Texico Tied For First In District 6B

Texico Wolverines continued their winning ways when they defeated the Floyd Broncos Friday night in a game played at Floyd. Final score was 55-51.

The game was the first loss of the season for the Broncos, who had been billed as one of the best teams in the district. By defeating the Broncos the Wolverines jumped into a three way tie for the district lead. They are now tied with Ft. Sumner and Floyd. District record is 4 wins and one loss.

Texico's season record is 5 wins-one loss. Coach Johnny Green in commenting on the game said "Our success can be attributed to a balanced scoring attack." Texico hit 52% of her shots and made five of 12 tries for free throws. Three of the Texico quintet hit in the double figures.

High point man for Texico was Tom Rickstrew with 19. Mike Spearman contributed 15;

Joe Patterson 10; Ronnie Richardson seven and Nell Lambert hit for four. Lambert also did well in the rebounding department counting for 12 during the evening.

Last quarter of the game Texico was playing with too many fouls and were forced to play a stalling game; therefore Floyd was able to outscore them by an eight point margin. "This was the best game of the season but the team has its work cut out when they collide with Melrose Friday night in Melrose," commented the coach.

Melrose is noted for jumping, shooting and driving ability said Green.

In the opening game Texico B team defeated the Floyd quintet 41-31. Roy McDaniel took scoring honors for the evening with 17 points to his credit. As in the varsity game (Continued on page 3)

Lutheran Church Announces Plans

Christmas trees! Christmas carols! Christmas odors on the breeze!

These words of a Christmas carol fittingly describe the attitude and activities of the members of St. John Lutheran Church, stated the pastor, Herbert F. Peiman.

Sunday evening the youth of the church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ramm to repair and repaint used toys. These toys will be used to bring Christmas cheer to children who otherwise might have a bleak Christmas, said Richard Haseloff, president of the youth group.

After a ham supper served by the hosts to the leaguers a short business meeting was held. The program was closed with a candle light service in which the Christmas story was read, favorite carols sung and a Christmas message brought by the pastor. Topic of the message was "Christmas is 365 days of the year, or it is not Christmas at all-Christmas is on the 26th-27th and 28th or it is not Christmas on the 25th."

On Sunday, Dec. 20 the children will have their final rehearsal for the Christmas Eve service, which will be held on Dec. 24.

Ladies of the church will hold their annual Yule party with gift exchange and donations to their favorite charities on Sunday, Dec. 20 at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Walter Kaltwasser.

On Wednesday, Dec. 23 Walter Leaguers will decorate the church for the Christmas season, go caroling and hold a Christmas party at the home of Vickie Kaltwasser.

Thursday, Dec. 24, 6 p.m. the traditional Christmas Eve service will be held, in which the children of the Sunday School will tell the Christmas story in scripture readings, recitations and song. This service will feature a lighted Christmas tree and treats for every child present at the service.

The Christmas worship service will be held on Christmas morning, Dec. 25, 10 a.m. The pastor will speak on "Paradise's Open Door," using as his text Genesis 3-22-24. The thought of this sermon may well be summed up in this stanza from a well known Lutheran Christmas chorus:

"He opens us again the door Of Paradise today,
The angel guards the gate no more,
To God our thanks we pay."

The members of St. John invite the people of the community to worship with them in these special Christmas services, to aid them in centering their Christmas celebration around the birth of the Christ-child, stated pastor Peiman.

Mrs. Joan Booth McDonald is visiting in Clovis in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Booth and in Farwell in the home of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Toby Booth.

Mrs. McDonald lives in Venezuela, where her husband is with an oil company.

The holiday season is drawing near and homemakers are planning now and getting ready for the holiday season with great zeal.

Fruit cakes are already in freezers waiting till the big day. There are some who have not prepared their fruit cakes and for those who like the candied pineapple for fruit cakes, here is the way to candy your own pineapple.

Three Day Candied Pineapple
1 Can (1 lb. 4 oz.) sliced pineapple
1/2 box confectioners sugar (approx.)
1 3/4 cups granulated sugar
FIRST DAY:
Drain pineapple in colander for 10 minutes. Sprinkle half the granulated sugar in a large skillet. Arrange the pineapple slices on the sugar in a single layer. Sprinkle the remaining sugar over the slices. Let stand for 24 hours at room temperature.

