Group Puts Thumbs Down On Measure

Senator Duggan, In Letter To Big Spring Man, Tells Of Action

Hopes of a bill permitting the highway commission to condemn land for right of way purposes were dealt a death blow when the house committee flatly refused to consider such a bill submitted to it by the governor.

Action of the committee all but ruined chances of extending highway No. 9 south through Glasscock county and connecting the paved highway of Howard and Sterling counties.

Glasscock county commissioners have repeatedly refused to condemn the land, thus allowing an all-weather road from San Angelo to Big Spring be completed.

The measure "had a committee" (Continued On Page 5)

Local People Recall Seeing King Albert

Royal Family Was Visiting In Washington During World War Days

By ONA REAGAN PARSONS The death of King Albert of the Belgians recalls to the memories of two Big Spring women, Mrs. Fred Keating and myself, those colorful Washington days during the war, when King Albert was only one of the world's nobles we saw parading down Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House to the capitol.

There was another representative from Big Spring with us, Mrs. Albert S. Barnett of Dallas, then Miss Valma Wasson.

We stood with packed multitudes watching the king and his wife, Queen Elizabeth, and his son, Leopold, now King of the Belgians, ride in an open car down the broad avenue on their way to the capitol.

Of the three we liked the King best. He was good-looking enough for a king, stately and handsome, even in repose and every inch a king in appearance. The newspapers were full of his praise. I remember in particular their teaching the people to speak of him not as King of the Belgians; he was not king of a country but king of a people.

The queen was not so good looking as her husband and we were less interested in her, noting, however, her sweetness of character. Even in a few minute's glance that trait was impressive, so strongly was it stamped on her face. Of the son, I recall nothing. He was a mere youth at the time. Mrs. Keating says he impressed her as being chiefly shy and timid.

America was closely associated with Belgium in those days. The tales of German atrocities, not to mention the invasion of the little (Continued On Page 5)

Governor Asks Hopkins For More Federal Grants

AUSTIN (AP)—Governor Ferguson Wednesday again brought to the attention of the legislature what she termed "seriousness and gravity" of the situation with reference to unemployment relief in Texas.

She communicated to legislators a copy of a message sent to Harry Hopkins, federal director, in which she requested an advance of funds to continue relief work in Texas until the state could obtain proceeds from sale of bonds.

Hopkins had indicated additional help would not be given Texas until the state spent more of its own money for relief of the destitute.

There were no bidders Tuesday when an effort was made to sell the second $2,775,000 block of securities.

Proceeds from the first lot virtually have been spent.

The special session, called to authorize issuance of additional bonds, expires by constitutional limit Tuesday. The bond issue bill has not been passed.

King-Maker—Apparently well woven into the current District of Columbia grand jury investigation of recent War Department contracts is a man of mystery.

He also is a man of mystery in the American Legion. His name is Mark T. McKee of Detroit and other points in Michigan.

To leaders among the thousands of Legionnaires who trek annually to a jovial reunion commemorating their unhappier experiences of 1917 and 1918 McKee is known as the King-Maker. That means he is key man of the little group which dictates selection of their National Commander each year.

Curiously enough McKee has never held high office in the Legion himself, either state or nationally.

But it is common gossip among the ex-service boys that he either makes 'em or breaks 'em. His batting average as a political wire-puller within the Legion is high so it's plain he has a large following. But those who have fought his candidates say he is the order's biggest menace. (That's customary in any school of politics.)

Woodring—

McKee has been in Washington for several months. It's no idle dream that he's been operating with Ralph O'Neil of Kansas, former National Commander of the Legion.

Airport Corp. To Lease City Its Property

Stockholders Elect Directors; Officers For 1934 Are Named

At a called meeting of the Big Spring Airport Corporation held Tuesday night at the Settles hotel, the stockholders of the corporation elected the following directors: Ray Wilcox, T. S. Currie, L. S. McDowell, Clay Read, Fox Stripling, B. Reagan and C. E. Talbot.

In absence of Ray Wilcox, president, who is confined at the Bivings hospital on account of a broken leg received in an automobile accident recently, B. Reagan, vice president, presided over the meeting.

Mr. Reagan stated the reasons for calling the meeting, which he said were to elect officers and directors for the corporation for the coming year, and to consider the proposition of the city of Big Spring for leasing the airport property, in order to secure the $26,000 government grant which has been offered for airport improvements.

