 66, which is a ten year program of the federal government to improve our national parks. The museums and facilities are fabulous and we were soon to discover that we could easily spend a week in anyone of these parks and learn much that is new everyday. Next we drove to Lake Meade where we went through Hoover Dam and took a cruise on the Lake. We found this national recreation area an excellent spot for all kinds of water sports. Swimming was one of our favorite activities.

After enjoying the lights of Las Vegas, we drove to California where we zig-zagged across the state. Particular activities enjoyed in Southern California were a day in Pacific Ocean Park and a trip to San Diego, where we visited Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Allen. (Mrs. Allen is Mrs. Craig's sister). Further north, we spent some time in Millerton Lakes State Park and Yosemite National Park. In Sacramento we visited with the O. M. Whitten family. (Mr. Whitten is a brother to Mrs. Craig). We spent a day in San Francisco, where we celebrated the birthday of our youngest daughter, Jayme. After a trip to Fisherman's Wharf and dinner, there we took a trip to Chinatown by cable car.

We visited the San Francisco zoo, Candlestick Park, the home of the San Francisco Giants, and saw Alcatraz and Golden Gate and Oakland Bay Bridges. We took the Redwood Highway exit into Oregon and in that state we saw Crater Lake, upon one's mind what a real frontier Alaska still is. The sun doesn't go down in summer in this part of the world for 82 days. One cannot imagine the thousands of lakes and streams if he has never seen them. Over 50% of this vast area is under water during the summer months. The mighty Brooks range which one must cross on his way to Barrow is the only Mountain range on the American continent that runs East and West.

At Barrow we enjoyed a blanket toss, Eskimo ceremonial dances, a dog sled ride, (on wheels.) There is no snow even in the arctic at this time of year.) We enjoyed reindeer and moose steaks and also tried muktuk, which is the fat and skin of the whale. The Eskimo children love to chew it instead of bubble-gum, but we didn't find it was such a delicacy. We saw the native ice cellars which are simply rooms dug into the always frozen tundra. Here the natives store their whalemeat, caribou, and the rest of their winter food supply.

Garbage disposal was a fascinating matter. The government supplies Barrow with thousands of oil drums into which they pour their garbage. When a barrel is full it is rolled out onto the Arctic ice pack and in the summer breakup it is carried out to sea, eventually to be dumped into the Arctic Ocean.

Igloos made of whalebone and tundra are a curiosity to all who live in modern homes. We saw seal hunters coming home in their skin boats bringing their bounty. Three things looked especially out of place here. One was a modern bank. Another was Gladys' Ready-to-Wear, a store which boasted the farthest north neon sign in the world. The third was the DEW Line base of the United States Air Force. (DEW stands for Distant Early Warning.)

Back in interior Alaska again we headed for Anchorage and points on the Southern coast. We visited Mt. McKinley, the highest mountain in North America, Valdez, the Switzerland of Alaska, Seward, the home of the Salmon Derby and the famous Fourth of July Marathon Race and Palmer in the heart of the Matanuska Valley, where the long daylight hours make it possible to raise 75 pound cabbages and 60 pound turnips. We also spent several days in Anchorage and in Spenard.

Here is an early morning view of the city park in Farwell which was started earlier this summer as a civic undertaking by the Chamber of Commerce. Many families have been taking advantage of the shade and picnic facilities.

But I knew that God was there." It is impossible to describe her immensity or our feelings of humility. It was morning before we got back to our trailer and we had never turned our car lights on. We used our sun visors at 3 o'clock in the morning and we stopped to take pictures during many hours of the night. When we finally reached our beds after a long, long day, we found that the excitement of what we had seen was still with us.

Columbia Glacier amazed us as much. From Valdez we took a seven hour cruise on a yacht that at one time belonged to John Barrymore. Approaching the Glacier we passed icebergs that were so big and so close that I couldn't take pictures of them with my camera. The face of the glacier is two and one-half miles across but the overall width is over five miles. It rises some 300 ft. out of the water and extends some 700 to 900 feet below. Although there are times that, because of the abundance of icebergs, boats are not able to get closer than six miles from the glacier, on the day we went we were able to get within the one mile limit. Even then the glacier looked like you could reach out to touch her. Huge icebergs fall continually from the glacier and they fall in slow motion into the water with a tremendous roar. Although we knew that glaciers were supposed to be blue we had never really imagined how blue they are. Their beautiful color and the contours of seracs and

