Calf Progress Show Planned by Clubbers

A "calf progress" show, for the purpose of checking up on progress made by 4-H club calves being fed out by the clubbers, is being planned for Parmer county.

The tentative date set this week is October 26th, County Agent Jason O. Gordon said today, but added that the definite showing place had not been selected. It was thought likely that the show would be held in Friona, although this was not a settled matter.

"This is not a competitive show," the agent said emphatically. "The object is to allow boys who are feeding out calves to compare their own animal with others being fed out by other clubbers in the county."

"Since there are only 160 days of feeding time left before livestock shows open in the spring, it will be to the clubber's advantage to show his animal in comparison with others, in order that he may improve, if necessary, the feeding project."

Approximately ten calves are expected to be on display at the "progress" show, and the boys will judge for themselves as to the appearance, as well as poise, of the calves in show ring.

Of Interest to Farmers

By Garlon A. Harper, Sec'y Parmer County AAA

The attention of all wheat farmers is called to new instructions regarding planted acreages of wheat which will be counted against the wheat allotment in determining the eligibility of the farm for wheat payment in 1941.

Wheat seeded with mixtures which the farmer intends to have not counted against the wheat allotment must check with the following points: (1) The grains other than wheat must be seeded at approximately the same time as the wheat. This is different from the time of seeding required in past years. This simply means that it will not be permissible to seed a mixture in excess acres of wheat after measurements are officially made by this office. (2) The amount of wheat seed in the mixture must be less than 50% of all grains seeded on the field by weight at the time of seeding. It is very likely that the State AAA committee will require seeding data in regard to this matter, therefore, it is suggested that the farmer keep the weight tickets of the barley or rye purchased for seeding in mixtures. (3) The grains other than wheat must mature in the same proportions as the wheat. In other words, a trace of barley or rye in the grain at the time of harvest will not be accepted. Because of these regulations, which are much more strict than in previous years, we urge all farmers who intend to have seeded grain mixture containing wheat to talk with their local committeeman in regard to this matter.

At this time, we have no indication that farmers will be allowed to destroy excess wheat in order to comply with the allotment. Therefore, all farmers who intend to comply should make a serious attempt to not overseed the allotment.

Volunteer wheat which is harvested or remains on the land after May 1, 1941, will be counted as seeded wheat and held against the allotment.

We will be glad to discuss this matter with any farmer who may have a question in regard to what acreage will be counted against the wheat allotment in 1941.

Local Hunters Bag 20 Deer on Colorado Hunt

Bagging a total of 20 deer in less than two weeks time, a party of 12 local hunters hung up a record that is likely to stand for some time.

The party returned here Saturday afternoon, bringing with them seventeen deer (both buck and doe) that were killed in the Gunnison National Forest of Colorado. Two of the kill had been sent out previously, and one was left behind due to spoilage.

Those making up the successful hunting party were: Carl McGuire, G. D. Anderson, John Aldridge, Reagan Looney, Aubrey Brock, Alex Bateman, Roger Brumley, Jimmie Clark, Ford Welch, Bert Shackelford and Bill Sherley.

Goblins Will Be Out On Hallowe'en Night

Warning all local people that the hobgoblins, the witches, the spooks and the black cats would be on a rampage on October 31st, the Farwell Parent-Teacher Association announced this week that the regular school carnival would be held on Hallowe'en.

With classes, clubs, and other organizations now planning booths of every kind and description, the P. T. A. officials are pointing toward the 1940 carnival as probably one of the best ever to be staged at the school.

Of primary interest to students, will be the race for carnival queen, with each high school class selecting its candidate, while one representative will be named for the entire grade school. Votes may be cast for the various candidates at the rate of 1c each, with each class campaigning for its representative.

At the height of the evening's hilarity, the queen will be named, following which coronation ceremonies will be held, with the runners-up as members if the queen's court. Classes will meet this week to place their choices in the field.

An invitation to any local organization to enter a booth at the carnival was extended this week, with Lester Rogers in charge of the booth arrangements. Part of the proceeds from the booths will go into the P. T. A. fund, it was stated.

Texico Faculty Play Given Friday Night

"Calm Yourself, a farcical comedy in three acts, was presented by the Texico faculty, in the auditorium of the school on Friday evening of last week, with a good crowd in attendance.

A. D. McDonald, as the grumpy, anything-but-calm father, practically stole the show from under the noses of the love interest in the play, in his apt characterization of a sarcastic, cynical, disgusted "papa."

Taking the part at the last minute, due to the illness of E. T. Williams, Chester Cranfill, local ex-student, also did exception work in the attraction, portraying the part of an effected artist visiting his admiring public.

Proceeds from the affair amounted to $37.70, which will go toward paying for the school piano, purchased last year. Officials this week extended their appreciation to patrons for their attendance.

The name Kattegat, now in the news, means "cat's throat" in Scandinavian.

Father Dies While on Visit To Daughter

T. H. Hankins, age 67, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Martin, three miles northwest of Texico, Monday morning, while on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Martin.

He came here last Saturday from Amarillo, with the intention of remaining only a few days on a visit. He had been in ill health for some time.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ in Clovis, Tuesday afternoon, with Minister Ebb Randol officiating. Burial was made in the Clovis cemetery, under the direction of the Steed Mortuary.

He is survived by an only daughter, Mrs. W. E. Martin, in whose home death occurred.

First Frost of Winter Hits This Region

This region of the Plains experienced its first frost of the winter on Monday night, following a day of high winds and billowing dust from the north, which quieted at sundown.

Reports indicate the frost was rather light in most of this immediate section, and was not considered a general killing freeze. Farmers agree, however, that no damage was done to crops since dry weather had already done its work.

Red Cross Pharmacy Enlarging Business

Carpenters began work early Tuesday in making enlargements in the quarters now occupied by the Red Cross Pharmacy in Texico.

An additional room, which will be 12x24, is being cut off from the large room formerly occupied by the dry goods department of Triplett Brothers, and will be included in the drug store quarters.

LeRoy Faville, store manager, said the new room would be occupied by the prescription department, and also used for storage.

The section of the store now used for the prescription department will be converted into a room to be exclusively for gifts and novelties.

Texico Teachers Will Attend State Meeting

Members of the Texico school faculty will depart early next Thursday, October 24, for Santa Fe, to be in attendance at the New Mexico Educational Association gathering, Supt. L. A. Hartley has stated.

An extensive program, taking in all phases of curricular and extra-curricular work, has been arranged, with outstanding speakers being imported for the occasion, the local superintendent has been informed. Governor John E. Miles will also be a guest speaker at the convention.

The local school students will be dismissed on Wednesday evening, October 23, for the remainder of the week.

HAVE CAR ACCIDENT

Frank Seale, acting supervisor of the local FSA office, and Miss Wynona Swepton, home supervisor, were involved in a car accident last Friday night, north of Friona. Mr. Seale and Miss Swepton had been attending a club meeting in the Rhea community, and were headed for Friona, when they hit a sharp curve, left the road, and overturned. The car, a Ford belonging to Mr. Seale, was badly smashed, but the two occupants sustained only minor bruises and gashes.

Local Church Reports "Everything in Full"

Rev. E. J. Sloan, pastor of the local Methodist church, will be able to maintain the reputation of the local church when he reports "everything in full" at the meeting of the annual conference in Tucumcari next week.

The financial budget of the church, amounting to more than $2,000, was declared "in hand" at the final meeting of the church officials held on Tuesday night.

"This is very gratifying, and we are deeply grateful to the membership and friends of the church in making this report possible," B. N. Graham, chairman of the board of stewards, announced.

So far as is known at the present, Rev. Sloan, who has served the local congregation the past two years, will be returned here another year. "I know of no reason why I shall not be back another year," Rev. Sloan stated last Sunday. Officials and members collective have expressed themselves as agreeable to his return for another year.

GOT THEIR DOES

Wesley Osborne and A. L. Tandy returned home Friday from a deer hunting trip to Colorado, each of them bringing back a doe. They were not fortunate enough to make connections with a buck during the week they spent in the Gunnison National Forest.

GINNING REPORT

Only 13 bales of the 1940 Parmer county cotton crop had been ginned up to Oct. 1, according to the Census Report of the Department of Commerce, released today. The same report shows that 122 bales had been ginned up to Oct. 1, last year. Bailey county has ginned 701 bales this year, as compared to 279 at the same time last year.

Friona Chiefs Defeat Farwell for First Time in Past Four Years

Proving their superiority in no uncertain manner, the Friona Chiefs went on a rampage over the Farwell Steers the past Friday night, by blanking the locals out to the decisive score of 21-0, in the first Chieftain-Steer clash of the season.

Taking the ball on the opening kickoff, the Chiefs ran roughshod over the Farwell line and secondary defense to score without ever releasing the ball, with Johnson, right half, totting the ball through center for the first counter of the evening. A pass, from Barker to J. L. Weis, added the extra point.

Taking a deep breath, the Steers pulled themselves together and drove to the Friona 38, where a stubborn Chieftain line held on down, and a fluke kick gave the ball to Friona on her own 30. Advancing to midfield, the Chiefs were temporarily halted when Brand, Steer back, intercepted a pass, but on the second play, a Farwell fumble went into the hands of Southall, and the Chiefs were off again.

Two passes, from Barker to Weis, placed the Friona team in scoring position, with Weis then passing to Stevick in the end zone. A blocked kick, by White, halted the trial for extra point, but a Friona backfield man grabbed the bouncing ball and toted it across the line, to make the score 14-0.

In the third quarter, Farwell fans got a split-second thrill, when Royal put a pass squarely into the hands of Hughes on the Farwell 40, Hughes then breaking into the clear for a spectacular run. However, the cheers turned to groans when Hughes, thinking he was in the end zone, stopped, was tackled from behind, lost the ball, and Friona recovered on her own 20.

The third and last score of the evening was chalked up for Friona in the latter part of the third session, when they recovered a fumble on the Farwell 20, and then sent Barker swooping around right end for a touchdown. Stevick took the ball over center for the extra point.

Outweighed and outplayed in every phase of the game, the local team was also plagued by misfortune. The players consistently fumbled, and the usual excellent pass-attack was shattered by alert Friona players.

