

DEMOCRAT, REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS SCHEDULED

How To Win Votes, Influence Precincts

By Barney Thompson

The answer to the question of how to win votes and influence conventions is a fact-of-life one. The conventions are won in advance, in pre-convention caucuses and planning.

While often shockingly small numbers of voters attend the precinct conventions, the conventions affect the political life of every citizen. There is no specified quorum for the precinct convention.

Here are down-to-earth rules for controlling the precinct convention. Bear in mind: in numbers there is strength and in strength victory.

Either know them personally or get a list from the county tax office of qualified voters in your precinct. Check the list, then contact every voter who shares your political views and arrange the pre-convention caucus.

At the caucus explain the importance of the precinct convention.

Precinct and county conventions are scheduled for both Democratic and Republican parties in the coming week.

Four—possibly five—Demo precinct meetings are booked for Saturday, according to G. D. Anderson, county chairman. Farwell's will be at the courthouse at 5 o'clock, with Albert Smith as chairman.

Roy White having died since the last convention, Lazbuddie will be without a chairman, but will have their convention anyway. Bovina's will be in the office of O. W. Rhinehart, chairman, at 2:30 o'clock.

The Friona precinct will meet at the high school library at 5 o'clock Saturday, with Nelson Welch as chairman. Anderson said Oklahoma Lane will likely have a convention, also.

Charlie Bieler, county Republican chairman, reported today that GOP precinct conventions will be held Saturday in five county communities. Those include Bovina, Ed Ross, chairman; Friona, Floyd Reeve, chairman; Rhea, Carl Schlenker, chairman; Lazbuddie, Les Bruns, chairman; and Lakeview, Grace Whitfield, chairman. Asked why Farwell has not scheduled a precinct meeting, Bieler said, "I couldn't find enough Republicans."

GOP'ers will lead off the county conventions Tuesday at the courthouse in Farwell, beginning at 3 p. m. The Democrats will follow at 5. One of the main purposes of precinct conventions, of course, is to name delegates to the county meetings.

Tuesday, delegates to the state conventions will be named.

Post Office Requests Bids On New Building

The Post Office Department has posted notices advertising for proposals on a new office building in Farwell. Floor space of about 1100 square feet is requested and other specifications are on file at the local office.

Mrs. Noma Lokey, postmaster, this week said there is now a waiting list for new boxes, although 256 are available at present.

She cautioned that the notice being posted by the Department does not necessarily mean that new quarters are in store right away for the local office. The lease on the present location expires next year.

Requests Names Of Reserve Officers

A request for the names of reserve officers of the area who may be interested in forming a local branch of the Amarillo Reserve School has been made by Tom Berteau, Farwell, and Bill Sheehan and Roy Miller, Friona.

Instruction for reservists is now being conducted in Hereford, but if as many as 10 can be interested in a program in Parmer County, it will be set up, says Berteau.

Second Youth B'Fast Sunday At Cafeteria

The second of the Lions-sponsored breakfasts held to benefit the Texico-Farwell summer recreational program for youth of the twin cities will be held at Farwell School cafeteria from 7 to 9 a. m. Sunday, May 6.

The breakfast last Sunday was well attended and the Lions report that $314 was taken in. This amount includes the advance ticket sales.

Everyone is urged to attend these breakfasts to help the summer youth program.

TERRIBLE FIRE—Very little was salvaged from the home of Mrs. Clytie Dial when fire struck Saturday evening. This is a view of the residence from the east, showing how the flames consumed most of the roof and gutted the building's interior.

Dial Home Gutted By Flames

Fanned by a high wind, a fire of undetermined origin swept through the home of Mrs. Clytie Dial and children Saturday about 6 p. m. Mrs. Dial says that the blaze, which was discovered by her older son, Ronnie, was out of control within ten minutes. The fire started in the garage which was attached to the north side of the frame structure.

Firemen and other volunteers fought the blaze, which gutted the interior of the house, for some two hours. Around 8 o'clock the fire was finally brought under control, but flames broke out again about 10 p. m.