It was stated that the government through the Public Works Administration, had offered to spend $26,000 on improving the airport property, which included erection of two 2600-foot runways and fencing the entire property. C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, presented to the meeting details of the grant and (Continued On Page Five)

LIONS CLUB BEGINS ACTUAL BUILDING OF MEXICAN PLAZA

Dr. P. W. Malone, president of the Lions club, turned a spade of dirt from the east one-third of the Mexican ward school grounds Wednesday noon, thus symbolizing the beginning of the club actual efforts to create a plaza for the Mexican people.

Speaking for the Big Spring Independent School board, Dr. E. O. Ellington, president, said that body was happy to present the plot of ground to the city for park purposes and that he believed the Lions club was undertaking a splendid piece of work in supervising the building of a place where Mexican people could come to enjoy themselves.

"I believe the Mexican people appreciate what you do for them as much as any class of people," said Dr. Ellington.

Mayor C. E. Talbot, accepting the ground from the school board on behalf of the city, hailed the plan of making a park in that locality as a forward step.

"This piece of ground will be of value commensurate to your vision," he told Lions. "If you see it in trees, wading pools, pretty flower beds, then it will be entirely worth while."

Superintendent W. C. Blankenship, expressing the sentiments of the school system, said it was his opinion that the club was initiating a move that would spread to other schools, that of utilizing barren grounds for park and playground purposes.

Iowa Publisher Escapes Kidnap Plot In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—E. P. Adler, Davenport, Iowa publisher, head of a newspaper syndicate, was attacked by two men in a hotel corridor Wednesday in an apparent attempt at kidnaping.

He was slugged twice. Adler dodged full effect of the blows and ran down a corridor from his room, eluding his assailants. One of them was arrested. Detectives found evidence in a room next to Adler's, tending to show the men intended to kidnap the publisher.

A trunk, punched full of air holes and other evidence was found.

Commission Turns Down Requests For More Oil

AUSTIN—The Texas railroad commission decided Tuesday after a state-wide hearing of oil operators in all fields of the state, to continue the existing production allocations indefinitely.

The aggregate allowable production on February 18 was 930,881 barrels. Requests for increased production had been made by operators in several of the fields.

Market Demand Preceding the request for higher allowables, the commission heard E. B. Swanson, chief petroleum economist for the United States bureau of mines, estimate that a reasonable market demand for Texas crude in March would be 947,900 barrels daily, as compared to the government's estimate of a 884,000 barrels demand this month.

From a basic allocation of 925,000 barrels to the various pools, made early this year, the commission authorized increases that brought total production on February 18 to 930,881 barrels.

Nominations for the purchase of crude for the next 60 days were received by the commission from oil purchasers, but a tabulation of the amount will not be made public, the commission announced.

"The amount of the nominations will be reflected in our orders," Commissioner E. O. Thompson said. Allocation of a sufficient quantity of oil to meet the market demand was asked for the East Texas field by one group of operators, while another faction offered testimony intended to prove that physical waste would be increased if the allowable exceeded 400,000 barrels daily. A boost in the Yates field production from 41,500 to 70,000 or 75,000 barrels was sought.

From The Sidelines

By BILL ZEE

What the outcome of the Western Half Tourney might have been, had Bucket Hare not fouled out, is left to conjecture. But it is the general opinion among the local maple-wood clientele that the farmer Lomax youth is a good part of the team. Hare is not only runner-up for the Steer seasonal scoring record but has played a consistent, yet colorful defensive game throughout the year.

All that is over as for as Coach George Brown is concerned until next fall. Spring football duties fall on his shoulders while Obie Bristow is sending the aspiring trackers through their paces. As yet the thinly clad prospects appear far from rosy.

A full training program will be given the Steer sprinters and field men late this week as the recruits from the basketball squad furnish additional timber for Bristow to work with. Dean and Neel will probably be mainstays on the track squad. Dean heaves the javelin and runs the mile; Neel is slated for the hurdles, high jump, and broad jump. Lynn, a newcomer to the Bovine fold, is working out for the 880.