Schmidt, Friona end, played one of the best games of the evening, taking his passes from Barker with amazing accuracy and gaining on almost every play, as well as dropping the Farwell ball carriers a good deal of the time. Weis, Stevick and Barker, in the backfield, did most of the ball lugging for Friona.

For Farwell, Hughes proved the usual outstanding performer, doing the only consistent ground-gaining and nailing the majority of Friona men, while Royal refused to be rattled by the rushing Friona defense and did nice pass work. Acker, center for the locals, probably took the worst punishment from the strong Friona line, and sent off several bad passes from center. Dotson, in the backfield, was removed in the second quarter, due to a rib injury, and recruit Brand dropped in the backfield to do good work.

This was the first time in four years that Farwell has fallen before the Chiefs, having "skunked" them the last four times the teams have met. In 1939, the locals won 43-0; in 1938, two games were played, ending 12-0 and 69-0; in 1937, the teams were not matched; in 1936 the locals took Friona 20-0; and in 1940, Friona won, 21-0.

Organization of the Parmer County Selective Service Board has been completed, and will begin the task of selecting the men from this county who will be called for military training, on Thursday of this week.

Members of the board, as announced by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel the latter part of last week are: C. E. McLean, Friona, chairman; W. H. Graham, Farwell, secretary; and Roy White of Lazbuddy.

Offices have been opened on the third floor of the Parmer county court house, and Tulon G. White, of Lazbuddy, has been named as clerk of the board and will be in charge of the office.

Members of the Parmer county board went to Amarillo last Friday, to attend a set-up meeting, where they heard the workings of the selective service boards explained by a member of the State board, who was sent to Amarillo for that purpose.

Ready to Register

Meanwhile, the machinery for the registration of all men within the military age limits in Parmer county was announced as "ready" by County Clerk E. V. Rushing, here today.

Mr. Rushing said that sufficient clerks had been obtained throughout the county to carry forward the work without delay. Some of the precincts have arranged for a double-shift of clerks, so that it will not be necessary for one force to be on duty from seven a. m. till late at night.

Registration of all men within the draft age is going forward on a nation-wide scale today (Wednesday).

The Selective Service Boards (commonly known as Draft Boards) will not begin operations until Thursday morning of this week, when the county clerk will turn over to this board the cards of those registering on Thursday.

Officials of the local board said today that as yet complete details as to their duties had not been received from the state office, but all necessary instructions were expected to be in hand by Thursday, when the board begins the classification of those registered.

It has been estimated that Parmer county will have between four and five hundred men who will come within the military age to be registered in the county. What percentage of this number will actually be called into military training will not be known here for several weeks, in the opinion of members of the Selective Service Board.

Sam Aldridge, local attorney, has been named as a member of the Advisory Board of the 69th Judicial District. His duties will be to assist men in filling out their questionnaires, in connection with the functions of the program.

"There will be no exemptions in this selective service program, but there will be deferments," it has been officially announced.

German Troops March Into Rumania To Protect Oil Supply From British; U. S. Army Tanks Delivered to Canada; Chamberlain Leaves Britain's Cabinet

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

THE WAR:
Whither, Hitler?

It really looked as if the German invasion of England was called off for the season. The fogs were getting worse, and the channel was getting stormier. The German flat-boats along the Franco-Flemish coastline had taken an awful hammering from the royal air force, and that seemed to be that.

The low-down was simply this: The Germans had gone through France, like a knife through a hunk of over-ripe cheese. It surprised everybody, including the Germans themselves. They had expected victory—but only after a much harder fight than they got. Hence, when they landed on the French and Flemish coasts, they were far, far ahead of schedule, and totally unprepared for any proper invasion of the British isles. The net result has been the aerial duel that has raged all over western Europe. The hammer of Thor is battering the British anvil, but to what ultimate purpose, none can tell.

But if invasion of England was not under way, Hitler's troops were by no means idle. For from Bucharest came word that German troops had entered Rumania. Berlin sources confirmed this news and readily explained the purpose of the infiltration. They said that oil and gasoline supplies are essential to the Nazi war machine and that they had heard rumors of an English plot to sabotage these supplies.

Rumania's government, now under control of the dictator Ion Antonescu, had earlier charged that British oil men with interests in Rumania had plotted to blow up oil fields. There was some indication, too, that the Nazi soldiers would be used in training Rumanian troops and would also assist in building a large naval and air base on the Black sea.

Italo

Meanwhile, the Italians had bogged down in Egypt. They had invaded the land of the Pharos from their own Libyan colony, next door, and were proceeding along the coast. Their ultimate objective was the Suez canal, England's trap-door at the eastern end of the Mediterranean. But, it appears, the Italians did not do so well. The Germans began to take over the direction of the Egyptian campaign. It was rumored that the Nazis would "winter in Egypt," while the Goering flying circus continued to make Hitler-hush out of London. It was believed that if the Germans really went to work in Egypt, they would perhaps clean up the place, and the Suez canal, too. Egypt itself, supposedly an English ally, like Turkey, another English ally, continued to be a neutral.

NEVILLE: Chamberlain

Neville Chamberlain finally left the British cabinet. Winston Churchill had taken away his premiership last May, but Chamberlain's pale ghost had lingered on in the cabinet. Then Chamberlain had a serious operation, for an intestinal obstruction, and his health visibly slowed up after that. His retirement had been expected for some time. Chamberlain was also the official leader of the powerful Conservative party, which has a heavy majority in parliament. This had been an added tower of strength to the so-called "great appeaser."

Chamberlain and Churchill had always been unfriendly. The former was a typical Nineteenth-century Victorian (rather of the Tory type) while the other tends to be a dashing, reckless cross between the Eighteenth and the Twentieth centuries (more the aristo-democratic liberal type). Churchill used to call Chamberlain (so the story goes) —"the undertaker from Birmingham."

Labor

Ernest Bevin, a radical Labor man, was admitted to the inner British war cabinet. Bevin had been the engineering brain behind the terrific British general strike, back in 1926, which very nearly succeeded. His executive, driving genius has been an important factor in the present war, and people spoke of him as Churchill's future successor. If Bevin did actually succeed Churchill, it would mean some sort of social revolution in England, and the Tories realize this. But Labor is getting more and more of its members into the British government, Hugh Dalton and Herbert Morrison being two of the other "pink" up-and-comers.

ASIA:

Trouble Ahead?

Events in the Orient worried U. S. State Department officials to the point of informing consulates in China, Manchukuo, French-Indo-China and Japan, that American citizens within those territories should return to this country as soon as possible. Especial emphasis was placed on the early departure of all women and children and men in non-essential posts.

Approximately 9,000 white Americans live within the affected zone, plus some 2,000 Chinese-Americans and Japanese-Americans.

Most of the German tanks are Suhls, made in central Thuringia. It was an old Jewish concern. The French tanks were chiefly Renaults, the Italian tanks were Fiat, and the British machines (mostly lost at Dunkirk) were products of the Birmingham Small Arms company, commonly known as B. S. A. A large part of the new American tankage will be Chrysler-built. Russian tanks are B. S. A.'s, or else come from the Red Putilov works in Leningrad.

RUSSIA:

What Now?

Russia was of great interest for several reasons. One reason was this: It looked as if the Washingtonian state department would be forced to woo the Soviets, due to the squabbles with Japan in the Far East, and the Jap-German axis agreement. This was an all-round headache for a large and influential section of the American people, both religious and business-minded.

Lavish and Unique Use of Fur Is Important Fashion Message

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR drama and glamour, watch furs and fur treatments. It is an exciting story. Interest lies not only in the fact that the types of furs in use are so widely varied but in the capricious, whimsical out-of-the-ordinary treatments that designers give them. This adds a new and fascinating touch to fall and winter coats, suits and even dresses. Almost everything is being lavished with fur this season. Voguish long-coat costumes are especially richly enhanced with fur.

You can have as much or as little fur as you like on your winter ensemble. The "big idea" is that it must be applied with cunning ingenuity and artistry.

Much is being said in regard to the outstanding importance of brown furs. Brown on black is especially favored. It is brown beaver that enriches the handsome coat of black suede-like wool shown to the right in the picture. There is a generous collar of fur. The novelty of the fur treatment begins in the wide beaver circular-cut ruffle that ripples its way down one side and all around the hemline. Dramatic and exceedingly swank and new is the large beaver-faced felt hat which milady wears. To complete this wealth of fur there is a matching muff for muffs have been listed among the "must have" items for fall and winter.

Speaking of novel and almost eccentric use of fur, the prize for originality and daring should go to the designers of headgear. The display of hats made of fur out-imagines wildest fancy this season. The fall and winter output of millinery created of fur exceeds all previous records. In matter of turbans, imagination plays up to a new high in originality and out-of-the-ordinary effects. In every instance almost without exception there is an accompanying fur hat to match the fur on one's costume. The wide brims faced with fur are creating a sensation.

One of the new moves in fur trimmings is to elaborate the entire front of the cloth coat. The gesture is aptly expressed in the handsome coat centered in the picture. The tuxedo fronts are generously furred with all possibility of bulkiness removed in that there is a full-length zipper closing. And isn't the little fabric bow at the throat clever?

Pockets are another of the fur themes that intrigues the fancy. An example of the existing pocket vogue is presented in the costume suit shown to the left in the group. The dress with its neatly gored skirt is of handsome gray wool. With it a bloused jacket is worn of gray sheared lamb, supplemented with huge pockets of matching fur on the skirt. Here is a fur-enhanced jacket suit that is to be coveted. Wherever the wearer goes, it is sure to attract attention.

No report as to what's what in fur on the current style program is complete without a few enthusiastic remarks in regard to the tremendous vogue that exists for spotted furs, most notably leopard and civet cat. The younger set is especially keen on the spotted fur subject. As a spectator-sports number, the coat worn by the girl pictured in the inset is a star in the firmament of smart casuals. This coat of civet cat is typical of what college girls want for general outdoor wear. It has polished metal clasps to fasten it in this instance. Huge taffeta bows tied at the neckline are also popular. You really should have at least a dash of spotted fur somewhere about your winter costume if you are young and fashion-aspiring.