Only a few household items, mostly kitchen equipment, were rescued from the fire.

The house was considered a 100 per cent loss by an insurance adjuster.

Mrs. Dial's plans for rebuilding or buying a home in Farwell are indefinite at the present time. Mrs. Dial says she will decide what she will do when her children, Gloria and Ronnie, are out of school. They are both students at ENMU in Portales.

Mrs. Dial and her youngest son, Benjy, are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Liles at the present time.

Chamber Takes on Cemetery Project

Members of the Farwell Chamber of Commerce decided to ramrod the proposed establishment of a new cemetery for the community, at a meeting Monday night.

Otis Huggins and Johnny McDonald, two members of a three-man committee named to look into selection of sites, reported on several possibilities and the Chamber discussed them.

Several acres south of town on the paved road seem to be one of the most feasible sites now.

G. F. Patton of Portales will begin sale of cemetery plots and development of the property as soon as the land is purchased.

No other business was transacted at the meeting, although there was a discussion of several minutes duration on the subject of roads and in-city paving.

After the United States purchased the Danish West Indies in 1917, the name was changed to Virgin Islands.

Parmer HD Agent to Start Work Here Soon

Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, new Home Demonstration Agent for Parmer County, is expected to begin her duties in that capacity around May 20, according to an announcement made recently by Miss Doris Leggett, District Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Wainscott was graduated from North Texas State College at Denton with a home economics degree in 1945. Since that time, she has attended Texas State College for Women in Denton and the University of Arkansas during summers.

Miss Wainscott was reared on a farm in Young County where she was a 4-H Club member. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wainscott, now reside in Olney.

Beginning her career in the Extension service as assistant agent in Wichita County, Miss Wainscott was Home Demonstration Agent in Childress County for five years and had been active as HD Agent in Jones County for four years prior to accepting the Parmer County position.

Free Coffee, Donuts At Foster's Opening

Free coffee and donuts will be passed out all-day Saturday at Spee Foster's Barbecue & Steak House, located west of Texico on the Clovis Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster are observing the grand opening of their new business venture Saturday, and in addition to coffee and donuts, are awarding free treats for the kiddies.

Hours will be from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m.

The first transcontinental air-mail route between New York City and San Francisco was started in 1920.

PASS THE PANCAKES—Lots of folks were up early Sunday morning to get in on the Texico-Farwell Lions-sponsored benefit breakfast. This is a view of the chow line. Money from the breakfast will help finance summer youth recreation in the Twin Cities.

FROM THE HOPPER

By Hop Jr.

Showers of this week have touched off several conversations around the Tribune and the Graham home concerning "back there" when it used to rain on the Plains.

Since so many new folks have moved to West Texas and Eastern New Mexico in the last few years, and think that sand is about the only thing that ever descends from our wide-open skies, let us assure you that it hasn't always been that way.

Take, for instance, back in 1941 when most parts of the High Plains were drenched in up to 40 inches of water. That seems unprecedented today, but really, it did happen.

We know, because we were 11 years old then, and more interested in tadpoles, catfish, and frogs than girls, so we noticed how much it rained.

First Street in Farwell would have easily passed for a canal in Venice, and a person slogging along the caliche-covered street couldn't tell where the road ended and the bar ditches began.

The head of that ignominious thoroughfare, where it joined to Main Street, was situated at the edge of a giant puddle—more accurately called a lake—which encompassed like a moat a small grocery store sitting up on stilts which was owned by some people named Cole.

To get you clear on the location of this former local business, it used to be just west of Security State Bank.

Run-off water from the Santa Fe right-of-way came tumbling off into Lake Cole in a grand fashion every time another rain hit—which was pretty often in 1941.

Harley Cole, a kid of about our age—10 or 11—was the most popular boy in town, because his folks owned just about all the shoreline of Lake Cole.