Spring training, we hear, is due to mean more this year than it has in the past. In preceding years spring work-outs were rather slipshod as team naprapins, practiced only at intervals. And not then if they did not feel like it. But all that will be changed. The practice sessions will be more strenuous and helpful to the boys since one of the requirements is to be out consistently. Only lettermen who are returning next year will be issued suits and cleats for the first few days. After organizing them, the coach will issue the others uniforms. Within the next few weeks football will have taken on a serious aspect around the Steer corral.

Wayne Matthews is reaping full benefit from the advantageous weather for his racquet wielders are on the courts until late every afternoon. The ideal weather conditions permit long practice periods which means that Jordan, Davis and Jones will be in good shape to lob and drive their way through all opposition at the District 13 Inter-scholastic League meet to be held in Colorado the middle of March.

There were some grapevine reports about a couple of months ago concerning a practice field near the high school. Lately they have completely died out. However, it would be a good idea to do something like that. Easily an hour is spent each evening during football season in walking to and from the Steer Stadium. With a gridiron closer to the dressing rooms, this time could be well used in practice.

to adhere to the truth and nothing but the truth. After taking this solemn vow—here goes—and how! All year we tell about the wonderful new merchandise we have. We praise our buyers' superior judgment. Our songs of triumph raise to the skies—but nary a word can we say about their mistakes. We are supposed to ignore the pieces that are gradually being pushed, and known to our sales people as "old dogs"—but every dog has his day, and their day is here now.

Some of the stuff listed on this page went through the World War, the boom, the depression, the Hoover Administration, the New Deal and the NRA without selling. The only way we know of getting rid of it is to throw ourselves on your Mercy, shut our eyes and cut the prices. A nice card of thanks goes with each item.

The management says: These pieces must go, and so we are given free reign to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—so help us George Washington to stick thereto.

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 27
The men had sunk below the horizon. Cautiously he slid into the open outside the ruin. Ahead, where the column of pursuers had gone, he made out a white object above the tree tops.

He drew forth his binoculars and adjusted them. It was the house atop the pyramid reflecting from its altitude the sun. He was closer to the city than he thought—not more than a mile or two.

He stepped away from the edge and progressed with infinite caution to the base of the structure. The moon was somewhat behind him, shining upon the massed stone.

He rounded the corner away from the pool and guiding himself with one hand touching the masonry, approached the center of the sharply sloping side. He was in deep shadow. At the center of the heaven-steps began.

He climbed a little way and rested, listening for sounds of human beings. He progressed slowly but assured himself that no one was about. At the top he peered over the edge.

The stage was flaged with huge blocks of stone, and in the center stood the temple-house, built squarely. It was much larger than it had seemed from the plain below. There was no opening at the side facing Grahame, but he observed that a glow came from around a corner—the exposure facing the sheer drop to the cenote.

He knew that there was a doorway facing eastward, toward the small ruined pyramid at the edge of the city, from which point he had made his observations of the previous day.

In the center of the light from the western door and standing halfway toward the edge, was a huge slab of stone supported as a pedestal, waist-high, by four smaller stones at the corners. It was evidently an altar of some sort. Even in the dim light Grahame saw that it was covered with elaborate carvings. The surface of the slab seemed to slope toward the brink.

With swift certainty he covered the space between the stair's top and the shadowy corner of the house. A glance assured him that the altar side of the house was unoccupied. He slipped within the doorway. There was a corridor ahead, and at the end of it there showed a glimpse of star-studded sky—the eastern door.

Seemingly there was no one about. He penetrated farther into the place. At the middle he found that another corridor, blind at both ends, bisected the other. At the intersection a stone brazier burned, throwing smoky shadows about.

He turned to the left, and proceeded toward the end. On each side were doorways, evidently the entrances to the rooms that lined this pyramid-house.

He paused. Dark lumps lay before two of the doorways. He heard the sound of human beings breathing evenly. The ed light from the central urn threw stabbing flashes about the walls, and he caught glimpses of reflected light upon the metallic equipment of the sleeping guards.

He retreated softly and stole within the sudden grasp. His back bowed and he pounded at the American's face with his fist.

Grahame threw his leg forward and pressed the man's arm to his side. Again he chopped down the barrel of his pistol, and the figure collapsed to the stone.

He paused, holding his breath. There was no sound but the sputtering of the central urn.

A glance at his watch told him that it was nearing three o'clock. It would be getting light soon and there was little time to lose if he were to find Janice, and get down the pyramid into his hiding place.