Riot Red Accents

And now it is riot red that is creating a big collegiate stir. For that high-style rating, the college lass pictured is majoring in riot red. This new color accent starts right at her finger tips (riot red polish is very popular), continues in the lining of her Teddy-bear jacket, goes on and up into the knitted helmet with its bright brass buttons, and repeats in the wool pouch that holds her pencils and her change. Ask for riot red when buying accessories. If you want to know, riot red is a clear dark red, sophisticated, and as young as the casual styles that are causing a collegiate sensation this season.

Fabric Combination
New Styling Theme

It is growing increasingly apparent that designers intend to make a big play on fabric combinations. The newer coats and dresses feature velvet and now-so-voguish velveteen. They are used either for trimming touches or in fifty-fifty combination with wools, velvets and other materials.

Some cloth coats have long rever panels of velveteen down the front. Other cloth coats are piped or bound with velvet, adding buttons covered with matching velvet. Very unique and strikingly attractive is a coat of velveteen that is bordered each side down the front and opening with black suede. When carried out in a warm maple brown velveteen with matching suede, the idea is very effective.

Long-Coat Costume Suits Have Dignity

Quiet simplicity that stresses elegance of material and the idea that "beauty unadorned is adorned the most" is the new trend this season. The new costume suit has gained almost immediate popularity. It has a long matching coat without fur or other enhancement, except possibly a little braiding or stitching, or sometimes even a restrained quilted motif.

Best dressed women are starting the season with the long dressmaker-black coat topped with an important looking wide brimmed felt or suede hat.

ONE day there came a letter with a rough sketch of the old rocker at the upper right. The last line of the letter said, "I will remove the rockers if you say so, Mrs. Spears, but I would like to keep them." Well, why not? There is nothing smarter now than things Victorian. Old oil lamps with flowered globes are being wired for electricity so, why not redesign this rocker along simple lines? Cover it with plain rep in a nice shade of blue perhaps, and give it a matching foot stool and a hem stitched linen chair set all tricked out in tassels?

Here is the result of that idea and the diagram shows all the steps that led up to it. Almost any old chair may be transformed with a slip cover if a little work is done first to build out or to saw off projections. Padding is also important, and open spaces under arms may be covered by stretching the padding tightly and tacking, as shown here.

Says:

WAR BASIS FOR INDUSTRY?

Some of my columnar war crying colleagues say that American industry ought to be put on a war basis right now. Their argument is that one reason why France fell was that, under a peace structure, she could not mobilize her industry for war production, had to declare war to pep up the nation and did it all leisurely and far too late. They say also that "business as usual" kept England from getting ready soon enough and, finally, they point to the snail-like slowness of our present rearmament program.

With all that about France, England and our slow progress, I agree. Perhaps I could agree also with the conclusion about putting our industry on a "war basis," if I knew what the words mean—or if they did. Of that I am in doubt.

If it means that American industry should now be put under industrial amateurs, I know of no more certain way to slow or even paralyze war production. If it means that we should get some dynamic and experienced leadership of the industrial war effort and give it appropriate authority, no comment was ever more significant—or more correct.

That kind of leadership and administration would not, however, as some of this comment suggests, be obliged just to set all peace-time production aside in a kind of adjournment to make way for our war needs. There is plenty of industrial capacity in this country for both needs.

Our industry needs an orchestra leader with a real baton who can keep it in harmony and rhythm for the new tune—but it doesn't need to be chained to the benches of any slave galley with a sort of romanized Simon Legree to increase the stroke with a cat-o'-nine-tails.

Our trivial World war experience may be informing. Our speedup of shipbuilding, both of merchant and warcraft, approached the miraculous. Charlie Schwab had charge of part of it. In a plant where all parts of a fabricated ship were being assembled and the engine department was far ahead of the co-ordinated schedule for it and other departments, he took time out for a short picnic for the workers in the yards.

There were no speeches but, when the time for them came, Charlie pulled a surprise—the complete engine, mounted on truck wheels, gay with flags and preceded by a band came rolling out under a large transparency which read, "All dressed up and no place to go." That plant speeded up production immediately.

Is the rearmament program proceeding rapidly? Sidney Hillman of the national defense advisory commission "advises that no manufacturer who violates the labor laws can be 'awarded' a contract for work on the defense program and that the National Labor Relations board will decide, for this purpose, whether or not an employer is 'violating.'"

There are now only two members of NLRB, Leiserson and Smith. The term of Chairman Madden has expired. Due to protests based on charges of his bias and unfairness the President has not reappointed him. The vacancy has existed for weeks. Some observers guess that the President wants to wait until after the election and then reappoint Madden. Smith and Leiserson agree on very few disputed points. Smith is an extreme left-winger—like Madden. Leiserson is middle-of-the-road. What they can't agree on is put on ice until appointment of a third member with the deciding vote.

Over in the selective service draft system, although the new organization is under way, no administrator has been appointed. Some mysterious inner pressures—probably the senile war-minded Stimson—prevented a solution of this problem which was perfection—the experienced and judicious veteran of the World War draft, Gullion, for administrator—the young, expert and vigorous Hershey as its chief executive. Either alone would have been satisfactory. The team couldn't have been bettered.

As in NLRB, no responsible head has been appointed. Hershey has been "detailed" to go through in an "acting" capacity.

In the name of mere mediocrity, why? The big job in the draft is the beginning—setting up the selective service system and selling it to the people. That requires experience, expertness—even genius. After that it is a routine mechanical job. This beginning also requires some prestige or position in the administrator. It certainly requires unquestioned authority and full responsibility.

THERE is one thing to be said about the Yankees. As a team, win or lose, they have been the most consistent machine of all time. They came up and ruled the game for four years—as a team.

When they crashed—they fell apart as a team.

No one can look back on the campaign of 1940 and pick out any Yankee goats. Not one goat or two goats or three goats.

They rose and fell together. It was a general and widespread disintegration. Their pitching fell far off from old time form. Their hitting took a terrific slump. Their once almost miraculous defense developed leaks, fore and aft.

No one can throw the blame on Bill Dickey, Red Ruffing, Lefty Gomez, Joe Gordon, Red Rolfe, Frank Crosetti or Joe DiMaggio.

They all hit the soapy chute, head and head, arm in arm.

Part of this was physical. Part of it was psychological. Part of it was the iron shod turn of nature.

There is no such thing as perpetual motion—upward or downward. Life is so constructed that one learns more from defeat than from victory.

This is an invaluable law of compensation. If it weren't that way, what an upside-down existence this would be.

The Yankees, on one side, were assailed by a physical downward drifting—Dickey, Ruffing, Gordon, Gomez and others—stars who had been factors in their phenomenal supremacy.

They were attacked on another side by too much success. They were rated 3 to 5 shots against the field as the 1940 season opened. They were kick-ins. This was bound to have a bad effect on the entire team. I mean psychologically.

Explaining the Why

I have been asked over and over how an entire team could hit the gravel road in a bunch.

It wasn't just a matter of three or four important cogs through the first three months—but Dickey, Ruffing, Gomez, Gordon, Rolfe, Crosetti, Sundra—to mention only a few.

In the first place, don't forget that the Yankee battery of Ruffing and Dickey was one of the greatest in baseball along with Mathewson and Bresnahan—Johnson and Streit—Brown and Kling—Grove and Cochran—Waddell and Shreck—Alexander and Killifer—on and on.

DiMaggio remained the leading factor through the team's last desperate charge before most of the cast fell apart.

Bill Dickey has been a major factor for many years. He is a 12-year veteran back of the plate. Dickey is the only catcher in history who ever drove in more than 100 runs four years.

Red Ruffing has been one of the most effective pitchers in the old clutch year after year. But Red finished with a bad arm after the last World Series and he has never been the old Red since.

In fact, one of the smartest baseball experts, I happen to know, still believes that if the Reds had won that fourth game in Cincinnati—which they had bottled up—they might easily have won the series.

How? Because Ruffing and Gomez and Pearson all had bad arms and were useless the remainder of the route.

The Fire Spreads

Here was the triple battery—Ruffing and Dickey—Gomez and Dickey—Pearson and Dickey—that largely through wear and tear—the drift of the years—lost a good part of its effectiveness. From here the fire began to spread to batting eyes. The Yankees demonstrated their old time thunder with the war club, here and there.

But all you need do is look at the batting averages, compared to a year ago.

Buddy Rosar and Henrich and Selkirk held their own—or better. Rosar has turned in a fine assisting job.

But no team can have such men as Dickey, Ruffing, Gomez, Pearson, Gordon, Keller and Crosetti take such a dip and still keep winning.

Not against such teams as Detroit and Cleveland, who had both the pitching and the hitting, and who were removed from the old Yankee shadow.

Looking Them Over

Dick Bartell helped to make the Tiger infield. Hank Greenberg again was a major factor at bat, plus high-class work in the field.

Schoolboy Rowe came back with a rush—and Buck Newsom was one of the star pitchers of the year.

Charlie Gehringer may be slipping after long and brilliant service, but he is still a great ball player.

Cleveland in Bob Feller has one of the great pitchers of all time—one who may finish as the greatest if the army doesn't "interfere."

When one Norwegian meets another they can't always hold a conversation. Norway has two separate languages, which are entirely different. In Viking days all Scandinavians spoke the same language. But as the land split up into different countries languages altered. Norway was a Danish colony from 1397 to 1814, and Danish was spoken. In 1814 Norway broke away and insisted on a language of her own. Ivar Aasen, a Norwegian scholar, compiled a language called Landsmaal, based on the old Scandinavian tongue. The rival Norwegian language based on Danish is called Rimskaal. The two languages have equal status, and a citizen has been free to learn either or both.

Mount Fujiyama

In Japanese legend, Mt. Fujiyama, recently renamed Huzi by official decree, came into being as a result of a quarrel between the mountain goddess, Fuji-San, and the other Nipponese deities. The goddess, in one night, set up this mighty peak, 12,300 feet high, where she could live in peace and solitude. Despite its regular eruptions, its height caused it to become a sacred symbol in Japanese life of all that is lofty and beautiful. It is also regarded as a source of good luck.—Pathfinder.

