Red Cross Asks $180 of Parmer County For Special War Relief

In a telegram received here Saturday from Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the American Red Cross, the Parmer county chapter of the Red Cross was given a quota of $180.00 for relief of refugees and civilians in the war-stricken areas of

W. H. Graham, county chairman, immediately appointed workers in the various centers of the county to solicit contributions to the fund.

Mrs. R. H. Kinsley will receive contributions at Friona, Mrs. Lady Barbee will head the work at Bovina, Mrs. B. Whitt has been named in he Lazbuddy section, and Mrs. Jaon O. Gordon and Mrs. D. K. Roberts have been chosen to work at Farwell and Oklahoma Lane.

Red Cross officials expressed the belief that the county's quota would be raised or exceeded before the close of the present week.

Commenting on the emergncy that has arisn as the result of the invasion of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, National Chairman Davis has issued the following state-

"Millions more today became the tragic victims of a ruthless war as the result of the invasion of Holland Belgium and Luxembourg. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT URGES RESPONSE TO RED CROSS CALL

President Franklin D. Roosevelt has issued the following statement concerning the American Red Cross War Relief Fund Campaign:

"The American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a war relief fund of at least ten million dollars.

"I urge all Americans who have a feeling of deep sympathy for the peoples of those unfortunate countries who today have been added to the long list of those who are suffering the horrors of invasion and aerial bombardment to respond quickly and generously to this appeal. The American Red Cross, our official national volunteer relief agency, is efficiently organized to answer such relief calls. It is, therefore, the logical agency through which our citizens can express their compassion for the innocent victims of the wars that rage overseas. I am confident we will not fail them."

THE LONGEST WAY AROUND was the shortest way home for British ships in Italian waters when England, fearing Italy was get ting ready to enter the war on the side of Germany, ordered these ves sels to head for home ports via the Suez canal and Cape of Good Hope. This route, indicated by the broken line on the above map, is a distance of 15,000 miles. Normal route (indicated by solid line) is only 2,000 miles.

WOTAN WINS:

In Norway

Following Austria, Czecho Slovakia, Poland, came poor Norway. Said one neutral statesman, nervously, "The kiss of England is the kiss of death." Frightened Swedish, Netherlands, and Balkan leaders were inclined to agree. Norse writers and generals denounced John Bull, while the English cabinet was tottering.

The Allied troops debarked from Andalsnes and Namsos, in the strategic Trondheim area, and sailed away, under a terrific hammering from the German bombers. Much of their equipment was abandoned, and the Norwegian troops, poorly armed and trained, as is natural in a small democracy with no imperialist intentions, did not make much of a stand in isolated sectors. The English expeditionaries in Norway had been out-shot, out-flown, and out-generaled. Raw London militia, and half-trained regulars, had to face toughened German veterans of the 18-day Polish war, last fall.

The British marines, too, were not trained for landing operations, to be followed by a land war of maneuver. Good men all, their duties had been aboard ship, and as brass-button garrisons in far-flung colonies. U. S. marines have had exactly the right training for a "Norse" operation, and would have given the Germans a far more telling battle, according to American army and navy men. This was a technical matter of opinion.

Anti-Italics

English and French battleships were concentrated in the faraway eastern Mediterranean, and the British merchant marine was ordered out of the blue Mediterranean wadia-the imperial lifeline-was rerouted around the African horn, the Cape of Good Hope, to escape Italian submarines, seaplanes, and seasleds. For Italy has the third best air force in Europe, and perhaps the world's best submarine flotilla. And Italian seasled torpedo-carriers are a tested Roman specialty.

Roosevelt's ambassador to Rome, William Phillips, pleaded with Mussolini to keep out of the war, and Moscow accused Rome of blackmail (Finland is so easily forgotten!). The Aegean sea loomed up as a possible location for Italo-Allied warfare, but some observers believed that the badgered French might cede Mussolini their African Tunis (just below Sicily), in order to keep the Iron Duce quiet. There are roughly an equal number of Italians and French living in the predominantly Arabic colony. "France must learn to give," remarked a worried U. S. official.

