Egypt Chiefs In Emergency Cairo Parley

CAIRO, Egypt (U.S.—Leaders of Egypt's military regime met in emergency session in Army headquarters today amid reports a fresh conflict was brewing between President Nasser and his fellow officers on the ruling Revolutionary Council.

At the same time, civilian Cabinet ministers were reported conferring in the Parliament building. "Naguib wants too much," declared one member of the council, who declined use of his name.

The council and Cabinet were scheduled to hold a joint conference tonight to thrust out powers to be exercised by the council, Naguib and the 250-member constituent assembly to be elected in July.

Ever since Naguib was restored as President Feb. 27 in the face of a threatened army split and popular unrest brought about by the council's announcement of his resignation three days earlier, he has been putting on pressure for concessions. This led to the council's promise Friday night to hold the presidential election and eventually end martial law.

Two Young Girls Are Rescued From Canyon Near Yuma

YUMA, Ariz. (U.S.—Two young sisters, cold and hungry but apparently well, today were rescued from the rugged depths of Palm Canyon into which they had slipped unnoticed 16 hours earlier.

Carla Meyer, 12, and her 9-year-old sister, Jean, were carried from a narrow ledge by sheriff's deputies lowered down by rope.

The girls became lost after a day-long picnic near the palm-lined canyon 80 miles north of here.

Young Demo Liberals To Hold Parley

AUSTIN (U.S.—Another state convention of Texas Young Democrats was called today—this one by the liberal faction that refused to attend last month's convention.

Robert E. Hall of Austin, a state executive committeeman for the group, said the meeting will be held in San Antonio, May 8 and 9, "pledged to the support of the national Democratic party."

The convention was set at a meeting here last night of the executive committee. Members denounced the Mineral Wells convention backed by senior party officials as a "fake," claiming it represented only "the Shivers faction" of Young Democrats.

Representatives of four clubs that attended the Mineral Wells meeting were reported at last night's meeting.

Hall said a Ranger, Tex., delegation denied a charter at Mineral Wells was admitted to the loyalist group last night. He said representatives of clubs in Athens, Floyd and Midland indicated they would seek transfer of their respective clubs over to the loyalist group.

Other clubs dissatisfied with the "reorganization" convention at Mineral Wells were invited to attend the loyalist convention and to join its ranks, Hall said.

Mrs. Sturge Steiner of San Antonio was named chairman of the convention arrangements committee.

Members of the convention program included Mrs. Helen Simpson, Dallas; Thomas Laney, Denton; and Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Port Arthur.

The credentials committee included Chester Newland, Denton and Mrs. Damon Davis, Port Arthur.

The convention's nominating committee will include Travis Churchill, Denton; H. C. Pillsbury, Jefferson County.

The exact amount or number of military items to be furnished is left unspecified. However, American military authorities are prepared to go as far as the Japanese wish because Japanese forces must be stepped up sharply before any substantial American withdrawal.

"We can support any kind of program they are likely to come up with," one reliable source commented.

Actually, Allison and Okazaki signed seven agreements. These are:

1. The mutual defense assistance agreement.
2. A purchase agreement covering import of surplus U. S. grain.
3. An economic arrangement agreement. This provides Japan 50 million dollars in surplus grain for sale there. The proceeds are to be spent on military buildup.
4. An investment guarantee agreement. This allows American investors the right to recover investments in Japan and take out profits. Capital can be taken out after two years at the rate of 20 per cent yearly.
5. An agreement for the return of material no longer useful or needed.
6. An agreement to call the grain procurement a direct purchase in the event the Diet does not ratify the over-all agreement.
7. An exchange of letters stating views on item 4.

$7.7-Million In Arms Aid Given, President Says

WASHINGTON (U.S.—President Eisenhower told Congress today that in a little more than four years the United States has given $7,700,000,000 worth of guns, ammunition and other military equipment to strengthen free nations against the threats of Soviet power.

The weapons supplied, he said, included 30,792 tanks and combat vehicles, 5,340 aircraft, 601 Navy vessels and two million small arms and machineguns.

The figures he disclosed in the report on the mutual security program covered the period from the beginning of military assistance in October 1949 through last December. He said that almost 50 per cent of the total was shipped during 1953.

The report pictured many nations as regaining economic health and depending less on American assistance.

But the President asserted that "as long as the harsh threat to world peace exists our country will continue to shoulder the heavy obligations of world leadership."

He said that military assistance and economic aid programs, though constantly revised "cannot be drastically cut without undoing much of the rewarding success which has been so painstakingly and laboriously achieved."

The President said that in 1949 the United States financed about 35 per cent of its total exports of non-military goods and services by grants and loans, but in 1953 only about 15 per cent was financed by such aid.

With respect to Indochina, the President said that the rate of U. S. military shipments in 1953 was 50 per cent higher than in 1952, and he recalled that the United States had made available 385 million dollars for Indochina aid in addition to 400 million previously appropriated by Congress for the present fiscal year.

Military shipments in 1953 to all countries amounted to $3,800,000,000, an increase of more than 60 per cent over 1952 shipments.

Colonel Hill Begins Probe Of Batchelor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (U.S.—Col. Cyril D. Hill, judge advocate at Ft. Bliss, Tex., made a preliminary visit here yesterday in his probe to decide whether Army Cpt. Claude Batchelor should be court-martialed.

Batchelor, 23, of Kermit, Tex., is the former prisoner of war who first refused to leave his Communist captors in North Korea, then changed his mind and returned to the U. N. side last New Year's Eve.

The 4th Army Saturday named Hill to conduct the investigation to determine whether Batchelor committed a crime under the charges of misconduct and aiding the enemy.

Batchelor, in custody of the 4th Army at Ft. Sam Houston, is undergoing a medical checkup at Brooks Army Hospital.

NATIONALISTS HELD

Puerto Ricans Press Red Hunt

By JULIO RIVERA
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (U.S.—Puerto Rican authorities completed their roundup of Nationalist leaders today and pressed a hunt for the "big four" of the island's Communist party.

Forty Nationalist party leaders and six Communists were arrested in sweeping police raids over the weekend and jailed on suspicion of subversion. Three more Nationalists were arrested today.

These included Mrs. Angelina Torresola Platell, a sister of Griselda Torresola, who was killed in Washington when Nationalist gunmen tried to assassinate President Truman in 1950. Another sister, Doris Torresola, was already in jail. A party secretary, she was among five nabbed in a shooting fray Saturday along with Pedro Albizu Campos, 62-year-old chief of the party.

The fanatical, independence-seeking Nationalist group is estimated to have only 500 followers within the island commonwealth. The roundup of key leaders was launched just five days after Nationalists wounded five U. S. representatives with gunfire in Washington March 1. Authorities said, however, the raids were not connected with that shooting.

The half dozen Communists were captured without violence in the second round of arrests yesterday.

The four Communists being sought are Juan Santos Rivera, the party president; who reportedly had Moscow training; Juan Saez Corcos, a local labor union organizer; Cesar Andue Iglesias, former party aide; and Pablo Garcia Rodriguez, a Harvard-graduated lawyer.

In custody as Reds are Cornelio Burgos de Saez, wife of Saez Corcos; Jane Speed Andrus, 43, of Berkeley, Calif.; Andrew's wife, Mariano Arroyo Zeppendoff, 43, of Miami; and Cristino Perez and Felix Ojeda.

Atty. Gen. Jose Trias said both the alleged Communists and Nationalists, jailed on $25,000 bail each, are being charged with violating a local anti-subversive law.

Authorities believe the Puerto Rican Communist party has less than 100 members but fear that it is tied in with the Nationalist faction, which has several hundred followers. Both parties demand complete independence for Puerto Rico, and reportedly the Reds furnished some of the arms for the 1950 Nationalist revolt in which 30 persons were killed.

Communist leaders have denied arms aid to the rebels. They also issued a newspaper statement last week disclaiming any connection with the Washington shooting.

The extreme Nationalists have gained little legislative support in Puerto Rico. The lower house recently rejected 43-14 a resolution calling for complete independence instead of the present commonwealth status. The Senate voted 27-3 against a similar resolution.

U.S. Men May Be Red Raid Objective

By LARRY ALLEN
HAIPHONG, Indochina (U.S.—French military authorities enforced a state of emergency in this vital seaport today after a Vietminh commando raid on a nearby landing field where American air technicians service U. S.-supplied transport planes for the French war against the Communist-led rebels.

Reports circulated that the Vietminh had declared they planned to attack every area where American personnel work. The Vietminh radio recently accused the United States of intervening in the Indochinese war.

None of the 44 U. S. Air Force personnel stationed at the field, Catbi, three miles from Haiphong, was on the airfield when the commandos attacked before dawn yesterday.

Another 105 American technicians work at Dason airstrip, 12 miles southeast of Haiphong. The French set up prohibited zones around both fields, barring from the areas all civilians except those with special authorization.

The rest of the 232 Americans aiding the French in maintaining the planes are stationed at Tourane, on the central Indochinese coast.

The French announced the seizure of 74 men suspected of aiding the Vietminh in the Catbi raid. The military said five of the raiders were killed, "several" taken prisoner and three high explosive charges had been seized.

French said "several planes" had been destroyed but that these were light aircraft parked along the rim of the airport. A spokesman said airport troop patrols drove off the raiders before they could reach American-made Flying Boxcars and bombers lined up in the center of the field.

Patrols at the two airfields were reinforced after the attack. Patrols at all other landing strips in north Indochina were alerted today to guard against further Vietminh raids.

Before the arrival of the Americans, Vietminh commandos raided the Dason field about a month ago, damaging planes and blowing up gasoline storage depots.

Last Thursday morning rebels wrecked 12 transport planes at Gialam civil airport, five miles from Hanoi.

The attack at Catbi was made by khaki-uniformed Vietminh troops who got on the airfield by convincing the sentinels they were Vietnamese soldiers.

Their leader was described as "speaking perfect French."

Then the rebels rushed to put bombs, timed to go off in a few minutes, in the planes lined up on the runway. As explosions and fires swept the planes, the rebels opened fire on the airport guards.

The French Union patrols reported they had no losses but said, "Several of the Vietminh raiders were killed, wounded or captured."

The starting night raids on the strips are designed to smash as many as possible of the planes used in the vital airlifts taking troops and war supplies to the big Vietminh-encircled French outpost fortress at Dien Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi in northwest Indochina.

DEMOS VS. GOP

Party Leaders Steady Lines For Hawaii, Tax Cut Battles

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
WASHINGTON (U.S.—Party leaders showed their lines today for Republican-Democratic battles in Congress on two issues: taxes and statehood for Hawaii.

Senate Democrats have been summoned to their first caucus of the year tomorrow to discuss a campaign to tie an Alaska statehood amendment to the Hawaii bill which the Senate has been debating since last Thursday. The Republican leadership opposes the move.

The House on Wednesday is scheduled to take up the first big tax bill of the year, a measure to cut many excise or sales taxes.

In the Senate, Democrats outbid the Republicans in some preliminary skirmishing preparatory to a bigger battle a week later over reducing personal income taxes, number Republicans 48-47. In the House, there are 219 Republicans to 215 Democrats. Each branch has one independent.

They are seeking unanimous support for a proposal by Sen. Anderson (D-N.Y.) to add Alaska to the Hawaiian statehood bill. Alaska normally votes Democratic and Hawaii Republican.

Republicans are striving to keep the bills separate, arguing that the addition of Alaska might sink the statehood ambitions of Hawaii as well as Alaska.

Republican Leader Knowland of California has promised that a separate bill for Alaska will be considered by the Senate later this year. Some Democrats objected that there is no guarantee such a bill would be considered by the House, which passed the Hawaii bill last year, or that it would be signed by President Eisenhower.