HALLOWE'EN Tables Feature Gaiety

... but the refreshments themselves can be simple to prepare and to serve

By Dorothy Greig

A FRIEND once remarked that when a hostess has "bubble" her party is a success. She herself exemplifies that quality, for if anyone ever sparkled with genuine delight at entertaining friends, it is this same woman. Her joyousness is as cheery as a hearth flame. Even the shyest of guests soon shines in its radiance. Halloween is one party at which it is easy for hostess and guest alike to "bubble". Halloween affairs are gayer than most. The fun runs quick and deliciously goofy.

The hot casserole with Egg Face Top is the special feature of these Halloween refreshments.

For refreshments set your table up buffet style, with bright paper tablecloth and colorful paper plates and cups. (And after the party no dishes to wash. Whoops! I feel gay at the mere thought of that!) Let's have one hot dish, a big casserole; for the rest, simple fare and coffee—oh, much coffee, black, hot and fragrant.

The casserole with its amusing egg faces is made this way:

Halloween Casserole with Egg Face Top

- 1 can (15 oz.) tuna fish
- 2 cans condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup stuffed olives, sliced
- 1/2 lb. potato chips (for lining casserole)
- 5 eggs, hard-cooked

Put the tuna fish in a strainer and pour hot water over it to take off the excess oil. Empty the condensed cream of mushroom soup into a saucepan and stir well. Then add milk, cream, tuna fish, and sliced olives. Line a shallow casserole dish with the potato chips and put potato chips around the sides of casserole. Pour the tuna fish with sauce into casserole, arrange egg faces in the top and bake in moderate oven (350°) for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

Egg Faces (for top of casserole)

- 5 eggs, hard-cooked
- 4 tablespoons cream, heavy
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Pinch of pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 3 ripe olives
- 1/2 pimiento

Remove yolks from hard-cooked eggs and mash well with a fork. Then add cream, seasonings and dry mustard and mix well. Stuff mixture back into the egg white, and use triangular piece of pimiento for the nose and small pieces of ripe olives for eyes and mouth.

Blueprint Service Is Offered Farm People

COLLEGE STATION—Farm people who are planning to build anything from a chicken coop to a new home may now have the help of a comprehensive publication in making their selections.

The publication, M. P. 360, "Plans of Farm Buildings for the Southern States", was compiled by extension agricultural engineers of the states listed and issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Copies are now in the hands of county agricultural agents.

From M. P. 360, farm people may select the type of building they want from the great number of sketches shown. After the selection is made, the county agent will order the blueprints from the Texas A. & M. Extension Service.

With the exception of a few of the dairy barns, cattle shelters and poultry houses, all the plans shown in M. P. 360 are well adapted to Texas conditions, according to M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer.

Blueprints of the dairy barns, cattle shelters and poultry houses that are recommended for Texas, as well as for sweet potato storage houses, and others not shown in the USDA publication, may also be secured free from county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

CHECKING NEARS COMPLETION

COLLEGE STATION—With the exception of a few late conservation practices, performance checking under the 1940 AAA program has been completed.

Crews are still at work in several sections of the state measuring newly-constructed terraces and acreage planted to winter legumes, and checking a few other practices which can be carried out in the fall, according to E. N. Holmgreen, state administrative officer of the AAA.

In December compliance checking of winter wheat and early vegetables in areas having vegetable allotments will get under way, the administrator said.

Meanwhile, aerial photography work is continuing, with six planes flying whenever weather permits in various sections of the state.

WING BOOK REPORTS

Most of the Seniors are starting the year off right, by giving book reports now. The book list is overflowing with interesting books, and most of us are taking advantage of this fact, by reading all the books we can.

Some of the books on which reports have been made are: Jane Eyre, Five Minute Biographies, An Evening With Lincoln, Goodbye, Mr. Chips; How to Win Friends and Influence People; Hunchback of Notre Dame; We Who Are About To Die; The Crisis; Gone With the Wind; Madame Curie; Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde; In Little America with Admiral Byrd; Life of Pasteur; Two Years Before the Mast; The Alaskan; Jeremy, Sorrel and Son; Monsieur Beaucaire; Action at Aquila; Ben Hur.

EXAMS BRING GROANS

Study—Study—Study. What's this all about? This is what everyone has been doing for the last two weeks; studying for our first six weeks exams. Most students will go around this week with a smile (we hope) or a frown. Anyway we can tell who will pass.

Why, oh why, do we always wait until just in time for exams to study? If we would get it as we went along, we would not have to cram at the very last. I am going to start trying it and I think it will work.

—FHS—

We have had a few absentees during these first six weeks; but most of them have been justifiable, as many of the boys are having to help with crops at home.

We hope to have fewer absentees during the remainder of the year.

FOOTBALL FLASHES

Despite the fact that the Steers did not make as good a showing Friday night with Friona, as they did with Dimmitt (32-0) and Melrose (13-6) they are looking with determination to winning Friday. They are playing Whitharrel on Farwell field. Little is known of this team, since they have never played here, but the boys think they will be evenly matched.

Despite the injuries some of the boys received at Friona, all will be ready for action Friday.

The Steers have played only one conference game (Dimmitt), which they won by a large margin. The game this week will not be a conference game.

Although the line weight average of Farwell is only 156, the speed they have shown in former games matches them with all but the heaviest teams. As this is the first game of the season on the Farwell gridiron, everyone is urged to attend the game.

BEWARE! THE DETENTION HALL

Everybody had better watch himself, or he will be caught by that menace—The Demerit. Then he will be carted off to that torture room, the inevitable detention hall! Some of these evil, alias demerits, are for offenses such as chewing gum, whistling, throwing, talking, pestering girls, etc. Those are minor offenses, while cursing, or leaving school without permission, are major offenses. These are said to be accompanied by a padding. So students, beware the detention hall!!

—FHS—

TO REARRANGE DEPARTMENT

The H. E. II class has been making plans for rearranging both the sewing and cooking rooms of the H. E. department, so they will be more convenient. The sewing room has been divided into a study unit, and a living and dining room unit.

The kitchen is to be rearranged because we need more room badly. The pantry is to be cleaned and completely rearranged. The supply cabinet is to be changed also. Several pieces of furniture have been moved into the sewing room. We need one more table very badly, and we have hopes of securing one very soon. As a whole, this change will likely save many steps and be much more convenient. We are sure each and every girl is going to enjoy this change.

LOCAL F. T. H. GIRLS GO TO AREA I MEETING

Ten members of the Farwell F. H. T. department, accompanied by their instructor, Miss Geraldine Walker, and Mrs. Gladys M. Murphy, were in Canyon, Saturday, attending the Area I conference, which was held at West Texas State College.

During the morning hour, the girls attended the general session in the auditorium, with the highlight of the program being a talk by Dr. J. A. Hill, president of WT, on the benefits and meaning of F. H. T. organizations.

A group discussion, on "F. H. T., A Factor in the Defense of our Country", was then held, after which the group adjourned to the college home-making department, where they were served a buffet luncheon.

Clyde W. Warwick opened the afternoon session, bringing greetings from the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, and expressing the city's pride at being host to the large group. The Floydada chapter was in charge of initiation services at the session.

A tour of inspection was then held, with the visitors being conducted through the college home management house, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, Randal Cooperative Hall, Cousin's Hall (girls' dormitory) and Stafford Hall (boys' dormitory).

During the business session of the day, a number of plans for the future were mapped out.

For instance, for country goers or walkers in the park on brisk autumn days, the August Harper's Bazaar features among other styles the black and white wool shepherd check, a velveteen collar on the jacket, patch pockets and a red leather belt. High white socks clocked in red, are much less trying with such a short skirt.

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by officious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Pagets'. The Ferriters include Lyon and Everett, and their sister, Lona. Everett, a genealogist, is helping Agatha Paget write a book about her blue-blooded ancestors. Inside the apartment they find a black-bearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive.

"It wasn't completed," Shannon replied. "If it had been we'd have been here an hour sooner. He was calling Police Headquarters when he was killed."

He plumped into his chair as though the weight of jumbled facts had pushed him over.

"From three-thirty on, there was someone in the hall all the while?"

"I think so. I left Higgins there when I brought Miss Paget upstairs. Hoyt was there when I went down again."

"And neither of them saw anyone go out," he snarled like the victim of a practical joke. "And you didn't?"

"No."

He jumped up and began to walk the room, his jaw hard. Miss Agatha, leaning forward in her chair, watched him with the interest of a spectator at play.

"Could anyone leave without passing through the foyer?" Shannon threw at me.

"There's the fire escape," I suggested, "or the dumb-waiter."

"Thanks," he said savagely. "The fire escape hasn't been used in months. I happened to think of that. And the dumb-waiter rope broke this morning and that tub of lard Higgins hasn't fixed it yet. Yet somebody stabbed that guy next door and got away. How?"

"Stabbed him with what?" I asked and only made him angrier.

"If I knew," he squalled, "I'd not be suffering here. A knife, you goof. A knife that was in this."

He darted to the desk and held a leather sheath, blackened by long wear, up before me.

"Ever see that before?" he demanded and, scarcely waiting for my denial, plunged on. "We found this under Blackbeard's armpit—empty. Where's the knife? Gone with the murderer."

The hands he ran so frantically through his reddish gray hair seemed at last to control his mind. He asked me suddenly:

"Higgins had a key to that flat?"

"Yes."

"Anyone else beside the Ferriters?"

"I don't think so."

"Higgins says not," he growled.

"Higgins goes in and messes up that phone receiver with his big paws until there's not a clear fingerprint on it. Wait a minute."

His eyes sparkled.

"Where was Higgins when you took that call?"

I saw Miss Agatha shift a little in her chair, start to speak and check herself. I said:

"Upstairs on the elevator."

"Doing what?"

I kept all feeling out of my voice.

"He said he was fixing the water tank on the roof."

"You can go," Shannon decided.

"Jake, bring that big beef back here."

Miss Agatha said mildly as I rose:

"Timothy was on the fourth floor I'm certain, Captain."

"Sure he was," he agreed. "I just want to see if anyone saw him there."

