Eden is being angered by opposition heckling, retorted: "The honorable members are making cheap gibes."

There is nothing but anarchy as an alternative; there will be international anarchy the moment this is known."

Both Eden and Baldwin warned peace may be lost and nothing could be gained if the old policy of sanctions is maintained.

Prime Minister Baldwin said: "I do not think myself it is necessarily a mark of cowardice to take the action we know will be repugnant to large sections of our people."

Queen Contest Announcement was made Friday in the Dallas News, one of the sponsors of the event, that Big Spring had been chosen for some preliminaries in the state-wide Queen of the Texas Centennial contest.

Additional adjusted service bonds paid Big Spring ex-service men had been certified for exchange into cash Friday, the total amounting to $133,600.

Bonus Money Due Here Now Totals More Than $133,600

That amount in cash was due here any day. Bonds converted into government checks are being sent to Dallas, and the checks had been expected back by the end of this week. Only a small amount of money had been received, however.

Bonds totaling $125,000 were certified by Postmaster Nat Shick Thursday. The bonds continued to come in at a slow rate, and many veterans were immediately converting them into cash.

TEXAS CONVICTS KILL GUARD, MAKE ESCAPE

Officer Is Attacked By Trio; Poses Start Search

RETRIEVE PRISON FARM, June 19. (AP)—Three long-term convicts, Luke Trammel, from near Coleman; T. N. Atkinson, of Lufkin; and Forrest Gibson of Crosby county, killed Felix Smith, guard on the state prison farm here today and fled on Smith's horse and two mules.

They attacked Smith as a glowing squad was being taken to the fields for the day's work.

Bloodhounds On Trail All fled into the dense underbrush surrounding the farm.

Gibson was among those fleeing the Eastham farm a few years ago when a guard was killed.

A posse of men and bloodhounds, under direction of Capt. Rube Vonnor, was able to trail the desperadoes only a short distance. It was believed the fugitives went toward Houston.

The section into which the convicts rode their animals is heavily timbered with dense growth. Several bayous run through the marshy section, making it difficult for bloodhounds to keep on the trail.

The W. A. Langley farm, adjudged the best in Howard county in a Centennial farm contest, was judged Friday for district honor by C. E. Boley, district agent for district No. 7 and Miss Nketeab Hill of College Station.

Fine cooperation of farm hands and the orderly and systematic manner in which the work was carried on was pointed out by the judges as very good points to consider. They also commented on the fine terracing and balanced program of farming.

The judges left to inspect farms near San Angelo, Fort Stockton and El Paso. District winners will be announced on July 1, and will be pointed out to Centennial visitors as ideal farms.

70 Scouts In Annual Camp At Barksdale

Big Spring Has Largest Temperance To Be Theme Of Program At Baptist Group Session

(Special to The Herald) CAMP FAWCETT, Barksdale, June 19.—The seventh annual encampment of boy scouts of the Buffalo Trail council is officially under way here with 70 scouts and eight leaders in attendance.

After two years absence, the scouts are back to their favorite haunts along the sparkling river in this beautiful Nueces canyon.

In charge of the camp is Area Executive Alfred J. Stiles, successor to A. C. Williamson as head of the council activities. Although it is Stiles' first camp here, he has been on 17 other scout camps.

This is an unusual camp in that it has no rules. "If we have rules we will break them," said Stiles.

Troops are here from Big Spring, Sweetwater, and Midland. The second week is expected to be the biggest from the standpoint of attendance with the third week running a close second.

A bill was introduced to exempt punishment until July 15, for those who fail to report capital exportation.

A meeting of the Big Spring associational Baptist Training Union will be held at the First Baptist church at Midland Sunday afternoon, BTU leaders here announced the program Friday.

The session will be opened at 3 o'clock with a song service led by Cecil Floyd of Big Spring representative of the Fourth Street church. Ralph White of Coahoma will conduct the devotional, and a period will be devoted to business and to special music. The talks on temperance will conclude the program.

Negroes Take The Day Off

Big Spring housewives who have negro cooks were preparing their own meals today, and offices were getting along as best they could without the services of janitors.

Reason: today is the negroes' Emancipation day, better known as "June Tenth," and a day of real celebration for the dusky population. Most colored folk in Big Spring were given the day off for a program that included a parade, speaking, barbecue dinner, baseball game and dancing.

Local negroes planned an ambitious program and were joined with blacks from several neighboring towns. Festivities were launched with a parade this morning, in which negroes appeared in extravagantly decorated cars. A mounted marshal and a band headed the review. Following the parade, speaking was slated at Cottonwood park, where the barbecue was given. Colorado and Big Spring negroes were to clash in the afternoon's baseball game. There will be a dance at Cottonwood park tonight.

