

Border Banter

By Mike Pomper

I'll never forget...

I'll never forget that first conversation I had with John Getz, previous State Line Tribune owner, immediately after we had agreed upon the newspaper's ownership transfer.

We were talking over the phone; I was in Virginia and he was in Farwell. It was the middle of July and we had agreed on the change-over to take effect Sept. 1. Here's how I recall the conversation:

"Oh, by the way, Mike, we have a football contest here," said Getz.

"Uh-huh," I responded, not really knowing what that meant.

"It's kind of an annual thing here," Getz continued. "Do you want to keep it going? I need to know now because by the time you take over in September, it would be too late to make a decision."

Thinking quickly, I went with that old proverb about keeping things the same so I replied, "Oh, yeah, let's continue it."

Wow. Can you imagine what would have happened to me when I arrived here if I had said "No"? I would have been strung up.

But I'm sure that if I would have responded to Getz's question in the negative, he would have wised me up quickly. Let's face it, the football contest is THE event of the Twin Cities' season. And it starts today.

The worse thing about running this contest is that I am not allowed to enter. Heck, just because I pick the competing teams... And I'm sure I would win if I was able to participate. Darned rules.

All kidding aside; I really did enjoy running the contest last year. At first, it was tricky because I didn't know much about the local teams; I ended up picking some really one-sided results (let's hear it for West Texas State). But as I got into it, I believe I was able to pick contests that were more evenly balanced.

I'm also restricted to a degree, I can't use Monday night pro games due to their lateness. And since it takes me four to five hours each Sunday to total the contest entries, it behooves me to use pro games that are over at a decent time.

I try to divide the 12 games into 4 high school, 4 college and 4 professional. And, obviously, I look for local and area high school and college teams, plus the Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers. I will admit I came up with some doozies late last year but that was deliberate because I didn't want to make it too easy for the contest front-runners to stay ahead. You have to give a chance to those entrants with a shot at first place, too, don't you?

It's nice to announce that the winner of this year's contest will see the Cowboys take on the New York Giants in December. The Giants have an excellent team and an excellent shot at making it to the Super Bowl. But don't underrate the Cowboys' chances. As long as Tom Landry is coach, they're in good shape. Now all they need is for Roger Staubach to return.

As an inveterate optimist, I'm going to pick the Cowboys to win their division and make it to the Super Bowl. However, I must point out that I have picked the Chicago Cubs to get to the World Series every year since 1952.

(Speaking of the Cubs, this apparently wasn't their year. All five starting pitchers were injured and that, in a nutshell, tells what happened to their season's hopes. Next year, though, will be different.)

I also believe that we have some very good local teams this year at Texico, Lazbuddie and Farwell. Don't be surprised if you see some statewide recognition for some of our teams and their members - and that includes the Lady Spikers. It's going to be a fun season watching our schools.

We sure hope that all you folks enter the football contest; it's on the back page of today's newspaper. Last year, more than 500 folks participated. It's really important to enter each week if you want a strong chance to win the overall title. And, remember, all you need is to average 8 or 9 right each week to have a shot at the championship.

The contest rules are printed in the other story about the contest on this page, plus the back page.

Good hunting.

Mason played on Texico's first basketball team

Mason Neely and his parents, Don (D.O.) and Beulah Neely, homesteaded 160 acres south of Texico in 1902. They moved here from Vernon.

For a short time, they lived in a tent, then a half dugout. Later they built a house with two rooms, followed by a larger house for the growing family.

Mason has four sisters - Lavage Peterson of Clovis, Zelma Edith Lewis of Arkansas; Stella Sanders, deceased, and Morene Horton of Clovis.

Mason first attended school in Texico. It was located west of Danny's Burger Barn. Mrs. Grady taught there and she was also the postmistress in Texico. Her son was Tom Grady, a cattle inspector.

Mason attended Farwell School, then finished school in Texico. He played on Texico's first basketball team as a forward. "We had a fair team," said Mason.

Mason recalled: "In 1917, my parents sold their farm and I went back and stayed with my granddad. But then I returned in August of 1918. My wife and I met while we attended school. She finished high school and later started to teach school."

Mason and his wife, Elise, married in 1922. They had been school sweethearts. Her parents ran the J.D. Cross grocery in Texico.

The Crosses had moved to Texico in 1906. They also worked on the J.A. Ranch located at Clarendon.