He was pacing the floor again and the old lady was smiling oddly as Jake led me out. I felt Miss Agatha would confide in Shannon when I was gone.

Hoyt was on the elevator. He looked at me hard but said nothing while Jake took me downstairs. Higgins was arguing with a half-dozen men in the foyer and getting nowhere. I could tell they were reporters and the sight of them made me homesick. Higgins looked worse than I felt when Jake led him back to the car. His face was gray and his eyes made me think of a steer in a slaughterhouse chute. I waited by the elevator shaft till Hoyt came down again. With him was a policeman who shooed the reporters off the settees and out of the door. I followed Eddie over to the switch-board.

"You don't think," I asked and the words sounded foolish, "that Higgins is tied up in this thing?"

"Be your age," Hoyt advised me and then grinned. "The big boy looks sick, don't he?"

"That's what made me wonder."

"Look," Eddie muttered. "You know that smart little trick on the fourth floor—Mrs. Arnold's maid? Well, Mrs. Arnold's out this afternoon and Mrs. Higgins is away till tomorrow. And two and two makes—"

"Ah-hah!" I said.

"Right," Hoyt agreed. "Higgins has got an alibi, all right, but I think they'll have to tear it out of him. That's why he looks so sick."

"Well," I told him, "an alibi is an alibi."

A half-hour went by. A couple of the homicide men went away with their black satchels. A few indignant tenants worked through the blockade beyond the front door and hurried along the foyer talking to themselves. Eddie turned the car over to Boone of the night shift and went home, and Fineman, my relief, had just come in when Higgins came downstairs again.

He looked sick till he saw me and then he looked hearty once more.

"Hey," he called. "You. Come here."

I had been through a lot that afternoon and I suppose my mind had slowed up. I really thought he wanted to thank me for saying he had been on the roof, so when he spoke I stood and stared. His voice sounded as if he was afraid someone would overhear, but he could have been no angrier if he had screamed.

"You had your chance," he told me. "You didn't want it, eh? All right. I don't want you. Get your things and scram."

"Wait a minute," I stalled. "If you're canning me, what's it for?"

"After what I've been through upstairs," he wheezed and his big fists were clenched, "you've got the guts to ask that. Slandered me and a poor innocent girl, so ye did. You ought to thank me I'm just kicking you out into the gutter where you belong, instead of calling a cop."

His voice had got away from him. A blond young man—one of our tenants but I didn't know which—paused an instant and stared at us before he went into the elevator. He looked so sleek and handsome and without it. When you're my age, David, you'll take to the small veins remaining, as compensation for others you've missed. Have a drink?"

She looked toward a cellarette in the corner. I shook my head. Her sharply angled, eager face made me wonder whether the vitality denied her crippled legs had not flowed upward, to invigorate the rest of her. She took a long pull at her glass and wiped her lips on a lacy handkerchief.

"Grove," she began, "tells me you've been discharged."

I didn't know Grove but I said: "I have. I'm supposed to have bared the amours of the basement Casanova."

She gave her husky chuckle.

"It was I who bared them. Only a remarkable man could be wrong as often as Timothy."

She tinkled the ice in her glass, sipped it again and then looked straight at me.

"What are you going to do?"

"When you sent for me," I said, "I was just going to take a poke at Higgins."

The wrinkles about her eyes deepened.

"You quote Kenneth Grahame; you want to punch Timothy. What other recommendations have you?"

I did not understand. She prompted.

"You've been a reporter. What else can you do?"

I could not see where all this led, but I answered:

"I'm a fair blocking halfback and a good fencer. I also ride, swim and know a couple of card tricks."

"College, eh?"

I wondered if this was her idea of amusing herself.

"B. A.," I told her. "The diploma is in Omaha. I also had a Phi Beta key but I haven't now—there are rules against hoarding gold, you see. I can ransom my dress clothes though, if you feel you need a butler. They're in the trunk my former landlady is keeping for me. She insisted on it."

I had begun to feel like a laboratory specimen under her regard. It bothered me. When Miss Paget asked: "Would you care to work for me?" I shook my head.

"Kind of you," I told her, "but I think not. I've got relatives in Nebraska if I want charity."

I think that surprised her. She lit another cigarette.

"My boy," she said through a smoke cloud, "I'm beginning to understand why Higgins doesn't like you. It isn't charity. People I help have to work for what they get. Is that clear?"

It wasn't, but I nodded. She went on:

"I'm working, with Mr. Ferriter, on a genealogy of the Paget family. You've heard of the Pagets."

"Sorry," I said and hoped my denial would irk her. Instead she grinned and for an instant it seemed time had worn her old face so thin that a valiant spirit shone through the mask.

"Weren't you lucky," said Miss Agatha, "to have been raised in Nebraska? If you'll stop being suspicious, I've something to tell to you."

She finished her drink. Her eyes were bright and mocking.

"Paget, David, isn't just a family name. It's a religion—a very exclusive, comfortable religion. The only reason there wasn't a Paget on the Mayflower is that the ship had no royal suite. There aren't any D. A. R.'s or Sons of the Revolution among the Pagets. You see, the patriots were rather a mixed lot. I was raised in the fear of Pagetry and I'm doing a book about my forebears by way of reprisal. I need a man, preferably one who never heard of the Pagets, who can take what the heliotrope Mr. Ferriter digs up and write it. He can't—or he's afraid to."

"A genealogy is just a catalogue," I told her. "You won't need a writer."

"Wrong all the way," she told me briskly. "That's just what I do need. There's never been a genealogy like this one. I'm prying the highly polished veneer off Pagetry. I'm going to tell the story of a family that is full of cowards and scoundrels and hypocrites and cheats and sluggards—like your family, like all families. I'm going to give as much space to my ancestors' frailties as to their virtues. It'll be a big book."

Again she gave that robust chuckle. I asked, defensively, for I felt her sweeping me along:

"Who'll dare to publish it?"

"I will," she said, and her teeth bit through an invisible thread. "One copy for each of the Pagets. Most of them are too far gone for the truth to reach them, but I want my children to know all about Pagetry before they're much older. They aren't really my children, though I raised them. My brother and sister-in-law died when Grosvenor was thirteen and Allegra ten."

"Grove is working in a bond house for all he's worth—which is about half of what he gets. Allegra is too pretty to have brains, yet she has them. I want my book to keep them from going Paget. Every family should have a factual account of its ancestors, their weaknesses and follies and misdemeanors and felonies. The Pagets will be the first to get it. I don't want my youngsters to get the family delusion that just being a Paget is all that should be expected of anyone."

"I want my book to keep them from going Paget."

contented and so much else I was not, that the anger Higgins had kindled blazed up in me. I didn't even try to keep my voice down.

"You two-timing tomcat," I told him. "Go ahead and kick me out and we'll see who lands in the gutter first. Now get this, I never knew where you'd been this afternoon till I came down here. Now that I'm wise that leaves just one in the house who isn't—Mrs. Higgins!"

"Will you be still?" he asked in a hushed voice, and I knew from his eyes he was going to hit me.

"Go ahead," I invited. "There's plenty of reporters outside. It'll make a good story. The tabloids will have pictures, too. One of you in Wilson's uniform, maybe."

I waited. He stood still and at last opened his mouth.

I never found out what he was going to say for Fineman, at the switchboard, called:

"Hey, Mallory. You're wanted up in Three A right away."

"Don't bother to pack for me," I told Higgins. "I'll do it myself when I come down."

Boone, on the elevator, kept glancing at me as he took me up. Maybe I looked as sick as I felt. Anger is worse than liquor on an empty stomach.

They had closed the door of the Ferriter flat but there still was movement inside. I rang the Paget bell. The girl in uniform I'd seen in the hall while Miss Ferriter was screaming let me in. She led me down the hall and stood aside at an open door. I started to enter but astonishment stopped me. I could only stand on the threshold and stare without belief.

CHAPTER IV

Miss Agatha Paget laid a red ten on a black jack. A tall glass stood beside the cards on her table. A cigarette dangled from her lips. Through its smoke her eyes shone bright as the diamond pin at the throat of her black silk gown.

She should have been knitting instead of playing Canfield. The drink, the cards and the tobacco seemed as out of place as a cuspidor in church. She blew a cloud from her nose, ground out the cigarette on a tray, and nodded toward a chair.

"Come in, David," she said. "Sit down."

I obeyed. She held a card above the layout, placed it and then looked square at me.

"If that is an air of affronted piety," she told me, "I can get along

THE MESSAGE OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:3, 8-17, 21, 22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of repentance.—Luke 3:8.

Four centuries of silence! God made a loving appeal to His people through Malachi, the prophet (see lesson of June 23), but they failed to respond, and for about 400 years no prophet had appeared with an authoritative message from God. But now "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets" was ready in the "last days" to speak by "his Son" (Heb. 1:12).

Before the Lord should come, however, the prophet Isaiah (40:3-5) had declared that a voice was to come out of the wilderness to cry, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord." The great honor of that ministry did not fall upon the religious or political leaders mentioned in Luke 3:1, but "the word of God came unto John . . . in the wilderness." When God calls a preacher, something vital and interesting is about to happen.

I. The Preacher—His Call and Character.

It is significant that the call of God for this ministry passed by the mighty of Rome, which was politically powerful, holding sway over the world of its day. It is doubly significant that it passed by Jerusalem, the religious center of the Jewish nation. God was not looking for influence, prestige, or position. He was looking for a man, and He found him, though He had to seek him in the wilderness. Where is God's man for our day?

The character of John is revealed to us by Scripture as unique and rugged. He was a striking figure as he came suddenly out of the wilderness, but the outstanding qualification of John was that he was humble and obedient to God's will. Upon such a man the power of God may fall in all its fullness.

II. His Message—Its Nature and the Reaction (vv. 3, 8-14).

Repentance, as evidenced by baptism, this was John's word to his day. He did not grant them absolution from their sins, but in repentance they were to look forward to the cleansing from sin by the washing of the blood of Christ who was to come. John was the forerunner of Christ. His message of repentance was a preparation for the coming message of redemption.

The reaction of the people is expressed in the question, "What must we do?" Much more would be accomplished for Christ in our day if that were the response of people to the preaching of the truth. Instead of criticizing or commending the preacher, or the sermon, let us ask, "What shall I do about it?" and then let us do it.