Both Houses Work Toward Adjournment

Revenue Measure Drafted By Conferees; Other Items Are Rushed

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Administration leaders today said the newly-shaped tax plan designed to raise $800,000,000 through penalty taxes on undivided corporation profits would go through congress by Saturday night.

An agreement was reached on provisions of the bill which goes far to meet President Roosevelt's demands for stiff rates to induce corporations to distribute more of their income to stockholders.

The compromise measure, calling for an entirely new system of corporation taxes, was engineered closer into line with the original tax recommendations of President Roosevelt. In that sense it veered away from the senate bill.

The action placed congress nearer its much-sought goal of adjournment by Saturday night. Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the house conferees, said he was certain the new bill would meet with the administration approval, asserted that the conference report would be called up Saturday in the house. Bill drafters, ready to work night and day to place the measure in legislative language, said it would be in shape by then.

But a bitter row apparently lay ahead of the conference report in the senate. There was no specific evidence, however, of any intention to filibuster.

With favorable developments on the controverted tax measure, both senate and house joined in a head-long rush for adjournment Saturday night. A major item was completed yesterday with enactment of the relief-deficiency bill.

Meeting the quick step tempo set earlier by the senate, the house was called into night session last night to clear away other legislative burdens.

Other Developments The senate agreed to a conference report and sent to the White House the Robinson-Patman anti-price discrimination bill, which would permit the federal trade commission among other things to limit the amount of price reduction given for quantity purchasing.

The senate completed congressional action on the $114,000,000 interior department appropriation bill, another vital supply measure that had been long tied up in a conference deadlock.

A senate-house conference agreement was reached on the District of Columbia appropriation bill which had involved one of the most heated inter-branch squabbles of the session.

An agreement finally was gained also on the big treasury-post office supply bill which had been held in conference for months by uncertainty over ship subsidy legislation.

He said he would make conquest of the Philippines so costly "to give pause to the most ruthless and unscrupulous nations."

Years Of Responsibility Carve Mark

By KIRK SIMPSON WASHINGTON (AP)—Not without showing their mark has Franklin Delano Roosevelt passed through nearly eight years of high executive responsibility. Yet the crowding years alone have not out so sharply the lines on his forehead, the massing wrinkles about eyes and lips, the deeply graved creases that sweep down the cheeks to frame a mouth stern in response and in keeping with the heavy law line beneath.

Austria Puts Arms Output On Rush Basis

Danger Of Internal Strife Believed Heightened By Munitions Race

VIENNA, June 19 (UP)—The Austrian munitions industry is turning out war weapons at an astonishing rate as the struggle for mastery of the nation goes on behind the scenes between Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Prince Ernest von Starhemberg. Heavy and light tanks, siege guns, planes and machine guns are streaming from factories. No one seems to know or is prepared to tell why. Every Austrian knows that without outside help the country could not withstand a Nazi external invasion for more than a day or two. Its new-found arms, therefore, would seem to be meant as a menace against the internal quarrelling elements who seek to plunge Austria into civil strife.

Socialists, Austrian Nazis, Fascists, Communists and Monarchists all hope to profit by the discord and bickering among the nation's leaders. Monarchists probably are the only agitators who will not depend on force. They wish to see Otto return to his father's throne through laurel paths and not blood-spattered streets. But the Reds and the National Socialists, as well as the Fascists, are prepared if necessary to fight.

Arms Stored In Secret Each of the militant parties has its secret warehouses of arms. The Socialists were effectively disarmed after the government forces shot them into submission in February, 1934, but they boast that today they are better equipped for the battle than before.

Nazis say nothing about their armed strength. That they are preparing, however, was shown when they attacked Prince Starhemberg's more than 2,000 families have been enabled to finance the building or purchase of homes.

castle near Linz recently in the hope of seizing the Heimwehr's guns. How many guns and machine guns the Heimwehr, or Fascist Legion which Starhemberg leads possesses only the leaders know. Officially they are supposed to hand their weapons over to the government, but they are actually said to be rapidly hiding them.

Expansion of the Austrian army, in defiance of the peace treaty of St. Germain, helps to explain the activity of the munition plants. Compulsory service goes into force October 1, when 15,000 youths born in 1915 will be called to be trained either in the army or in the labor battalions which Austria is formulating on the lines of Piuscher Hitler's working-squads.

Heavy Tanks Built The army, it is said, soon will be provided with moveable fortresses—32-ton armored cars carrying half a dozen men and capable of firing from medium sized guns in all directions.

The dominant figure in the Austrian munitions business, Fritz Mandl, is a friend of Prince von Starhemberg. They have the same taste for light distractions, the same bounding ambitions and the same unquenchable courage, one as a business magnate and the other as a soldier.