The President has asked statehood now only for Hawaii.

secondary roads and to authorize a 185-million-dollar, three-year program of federal aid to hospital building.

Then on Wednesday it will consider a bill to slash excise taxes by nearly a billion dollars a year, cutting down to 10 per cent all levies above that figure except those on liquor and tobacco. The bill also would cancel reductions now due to take effect April 1 on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline and some other items.

Democrats may move to cut some of the excises still further, but in the main they are pointing toward next week's fight over a major revision of the tax laws to which they hope to attach an increase in the individual income tax exemption. The administration opposes any increase now.

The tax revision bill, which embodies administration recommendations for reduced taxes on corporation dividends and higher

Albania Reds 'Win'

LONDON (U.S.—Albania's Communist government scored an "overwhelming success" in elections of district councils yesterday through the little Soviet satellite on the Adriatic Sea, Tirana radio reported today.

The extreme Nationalists have gained little legislative support in Puerto Rico. The lower house recently rejected 43-14 a resolution calling for complete independence instead of the present commonwealth status. The Senate voted 27-3 against a similar resolution.

Albino Campos, in a prison hospital, was said by officials to have recovered from the effects of the tear gas that was used in arresting the fiery 62-year-old radical Saturday.

He still was claiming, however, that the United States is attacking him with cosmic rays. This has been a chronic complaint. Because of such hallucinations, medical authorities declared him mentally ill in 1951. In prison at the time for leading the 1950 revolt, he was transferred to a hospital. Later he was pardoned from his 34-year sentence because of his condition.

Ike Feels Excise Cuts Too Much

WASHINGTON (U.S.—House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said today the administration will not oppose House passage of a bill to cut excise taxes nearly a billion dollars, but will seek to ease the reductions in the Senate.

He told newsmen after the weekly conference of Republican congressional leaders at the White House that President Eisenhower feels the proposed cut "goes a little too far."

The speaker said the present plan is to call the bill up for debate in the House on Wednesday. The measure, in addition to cutting many excise taxes, would continue beyond April 1 the present excise or sales levies on a number of items, including liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles.

On other items the existing excise rate above 10 per cent would be cut back to that level.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES

Anderson Of Texas May Replace Kyes

By ELTON C. FAY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The name of Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson rode high today in speculation of the administration's choice of a successor for Roger B. Kyes in the Defense Department's No. 2 job.
 The White House and Pentagon announced over the weekend Kyes will leave the deputy secretaryship where he has served with Secretary of Defense Wilson since the outset of the Eisenhower administration.
 Kyes, interviewed at his home near Detroit, emphasized that his resignation "has absolutely nothing to do" with the recent clash between Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).
 Pentagon sources indicated the decision on a new deputy secretary already was made and that announcement of his identity could be expected shortly, perhaps by tomorrow.
 Kyes and his former General Motors Corp. colleague, Wilson, both said the deputy secretary took the job with the understanding he would remain for only a year. The assumption here is that Kyes will return to some official position with GM. However, he said he was not sure he would return to the automobile business.
 While Anderson's name was mentioned prominently in guesses today, it actually was only one of several names of men, both in and out of government, considered possibilities.
 Those who talked of Anderson,

a Texas businessman and rancher, figured it this way:
 Wilson reportedly wanted to turn to the service secretariat in picking a man for the second most important job in the huge military establishment, rather than disturb his "team" arrangement of assistant defense secretaries.
 In seniority and precedence, the Army secretary normally would rate first. But while the White House and Pentagon have backed Stevens in the stormy row with McCarthy, they may feel they could not promote him to the deputy defense secretary post without risking repercussions.
 Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbot has been praised highly by Wilson for his reorganization of procurement programs and business administration—but on at least one occasion a comment attributed to him produced diplomatic ripples abroad.
 Talbot last Nov. 2 was quoted as saying, while on a European tour, the proposed U.S. air bases in Spain eventually would have supplies of atomic weapons if Spain agreed.
 Next day he denied making the statement and Secretary of State Dulles said there were no such plans.
 Anderson, on the other hand, is described as having the same management sagacity as the other two service secretaries—but has succeeded in steering clear of embarrassments like those suffered by Stevens and Talbot.
 The possibility that an outsider might be asked to accept the job was not precluded in Pentagon talk.
 In this connection, there was mention of such names as Paul G. Hoffman, like Wilson and Kyes a motor industry man and a former foreign aid program administrator, and of John J. McCloy, New York banker who has held several important government posts in Washington and abroad during the last decade.
 Stevens' encounter with McCarthy resulted in so many reports that he had or would resign that the Army secretary on Saturday issued a formal denial declaring "nothing could be further from the truth."

BOSTON (AP)—A plucky 7-year-old girl who lost her legs in the Worcester tornado last June cheered another legless girl yesterday—by going into a snappy dance routine.
 Little Diane de Fosse of West Boylston visited Katherine Benedict, 20, whose legs were amputated last December after a train accident.
 Told that Kay was disappointed with new training-type artificial limbs, Diane explained she first used her artificial legs only four months ago.
 "You'll soon be able to do this," said Diane as she went into her tap dance.
 "This is the happiest visit I've had yet," said Kay. "Little Diane is an inspiration."

Egypt Confiscates Grafters' Wealth

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's Revolutionary Court has ordered confiscation of the millions Mrs. Zeinab el Wakil Nahas made in graft but spared the wife of Wafdist ex-Premier Mustafa el Nahas from prison because she's ailing.
 The three-man military tribunal found Mrs. Nahas guilty of corruption yesterday after hearing prosecution charges that she siphoned away nearly three million dollars in graft during her husband's two terms as head of King Farouk's government.
 The court ordered her stripped of all her property except 10,000 pounds ($20,000). But during the trial the prosecutor told the court Mrs. Nahas, after Farouk's ouster, smuggled $63,000 pounds ($1,260,000) to Switzerland before she and her husband were arrested. Presumably the government won't be able to get that.

Roosevelt Obtains Candidacy Backing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—James Pacht, son of a former Superior Court judge, Pacht trailed Roosevelt by only 12 votes on the first ballot and finally lost by only 14 on the second, when Roosevelt got 91—only one more than the 90 required for endorsement.
 However, after Roosevelt received 91 votes, Pacht moved that the endorsement be made unanimous. The 197 delegates responded with a roar of applause.
 Prior to the balloting of the 11 aspirants, Jerry K. Harter, 35, an attorney, said he came "without the benefit of a cocktail party for the delegates." He was alluding to a party Roosevelt gave Saturday night.
 Another aspirant, Ned Redding, 48, newspaper publisher, withdrew his candidacy through a telegram in which he said he felt that Democratic processes were being denied through the pre-primary convention.
 Paul Ziffren, Democratic national committeeman, who served as chairman, read the telegram and denied the council sought to bypass the primary ballot. The California primary election will be June 8.
 On Feb. 24 the court ordered

Roosevelt to pay $1,625 monthly to support his wife and their three small children pending trial of the separate maintenance suits.

Financier Young Charges Coercion In Central Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Financier Robert R. Young says the management of the New York Central Railroad is "coercing" its employees to fight his attempt to take over control of the line.
 Young said yesterday that an employee had complained to him that department heads were telling each worker that he would be expected to solicit the proxies of six shareholders in his neighborhood.
 The work, said Young, is to be done on the employee's own time.
 NYC President William White said of Young's charges: "It just sounds to me like a lot more words. Cry-baby words. This is just more evidence that Young can't stand resistance."
 Young, former chief executive of the Chesapeake & Ohio, is seeking to wrest control of the Central system from the management headed by White. The issue will be decided by shareholders at a meeting in Albany May 26.

Probed U.S. Ship Allowed To Move

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—The American freighter Volunteer State, held three days by Turkish authorities investigating a hit-run collision at sea, has been allowed to continue her voyage to Genoa.
 Maritime officials said the 7,210-ton vessel was in the area where the small Turkish ship Yayla was struck last Tuesday by a large ship which did not stop. The Yayla sank and four Turkish seamen drowned.
 The crew of the Volunteer State denied knowledge of any crashup.
 Her mate, William Gilmore Clary, 33, of Baltimore, Md., remained in Istanbul. He was the ship's watch officer at the approximate time the Yayla was sunk and the Turks said his help was needed to complete the inquiry.
 The U. S. consulate emphasized that he was neither under arrest nor charged with any violation and said he would rejoin his ship in about two weeks.

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The minority Democratic Socialist party is planning token opposition to the almost-certain re-election of Chiang Kai-shek as Nationalist China's president.

 Chiang, whose Kuomintang (Nationalist party) controls 80 per cent of the Assembly seats, is considered a shoo-in.

 A president will be elected later this month by the Assembly.

Next Move In Water Problem Up To State, Dexheimer Says

COLLEGE STATION (U-Texas)—But further initiative must come from your state leadership. The bureau's survey, he said, sized up two main sides of the Texas water situation:

1. Character and quantity of existing water supply.
2. Existing and anticipated future long-range needs for water by industry, cities, agriculture and other major activities.

"From these appraisals it is evident that in certain areas of Texas, such as the High Plains and Pecos Valley, water supplies are limited. Their full development will determine the extent of economic expansion that can be attained. The construction of projects in these areas, such as the proposed Canadian River (dam), are necessary for maximum economic growth," Dexheimer said.

"In other areas such as the Gulf Coast where water demands, especially for municipal and industrial expansion are the greatest, there is fortunately, an abundant over-all water supply. The problem here is one of water conservation and distribution, for the water supply, although ample, is not available at the right places or the right time to meet the extremely heavy anticipated future needs." He declared the problem is long range and any solution must be equally long range.

"It is particularly urgent that Texans become acquainted with their long-range water supply problems and needs so that the decision they must make in the coming years can be made with intelligence and foresight."

"The Pecos County well irrigator, who has witnessed his water table drop 50 feet, 100 feet and in places over 150 feet, in less than three years, has a water problem that directly affects his pocket-book."

"The High Plains cities associated in the Canadian River project would shortly be demanding from the Canadian River nearly 200,000 acre-feet per annum—just to meet their municipal requirements."

"In the Red Bed area of West Central Texas, the municipalities alone could absorb, within two decades or so, an additional 200,000 acre-feet annually—or face sharply restricted growth."

He said irrigated agriculture, which produces 46 per cent of the gross Texas agricultural income from harvested lands, is reaching a peak.

"A decline is inevitable unless remedial steps are taken—and soon."

Water means money, Dexheimer said.

"In just one of the plans the Bureau of Reclamation suggested for consideration by Texans we demonstrated that, if sufficient water supplies were provided the coastal area, income would ultimately be increased by approximately six billion dollars annually."

A Bible Thought For Today—

"Acquaint now thyself with him and be at peace." — Job 22:21. Job had to find peace the hard way. Not many of us have the afflictions and tragedies Job had to surmount, in order to find peace. No one need be friendless, abandoned, unloved.

In Nice But Straight Terms, Our Hemisphere Policy Well Stated

Some of the columning boys who kibitz our foreign policies from their ivory towers were quite sure Secretary Dulles would go to Caracas, open his mouth and put his foot in it. They were apprehensive that he would tell our Latin American friends they had better start taking political action against Communist infiltration. Instead of being satisfied to accept U. S. economic aid and depending on that to get rid of communism.

Even after he made his keynote speech on this subject, some of the fearsome ones, from the vantage point of Washington thought Dulles had wounded the Latin Americans' feelings.

But an AP correspondent on the spot reported the Inter-American delegates had settled down to work "in an atmosphere of optimism and unity following Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' statement of U. S. hemisphere policy."

Most Latin American delegates, he said, expressed satisfaction with what they termed the frankness and earnestness of the Dulles speech, "although many wished he had gone further into their specific economic problems."