Elise taught school in Pleasant Hill in 1920 for a year; at Fairview for a year, then finished the summer of 1923 in Texico teaching the third and fourth grades.

After they married, they farmed north of Pleasant Hill. They raised maize, corn and wheat-mainly all dryland. He hauled grain to Penny Anderson in an old Model T truck.

Mason said, "After awhile, we built another house and added lights and water. This was back in 1942 and rural electric was coming.

"We have two children - Jimmie, who has worked at the Federal Land Bank for the last 35 years and Buster, a college professor teaching civil engineering."

The Masons retired from farming in 1965 and moved to Clovis in 1968.

Mason remembers an old boxcar for a post office, several saloons, a candy store and Robinson Mercantile in Texico.

"They would put meat in a windmill tree. Also we put milk at the well in a trough to stay cold," he recalled.

He remembers getting driving licenses by paying a small amount and signing a piece of paper.

"They used to use apple or orange crates for furniture. People didn't have much in those days," he said.

Mason enjoys Zane Grey western books and cleaning his own house. He also likes cornbread and milk.

Mason recalled episodes from his life:

"During the summer my wife and I would watch our grandchildren. "Once, one of the granddaughters, Judy, who was eight or nine, and a cousin from Albuquerque came to visit. They got on a gray mare and started to ride her south of the house. All of a sudden the mare took off galloping. The girls were getting a little concerned because they couldn't stop the horse. The cousin said to drop the reins and the horse would stop. She had seen this done on TV. But it didn't work. The mare did not stop until they got home.

"Another time, the same kids were staying with us one summer. They started playing around the chicken house. A pea fowl hen had four or five eggs she was sitting on. The girls saw a bull snake near the eggs and noticed it had an egg in its mouth. They ran to the house and told their grandmother. She got out the .22 rifle and shot the snake."

Mrs. Mason died in 1980 at the age of 81.

Mason has two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mason is a member of the Trinity Methodist Church in Clovis.

hand at the annual football contest.

Tribune employees are not eligible.

A listing of the contest standings will be available for viewing at the newspaper office and the new tallies for each entrant will be listed each week.

Persons who enter the contest each week naturally have a better chance for the most total points and top prizes. Consistency pays off. For example, Gay Goetsch won last year's contest with an even 100 points for the 12 weeks.

Luce's, City Hall, Citizen's Bank and Burger Barn.

If residents are interested in it they should call City Hall 482-3314 and have their names placed on the list.

Hamner said, "We need at least 150 to 200 names on the list. If insufficient interest is shown the idea will be dropped."

Corn harvest underway

The corn harvest is under way in Parmer County.

Martin Chandler, director of the ASCS office of Farwell said, "Corn is looking pretty good. It is at least average, not quite as good as last year."

"The insilage corn has a normal yield of 27 tons per acre. The corn for grain should have a pretty good yield," he said.

Chandler said approximately 50,000 pounds of grain sorghum is expected to be harvested in Parmer County.

The cotton looks good and should have a normal year depending on the fall, he said.

Sherley-Anderson in Lariat reported the corn harvest should be as good as last year, said Lonnie McFarland, manager.

The moisture content on early corn is about 22 percent.

The first load of corn was brought in Aug. 28, by Jay Herington of the West Camp area. He received $50 for the first load. The moisture content was 27.8.

Sherley-Anderson Pitman of Parwell has received some corn, too. According to manager Fred Chandler, Willie Wall, Darrell Stephens and Lonnie Meeks have brought in the first loads of corn.

The corn has tested moisture content as 23 and is getting 55 pounds a bushel. "We should be getting busy in another 10 days," said Chandler.

Sherley-Anderson of Lazbuddie has started about half as fast as last year, according to David Anderson, manager.

The moisture content is about average 25.

The first load was brought in by Kim Gable of Lazbuddie Aug. 24.

Worley Mills of Farwell had its first load of corn brought in by Walter Kaltwasser with a moisture content of 19.

Barnes: Steers improving

The Farwell Steers met the Dimmitt Bobcats at Steer Stadium Aug. 30 in a final scrimmage. "We were much improved from the week before. Our goal looks better each week," said Monte Barnes. "Our defense played well except when we overpursued three or four times. Our defense was over-aggressive. "Our offense drove the ball well and did a good job blocking up front. We had a few fumble snaps. Also, we need to be more consistent on the offense."