Mandl's powder factory, Hirtenberg Pulver Fabrik, about 30 miles south of Vienna, has furnished most of the arms possessed by Starhemberg's Heimwehr, or home guards.

Want Munitions Nationalized It is considered significant that government inspired newspapers in Austria have launched a campaign for the nationalization of the munitions industry.

The interpretation which political students place on the move is that the government fears the boom in munitions output may be a double-edged sword. Some of the munitions will go to the army. Some, too, will be for the police and gendarmerie, who are now first-line reserves for the regular forces.

But what the cabinet fears is that the bond of friendship between Mandl and Starhemberg may become a weapon at the head of the government if the warrior-prince were to try to install a Fascist regime and oust the clerical cabinet over which Schuschnigg rules and which finds its principal support from the priesthood.

Soil Erosion Work Is Urged

Run-Off Loss in Texas Is Cited As Argument For Conservation

COLLEGE STATION, June 19.—"Erosion control work on the soil conservation service projects serving as a guide in the fight to control erosion and conserve the soils of the nation," said H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, U. S. department of agriculture, during a recent visit to Texas. Commenting on his visit to soil conservation service permanent station and project areas in Texas, Bennett said: "One heavy rain on cotton land at the erosion experiment station at Tyler early this month swept off soil at the rate of 63 tons per acre and lost 31 per cent of the precipitation in run-off. On the same kind of land, but which was covered with grass, not a particle of soil was lost and the loss of rain in run-off was reduced to three-tenths of one per cent. "Last year at the erosion experiment station at Temple, land with four per cent slope in cotton lost 105 tons of soil per acre and 25 per cent of the precipitation in run-off. At the same station Bermuda grass lost only three-hundredths of one ton of soil per acre and only four-hundredths of one per cent of the rainfall by run-off. These records show that by the proper use of vegetation we can greatly decrease soil losses on our farming lands. " remarking on the erosion control work being done on the Texas soil conservation service watershed projects and camps visited, Bennett said that in spite of the record rains of the past month that erosion control measures applied to the farms of cooperators with the service held to a degree of 95 per cent effectiveness while on untreated neighboring farms soil losses were tragic and terrible. "This work is so good," Bennett continued, "that it marks a real historic step in the agricultural history of Texas."

Norris' Name On Ballot By Draft Certain

Law Requires Only 1,000 To Sign Petition; Drive Spreads

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19. (UP)—An unprecedented political movement has developed in Nebraska to return George W. Norris to the U. S. senate for his fifth consecutive term. Expressing a desire to rest after 34 years in congress, 10 in the lower house and 24 in the senate, Norris declined to enter the state's primary election in April despite the urgings of friends—both republicans and democrats. Norris' name, however, will be on the ballot in November as an independent candidate filed by petition. It will be there whether or not Norris wants to run. His friends saw to that after President Roosevelt, in a press conference remark directed to Nebraska voters, suggested that Norris be drafted. Drafting Made Easy The Nebraska law fitted that suggestion perfectly. It requires only 1,000 names on a filing petition and does not require Norris to accept the petition. Thus he literally can be drafted as an independent candidate. A formal non-partisan group was organized to circulate the petition and to conduct a campaign on behalf of the veteran statesman. It was headed by James E. Lawrence, democratic editor of the Lincoln Star, and included two former republican governors, Arthur J. Weaver and Adam McMullen. Others who volunteered for the campaign were Prof. John P. Bering, chairman of the University of Nebraska political science department and a co-worker with Norris in the movement to give Nebraska unicameral legislature; Fred Marsh, a regent of the university; and William C. Ritchie, Omaha democratic leader. Muller Pledges Support Arthur Muller, President Roosevelt's floor leader at the 1932 democratic national convention at Chicago, and Edward R. Burke, junior U. S. senator, also have announced they will support Norris. Norris will be opposed in the general election by Terry Carpenter, democratic nominee and Townsendite, and Robert G. Simmons, republican candidate and outspoken critic of the new deal. Even among Norris supporters the fear has been expressed that Carpenter, regarded as a man of liberal tendencies, may draw votes from Norris with the result that Simmons, a former congressman, might be elected.