He was feeling faint from lack of food and his imagination was beginning to play tricks with his sense of smell. He would have whistling of the guard's breath as he essayed a shout and he whistled since he had topped the pyramid.

He found that the doors of these side rooms were usually fastened—rough wooden pegs pinning a metal latch. The doors were wooden. He lifted the peg and pushing open the nearest one, he entered. There was a lamp burning dimly in the room he entered.

At the farther end he made out a pallet and a figure reclining upon it. He approached the figure; his shadow bounded about the zone walls like a huge misshapen phantom. He bent over the couch; almost he exclaimed aloud.

The wide-open eyes of Janice Kent, their blue irises glowing with a dark contempt, stared at him. He watched them widen in astonishment. Her lips parted, as if she were about to speak, but his palm swiftly covered her mouth. "Don't speak," he cautioned in the barest of whispers.

Bondholders Confer Bondholders present at the meeting, which represented more than 51 per cent of the bonds, held a separate conference at which a motion was made that the bondholders would be willing to entertain a proposition from the directors of the airport corporation providing for the refunding of the bonds on a basis of figuring the accrued interest at 8 per cent and accepting new bonds bearing 4 per cent interest. This motion was unanimously passed.

This contract, he stated, was made before abrogation of airmail contracts over the country, and will not become effective unless the American Airways carry the mail.

break away from their habit of retaining aging players and released two of the old guard who could not be of much use this year in their pennant drive. Herb Pennock has seen his best days, and last year performed only as a relief pitcher. The southpaw may still have a few good games left in his famous arm but he can't stand as much as he has in the past. Joey Sewell, the league's most famous eagle eye batsman, is also aging and slowing down. It takes speed to handle the "hot" corner in any man's league. Joey still has a good arm but his legs don't respond as they did.

Too, several members should have gotten over their heart trouble during the winter with which they were affected last year. Love and baseball don't mix. Columbia Lou and "Lefty" Ganes should return to their usual form.

Clubs Aim At Washington

The rest of the clubs naturally gun for the pennant-winner of the year before, and it will be Washington instead of New York who will have to withstand the other club's battering this year.

The rest of the league's members had better attempt to slow the Yank invaders down before it's too late, because the Ruppert men got the jump during 1932 and kept it.

Buccaneers To Flash A New Loop Threat

One Half Of '33 Team Will Report For Spring Practice

GALVESTON, (UP)—Galveston's Buccaneers will send a rebuilt team into the Texas League this year in quest of the championship treasure they barely missed last season.

Only half of the 1933 team will return for spring practice, Manager William J. (Billy) Webb said in looking over his roster.

Two ace pitchers of last season went to larger clubs. Five other players were lost.

George Darrow's pitching attracted the Philadelphia Phillies and he was drafted. Chief Moore was sold down the river to pitch for Baltimore. Ira Hutchinson was sold to the Chicago White Sox, but will be sent here on option April fifth.

Others lost by Webb were First Baseman Goldberg, Second Baseman English, Catcher Connolly and Left Fielder Hufft. The latter was injured permanently in an accident during the winter months.

Shortstop Keith Moleworth was traded to Baltimore at the close of last season for five players.

Several replacements have been made, Webb announced. Some of them appear certain for regular places but others will have to win their posts.

Webb believes his outfield and catching has been strengthened since last year but his infield and pitching staff remain a problem.

Six new pitchers will report for the spring practice. From them Webb hopes to build a staff to replace the three veterans he lost. They are Gumbert, Liebhardt, Hubbell, Gibbs, Stratton and Gaffney. Gibbs is a Houston semi-pro player. Stratton was picked up from the Van Alstyne club of the Red River Valley League, and Gaffney was added because of his good record in the sandlot leagues. The other three men are experienced in professional ball. Gumbert and Liebhardt will come from the Baltimore Orioles and Hubbell from the championship Baton Rouge club of the Dixie League.

Malay Purchased

Joe Malay, first baseman owned by the New York Giants, will be delivered to the Buccaneers from New Orleans on an option April 1. Secretary James J. Tierney of the New York club has advised Malay played last year with the Scranton club of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

Webb expects Moose Clabaugh to be the regular leftfielder and add to the club's batting strength. He is no youngster. He is 30 years old, stands five feet 11 inches and weighs 175 pounds. Clabaugh has of reorganizing the West Texas baseball league. The West Texas proposition is scattered too much to be a success.