The answer of John was that each one should, by his works, show the reality of his repentance in the details of his daily work and life. Of course, the all-important thing is that a man should believe in Christ, and by faith receive Him as Saviour, but that faith must show itself in daily living or it is meaningless, and, in fact, nonexistent. The world is full of those who need to answer our Lord's own question, "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6:46).

III. His Ministry to Jesus—the Baptism and Heavenly Response (vv. 15-17, 21, 22).

The forthright honesty and the humility of John appeared in his immediate correction of the people's mistaken idea that he was the Christ. He made clear that his baptism with water, indicating their change of mind concerning sin, would only have real meaning as the coming One—his Lord and ours—would change their natures by the baptism of fire and of the Spirit.

Jesus, who knew no sin of which to repent, took the place of a penitent sinner and was baptized by John. Thus He, the sinless One, entered upon His public ministry and His work of redemption by taking the place of fallen humanity. What infinite grace and condescension!

As He prayed, after John had baptized Him, the heavens opened and the Holy Spirit, taking the form of the gentle dove, rested upon Him. God the Father spoke forth heaven's estimate of our Saviour; He was declared to be the "beloved Son" of God, in whom the Father was "well pleased."

This attestation of His divinity and recognition of His spotless life and character was for Him, but not for Him alone. It speaks to us, even as it has spoken to all men through the centuries, of the One who is Saviour and Lord. "He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them. For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens" (Heb. 7:25, 26).

Refinishing Furniture.

QUESTION: How can table-tops of solid or veneer mahogany be treated for an oil finish, and for a glossy finish? What should be done to get a mahogany finish on table-tops that are not mahogany? Legs and other parts of the table are dark red, and the tops should match.

ANSWER: In any case, the finish should be removed to the bare wood, which can be done with liquid varnish remover. Do not allow the remover to drip on the legs and other parts. The remover is applied liberally, and allowed to stand for 20 minutes or so; the finish can then be taken off with a rough cloth and a scraper. The remover is inflammable, so take precautions against fire. This will take off the stain as well as the finish. Follow by washing with turpentine, and then, after drying, apply mahogany oil stain. Allow to soak in for a minute or two and then wipe off. Continue to apply stain in this way until you have reached the shade that you want. Allow to dry thoroughly.

For an oil finish apply a mixture of three parts linseed oil and one part turpentine. After an hour for soaking in, wipe dry. Repeat in 24 hours and then, after two or three days for drying, begin to polish with a piece of carpeting or other rough cloth.

For a glossy finish, apply one coat of quick-drying varnish to the bare wood. When dry, rub smooth with very fine sandpaper. Then put on a second coat and polish by light rubbing with finely powdered rottenstone and sewing machine oil, or other light oil—not linseed oil.

Outdoor Ping-Pong Table.

QUESTION: What is the best way to construct an outdoor ping-pong table? In the past, the wooden tables have warped despite the fact that they were apparently well painted. Can you suggest a different material instead of wood, or a method of painting that will eliminate warping?

ANSWER: Some of the well-known manufacturers of plywood now make a plywood suitable for outside use. The laminations of wood are cemented together with synthetic resin glue, which is not affected by the weather. The entire plywood top is then given a prime coat of aluminum paint, followed by two coats of a good quality deck or outside house paint. Some public playgrounds now have ping-pong tables of concrete.

Blistered Paint.

QUESTION: I built an extension on my house last summer, and finished it with a high quality paint. In several places bubbles appeared; when touched, a red deposit like rust comes out. I am told that this is caused by the paint. What do you advise?

ANSWER: That effect cannot be blamed on the paint; it is from moisture in the wood. Somewhere there is a leak that permits water to run down inside the clapboards; collecting on cross-pieces, it soaks into the clapboards from the back. On being drawn out to the front by warm air, it takes the paint with it. Look for leaks in the joint between walls and window frames. Have a carpenter close them with caulking compound, forced in with a caulking-gun.

Dog Scratches on Doors.

A correspondent sends the following for filling deep scratches by dogs in grain finished doors: Make a putty out of fine sawdust, a little plaster of paris and spar varnish. Apply with a putty knife. When dry, sandpaper down, with the paper wrapped around a block of wood. Apply stain, and grain to match the door. When this is dry, revarnish the door. If it is done by a good worker, the repair can hardly be detected. (Note: for a complete job, put a pair of boxing gloves on the dog.)

Brittle Reed Chairs.

QUESTION: My fine reed sun room chairs and furniture seem very brittle and small pieces frequently break out. Can I do anything to make it less brittle? How can I refinish the surface?

ANSWER: After removing the finish, coat the reed with a half-and-half mixture of raw linseed oil and turpentine. After an hour or so, wipe the surface clean. Allow to dry for 24 hours, then finish with one or two coats of a top quality spar varnish.

Fireproofing Cloth.

QUESTION: How can I fireproof cloth and paper?

ANSWER: Dissolve 2½ pounds boric acid and three pounds crystallized borax in six gallons of water; or if this is too much, use the same proportions with smaller quantities. Soak the cloth well, and hang up to drip and dry. Fireproofing of paper depends on the character of the paper. It is more difficult than the fire-proofing of cloth, because of the wrinkling and uneven shrinkage of the paper in drying.

Waterproofing Canvas.

QUESTION: Kindly give me the formula for waterproofing canvas.

ANSWER: Make a solution of one pound of shaved paraffin in a gallon of gasoline. The canvas should be stretched when applying the solution. Do this work out in the open on an overcast day and do not smoke.

Washington, D. C.

FIFTH COLUMN EVIDENCE

The Dies investigating committee now has documentary evidence of Nazi fifth column operations in the U. S. so explosive that its publication might lead to a complete rupture of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Because of this the committee has been nervously sitting on the load of dynamite, uncertain what to do. It has consulted the state department, which is just as jittery itself.

In fact, even more so. The department foresees the inevitable necessity of demanding the recall of a number of German diplomatic representatives, with certain retaliation by Berlin by the ousting of U. S. officials. In the present delicate state of U. S.-Axis relations, the department doesn't want to run that risk.

So on its urgent advice, the committee is sitting tight and continuing its secret probe of the subversive activities. The documentary evidence in the possession of the committee is staggering. It definitely establishes:

1. That the Nazi government is directly supervising and financing a nationwide fifth column campaign to oppose and obstruct the defense program, the U. S. government's foreign policy and aid to Great Britain.

2. That this activity is being carried on through German consulates and German-controlled papers, plus propaganda agencies of various kinds.

3. That Nazi consuls get detailed instructions from Berlin through regular short-wave broadcasts in code.

Column Fuehrer.
Suspected master mind of the Nazi fifth column is Dr. Manfred Zapp, head of the Trans-Ocean News Service, a propaganda outfit with offices in New York and Washington. Zapp came to this country after being booted out of South Africa by the British government.

Two of the consuls implicated in the evidence the committee has turned over to the state department are Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, at San Francisco, and Herbert Scholz, at Boston.

Scholz has been closely associated with Friedrich Ernst Auhagen, Nazi lecturer for "The American Fellowship Forum," who was seized in Los Angeles recently as he was attempting to board a ship for Japan. The committee is holding Auhagen as a key witness.

Other evidence in its possession discloses the existence of a secret Fascist army in the U. S. running into the thousands. Chief organizers of this force have been the German-American Bund, the Ku Klux Klan and other "nationalistic" groups.

LOST LIBRARY

The favorite story of the President's at present is about a library that burned down in Georgia. Here's how he tells it to callers:

A Georgia politico called on him with a sorrowful plea to use his influence to get a WPA grant for a new library.

"What happened to the old one?" asked the President.

"It was destroyed by fire," replied the visitor sadly. "And Mr. President, I fear for the literacy of my home folks if a new library isn't built quickly. No town should be without a library. It's a great cultural influence."

"Absolutely," agreed the President. "How long has your town been without a library?"

"Seventy-six years!"

"Seventy-six years!"

Government Armament Program Presages Huge Business Boom

Federal Spending Is on Scale Unprecedented in History; Senator Johnson May Swing California Vote From Roosevelt to Willkie.

By CARTER FIELD
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON. — A tremendous boom in all lines of business is expected by many far-sighted manufacturers. One of the best statements of the situation as viewed by some economists, as a result of the tremendous government spending only partially under way, is set forth in the following letter Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, has sent to all his dealers.

"Never in history from Caesar to the present day has any nation prepared a program of armament and spending equal to that which exists right here in the United States today.

"Every dollar goes to labor and profit. Do not pass this statement off lightly. Iron ore, lumber, cotton, etc., is nothing but labor with a minor part to profit.

"Please keep this fundamental in mind: of our government armament spending—over 90 per cent will go to labor and less than 10 per cent to profit.

Half Billion Dollars To Be Spent Monthly

"From July, 1940, to July, 1941, the government will spend 5,000,000,000 defense dollars in the United States.

"In August the government spent only $180,000,000 on this program, which means the program must rise from now on to $500,000,000 per month to meet the year's total.

HIRAM W. JOHNSON

"Figure out what 500,000,000 ADDITIONAL dollars each month means to business. Business spurred ahead and looked upon the spending of the soldiers' bonus as a godsend at the time. Yet, this soldiers' bonus represented only two monthly installments of $500,000,000 each and from now on that amount will be spent each month.

"The WPA in its heyday injected barely $140,000,000 a month into business. The AAA put in less than $75,000,000 a month on an average.

"The farmers' income, independent of all the above this year, will be the second largest since 1930.

Chain Stores Show Increased Retail Sales

"The present defense program anticipates over $38,000,000,000 expenditure up to and including 1946, of which the $5,000,000,000 to be spent this year is only a small part. In August this year, when only $180,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 for this year was spent, the 30 leading store chains of the United States increased their business from 3.1 per cent to 33.3 per cent over August, 1939. Not one of these store chains showed a decrease. Every one of these 30 leading chains showed an increase in the eight months of 1940 over 1939 up to August, and mind you, the spending had hardly started then.

"In other words, all these defense billions that are to be spent this year are plus expenditures which come on top of the already splendid increasing business.