Our trip to McKinley was most gratifying. We saw caribou, grizzly bear, dall sheep, red fox, moose, wolf, coyote and many, many smaller animals and birds. And then we saw the majesty of the continent's highest mountain. No wonder the Indians said, "We have communed with 'The Great One.' We have never felt exactly as we did when we saw McKinley. One man said, "I am not a religious man, crevasses and penicles makes them most indescribable. There were some unpleasant things about Alaska and to prove that we aren't working for the Chamber of Commerce I'd like to record some of them here. Prices are terrific! A loaf of bread costs 50¢. Recombined dehydrated milks 95¢ for a half gallon. Grapes are 69¢ to 89¢ a pound. Strawberries are 79¢ a box, but you can pick them wild almost anywhere in August. Cokes are 25¢ a can. Gasoline is anywhere from 46¢ to 90¢ a gallon dependent on where you need it. One place boldly advertises, "Sizzling Sirloln Platter -- 50¢. The same, with meat -- $12.00." Clothes are about the same as stateside. We picked up a new vocabulary while we were in the 49th state. Alaskans refer to the "lower forty-eight" as easily as we talk about the south forty. "Outside" means anywhere on earth except Alaska. Mukluks are shoes. Mugup is coffee. Squaw Candy isn't really candy at all. "The Chain" means the Aleutian Islands. A Cheechako is a newcomer and sourdough is an older timer. One Oklahoman, turned Alaskan explained that she now considered herself a sourdough. She explained that she was sour on Alaska and didn't have the dough to leave. We soon discovered that if we didn't soon find ourselves on the road back home that we would soon become sourdoughs too. Our trip South carried us into Yukon Territory, British Columbia and Alberta, where we toured three of Canada's National Parks. We visited Jasper, where we lost count of the beautiful black bears after a couple of dozen. We visited Banff, where we enjoyed a Gondola Lift ride to the top of Sulphur Mountain and where we rode a snowmobile over the Athabasca Glacier. The other park was Waterton Lakes. Waterton Lakes National Park and Glacier National Park Montana make up Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park. The unity of these two parks as an international project is a result of the work of Rotary International, an organization which has worked in many ways to promote peace and understanding between these two neighboring nations. Once a year the Montana and Alberta Rotary Clubs meet together on alternating sides of the border in an effort to strengthen this union. After touring Glacier Park, Montana we drove to the Butte, Montana area, where we saw the largest open pit copper mine in the world and the world's largest smoke stack. We then enjoyed Yellowstone and the Quake Area and Grand Teton National Park. From there we drove through parts of Idaho and into Utah where we stayed for a few days in the Salt Lake City area. There we enjoyed a swim in Salt Lake and a tour through Temple Square. We had already visited the Temple City of Canada at Cardston, Alberta. On Sunday we attended the national broadcast of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. In Utah we also went through Arches National Monument and took an interesting tour through a cheese factory, where the children were particularly amazed at 80 pound cheeses.

Leaving Utah, we anxiously headed for home, a trip that carried us through parts of Colorado and New Mexico. We can't say that we felt the thrill of Columbia Glacier or the majesty of Mt. McKinley but there were lumps in six throats as we crossed the railroad tracks and saw the sign that says "Farwell, Texas -- Population 1009." Six more of us were home."

It's just two more weeks till dove season, so you might ought to start limbering up that old shotgun. If you know of anyone that is in the market for an almost new Browning 12 gauge it can be bought or would trade for a 20 gauge.

Yes, we have sodium chlorate now and also Dowpon for those bindweeds and Johnson grass. Bindweeds can be treated at any time during the year, but Johnson grass should be sprayed when the plants are only about 6 to 12 inches high. Dowpon is very effective on Johnson grass, but it takes two applications to do the job and at times you may have to go back the third time. It does not kill the land.

I for one, have not been worrying too much about the Russians getting to the moon before me. I would be in favor of all of them going and taking a few people from the U. S. with them. The spending of 20 billion, 40 billion on this venture seems like a waste of once good American dollars.

Geometric designs, fashioned of colored plastic tape, help a child to spot his boots when they're lined up with 25 other pairs in school. The toe or back of boot is a good place to stick the identifying design.

Include low-calorie snacks in the school lunch box if a youngster of yours has a weight problem. Celery, carrots, apples and such are better than candy and cakes for the youngster who wants to lose weight.

FASHIONETTES

Dangling medallions, worn around the leg at the top of knee or bobby socks, go back to school. They dangle from a colorful adjustable fabric garter. The garters invented by Joseph Tendler and Ted Noble, of New Haven, Conn., help girls to communicate about their love life. Worn on the left leg, the garter means the girl is going steady; right leg, unattached.

The matchbox has sparked children's coat lines to a new fashion height. In what for them is a drastic deviation from the tried and true formula, coat makers have adapted the squared-off, welt-seamed shape to both sporty and party styles.