According to Barnes, "The team did a poor job in cutting off the linebackers, load blocking in line and pass blocking, but with all this we still moved the ball."

"Since the Plains scrimmage, we have moved Blake Kelley and Kevin Owen back to halfback positions. Also, Homer Anzaldua was moved

Longhorns scrimmage

Coach James Bartosh was very pleased and the Longhorns were very enthusiastic. "We did have a problem with turnovers. We will be working on the turnovers," said Bartosh.

Paul Gonzales caught four passes and Brian Glover caught a pass. Omar Sanchez, David Schacher and Kurt Miller did real well in the running department, the coach said.

Guy Brockman blocked especially well.

The Longhorns will open play against Melrose at Lazbuddie at 8 p.m. today (Friday). The starting quarterback will be Tim Lust.

To: Members of Farwell School Staff and Community

I am sorry that time constraints do not allow more than this attempt to thank you for all that you have been to me the last four years while I served as your Home Economics teacher. It has been such a privilege to work with a school staff whose daily lives reflect their relationship with God and their genuine concern for those about them.

Community members, thank you for your friendship and support. So many of you at school and in the community, have been that "friend indeed." Thank you, you have enriched my life by so generously sharing your lives with me.

Sincerely, Martha White

Abortion law takes effect

Texas' new abortion law became effective Sept. 1 and with it an experiment that may well determine state abortion policy for years to come.

The law, which will be administered by the Texas Department of Health, requires extensive reporting by all abortion clinics operating in the state and calls for more stringent licensing regulations, which will be promulgated by the health department.

Supporters of the new abortion law, and we include ourselves, believe the reporting requirements will give Texans a much better idea about what types of abortions are being performed in the state. We also believe the tougher licensing requirements will ensure all abortions are performed with minimal risk to the women involved.

There are those, of course, who are bitterly disappointed with the law. Some feel as though the state has absolutely no business regulating abortions while others believe the state should prohibit abortions entirely. For those people, a little history would be instructive.

Texas for more than a century banned most abortions. Then, in 1973, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned Texas' abortion law in its historic Roe vs. Wade decision. The court ruled the Texas law and, thus, all state abortion laws were unconstitutional.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

the court said all women have a right to an abortion during the first trimester of their pregnancy. The justices said women have the same right during the second trimester, though states are allowed to establish health and safety regulations to govern those second trimester abortions.

Only in the last three months of pregnancy, the court said, could states prohibit abortions in all but life-threatening pregnancies.

As we all know, the Supreme Court's decision touched off a wave of controversy that remains with us today. Many people maintain women have an inalienable right to terminate pregnancy. Others say abortion is tantamount to murder and never should be condoned.

The bottom line, however, is that states are limited in what they can do to prevent abortions. Texas for 12 years had been doing nothing; now, we've exercised some of the rights remaining under Roe vs. Wade and are beginning to regulate health and safety standards.

If, as many of us suspect, abortion clinics report a large number of second-trimester abortions, the Legislature in 1987 may stiffen regulations to the maximum allowable under federal law.

We personally are not comfortable with legalized abortions, but the law is the law. It is important to remember there is nothing we in Austin can do at this stage to change that law.

People who want the abortion law changed must for the time being look to Congress, where a constitutional amendment banning abortions must be introduced. Anti-abortion laws were struck down at the federal level, and that is where they must be restored.

If you have any questions about abortion law or other issues, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Tx, 78711.

"For the first time out, we played well at times. We had good effort and played good defense. We need to improve the offensive play on the line. The whole team needs to work hard on fundamentals. But, overall, it was a good ball game for us.

Sunday School class meets

The "Ruth" Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church of Texico met at the home of Mable Tharp on July 18 for their regular monthly meeting, with President Mora Schlueter in charge.

Helen Bowers led in the opening Prayer. The secretary's report of the meeting in June was given by Gracie Dane, and the treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Schlueter. They were both approved as read.