"The draft will increase business. The majority of men drafted will be single and certainly these men have not averaged $30 per month, net, to spend in civilian life after they have paid for lodging, board, and clothing. The soldiers and the sailors spend their money."

Johnson May Swing California to Willkie

One of the most important personalities in this presidential campaign may turn out to be Hiram W.

Johnson, U. S. senator from California for these many years.

California has 22 electoral votes. When she had only 13, she decided the presidential election of 1916.

Most of the figuring on electoral votes this campaign—on the assumption that the election may be fairly close—has given California unquestionably to Roosevelt.

Folks began wondering about California when President Roosevelt went out of his way to slap Hiram Johnson, just on the eve of the California primaries. Everybody who knew anything about politics in the state was writing to friends in Washington that Johnson was almost certain to capture both the Republican and the Democratic nominations for re-election as senator.

Yet the President was so annoyed with Johnson for various reasons that he permitted himself to be quoted by the newspaper correspondents to the broad general effect that Johnson could no longer be considered a "liberal."

Johnson didn't like that a bit. He regards himself as having been an outstanding liberal since long before Roosevelt knew his way around in politics.

Most commentators on this slap of Roosevelt at Johnson have based it on Johnson's opposition to helping Britain. This is NOT the real reason.

Roosevelt's dislike of Johnson goes back to the time Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme court. Johnson was one of the little group that fought this so bitterly that it was eventually defeated. Just as he was one of the group that fought President Wilson on the League of Nations and other features of the Versailles treaty.

It was not the failure of Johnson to change his policy on international questions that brought forth Roosevelt's ire. It was his battle against enlarging the Supreme court.

Defeat of Johnson Is Now Impossible

Every man who fought the President on that issue has been marked in the White House black book ever since. That of course was admittedly the chief motive in the unsuccessful attempt to "purge" Democratic senators in 1938. This year the attempt to purge was renewed, and with more success. As a part of it, Sen. Edward R. Burke was defeated for renomination in Nebraska. Sen. William H. King of Utah was also defeated for renomination as a part of it.

Defeat of Johnson is now impossible. It was impossible when the President slapped him, but the feeling was so strong that the President would not be politic.

Several observers believe that if Johnson is mad enough to denounce F. D. R. and support Willkie in a few speeches before election, Willkie will carry the state.

But that does not mean that Johnson, though a Republican, is going to support Wendell Willkie. Nobody knows what he is going to do. All we know is that he is very bitter against Roosevelt.

Senator Johnson has been one of the outstanding isolationists in the senate. It is the act which bears his name that forbids any country in default to the United States on previous debts to borrow any more money in this country.

An interesting sidelight on the demoralizing bombardment of London has developed in Washington. Reports from Britain indicate that this constant bombing has tended to stiffen the resistance of the English people. British sympathizers here are presenting another plan by which material aid can be extended to the defenders. This group has organized itself into the American Committee for Defense of British Homes. This committee was formed by a group of well-known sportsmen and explorers who, hearing of the British people's need for small arms, ammunition and binoculars, decided to do something about it. The decision has resulted in a nationwide drive for sporting rifles, shotguns, and pistols, ammunition and binoculars.

New York headquarters of the group report that the public has responded to their plea by sending in a considerable selection of their favorite guns. Although shotguns predominate, old Springfield rifles used by the U. S. Army a decade before the war, 1917 Springfields, and many pistols of varied calibers have been received.

Firms known to operate in violation of federal labor laws are going to be out of luck as far as U. S. defense orders from the army and navy are concerned. That word was forthcoming from the Washington office of Sidney Hillman, the defense commission's labor member. Hillman's announcement regarding the award of defense contracts was based on a statement of principles outlined by the defense commission and approved by the President. He believes labor should not suffer because of the present emergency.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Any Woman Can Learn the Secret

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Cameras snapping in her face wherever she goes are not reality. She loves them, of course, and when they stop she suffers agonies of jealousy. No matter how young, beautiful, rich, successful a woman is, sooner or later she has to find content where YOU find it. In her own soul.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

BE A contented woman. So few women are content! This advice is not for the thirties. Not for the forties. These years are full of hope and changes and potentialities and excitements. The most thoroughly disappointed and bored and disillusioned wife of 34 may still feel that a complete change of circumstances may take place any day.

Jim might get a promotion with a big raise. Or some unsuspected uncle might leave them a tidy fortune. Or they might have to move to Rio, on 10 days notice. Or the talent scouts might seize upon the baby, who is 10 times as fascinating as any baby star on the screen.

Life holds thrills. A new hat—a new hair-do, is a thrill. Just meeting a courteous new man is a thrill. To have someone suggest a delightful job opens up new trains of thought. A hundred a month, and a summer vacation free, for just being hostess at a big mountain hotel.

A New Cycle Begins.

All this ends at about 45. No use fooling about it, it comes to an end. No more men are going to fall in love with you. No new hat is going to do for you what that $1.98 hat did 20 years ago. Jim isn't going to be raised, promoted, sent to an exciting post. He's there, stout and middle-aged and comfortable and quite satisfied to go on living. The children have passed the absorbing and dependent stages; they need teeth bands and corrective shoes and plenty of school help, but there is little in that to satisfy the woman who has been dreaming all her life of achievements, of fame, wealth, glory, success.

If you are one of those women, harness your dreams. Or better still, wake up and try to appreciate one important fact.

This is the fact. No matter how young, beautiful, rich, successful a woman is, sooner or later she has to find content exactly where you can find it. In her own soul.

What Price Fame.

Of course she likes the excitement of success, the flattery of her public, the brief, brief hours in which her fame eclipses that of the next exquisitely pretty and captivating woman. But those things last only hours or days, or months at most, and then the gnawing inner hunger for reality begins to fret her. Hollywood sets are not reality; cameras snapping in her face wherever she goes are not reality. She loves them, of course, and when they stop, when she is only yesterday's favorite, she suffers agonies of jealousy. And she knows all along that they are not real.

She puts on a $40 apron and cooks in a picture-book kitchen. She adopts a baby, and is photographed with it. And all the time she is blindly reaching out for what you have; a man who needs her, a kitchen in which she is queen; a small person to come stumbling to Mother.

At 40 she has nothing left. The booking agencies in New York, the casting offices of Hollywood are filled with unemployed, wistful women who were stars a few years ago. Their sugar-frosting dream is over. The bubble has burst. And then, unless they have something very real with which to go on; family ties, the right to love and service, they are dreary derelicts for life. The lives of very few elderly actresses are lifted out of tragedy.

Content Is Secret of Happiness.

Even highly successful professional women don't go on to happy middle life unless they've discovered the secret of content. Too often young fame distracts them from the

SECRET OF HAPPINESS

Glory and fame appear to make some women intensely happy, but Kathleen Norris points out that this happiness is short-lived. She believes that a woman can find genuine, lasting content only in her own soul. Miss Norris advises women to live a normal life and develop natural interests; then they'll be far happier than the lonesome heiress who is surrounded by a lot of parasitic playmates.

natural course of marriage and motherhood, and they find glory and money rather than poor pickings in the end.

And the merely rich women! The glamour girls who have done nothing to earn their luxury and power, their yachts and Palm Beach mansions, their furs and jewels—what a sad mess THEY make of it!

Within a few years of the time when you went around all morning wishing you were in Gloria Millions place, Gloria is haggardly facing a second divorce, supporting a flattering circle of titled European hangers-on, and telling the whole world that she will fight for the custody of her child.

Whereas you, if you've played your cards wisely, are the adored mother of two brown tall Indians of children who are dancing about because it's Saturday, and Mom is taking Jim and Mary and the Simmons children off to the beach for the day.

Or you're absorbed in your garden; there's no heartache cure like a garden. You've decided to have supper out-of-doors. You're trying for a prize contest on the air. Your Persian aristocrat has produced three delicious kittens. The baby nest door has been loaned to you for his noon Pabulum and his afternoon nap. Jim is, thank goodness, going to be free for a three-day week-end next Friday. Mary is in first year French and it's perfectly amazing how your old grammar and you can help her. You've got to consider both sides of moving to that possible farm. Chickens and fruit and quiet and space against the commuting trip for Jim—

All Possess Materials for Happiness.

In short, you've mastered content. You've learned that to each one of us women in this life is meted out the materials for happiness; it is only our wisdom or stupidity in handling them that makes the difference. The successful writer, actress, heiress of course MAY be happy. But she has to be happy on exactly the same terms that are available to you. She has to have love, and a chance for service, and books and appetite and deep sleep. And often these are all sacrificed before she has discovered how perishable is fame, how brief is youth, how little money can buy! While you are climbing up the scale to the forties and fifties, she is descending to depths that you never knew. Face-lifting and cocktails and memories of past splendors don't help her; nobody remembers and nobody cares.

Develop what you have. The children, the back yard, the possible picnic and camping sites within reach, the libraries, the swimming beaches. Develop hobbies, activities, interests. They don't spring into being full-grown. But you will be pleasantly surprised to see how fascinating they can become.

Develop Jim, too. As you grow to be a contented middle-aged and someday old woman, take him along with you. Make the fifties happy years, and the sixties even better. The woman who does that will soon find herself in a position to pity the very stars and glamour girls and celebrities that she is envying today.

And most important of all, develop yourself. Try to achieve that peace of mind which can only follow from a life well lived, because as eagerly as you are now looking ahead to new thrills, in your old age you will look back upon the pleasures that have been yours.

Country Press Sways Opinion Of Its Readers

By WHEELER McMILLEN
Editor-in-Chief Farm Journal & Farmer's Wife.

The country newspaper is forever a human document. A man, usually one man, or woman, is the country newspaper. Human beings are its raw material.

That explains the tremendous force the rural press exerts in the life of America.

The editor is a human being writing and dealing with men, women and children. He may be old, young, lazy, energetic, bold, timid, superficial, deep, querulous, constructive, slovenly, business-like, grasping, generous. He is certain to be human. He reacts to praise, to criticism, to the presence of good and evil. I doubt, therefore, whether an editor of a country newspaper ever has deliberately supported anything he considered evil for his community.