Speaking of Interscholastic

League basketball, it still looks like Athens will sweep through the state finals again. Some coach should swipe the rangy East Texas' winning combination. They seem to have a monopoly on the state title. They have lost but two games thus far and both of those were to college aggregations, one to Tyler Junior and one to T.C.U. freshmen. They broke even on a couple of games.

At the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union held at Pittsburgh and at the Quadrennial meeting of the American Olympic Association, held at Washington, there were passed resolutions to the effect that unless Germany not only made the gesture of permitting, but actually did permit German Jews to train, prepare for and compete on the Olympic teams of Germany, the American Olympic committee and the members of the Olympic Association might be called upon to refuse to certify its entries to the Olympic games, scheduled for Berlin in 1936.

With Carnera and Loughran both training in Miami for the big fight, a number of amusing stories have leaked out. Tommy couldn't go himself to see Carnera work out at his training quarters, so he sent along one of his numerous managers.

George McDonald, very British manager, reported back to Loughran is something of a dither.

"Strike me pink," he stuttered. "The big highlight is fixing to win by unfair tactics. Eye' tting foul, back-landing, tossing sparring mates around, leaning on them. Lord love a duck, it's not fair."

SPORT SLANTS
By ALAN GOULD

There are several reasons why no national open championship tennis tournament will be conducted in the United States this year but one of them seems quite sufficient for the time being.

It is the fact that there is not enough rivalry at the present time between amateurs and professionals from a competitive standpoint to make an open tournament worth conducting.

To put the matter bluntly, such an event would simply help emphasize the current ascendancy of the professionals, led by Big Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, without developing any advantage for the simon-pure talent.

This is, of course, a radical transition in tennis. In years past, where only a phenomenon like Bob Jones could successfully challenge the supremacy of the professionals in golf, tennis amateurs held the whip-hand without so much as a single argument. Tennis professionals, formerly, were merely instructors and had no real opportunity to show their competitive skill, even if they were good enough to hold the top-ranking amateurs on anything like even terms.

Now the situation is exactly reversed. Except for a few amateurs like Fred Perry of England and Jack Crawford of Australia, it is doubtful if any high-ranking amateur tennis player could get so far as the semi-finals in a field including such pros as Tilden, Vines, Hans Nusslein, Henri Cochet, Martin Pina, Bruce Barnes, Vincent Richards and Karel Kozeluh.

OLD BARRIERS DISAPPEARING

"There is, of course, some reason to the suggestion for a world open championship," remarked an officer of the United States Lawn Tennis association with whom I discussed this situation. "Provided, that is, the leading players from both amateur and professional ranks were induced to participate. It would be interesting and, perhaps, contribute a definitely desirable development to the sport."

The old barriers between amateur and pro in tennis are disappearing in a natural way. There is room for both and undoubtedly we will come to the stage where na-broken battling records in other good leagues, Webb said, and the Bucs look to him for strength on the rising line this season with his left-hand swinging.

Hal King, second baseman of the 1933 Albany team in the International league, probably will get the same assignment with the Buccaneers. Although he is but 24 years old, he has played four years professional ball—one in the American association, two in the Western league and one in the International league. He batted .292 last season and his fielding was high. He bats left-handed, throws right-handed, is five feet eight inches tall and weighs 165 pounds.

Youngsters Lined Up

Several youngsters will be in the scramble for the shortstop position: Dan Robertshaw, 22, a Duke university ace who Connie Mack took out of college, is one of the most likely contenders. R. H. Coombs, former star pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, has predicted a great future for Robertshaw.

Speed Trapp is another bidder for the shortstop position who has attracted attention of Webb.

Bob Linton, regular catcher on the 1933 Baltimore team, will do most of the backstopping for the Buccaneers this year, Webb said. He is 28 years old, bats left-handed, throws right-handed and comes recommended as a fine handler of pitchers.

Who will hold down the first base job is still a mystery. Webb said he is negotiating for a "good Class A man owned by a major league club." There is a question whether the man will be delivered before or during the spring training season.