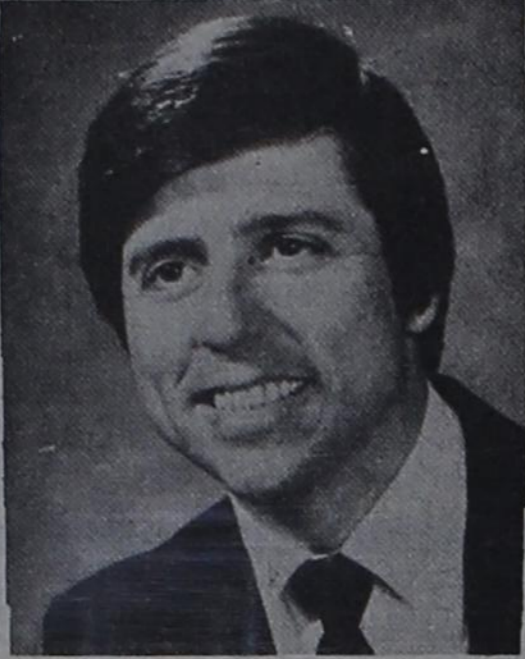

An interesting devotional was given by Mrs. Schlueter, who read the Scripture, 2nd Chronicles 7:12-22, and then read a poem entitled "Never Be Discouraged."

Nora Day dismissed in Prayer. Refreshments of pie, mints, coffee and ice tea were served to one visitor Jamie Gary from Midwest City, Okla, and 11 members, Allie Burris, Nora Day, Hettie Harrison, Mora Schlueter, Ruth Reid, Kathryn Bourlon, Helen Bowers, Nora Miller, Eunice Taylor, Gracie Dane, and the hostess Mabel Tharp.

Bible classes offered

Teen and adult Bible information classes will be offered at St. John Lutheran Church, Lariat, starting at 8 p.m. Sept. 17, Rev. Mac Bearss announced.

The "invitation to meet Jesus," said Bearss "is free and without any obligation. Classes are informal and coffee is served. Classes are for those who do not know Christ and for those who would know him better."

At the services, you will also be ministered to by Garry Hanvey, also of Houston. He is currently involved in the crusade ministry and is lead singer for the Christian music group, "Reborn."

Services begin each night at 7 MDT. For further information, please call the church office at 482-3632. There will be a nursery provided each evening.

The program will feature "Floral Fantasies," demonstrated by Mrs. Margaret Dougherty. "A Bouquet of Melodies" will be presented by Merrily and Richard Cage and their accompanist, Dean McIntyre.

A Tribute

This is a special tribute and thanks to the Farwell Volunteer Fire Department.

Our community is so fortunate to have these men that give so freely of their time and efforts to be expertly trained to protect our property, homes and our lives.

Twice we have had to call for the ambulance -- and twice they have answered the call promptly and efficiently. A special thanks to Curtis Smith and Robert White for transporting me to Clovis and the other fireman that answered the call.

We are deeply grateful.

Reminder

Joe and Eunice Schilling will celebrate their 25th anniversary on Sept. 7 at St. Ann's Church in Bovina at 4 p.m.

Football players' moms asked to attend meeting

Have a son who is playing football and you worry about an injury he has received?

Have a son who needs time for weight training and you are not sure whether it is necessary?

Have a child who wants to participate in after-school sports and you want more details of what this entails?

To answer these and other sports-related questions, the Farwell Booster Club has scheduled a special question session at its meeting at 8 p.m. Sept. 24 at the high school cafeteria.

The session was set up at the suggestion of Head Football Coach Monte Barnes. It's especially important for the mothers of first-year football players," he said at Tuesday night's Booster Club meeting. "At the Sept. 24 meeting, we can explain about football, weight training, injuries and answer other questions."

Barnes said he would ask Dr. William Green to attend the meeting, too.

In other business at the Booster Club meeting, it was decided to invite the Homecoming Kings and Queens from 1956, 1966 and 1976 to this year's Homecoming.

Barnes showed films of Farwell's scrimmage last Friday against Dimmitt. Considering that Dimmitt is a 3-A school, Barnes was pleased with his teams' play, especially the Junior Varsity.

Band to march

both the Texico and Farwell Post Offices.

Jubal Pierce, a Texico High School junior, is currently in the Bernalillo County Medical Center in Albuquerque with an infection in his hip.

He was operated on three weeks ago in Clovis and then was sent to Albuquerque. He had surgery done there also.

"At the present time, he is in high spirits. They are still not sure when he will go home," said his father.

His address is BCMC, Room 561, 2211 Lomas Northeast, Albuquerque, N.M. 87106.

A lamb was auctioned during the Junior Livestock Sale to benefit Jubal. The lamb brought $4,950 and possibly more.