The editor's recognition of the inherent decency of the countryside is highly important to America. He shares the confidence of his readers that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have been neither repealed, improved upon, nor modified by modern advances.

The significance of all this flashes clear in the light of a political fact—the fact that rural America determines the choice of more state legislators, more members of the house, more senators, and of more presidential electors than does urban America. The elected rulers dare not be insensitive to the rural press.

Country newspapers do not succumb to false isms. The editors are human enough to share the beliefs of their readers in the Constitution and representative government. The mass hysterias that sway and excite and mislead city people tend to fade into mildness before the calm common sense of the countryside.

The great question of the 1940s is going to be whether the United States shall steadily sink itself with the rest of the world into a swamp of international poverty, or whether free Americans shall build impregnable and higher their plateau of liberties and living standards. The country editor and his readers will be on the American side of that question every inch of the way. The direct descendants of the pioneers are on the farms and in the small towns and cities. In their blood is the conviction that they are entitled to both economic and political independence. Their editors are of the same breed of clear-eyed Americans.

Just as long as there is in America the liberty of the press, the country newspaper will express the true voice of America. The country editor will continue to chronicle the births and weddings and deaths of the human beings around him. He will applaud their successes and thus encourage them to further advances. He will support their community efforts. By speaking their thoughts and hopes, he will express their aspirations in 10,000 communities for a finer, more American America.

A VITAL FORCE

In these days of rapid transportation, the radio, moving pictures, and other means of bringing people of the world closer together, there is a definite tendency for individual persons to become so absorbed in the affairs of remote cities and nations that they overlook the importance of affairs which truly affect them more intimately and immediately. This is a natural tendency, but not one which makes for richer association with one's neighbors—the people he meets on the streets of his home town, the man who lives across the alley, or the fellow member of the garden club committee. These primary and homely associations are a full and happy life's first essential.

It is this feeling of unity, common to all who live in it, that makes a community what it is rather than a mere localization of humanity. And it is the office of the community newspaper to preserve that unity; to nurture it and to broaden its scope. It is the country newspaper that makes a community more than a road with houses on it; it is the country newspaper that puts the throb in the heart of a town.

REA Meeting Held for Agents of District 2

County Agent Jason O. Gordon and Home Demonstration Agent Ruth Boyd were in Lubbock the past Saturday, attending a rural electrification meeting for agents of the district, at which time specialists in the work appeared on the program.

Particular attention was paid to electrical equipment for the farm as well as the farm home, with stress being laid on proper wiring of the home, handled by M. R. Bentley, of College Station. P. B. Montfort, of College Station, discussed lighting in the home.

In the afternoon, special demonstrations of laundry equipment and electric stoves were given at the home economics building of Texas Tech college.

The agents reported an excellent meeting, adding that it was very instructive, since Parmer county is now criss-crossed by rural lines.

Steers Play Whitharrel Here Friday Afternoon

For the first time this season, the Farwell football squad will don uniform to appear on the local gridiron, when they meet in battle fierce with the visiting Whitharrel team, Friday, October 18th.

Reports coming in here this week indicated that Whitharrel would be hard to handle, as experts, comparing scores of the team against other squads in this section, passed along the information that the visitors would be rated a three-touchdown team better than Farwell.

Indignant over their loss at the hands of the Friona Chiefs the past weekend, the Steers are after prey, and are believed to be getting set to hand Whitharrel a surprise when the two elevens meet.

Dotson, nimble backfield man for the local squad, who sustained a rib injury at the game last weekend, is recuperating rapidly, and may possibly see service in the game, while other Steers have licked their battle wounds and are 'rarin' to go.

Repeatedly this year, Farwell has faced teams which badly outweighed the local boys in the line, and reports on the Whitharrel team indicate that this will be no exception, as the opposing team is expected to be made up of much heavier men than the Farwell team can muster.

Strenuous workouts were in order this week to shape the Steers up for the tilt, as defects in both the line and backfield showed only too plainly at Friona last week.

Thus far, the Steers have met three teams, defeating Melrose and Dimmitt (conference game) and losing to Friona. The Whitharrel game will not be a conference match.

Game time is 2:30, the admission charge is only 15 and 25 cents, and officials are urging that Farwell turn out en masse to see the Steers perform on their home grid.

Local Girls Win; Boys Lose Game to Rosedale

With the boys unable to hold their opponents after knotting the score the most of the game, the Rosedale softball team outscored the Texico boys by a count of 10-6, in a game played on the local diamond, Friday. Up until the final inning, Texico had tied the Rosedale boys on every round, but with the final coming up, the Texico club went to pieces and allowed the visitors to gather in four runs in rapid succession.

The Texico girls, on the other hand, came from ten points behind at the end of the first inning to take a victory over Rosedale by a score of 20-15. P. Martin, regular pitcher, was hit for ten runs during the first round, with Thompson finally going in to relieve her and stop the Rosedale scoring in that period. F. Martin, new to the pitcher's duties, then went on the mound and succeeded in practically shutting out the visitors for the remainder of the game.

The county softball tournament at Grady, on Friday of this week, will wind up the season for the locals.

GOOD IN TYPING

Two first-year typing students, who average more than twenty words per minute at the conclusion of the first six weeks of school, were named this week by Mrs. H. Arnold, Texico commercial instructor. Ruby Doolittle is now averaging 30 words per minute, while Murray White usually scores around 25, Mrs. Arnold said.

TEXAS LEADS

With 236,842 miles of railroad in the United States in 1939, the State of Texas leads all other states with a total of 16,473 miles, according to J. A. Gillies, general manager of the Santa Fe Western Lines.

Softball Tournament At Grady, October 18

The Curry county softball tournament will be sponsored by the Grady school, on Friday of this week, Coach A. D. McDonald, head of the Texico athletic department, has said, in announcing that both local teams would enter county competition.

Play will begin at 10 o'clock, Texas time, with the Texico boys facing Pleasant Hill in the opening game of the tourney. If winners, they will then meet the Rosedale squad, which defeated them last Friday. Grady will meet Field, with the winner playing Ranchvale, and the top team will be cast opposite the winner of the Texico-Pleasant Hill-Rosedale series in the final match.

The girls' bracket will be opened by Pleasant Hill and Grady, with the Texico girls, drawing a bye in the first round, facing the winner. Ranchvale will play Field, the champion to meet Rosedale, and the winners of the two brackets will go into the final.

The Texico boys and girls, having taken defeats from the majority of the teams in the county, are looking forward to the tournament to wipe out some of the losses handed them during the season, Coach McDonald predicted.

According to the dope sheet, the Ranchvale girls are rated as best in the county, while Field and Rosedale are close for high honors in the boys' division, observers believe.

Trophies will be presented to the winners in each division, Coach McDonald went on to say, and the local teams will go into the fray with hopes of snapping out of their losing streak to bring home an award.

Texico Cows Rated Tops in Association

Following the regular monthly check-up on animals listed in the Tri-County Dairy Herd Improvement Association by Chris Blomdi, official tester, information revealed that cows belonging to Texico men were rated tops in the association.

Carnation, a cow belonging to H. W. Curtis of Texico, led in butterfat production, with 80 pounds for the month. Next was a Guernsey owned by Leslie Pattison of Claude, with an average yield of 74.4 pounds, and a Jersey cow, belonging to Tom Haislip, of Dora, was in third place.

Twelve cows in the association, which embraces Parmer, Curry and Rosevelt, produced over 50 pounds of butterfat each, during the month. In total pounds of milk produced, the three high animals were: a Holstein cow, owned by D. J. Brown of Texico, first, 2,079 pounds; a Guernsey, belonging to Pattison of Claude, second, 1,431; and a Holstein, belonging to Brown, Texico, third, 1,425.

Demo Meeting to Stress Home Food Production

The annual district gathering of home demonstration agents will be held in Lubbock on October 18 and 19, Miss Ruth Boyd, Parmer demonstrator, said today, in announcing that she would be out of the office on Friday and Saturday.

A letter received this week by Miss Boyd from Miss Lida Cooper, district agent, was to the effect that special emphasis would be placed on short food production hints by the agents, to be given at the mattress-making gatherings in the various counties.

Other phases of the program will include a discussion of land use planning, the mattress program, achievement days, and the year books for 1941, Miss Boyd added.

Rubies were the first gems to be made synthetically on a commercial scale.

Feeding of Pigs is Emphasized in Clubs

The feeding of a single pig for competition in the spring show of Parmer county, is being stressed in Parmer 4-H clubs, according to Jason O. Gordon, county agent.

At the show last spring, only three fat pigs were in competition, the agent went on to say, and a drive is being made to bring the number up to 50 or 75, in order that this division of the stock show may be increased to the drawing level of the calf exhibit.

"It is hoped, that with a good program in operation over the county, the clubbers can prove to the public that pigs can be exhibited as efficiently, attractively, and cleanly as calves," the agent concluded.

County Entrant Made In Wilson Co. Contest

C. L. Caloway, Jr., of the Rhea 4-H club, has been designated as the Parmer county clubber to enter the annual Wilson Co. meat report contest, County Agent Jason O. Gordon has announced.

In the contest, boys who have had one year of 4-H club experience, are allowed to submit reports on their individual meat projects, which are judged by the state committee and state winners named, after which the contestants go into sectional and national competition.

Caloway, who is only 10 years old, submitted his report last week, and it will be judged by merit. Should the state committee commend the report, the boy will be given a gold medal for outstanding work, officials said.

Last year, the lad owned a litter of 7 pigs, which won grand champion honors at the county show. The pigs were sold, and later, the sow farrowed nine more pigs, with sale being made during the summer, bringing in $126. At present, he has a litter of six pigs, along with the sow.

The total income for the year has been figured at $252.68 on the pigs, the agent said, with Caloway also feeding out a calf at present, which is valued at $60. The 4-H club boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Caloway, of Bovina.

STATION OPENS

The new service station in Farwell, recently equipped by Grady Head of Clovis, has been leased to Jim Burns of Clovis, who announces that he will handle Life gasoline, manufactured at Levelland, Texas.

A complete stock of oils and other station stock was being added this week, and final plans were being worked out to begin serving the public before the close of the present week.