One minor school of thought held that the English battleships were moved to the eastern Mediterranean, to get them away from "doomed" Scapa Flow, and the pestiferous German flyers.

THERE were vague rumors under the sunny skies of St. Petersburg back in March that something was just a little shy in the camp of the Cardinals so far as any flaming team spirit was concerned. These rumors have carried along into the starting season.

Maybe they are true-maybe they are not. But if they are true the Cardinals are going to hear no gonfalonic flapping in the next flurry of autumn winds. For team spirit happens to be a vital part of any ball club, no matter how strong their individual play. This brings up the 1934-St. Louis Cardinals with Frisch, Pepper Martin, Medwick, Dean, Delancey, Collins, Durocher -the old Gas House Gang.

1936-1939-The N. Y. Yankees, of whom Joe McCarthy demands team spirit, even when he has to get rid of a great pitcher and a star outfielder. The Two Leaders

My selections from 35 years of baseball would place two teams on top in this respect—the White Sox of 1906 and the Boston Braves of 1914.

Neither was anything like a great ball club. The Sox then were known as the Hitless Wonders. Their team ship of Fielder Jones and the almost raving upheaval of Jiggs Donohue at Frank Chance's Cubs who had won 116 games that season and were supposed to be invincible.

No, there's something we can do for them; something they can't or won't

That something is to stir up continual agitation over the question of our men being sent to fight over seas. Our young men, that is, for the old men who send them never go. We want to keep Washington continually reminded that several millions of American mothers, for the first time in all history armed with the vote that sent these legislators and representatives to Washington, are uniting for the single purpose of electing the men who will promise that we shall be kept out of Europe's purposeless orgy of bloodshed.

One of the sights they show in Mexico is the old altar of the Mayan civilization that once prevailed there; a magnificent amphitheater whose stones were once running rivers of young blood. Thousands of young men were selected as religious offerings; indulged, petted, fattened for one year, and then led to the that on one single occasion thirty to their death? thousand boys were thus destroyed.

But in what way does the slaughter of innocent boys across the seas improve upon these barbaric days? In one way, today's wars are even worse. For the Mayan had at least the feeling that this was destiny; have no feeling against each other. They hate no one. And too often they writhe into slow, agonizing, bitterly lonely deaths with every criminal instinct of their natures roused and brought to life; hate, a desire for revenge, a complete loss of faith in everything their mothers taught them of goodness and forgiveness and generosity.

Let Men Over Forty Fight.

If I could I would get a bill through congress prohibiting the enlistment in army or navy of any man under forty years. Even if their health and strength didn't match those of younger men, what of it? If life is to be destroyed, why not begin with the unfit? Send them into battle sneezing and rheumatic and taking soda mints, for war destroys health anyway, and all camps are full of invalids. There was one battalion of strong young men with flat feet, who stayed safe in camp all through bloody 1918, and went home happily to draw their bonus a few years

Older Men Make Wars.

It is the old men who shrewdly consider profits and expanding markets and uses for surplus products; it is the old men who make the wars. Is there in the long, long history of these decisions to destroy young life some shadow of the old jealousy of the males? Lutheran

T'S a common thing today to say to one's religion. But when Martin Luther, more than four centuries ago, began to disagree with just a few of the beliefs of the established church, no one thought-especially Luther himself-that he was starting a new faith that millions would follow and call Lutheranism.

Martin Luther was born in Saxony in 1483 and given a very strict | was very different. religious training. He became a the chair of St. Peter. But the church made such an issue of his heresy-and he fought back so zealously-that finally, in 1520, Luther was excommunicated and his writings were burned at Rome, Cologne and Louvain. His answer was to burn the papal bull which excommunicated him and he was hailed as the champion of religious liberty.

From 1526 to 1529 he prepared a new church service, corresponding to his ideas of the doctrines of the gospel. The Reformation spread rapidly.