The black sheep in Latin American relations is Guatemala, whose government follows the Moscow line. Dulles did not mention Guatemala by name; instead, he reminded the Latin Americans that they are not immune from the Communist menace, and the hemisphere must act in concert to ward off Communist infiltration. "It is time to make it clear with finality that we see that alien despotism is hostile to our ideals," said Dulles. "We have not made it equally clear that the integrity of this hemisphere... may be endangered from without and that we stand resolutely and unshakably against that form of danger. Because our position has not been made clear, the danger mounts."

He urged the 20 nations to deny international communism the right to prey on the Western Hemisphere, and if it does not heed the warning and keep away, "we shall deal with it" as a situation that might endanger the peace of the Americas. "Within the limits of diplomatic usage, that's pretty straight talk."

Not All Good Or Bad, But Rather A Matter Of Balance Between Two

Gordon S. Carboneau is a manufacturer in Grand Rapids, Mich., with 130 employees. Other day he got a bright idea and propositioned his employees to a contest. They were asked to clip newspapers and magazines for cheerful and optimistic news items to paste in scrapbooks. Best scrapbooks submitted will divide prizes totaling $350.

"Many encouraging things are taking place if we will see them and a contest of this kind can help allay fears and fears caused by some aspects of the world situation," Carboneau told his people.

"We'll buy Carboneau's thesis—up to a point. Newspapers and magazines do carry a lot of depressing and unpretty news and articles, true enough, but plenty of the 'cheerful and optimistic' stuff Carboneau so admires. Readers are conceded to have enough intelligence to balance the two off against each other, and arrive at their own conclusions as to whether to feel optimistic, pessimistic or just indifferent."

It would be a funny sort of world if it concerned itself only with cheerful and optimistic news. It would also be an ignorant and slightly silly world. It is a strange and wonderful world we inhabit, made up of a million and one things. It has always been like that.

"The horror of the moment," says the King in Alice in Wonderland, "I shall never, never forget!"

"You will, though," the Queen said, "if you don't make a memorandum of it."

We can't picture our general over-all world situation as being improved by people who look at nothing but cheerful and optimistic news. We might find ourselves riding over the brink with Pollyanna on a horse. We need a bit of Pollyanna, true enough, but let's not underestimate the importance of a touch of Cassandra to call us out of our day-dreams every now and then.

"Life is real. Life is earnest"—but not too much realism at a time, not to much earnestness. The doctor's prescription for the happy life calls for a nice balance between the two. Life, like a good breakfast bacon consists of a streak of lean and a streak of fat in seriation. We'll take ours on the crisp side, please.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs Despite Skeptics, Adenauer Is Hopeful For A Unified Europe

BERLIN — In the wake of the Berlin conference many skeptics are saying that the European Defense Community will be either delayed to death or rejected outright. But West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is not one of them. In a long talk with this correspondent he expressed his unshakable conviction that a unified Europe will come into being.

He predicted that by midsummer the treaty would be ratified. The chancellor will do his best to prevent the opposition in France and elsewhere from delaying action until it is determined at the Geneva conference whether a negotiated truce can be arrived at in the Indo-China War. After planning the delay, the Russians could propose another conference for September and then that would mean still another delay.

Adenauer is working on a plan which he hopes will bring agreement with France on a solution of the thorny problem of the Saar. While he is guarded about the nature of this solution, he apparently means to combine parts of the plan that originated with French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and former Foreign Minister Robert Schumann, with elements of the proposal worked out in a committee of the Council of Europe. He said with a kind of quiet solemnity that he was convinced EDC was the best way and perhaps the only way to prevent the rise of the German military spirit.

For more than two years Adenauer has been planning and plotting the course of EDC, convinced always that it was the only way to prevent a recurrence of the tragedy that three times since 1870 has seen France and Germany in mortal combat and the third time brought Europe to the very edge of ruin. The West German leader told me he is confident that when EDC is ratified, the 12 German divisions which will be Germany's contribution can be brought into being in 18 months.

This is more optimistic than other estimates, which put the time at a minimum of three years. But evidence of a real desire among many Germans to bring military power into being again is the fact that even though no call has been issued as yet, already 100,000 applications for service in the new army are on file. This includes applications from 25,000 former officers.

Lieut. Gen. Adolf Heusinger, a member of the Inter-European Planning Committee for EDC, believes it would take a year to bring the cadres of commissioned and noncommissioned officers into being. He points out that a careful screening process will be necessary in order to keep out those who were political officers in the Nazi army. Then in the second year with a draft the 12 divisions—four of them panzer divisions—would be filed up.

In the course of our talk I asked Adenauer how much of the equipment would have to be supplied by America. He replied simply: everything. The treaty with the three powers that still technically occupy West Germany and the Bonn Republic forbid, as the chancellor pointed out, the production of any arms other than small arms for hunting and the police. Therefore, the costly armored equipment for a modern army must come from the United States.

With a kind of sadness Adenauer spoke of the position of the Social Democrats who have held all their 144 members in parliament in line against EDC. Their position after the Berlin conference, said the chancellor, was bankrupt, and that was sad because a healthy opposition is essential to a democracy. The Socialists have gone on repeating year after year the same line. They want Germany to be free of both sides in the struggle. Yet, ironically enough, they have been most clamorous to have American troops remain on German soil. It is as though they feel that the presence of Americans in uniform will somehow guarantee a Germany in which the fierce spirit of the Wehrmacht will never again emerge.

Adenauer feels it would greatly help ratification of EDC if the United States would give a fixed commitment to keep troops in Western Europe for a long period of years. But he added quickly that Secretary of State Dulles had explained to him in their recent talk at the Bonn airport that because of legal and political complications such a guarantee could not be made.

Adenauer insists that he has no plans whatsoever that take possible failure of EDC into account. He refuses to believe that such a failure is possible. There comes a time, he says grimly, when you must put your cards on the table and have a showdown. His whole career as he has risen in popular favor from a comparative unknown to become a national and almost a folk hero has been reposed on making Germany a part of the European community. If that effort fails, his hold will be weakened and the future of Germany—and Europe—will be, to say the very least, uncertain.

HERITAGE DAYS

By MILLARD COPE

Poor in manpower and resources for waging a war of independence, Texas nevertheless was rich in land. But, the manner of disposing of the vast domain flared as one of the newly born republic's most pressing problems.

The convention at Washington-on-the-Brazos, which less than a week before approved a declaration of independence from Mexico, found its constitution-making legislative machinery bogged on March 8, 1836.

It was Robert Potter, whose service as a midshipman in the U. S. Navy was to be the basis for his becoming Secretary of the Navy in the Texas cabinet, who on that day threw the convention into turmoil by submitting the public land question.

Apparently defeated in committee, the erstwhile North Carolinian carried his fight to the convention floor to nullify all land grants of more than one league (4,428 acres) and one labor (177 acres) in extent. His proposal, in effect, would have wiped out the "land to all" policy which under Spanish and Mexican regimes had seen promiscuous grants issued as a means of attracting colonists.

Potter's lengthy plea for land grant nullification was answered by James Collingsworth in opposition. To Potter's side rushed Richard Ellis, president of the convention, David Thomas, and Martin Parmer, but the proposal in its radical form was defeated.

As finally adopted, the Constitution made no provision for a land tribunal, though it set up provisions for grants to citizens; declared null and void certain previous general grants where made under specific Mexican laws; and determined that no future land titles should be granted except on authority of the convention or the Congress.

The convention, though, set a pattern for bonus payments to its fighting men. Land, from 320 to 1,280 acres, varying with the length of service, was voted as a bounty for those in the Texas Army.

STEPHEN F. AUSTIN, the Father of Texas, ironically was not a delegate to the convention that declared Texas' independence. While the convention debated the issue of public lands, Austin was in Louisville, Ky. There he caught cholera and was successful also in securing other aid.

87 Arrested In Clothes Of Other Sex At Arlington

FORT WORTH (AP)—Eighty-seven persons arrested at a gathering where men were dressed as women and vice versa paid fines of $15.50 each yesterday on vagrancy charges. They were released.

The gathering was broken up Saturday night at an inn near Arlington. Sheriff's officers said the group included number of men in women's clothing and women dressed as men.

The place was raided as a show featuring female impersonators was to have started. Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Floyd said there was no lewd show of any kind.

Floyd said the gathering included persons from Texas, California, Ohio and Louisiana. Most of them were from Dallas, he said.

The deputy said one of the men told him it was an annual event—a "kind of Mardi Gras party."

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

Born in Kentucky on this day in 1793 was Henry S. Brown, early Texas settler, trader and Indian fighter.

Brown first fought against the red men in St. Charles County, Missouri about 1810. A trader by profession, Brown became acquainted with Moses Austin in Missouri, and his friendship probably led to his first visit to Texas in 1823.

The next year he returned to the Lone Star domain laden with a stock of goods for the Mexican and Indian trade.

In 1825 Brown organized a company of men to go in search of his brother, who had been captured by Indians. The search took them more than 300 miles into the Texas interior. They failed to find the brother; he was released, however, in 1826 and returned to civilization. From that time on Brown frequently interrupted his merchandising business to command pursuits of Indians. On one of these chases he became the first white man to visit the county which bears his name.

When trouble with Mexican authorities arose in East Texas in 1832, Brown organized a company and took an active part in the battle of Velasco, one of the forerunners of the Texas Revolution. The father of John Henry Brown, first eminent Texas historian, Brown died of cholera in 1834.

Flower Show At Capital Success Without Politics

By ED CREAUGH (For Hal Boyle)

WASHINGTON (AP)—You like flowers? Come along to Washington. We've got acres of them—From sassy yellow tulips to frail-as-a-wisp orchids—all under one roof at the national capital flower show. Prettier thing you ever saw.

Maybe I shouldn't mention this but you can do more than smell the posies at this big annual event. You can get your back massaged and your personality analyzed. I did both and my back came out better than my personality.

Flowers are the main attraction, though, and that's fine with me. I'm a great garden fancier, and our back yard would be a solid mass of blooms in summer except that I'm too leader-headed: I hate to see my wife's hands calloused from doing all the work. Boris Timchenko, the landscape artist, designed this year's show, and came up with what he calls "one of the newer ideas of outdoor living... the newest of all necessities, or maybe the greatest of all luxuries—the private bedroom garden."

"There is," says Timchenko, "a tendency to spend more time in your bedroom, to relax in your bed, or recline in a chair; to let your mind wander over the most peaceful of all spectacles—plants and flowers growing in the early morning sunlight."

Tip-toeing away to avoid waking Timchenko—who does the planting and weeding, by the way, while he lies late abed?—you can investigate some of the sample gardens. One of the better ideas: a child-proof garden, with your prized blossoms cannily planted out of reach of the demon fingers of the young 'uns.

But oops—what's this: "Would you care to have your back massaged?" asks a nice-looking girl in a booth at the edge of the floral display.

You look dubiously at your wife, but she's lost in rapture over some flame-red carnations so you nod a nervous assent. Don't expect too much, though. All the girl does is apply an oversize massaging gadget, something like the barber uses on your scalp, to the region of your sacro-iliac.

"Just the thing for gardeners," she says brightly, "takes out the knots and tensions. Only $49.50. Now this reclining chair contains three massage motors. Just ease back, flip a switch and—"

You get away from there quick before you go native. Massage chairs, private bedroom gardens—what kind of outdoor life is this, anyway?

Now (there is just a hint of Coney Island around the edges of the flower show) comes Omar, a pleasant little man in a beret. He'll analyze your handwriting for a fee. Never mind what Omar told me about myself; the grand jury is still in session.