For a boy on the high, dry Plains, where there are pitifully few lakes and no creeks or rivers, probably nothing holds a more impelling attraction than a big muddy pond such as Lake Cole.

Boat building was the rage in those days, and 1x8's and 2x4's were combined with plenty of shingle nails, lots of string, and several spoons to make some pretty sharp-looking craft.

Harley's folks clamped down in his plan to get rich by charging all the kids a penny a day to boat on Lake Cole, but he got around this very handily by charging us one penny Tootsie Roll. Since most of the Tootsie Roll purchases were made in the Cole store, this kept all the money in the family, and probably proved to be a very lucrative enterprise for the Coles.

Lake Cole was the biggest source of tadpoles in town for a long time, and Harley tried to devise a means of taxing us for the use of the tads, but as the rains continued to fall and other lakes popped up around town, competition came in and Harley's deal sort of flopped.

Still, Lake Cole had the most water of any of the others, so Harley did very well with his rental fee.

Grade school kids of today on the Plains learn of the tadpole-to-frog metamorphosis by reading books, but we had the real thing to study. In the back yard, we always had a ready supply of tads in their various stages, using Mother's wash tubs as our tadpole display units.

From day to day we would

County Cotton Meet At Friona Thursday

Cotton farmers and other citizens of Parmer County interested in the future of cotton will meet in the Friona School auditorium Thursday night, May 10, at 8:30, to hear John T. Gregg, West Texas representative for the National Cotton Council, discuss ways and means necessary to the end of acreage cuts and market lags in the field of cotton.

Jack Patterson of Rhea, commodities chairman of Parmer County Farm Bureau, directed planning for the meeting, designed to gain participation of producers in the solution of the cotton problem. He and Wright Williams, president of the Friona Chamber of Commerce, met with Gregg about three weeks ago to discuss such a meeting.

A. L. Hartzog, Bovina, president of Parmer County Cotton Improvement Association, and W. L. Edelman, Friona, president of Parmer County Farmer's Union, have been urged to invite their members to the meeting. Chamber of Commerce and Lions Clubs of Farwell, Bovina and Friona are also actively promoting and advertising the meeting.

Gilbert Kaltwasser, Farm Bureau president, joined Patterson in emphasizing that this is not an organizational meeting, but a cotton farmers' meeting. They said they believed this would be a non-partisan and non-organizational meeting that every cotton producer in the area will feel at home in.

Questions may be directed to Gregg on any phase of cotton production, marketing or grading, at the close of the illustrated speech. Cotton Promotion Week, May 14 to May 19 will be emphasized following the meeting and merchants of Parmer County towns will be provided with "Pick Cotton" streamers designed to promote purchases of cotton materials and clothing.

NOTICE

There will be a special American Legion meeting at the Legion Hall in Farwell on Tuesday night, May 8, at 7:30 o'clock.

Main item of business to be discussed will be the approval of a rental contract. All members and interested parties are urged to be present.

AT INSECT MEETING

Attending a cotton insect control meeting in Littlefield today is County Agent Joe Jones. All the counties of District II and several of District I were represented. Jones says he plans early season control meetings in Parmer County.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Farmers, Organized Labor Have Little In Common

Farmers, already beset by history's highest prices for the manufactured goods which they must buy in order to operate, might as well brace themselves for another rise in prices by this fall.

Many important labor contracts will be expiring this summer—most of them about June—and as always, organized workers will push for higher wages for themselves. And as always, these wages will be granted, and as always, they will be passed on to YOU, the consumer.

The 16,000,000 members of the AF of L-CIO under George Meany and Walter Reuther are interested in nobody but themselves, and the sooner that farmers come to realize that fact, the better.

The argument that higher wages to organized laborers means increased consumption of agricultural goods is not sound. Workers are now eating about as much as they would be eating if they were making twice as much. Higher wages will be spent on luxury items such as TV sets, deep freezers, new cars, and the like. And more pay probably will make laborers want to move out of the cotton-buying class they are now in, to some of the "fancier" fabrics such as rayon, nylon, and other synthetics which are whipping the ears off of our cotton producers.