Douglas Gets Air Trophy

Wins Collier Award For Development Of Twin-Engine Plane

NEW YORK, June 19.—Donald Wills Douglas, famous airplane designer and builder, has been awarded the 1936 Collier trophy, the most coveted prize in aviation, it was announced today. The formal presentation will be made by President Roosevelt at the White House next Friday. This year's award is made in recognition of the twin-engine Douglas commercial transport plane, and the citation in Collier's reads: "To Donald W. Douglas, for the outstanding twin-engine commercial transport airplane. This airplane, by reason of its high speed, economy and quiet passenger comfort, has been generally adopted by transport lines throughout the United States. Its merit has been further recognized by its adoption abroad and its influence on foreign design is already apparent. "In making this award recognition is given to the technical and production personnel of the Douglas organization. "The famous trophy was established in 1911 by Robert J. Collier, son of the founder of Collier's, to be given annually "for the greatest achievement in aviation in America, the value of which has been thoroughly demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year. By their choice the committee added Douglas's name to the most distinguished list in American aviation, which includes such men as Curtiss, Wright, Sperry, Loening, Pitcairn and Martin. Last year's award went to Capt. Albert F. Hegenburger of the United States army, for his achievements in "blind" flying and landing. Mrs. Herbert Whitney is visiting her sister in Panhandle. Robert Swan Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee, is ill. M. E. Tatum is in Houston on a business trip.

The experiment, called "Fordon Co-operators," was launched two years ago by backers including Henry Ford, American motor car magnate, and Sir Percival Perry, chairman of Ford's British company, to show that there is scope on the land both for more men and higher incomes. Workers were formed into three co-operative societies, each running a farm. Seventy-three permanently employed men rent and

HINTS FOR WRITING "LAST LINES" THAT WIN PRIZES
First read carefully every word of reading matter on this page, especially the story about Oxydol. Remember, all you do is supply the "last line"—one that rhymes with "dismay" and "all day." You don't have to be a poet to win the $5,000 grand first prize. Even the greatest poet in the world wouldn't have a better chance than you. The important thing is, whatever you write, read it! It's usually people who think they can't possibly win contests that do. Take 5 minutes now—write your "last line" on the entry blank below, and send it in!

Purpose of Contest To More Quickly Introduce To Your Home This Latest Amazing "No-Scrub" Soap Discovery By the Makers of Gentle Ivory Soap... Oxydol!
Madam! Just 5 minutes of your time and you may win $5,000 cash! This opportunity is made possible by the makers of gentle Ivory soap to introduce their latest amazing "no-scrub" laundry soap discovery... OXYDOL!
OXYDOL is the new soap that actually makes a holiday out of washday afternoon! Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Just 15 minutes soaking to the tubful of clothes... and white clothes wash snowy white! No scrubbing, no boiling. You'll be astonished when—with a gentle rub between your fingers—even the "grimiest" spots seash away!
Yet OXYDOL is safe and mild. Women everywhere say: "It leaves my hands soft and white." And colored things stay fresh and bright through many washes. Even sheer cotton prints have been washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds, without showing any perceptible sign of fading. One woman writes: "Hurrah for OXYDOL! At last you've made a 'no-scrub' soap that's really safe for colors and hands."
It will pay you to use OXYDOL because it's economical, too. Tests show that OXYDOL will go 1/2 to 1/3 again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. No wonder women everywhere are discarding old-fashioned soaps for this marvelous new discovery. Remember—this is your opportunity to win $5,000 cash! Don't miss it! Write your "last line" for the Ma Perkins Jingle NOW! Note hints on how to write "last lines" that win. See entry blank on this page. This contest closes midnight, June 30, 1936. Don't wait!

COST OF OIL DEVELOPMENT IN TEXAS EXCEEDS ALL RECEIPTS

Industry Has Spent $1.12 For Every Dollar Received For Crude, Writer Says

By H. J. STRUTH
Petroleum Economist

More money has been put into the ground in developing Texas oil than has actually been received in sales value for all the oil produced to date! Facts to prove this have just been compiled by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association of Texas, and they show that the Texas oil industry has actually spent $5,800,000,000 for oil development, from which the cumulative sales value of all crude produced to date has amounted to about $4,985,000,000.

These facts contradict unsupported statements purporting to show that Texas oil is being exploited by outside capital, the financial returns from which are kept outside of our state borders. The truth is that the Texas oil industry not only receives all of the money received from sales of crude oil in extending developments to all parts of the state, but has actually spent $815,000,000 more than its total receipts to date in the development of this great Texas industry. These figures show further that for every dollar received from the sale of crude oil, this industry has put back into Texas oil developments one dollar and 12 cents.

Ultimate Profits
This does not mean that the Texas oil industry as a whole is an unprofitable venture. Profits in the oil industry are the ultimate result of combining the various operations incident to its many activities. In the producing branch of the industry, there are many wells that show a loss in their operation, which in some instances may be absorbed by profitable operations in another producing field. It is a principle of conservation of natural resources to continue to produce oil from high-cost "stripper" wells in order to obtain the maximum ultimate recovery of oil in place. This, obviously, benefits many thousands of oil industry employees in Texas, whose jobs might be terminated if all unprofitable oil wells were abandoned in favor of new, flush producing possibilities.

Seldom if ever is an oil field abandoned prematurely, because of high-cost production. Conservation of natural resources implies an even greater responsibility than is perhaps generally realized, for there is an obligation to the people and the communities that would undoubtedly suffer greatly if considerations of cost were wholly to determine the course of action to be pursued by the oil companies.

