

Merry Christmas

Special Services Highlight Christmas

Christmas will be observed this week at St. John Lutheran Church, Larlat, with two special services reports the church's pastor the Rev. Herbert F. Peiman.

In the Christmas Eve service, Thursday at 6:00 o'clock, the Sunday School pupils will tell the age-old Christmas story in recitations and songs. Throughout the program the congregation will join their voices with those of the children to sing favorite Christmas hymns and carols. The ladies choir will sing "O Holy Night" and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

The title of the program is "Light a Candle on the Altar." As the program unfolds the candle lighters, James Haseloff and Dwane Johnson, will light a total of 19 candles; eight for the fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies, one for the Christ-child, and one each for the Herald Angel, the Glory that shone round about the shepherds, and the heavenly choir.

Three smaller candles represent the sign of swaddling-clothes, the manger bed, and the adoration of the shepherds. The last four candles to be lit represent the Grace, Love, Peace and Joy that Christmas brings

Yearlings Defeat Morton, Muleshoe

The Farwell eighth grade Yearlings defeated teams from Morton and Muleshoe by scores of 28-18 and 28-23 but were finally defeated by Friona in the final game of the series by Friona by a score of 27-21.

Al Phillips was high point man with 11 points in the Morton game. Rickey Lee was second with six.

In the Muleshoe game, Kyle Sheets was high point man with Rickey Lee second and Al Phillips third.

Al Phillips was high pointer in the Friona game.

The eighth grade girls also took part in the tournament and

Patrons Urged To Write Governor

Superintendent A. D. McDonald of the Texico school system is urging all school patrons in that district and all other interested parties to write or wire Gov. Jack Campbell IMMEDIATELY in regard to the reorganization of the school district, wherein Texico school will be consolidated with the Clovis system.

McDonald stresses the fact that the authorities are not interested in the sentimental reasons for keeping the school in Texico but instead, patrons should tell them of the school curriculum. The curricula at Texico is equal to that of other schools of larger size, including Clovis, as evidenced by the students from Texico who attend college and make good (make the Dean's honor roll consistently, are members of honor societies and participate in many of the extra curricula activities).

Be sure to write or wire the governor, as your letter or telegram may well be the deciding factor in the issue, McDonald stressed.

JOHNNY ACTKINSON DANNY HUFFAKER JERRY FIELDS BOBBY FIELDS BUTCH FORD LARRY GREGORY

Steers Win Sportsmanship Trophy

The Fighting Farwell Steers won the sportsmanship trophy at the Tullia tournament held last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. They were defeated three games straight by Tullia, Littlefield, and Canyon by scores of 76-64, 59-55 and 59-57 respectively. Jerry Childs was also chosen to be the all tournament man.

In the first game the locals went down in defeat 76-64. Jerry Childs led the scoring attack with 21 points. Larry Gregory was second with 17 points. Johnny Actkinson had 12 points for third. Warren Gossett netted 11 for fourth. Johnny Schell had three.

Weldon Mate from Tullia was high point man of the game with 22 points to his credit. Ken Cansler was second with 18 points. With 16 points Gene Lathan took third. Jack Brooks had 10. Other boys scoring were Tommy Stewart and Timmy Lavincer.

In the second game, Jerry

Childs once again was high point man for the locals, with 19 points. Johnny Actkinson was a close second with 13. Larry Gregory had 11. Other boys getting in on the scoring were Warren Gossett, six; Doyle Johnson, three; and Charlie Dannheim, two.

Roy Pierce led the scoring attack for Littlefield with 12. Phillip Pace followed close behind with 11. Ronald Sitton and Terry Hyatt had 10 each. Lamar Pollard had nine for a close fourth. Steve Lewis had five and Randy Hutson had two.

Jerry Childs took the lead once again in the final game of the tournament in which the locals competed with 10 points. Johnny Actkinson had 154. Warren Gossett was third with 10. Larry Gregory had six and Charlie Dannheim had three.

Joe Moore tallied 21 points for game scoring honors for the opponents, Tommy Higgins was second with 10 points for the Canyon five. Tom Lair was a close third with nine. Other boys scoring were George Cox, six; Tenny Baranar, four; Mark Lair, three; James Cole, two; and Rickey Bacon, two.

Claude White Services Sunday

Funeral services were conducted from Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church Sunday afternoon 3:30 p.m. for C.A. (Claude) White 73, who passed away at the family home Friday morning. Rev. W.C. Strickland pastor of the Methodist church assisted by Rev. J.L. Bass, pastor of Farwell Baptist church, officiated at last rites. Interment was in Sunset Memorial Terrace Park Cemetery under direction of Steed Funeral Home.

C.A. White was born at Cooper, Texas June 28, 1891. He was married to Miss Edith Wood on November 5, 1912 at Santa Anna, Texas. Mr. White moved to Parmer County in 1918 and settled five miles northeast of Farwell. He lived at the same place until two years ago when he moved to the present home on second street, following retirement from active farming.

Survivors in addition to the wife, Edith, are two daughters, Mrs. DeAlva Wojinski and Mrs. Marjorie Parker, both of Roswell; five grandchildren James, Stanley (Buddy) III, and Alice Wojinski, Mrs. Linda Wojinski Ross, and Mrs. Janet Parker Madsen; two brothers, A.D. White, Amarillo, Oran White, Carbonale, Colo., two sisters, Mrs. Zada Merman, Coleman, and Mrs. Adra McClure, Santa Anna and two great-grandchildren, Debbie and Teresa Ross.

Mr. White had been in ill health for a two year period; however he had only been seriously ill a few days at time of his death.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and Woodmen of the World.

Serving as pallbearers were John Aldridge, H.Y. Overstreet, Bob Hammonds, Lee Capps, Grady Herington, and L.R. Vincent.

Listed as honorary pallbearers were Claude Rose, Frank Seale, Lee Thompson, C.C. Christian, G.D. Anderson, Sam Aldridge, Johnnie Williams, Otis Huggins and Ralph Humble.

Wolverines Lose To Melrose In Comedy Of Errors

In the last game prior to the Yule holidays the Texico Wolverines were defeated by the Melrose Buffalos in a game played in Melrose Friday night 45-42.

Although, the Wolverines led most of the way, they were not playing a good brand of ball, according to coach Johnny Green and were outdistanced in the last quarter.

The game was almost a comedy of errors, commented the coach. "The Texico quintet could not hold on to the ball, could not make their free shots (six out of 16) and made mechanical error after error."

High point man for Texico and the game was Tom Rickstrew with 22 points; Jerry Franklin of Melrose had 20. Others contributing points to the Texico cause were Neil Lambert, Mike Spearman, Joe Patterson and Ronnie Richardson.

In the opening game of the evening Texico B team was defeated by Melrose 25-22. Both the varsity and B teams now have season records of five wins and two losses.

The Wolverines will hold practice sessions during the holiday season (possibly on the 28-30 of December).

Their next game will be played on the home court January 8, with Elda as their opponent.

The girls teams both lost games to House in Tuesday games by narrow margins.

Choirs Present Christmas Story

Five choirs of Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church were presented in concert Sunday evening, in a presentation of the Christmas story in song. The program was directed by Mrs. James Craig, choir director. Seventy voices made up the choral groups.

Friona Chiefs Defeat Steers

The younger choir was made up of children who would begin school next year and first and second graders. A choir of intermediates and of young people and a boys group were included and were joined by the adult choir.

Solo parts were presented by three members of the boys choir as wise men -- Hal Graham, Darwin Green and Brad Jordan and by Penny Phillips, cast as an angel.

Accompanist was Miss Dianne Lovelace and Mrs. W.H. Graham read the Christmas story.

Council Signs Contract With Lunsford

At the last meeting of Texico town council commissioners signed a contract with Buster Lunsford (operating his business under the name of Buster's Used Car Parts). The contract had few changes from the original contract which was signed last year.

The Jones Brothers (Frank and Si) met with the council to discuss the feasibility of having the sewer line extended to their property on State Line Road. After some discussion the commission agreed to look into the cost of extending the sewer lines (stipulating that in case the extensions are possible the property owners along the route of the extension pay for the work). The matter was tabled until the next meeting when a report will be given.

In other business the report of the police magistrate was accepted in the amount of $150. (for the previous month) Bills were approved and ordered paid for November.

FROM THE HOPPER

Our family will be celebrating Christmas at home around the traditional tree. This brings back warm and pleasant memories to me, and in recalling what a time of joy and gladness it always was when I was a boy, I can appreciate why the season is a time of high excitement for our own children.

After Santa Claus visits the Grahams, we are leaving for four days in the high country of New Mexico. We want to try our hand at some sledding and skiing. Last year at this time there wasn't enough snow for a good snowball fight, but they tell us the story is much different and greatly improved this year.

We plan to spend a couple of nights at Cloudcroft and one night at Sierra Blanca (near Ruidoso).

From our house to your house...
From our hearts to your hearts...
A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS.

No Window Service

Jim Bob Smart, Farwell postmaster announces that there will be no window service at the local post office on Saturday morning, Dec. 26; however the mail on the rural routes will be delivered as usual.

Band Concert Held Friday

Farwell bands were presented in concert Friday night in the school auditorium, under the direction of the band director, Tommy Mayfield.

The sixth grade band presented in several numbers followed by music by the high school musical group. Attendees were then shown film taken at the recent marching contest in Canyon, showing the Farwell marching band in competition.

Firemen Hold Annual Yule Dinner

The annual Christmas dinner for Texico firemen and their wives was held at Clara's Spur Restaurant Saturday night, with all members of the fire department present with the exception of Sam Lewis (who was unable to attend due to the illness of his wife).

A turkey and ham dinner with all the trimmings was served with pumpkin pie and whipped cream for dessert. Gifts were exchanged.

Attending the social were Messrs. and Mmes. C. H. Webb, Russell Johnson, John Adams, Elmer Teel, Jim Rickstrew, E. L. Farmer, Bill Thigpen, F. S. Thigpen, Howard Billingsley, Roy Harvey Snodgrass, Rip Snodgrass, Sam Hukill, Otis Huggins, Jim Hudson, Red Prather, Vane Doshier, and Lewis Cooper, Gayle Doolittle, and Weldon Bell.