Strange coalition, this one of farmers and laborers.

If you want to try something a little different that takes a minimum of time, you might like a variation of the pancake. At least our family likes it! We will warn you that the wit in the family will probably have a few remarks to make, but the flavor wins.

TUNA PANCAKES FILLING AND TOPPING
 1 small can tuna
 1 can mushroom soup, undiluted
 1/2 cup milk
 1 cup crushed potato chips
 Olives to taste

PANCAKES
 2 cups pancake ready-mix
 2 1/4 cups milk
 To make the filling, combine tuna, soup and milk. Bring to a boil over low heat. Fold potato chips and olives into mixture. Keep warm while preparing pancakes.
 For pancakes, add milk to ready-mix and stir lightly. Brown pancakes on lightly greased griddle, turning only once.
 Spoon some of the filling between two cooked pancakes. Garnish with pimento strips. This is good served with asparagus.

Ever so often, little gremlins whisk away notes for some story we plan to have in the paper, and we find them after publication day. But this happens to everyone in the newspaper business.

The next week, explanation to the news source is inevitable. But a Portales paper has hit on a solution. In a recent issue, a family reunion story appeared. Then another paragraph appeared at the bottom of the story which read "Apology: This item has been lost in the Tribune society editor's Sunday purse."

Our husband informs us in a very diplomatic way of course, that we are too thorough in news coverage most instances, but we tend to put things off.

We must have a distinctive telephone voice. When we called the school recently, we heard the re-

Farwell Senior Play Is Well Attended

A large crowd attended the presentation of "Man Alive," a three act mystery, by the Farwell seniors at the school auditorium on Thursday night of last week.

Reporter for the group says that approximately $140 was made from the ticket sales.

Play participants included Dean Jones, James Norton, Marilyn Austin, Bert Williams, Carolyn Cantrell, Betty Curtis, Glenna Davis, Elton Kesner, Dixie Turner and Jimmy Schell.

After attending the youth program breakfast at the school Sunday morning, we came home wondering if we should have stayed in bed. We realized before we arrived at the school, that we rushed away from home forgetting to apply any makeup, but decided it wasn't worth going back home. But we did comb our hair and we were not attired in our robe.

Burglar, Mrs. Smith Surprise Each Other

A burglar with poor timing—or at least a lot of nerve—got the scare of his life Monday afternoon at the home of the Albert Smiths northeast of Farwell on Highway 60.

But the burglar wasn't the only one who got quite a jolt. Mrs. Smith, who went into her home alone about 1:30, was a little bit shaken to discover a strange man inside.

She had driven up to the house and noticed a car with out-of-state license plates parked near the house. The door on the driver's side was standing open.

"Sometimes I get home and have relatives waiting inside to see me," she said after the affair, "but I was a bit worried this time because I couldn't think of any relatives I had who lived in Alabama." She entered the house and looked around but saw no one immediately. The stanger, who had come out of a room behind her, spoke to her. When she turned to see him, he was standing with a straight-edged razor in his hand.

He made no attempt to come toward her, but instead started up a conversation. "He said he was looking for a small horse to buy for his children," said Mrs. Smith, "and had heard at a service station in town that we had one for sale."

Mrs. Smith's mind was being taxed for an excuse to get out of the house and away from the man, so she suggested that the two go outside and look in their pasture to see if the Smiths had a horse he was interested in.

"I could see Albert through the window at our irrigation well," says Mrs. Smith, "and as soon as I got outside, I went straight to him."

"The man followed in his car, and when he got to the well too, I went back to the house to see if I could discover anything missing."

After a second check, Mrs. Smith found that the man had taken the razor and a ring of Albert's.

Upon questioning him repeatedly, the man finally produced the ring and razor (which he had hidden under his car seat), but then left the scene.