Wedgwood Ware

IF YOU are the owner of a prized piece of Wedgwood ware, you probably know that it's named for Josiah Wedgwood (1730-1795), the famous English pottery maker. But do you know that, as an American, you have an even better reason for holding his name in grateful remembrance? For Wedgwood was a leader among the Englishmen who not only sympathized with the Ameriing the Revolution but did more than that. He distributed pro-American literature among his countrymen and helped build up such a strong sentiment against the war that the king and his ministers were willing to stop it after the capture of Corn-

J. Wedgwood

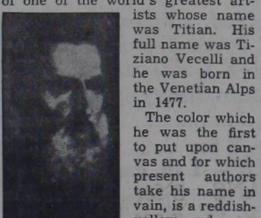

Wedgwood also contributed heavily to a fund which was raised in England to make easier the unhappy lot of Americans imprisoned there during the war and in a short time this amounted to nearly $500 per prisoner. We should also remember him gratefully because his portrait medallions of hundreds of important personages of his time (similar to the one illustrating this article) give us an idea, which we would not otherwise have, of the appearance of those notables.

Such were the services of this man who, despite the handicap of illness and a lack of education, not only "placed the hitherto undeveloped pottery industry of England on the pinnacle upon which it now stands" but was also a very great artist who belongs to all mankind.

COVERING UP DYNAMITE

WASHINGTON .- When cocky exchampagne salesman Joachim von Ribbentrop summoned diplomats and the press to a gala presentation a person is a Lutheran, referring of the Nazi white paper the other day, it may have been that he was chiefly concerned with covering up some dynamite which the allies had discovered.

At that meeting Ribbentrop claimed that Germany went into Norway because secret allied plans to penetrate Scandinavia first had been discovered. But the real truth, as reported to official sources here,

What actually happened was that six or seven days before the invasion of Norway, French and British intelligence services got wind of a German plan to launch a whirlwind war about mid-May.

This lightning war was to include the invasion of Norway; the invahad no intention sion of Holland; the occupation of Greece by Mussolini; and an attack on the Maginot line. Apparently the strategy was hatched at the famous Hitler-Mussolini conference at the Brenner pass, and was calculated to sweep the allies off their feet.

> Find Nazi Tieup. Naturally when allied intelligence agents learned of this, the first thing the British did was check into the situation in Norway. There, thanks to British prodding, the Norwegian government (which is a labor government) uncovered certain highplaced officers who were sympathetic to the Nazis, in some cases ready to go over to them.

> So Norway started to clean house. Naturally when the pro-Nazi Norwegians were fired, it tipped off the Germans to the fact that the allies were in on their plot. So they started into Norway almost immediately.

There is no question that before the Norwegian government had time to oust many of the inside plotters, the British had prepared maps of Norway and had figured on the possibility of military operations there. Some of the more forceful in the just a few pieces to sew together, Chamberlain cabinet even wanted with long, straight seams, so that to do what Ribbentrop accused them | you can finish it in a few hours. of planning—going into Norway first. This was about all the truth there was to the Ribbentrop white paper.

ROOSEVELT DELEGATES

Several weeks before fast-working Gov. Ed Rivers of Georgia had officially lined up Georgia's delegates for a third term, he made a trip to Washington and reported to Roosevelt that unofficially he had the Georgia Democrats in line.

"I've followed your instructions, Mr. President," reported Rivers, "and I've got all the Georgia delegates bagged for your man at the convention. But you know how cats are when you get 'em in a bag. They're a-scratchin' and a-clawin', and I don't know when they're going to get out." 'That's fine, Ed," replied the President, "just keep hold of that

However, the governor of Georgia was not as enthusiastic as the President. Doubtless, also, he was interested in pinning him down on the third term. He said:

"Well, I can hold 'em all right, Mr. President, if I'm holding them for you. But if I'm holding them for someone else, then they want to know about it so they can each get their cream."

"I'll let you know when the time comes, Ed," replied the President. "Meanwhile, you just hold on to that bag."