Edith Ann Walling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitz Walling is shown following the "Snow Queen" contest in which she was one of the four runners up to "Queen" Lynn Blankenship.

Listed In Top Five

Edith Ann Walling, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitz Walling was named one of the top five contestants in the "Miss Snow Queen" contest held in Clovis last week. Miss Walling will ride with the queen - Lynn Blankenship and the other runners up at the head of the Christmas Parade in Clovis on Dec. 19.

Contestants were judged on poise, personality and talent. This is the second time in recent weeks that Miss Walling has been honored. Earlier in the year she was chosen as one of the top 10 contestants in the Miss Maize Days contest, held in Friona each year.

She is a junior in Farwell high school and is active in all phases of school life. She was sponsored by the local Rotary Club.

Another local entry in the contest was Susan Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Blair.

Diana Williams, five, daughter of the Don Williams and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford participated in the "Miss Snow Flake" contest.

Plan Bowling Party

The Pleasant Hill Pals 4-H club recently met in the home of Sherry Clark, for a regular monthly business session. The meeting was directed by Carolyn Langford, president. One new member, Arlin Davis was welcomed to the club and a Christmas Bowling party was planned. Arlin Davis was elected reporter of the club.

In addition to the bowling party members voted to make Christmas wreaths and package candles and cookies for senior citizens in the Pleasant Hill Community. When 4-H club members deliver the packages of treats they also plan to sing carols.

Members of the Pleasant Hill club who received awards at the recent Curry County award banquet were:

I Dare You—Glenns Fahsholtz, Electric — Janet Sharp. Beef — Carolyn Langford. Special Foods — Janie and Betty Clark. Llanos Estacados — Debbie Bocox. Agriculture — Wayne Fahsholtz, Junior leadership—Janet Sharp Garden—Arlin Davis

Terry Pierce was presented with a completion pin. Members in attendance at the business meeting were Debbie Bocox, Diane Kelley, Sherry Clark, Arlin Davis, Terry Pierce, Carolyn Langford, Mrs. Willard Davis and the leaders, Mrs. Elmer Langford and Mrs. Donald Clark.

Party Honors Kayle Watts

Kayle Watts was honored with a party in celebration of his fourth birthday Sunday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Watts.

A Christmas theme was used and red, white and green cake decorated with Santas and Christmas trees was served with ice cream and strawberry pop. Favors were balloon characters, red and green suckers and candy canes.

Guests included Andy and John Graham, Kyle Jones, Kyle Gentry of Clovis and Terri Bannister, and Kayle's sister, Cindy. Jeff Tharp sent a gift.

Other guests were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Watts and Mr. and Mrs. Finis Jennings; and Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Gentry of Clovis, Carolyn Bannister, Joyce Kay Watts and Mrs. Dean Jones.

Sunday Ceremony Unites Judy Sharp-Mike Getz

Wedding vows for Miss Judith Arline Tharp and Michael John Getz were read Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Texico Baptist Church. Rev. Harvey Hudson performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tharp of Texico and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Getz of Farwell.

A central arched candelabra held fifteen tapers and accented the fan-shaped bouquet of white mums and gladioli in the foreground. On either side were nine branch candelabra and floral designs, interspersed with greenery and completed with palms. A greenery entwined kneeling bench centered the altar.

Mrs. Dwight Turner, organist, accompanied Mrs. Murray White, who sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "Till", and "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a colonial wedding gown of white silk peau de sole with a fitted waistline extending to deep points in the front and back and emphasizing the fullness of the four tiers of the bouffant overskirt, which was caught up in front with a single silk rose.

The lace-edged tiers pyramided from the back into a sweeping chapel train.

The portrait neckline of scalloped lace was outlined with iridescents and seed pearls, and the long sleeves were tapered to points over the hands and closed with self-covered buttons.

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was held in place by a pearl and iridescent encrusted crown of lace. She carried an arrangement of white roses atop a white Bible.

Traditionally she wore some-well was best man. Groomsmen were Larry Cook of Clovis, Marcus Jacobson of Hereford and Steve Quinn of Clovis. Candlelighters and ushers were John Sprowls of Amarillo, Jerry Bailey of Clovis and Curtis Lynn Westbrook Jr. of Clovis.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tharp chose a two-piece mauve ensemble of lace with a satin tie at the neckline, with black accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a shaded beige and cream brocade afternoon suit, with a light pink Sherbet punch was served.

Mrs. Loyd Cain Jr. and Mrs. George Davis, both of Clovis, presided at the serving table. Mrs. Nathan Tharp of Texico, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the registration table.

For her wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a winter white knit suit piped in royal blue, with matching accessories and white fur hat. Her corsage was of white roses.

The newly-weds will be at home in Canyon after Dec. 30, where he is a pre-med student at West Texas State University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Farwell High School.

Mrs. Getz is a Texico High School graduate and attended Hardin Simmons and Wayland Baptist College. She was employed by Plains Publishers in Farwell at the time of her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Getz were host and hostess for the rehearsal dinner Saturday evening. Royal blue and white were accented with silver in the decorations. Head table was centered with a three-pronged spiral vase holding silver balls and candle with matching Christmas balls on either side. Crystal candleholders held five tapers. Star-shaped holders holding blue tapers encircled with tiny balls centered tables of thing old, her mother's ring; new was a pearl and diamond pendant, a gift from the bridegroom; borrowed was her veil from Mrs. Leon Kelley, and blue was a garter, a gift of the matron of honor.

Mrs. Phillip Elliott, sister of the bride, of Clovis, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Ben Zachrel, also a sister, Mrs. Leon Kelley and Miss Betty Ruth Lockhart. Their street-length dresses were of royal blue velvet, fashioned with jewel necklines and long sleeves with semi-flared skirts designed with side pleats caught at the waistline with iridescent pins, gifts from the bride. Their hats were circlets of royal blue with matching veiling and shoes were royal blue suede. They carried cascades of white carnations.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered in white taffeta and centered with an arrangement of blue and white in a crystal holder. Silver compotes belonging to Mrs. Virgle Harrison, friend of the bride, held nuts and mints and were used with crystal appointments. Crystal candleholders held blue tapers, and napkins were inscribed with names of the young couple and the wedding date.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in spun sugar with designs of hearts and rosebuds shaded in royal blue and Grecian columns dividing the top layers. A miniature bridal couple topped the cake.

Arnold Family Holds Yule Reunion

Fifty-seven members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Arnold of Texico were in attendance at a family reunion, and Christmas celebration at the Texico Woman's Club building on Sunday. The occasion also was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold's 52nd anniversary. In attendance at the celebration were six children, six in laws, 28 grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren, and several nephews, nieces and cousins of the Arnolds. Two daughters with their families were unable to be present for the celebration.

A MERRIER CHRISTMAS: Boy Scout Troop 201 of Farwell has been busy during the pre-holiday season gathering foods for families in the community who are not so fortunate as they, in order that a merrier Christmas might be enjoyed. A part of the canned food gathered by the troop is on display under the Christmas Tree in the Campbell Electric company window. Ray Campbell, scoutmaster and Lee Hutchins, assistant scoutmaster, regret to announce that the troop will be unable to participate in the Christmas parade due to a conflict with a ball tournament scheduled for the same time in Farwell. Several members of the troop are members of the basketball team.

Class Members Bring Gifts For Church Nursery To Christmas Party

Companion class of Texico Baptist Church held its annual Christmas dinner in the basement at the church on Thursday evening. A baked ham dinner complete with all the trimmings was served. Instead of exchanging gifts class members brought gifts for the church nursery. The class presented Mrs. Tena Roth, teacher, with a gift and Mrs. Roth presented each of the class members with small remembrances. Attending the dinner were Messrs. and Mmes. Leon London and girls, Butch Sharp and children, Bill Boling and Johnnie, Jim Pierce and Elizabeth, Clarence Smith, Leroy Looper and Diane, Dee Brown, Mrs. Ann Hammit, Mrs. Ben Zachreal and children, Edith, Ray and Steven. In an earlier meeting in December the Companion class had begun getting ready for Christmas by having a devotional "The Spirit of Christmas," presented by Mrs. Bill Boling. At the early meeting a pink and blue shower was given in honor of Mrs. Keith Scott. Cake squares iced in pink were served with coffee or punch. Attending the social were Mesdames Mary Lynn London, Nelda McDaniel, Tena Roth, Fern Sharp, Audrey Kittrell, Anita Zachreal, Frances Boling, Pat Webb and Mary Dee Brown.

Winnie Dunn YWA's Hold Christmas Party

The Winnie Dunn YWA's of Farwell First Baptist church held their annual Christmas party Tuesday after school in the home of their counselor, Mrs. Bruce Blair. Following the reading of the Christmas story, Mrs. Ralph Franse, YWA director led in prayer. Gifts were exchanged from a beautifully decorated tree. Refreshments of hot dogs, chips, cold drinks and sundaes were enjoyed by Martha Coffey, Linda Langston, Donna Dunn, Mary Coffey, Peggy Eason, Sherri Bass, Peggy Martin, Susan Blair, Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Franse. We had a note from another former resident last week -- from Mrs. Ola Moore who operated Jim's Cafe in Texico for many years. She now resides in Garden Grove, Calif. and is still cooking doughnuts and rolls -- but for the grandchildren, instead of customers. She stays with Daughter Mildred's children while Mildred works. Granny Ross sends the paper to Mrs. Moore each week, so she keeps up with Texico-Farwell friends that way.

JOTTIN'S By Jeanne

Merry Christmas to all of you. We hope you enjoy The Tribune, which is more than just a newspaper this week -- it is one giant Christmas card. This is always my favorite paper of the year -- as merchants send their greetings to you -- and we have a chance to send our good wishes too. I always read every word -- nothing gives me the Christmas spirit more than the words of our friends and neighbors in the Christmas ads.