One thing puzzled us for a moment about the flower show. The "President Eisenhower" rose, a handsome specimen, is planted right next to the "Goldilocks" rose. We looked hard for some evidence of (A) Democratic or (B) Republican propaganda, but finally decided it was just one of those things. There's no politics in the flower show, so far as we could see. Maybe that's why it's such a big success.

Trends Indicate That Secrets On Way Out, Scientist Says

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

There's an old saying, "If three know, everyone knows," meaning, if you harbor knowledge you don't want the world to kick about, you'd best keep it to yourself. A few millions years from now, provided man learns to live with the atom and hydrogen bombs and is still a going concern, there'll be no secrets. So says a University of Pennsylvania man of science.

Everyone will know everybody else's business, according to Professor Marion Krogman, because of brain waves.

Man's thinking apparatus is already a lot more complex than it was 500 years ago, according to the scientist, and he predicted the evolutionary trend will one day make the brain both a sending and receiving piece of equipment.

If Professor Krogman is correct, then the grand old institution of marriage may have been outdated by that time. Either that, or the principals are going to have to adopt a new set of rules.

Imagine the husband coming home late who's called a liar even before he relates the story to his wife about having to work overtime at his office.

It'll make many an Honest Injun out of golfers, however, who often neglect to count all their strokes when they're over in the rough killing snakes.

Krogman points out there can be no secret alliances between persons and nations, no 'surprise attacks' among people. Radar-like, says he, the 'brains' of a nation will have their minds attuned to the thoughts of other nations.

Out of it all, the professor sees this stalemate resulting in lasting peace, giving civilization and culture a chance to flourish as never before.

Krogman is also authority for the statement that the humans of the distant future will have very little stomach, flat and circular feet and will have little or no use for their mouths.

Present day chemistries, he states, point to a time when calories, minerals, proteins, fats and carbohydrates will be concentrated into minute doses.

For that reason, he adds, the digestive tracts will become unemployed and shrink up and become similar to the vestigial appendix which we have today. Body bulk, he adds, especially around the tummy, will disappear.

Wonder why science wants to trim the suet from the big people? All the world's supposed to love a fat man.

Young Uses Diversion Tactics In Effort To Take Over NYC

Any young man or woman, ambitious above all else to become an industrial tycoon or railroad magnate, could do no better than take Robert R. Young as a precursor. In his campaign for control of the $2,000,000 New York Central Railroad, Young fights Wall Street as the Democrats fight the Hoover depression. It's the tactic of diversion.

As soon as the battle started, Young denounced the "banker-controlled" board of directors of the Central. The same "banking clique" that brought on the 1929 crash, he declared, is trying to prevent the control of Central from reverting to its rightful owners, the small stockholders. At once, he put himself forth as Sir Lancelot slaying the Wall Street dragon.

Next came a transaction worthy of the Medici. The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, from which Young had retired as chairman, owned 800,000 shares of Central stock which it couldn't vote. Suddenly, Cyrus S. Eaton, whom Young helped to become chairman of the C. & O., sold this stock to Sid W. Richardson and Clinton W. Murchison, two oil-wealthy Texans and friends of Young, for $25 a share. That took the stock out of a voting trust.

That $20,000,000 sale made Young look like a sure winner. Young and his associate, Allan P. Kirby, said they own 200,000 shares. The Allegheny Corp., which they control, is supposed to own another 100,000 shares. That plus the 800,000 equals 1,100,000 out of 6,400,000 shares, or 17 per cent. In most enterprises, that's the business! And small stockholders like to be on the winning side.

Next, Young sets out to prove he's a public servant. With Allegheny Corp. funds, he publishes a full-page advertisement headed, "Memo No. 1 on Competitive Bidding." It tells how Young refused to let the C. & O. Railway negotiate the sale of bonds privately with bankers. The C. & O. demanded sealed bids. Thus, Young saved railroads and their stockholders from the Wall Street plunderers. Pro bono publico! In this fight, Young allied with Eaton, whose firm of Otis & Co. was interested in competitive bidding.

The advertisement says nothing of U. S.

Judge Harold R. Medina's comment on Young's methods. In his famous decision in the government's futile monopoly suit against 17 Wall Street investment banking firms, the jurist said competitive bidding has come about "in no small measure, as the result of a campaign of misrepresentation and pressure, political and otherwise, described by Young as 'putting the heat on,' in which revenge for real or fancied wrongs played no small part."

One issue after another was forced to resort to competitive bidding. Judge Medina found, "despite the wishes of management to negotiate... The difficulty was that there was no forum at which the misstatements of fact could be exposed, and the prospect of a public exchange of vituperation with Eaton and Young was far from alluring to say nothing of the distaste for threatened stockholders' suits, telegrams to political figures in high places, news releases, and magazine articles."

The New York Central has now begun its counter attack. It has asked the ICC to determine whether Young doesn't still control the C. & O.; whether Young, Eaton, Richardson, and Murchison aren't trying to accomplish objectives which the ICC said were unlawful.

The Central petition says: "There can be no question but that the purported sale (of Central stock) was intended to be of great advantage to Young in his ambitions as to Central. That Eaton took this action risking extensive criticism and litigation by C. & O. stockholders is conclusive that the relations between Young and Eaton go far beyond bonds of mere friendship."

The Central petition is adroit. Not only does it suggest to C. & O. stockholders that Eaton is open to lawsuit, but it raises the question of whether C. & O. had the right to withdraw the 800,000 shares of Central stock from the Chase trust. Wouldn't it be ironical if Young, having gone through such a Machiavellian maneuver, ties up $20,000,000, 800,000 shares, and his own hands?

As for Young's charge of absentee owners controlling the Central, one wonders: Is Wall Street further from 42d Street than Texas?

From The Capital—Thomas L. Stokes

Responsibility For McCarthy Put Squarely On GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON — Responsibility for Senator Joe McCarthy has been delegated to leaders of the Republican party—in Congress and outside. That was done, officially, by President Eisenhower. In making the assignment, the President gave them a cue.

This is what he expects them, now that he has rebuked the Wisconsin Senator before the bar of public opinion, to ride herd on their high-swinging colleague; to see that he treats fairly and decently any officials of the Executive Branch who are called before his committee, and to complete the code for fairness for all Congressional hearings upon which they now are working and put it into effect.

Though there was obvious disappointment in some quarters at the cautious and moderate tone of the President's statement, its impact was apparent when Senator McCarthy screamed back immediately in the interperate language of a man who has been struck a heavy blow and is thrown off balance.

Very close to events, and therefore are sometimes inclined to become casual, that it is, indeed, a grave matter for a politician to be singled out by the President of the United States, and by the President of his own party, as in this case. For we recognize that the President speaks for all of us and that he is fully conscious of that when he does speak. He did put his finger squarely on Senator McCarthy, without ever using his name, by his direct reference to, and his approval of, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwickler. It was the general who was bullied by Senator McCarthy to start the episode that came to a new climax with the President's personal intervention.

A President cannot get into a running brawl with a Senator. Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that he has had his say. Now it is up to party leaders to whom he gave full rein, with his blessing, to do whatever is necessary to check the Senator. The President's statement seemed, in effect, to be license to outlaw the Wisconsin troublemaker if such drastic action is required.

Here are tests both for Congress and the Executive Branch.

It will be interesting to see how earnestly Senate leaders pick up the President's cue. Hitherto they have been very timid about Senator McCarthy because of a belief in his political power which they did not want turned on them. Because of this belief, they also expected to use him widely in the coming Congressional elections campaign. That also had been the intention of Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, who kept insisting that the McCarthy Communist-in-government theme would be the chief issue in the campaign even after President Eisenhower expressed the hope that it would not be, but that Republican accomplishments would be, instead.

Nobody expects the Senator to pipe down and be good. That is not his style or his history. He has already reached back again into his two favorite hunting grounds—the Army.

The first hint that Republicans leaders fear that Senator McCarthy might eventually become a political liability was in Chairman Hall's statement, made after he had talked with President Eisenhower about the McCarthy dilemma, that he could not go along with the Senator when he attacks those who also are fighting communism, meaning General Zwickler. That wasn't much perhaps, but it was unexpected.

Perhaps the President reminded the national chairman, as he did his leaders of Congress by his statement, that Republicans should have something in the way of a record to show for the current session of Congress.

Mentally Ill Studied By Hyperion

"At the rate we are living, we can expect one person out of twenty to spend some time in a mental institution at some time of his life," said Mrs. Maurice Koger in a panel discussion at the 1930 Hyperion Club meeting in the home of Mrs. Chester Barnes. Mrs. Charles Weeg was co-hostess. Mrs. Koger, as leader of the panel, introduced Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, who gave an account of the medical facilities in Big Spring, such as having seven hospitals, with a total of 1,000 beds and 650 employees. She also mentioned the work of the public health nurses. Mrs. Koger stressed the importance of bringing before the public the necessity of better facilities for caring for the mentally ill and the need of careful diagnosis. She brought out the differences between the normal, neurotic and the psychotic personalities. Mrs. Son Powell continued the discussion with the conditions in the hospitals for mentally ill and she stressed the need for more trained personnel in caring for the patients. She showed the necessity of having more space for such cases, since most hospitals for the mentally ill are crowded beyond their capacity. A short business meeting was held and refreshments were served to fifteen. Mrs. B. L. LeFever, a former member, was present after re-election to membership.

Mature Beauty

Veteran actress Glenda Farrell believes in the stitch-in-time philosophy for beauty. Her next picture is "The Secret of the Incas" for Paramount.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Good Personal Habits Help To Retain Youth

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Glenda Farrell has been living in New York since World War II began and her many friends in Hollywood were happy to welcome her back when she came here to do the "Secret of the Incas" for Paramount recently. When I lunched with her last week at the studio she talked about how much this cinema capital had grown. "I cut my theatrical teeth in the Morocco theater in Los Angeles and then Hollywood and Beverly Hills were just villages. "But while I feel the look of the city had changed," Miss Farrell continued, "I must say that my friends haven't. It's amazing how young everyone stays today! You don't see a person for ten years and when you do see them they discover that they look just the same. "You never seem to change el-ther," I remarked. "What is your secret for concealing birthdays?" "I've never considered myself a glamour girl," Miss Farrell confided, "but I have always had great respect for my body. Being healthy and keeping your figure remaining active is a matter of habit. It may take some time for the results to show but, like in everything else, we reap what we sow."

VITAL INFORMATION
Every woman will want a copy of leaflet M-6, "For the Mature Woman." Here you'll learn both prevention and cure of double chin, plus valuable information on how to care for your hands. Get a copy by sending five cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

"I've been in the theater since I was a child. My mother's people were in show business for generations so I was taught discipline early." "Would you say that following discipline is your top beauty secret?"

"It certainly is the foundation of well-being and beauty," Miss Farrell agreed. "We are creatures of habit—we balk when we are asked to take on the strange and relinquish the familiar. That is why it's so important to examine your habits and make sure they are good ones."

"I've never had a weight problem because I've never gone in for eating as a pastime. To me, food is nourishment—something you have to have. I could eat lamb chops, baked potatoes and a green salad ever night."

"I've kept active so that I have not had time to get out of shape, though I must confess I am not athletic," Glenda added. "And I have tried always to buy the best preparations I could for keeping my face clean and smooth."

"You make it sound very simple," I commented. "There is no doubt about it that there are many wonderful preparations to keep the skin young. But you have to know when to break yourself of only the soap and water habit."

"No one can say exactly at what age the girl becomes a mature woman and when to break the habit but it's a good idea to start caring for your skin before it needs special attention," she added.

Important Reef Discovery In Prospect In Northeast Howard

Russell McGuire No. 1 E. H. Carpenter, northeast Howard County wildcat, located Monday as a reef discovery.