The Smiths notified Sheriff Chas. Lovelace who radioed ahead and he was picked up in Hereford. He was identified as Jack Todd, an escaped convict from Montgomery, Ala., who was driving a car stolen from Birmingham. Todd is being held under $1000 bond awaiting action of the grand jury.

BUSINESS REVIEW

of business firms of Deaf Smith and Parmer Counties. All review items on this page are paid advertising, compiled by C. M. Couchman.

Jottin's—

We had only been there a few minutes when LaMoin Williams inquired "Jeanne, what time did you get up this morning?" We admitted that we had been a little slow crawling out of bed.

Then we heard via the grapevine that Joe Jones had a caustic comment that went something like this "Looks like Jeanne's trouble this morning was that she got out of bed before she woke up."

Oh well, we've never been accused of possessing beauty or brains, but somehow, we manage to attract attention at that.

Next Sunday, we'll try to improve!

Close of school activities are getting brisk as students, parents and patrons are on the alert just trying to keep up with what is going on.

It will be a thrill for some Parmer County young people who will participate in Interscholastic League events in Austin this weekend. We made one such trip ourselves back about a decade ago (sound ancient, don't we) and still remember what a thrill it was.

And as summer draws near, the Lions Club is getting started on raising money for the summer youth program for Texico-Farwell youngsters. Second breakfast will be Sunday, with funds to go to the worthwhile enterprise. The little people are doing their share too. So if one of them asks you to buy a ticket, dig down for that 75c. You are investing in our youth.

And the Farwell junior-senior banquet is Tuesday night. We received an invitation this year—the first time that has ever happened. Not only are we excited about the courtesy, we think our story written first-hand will be more colorful. We appreciate the thoughtfulness of the host class.

Then the new officers for the Parent-Teachers association will be installed next week—that will be Thursday night. The calendar will be a busy one for the next few weeks.

ENMU Team To Speak Here Sunday

A deputation team of probably 10 persons from the Wesley Foundation of Eastern New Mexico University will present a religious and dramatic program at Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday, May 6, at 11 a. m.

This team will be accompanied to Texico-Farwell by Rev. Olaf Hoggard, professor of Bible at the University and head of the Wesley Foundation here.

A. E. Hunt, a member of the conference board on Wesley Foundation work in New Mexico, will represent the Wesley Foundation board at Sunday's service.

The program will concern the religious life of students on the college campus and the problems and adjustments college students have to make.

Everyone is cordially invited to hear this evaluation of religious life of college students. All young people are especially urged to attend.

Following the service, the visitors from ENMU will be served a buffet lunch in the undercroft of the church.

Farwell Senior 4-H's Have Regular Meeting

Farwell senior 4-H Club boys met at Farwell School on Thursday, April 19, for a regular meeting.

President of the club, Joe Hughes, opened the meeting, and minutes of the last club meeting were read by Jimmy Hardage, secretary.

Larry McDorman and David Berggren made reports on the 4-H Club camp held last year. The group then discussed this year's camp plans.

Eddie Collins was the only member of this group to enter a project in the Junior Livestock Show in Friona. Eddie was awarded $6 prize money for showing the grand champion sow and litter.

County Agent Joe Jones met with the group and gave entry blanks to the boys for the county crop contest.

INVESTIGATION URGED

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

We believe cotton farmers who attend the May 10 meeting in the Friona School auditorium stand to profit by having done so. It is hoped that members of all farm and commodity organizations will be present en-mass for consideration of problems facing every cotton producer in these times. Interested persons from other counties are cordially welcomed, too.

National Cotton Council Representative John T. Gregg, whose business is research and marketing for American cotton, presents an interesting and informative illustrated talk.

Members of the weed committee who went to Amarillo to attend the Experiment Station weed eradication demonstrations and discussions last week were Bruce Parr, Gene Snodgrass, L. F. Bruns, Roy Grace, and Gilbert Kaltwasser. Four agriculture boys from Friona, and two from Lazbuddie accompanied them.