Cerise And Pink Motif Highlight Dinner Decor

One of the most enjoyable events of the Christmas season was a covered dish dinner, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Coffey on Sunday. The menu consisted of turkey, dressing and all the trimmings. The Coffey home was decorated in the Yule motif with pink and cerise as predominant colors. The dining room table was covered with a pink linen cloth and featured a huge pink arrangement flanked by pink candles and cerise balls. A red fringed cloth covered the dining table in the breakfast room, with white candles and a dish of red Christmas balls as centerpiece. Card tables were placed throughout the den and living room. Attending the dinner were Messrs. and Mmes. Clay Henson, Roy Lovett, Tim and Terry, Irby Range of Irving, Bill Moss, Willie Roberts and Charles, Bruce Blair, Susan and David, Asa Smith, Elmer Scott, Joe McWilliams, Otis Huggins, Roy and Donna Dick Gerles, Raymond Martin, Peggy and Shir-lene, J. Mrs. Herington Hostess Monday

Mrs. Duane Herington entertained with open house Monday afternoon at her home. Christmas cookies and cranberry punch were served during the calling hours. Christmas decorations were used throughout the house and napkins depicted a Santa and a Yule border. Milk glass appointments were used.

Christmas Program Presented At Lazbuddie Methodist Church

Members of the Lazbuddie children's and youth choirs presented a Christmas program in song and story, Sunday. Title of the program was "Light" portraying Jesus the Light of the World. Organist for the presentation was Mrs. Iva Carpenter, pianist was Charlotte Seaton and candlelighters were Joe B. Jennings and Robert Gallman. Joseph and Mary were portrayed by Joe Dan Briggs and Gina Beth Elliott. Participants in the song "What a Savior," were Gina Ethridge, Dana McDonald, Scotty Elliott, Parky Malone, Scotty Farley and Gina Beth Elliott. "Lovely are the Lights" was presented by Dina Seaton, Susan Farley, Kitle Malone, Connie McDonald, Donnie McDonald, Lee Ann Far-

In addition to members of the wedding party those in attendance were Mrs. Jackie Dean Williams, Phillip Elliott and Leslie Elliott, Edith, Ray and Steven Zachreal, Leon Kelley, Mrs. Curtis Lynn Westbrook Jr., Nathan Tharp, Dwight Gallman and David Gallman. Narrator was Rev. Don Davidson. James Buchanan was the only life-long bachelor to be President.

Mexican Supper Honors Boys

Twelve-year-old boys Sunday School class of the Farwell Baptist Church were honored with a Mexican supper Wednesday of last week at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Clyde Magness. Attending were Dale McCleskey, Randy Stewart, Mark Williams, Dean Stovall, Jimmy Meeks and Greg Hargrove.

Unusual Plate Collection Contained Over 300 Pieces

by JEANNE GRAHAM
Prized antique plates were the inspiration for Mrs. A. D. Smith's unusual and extensive collection of plates. She began the hobby 25 years ago, and added to the display, over 300 pieces.

"I had some antique plates, so I started a collection", says Mrs. Smith. Plates have come from over the United States, and include an individual plate from all the major cities in Texas.

Many of the pieces were given her as a gift for some special occasion or when friends or relatives would remember her on their visits to other areas.

Several years ago, the entire collection was displayed on the walls of the Smith home -- in the dining room, living room and den area. She has now packed away most of the china and has given parts of the collection to nieces and nephews.

One of the most prized plates is displayed in the dining room, and was given to a sister-in-law by Mrs. Smith's mother many years ago. Delicately shaded violets are hand-painted to edge the scalloped design of the plate.

All the plates in the collection are quite different, and many from various areas, have pictures imprinted on the surface. Many of the older plates have intricate hand-painted designs.

One small breakfast plate, a favorite, with an unusual floral display, was purchased in an antique shop in San Antonio, by Mrs. Anne Overstreet, friend of Mrs. Smith.

Each plate bears the name of the person who gave the plate to Mrs. Smith and the origin of the design, on the back, as well as the year the item was added to the collection.

A beautiful Wedgwood plate from England was purchased in Canada to be added to the collection and features a historic crest design in brilliant colors.

An unusual plate from Minnesota features a picture of a pilgrim and large Mexican plates depict the origin by the design. Also included are seasonal designs.

Mrs. Smith possesses two plates which she describes as her "old-timey" plaques which bear beautifully done line sketches of stilted gentlemen inscribed with the identifications "The Parson" and "The Mayor" in flowing letters.

The abundant collection of plates are a part of the collection of other antique items of Mrs. Smith. The remainder of much of her collection is displayed in a large corner china cabinet with curved glass doors and mirrored interior, and she has a dresser that is a family heirloom.

As with her plate collection, she has given away many heirloom items to loved ones.

Mrs. Smith and her husband,

A. D. Smith, who served the area as county judge for many years, reside in Farwell. Both have been active in civic affairs in the city and county for many years.

Mrs. A. D. Smith stands beside an antique plate, one of the more than 300 which was included in her unusual collection from sections of the United States and Canada. The dresser at the right is also a family antique.

Camping Out Can Be Fun

By Wilma Austin
 Have you ever camped out? Would you like to come along with us on our camping trip? It can be fun if you can survive all the accidents and incidents involved.
 We left Farwell about 1:30 before, they didn't have any place to sleep) couldn't get his car repaired there so had to pull him up hills and down hills all the way to Trinidad, Colo. (It's all these little things that keep the trip interesting).

 While in Trinidad most works." From here we went to Santa Claus Land -- I think it would have been real cute -- except that it rained so that we couldn't enjoy it -- shame on this changeable weather -- it was cold too. We stepped into a colors and swelled but no permanent damage -- we hope. If that rock had hit someone on the head it would have killed them. After reporting the injury we finally hobbled out to the cars with Charlene's beat up leg and Partin's sore toe. (he's had this sore toe the whole trip.)

 Later we played a game of miniature golf -- Dick and Gwen each won a free game but didn't have time to use them. Called home -- everything O.K. Richard was so careful to lock our purses in the car while we played golf -- then he went to the car to get something and left the door standing open with our purses in plain sight. (Don't believe we can trust him with our money).
 When we got back to camp that night Partin soaked his toe in the Epsom Salts we had bought that day. We wanted to buy some salts, looked a place or two and couldn't find any -- later when we stopped at a grocery store Charlene said, "I'll run get it," -- she came back with a five pound box -- it was all they had by the way -- too top this Dick and Gwen thought we hadn't found any and they also bought salts -- we had plenty no doubt -- all we needed was about a two ounce box. We laughed until we were almost sick. Don't know what we would have done without Gwen's peroxide to doctor the toe -- enough about that -- but as time passes emphasis is put on the toe.

On Wednesday we packed up and left Colorado Springs. We took a short cut to Denver -- over dirt roads -- it was pretty there but dirty -- somehow we got on the wrong dirt road and came out at the wrong place (that's the way our shortcuts usually turn out). We completely missed Denver -- but did go through Evergreen, which was the most beautiful ranch country we have seen, in fact the only thing that we would care to see again. If we hadn't gotten off on the wrong road we would have missed it.

 We ate lunch by a waterfall. Got to Rocky Mountain National Park -- or Estes Park that afternoon. I have never seen anything as beautiful as these mountains. We stopped at most of the lookout spots to get a better view. Charlene wouldn't look -- as you have probably guessed -- she is terrified of heights. Looking through the binoculars across the canyons we saw elk grazing over on the other side of the next mountain. We drove up the timber line. Timber will only grow 11,000 feet up. Part of the Trail Ridge Road is almost 13,000 feet up -- it's beautiful.
 We came to the most perfect campground right by the creek

Anybody Want Supper? -- Partin Austin, Judy West and Debbie Powell try their hand at catching fish for supper -- "Quite an expensive meal."

p.m. Sunday, July 26 (that is Richard and Charlene Powell, Debbie, 15, Ricky, 10, and Eddie, 7; Dick and Gwen West and children Judy, 14, and Jana, 9.) They all hail from Sudan. Then there was Partin and I, (Wilma).
 First thing we had to stop in Clovis and "ice" up. We carried most of the food with us that we would need for the trip. We had five ice boxes (it takes a lot of food for 11 people). One was filled with frozen meats and we used dry ice to keep it frozen. We also had a supply of groceries, pots, pans and silverware in large wooden boxes with lids so the rain couldn't hurt anything (if you know anything about camping you know it always rains).
 Maybe it doesn't rain there at any other time except when you are camping. It didn't look like a drop of rain had fallen at Grady all year but it rained on us as we went through. BEWARE of Grady if you are going camping. "The only other time I have camped out it rained on us as we were camped there and got our beds all wet. This time we were prepared and got through Grady without anything getting wet.

We got as far as Raton, N.M. on Sunday afternoon. Dick's generator went out on his station wagon and it being Sunday he couldn't get it repaired. By the way, our Caravan consisted of a pickup with a camper, a station wagon and we pulled a Thunderbird trailer. Dick just couldn't drive his car without a generator so we pulled him seven or eight miles to the camping area and spent the night in a muddy camp. It had rained at Raton, too. Like I said, it always rains if you are going camping. But actually from here on we don't have too much trouble with rain.

Monday, the second day out we pulled Dick back to Raton. (In case you are wondering why he didn't leave it there the night everybody had to buy new shoes as a result of the muddy camp the night before. Their mud is worse than ours. It's black and sticks to your shoes about an inch or an inch and one-half thick. We got the repairs and left Trinidad before noon. From there we went to Canon City, ate our lunch in the park, iced everything up again, and went through the prison. Charlene felt sorry for the prisoners -- I didn't -- "They should have been good boys."

 From there we went to Royal Gorge. Charlene wouldn't look -- we rode down the railway -- she wouldn't go. Finally we found a campground at Colorado Springs that we could get into. Everybody seemed to have chosen this week to camp out. We all ate too much supper and that was the end of the second day.

Tuesday -- Eddie found a dollar bill under his pillow where he had left a tooth. The fairy apparently didn't have any change. We managed to get breakfast over -- couldn't get Richard up -- Partin burned the biscuits -- controls on campfires are a little unpredictable. Some of us ate toast but we didn't complain because we might have to cook next time. If Dick left soapsuds on the dishes we didn't complain -- just wiped it off -- he's a mighty good dishwasher.

On the way to the zoo we saw a girl on a motorcycle get hit by a car. Glad it wasn't any of us that hit her. Sure was hot at the zoo and an awful lot of hills to climb -- Partin and I decided we couldn't take it with his sore toe and my weak constitution and we had seen zoos before -- we just went back to the cool-cool LOBBY and waited for the rest of our party.