Sunday on a test the venture made an oil flow estimated variously from 30 to 50 barrels per hour. On a second test the tool plugged just as gas was surfacing.

This is three miles northeast of the recent Texas & Pacific No. 1 reef, a discovery southeast of the East Vealmoor pool. It is five miles southwest of the nearest reef production in a small area northeast of Vincent.

A wildcat completion was reported today in Central West Borden County by Falcon, Seaboard, Green and McSpadden. Their No. 1 Clayton and Johnson made potential flow of 198 barrels of oil from the Pennsylvania Reef in 24 hours.

Also finished was M. E. Daniels and Lester Clark No. 2 J. O. Rosser, producing in the Moore Field about six miles southwest of Big Spring. It made a pumping potential of 30 barrels of oil.

Borden

Falcon Oil Company, Seaboard, Green and McSpadden No. 1 Clayton and Johnson, C SW SE, 8-32-4n, T&P survey, has been completed from the Pennsylvania for a 24-hour flowing potential of 198 barrels of oil. Potential was gauged on flow through a 10-64th inch choke from perforations between 8,238 and 8,246 feet. Tubing pressure was 550 pounds, and there was a packer on casing. Gravity of oil measured 45.8 degrees, and the gas oil is 60-1. A wildcat, the new prospect is on a 100-acre tract about 11 miles north of Vealmoor and 11 miles north of production in the Good Field. It is also 12 miles west and slightly south of Gall.

Texas Crude No. 1-44 Brown, 660 from north and 1,700 from east lines, 44-33-4n, T&P survey, is drilling below 5,230 feet in line.

Brahany Drilling Company No. 1 Acoosta, 330 from south and west lines, northwest 137 acres of section 8, block 33, tp. 3-North, T&P survey, is waiting on cement to dry on 7 1/4th inch casing at 3,290 feet.

Nephews will serve as pallbearers here. They are Holliday Wiley, Frank Hank, Tommy Prather, Bee Davis Jr., John Davis and Albert Davis.

Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. John A. Davis of Mineral Wells; a son, Richard Davis of Fort Worth; three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Montgomery of Rotan, Mrs. Edna Caldwell of Rotan and Mrs. Ben Hinds of Mineral Wells; and two brothers, S. A. Davis and DeWitt Davis, both of Big Spring.

Funeral services will be held here for John Alexander Davis, 86, who died this morning in Mineral Wells, Mr. Davis, born April 9, 1847, in Denton County, was a former long-time resident here. He moved to Howard County in 1894 and lived here until 1942. He moved to Rotan after leaving here and from there to Mineral Wells.

Mineral Wells services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday at the Central Methodist Church.

The body will then be brought here for services at 4:30 p. m. in the Nalley Funeral Home chapel with interment to follow at Masonic cemetery.

Rev. Jesse Young of Park Methodist Church and Dr. R. G. Lloyd of the First Presbyterian Church will officiate.

This project, a wildcat, is about a mile and a half south of production in the Luther Southeast Field, which produces from the Siluro-Devonian. Tests started on the Haney venture when operator got a drilling break at 9,855 feet. One source said there was 270 feet of free oil. Total depth was 9,914 feet and the formation was unofficially estimated to be 15 feet high to the discovery well.

Russell McGuire No. 1 E. J. Carpenter, two miles west of Vincent, flowed at a rate estimated from 30 to 50 barrels per hour Sunday. Reef was topped at 7,537 and the test was taken in three minutes, mud in six, and oil flowed out in seven.

Operator cut another 20 feet of section and then tested from 7,566. Gas surfaced in 2 1/2 minutes and the tool plugged. Further attempts were to be made to test. STANTON (SC)—Services were to be held at 2 p. m. Monday for Mrs. Fannie Elizabeth Cross, 81, who helped her husband establish a ranch in northern Glasscock County 30 years ago.

Mrs. Cross died Sunday in a hospital in Big Spring. She had been ill for half a dozen years and had been hospitalized on several occasions.

The Rev. Fred McPherson, pastor of the Southside Church at Lubbock and formerly her pastor in the First Baptist Church here, was to officiate. Assisting were the Rev. E. B. Coon, pastor, and the Rev. H. H. Hunt, First Methodist minister.

Burial was to be in the Evergreen Cemetery beside the grave of her husband, Thomas P. Cross Sr., who died in 1929. Arrangements were in charge of Arrington Funeral Home.

Mrs. Cross was born Fannie Elizabeth Beauchamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Beauchamp, in Webster County, Ga., on Dec. 14, 1862. When she was a girl of three years, her family moved to Texas.

She was married to Thomas P. Cross at Buffalo Gap on Nov. 5, 1888, and they began carving out ranch holdings. It was in 1920 that they settled in northern Glasscock County below Lomax.

Surviving are six sons, Grady Cross, Bland Cross, Horace Cross of Stanton, Roy Cross, Padueah, Wren Cross, Post, and Lon Cross, Stephenville; three daughters, Mrs. A. W. Keisling, Stanton, Mrs. C. S. Berryhill, Big Spring, and Mrs. C. C. Cornelius, Tucson, Ariz. One daughter, Mary Loma, died in 1929, and one son, Thomas F. Grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Man Charged With Burglary Here Is Arrested Again

George Kean of Fort Worth, who was arrested here a week ago Saturday night and charged with breaking and entering, was arrested in Midland on burglary charges Sunday night.

Capt. Billy Patterson of the Midland police department said Kean, another Fort Worth man, was arrested in the act of "knocking a safe."

Two Midland policemen saw the men in the Tower Theatre working on the safe in an attempt to open it. The accused men had just knocked the knob off and were "peeling" the door, Patterson said.

Kean was released here last Wednesday after posting $1,000 bond in connection with local charges. He and Herbert Cochran, another Fort Worth man, were apprehended at Radford Wholesale Grocery at 101 Runnels by police.

Work Moves Ahead On Water Plant

Construction on the city's new filtration plant addition is approximately 22 per cent complete, according to engineering estimates.

However, City Manager H. W. Whitney said this morning that if progress is judged by the amount of work complete and the amount of material on hand that the contractor is 48 per cent through.

Practically all the material necessary to finish the job is now at the filtration plant site, he said. This includes pipe, fittings, brick, tile and machinery.

Each and Sons, contractors, are in charge of the construction. The firm was given 275 calendar days to complete the project, and the starting date was Sept. 18. Work has been slowed in recent weeks because of negotiations with the carpenters union.

Also under construction at the filtration plant at 16th and Virginia is a half million gallon water storage tank.

Charge Is Filed

Charges of child desertion have been filed in Howard County Court against Antonio Fierro. He is in the county jail.

Austrian Weekend Avalanche Toll Is 12

GI Stabbed, Left Dead In Mess Hall

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP)—An 18-year-old American soldier was stabbed 24 times and left dead on the floor of an Army mess hall last night.

The Army today said the suspected slayer, another serviceman, was being hunted by military and Japanese police.

The scene was the mess hall of the ammunition depot at Ikegami, near the big naval base of Yokosuka, south of Yokohama.

Names were withheld.

The Army said the slayer was seen by a Japanese hollerman holding the victim by the shirt and waving a knife.

No Damage From Fire At Church

Senterfitt Slaps Section Of Teacher Pay Hike Plan

AUSTIN (AP)—House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt today slapped at one section of the proposed teachers pay raise compromise plan as "the most vicious threat to our economy" that Texas taxpayers have ever faced.

He referred to a plan which would allow a credit of $100 per teacher unit in each school district. Senterfitt said under existing law it could be used "for salaries, or any type of building desired, or any other purpose."

Instead of costing $5,000,000 yearly, the speaker said, "in a very short period of time the cost of their program would approach an amount much nearer the sum of $500,000,000."

Senterfitt's written statement, once more underlining his opposition to the plan under which Gov. Allan Shivers called the special session, said the $100 proposal would subjugate Texas "to the dictatorial and whimsical fantasies of minority groups and fringe-element theorists."

Shivers meanwhile started a series of pre-special session conferences with business men, legislators and teachers. He is hoping for a smooth-working special session, but continued pot-shooting from Senterfitt indicates considerable static building up.

Senterfitt is a candidate for governor. Shivers may also be, but he hasn't said so.

Senterfitt said another state recently inaugurated a program similar to the one to be studied by the special session beginning a week from today. It grew so large that

The legislators will be asked to increase pay of school teachers and state workers and put up more money for several state institutions including Southwestern Medical at Dallas, the deaf school at Austin, the dental school and cancer hospital at Houston, and the prison system.

Plans to put additional levies on natural gas, oil and beer have all advanced.

Rep. Robert Patten of Jasper has sent a circular letter to all House members saying he will offer again a bill to levy a severance tax on natural gas, similar to one proposed last session. He figured it would bring $40,000,000 a year.

Speaker Reuben Senterfitt today named members of two vacancies on the important House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

They were Reps. Joe Burkett Jr., Kerrville, and Jack Fisk Wharton.

Senterfitt said he was making the appointments now because "it is imperative that the members have all the time possible to acquaint themselves with the problems of taxation presented to the special session."

Tax legislation must originate in the House.

Local Couple Hurt In Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. M. Weaver were injured Sunday night in an automobile accident near San Antonio.

Weaver suffered an arm fracture and Mrs. Weaver is believed to have received a pelvic fracture. R. H. Weaver, their son, reported today. Full extent of the injuries had not been determined this morning.

The mishap occurred about 8 p. m. Sunday on a highway south of San Antonio. Car in which the Weavers were travelling was in collision with another machine. Grady Weaver, their nephew, and Mrs. Grady Weaver were travelling with the couple, but were not hurt.

Aubrey Weaver and Helen Chapman, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Weaver, went to San Antonio this morning. They hope to be able to return their parents to Big Spring.

Odessa Is Named Rotary Governor

Burglar Alarm Sounds At Store

The burglar alarm sounded about 4:40 p. m. Sunday at Lynn's Jewelry Store, 221 Main, but officers said it was stuck and that apparently no entry had been made to the building.

Two thefts were reported Sunday. Chester Gammon, who was staying in a local hotel, advised officers that a watch had been stolen from him. Mrs. E. T. Arnold of Coahoma reported that a man in a 1941 to 1946 model Ford drove off from her service station without paying for $2.50 worth of gasoline.

Auto Sideswiped

Maxie J. Cole, 1100 Austin Street, advised police that his car was sideswiped in city park late Saturday night by a 1940 model Ford which had a Utah license plate.

R. W. THOMPSON

R. W. Thompson To Seek Post On School Board

Local political developments shifted to the school scene today, as a second candidate entered the trustee's race and both incumbents whose terms expire announced that they would not seek re-election.

R. W. (Stormy) Thompson, vice president in charge of production and pipeline operation for Cosden Petroleum Corp., announced that he was filling for a place on the board.

Thompson said he had no "campaign statements" to make other than that he is interested in education and is anxious to see local schools move forward.

Thompson has had some personal experience in the field of public education, having previously spent four years teaching and coaching athletics. He is a graduate of West Texas State College at Canyon, and holds an LL.B. degree from Cumberland University.

He has been active in civic affairs and activities of his church here for many years. He is a past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club, past president of the Country Club and served as chairman of the board and chairman of the finance committee of the First Methodist Church for several years.

Thompson has been a resident of Big Spring since 1936, and has been associated with Cosden continuously since that time. He and Mrs. Thompson have two children in school here.

Marvin M. Miller, president of board, and H. W. Smith vice president, both indicated that they did not plan to seek re-election this year. Miller and Smith are the only two members of the board whose terms expire.

NCAA Tournament To Begin Tonight On Two Fronts

Five Champs Undecided

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP)—With five conference races still to be decided in down-to-the-wire battles, the involved NCAA post-season basketball tournament gets under way tonight with preliminary rounds scheduled for Buffalo, N. Y., and Durham, N. C.

