SIXTY-NINTH YEAR

Four Proposals Offered

In Hwy 60-70 Project

In the spring the sap rises in the trees and elsewhere. Lately the saps have been rising all over the country with emphasis on the tired refrain "We want Peace." We all want peace but not at the price of communist chains.

The faces are a mite different but the groups that orchestrate these demonstrations are depressingly the same. With a pile of skulls a mile high in Southeast Asia the refrain goes on. We do not understand it.

The President's economic package with its tax cut proposals is heading into a Congressional debate that could reach huge proportions or it could not. One of those who will have a big say in the matter is our own U.S. Representative Kent Hance. Kent is on the committee that will report out the Reagan package and it looks like Hance will be one of those who will be able to effectuate a compromise bill that will be satisfying to the White House. A bill of this nature would likely be supported by all Republicans and a sizeable group of the conservative Democrats. This puts our representative in a very important light and one all voters in this district can be proud of. On the spend-tax issue Hance is doing an excellent job of reflecting the basic conservatism of this district. Good show, Kent.

by Mary Sobin News Editor The proposed construction work on Highway 60/70 in the Twin Cities area is being termed "a traffic congestion relief route," according to Dwayne Grey, one of the project engineers, who said the entire highway project is a traverse route in which the main function is to link Interstates 40 and 10.

FARWELL, TEXAS

Once completed, the highway tion work on the "relief route" will take place here in the Twin Cities and could force some landowners to lose a chunk of their land, and some businesses to lose a portion of their properties and buildings. In one instance, two business buildings will be wiped off the map all together if one of the four proposals offered by the New Mexico State Highway Department is the route chosen for the new super slab.

Those attending the gathering will be asked to comment on four options proposed by the highway department for the relief highway.

A large map erected in the Texico City Hall by the highway department illustrates name from the past, as will the existing structures," said Texthe four options as:

"WHAT IS OUR FUTURE"

Rural telephone subscribers, like most Americans, want to do our share in meeting the serious economic problems facing our nation. We want to support President Reagan's program for economic recovery.

You may not be aware of how the program will affect us directly.

Despite the President's best efforts to spread the necessary sacrifices among all Americans, his proposals to eliminate the Rural Electrification Administration [REA] insured telephone loan program next year asks rural telephone subscribers to shoulder an unfair burd a in the battle to whip inflation.

Some of us remember the history of how small telephone companies and cooperatives were established. After World War II, there was a great need for rural telephone service. Large companies had all they could do to provide service in towns and cities due to the post war boom. Very few companies would, or could afford to construct facilities to rural America. Through the Department of Agriculture, the Rural Electrification Administration was formed to provide electric and telephone facilities to the rural areas. Many of you were instrumental in organizing our cooperative as were many other rural families across the nation. Due to the cost of establishing telephone facilities, the REA made it possible to borrow funds at a low rate of interest. The interest rates available to different cooperatives were set on the amount of revenue they generated within the year. Telephony has changed drastically in the past 35 years. We began with magneto [crank type] phones with 20 people to line, common battery [operator says number please] phones with 4 and 8 people to the line, dial phones with up to 8 to the line, and now we have buried lines with one party dial and push button phones. Communications are very important in our life style today. It's true that we still have phone trouble and our bills are too high, but so is the dependability and cost of a tractor, house or vehicle. We began 35 years ago with a $.50 telephone service to the present day $18.00 telephone service. The same increase can be found in almost anything one wants to see. Our cooperative has progressed through the years by being able to borrow funds from the REA bank which is now almost self supporting. To keep up with the changing times and provide our members with the best possible service, we now borrow funds which are really the interest and loans paid back to REA by hundreds of telephone companies and cooperatives throughout America since the program began. I believe that we as members, employees, officers, directors, and managers have done quite well in tying our homes and businesses in with the international network of communications. We hope to continue to prosper with the new electronic field of telephony and upgrade our facilities as needed.

It's hard to believe that our government finances telecommunications to foreign countries with the latest equipment through the so called Foreign Aid Program, and at the same time wants to discontinue a program that is not a burden to our taxpayers and ask for very little, if any, appropriations from our government. The elimination of the REA insured telephone loan program, whose 2 and 5% insured loans have provided rural America with facilities for 35 years, comes when hundreds of thousands of people [8% of the country] have no telephone service at all.

Twenty-three percent [23%] of the REA telephone subscribers remain on inadequate multi-party lines. The national average cost to the Cooperative per new subscriber is now $2,398.00. At a time when the rural areas are growing at a rate 15.7% faster than urban centers, it will be difficult to provide the service needed at an affordable rate.

We would like you all to know that we will operate Five Area Telephone Cooperative, Inc.

at a rate affordable to us all as long as possible. A few things to remember are that President Reagan's budget cut or elimination of the REA program, WILL NOT CUT FEDERAL SPENDING because loans are made from a separate fund that consists of repayments on existing loans and government borrowings. Members of Congress are under terrific pressure from the Reagan administration to go along with his economic program without any objections, without a chance to make any changes in the proposals. The administration has told Congress that the people fully support its economic program.

We would, at this time, like to call on you to act now and let the members of Congress know if you disagree with the Reagan administration plan to eliminate the REA insured telephone loan program. WE NEED YOUR HELP.