After we visited the zoo we went to the MYSTERY HOUSE -- you've probably seen them -- it's one of those places where water runs up hills, and balls roll up hill, where you can't hold yourself back when you start upstairs -- but can hardly pull yourself down and where you use all the power you have to stand because something is pulling on you. It's something to do with the law of gravity -- "I still don't know how it building to get out of the rain -- where a magician was putting on a pretty good show. Thought we might have to stay all day the way it was raining.

Animals roamed the ground there, little goats and deer -- when the rain finally stopped and we could leave the building two little goats ran after us bleating and wanting to be fed. We were almost positive our camp would be wet -- SURPRISE -- no rain out there.

After we ate a supper of broiled steak (with the trimmings) we went out to Seven Falls. We wanted to see them with lights. After roaming around out there for awhile and after the Indians had finished their dances we sat down on some benches to wait for the crowd to thin out and rest a few minutes. Just as we were getting comfortable rocks began to fall down the mountain (or someone threw them) and one hit Charlene on the leg (poor Charlene). It turned all

 but to no avail - it was loaded full to the last table and grill. At the next one we drove around and around and finally found a spot big enough for our group - just one little catch (a thermos jug was sitting on the table - just one little thermos mind you), we asked the Ranger about it. He said if there was no one there to take the camping spot. We really didn't feel like that thermos had priority - so -- we invaded that spot with our vehicles.

 Then some of the people around there came over and told us that three boys traveling in a big black HEARSE had been there and left the thermos and said something about being back later. Well -- we weren't just about to pack and move. They just should have been there. It was free camping around and a first come-first serve basis (no reservations can be made-we stayed).

 Ricky and Eddle decided they would rather fish than eat. Their luck wasn't too good though so they finally came in and ate hamburger. After sitting around the campfire and roasting marshmallows we thought we would go to bed early and get a good nights sleep as we had about 500 miles to make the next day. We had just about got everybody bedded down and quiet when in came the boys in the Hearse - since there probably wasn't any place else for them to camp we told them they could have the table and grill - we really didn't need them as we had our own - and there was plenty of room for them to park their camper - we really were trying to be nice - but nothing doing they went for a Ranger.

We all went on to bed but a few minutes later here came the boys with four Rangers. One of the Rangers knocked on the trailer - tent door (imagine knocking on a tent) and wanted to know if we were asleep - when we assured him we were awake he gave us a little spell about how this didn't happen very often but that the boys were not at all happy-however we felt that we had a right to be there and he didn't have a leg to stand on, nothing much he could really say.
 Partin got up to go out and talk to them (the rangers) some more but couldn't find his pants. We searched that trailer over but they just weren't there. Judy, who was sleeping on the floor in a sleeping bag - got up to assist in the pants hunt - we were all laughing so hard we couldn't see - possibly the rangers thought we were laughing at them - but we couldn't help it.

 That was quite a sight with Partin turning around and around with a flashlight searching for his pants, me crawling over the bed and Judy looking on the floor. He couldn't go out until he found his pants - somebody must have gotten them they just aren't there - but they couldn't have; he took them off not ten minutes before - finally found them where they were placed.

 After the men had a talk with the rangers - Dick finally moved his station wagon to the parking place we had tried to get the boys to take and let those BABIES have the parking place they wanted. We had to get a little sleep - you would have thought they had bought and paid for that spot. Next morning they didn't stir until after we left.

They were good children - but then they had been warned they had better not do one more thing - they didn't.
 We were up and ready to leave early on Thursday morning - fifth day out - because of the long drive ahead of us. It was a beautiful drive most of the way to Cheyenne, Wyo. After leaving the mountains there was quite a lot of beautiful farm land -- mostly wheat. But the picture changes after leaving Cheyenne going toward Casperdesolate country - supposed to be good for sheep and goats but in my opinion apparently all it is good for is to hold the world together.

 Almost all day we were in this desolate country. At noon we drove for miles and miles and hours after it was time to eat before we could find a place to eat. (We had a picnic lunch almost every day we were out). We just couldn't stop by the side of the road and eat because it was too hot - about 100 degrees in the shade (if there had been any shade). We finally found one tree at a service station and the attendant said "Yes! it was fine for us to eat under it as long as we didn't cut it down." "We didn't - it was too hard to find.

Around Cody, Wyo. (approximately 50 miles before you get to Yellowstone) things changed and it was pretty. We decided it was a good place to spend the night, therefore we drove in to a motel and got rooms. It was going to cost us $60, for the 11 of us to spend the night but they happened to have a nice three bedroom house they would rent to large groups - we got it for $30. It was really better, since we had more room to move about but one and one half baths is a little short for 11 people; however we managed to all get and baths after going for a nice refreshing swim in the pool.

Partin still has the toe - the sore one, but not for long (the toe nail that is). He had to have a session with the doctor and lost his toe nail in the deal. We treated ourselves to a meal out that night - thought Partin was going to have to go to the cafe in his barefeet - but managed to stretch a sock enough to go over that bandaged toe.

As we walked into the door of the the cafe one of the waitresses bumped her head into Gwen's barely healed one (she had some stitches not long ago) and spilled coffee on Gwen. Needless to say - Gwen was slightly upset for the remainder of the meal. I don't know what was wrong with that waitress - they sure must have been hard to get. Oh yes! Partin's foot had to be propped up in a chair while we ate. Finally back to the rooms for a much needed rest.
 Another trip to the hospital, with the toe, on Friday then we were on our way to Yellowstone. I believe Gwen survived her head injury.

Arriving at the park we made many stops to walk out to look-out spots. Bears were waiting along the path to be fed - they are not afraid of people so they seem tame but - they are not. They are wild and dangerous. It is against the law to stop and feed them - but people do it all the time. Elk, deer, and moose were grazing in the meadows and bears were amongst the tall trees.

We saw canyons, beautiful waterfalls, lakes and rivers. Trails are built all along the points of interest. There is quite a bit of walking - it's hard on sore toes, etc. Bubbling, boiling, smoking hot springs are all along the way in some sections. The water boils constantly. It looks scary to me - with all that pressure underground.

We drove about halfway through the park - decided to go out at the north entrance and spend the night in Montana (none of us had been there). Called home -- everything OK.

About four miles outside the park we came to a creek and decided to make camp - facilities were not too good - mosquitoes were pretty bad (Gwen had some OFF - we depended on Gwen for anything in the medical line) if we needed it she had it. In this camp we found a good friend A BIG WHITE DOG - he was a close friend - staying in camp as long as we did. We started not to feed him because we were afraid he would be a pest but thought better of it - he might be a bear keeper offer. We didn't know if we were still in bear country or not but didn't see any use to be silly and take chances. We are sort of cowards when it comes to bears. We took all precautions, by putting the food inside the parked cars and parking the cars close to the trailers. When we woke up no bears had got us.

Richard went fishing in the creek - caught about five or six trout. We still didn't have enough for a meal but were still hoping. He just must catch some as we were running out of meat. We used the last of the steak for supper and it was a good slice. We are at our farthest point from home.

On Saturday we started out last half of the trip around Yellowstone. We saw much of a repetition of the day before. More hot springs, geysers and waterfalls. Along the west side is where the earthquake did the damage - we could see much evidence of the quake; however in some areas there was no evidence of the quake. We saw many more bears - one was resting by the side of the road - he had blood all over him and looked as if he had been hit by a car - Dick reported it and found the bear had only been hit by a CHERRY PIE.

We got to the Old Faithful area around noon. Waited around a few minutes to see it erupt, then went shopping in Old Faithful Inn and Gift Shop. That is quite a place - big and built out of logs - beautiful. We watched Old Faithful erupt again then drove on out of the park.

Our next stop was Jackson Hole, Wyo. where we spent the night. Jackson is a real western, cowboy town with board sidewalks like in the movies. Richard wanted to camp by a creek again and we drove several miles up a little beaten road - trail really. Finally we crept up to a camping spot - facilities weren't too good but we had it all to ourselves.
 Dick, Gwen and girls went back into town to spend the night as Judy was allergic to something out there. We went back into town to a BIG SHOOT UP BANG that they have on main street every Saturday night - so many people there that we couldn't see much of what happened.

We hadn't time to cook so thought we would treat ourselves to another meal out - couldn't get into a cafe for about an hour. Jackson Hole has a population of some 1,400. Apparently there were that many tourists. The food was good but expensive.

The eighth day was Sunday and we planned to stop along the way and attend church but it is just too hard to dress up when you are camping out - we tried to feel worshipful anyway and went on our way. Since Jana hadn't missed Sunday School all year and was trying for a perfect attendance award Dick, Gwen and girls went on ahead to get her to Sunday School on time.

Sure was cold when we got up the sun like to never have come up between those mountains. As we were working our way back to the highway we found our radio antenna on the road. We had heard something rattling the night before, it was the chrome off the side of the car. On down the road a few miles we found the muffler had fallen off - our car is falling apart.

Richard had a flat and Partin had a nosebleed about the same time and I had to wash the shirt in a stream. Some people drove by in a jeep while we were stopped and the woman yelled "Clean up that mess before you leave."

had attended Sunday School, Conservative Baptist - don't know what kind that is. While Richard was having a new tire put on we ate lunch in a park as someone had told us there wasn't a place to eat for about 180 miles - they were right there wasn't.

At Craig, Colo. the scene changed from desolate landscape to beautiful farming and ranching country. The country was beautiful with wheat growing over the rolling hills - mountains really. The scenery was nice all the way to Meeker, where we found a nice campground.

Monday - the ninth day, we were on our way by 9:30 a.m. through the valley of Palasades. It's a beautiful valley surrounded by mountains. At a fruit stand we stocked upon peaches, apples, cherries, apricots, tomatoes and watermelons. From here we went on to Grand Junction which is also located in a valley and looked like it might be a fine place to live.