Powerful La Salle of Philadelphia (21-4), Middle Atlantic Conference winner, is favored over Fordham (18-5), and Connecticut (23-2), the New England representative, is a slight choice over Navy (16-7) in the Buffalo double-header. Fordham and Navy are "at large" teams—that is not members of any conference.

At Durham, North Carolina State (25-4), the Atlantic Coast Conference titleholder, meets Southern Conference champion George Washington (25-2). State was an upset winner in the AAC loop, but George Washington swept through the Southern like a tornado. GW is favored.

The winners all will advance to the regional finals, slated to start in Philadelphia Friday. The winner of the Connecticut-Navy game will play the still-to-be-determined Ivy League champion. The winners of the other two games also will meet.

Only one of the vacancies definitely will be filled tonight. That one will be the Pacific Coast berth. The playoff between Southern Division champion Southern California and Northern Division winner Oregon State shows one victory apiece. They play the deciding game tonight.

As for the other four, here is how they stand:

Southwest—Rice and Texas, which finished in a tie, have played one game of their three-game playoff series, with Rice the winner. They play No. 2 tonight.

Southeastern—Kentucky and Louisiana State finished in a tie, and since they did not meet during the regular season, they will settle matters in a one-game playoff at the Vanderbilt field house in Nashville tomorrow.

Big Seven—Kansas is in first place with 10-1 and has one game to play against Missouri tomorrow night. Colorado, which is in second place, has finished its season with 10-2. If Missouri (5-6) should surprise one and all by tripping the Jayhawks, Kansas and Colorado would have to toss a coin to find out the NCAA representative.

Ivy—Cornell (11-2), the leader, and Princeton (10-3), the runner-up, meet in a tight contest tonight. Princeton has won its last nine games, including a victory over Cornell, so this one very easily could wind up in a deadlock. If Princeton wins, they'll play it off in Philadelphia tomorrow night. Cornell, incidentally, hasn't won the championship in three decades.

Three spots were filled Saturday. North Carolina State made it with an 82-80 overtime decision over Wake Forest; George Washington moved on by defeating Richmond, 83-70, and Indiana, which won the championship last year, earned the Big Ten berth with a 67-64 victory over Illinois.

Meanwhile, the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden will go with its second triple-header, pitting Brigham Young against St. Francis of Loretto, Pa.; Niagara against Dayton; and Western Kentucky against Bowling Green.

Dayton eliminated Manhattan, 90-79, Saturday night and Bowling Green edged Western Kentucky, 88-84. In the third game, St. Francis of Brooklyn advanced against Louisville, 60-55.

The NIAA—the small-college tournament—also gets under way today. The 32-team event will run six days with the eventual champion having to play and win five games in that span. Springfield (Mo.) State is the defending champion.

Dave Douglas Wins Houston Tourney

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—Dave Douglas hadn't won a dime this year until he plucked a big one, the Houston Open's $6,000 top prize, and now is winter golf's second leading money winner.

The slender Grossinger, N.Y., pro won the winter tour's richest tournament yesterday by turning in his fourth day of subpar golf. His 72-hole 277 was 11 below par and placed him two strokes in front of Memphis' Cary Middlecoff, the defending champion and pretournament favorite.

Middlecoff's $3,200 runner-up money boosted his earnings for the year to $6,780.56 for first ranking.

Douglas clinched top money in the $30,000 tournament with a final-round, 5-under-par 67 that took most of the record gallery of 12,000 to 15,000 by surprise. Douglas, 36, had gone practical-

Gavilan Takes On Minelli

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan has his final tuneup tonight for his April 2 middleweight title fight with Bobo Olson.

The Cuban Flash faces veteran Livio Minelli again in a non-title 10 in Boston. Gavilan outpointed the Italian in Cleveland 11 months ago.

Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore also shows his stuff this week. He goes after his 17th straight victory against bulky Bob Baker of Pittsburgh in a non-title 10 at the Miami Beach Auditorium Tuesday night.

Handsome Bobby Dykes, the Miami middleweight contender, is an 8-5 favorite to beat hustling Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., in a 10 at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena tonight. DuMont telecasts the 10 p.m., EST tussle.

Gl Turner, another middleweight contender, mixes with Bobby Jones, Oakland, Calif., veteran, at the Philadelphia Arena Wednesday night. The 10-rounder will be telecast by CBS starting at 10 p.m., EST.

Two 6-foot-3 heavyweights, Nino Valdes of Cuba and James J. Parker of Toronto, collide in the headline 10 at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Valdes, the No. 2 contender, is after his seventh straight win. Parker—big punch, glass chin—has copied 17 in a row. ABC will broadcast and NBC will telecast the 10 p.m., EST, tilt.

Punchers are featured in the Saturday night television (ABC) fight. Joe Miceli, left-hooking New York welterweight who has flattened his last three opponents, meets Johnny Lombard of Mt. Carmel, Pa., at the Cincinnati Music Hall. The bout starts at 10 p.m., EST.

Earl Walls, No. 7 heavyweight contender from Toronto, and Harry (Kid) Matthews, ninth-ranking heavy from Seattle, could follow their records this week. Walls meets Freddie Besboro at Edmonton, Monday. Matthews tiffs with Murray Burnett of Chicago at Spokane Tuesday.

Jake LaMotta, the old Bronx Bull now a Miami resident, starts a comeback Thursday in Miami. The former middleweight champion meets Johnny Prestle, of Boston in a light heavyweight 10.

Laredo Entry Record Won't Be Equalled This Season

LAREDO (AP)—The entry list for the Border Olympics neared the 1,000 mark today with small indication, however, that last year's record-breaking meet would be equalled.

Some 13 records were hung up in the four divisions of the big track and field carnival in 1953—the greatest onslaught in 21 years.

At least four new marks and possibly twice that many are likely this year.

In the university class, which has drawn nine teams and expects to have 10, the only record that appears in danger is the 440-yard relay. Texas did 41.9 both in 1952 and 1953 to set the record. Its relay team this year looks even better.

Oklahoma A&M hasn't yet entered the meet but if it does its Fredrik Eckhoff might set some records. Eckhoff last year did the mile in 4:16.5 and the two-mile in 9:27.9, both new marks.

Entries in the university class are Baylor, Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, Texas, Texas Christian, Rice, Louisiana State, Texas Tech and University of Houston.

In the college class, which has drawn 10 schools, a fight for the championship between North Texas State and Abilene Christian has been projected, as George Adrian of A&C might set a record in the 440-yard dash. He has done this event in 47.8 and the record here is 48.8.

The high school class may produce some records under the efforts of athletes from 45 schools. Bob Crump of Amarillo leaped 2 feet 5 inches last year. This is a

Steelettes Play Odessa Tonight

A fine exhibition season behind them, the Big Spring High School girls' volleyball players head west today to challenge Odessa in their first conference game of the campaign.

The Steelettes have been beaten only once in non-conference play, that time by Sweetwater. They've won 13 games.

Included in the string of victories was a 33-10 success at the expense of the Odessa club they'll be meeting tonight.

However, Coach Arsh Phillips isn't expecting an easy time this evening as they had last time.

The game will be the first of two conference tests for the Steelettes this week, both of them on the road. The locals play Midland Wednesday night.

Jake LaMotta, the old Bronx Bull now a Miami resident, starts a comeback Thursday in Miami. The former middleweight champion meets Johnny Prestle, of Boston in a light heavyweight 10.

Local Netters Go To Odessa Today

Coach Billy Clyburn takes five members of her high school girls' tennis team to Odessa this afternoon for a series of singles and doubles matches with that school's representatives.

The Steelettes will be after their second win of the young season. They shaded Sweetwater last Saturday.

Making the trip from here will be Nanelle Farquhar, Betty Anderson, Dixie Faulkner, Clara Freeman and Sue Barnes.

Miss Clyburn is looking for more matches to fill out the team's practice schedule before district play. The team, along with the Big Spring boys, will compete in the Odessa Invitational tournament the last weekend of the month.

Odessa Oilers Sign First Negro Player

ODESSA (SC)—Odessa's Oilers of the Longhorn League have signed Leroy Molden, 21-year-old hurler, to a contract.

The first Negro in history signed by Odessa, he is Milwaukeean.

Molden spent a brief time with Eau Claire, Wis., of the Class C Northern League in 1953.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

"It was the biggest thrill I've ever had in football."

So Big Spring High School's Norman Dudley remarked, after learning he had been picked to play in the annual Texas Coaches Association All-Star football game at Dallas next August.

Norman had known some time before the story hit the wire services that he was to get an invitation to play in the game. His coach, Carl Coleman, headed up the committee that selected the North's team.

Norm "just missed" being selected on the Dallas Times-Herald's all-state football team some time back. The Dallas paper had picked him and teammate J. C. Armistead for the mythical honor but dropped Norman to the second team after Port Neches upset the Steers in the AAA finals.

The paper reported to such action not because Dudley didn't distinguish himself in the championship game but due to the fact that it didn't originally have a Port Neches player on its team.

Center Hubert Miller, the best-known member of the Port Neches team, finally noted out Dudley for the first team honor.

Norm played center because his father, L. E., performed at that position in high school (at Newcastle). Norm had to go some to equal the feats of his parent, since L. E. twice rated all-district honors as a pivot in high school, but Norm emerged as the best center in District 1-AAA in both his junior and senior years.

Young Dudley started to school in Arkansas and has since attended classes in many cities but he remains in one place long enough for him to finish high school. Luckily, that place was Big Spring.

Two members of the Coahoma High School boys' basketball team have sisters on the talented Coahoma girls' team. Both teams won conference titles the past season.

The brother-sister combinations are Jack and Patsy Owens and Steet and Cheryl Williams. Both boys are seniors, both girls sophomores.

More than 60 players have checked out football gear at Snyder High School for spring workouts. Included in the group are 13 athletes who will be seniors this fall.

Fred Martin, the one-time Big Spring football tackle mentioned here recently, has a son (Fred, Jr.) on the Odessa High School tennis team.

Jack Graves, a former Steer end who used to be known as Coach G. C. Graves—"little brother" when both lived here, is up to 210 pounds now and is still growing.

Jack performed for the local school back at the tag end of the late '30s and weighed perhaps 155 pounds. He now operates a cattle truck and resides in San Angelo.

District 1-AAAA will split into two sections for basketball play next year and some of the coaches in the North half are displeased about it. Apparently they do not like to be deprived of the "easy pickings" they've experienced down in the other section in recent years.

4A-I coaches first tried to talk the Texas Interscholastic League into using that lineup of schools in football only and letting Big Spring, Lamesa and other AAA teams compete against them in basketball but the AAA mentors weren't having any of that. If they were to be deprived of the big games that result in 1-AAA in football, they saw no reason for playing basketball against those same schools.

Marshall Delivers For Chicago Sox

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willard Marshall, called by Chicago White Sox Manager Paul Richards "the leader type player we need," has a head start in his efforts to nail down a regular job.

The 33-year-old outfielder, acquired from Cincinnati during the winter, drove out a three-run homer yesterday as the Chicago Sox opened their exhibition schedule with an 8-3 victory over the Redlegs.

Marshall, who joined the New York Giants in 1942, always was considered a potential major league star, but he never quite reached the heights. Although he batted only .266 in 1953, the White Sox still thought enough of him to let pitcher Saul Rogovin and infielders Connie Ryan and Rocky Kramlich go to Cincinnati.

"Marshall is a take-charge guy and we can use all of them," says Richards, who said earlier in spring training, "I expect him to give us added power."