Money Re-invested
Producing crude oil might have returned substantial profits to the industry if all non-profitable wells had been abandoned and had all money received from the sale of crude oil been stowed away in the vaults of the producers. However, as these facts prove, the oil industry has not hoarded its profits, nor spent them outside of our state borders, but has re-invested all and more money than it received in the statewide development of an industry that has made Texas lead the world in oil. As a result of this continual re-investment of profits in the search for new resources of oil supply, Texas has nearly half of the oil reserves of the United States.

Drilling for oil and gas in Texas has involved a total cost to date of $2,777,000,000, including $96,000,000 spent for gas wells. The net cost of oil wells and dry holes drilled to date is $2,681,000,000. Farmers and landowners have received for lease rentals, lease bonuses and royalties, the stupendous sum of $1,141,000,000. Cumulative expenditures by the Texas oil industry for wages and salaries, materials and supplies, taxes, insurance, interest and overhead have amounted to $1,775,000,000. In addition, many more millions of dollars are represented by investment in properties, plant and equipment. All of this money has extended the benefits of oil development to every section of our state and has materially strengthened its future industrial position and economic welfare.

Keyboard Criticized
TOLEDO, (UP)—The most used letters in the English alphabet are a, e, r, t, o, and s; the least used are v, k, x, j, q and z, according to Dr. Jesse L. MEXICO ROAD BUILDERS CONQUER HEIGHTS IN LINKING CAPITAL CITY TO TEXAS BORDER

A trunk highway, running 700 miles from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City, is to be formally opened by officials of the two countries on July 1. It took nine years to conquer the mountainous region which the road traverses. This sweeping view shows an automobile (left center) on a curving stretch through the hills near the Mexican capital.

Third of Route Ready
After that the communications and public works department, which spent about $3,150,000 on 1,245 miles of Mexican roads in 1935, expects to get busy on the second trunk highway.

Completion of the Laredo highway means that nearly a third of the proposed 12,000-mile Pan-American route, from Canada to Argentina, is ready for automobile travel in all weather.

Canadian and American sections of the route, totaling some 2,760 miles, have been open for some time. Mexico has done about 920 miles of her stint of 1,825. Hence motorists today can follow modern roads southward from Canada for 3,670 miles.

Many engineering lessons were learned in the nine years it took to build the Laredo unit. Bucking almost straight up-and-down grades, bridging deep gorges, fighting sliding rock and conquering all the other obstacles Mexico's heaving mountains presented, Luis Cuevas, 30-year-old chief of the department's section of roads and highways, sometimes had to resort to odd methods to get the job done.

Airplanes surveyed terrain where usual instruments were useless; men were slung by ropes over the sides of mountains to pack at steep slopes; Indian laborers who quit their jobs when they had enough money for the moment's needs, wereajoled back.

Had To Build 170 Bridges
In all 170 bridges, costing $1,660,000, had to be built. Some were cantilever, others suspension bridges, slung perilously over yawning ravines.

Price Fixing Bill Passed

Measure Designed To Prevent Unfair Competition

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Congress completed action yesterday on the Robinson-Patman anti-price discriminating bill and sent it to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.
 Senate approval of a conference report, which has been agreed to in the house, completed congressional action on the hotly-disputed legislation.
 The bill would permit the federal trade commission to limit the amount prices could be cut for quantity purchases and would outlaw "fake" brokerage and other fees designed to permit price discrimination.
 This control was designed to protect small merchants from unfair competition from big buyers, including chain stores.
 The Borah-Van Nuys amendment, added in the senate, would carry out some of the anti-monopolistic theories for which Senator Borah, Idaho, fought at the republican national convention.
 It would permit persons who claimed they had been discriminated against to seek action in federal courts without coming to Washington to prosecute their case before the trade commission.

Menus For June Wedding Feasts

By MARTHA LOGAN
 Wedding bells are a-tinkle all over the land in this rare month of June. Have you heard them out your way? I hope so, for weddings are such fun. Even if the bride's whole family has to take a week's rest after the strenuous preparations, it's worth it.
 And while the bride is up in the air floating around among yards of white chiffon, orange blossoms, and bride's dreams, you are right down on earth desperately trying to decide what to feed the group.
 For while those immediately concerned in this wedding may have lost their appetites, I have never noticed that the others seem to be affected in a like manner. Have you? Naturally, food—when it's up to wedding standards—is very tempting, and the guests seem to have hikers' appetites.
 Well, we don't mind, do we? We want to see our guests enjoy the food we prepare and when your very own Sarah Anne decides that she has found someone whom she can love, feed and boss for the rest

ARE YOU ON THE BORDERLINE OF ACTUAL SICKNESS?