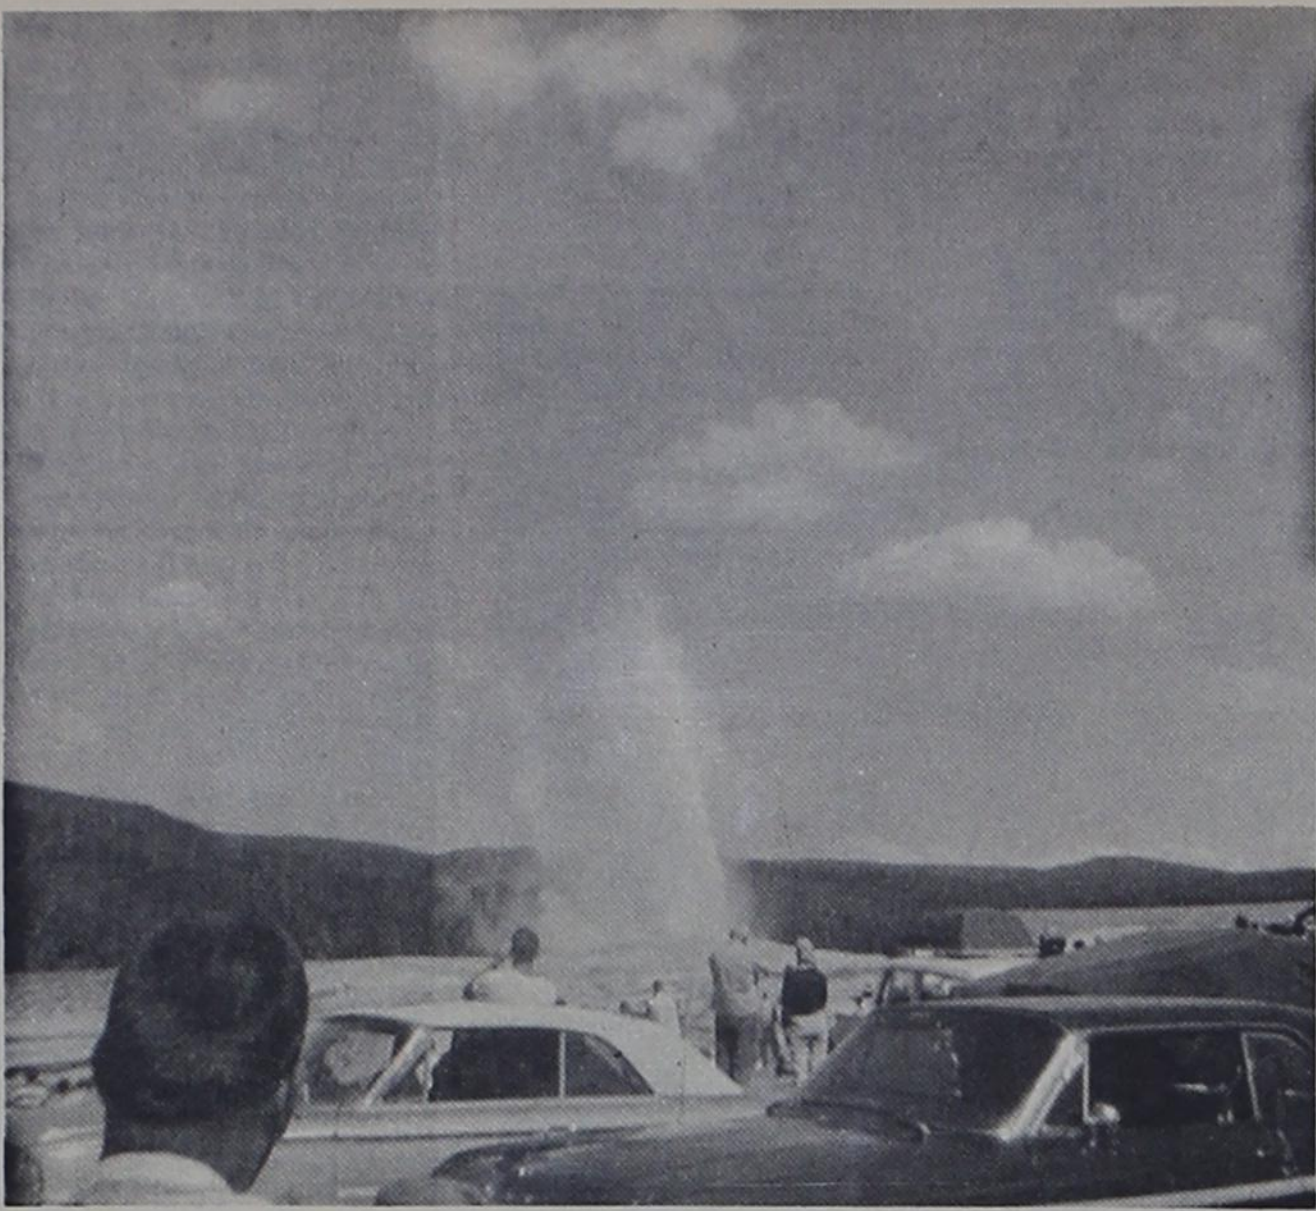

We stopped outside of Ouray to eat lunch and just as we had everything ready a mountain shower came up - causing us to grab the food and jump into the cars. We decided to drive on until the weather cleared. On arrival at Ouray, Dick was stopped by a policeman who asked, "Don't you care anything about those children in the car with you?" to which Dick replied "If I didn't I wouldn't have them with me." The policeman gave us all a lecture on safety, saying that we were driving at least 45 miles an hour in a 25 mile zone. We weren't but we didn't argue with him - seems he has to stop so many and it just fell the lot of us Texans to be along when he needed to stop someone.

The drive from Ouray to Silverton is beautiful with wild flowers blooming every where one looks on the sides of the mountains, where many old mines are located. Don't see how they ever got up there to build those buildings. Landslides had covered the roads in a few places, but they had moved enough of the rocks and mud so that cars could pass.

Like I said "our car is falling apart - It has just been chugging along up the hills so at Silverton we decided to have some points put in - pretty high priced points - but they can get their prices for - if you have to have points you have to have them."

After having the points put in our car we seemed to have trouble holding it back and about eight or 10 miles out of Durango, where the road forks - two carloads of us took the road that went straight and Dick (last in line) followed the wrong Chevrolet around the bend. A few miles further on we missed him and went back to look for him - all the way back to Durango - where we had last talked to them.

Each time we rounded a curve we were sure we would find them wrecked, but finally decided they had simply evaporated. In the meantime they had discovered they were on the wrong road - turned around and headed back for town in time to see us go around a hill - they took after us and we all met in Durango - where we had started from.

We were off again - us first, Richard and then Dick last - as we went around a curve we went on the right road with Richard following - looked back not a sign of Dick - went back to see what had happened - they had had a flat right beside a cliff - could have been bad but they were BEING TAKEN CARE OF. Think we had better put Dick in the middle.

Seems that everything held us up that day but we didn't complain as there must have been a reason. It was dark when we reached our destination - Chama, N.M. and Partin must have been feeling pretty low as he played "500 Miles Away from Home" and "I Feel a Cry Coming On" on the juke box; however we felt fine after we had eaten. Partin and I walked into a small grocery store to look for Charlene and Richard and the man behind the counter said, "They are in here" - guess we must have all looked alike.

Dick, Gwan and girls left for home early on the 10th day as something hadn't been right when they called. The rest of the party decided that the men just had to go fishing and catch some fish for supper as we were out of meat. They walked about four miles trout fishing - sure hard on sore toes, even with wading boots - they leaked. The trip was well worth it as they caught two fish, and were they good! If you have fished you realize - of course - this was our most expensive meal while we were gone - license permits, hook, worms and all the other paraphernalia it takes to fish.

While the boys were fishing Charlene and I decided to find a beauty shop and have our hair fixed so we could say "This is how you look when you go camping - besides it needed it."

By night everything was dried out from the afternoon shower - that is except Ricky and Eddie - they kept falling in the creek.

Sure was cold to crawl into the beds with no furnace going to heat the room - no really the beds were good and one could hardly tell when the lights were out that he was not in his own bed at home - except that the nose gets colder. "I am not much of an outdoor girl - but can rough it during the day, however at night I like the comforts of home. (I took my own coffee cup - I don't like coffee out of a paper cup - you know how grandmas are - contrary and set in their ways and hard to get along with - I had my own pillow too.)

Wednesday our last day out, Charlene and I stalled as long as we could getting off for home as you know no trip is complete without at least one "Mexican Dinner," and we knew where there was a good place to eat in Santa Fe. We wanted to time it so that we would arrive there just in time for lunch - and our timing was pretty good - we got there just five minutes after they opened. Delicious -- If you like Mexican food don't miss the LaCacino in Santa Fe. It's a sin to eat as much as we ate but its the best and we'll go on a diet when we arrive home -- we'll have to. We have eaten too much ever since we left home but it's so good cooked out. We can just barely manage to get into our clothes - especially me.

We just had to get gas at Clines Corners because we had to add some to our collectors items - Charlene had to have a spoon - (she collects them - Debbie, Jane and Judy collect charms for their bracelets and I collect cups and saucers from states I visit. The boys collect rocks and I suppose all the men collect is the bills. Partin wore his shoe for the first time today - looks like he is going to save his toe yet. Arrived home about 6 p.m. IT'S good to go - but it is always GOOD to get HOME. Camping can be fun SOME-TIMES.

TO OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS FROM THE

SECURITY STATE BANK

Farwell, Texas

Member FDIC

Let's Have An Old Fashioned Christmas This Year!

"Tis the season to be jolly." But then there are minority opinions on everything. Plenty of folks are complaining that Christmas isn't what it used to be. They say stacks of Christmas cards, frantic last-minute shopping, "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on the TV, and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" on the stereo don't make a Christmas.

"We've got to get back to the old-fashioned Christmas," they cry.

But we'd better not go back too far. To put it bluntly, the Puritans were against Christmas. They labeled it a "wonton Bacchanalian feast" and spent their first Christmas on these shores pointedly rejecting joy and doing carpentry. On the second Christmas several "lusty young men" who were found "pitching ye harr, playing at stoole-ball and such like sports" in the public streets caught what-for from Governor Bradford, in person. So the oldest of old-fashioned American Christmases will hardly do for a precedent to be followed in 1965.