Willard "took charge" in the seventh inning yesterday, blasting a 350-foot drive over the right field wall after a double by Nellie Fox and singles by Johnny Groth and Ferris Fain.

Outfielder Ed did most of the long-distance hitting in the other Grapefruit League games.

At Yuma, Ariz., Dick Kokos walked a two-run homer in the last half of the 10th inning to give the Baltimore Orioles an 8-6 win over the Chicago Cubs. Marlin Stuart, who hurled the last frame, was credited with the victory.

Rookie Vic Power and the veteran Gus Zernial contributed home runs in a six-run third inning by the Philadelphia Athletics as Eddie Joost's men downed the Washington Senators, 7-3. Bill Renna, a former New York Yankee, and Pete Suder also got hits in the sixth.

Freshman infielder George Preese got three hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates broke loose for five first-inning runs and went on to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 7-3. Right-hander Ron Necciai was the winning pitcher.

In a wild affair at Phoenix, Ariz., the Cleveland Indians walloped the Giants, 23-10. The Tribe slammed six homers with outfielder Dave Pope getting two.

Billy Conzolo, the $65,000 bonus baby, paid off with a 400-foot triple in the eighth inning to give the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. Tom Herrin and Tom Brewer, a couple of first-year pitchers, limited the Phillies to six hits.

With Jerry Coleman, Bob Cerv and Andy Carey finding the home run range, the champion New York Yankees trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-7, in a loosely played game at St. Petersburg. The Cards' Stu Miller, plagued by a sore arm in 1953, gave up only one hit in the three frames he worked.

The Brooklyn Dodgers went without a hit until the ninth inning and bowed to the Milwaukee Braves, 9-2, for the second straight day. Ernie Johnson was the victim of Brooklyn safeties after Lew Burdette and Jim Wilson had pitched hitless ball.

Sammy Baugh Will Speak At Coahoma Grid Party

COAHOMA (SC)—Coahoma throws its football party tonight, honoring a team that signalled its farewell to Class B play by scrapping all the way to the Regional finals before yielding to an opponent last fall.

A barbecue, made possible by patrons of the schools, begins at 6 p.m. Sammy Baugh, famous pro footballer who is now associate coach at Hardin-Simmons University, comes in from his home near Rotan to speak to the group.

Eighteen varsity letters plus ten reserve numerals will be awarded. The varsity lettermen are Skeet Williams, Darrell Robinson, David Hodnett, Murphy Woodson, Jimmy Spears and Sabad Torres, backs; Jack Owens, Jack Morrison, Grady Barr and Billy Dickson, ends; Billy Paul Thomas, Dudley Arnett, Jerris Springfield and Jackie Leppard, tackles; Mark Heeves, Don Kenner and Bill Tindal, guards; and Center Bob Garrett.

Of that group, seven graduate this spring. They are Williams, Robinson, Woodson, Spears, Owens, Springfield and Leppard.

Fred Salling, Coahoma coach, expressed doubt this morning that he would be interested in the coaching post at Lake View.

Lake View officials announced last Friday that Salling would be invited to meet with the school board, possibly Tuesday, to discuss the post vacated recently by Bob Buss.

Salling said he was very happy in his present position at Coahoma. He added there was some doubt he could get away for the Lake View interview but would make up his mind on that point sometime today.

STEERS' CHARLES CLARK NAMED TO ALL-1-AAA CAGE QUINTET

Charles Clark, Big Spring Junior, has been named to the 1954 All-District 1-AAA basketball team, chosen recently by coaches and assembled by the Sweetwater Reporter.

Clark, bespectacled guard, finished as one of the top scorers in 1-AAA.

Other members of the team were Harold Green of Sweetwater, a unanimous choice; Rex Jordan, Plainview; Robert Weaver, Lamesa; and Jack Bolton, Vernon.

Only Snyder and Breckenridge failed to place a boy on the first team.

Second team nominees were Sonny Everett, Breckenridge; Jimmy Bennett, Snyder; Robert Tilson, Plainview; Lester North, Plainview; and R. L. Montgomery, Sweetwater.

Montgomery rated the team as a junior.

Wiley Brown, Big Spring, gained Honorable Mention on the mythical team.

Local Linksters Lose To Odessa

ODESSA (SC)—Odessa High School linksters won five matches and halved a sixth to defeat Big Spring High School in a golf match here Saturday, 15-3.

James Underwood, Big Spring, saved the Steers from a shutout by halving his match with Billy Gilmore, Odessa. Each shot an 80.

Bobby Blumh, Big Spring, lost to Ken Garrison, Odessa, despite the fact that he shot a 77.

Floyd Smith, Odessa, defeated Eddie Harris, Big Spring; Jerry Johnson, Odessa, prevailed over Wilbur Cunningham, Big Spring; Bill Oliver, Jr., Odessa, turned back Roland McKimzie, Big Spring; and Bob Holcomb, Odessa, nudged Louis Stipp, Big Spring, in other matches.

Big Spring may send a team to San Angelo next Saturday to compete in a three-way match with San Angelo and Odessa.

Oklahoma Entry Is Regional Champion

AMARILLO (SC)—Connor A&M clipped Cameron A&M, 78-73, for the Region-5 Junior College basketball championship in an all-Oklahoma battle here Saturday.

Frank Phillips Junior College of Borger defeated Amarillo College, 84-75, to take third place in the meet.

Consolation honors went to the San Angelo College Rams, who triumphed over the Eastern Oklahoma A&M Aggies by a 61-51 margin.

Gruelling NIAA Tourney Tests To Begin Tonight

By SKIPPER PATRICK
KANSAS CITY (AP)—College basketball's most gruelling test—the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association's six-day grind in Municipal Auditorium today.

The tournament, sponsored annually by the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, has a field of 32 teams representing 30 states. But, as usual, there isn't an outstanding championship favorite.

Most frequently mentioned are Springfield (Mo.) State, champion of the past two years; Rio Grande (O.), featuring the famed Bevo Francis; East Texas State, East Carolina of Greenville, N.C.; Geneva (Pa.); Lawrence Tech; St. Peter's (N.J.) and Pasadena, Calif. College.

And perhaps there are any number of "sleepers" among the other 24 entries coming from coast-to-coast. The field includes the nation's finest small college teams.

Nebraska Wesleyan (17-4) of Lincoln and Whitworth (21-3) of Spokane, Wash., open the meet at 11 a.m. Texas time. Following at one and one-half hour intervals will be St. Peter's and Wayland College of Plainview, Tex.; Western Illinois and Morris Harvey, and Tennessee A&I and Regis on the afternoon card.

Beginning at 7 p.m. the night schedule has East Texas and Portland (Ore.) University, Springfield (Mo.) State and East Tennessee College, Rio Grande and Arizona State, and Arkansas Tech and Mercer.

The first round will be completed Tuesday. Eight games are scheduled Wednesday, four Thursday, two Friday night and two Saturday night.

Junior Gilliam Unworried Over Sophomore Slump

By JOE REICHLER
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Junior Gilliam, the Brooklyn Dodgers rookie-of-the-year in 1953, looked puzzled when he was asked whether the sophomore jinx had him worried.

"Why should I worry about that?" he asked. "I don't figure I'm a sophomore. Just like I didn't figure I was a freshman last year even if it was my first year in the big leagues."

This is his ninth year in professional baseball. He's been around. I don't worry about no jinxes. Like they asked me before my first game last year if I was scared. "Heck no," I said. "Why should I be scared? I've been playing for seven years. They didn't know I started playing pro ball the same time that Jackie Robinson did. Back in 1945."

Gilliam will be 26 next October. He played five years in the Negro leagues and two years with Montreal in the International League before joining the Dodgers last spring. He won the International League Rookie Award in 1951 and Most Valuable Player Award in '53 before capturing National League rookie honors in '53. He batted .278 in 151 games and was fourth in the league with 123 runs scored.

"I feel I'm improving all the time," he said.

Steers Counting On Home Court Advantage Tonight

AUSTIN (AP)—Rice can grab an NCAA regional basketball tourney spot tonight by beating the University of Texas.

The teams get together here for the second game in a best-of-three series to decide which goes to Stillwater, Okla., to represent the Southwest Conference in the NCAA regional.

The Owls beat the Longhorns, 79-62, in the first game at Houston Friday night. This, of course, puts pressure on the Longhorns, but they're counting on the home court advantage tonight to get back in the running.

If Texas wins tonight, the deciding game will be in Waco tomorrow night.

Bank Holdups In Indiana Solved; Polite 'Lunch-Hour Bandit' Held

By BOB THOMAS
 FORT WAYNE, Ind. (U-P)—Indiana police, after six arrests, said today they had solved nine one-man bank holdups in 15 months.
 Seven employees from two of the robbed banks identified Bernard E. LaClair, 31, yesterday in a police lineup as the "lunch-hour bandit" who, with a flourish of courtesy, staged the robberies.
 Meanwhile, a man who strongly resembles LaClair may win his freedom from the Danbury institution, where he was sent after conviction for a job LaClair admitted in a signed statement.
 But the convict, Laurence D. Howley, won't be completely free. There is a bench warrant waiting his release to bring charges of armed robbery in Kensington, Conn., against him.
 Sheriff Harold Zeig said LaClair has admitted robbing the Kensington branch of the New Britain National Bank at Berlin, Conn., of $25,000 Jan. 6, 1953. Howley was given a 10-year sentence for this robbery.

 The others arrested, along with the 31-year-old LaClair, are his sister, Mrs. Helen L. Martin, and her sons, John Henry Martin III, 20, both of East Hartford, Conn.; LaClair's brother Donald, 25, Windsor, Conn.; and Sylvester Morrison, 44, Hartford, Conn.—all four charged as accomplices—and George M. Miller.
 Three employees of the First State Bank at Bourbon, Ind., robbed of $9,500 on July 25, 1953, also identified Miller, 28, as driver of the getaway car. Employees of the Hamlet State Bank robbed last June 6 of $7,500, also identified LaClair.

 Other robberies, in addition to the four in Indiana, included Dunkirk, Ohio, $4,603 May 16, 1953; Ada, Ohio, $7,037 Oct. 22, 1952; Forest, Ohio, $8,336 Aug. 24, 1953; and Springfield, Mass., $82,000 Jan. 26, 1954.
 The loot from the nine robberies totaled nearly $160,000. Less than $13,000 has been found of the missing money.

Film Czar Hays Dies At Indiana Home As Invalid

SULLIVAN, Ind. (U-P)—Will H. Hays, 74, who led a pre-depression cleanup of movie morals after uniting the Republican party behind President Harding, will be buried in his beloved home town Wednesday.
 The man who served 24 years as so-called czar of the motion picture industry died in the quiet of his home here yesterday.
 Once a Republican national chairman before he was 40, he kept an interest in politics till death, though a heart ailment had made him an invalid since October. Only in the last week did his condition become critical.
 His wife Jessie and his only son, by a former marriage, Will H. Hays Jr. of Crawfordsville, Ind., were at his deathbed.

Texas-Style Barbecue Is Hit In London

LONDON (U-P)—It probably will be a long time before folks stop talking about the big barbecue that a bunch of Texans threw at the U.S. Air Force mess at the London suburb of Denham.
 Londoners stared at two buses bearing the destination signs of "Texas Via Piccadilly Circus," but it was almost true.
 More than 1,300 Texans, near Texans and those who wished they were Texans attended the barbecue Saturday. Many wore Texas-style clothes.
 They made short work of four barbecued steers that they washed down with American soft drinks and British hard cider.
 The fat steers were provided free by the Houston Fat Stock Show. They were barbecued for 36 hours by M. Sgt. William M. Welch of San Antonio and a crew of volunteers.
 The Houston barbecue expert, George Kelly, sent 20 gallons of his secret-recipe sauce for seasoning.
 Bands played Texas music. There was community singing and dancing. Airmen from Texas square-danced with British girls.
 U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich attended as official Texas ambassador to the United Kingdom after being appointed for the occasion by Governor Shivers.
 The Anglo-Texas Society, composed of Britons with an affinity for Texas and Texans, was the official host.