Sodium chlorate for use in destroying weeds is again available at Parmer County Implement and Cummings Farm Store at the same reduced price as last year, $12.25 per can. Check with your ASC office for assistance financially in treating bindweed. Interest in checking the spread of Johnson grass seems to be growing among farmers, too. We are not sure, but we believe the commissioners will give aid in bindweed treatment in county road rights-of-way.

Parmer County Farm Bureau and American Farm Bureau are opposing the Federal Highway bill (HR 10660) that is presently before congress. Kaltwasser sent a telegram to Congressman Walter Rogers Thursday, urging his opposition. If you will wire your senator opposing this bill, it will help. Among other objectionable features, the bill would delegate truck weight regulations on such highways to the federal government. It would also increase the cost of construction because of wage regulations peculiar to federal road construction.

Farm Bureau people believe the states can collect and spend necessary money in improving their highway more economically and satisfactorily than the federal government can.

Winning first place in the farm and home safety contest were Johnny McCuan and Truman McKillip who presented a demonstration on fire prevention. Johnny Armstrong and Frankie Coffman placed first with their demonstration of the difference in water intake in three different types of soil, including freely permeable soil, permeable soil and slowly permeable soil. This demonstration was presented in the soil and water conservation contest. These boys will enter state competition with these demonstrations at the annual 4-H Club Round-Up in College Station, June 12-14. Working with these boys in preparing for these contests are Joe Jones, county agent, and Herman Milford, Farwell senior club adult leader.

Control Soil Insects Now, Suggests Jones

With the planting season at hand for grain sorghums, County Agent Joe Jones this week urged farmers to protect themselves with proper seed treatments to control soil insects.

"We had heavy damage by these insects last spring," recalled the agent, "and some farmers planted over as many as two or three times just on account of losing their stand to the insects."

In an effort to educate area agriculture to the need for control measures, Jones has contacted warehousemen, seed dealers, the Farm Bureau and Farmers Union, and the county's two commodity groups. All have been mailed literature setting out proper insect control techniques.

Two of the insects which cause damage to grain sorghum and wheat planting seed in this area are the southern corn rootworm, and wireworms.

The former attacks the roots and lower parts of the stalks of seedling plants, and the wireworm damages young sprouts that have just emerged, striking the kernel or the tender shoots just below the soil surface.

Good control of southern rootworms, wireworms and seed corn maggots has been obtained with dieldrin, lindane or heptachlor used as seed treatments on several different crops. Dieldrin or lindane should be used at the rate of 1 ounce and heptachlor, at 1 to 1 1/2 ounces of actual toxicant mixed with 100 pounds of seed corn.

Use 2 ounces of actual dieldrin or lindane or 2 to 3 ounces of actual heptachlor mixed in 100 pounds of wheat, grain sorghums, rye, barley or oats. For example, if a 50 percent wettable powder of dieldrin is used, 2 ounces of this material would treat 100 pounds of seed corn or 4 ounces would treat 100 pounds of wheat, grain sorghums, rye, oats or barley.

Dieldrin, lindane or heptachlor may be applied to the seed whether or not they were treated previously or will be treated with a fungicide. Avoid an overdose of insecticide on the seed. Excessive amounts may retard the growth of young plants.

Further information is available from the sources mentioned, or at the county agent's office.

Steers, Bovina Tie For Baseball Crown

Farwell Steers swept past the Lazbuddie Longhorns 7-2 in a conference 3-B baseball duel Friday afternoon at Lazbuddie to tie the Steers with the Bovina Mustangs in district play.

Both of these teams have a 3-1 record and will meet for the play-off game sometime next week.

Donnie Carpenter was the winning pitcher in the Lazbuddie game and Weaver was the loser. Farwell scored two runs in the second, two in the third and one in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings.

Lazbuddie scored both of their runs in the seventh.

Monday afternoon the Steers were guests of the Bula nine who came from behind in the final inning to score two unearned runs and win the game 4-3.