By 1827, however, Christmas had evolved to the point that an Episcopalian bishop was complaining, "The devil has stolen from us. . . Christmas, the day of our spiritual redemption and converted it into a day of worldly festivity, shooting and swearing."

And by 1876 The Youth's Companion, a popular magazine of the time, was lamenting the passing of the old-fashioned English Christmas:

"We in America have received many, if not most, of our Christmas customs from our parent country, 'merric England'; but in England Christmas is no longer the day of games and fine old traditional ceremonies it once was. It is rarely that the yule log is burned nowadays. . . and whereas the Christmas game, in the times of good Queen Bess, lasted for more than a month, a week is all the modern, money-making English can devote to it."

Could it be then that this perennial dissatisfaction with present customs and longing for "the old-fashioned Christmas" merely shows the power of this season to evoke nostalgic memories of happy childhood, bygone pleasures, and the joys of Christmases past. . . the exchange of greetings, the singing of carols, the tree, mistletoe, the festive meal, and the outdoor fun? One last dip into the yellowed, crumbling pages of The Youth's Companion gives an even better reason to wish for a simple celebration of Christmas.

"It is right for us to derive all the innocent pleasure possible from the happy season, not forgetting, the while, how solemn and glorious is the event which we thus joyously commemorate, with its beautiful lesson of 'Love to our fellow man.'"

With pride we've served you

With pride we wish you

A very Merry Christmas!

"All The Gang"

The Land Of Challenge And Enchantment

"Japan is the land of challenge and enchantment," stated Mrs. Rosa Roberts who toured the Orient the past spring in company with her sister, Mrs. Arthur J. Harris of Dallas. The ladies plan to complete their around the world tour this year. However, they do not expect to find anything to measure up to the beauty and charm of the Orient.

In Japan Mrs. Roberts found that most of the people have an extreme desire to be like the Americans, whom they consider to be rich -- and we ARE according to their standards, she said, "the highest paid workers in Japan (those working for the government) are paid no more than $110 per month." Service in hotels and cafes has an additional charge added to all bills (for tips), she noted; however the service is wonderful with three to five persons waiting on each customer.

Education is stressed with all children given five years of free schooling. At the end of five years girls are no longer eligible to attend schools and only the most promising of the boys is allowed to continue; however boys who have had five years of school are capable of making a living for themselves and a family as they have been given training in a trade. Boys accepted for higher education are given courses with emphasis on government. None of the people are allowed to condemn the government in any way.

Religion is also stressed; however only five per cent of the people are Christian or Catholic, with the other 95% being either Buddhist or Shinto. Catholicism is growing much more rapidly in the Orient than is the Protestant religion.

Japan is definitely a man's country, noted Mrs. Roberts, hotels are filled with men, however, no women are in evidence with the exception of the tourists. Women do most of the work especially that of planting and working the crops. They also work in stores, with many working more than one shift.

In illustrating the importance of men in the Orient, Mrs. Roberts tells the story of how fish are made from a heavy material and painted in the colors of the native fish. On special feast days or holidays a fish is flown from the clothesline in each Japanese home where a male child lives. Many homes had as many as seven or eight fish flying from the lines.

The design in this picture was made by the Temple Rubbing method of art. The pearls worn by Mrs. Roberts were purchased in her travels in the Orient.

Contrary to the belief of Americans the Japanese women all dress western with the exception of the older ladies. Men are the best dressed of any place visited by Mrs. Roberts. She has visited all of the states and several foreign countries. Women must market after each meal as there is no refrigeration; however some homes do have television.

Parks are lovely; however there are no lawns. Rocks are made into intricate designs and potted plants and flowers are arranged near the walks. Mrs. Roberts, who is an avid lover of flowers, was quite impressed with the beauty of the parks.

In Thailand the travelers found the heat almost unbearable and living conditions quite different to those in Japan. Here many persons live on houseboats and never leave them in their lifetime. Merchant boats supply them with the necessities and they have no occasion to leave the boats as they make their living by fishing. Food is scarce with little or no variety, Hong Kong has no free schools for the masses of children and few children (unless of rich parentage) are ever allowed to attend school. In Hong Kong the rich are quite rich and the poor are extremely poor. There is no in between -- many people work on two or three jobs to try and save enough money to come to America or make a better way of life.

Temples and shrines are more beautiful than any place in the Orient -- many are made from precious stones and jewels. Walls of the temples are covered with beautiful designs, many of which have been copied by artists (by the Temple Rubbing Method -- Rice paper is placed over the design and the paper is rubbed until the design is transferred to the paper.) Pictures made by the method are beautiful and Mrs. Roberts was able to buy one of the pictures for a nominal fee.

Silk material found in Hong Kong and the other Oriental countries and cities is of the finest and Mrs. Roberts was able to buy many yards of the material and have clothing made by the Hong Kong dressmakers. They could easily finish a garment in only a few hours, she stated. She was also able to bring home pearls purchased in Hong Kong. However, the travelers were not allowed to purchase anything that had been made in Red China.

The harbor at Hong Kong was filled with boats loaded with refugees from Red China; however the refugees were not allowed off the boats.

After several weeks spent visiting Japan, Thailand and Hong Kong the Roberts party returned to the Philippines where they visited Bataan and Manila Bay. In Manila they visited the memorial cemetery where many of our war dead are buried. The cemetery was beautiful, said Mrs. Roberts, with flame trees in bloom. They felt quite at home in Manila as they found a settlement of some 17,000 Americans living there.

Honolulu was also a beautiful and interesting place and the travelers were amazed to learn that it is only two hours flying time, away from Los Angeles and the trip can be made for the small charge of $75.

"We traveled by all air lines, said Mrs. Roberts, but we found the best service and better accommodations on the Japanese air lines than any other." The trip was planned for the ladies by Pan American and they were Wearing a dress made from silk purchased in Japan and made by a Hong Kong dressmaker, styled after the native dress worn by many of the Orientals, Mrs. Rosa Roberts explains the design of the picture hanging over the fireplace in her home. She brought the picture from the Orient.

It Took Courage

By Chris Moss
Two of the most courageous people this reporter has met in recent weeks are Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Lacewell-sixth grade and high school English teachers) in Texico Public School.

When the Lacewells were married during their freshman year in college, they immediately quit school to move to the farm (near Broadview, N. M.) to seek their fortune.
However, luck was against them and--five children, several drouths and 10 years later, they returned to college to complete work of their degrees and find a different way of making a living for their growing family.

When the family arrived in Portales (where they were to attend college) they had only $50 and no jobs-but plenty of determination. Only a few days after arriving in the town-Windsor found a job and shortly thereafter Jeane secured employment in one of the college offices.

It was through her work in this office (that of a professor) and the encouragement of the college personnel that she and her husband first became interested in the teaching field (he had originally planned to fit himself for a career in government work).

The people at the college were so wonderful and gave so much encouragement when the going got rough or the Lacewells were feeling especially low-that it was not long before they (the Lacewells) had decided to join the happy group.

Windsor and Jeane each completed work on their B. A. degree in 1963-and at the time they received the degrees each had already begun work on a masters degree. Windsor secured his BA degree in elementary education and is working toward a master degree in the same field; while Jeane holds a B. A. degree with a triple major in English, history and secondary education. She is presently working toward a master degree in the same fields.

(three children participate) and junior high schoolathletics (two children participate). Youngest of the Lacewell five (eight year old Jimmie Jeane), who is in third grade is already making plans to be in band next year and is trying to make a decision as to which instrument would be most suitable.

Other children in the family are Dallas, nine, (fourth grade)
Link, 11 (sixth grade); Roxie 13 (eighth grade) and Rodney, 14, (a freshman). With this family, one can readily see that sports -indoor and outdoor-might well be time consuming, and truly this is the case in the Lacewell household.

"Pappa Windsor" is a softball pitcher and "Mamma Jeane" confesses that she was certainly glad when they had a son-as her hand was about worn out from playing catcher for her husband's practice sessions.

The family spends much time playing softball, riding horses and reading. "Each of the children is an avid reader," proudly said Mamma Lacewell,

"but they are not much for watching TV." She related that the way the children watch TV is to curl up in a chair with a good book and read with the TV on "if a shot rings out they will usually look up to see who got shot"-she quipped.

The past summer, the family went to Montana where Windsor had secured summer employment. Most of the time was spent fishing and hunting-by the children) new sports; while Jeane spent many hours at one of her favorite hobbies-that of sewing. In former years she relates that she had done much sewing for the girls and herself, but with the busy schedule of the past few years had almost lost the art-through non use.
"I had a ball sewing whatever and whenever I felt like it," she said.

How does one have time for everything that needs doing with a growing family of five;
teaching positions and hobbies, they were asked-"nothing to it-just put first things first" was the reply.

It took courage to pack up a family of five small children and return to college after an absence of 10 years, with no jobs and little money. However, Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Lacewell, teachers in the Texico School system have obtained their BA degrees and worked toward their master degrees while rearing this family of five who were nine, eight, six, five and three at the time their parents decided to continue their education. Front to back - Jimmie Jeane, 3, Dallas, 5, Link, 6, Roxie, 8, and Rodney, 9. The oldest is now a freshman in high school and the youngest is a third grade student.

and Jeane began her career in the educational field a year later in the Texico school, when her husband accepted assignment as sixth grade teacher in that school. They like the teaching field and plan to spend the remainder of their working years in the teaching profession.

In addition to his duties as sixth grade home room teacher,

Windsor is also physical education instructor in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

With five children in the family, the Lacewells interests are varied; however,

My Trip To The National 4-H Congress

By Veda Wilson

EDITORS NOTE

Following is an account of the trip made by Veda Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Wilson of Texico to the national 4-H Congress in Chicago. The congress convened from Nov. 29-Dec. 3, Miss Wilson represented Texico, Curry County and New Mexico at the congress and was named one of the five national winners. Her sponsor was Montgomery Ward Company.

Fifteen hundred delegates from all 50 states and foreign countries attended the 43rd National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago, Nov. 29-Dec. 3. Five hundred leaders and donors were also present. Twenty-eight 4-H delegates and three sponsors represented New Mexico. Some of the foreign countries which had delegates were Peru, Turkey, Scotland, Spain, Tunisia, Nigeria, Puerto Rico, Canada, and several South American countries.