Note-The above conversation is particularly significant because it represents the attitude of almost every Democratic state boss, including Mayor Hague of Jersey City and Mayor Kelly of Chicago. They are for a third term for Roosevelt, but they don't guarantee to transfer their delegates to Roosevelt's fairhaired boy-especially if he is a New Dealer.

Health Notes

By Texas Department of Health

AUSTIN-"A marked saving in human lives and improved health conditions may be obtained in large measure through a positive program for the control of malaria," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states.

"Malaria is transmitted to humans," he said, "by the bite of the Anopheles mosquito. This mosquito acquires the malaria parasites by biting a person who has these parasites in his blood. She (it is the female mosquito which transmits the disease) then bites a well person. The parasites enter the blood, grow and multiply there. Poisons are formed and carried into the blood stream to all parts of the body. The person bitten by the carrier mosquito begins to shiver with chills, burn with fever, and to have a headache.

"Prevention of malaria should start with the protection of humans from the bite of the infected mosquito and continue through to the elimination of the mosquito.

"In order to prevent the malaria mosquito from breeding, destroy their shelters by removing all brush and weeds; and drain or otherwise control their breeding places in water by spraying the surface with oil or putting top-feeding minnows in waters where oil or drainage cannot be used." Dr. Cox advised.

To Our Farmer Friends

Due to the fact that so much good planting seed was taken from the gins during the last season, and many of the farmers have good seed for sale, we have felt that it was not necessary for us to carry a large stock on hand as has been our custom in the past.

We do, however, have on hand at either Farwell or Lariat, some pure Hybred and some second year Half and Half, also some good Paymaster seed for those farmers who want better staple variety.

There will be some one on hand every day during the planting season to wait on those who want to buy seed from us.

"I'm not even going to shave," he said cheerfully. "Thank God it's over."

"To tell the truth, it's a great rewas your say-so. But personally I've had enough and I'm glad to be out of it so we can live our own life for a while."

"We'd better have some coffee," said the Senator.

Hilda answered the ring with suspicious alacrity. On the tray, with a big pot of coffee, was fresh fruit and a small covered plate of hot muffins.

"You may need sustainment," she said grimly.

She gave the Senator a severe "Mr. Allen came about two o'clock with a dozen more hungry politicians for me to feed and with blobs of blood around his nose and a very black eye for which I offered

"A bloody nose?" gasped the Sen-

"A black eye!" ejaculated Aunt Olympia.

"It seems he hit the leg of a bench as he went down but giving the Senator the credit," said Hilda reprovingly. "Anyhow they ate all the steaks and are now working on the ham and eggs.'

Beneath her arm, in direct defiance of orders, Hilda bore a huge stack of morning papers.

Olympia frowned at sight of them. "I said coffee and nothing but coffee and by all means none of those filthy sheets that are a profanation to the holy Sabbath."

Hilda laid the papers on the foot of Olympia's bed and arranged the tray on a small table between them. Her expression disturbed Aunt Olympia. In anybody else, it would have been definitely pleasurable; in Hilda, it was merely sardonic.

"I thought you might like a look at the pictures anyhow," she said. "And besides, I had to get them out of my way downstairs, cluttering things up, with politicians all over the place."

"How are the girls?" asked Uncle Lancy diplomatically.

"They are all right-what I seen of them," she added, with dour sig-seen plenty of them." Hilda moved toward the door. "I got to go now," she said. "I been giving coffee and doughnuts and boiled eggs to reporters and camera men for four hours. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Dodd and the boys worked all night and the telephone's been ringin' steady since six o'clock and they sent to town for more stenographers to take the messages." Aunt Olympia swallowed hard. gazing at his coffee. Obliged to say something, she said faintly, "Oh, yes. From-the constituents."

"From everybody I ever heard of so far and some I ain't. We ain't opened the telegrams yet. No time. We put them in the potato basket. I'm boiling the potatoes to make salad for everybody that'll be coming before the day's over. I'm boiling another ham, too."

Aunt Olympia groaned and closed her eyes. She waved feebly for Purpose-"Your business is your own and if fully, she forced them away and you wanted to be senator, why, it looked at the Senator. He was looking at the papers, too, rather sheepishly, over the rim of his cup.