Players who will return to the team this year are: Governor, center field; Bell, right field; Moses, right field; Faussett, third base; Mealey, catcher; Thormahlen, Tuba and Jorgens, pitchers.

Webb has high hopes for his rebuilt team and is eyeing the championship which the Bucs missed by a nose last year when they were beaten out in the finals of the play-off series by the pennant winning San Antonio Missions.

U. S. PRO QUARTET STRONGEST

The curious fact today is that although the United States has not won a Davis cup challenge round since 1928 this country can put the strongest professional tennis team in the world on the courts.

Tilden and Vines, coupled with Barnes and Richards, probably can outplay any other quartet in the game, amateur or pro, picked from the combined talent of all other countries. But nothing they can do now will help bring back the famous team trophy to its native land.

The fact is that the U. S. A. will be lucky to reach the challenge round of the Davis cup play this year. Australia and England, the present holders, both look to have much more formidable playing strength than America can muster. Our best combination probably will be Frank Shields and Sidney Wood in the singles, with George Lott an alternate singles choice as well as the key man in doubles, but the only apparent certainty is that they can beat Canada and Mexico in the American zone competition.

California Couples Follow Air Trail To Arizona Weddings

PHOENIX, Ariz.—The air trail to speedy Arizona weddings is proving increasingly popular with California couples who dislike the three day delay required by matrimonial laws of that state, according to officials of American Airways here.

Under present air line schedules, altar bound couples can leave Los Angeles at 4:30 p. m., be married in Phoenix the same evening and return to the coast city before 8:00 o'clock the following morning—and frequently do, it was said.

One couple, for whom advance arrangements had been made, were married at the Phoenix airport with their pilot and stewardess acting as best man and bridesmaid, respectively.

Goods company, held in that city last Monday and Tuesday, has been made district manager for Big Spring, Midland and Pecos stores of this concern.

Remodeled Yank Club Expected To Crack The League Wide Open

Strengthened Infield With New Hurlers Brightens New Yorkers

By HANK HART

With a comparatively weak infield remodeled in three of its most needed positions and the addition of several promising pitchers, among them, Marvin Duke, young Eric twirler who was up for a trial last year, the New York representative in the junior circuit may again crack the league wide open as they did two years ago.

To have a good infield, it is necessary to have pep and fight among the players, and that's exactly what they did not have last year. With no youngsters to battle for their positions, the Yank infielders look easy and that is one reason why they were not in the World Series. This year it ought to be a different story, with three youngsters who like to fight among their ranks. Don Hefner should give Tony Lazzari a real battle at second base, while "Red" Wolfe should be good enough to occupy the "hot" corner or the shortstop position. Red comes from Newark where he has been a major factor in Newark's spree at the International league. Wolfe has plenty of seasoning with the Bears and ought to stick.

What does the future hold for Big Spring football teams? It's hard to tell. When Obie starts his spring grind today it will be with the knowledge that no matter how big and tough a football team is, it's nothing if not smart.

Look back through the records of Bristolow-coached teams and you won't find much criticism aimed at dumbness or boneheadedness. Up on his home work and wise to the tricks of his brethren, Bristolow doesn't intend to be caught napping next fall. He'll teach his boys brainwork as well as cross-body blocking.

Bristolow is the kind of gent who delights in pulling tricks, or who takes great pleasure in seeing his gridsters execute stunts calculated to baffle the opposition. He's learned a lot in the last couple of years, tricks that he believes will work wonders. A fine bunch of lads will be ready for the '34 season, and Obie plans to put in plenty of hours in the class room as well as on the practice field.

Judge the new FORD V8 on what it will do

Thousands of people who can afford to spend two or three times as much for a car, are today choosing the Ford V-8 for 1934, instead. Here are some of the reasons.

POWER. The Ford V-8 for 1934 gives you better than 80 miles per hour with the quicker acceleration and greater smoothness of an 8-cylinder motor. Power has actually been increased by 12 per cent over last year's model.

COMFORT. The Ford V-8 for 1934 offers more actual body room than many other cars that cost considerably more. It offers you new Clear-Vision Ventilation, with the window in one piece. It offers you free action for all four wheels—plus the comfort of Ford Cantilever Springs and the proved safety of a front axle.

SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.

ECONOMY. Gasoline economy is increased by two or three miles per gallon with the new Ford V-8. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour.