My trip to Chicago was educational and entertaining. Our donors sponsored the entertainment during each of the meals. Some of the entertainment were as follows: Miss Teenage America gave a talk on Safety, Miss America gave her ventriloquism act, the Ginny Tul Family, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Marion Florian, the Brandywine Singers, the Purdue University Varsity Glee Club, and many others.

We learned while enjoying ourselves. We visited the Art Institute, International Livestock Exposition, International Harvester Plant, the Sunday Evening Club, the Museum of Science and Industry, Orchestra Hall, and the Chicago Natural History Museum.

Each of the business sessions was officially opened with the flag ceremony; lights out, fan placed behind flag causing it to wave, spotlight shining on it, and 200 voices saying the Pledge of Allegiance and then singing "America."

During each of our sponsored dinners, a band was provided to entertain us, the musicians played the various state songs. None of the bands knew "O, Fair New Mexico," so instead we requested "The Mexican Hat Dance." That was much better than "South of the Border."

Although we all liked to hear our own state song, the entire group preferred "America." As you sang this song, we were glad to be a part of this great nation of ours.

Opening our first official business meeting, was Governor Kerner welcoming us to Illinois.

Our theme in Chicago was "Citizenship in Action: Values in Focus." All the speakers stressed many things to us, all keeping values as the main point. "Human Relations are the most important thing in our society," Wallace Fulton, world traveler, told us, "All human beings are basically alike. They all have the same wants and needs."

"Are you an ignorant man? The ignorant man has his mind made up before he knows what he is really talking about. Take for example a food that you have never tried. Someone asks you if you like it, and you reply, "No." You have never tried it, how do you know whether or not you are going to like it? Think... you are an ignorant man."

Sunday afternoon, Montgomery Ward gave the Home Economics winners our banquet and reception in the Mid-American Club on the 39th floor of the Prudential Building, Chicago's tallest building. I was honored to have my picture taken with Robert E. Barrow, president of Montgomery Ward. Following a four-course dinner, we all enjoyed looking at the docks, lighthouse, Lake Michigan, and later that night, we saw the night lights of Chicago.

"Set your values today and live by them. If you make a mistake, reevaluate your values and start over," Mrs. Michael Durey stressed to us, "You can go somewhere from nowhere, if you have values. Have the courage to face your own mistakes and correct them. Someone is not a disgrace if he makes a mistake and corrects it. The same applies to head lice. It is not a disgrace to get head lice, but it is to keep it."

"Cowards are the people that are not willing to group up and accept responsibilities. A person should set his goals within his own limits."

"Be open-minded at all times, now that does not mean gaping at both ends. Ask questions, try to see both sides of the matter, then decide. After you have made up your mind and have found out that you are wrong, have the courage to admit that you are wrong and change your opinion."

"One should always be eternally skeptical—don't always accept what you think that you see or hear as a fact, try to find out for yourself.

"A good lesson to remember is never speak more clearly than you can think."

"Some people can go all through life without really living. That person is dying a slow death. In your lifetime you will find a thousand roads, there is no perfect one. Give life its fullest, you can't relive yesterday or today. You make your own world. Life is made up of many mistakes, there is no guarantee of happiness.

"Two boys grew up in the slums. One became a gangster and the other, a governor. Why so much difference? One of the boys had a set of values."

"Don't cheat yourself! Grow up and set a high set of values. Then and only then will you have a future worth living for," commented Mrs. Durey.

She also added, "If you believe in something strong enough, be proud to stand up for it. America is not made up of the common man."

Wednesday we went on a snowy, scenic bus ride along Chicago's Lakeshore Drive to the International Livestock Exposition. There we saw the Grand Champion calf, owned by a 15 year old girl, and the Reserve Champion calf, owned by a 16 year old girl. Seeing the rodeo and the livestock reminded us, the N.M. delegation of home, and we were about ready to leave and come home, almost. But we all did agree on one thing, that our own State Fair and rodeo in Albuquerque was much better than this one.

What did we accomplish? If nothing else, I am glad that we did accomplish this. One foreign delegate told us how glad he was to be able to come to America and see for himself just what Americans are really like. The picture that he saw was far different than the one he had pictured in his mind. All the information that he had of Americans were in the newspapers on the second-hand trashy propaganda magazines. Now he is going back to his country to tell his people what we are really like.

I enjoyed seeing the delegates from Hawaii and Puerto Rico playing in the snow, never before had they seen it. I enjoyed talking to the youth from the different states and foreign countries.

Montgomery Ward was my donor to the 43rd National 4-H Club Congress. Before leaving the Clovis Montgomery Ward store gave me a matador red luggage set, of which I had no trouble sporting at Grand Central Station in Chicago. I was also privileged in setting up my own 4-H exhibit showing some of my various completed 39 projects through the years. Some of the things I exhibited in Montgomery Ward's show window were my first year's apron, my eighth year's pink satin brocade full length formal, various crafts, other sewing projects, ribbons etc.

HOLLY BELIEFS

The early Druids decorated their halls and homes with boughs of holly as a welcome to spirits threatened by frost and winter winds. Britons considered it unlucky to bring holly into a house before Christmas Eve and a variation on this belief held that the type of weather at the time the holly was brought into the home determined who would rule the house in the months ahead—if fair, the wife would rule, if bad, the husband would hold sway.

All of the delegates were housed in Chicago at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, the world's largest hotel. We 1,500 4-Hers were representing over 2,200,000 4-Hers all over the world.

Our theme: "Citizenship in Action." Yes, it really was. Everywhere you looked, you could see 1,500 4-Hers from all over the world living, and laughing together. Patriotism, Citizenship, and Leadership were the lessons taught, learned, and practiced.

I am thankful that I did win this trip to Chicago because what I learned in that week would take a month of weeks in school to equal. My trip, speakers, and experiences taught me to set my own set of values and goals and live up to them. Our speakers gave us something to think about. They told us things concerning life that others had been trying to do for years. Each delegate left Chicago a little smarter, a little wiser, a little happier. Two of the interesting ques-

MERRY CHRISTMAS 1965!

Here is a thought about how to have a Merry Christmas in 1965. Spend a little time this Christmas gathering soil samples from each crop area in your fields and throw in $2.00 for each sample to pay the cost of having it analyzed. For this you will receive fertilizer recommendations for each sample for each crop for the next two years.

The recommendations that will be made are the best available we feel like. They are based on the latest research and field demonstrations for our area. Our Soil Chemist, James Valentine, located at the South Plains Research and Extension Center, just north of Lubbock, uses the results of field demonstrations to keep his recommendations updated.

We are in the process of getting ready to set up fertilizer demonstrations for 1965. We particularly want to have some demonstrations on the use of phosphorus here in Parmer County, to see if the recommended rates are actually giving the best results possible. If you are interested in possible having a fertilizer result demonstration next year on either cotton or grain sorghum, please see me or call or write to the County Agent's office. We plan to have a committee meeting in January to help finalize the demonstrations for next year not only on fertilizers but also on fungicides for seedling disease, nematodes and possibly other problems you Parmer County farmers may be having.

Back to this business of having your soil tested. We have all the necessary forms, boxes and mailing cartons at the County Agent's office. Come by the next time you are in Farwell and get your supplies. The rush season on this is nearly here and by getting your samples in early in 1965, you will get your results back a lot quicker, probably in 2 to 3 weeks.

By fertilizing according to soil test recommendations I really believe you will be dollars ahead next Christmas time on the cost and returns from your fertilizer dollars.

SOIL FERTILITY VARIES

A soil test data summary recently completed by the Extension Service's Soil Testing Laboratory at Lubbock shows Parmer County soils rate from extremely deficient to very high in some of the plant nutrients. This summary is based on 372 soil samples analyzed by the lab during the two year period ending August 31, 1964.

Nitrogen is the plant nutrient most commonly deficient as indicated by the soil organic matter level. As a very general guideline we can expect for crop use about 30 lbs., 40 lbs. and 50 lbs. of nitrogen from one percent organic matter in clays, loams, and sands respectively. The lower organic matter level, the higher the nitrogen fertilizer requirement will be for a given crop yield. In addition to the organic matter content it is necessary to consider past crop, yield response, and crop to be grown in arriving at a decision as to how much nitrogen is needed.

Organic matter in 14% of the soils is 1.0% O.M. or less, being lowest in the lighter textures. 71% are shown to be in the 1.1-1.5% O.M. group, and only 15% contain over 1.5% O.M. These relatively low values explain why nitrogen fertilizers contribute heavily to the high yields commonly produced. Phosphorus values found by soil tests show 61% of the soils to be very low in this element, with good response from phosphate indicated. In the 19% of the soils rated as low, response from phosphate can often be expected with the likelihood of response depending on actual phosphorus value and the yield potential. Phosphorus appears to be in adequate supply in some 20% of the soils except for special crops with unusually high phosphorus requirement.

Potassium and calcium are high in all soils. No problems with soluble salts or sodium accumulation are indicated. Crops having high potassium requirement include alfalfa, bermuda and potatoes. Periodic soil tests can be expected to detect potassium decline in a soil before yields are reduced due to deficiency.