"Whoever gave a patent to the fool that invented kodaks should be strung up for treason! Freedom of the press, huh? It's freedom of the press makes cowardly slaves and craven knaves of otherwise good citizens. You ought to get up a bill about it. The press' freedom is taxpayers' poison." She could have smiled at that. She wished the girls had been there to hear it.

Purely extemporaneous it was, too. But her eyes would not be kept away from the pile of papers. She set her cup down with an impatient little crash.

"Oh, well, we may as well have a look at the pictures, I suppose," she | ic. snapped. "They're not bow-legged, that's one thing!"

She reached for the papers and passed two or three from the top of the pile across to the Senator, who was reaching for them. They settled back on the pillows. Suddenly Olympia gasped. "Tch, tch, tch," clucked the Senator, and kept on clucking. Olympia gazed across at him, wide-eyed, speechless. He gazed at her.

"Well, God bless my soul! Think of that now!" he said reverently. Then they fell desperately on the papers and silence hung between them, except for the crinkle of paper, occasional hissing sighs from Olympia and an almost continuous stream of clucks from the Senator.

The election was as good as won. The girls, and the Senator along with them, had got a terrific press. Newspaper men all over the state had worked on the case all night. They had covered the Dastardly Outrage -in large caps-from every possible angle. Public sentiment was aroused to the highest pitch; public indignation was an inferno. Never had the widely publicized American standard of moral decency been so flagrantly betrayed.

The New York Herald-Tribune came out with an editorial denunciation of tactical devices so contrary to pure Republican principle and

"I'd like to see Len Hardesty's face now," said Aunt Olympia hap-

Len Hardesty publicly absolved the Governor of all complicity and shouldered the blame for the debacle; Governor Wilkie pleaded complete ignorance of the entire matter and deplored the incident. But the newsmen did not let it rest there. They admitted that while the Governor hadn't been smart enough to think it up, he had certainly been immoral enough to try to reap the advantage of it; they cited his prepared speech, the use of his chauffeur, the arrangement of floodlights. Limpy's speech was quoted verbatim, with Helen's anguished "Don't say brats" in parenthesis. Uncle Limpy's glasses fogged up so over Limpy's speech that Aunt Olympia had to read it aloud to

"Now, you see, Ollie," he said reproachfully, "Hilda made good sense indeed. Very good sense. Seems as if they have did all right for theirselves,' just as she said."

In the meantime, Hilda, with all she had on hand that hectic day, did not neglect to keep the secluded girls informed.

"The've rung for their coffee now," she said. "It'll take 'em a good thirty minutes to get recom-

At the end of an hour, she appeared again. "Mr. Hardesty 'phoned have you any bad effects afterward and he feels the same and they ought to be composed by now,

The girls got up at once, a little frightened, but determined.

"Shall we dress?" asked Adele. "Um, no, I think not," said Limpy sagely. "We'd better go as we are. Don't brush your hair, Adele. She looked at the Senator. He was | Don't be too slick. We look more votes-appealy in our bathrobes and a little tousled. But not too tousled. Not tousled enough to be

"You can't buy this," said Limpy, feeling suddenly sad and forlorn and homesick. "It is something not for sale! Never for sale! It's-Helen."

The smile faded from the Senator's face. He glanced almost accusingly at the shocked Olympia. "You've-lost-Helen!" she stam-

Limpy laughed tearfully. "Oh, we brought her home all right!-butwell-you know, this sacred fran-

"Franchise!" ejaculated Aunt Olympia. "She's feverish! She wants to buy a bus line."

"Not that kind of a franchise. I mean the vote. Helen got up this morning and took a plane out to Iowa to vote."

"When is she going?" demanded Aunt Olympia.

"She's gone. She went at six

Aunt Olympia turned briskly to the Senator. "Del, make a note of that. Call Dave. Tell him to get it in all the Monday papers. That's the kind of citizens we are! After a night like last night, we send one of our children by plane out to Iowa just to cast her sacred vote."