Constipation* Causes Discomfort, May Lead to More Serious Troubles

You may have days, perhaps even weeks, when you feel below par. Not sick enough to go to bed, but certainly not at your best. The trouble may be with your diet. Poorly balanced meals can affect your physical condition.
 Meals which lack proper "bulk," for instance, may lead to common constipation. Continued neglect of this condition causes discomfort, may lead to headaches, poor appetite, listlessness.
 Guard against common constipation. Make sure the meals you eat contain plenty of "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a generous source of effective "bulk." Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently cleanses the system.
 Two tablespoonfuls daily, with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. Serve ALL-BRAN either as a cereal, or cooked into muffins, breads, etc. Eat it regularly for regular habits.
 ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
 *Constipation due to insufficient "bulk"

CHILDREN like Kellogg's Rice Krispies for supper. They're so crisp they crackle in milk or cream. Nourishing. Easy to digest. Promote sleep.
 Kellogg's Rice Krispies are sold by grocers everywhere. Ready to serve. A Mother Goose story on the back of every package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

By DEWEY FRANKSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON—Despite the millions of words telegraphed out of Cleveland on the stop-London movement, what is probably the most remarkable story about it has not yet leaked out.

It happened just after midnight following Hoover's telling trade against the new deal. When Hoover left the convention hall and the cheering delegates yelled for his return, Chairman Snell announced that he had taken a train for New York.

But he had not. Hoover at that time was in a hotel only three blocks away. And a remarkable conference was taking place. Undoubtedly they would not say so now, but at that time Colonel Knox and Senator Vandenberg thought they saw, in the great ovation given Hoover, a clear confirmation that the swing to London could be stopped.

So they asked Chester Rowell, widely known San Francisco editor and close friend of Hoover's, to arrange a conference. Rowell returned in a few minutes with word that the ex-president had decided before coming to Cleveland not to meet any of the candidates. He wanted to maintain this. But if Knox and Vandenberg had any ideas they wanted to convey, he would be glad to receive them through Rowell.

So, through this medium, it was proposed that a joint statement be issued the next morning, signed by Knox, Vandenberg and Hoover, and aimed to stop London. The statement was to be read to the convention just before John Hamilton made his speech placing London in nomination.

Hoover replied that he was willing to sign the statement. But he said he thought it should also have the signature of Borah as one of the leading candidates. At this point the discussions stopped. Hoover left for New York, willing to have the statement issued if Borah were included.

But Knox and Vandenberg did not contact Borah. Probably they knew it was futile. And they were right. For when the senator from Idaho learned of it later, his reaction was: "Why should I go out of my way to help either side?"

Rowell denies, categorically, that Hoover agreed to sign any stop-London statement though he agrees he had conversations at Cleveland with Hoover, Knox and Vandenberg. Vandenberg, who queried said he would make no comment whatsoever as to the convention, was now all water over the dam.

And thus London was never stopped. Thirty Per Cent "Grant" The senate was considering a provision in the relief bill by which the Public Works administration would be permitted to grant outright only 30 per cent of the funds for projects costing more than $100,000. The balance would have to be a loan to be repaid the government.

During the debate, Sen. Harry Moore of New Jersey received this telegram: "Re work relief bill, 30 per cent grant inadequate. Irvington cannot participate on this basis." The telegram was signed Percy A. Miller, Jr., mayor of Irvington, N. J.

In the end, the senate amended the bill so that PWA might grant 45 per cent instead of 30 per cent outright. Guffey Court Test James Walter Carter, the man who tested the constitutionality of the Guffey coal bill in the supreme court and won, is planning to test the Guffey substitute coal bill immediately.

He has hired Frederick Wood, attorney in the Guffey case, to draw the papers for a suit on the same day the new Guffey bill passes congress. The new bill gives the coal operators the right to fix prices, which in turn would put them in a favorable position to pay union wages. In handing down the Guffey decision, the supreme court did not specifically throw out price-fixing.

Robinson Is FD's Choice As Chairman

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, secured party stalwart whose political footsteps seldom stray from the path of democratic regularity, looms as the likely choice for permanent chairman of the party's national convention in Philadelphia, June 23.

He has the blessing of the Roosevelt administration, whose spokesman he is in the United States senate. There, the genial but quick tempered senior senator for Arkansas has been steadfast in his support of administration measures. He is majority leader.

Twice before the party has called him to the platform to be permanent chairman, Robinson, the first time in 1920 when the San Francisco convention delegates cast 44 ballots before James M. Cox of Ohio was nominated.

His name of Franklin D. Roosevelt came before that convention too. He was named the party's vice-presidential candidate. Again in 1928, when the democrats met in Houston, Robinson played a dominant part as chairman. Alfred E. Smith was the presidential nominee, and Robinson staunchly defended him in the face of southern criticism.