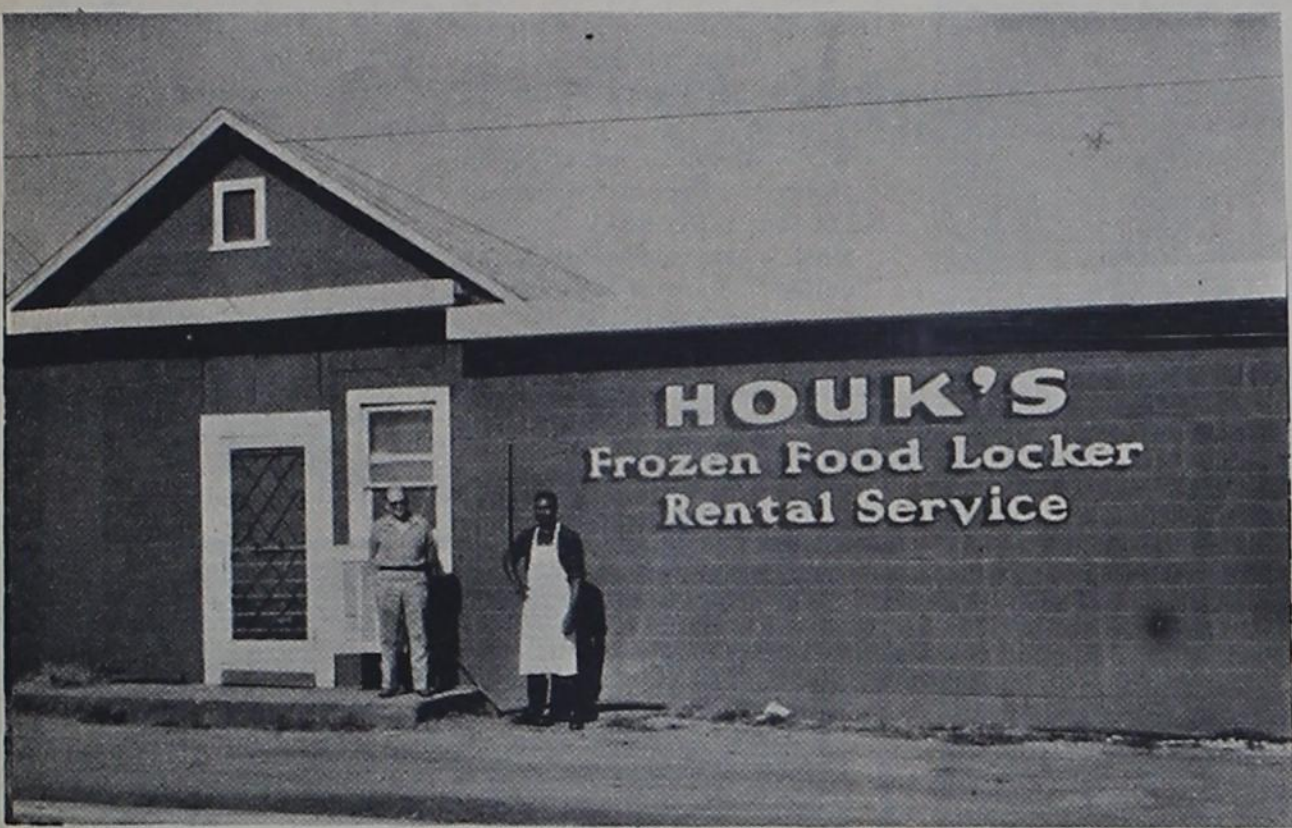

FOR THE BIRDS

You don't need an elaborate feeder to share Christmas with the birds. You can trim an outdoor tree and decorate it with such things as pine cones dipped in suet, popcorn, bits of apple and grated carrot, even pie crust. Blue jays, woodpeckers, nut-hatches, chickadees, warblers and brown creepers are "meat" eaters. Cardinals, juncos, sparrows and finches like vegetable seeds.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Throughout all that has been written and spoken of George Pfeifferberger, both before and since his untimely death, there runs one predominant theme -- respect. Perhaps more than any other, that single word pictures the impression he left with the thousands around the world whose lives he touched.

And nowhere was that respect more in evidence than among the officers and staff of Plains Cotton Growers. We who worked side by side with him depended heavily on his keen mind, his vision, his boundless energy and deep understanding in the everyday business of making and keeping Plains Cotton Growers the valuable asset that it is to the High Plains. We will long look back to his words and his ideas for guidance in continuing to carry out our daily tasks. And we will long be thankful for his wisdom in building PCG on a foundation and principles so sound that, even in his absence, the organization can and will go on filling a vital role in the High Plains cotton industry.

Acres Reduction Study
The staff of the National Cotton Council, foreseeing the possibility of a cotton acreage cut if cotton should resume the market losses it was experiencing until April, 1964, has compiled a study of the probable effects of such a reduction. The study concludes that a drastic cutback in cotton production would have effects reaching throughout American agriculture.

In the short range, if the cotton allotment should be cut by 8 million acres, there would be a loss of about $784 million, or around 58 per cent, in farm income from cotton.

There would be a sharp upward spurt in production of soybeans, feed grains, commercial vegetables, and hay for cash sales. Output from former cotton acres, in many cases, would be competing in markets even now tormented by oversupply.

In the long range, the emphasis would be on growing more feed and converting it into animal products -- especially beef. The projected increase in beef production would add about 12 1/4 per cent to total U.S. supplies.

The study was prefaced with the explanation that the Council had been asked for facts that could be expected if resources devoted to 8 million acres of cotton should have to be diverted because of failure to keep cotton competitive in price.

"Without a competitive price," the study noted, "the export market for cotton would be lost and the domestic market greatly reduced, so that the basic national cotton allotment would have to be cut back from 16 million to perhaps 8 million acres within a short period of years."

Short-term effects of adjustments that would be forthcoming, according to the survey:

*Even though the 8 million acres formerly planted to cotton would be diverted to the next most profitable crops, gross income from this land could be expected to drop by well over 50 per cent, even if prices of the other crops did not decline.

*Soybean production would be increased by something like 69 million bushels -- adding to the danger of oversupply and lower prices.

*Feed grain production would likely be increased by close to 5 million tons -- thus increasing the already serious problems of oversupply.

*Commercial vegetable production would probably be increased by nearly 3 million tons -- which would completely demoralize the markets for these products.

The study concluded that the change-over would have these long-term effects:

*As cotton shrinks in importance, those who once built their operations around this crop would have to develop new farming systems, inevitably, their new emphasis would be on growing more feed -- plus conversion of this feed into beef, milk, pork, eggs, and broilers.

*Substantially larger supplies of animal products would have a depressing effect on prices throughout the whole livestock economy of the nation.

*The impact on beef would be especially heavy because the Cotton Belt, with low-cost forage to go with its feed grain potential, would have a competitive advantage in cattle production.

In considering what might be done with resources formerly devoted to cotton, the study stressed, it is important to remember that: (1) the 8 million acres of cropland involved are among the most productive in America; (2) from the standpoint of climate and geography, these acres are adaptable to a broad range of production possibilities; (3) the management of these acres is among the most alert and progressive in the nation; (4) while cotton has always been a regional crop, the major alternatives to it are critically important to other sectors of American agriculture; and (5) the output from 8 million former cotton acres would in many cases be competing in markets that are even now tormented by the problem of oversupply.

THE PINATA

Pinatas are a necessary part of any holiday party in Mexico. Traditionally, the pinata is a clay jug, with no particular shape, which is filled with fruit, candy, pesos, and a variety of small gifts. It is suspended from the ceiling. Children are blindfolded and given a stick, the pinata is swung back and forth and the fun is on as the merry-makers try to smash the jug and send the goodies tumbling down.

Better Crops Following Maize

During this past growing season, it was observed in many cases that 1964 sorghum and cotton crops following maize did better than where these crops were planted on summer fallow or layout ground. This is the reverse of what is normally expected.

There are several possible reasons as to why this could happen. One big reason would probably be the fertilizer -- both nitrogen and phosphorus -- which carries over each year in the maize stubble. Stubble from an acre of maize will contain about 100# N. This means that the 100# N in the sorghum stubble will carryover and be a part of the nitrogen supply for the next year. Fallow land on the other hand will not have contained this additional nitrogen. Conditions were good this past year for breakdown and release of the nitrogen from the stubble.

A second possible explanation is that the organic acids are produced in the process of decomposing plant residue and organic matter. Organic acids are known to influence and increase the availability of soil phosphorus. With the large amount of stubble plowed under, it is conceivable that these organic acids may have increased availability of the soil phosphorus in maize ground as compared to the fallow ground.

Another minor factor might be that soils were generally very dry following wheat harvest in 1963, thus, organic matter decomposition and release of nitrogen did not proceed as it normally does. Hence, one of the usual benefits from fallowing land did not take place. Because of the added organic matter on maize ground, air and water relationships may have been improved thus resulting in better plant growth.

EVERGREEN LEGENDS

Long before the Christian era, Egyptians celebrated the winter solstice (shortest day of the year) by bringing green date palms into their homes as a symbol of the triumph of life over death. Raising of an evergreen bough was a traditional part of the Roman observance of the Feast of Saturn.

Henry Van Dyke, in his "Keeping Christmas," reminds us that it "is a wise and wholesome custom to stop work and make merry together," but that--better than the observance of Christmas Day--is "keeping Christmas together as a family."

KEEPING CHRISTMAS

"Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people and remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owed you and to think what you owe the world;...to see that your fellowmen are just as real as you are, and try to look beyond their faces to their hearts hungry for joy?..."

"Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children;...to bear in mind the things other people have to bear in their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke; and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you?..."

"Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world...stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death... and that the blessed life that began in Bethlehem 1900 years ago is the image and brightness of Eternal Love?"

"Are you willing to do these things even for a day?...Then you can keep Christmas. And if you can keep it for a day, why not for always? But you cannot keep it alone."

ACCENT ON HEALTH

All excited and aglow about Christmas?

Make sure that the glow in your home comes from happiness rather than a tragic fire.

Many decorations and accessories to Christmas can be a fire hazard if you're not extra careful. A few moments taken from festivities or holiday preparations could save a fire in your home or injury to someone in your family.

Keep your Christmas tree away from sources of heat - fireplaces, radiators, stoves, etc. . . . so that standing or fallen, it could not block the way out of the room or out of the house in case of fire.

Candles are frequently used as "astosphere" decorations, but if you use them, take these precautions: Never use them on a Christmas tree, in an arrangement of leaves or near anything that could burn. Keep your candles in proper, fire-proof holders.

Use only electric lighting sets that bear the UL - Underwriters; Laboratories, Inc. - label. Check lighting sets each year for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets before using. If they are damaged - above all don't tape them together - repair them properly.

Christmas Eve, with fussilywrapped packages piled high under a possibly dried-out tree and scores of brightly burning lights, is a happy time, but also a hazardous one.

OUTDOOR LIGHTS

Stringing Christmas lights on outdoor trees is a growing tradition, yet some homeowners are not aware that caution is required in the future interest of the tree.

Bulbs of 15 wattage are sufficient for outdoor use. Even these should not be allowed to touch needles of yew, chamaecyparis, pine, fir and spruce, else the scorched needles will show up as brown spots next spring.