"Did-she take time to dress?" asked the Senator.

"Oh, yes. She dressed. We helped her. She looked lovely."

"She took the wind-up costume along to vote in," said Adele help-

"Maybe she can get us our groceries at wholesale from this on," said Aunt Olympia philosophically. "Will she be back after the election?" asked Uncle Lancy.

The faint, familiar flicker flashed between the girls.

"Um-well-I rather doubt it," said Adele. "Not for a while, at least," said

"She's not going to send for you girls to come out there, is she?" quavered Aunt Olympia. "Um-well-I rather doubt it," said Adele. "Not for a while, anyhow," said

"I'll have her mail stopped," declared Aunt Olympia. "I'll hire a detective. I said she could go when she liked and she can go if she likes. But if she tries to get you away, I'll sue her."

"She won't try to get us," said Adele soothingly. "She'll have her hands full without us. And she may be back, you know." "For a while, at least," added

"My dear," said the Senator suddenly, "ring for Hilda. Tell her to call the highest official of that line and tell him to report to me every hour how the plane goes through. This is-a murky day-for flying." Tears came to Limpy's eyes. She went over and sat down beside him on the bed and kissed the rosy bald spot on top of his head. "Uncle Lancy," she said humbly,

"I'm really just sick about-disgracing you the way I did. I lost my temper and couldn't help it. But there's one thing you've got to say in and welcome!" boomed Aunt about my speech. War Is Likely to Be an Issue In National Political Campaign

President's Projected Trip at Time of Republican Convention May Provide Chance to 'Air' U. S. Foreign Policy.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Whether we like it or not, it is now almost certain that the national government policy with relation to Europe's war will become an issue in the forthcoming national political campaign. None can measure yet how great or how small a part this issue will have in the electioneering on the hustings, but I am afraid everyone has to agree that the subject is going to figure in the campaign.

If proof were needed of the statement above, one has only to look into the announcement that President Roosevelt has chosen the latter part of June for a trip to the Pacific coast and return. He said, in making the announcement of his plans, that he was going to talk generally on "conservation." A wag in the press conference that day asked: "conservation of what?" The answer was a hearty Roosevelt

The Roosevelt announcement quite naturally set political tongues to wagging at a great rate. Whether it was so planned or not, the early part of Mr. Roosevelt's projected trip-and he says he is sure to make the trip unless the European war conditions or failure of congress to adjourn serve to prevent-will put him into the newspaper headlines just as the Republican national convention gets into full swing at Philadelphia. Of course, I would not accuse Mr. Roosevelt of trying to steal the show, but I do recall that he shared front-page space with a Republican convention once before.

The President's planned tripwhich he says was carried over in the nature of a postponement from last year when international conditions were hot-includes a visit to, and dedication of, the Great Smoky Mountains National park in North Carolina and Tennessee; a dedication of the Natchez-to-Nashville highway and a visit to Natchez, Miss.; a visit to his son, Elliott, in Fort Worth, Texas; a visit to the San Francisco exposition, and then a dedication of the Olympic National park, in the state of Washington.

President May Visit Alaska If Europe's Condition Permits

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt may go to Alaska. Whether he makes that trip depends entirely upon conditions in Europe, he has explained.

There was no mention of the plans for the trip back to the Capitol. The return journey, however, obviously will take the President through the Middle West. It is in those areas that his conservation and trade agreement program have had the hardest sledding. The farm vote in those sections is admittedly in a position where it can upset or reestablish New Deal control in the forthcoming elections. Since there is no politics in the trip-only conservation and a vacation for the President-it must not be assumed that the President has an eye squinted to see what the situation is.

To get back to the foreign policy question, however, it ought to be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt has asserted, time after time, that the United States is going to stay out of the wars in Europe and Asia by "policies short of war." What those policies are have not been put out in too much detail, and there are people who want to know more about

It is never to be forgotten that the American people are easy to arouse. Their sympathies are quick. There certainly has been an earnest, an unqualified demand, that the United States stay out-that the war is Europe's war and must be kept over there.