Just as staunchly this winter he turned his sharp tongue against his one-time campaign mate when he was named to answer the caustic attack Smith made on the new deal at the liberty league dinner in Washington.

Choice of the permanent chairman rests with the convention itself, and thus the actual selection will not be made until June. But Robinson already has received enthusiastic support from administration circles.

Robinson's political career is unique in many ways. He was, within 14 days, a representative in congress, governor of Arkansas and United States senator from that state.

GROCCERS OF NATION GATHERING AT DALLAS

DALLAS, June 19.—Representatives of the food distributing industry of the nation are converging on Dallas for the thirty-ninth annual convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers opening here Sunday.

Between 5,000 and 7,000 grocers are expected here for the five-day program. In addition to the retailers, wholesale organizations and other food groups will hold sessions.

Nine special trains are bringing delegates to the meeting from New York, New England, Ohio, St. Louis, Kansas City, California and the northwest.

D. A. Affleck, president of the national association, Salt Lake City, Utah, and H. C. Petersen, Chicago, national secretary-manager, will arrive here Friday night to check details of the meeting with the local arrangements committee.

Preparations for the convention, expected to be the largest in the history of the association, and the largest in Dallas during the Centennial exposition, were made by P. M. Brinker, president of the Texas association; Roger Q. Flourney, secretary of the state association; C. Z. Bauman, president of the Dallas association, and W. M. Clark, Dallas, chairman of the convention committee.

NO MORE COMMISSIONS

Two heads of state departments, maybe others, have given notice to employes of their departments that Texas has a law prohibiting persons in the employ of the state to do anything more than vote in any political campaign. It specifically prohibits employes from electioneering for the heads of departments or for any other candidate for any other office.

Chairman Thompson of the railroad commission and Orville Carpenter of the old age assistance commission have issued notices to employes in those bureaus that the law must be obeyed. The prohibition, according to Carpenter, includes handing out cards, distributing circulars, making speeches, soliciting votes or other similar activity. That is the law.

A newspaper in Tyler approving of these warnings, and properly so, adds that it is a reminder that Texas needs a civil service commission—a commission that would pass on the fitness of a prospective employe without regard to his political sympathies. From this statement The Herald desires to dissent.

The Herald agrees that civil service for employes in the state departments would be good, but this paper does not favor the creating of any more commissions to draw salaries out of tax money, when citizens are now groaning under the tax load and trying to reduce instead of increase taxes. Civil service can be established and maintained without an expensive commission. Examinations could be given by a group of employes in the educational department without adding to the cost of finding a man or woman fit for a position in one of the departments.

It is too easy to suggest another commission for this or that purpose. Texas has enough now, and if we cannot be rid of some of them, let us at least not create more.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—The photographers and reporters were racing like made after a wild rumor of Nellie Granger's engagement got aired about the other day. Nellie is the air-hostess heroine of a recent transport plane crash, who just returned from a West Indies cruise. Meeting her at the dock was Loy Warwick, of the TWA public relations staff, who knows her and handled her interviews in New York before she sailed.

Glimpsing his grinning countenance at the pier, she raced down the gang-plank and gave him an embrace. Whereupon the newshawks, scenting a romance, spent the rest of the afternoon trying to confirm rumors of an engagement. A survey among the smart shoppers on Park avenue reveals that London tan and white is the favorite combination this season, although navy blue and white is another that is receiving a pleasing display. The real name, one hears, for the dun shades is cocoa tan or luggage tan, but generally it is known as London tan because that is considered smarter.

For men's wear my favorite hue continues to be wrinkled herringbone. No. 2 LaFayette Street is the address of the local office of the National Emergency Council—but don't let the name fool you. This is where you get your questions answered—any question that puzzles and annoys you. Headed by Harriet Root, who is a Lorain, Ohio, girl, who saw the war as a Red Cross nurse, the council has ready answers for anything you care to shove its way. By way of initiating you into the thoroughness of its coverage—here are some questions that have been received—and answered. One man wants to know the locality of Froze To Death creek. Another requests information on clipper ships. "Where may good markets for angle worms be found?" asks a third. Another recently discovered a pot of gold—buried treasure stuff—and wants to know what he should do with it. So it goes. Questions pour into the council's offices every day. Last year more than 75,000 individual queries were received.

Theodore Hecht, the actor, is not related to Ben Hecht, the writer. . . . During the run of Winterset it was Hecht's duty to hoist Harold Johnsrud, a fellow actor, on his shoulders and carry him across stage. After 36 weeks of this Hecht complained that he was becoming the worse for wear. He had to resort to massage, chiropractors, and electrotherapy. Harold Johnsrud, however, is thriving.