Farwell scored their three runs in the fifth inning. Arlin Lee Smith, one of the key men in the Farwell line up, has been out of the games played this week because of a severe ankle cut received while fighting fire at the Dial home Saturday.

Fielding H. Yost, athletic coach of the University of Michigan, was nicknamed "Hurry-up."

study intensely these little animals as back legs popped out, tails dropped off, and heads developed. It was really most interesting—far more so than our schoolbooks.

Of course, as boys, we had our meaner impulses, too, and as the town's 10,000,000 tadpoles grew into froghood, we set out with B-B guns to help nature reach a reasonable balance of the population.

Our parents raised no objections, since the nightly croaking of 10,000,000 raspy frog voices was hardly conducive to sleep.

We boys would roam the bar ditches and ponds, gun in hand, and whenever we spotted a frog sitting in the grass, with his throat strutting out and ready to croak, we would let him have it.

It wasn't a very humane act, and probably it was a good thing the SPCA wasn't active hereabouts in 1941. Anyway, we think that about every adult in town would have argued that the nightly serenading of 10,000,000 frogs wasn't very humane, either.

Income tax filing time is long past, but John Aldridge isn't through worrying about his return yet.

On the night of April 16 (the deadline for filing this year) we noticed some midnight oil being burned in the Aldridge offices next door to The Tribune, and stepped in to see what might be going on.

The offices were a sight to behold, with filing cabinets standing open, papers strewn about, and desk drawers pulled out. The scene was one of terrible confusion, and at first we thought the place might have been burglarized, but then spotted John.

He was stooped over a file, digging furiously, and so engrossed in his work that he hardly noticed when we spoke. John's hair was mussed and his face showed severe strain.

tion, then plan how to carry it for your side."

Select persons to be nominated for permanent chairman of the precinct convention and for permanent secretary. Select a person to act as floor leader at the convention. He, as a tactician, should make the group's motions on the convention floor.

Since the permanent chairman of the precinct convention names committee chairmen and members, select persons to serve on the Committee on Delegates and the Committee on Resolutions for the group's chairman to appoint if he is elected.

(These persons selected at the caucus for later committee appointment should prepare ahead of time a list of delegates to be named to the county convention and draw up resolutions to be passed up to the county meet).

The pre-convention caucus now is over. Make certain that each person knows perfectly the role he will play at the precinct convention.

Be Punctual

Only qualified voters are allowed to participate in the party conventions.

On convention afternoon, arrive early. Too many are lost because someone failed to arrive on time. The County Executive Committee member last July, will preside until the permanent chairman is elected.

After it has been determined that those present at the convention are qualified voters, the floor leader (selected at your pre-convention caucus) should nominate his man for permanent chairman. Other groups may nominate persons also. Here is where numerical strength comes in handy.

The elected permanent chairman takes over the meeting. The floor leader then nominates the group's choice for permanent secretary.

He then moves that the chairman appoint a Committee on Delegates to the county convention. The chairman names those previously determined at the pre-convention caucus.

The committee confers at the side or corner of the convention room, then the chairman reads his report, naming as delegates the persons pre-determined at your caucus. Although any number of delegates may be named, the precinct has a specified number of votes at the county party.

With the reading of the delegate list, the floor leader moves adoption of the report. He follows this adoption with a motion for the chair to name the Committee on Resolutions.

With cut-and-dried precision, the committee is named and it brings in resolutions resulting from the pre-convention caucus. A major resolution is one binding the delegates to the county convention to vote as a unit—that is, cast the precinct's county convention votes as one, rather than splitting them.

A motion for adjournment is in order by the floor leader.

To carry the county convention, the procedure is the same, except that like-thinking delegates from all precincts should band together, hold a pre-convention caucus, and plan in advance.

The method outlined for carrying, controlling, winning for precinct convention may sound like a "steam-roller" tactic.

It is, from the standpoint of there being strength in numbers and organization. It is a one-two punch.

The Democratic Party is the political master of Texas, and it should behoove every voter to take voice about whom he shall serve politically for the next two years and next four years.