On the other hand, there are a substantial number of people who think that Europe's war is America's war. They believe that if Hitler wins this war, the Western hemisphere will be the next on his list. I think that school of thought is wrong, but anyway that is the nature of some of the talk. 'Policies Short of War' Should Be Defined

It appears unthinkable that Mr. Roosevelt, or any other person, would dare to propose measures that would take the United States into the conflagration. But these "policies short of war" may be only steps-not deliberate steps, but mistaken steps. There are differing opinions all ready on what has been done. Thus, it seems fairly clear Stealing the Show? President Roosevelt's planned trip through the nation at the time of the Republican national convention might be an attempt to steal the headlines from that gathering in the opinion of William Bruckart, Washington correpondent. This trip would be a good chance for the President to explain to the country just what the administration's foreign policy is, according to Bruckart.

that whatever the purposes of the President's Western trip may be, he is likely to talk about foreign affairs to some extent; and whatever he says will be snapped up by

The Republican leadership seems to sense the trend of events. None of those with whom I have talked are certain just what the President will do with the opportunity he has made for himself by injecting the Western trip into the midst of their convention. They do not know what to expect, but they are looking for something from the Roosevelt leadership that will have to be met as a campaign issue.

real reasons that the Republicans are planning a pre-convention meeting. They are going to have some of the important figures meet in Philadelphia a week ahead of the convention and these fellows will try to iron out a lot of differences.

How far they will get depends upon the willingness of the bigwigs to make concessions to each other. For instance, Alf Landon and Colonel Knox, the 1936 presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively, broached the idea of a preconvention meeting. Colonel Knox came into Washington, talked with quite a few Republicans around the Capitol and offered the idea of a pre-convention meeting. But Colonel Knox happened to miss John Hamilton, the Republican national chairman. The chairman and the bombastic colonel did not share secrets on the proposal, as far as I can learn.

Hamilton Wants Delegations Picked Early as Possible

Scarcely had the Landon-Knox idea been blazoned across the sky when Mr. Hamilton announced that he had written all members of the Republican national committee and all state chairmen about a preconvention meeting. He urged the state delegations, especially, to elect their members of the convention resolutions committee-the platform committee-ahead of time. He wanted them to assemble early and save "an appreciable amount of time" of the convention by working out the platform in advance.

These plans are similar in intent. Moreover, they are grounded largely in the same soil, namely, uncertainty about the meaning of the Roosevelt "policies short of war." For instance, "policies short of war" might include loans to the allied powers if Hitler gets them backed up against the wall and their need for money forces an appeal to this country. The Republicans, as far as I can figure out, do not wish any part of any further loans because it was the Wilson administration World war-and those loans have not been paid. But whatever the Republican position, there seems no reason at all to doubt that the weather eye of the Republicans is going to be set on the Roosevelt policies. There will be other things, too, about which they obviously will complain, but every move of the present administration is being closely watched and will continue to be watched right up to adjournment of the Philadelphia convention.

All of these factors have a bearing, as well, upon the third term question. Most people will recall Woodrow Wilson's campaign slogan of "he kept us out of war." That campaign slogan is being recalled more and more as the heat of the 1940 campaign increases. The Roosevelt western trip has added fuel to the flames in a really big way. I have taken the position consistently that it is Europe's war and that we have no reason whatsoever to get into it. But the changing events-the lightning strikes by Hitler-the desecration and destruction of entire nations by the German Head in armies—are affecting our nation's foreign policies right now. It is unfortunate, but true. Affecting our policies as the situation does, those now rewarded by the post of comconditions apparently are going to influence our domestic politics, much as most of us hoped the circumstance could be avoided by some means or another.

How can the British abandon the Mediterranean? That would be to abandon France, whose lifeline and link with her African colonies it is. It would be to abandon the great Anglo-French near-eastern army, which is rapidly being assembled as a threat to the totalitarian left flank. That army couldn't be munitioned and supplied by the long route around Africa. It might possibly be fed by supplies coming through the Red sea but not supported by munitions and equipment.