Through his years as a public figure in politics and the movie industry, he kept his home and law office in Sullivan and voted here, until a pneumonia attack a year ago, then returned from his New York home last fall because of his heart ailment.
 His genius in reorganizing the Republican party in Indiana put him up to the national chairman's job to reunite the party, still bearing the wounds of the Bull Moose split.
 His success brought a landslide victory for Harding in 1920, and Harding named him postmaster general.
 Hays left the Cabinet job in 1922 to clean up the Hollywood film industry, then under a cloud of movie colony scandals. He served 24 years as the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America.
 Though he retired from the Hollywood job to his law practice in 1945, the "Hays office" code of good taste in movies remained entrenched until recently, when signs of rebellion began to appear.

Machine Made To Do 'Thinking'

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (U-P)—A Mount Holyoke College philosophy professor today displayed his "thinking machine," which he says "is to logic what an adding machine is to arithmetic."
 Prof. Roger W. Holmes built the machine for about $120 "plus labor."
 He says it can solve practically any problem in a book on fundamental symbolic logic.
 The machine, about the size of an old-fashioned table model radio, has a complex system of electrical relays which flashes lights on a control board.
 If a proposition is valid a green light will flash. If it is invalid, a red light shows.
 The professor sets up the questions with a series of symbols. He says the machine can't perform any function which a human operator couldn't do for himself with pencil and paper. But he claims it can tackle complex processes of reasoning with greater speed and accuracy.
 He says the device can test the validity of the basic laws of logic. It also can explore the field for new principles, he says, and it can test whatever specific arguments are given it for examination.
 He believes a larger model would be of great value in military or industrial planning or in crime detection.

Widow Joins Sons In Death

CLAY, W. Va. (U-P)—A Clay County mother who drew the nation's sympathy when the fourth of her five soldiers died in service was killed last night in a highway accident near her home.
 State police said Mrs. Florida A. Jones, 63, of nearby Bickmore, a widow, was struck by an automobile about 10 p.m. as she walked along State Route 16. She was dead when the ambulance reached Laird Memorial Hospital in Montgomery.
 Only one of her five sons survives. He is Air Force Sgt. William L. Jones, who reportedly now is on recruiting duty in the Charleston area.
 Three of her sons were killed during World War II.
 Her youngest boy, Eugene, 25, crashed to his death in paratroop training at Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1950.
 Two days later, the nation acknowledged its gratitude in a letter from Louis A. Johnson, then secretary of defense, offering the discharge of her fifth son from the Air Force.
 Her simple refusal was: "I am glad that I still have one son in the service of my country."

Airplane Heroine Weds In California

SANTA ANA, Calif. (U-P)—A plucky young McKeesport, Pa., airline hostess who was credited with saving 26 passengers from a flaming airliner last September, was on her way to the East Coast today on her honeymoon.
 Miss Patricia Grivna, 22, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Grivna of McKeesport, was wed Saturday night in a formal ceremony to Raymond M. Cheseldine Jr., of nearby Fullerton.
 She aided in saving 26 persons, including three babies, from a Northwest Airlines plane which crashed at McChord Air Force Base a short time after taking off from Seattle.

ROK Field Army Takes Over Corps

SEOUL (U-P)—The Defense Ministry said today the South Korean 1st Field Army will take over operational control of three South Korean army corps next Monday.
 The move will put the three corps, and practically all South Korean combat troops, under the command of Gen. Sun Yup Park.
 The U.S. 8th Army will still be at the top of the command ladder but the South Koreans will have, for the first time, a full field army command setup.
 The South Koreans will take over the three corps from the U.S. 10th Corps.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Every kind of domestic animal is found wild in one part of the world or another. There are wild dogs, wild donkeys, wild sheep, wild cattle and so on.

The swine family has a fair supply of wild members. These include the wild boars of Europe and Asia; wild boars have offered dangerous sport to hunters for many centuries. They have been cleared out of most parts of Europe, but still are found in a few countries, including Germany and Russia.

The New World also has wild swine, but they differ in several ways from the wild boars of Europe and Asia. I am speaking of the peccaries, which range from Texas down through Mexico and South America to Argentina.

A full-grown male peccary is likely to be about two feet high at the shoulders. The length is about three feet.

Peccaries live in forests. They eat nuts and roots, sometimes insects and worms. The flesh of a peccary tastes very much like pork, but a gland must be cut out soon after the animal is slain, or the meat will spoil.

Peccaries are rather small animals, but they can be dangerous.

If a man gets into the midst of a herd of peccaries, he is likely to die very shortly. A single peccary often has proved more than a match for a large, powerful dog.

While Mr. A. G. Requa was hunting wild turkeys in Mexico, he saw a dozen peccaries about 20 yards from the rock on which he sat. He leveled his rifle at a peccary, and wounded it. The animal set up a loud squealing.

Other peccaries came swarming to the scene. The hunter quickly climbed a tree and started firing. After a time he counted 23 which had fallen, but about 200 remained alive.

Mr. Requa had friends camping within a few miles, and hoped they would come to rescue him. The afternoon passed, however, without any sign of friends. Strapping himself to a limb, he kept waiting until midnight. The peccaries stayed around, waiting for him to come down.

At last—at two in the morning—the peccaries left the scene. Feeling "more dead than alive," the hunter made his way safely back to the camp.

Tomorrow: Mongolian Ponies.

DATE DATA

When Not To Phone Your Friend's Girl

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

Are there such things as dating ethics? Do nice people conform to them or are they just for snobs?

Suppose you're a lonesome boy. One of your pals is always talking about the girl he dates and he's a pretty good salesman. Sure enough, you find her telephone number in his little black book. You'd like to meet her. She sounds like date bait. Should you dial her number or are you bound by an unwritten code of dating ethics to forget it? Maybe you are the girl. You're sitting home doing your homework and the telephone rings. It's a strange masculine voice, but the boy explains he's a friend of Bill's and has heard so much about you he feels he already knows you. How about a date for Saturday? You don't have one and you and Bill aren't going steady, but you have been practically a twosome for a long time. May you say yes, or are you bound by loyalty to Bill to say no thanks?

It has been said that all is fair in love and war, but this is neither love nor war. The boy is lonesome, and that's bad, but under no stretch of the imagination does it justify his asking his pal's girl for a date.

You just don't take things from your friend whether it be his writ or his girl. If you do you're no friend. What should our lonesome Lothario do? He could telephone Bill and say, "Hi Pal, I sure am lonesome. How about fixing up a blind date for me? Hasn't your heart-throb got some girl friends? We could make it a foursome."

Of course any boy with anything on the ball can attract a girl on his own and without having to swipe one.

Stevenson Sounds Like '56 Candidate

By JACK BELL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—On the heels of Adlai E. Stevenson's criticism of President Eisenhower for failing to put the brakes on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), two Democratic senators today agreed that economic issues should outweigh McCarthy's activities in the party's 1954 campaign strategy.

In a speech creating the general impression here he is actively in the field for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, Stevenson said Eisenhower could stop what the former Illinois governor called a campaign by McCarthy to "sow slander and dissension" across the nation.

Although he said he agreed generally with that conclusion, Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said he is not too sure of either the timing or the importance that Stevenson gave to McCarthy and his Communist-in-government charges. He was joined by Sen. Murray (D-Mont.).

"Come next fall, when control of Congress is decided at the polls, I think the fiscal policies the Republicans have put into effect are going to be the most important issue," Magnuson said in an interview.

Stevenson's charges in a speech here Saturday night that McCarthy's investigation threatened a "malignant and fatal totalitarianism" and that out of two million federal employees "only one alleged active Communist has been found" brought a hot reply from McCarthy.

"It was a very clever political talk designed to cloud the issues," McCarthy said in an interview. "The speech reminded me of a story. My brother and I went to my father's barn a long time ago to clean it out. We disagreed how it should be done. If Stevenson had been there he would have kept trying not to clean it out at all. 'What the Republicans are trying to do is clean up the Democratic mess. We don't always agree on how the job should be done, but we all agree it must be done.'"

McCarthy said he campaigned for Eisenhower in 1952 and "I'd campaign for him again today."

"Not that I think he's perfect," McCarthy said, "but the President is right 95 per cent of the time, which is a very big average."

McCarthy said he thought what Stevenson was so "stirred up about" was the fact that Eisenhower "does not object to exposure of Communists in the Army or elsewhere."

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, told a news conference here yesterday that Stevenson's speech was carried free on CBS television and NBC radio. In the past, McCarthy has demanded and obtained equal time to answer former President Truman and other Democratic speakers who have attacked him.

McCarthy said he wanted equal time on national radio and television networks to reply to Stevenson.

(In New York, the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System said they have received no such request. Mitchell announced that Stevenson will be the principal speaker at a National Jefferson-Jackson Banquet in Washington May 5-6. Elsewhere it was learned that plans are under way for another regional appearance for Stevenson in San Francisco in June.)

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), the 1952 vice presidential nominee, said in an interview he believes Stevenson not only will be available but will be the "logical man" for the 1956 nomination.

Several other more cautious Democrats who didn't want to be quoted by name said they think Stevenson is running. A member of Stevenson's staff said that if the former Illinois governor was not a potential candidate he, the staff member, would not be working for him now.

Beaumont Paper Reunites Youth And Grandmother

BEAUMONT (AP)—Thanks to the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal, 12-year-old Lamar Moore of Denver was reunited yesterday with his grandmother.

The lad arrived by bus Saturday but his grandmother wasn't here to meet him. He was so excited and tired by the long trip he couldn't remember her name or address. He spent the night with Floyd Murray, a reporter for the newspaper, while an account of his plight was published.

Early yesterday, as a result of the news story, Mrs. Ella Morris was identified as the grandmother. She explained her grandson had been scheduled to arrive nine hours earlier than he did and, not finding him on the earlier bus, she had decided he wasn't coming.

After their happy reunion, Lamar was the guest of the Beaumont Exporters of the Texas Baseball League, watching them at spring practice and getting an autographed baseball.

'BE CALM AND PRAY'

Accidental Shooting Puts Life Of Wife Into Danger

MEXIA (AP)—"Let's be calm and pray," a husband said to his critically wounded wife after a gun accidentally discharged.

Then he drove her two miles over bumpy farmland on a tractor and sped her by car 32 more miles to a hospital.

Yesterday, Mrs. L. D. Petty, 20, was given a 50-50 chance to live. She was reported in critical condition but slightly improved at a hospital here after doctors removed a rifle bullet from behind her left eye.

Petty is a vocational agriculture teacher at Bremond, Tex. The accidental shooting was on her mother-in-law's farm Saturday near Jewett, Tex. They went out to feed cattle and took along a powerful rifle in case rabbits or foxes were seen.

They parked the car and drove two miles into the farm on a tractor with the disc attached to carry the feed.

Petty said he started to hand the rifle to his wife, it fell to the ground and discharged. The bullet tore a large hole through Mrs.

Petty's right thigh, struck her in the lip, broke her nose and lodged behind her left eye.

"Let's be calm and pray," the husband said. He took off his belt and made a tourniquet.

Then Petty drove his wife back across the two miles of rough country and ravines while she held the tourniquet on her leg.

When they reached the car she lost consciousness. He put her in the car and drove to a Jewett doctor who said he could do nothing for her. He said go straight to the Mexia hospital.

Petty drove the 32 miles to Mexia with one hand and with the