STUDENTS VOTE NO ON WHISKEY, PREFER SPINACH

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (UP)—Spinach is preferred to beer and whiskey by 44 University of Oregon students. The three intoxicating beverages ranked third, fourth and fifth in a list of most disliked foods and drinks in a survey conducted by Dr. Calvin S. Hall, professor of psychology. Spinach did not place in the first 10 dislikes, and only eight per cent recorded a dislike for it.

Buttermilk ranked as the most hated of 150 foods listed in the questionnaire, with half of the students checking it. Kidney ranked a close second. Calves' liver followed the beer-gin-whiskey group in sixth and seventh place. Parsnips, ham and tongue completed the first 10 of the students' dietary "black list."

"And then," Evans concludes, "somebody else will be telling the lightkeepers in the gallery all about the great congress of the United States." Beans Facker Unpack TOLEDO, (UP)—After spending the day packing beans in large bags at a WPA warehouse, Mrs. Dorothy Ray spent the evening opening the bags and dumping the beans on the floor, looking for her wrist watch.

Order A Probe Of Floggings

Cummings' Assistant Will Quiz Arkansas Pastor And Woman

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 19.—A federal inquiry into reported floggings in the East Arkansas cotton strike was ordered today while one of the alleged victims, a woman social service worker, said she would file charges against her assailants.

Attorney General Cummings directed Sam E. Whitaker, a special assistant, to question Miss Willie Sue Blagden, 29, of Memphis, and the Rev. Claude C. Williams, Presbyterian minister of Little Rock, who said they were beaten Monday night near Earle, Ark.

Cummings said a report on a previous investigation by Whitaker of "peonage" charges in the strike area would be withheld until the second inquiry is completed. Miss Blagden said in Memphis she would ask Sheriff Howard Curdin of Crittenden county to make good his promise of protection and return to Earle to prefer the charges.

"I am sure I can identify the men," she said. "I only hope they haven't got scared and run out of Earle."

The sheriff reiterated he would produce Frank Weems, negro share-cropper who strike leaders charge was beaten to death.

Williams and Miss Blagden said they were flogged when they attempted to investigate reports of the negro's death.

Years Of

swift years in Albany and Washington of the strain that no President or governor escapes.

The whitening hair at his temples tells of it. The increasing dominance of jaw line speak of important decisions, and the effort to enforce them.

For all the smile and the cheery, confident voice that goes with it, the Franklin Roosevelt of this campaign is a much different man from the one who could view his first nip and tuck race for governor of New York as a "hosa race."

It is not only that he is older, seasoned now by high office. There is to be detected in his pictured face more than a hint of that obstinacy of purpose attributed to the Dutch ancestry from which he springs. Grim resolution and gay confidence seem to merge there.

Whatever he was eight or six years ago, or when he entered the White House in 1933, Franklin Roosevelt is no boy in politics this year. The pictures tell a story of a maturity touched with sternness beneath the Roosevelt smile.

DEMOCRATS TO STAGE THEIR OWN 'CIRCUS' BUT PHILADELPHIA IS PLANNING SIDESHOWS

The aerial photograph of Philadelphia shows principal points of interest to delegates and visitors to the democratic national convention. The city auditorium, where the meetings will be held, is picture below. Notification ceremonies are expected to be held in Franklin field.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19. (AP)—An sideshow to the "political circus" scheduled here June 23, when the democratic national convention convenes, Philadelphia is planning entertainment ranging from symphony concerts to a rodeo. The Philadelphia orchestra's outdoor season starts that week in Robia Hood dell. On the parkway, downtown entrance to Fairmount park, a Mardi Gras is planned June 23, where a "queen of the convention" will be chosen and the committee hopes, every state will be represented in a pageant.

Sightseeing tours will be on tap at any time, with special trips to Valley Forge and other shrines on Monday. Old colonial homes and historic buildings will be thrown open to the half million visitors the city expects.

A Navy Program On Wednesday, June 24, the navy yard will present a special program. Thursday's entertainment includes a horse show and rodeo at the municipal stadium in South Philadelphia. For those who stay until Sunday there will be a regatta on the Schuylkill. Baseball games, wrestling and an ice carnival also are planned.

That Philadelphia may regain at least part of the $200,000 bid she made to win the convention, local women will staff a shopper's bureau at a convenience for visitors with money to spend. At the "big top"—the city's $6,300,000 auditorium, where the convention will meet—WPA workers are completing accommodations to seat 14,500 delegates and spectators. The 470 by 320-foot arena offers an unobstructed view of the platform, rising 14 feet above the mammoth stage at one end.

Flanked on either side by the famous Commercial museums, the auditorium is but a stone's throw from Franklin field, where President Roosevelt is scheduled to accept his renomination Saturday night, June 27.