SECOND DAY:
Bring the sugared fruit to a boil. Cook, at a boil, for 5 minutes. Lower heat and cook on simmer 15 minutes. Turn over the pineapple slices occasionally, watching carefully to make sure they don't scorch. Let stand until the following day.

THIRD DAY:
Pat side and edges of each slice in sifted confectioners sugar to make a thick coating. Let slices stand on a wire rack for 24 hours. A crusty glaze will form. Store in a loosely covered container. If slices become moist, reroll in confectioners sugar. Yield: 10 slices candied pineapple.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK:
How do you remove candle wax and grease?

ANSWER:
Soften with dry cleaning fluid if necessary. Sponge on dry cleaning fluid, working from outside toward center, of soil, blot up. Sponge on detergent and blot. Repeat if necessary.

Heat fresh cocoanut in an oven to remove the shell easier.

Christmas Season Puts Fire Hazards In The Home

The Christmas season is indeed a happy one, but few people realize the added fire hazards their home contains during this time of the year.

The Christmas tree, center of all the pretty decorations and the main attraction, can be one of the principal hazards if certain precautions are not taken, warns W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer, Texas A&M University.

A freshly cut tree should be selected just a few days before Christmas. Cut the base of the tree diagonally and keep it submerged in water or wet sand. Locate it away from fireplaces, powerful electric lights, radiators or other sources of heat. Use only Underwriters Laboratories approved lights for the tree. Inspect lights which have been used before for frayed cords and damaged sockets, advises the engineer. Avoid overloading electrical circuits with additional lights, toys and appliances.

Using nonflammable decorations greatly reduces the fire hazard. Turn off the tree lights when retiring or leaving the house. Discard the tree when its foliage begins to dry and shed. And don't allow package wrappings to accumulate under the tree.

This is also a time for smokers to take special precautions, Allen points out. Extra care should be taken with cigarettes, cigars and pipes around all flammable materials. Observance of these few rules can result in a safer and happier holiday season for the whole family.

Nitrogen Gives Boost To Small Grains

A topdressing of nitrogen fertilizer on fall-seeded small grains will boost forage production for livestock grazing during the fall and winter and will increase grain yields. Nitrogen is usually the main need for such topdressing, since ample phosphorus and potassium should be applied near seeding time.

Using the right kind of fertilizer at the right time has provided dividends in most areas of Texas, reports R. J. Mears, Extension agronomist, Texas A&M University. To determine the most efficient rate of nitrogen, or any fertilizer, soil should be tested. Also, the proper amount is directly related to the available moisture in the soil, he explains.

However, on East Texas

sandy soils and the Gulf Coast Prairie, application of 30-40 pounds of nitrogen per acre in December or January or after each grazing is recommended where soil moisture is adequate. On the blackland soils of Central and Northeast Texas, 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre in January has proved beneficial, says the agronomist. A similar amount if recommended in January or early February in the Rolling High Plains and West Texas. The late winter or early spring application will generally increase grain yields, he adds.

Adding nitrogen will increase the food value of the pasture as well as the amount of forage for grazing. Oats, rye, barley and wheat contain scarce food nutrients not found in many winter rations, Mears points out. Such small grain pastures sometimes contain as much as 20 percent protein at their peak grazing stage.

HOME ECONOMICS BRIEFS

Improved pine Christmas trees, adorned with their own ornaments of decorative cones, probably will be available in about eight years. Scientists at the USDA's Institute of Forest Genetics at Placerville, California, are developing such a Christmas tree by crossing Sierra Nevada lodgepole with the shore pine. The resulting hybrid grows to 6 feet within 4 to 5 years. From its thick dark green foliage this made-to-order tree grows its own decorative cones at 5 years of age just as it reaches Christmas size, the scientists say. Growers are to get the trees for field testing in 1967.

TREES, SHRUBS FOR WINDBREAKS

Some 17 species of trees or shrubs will be available for planting by Texas landowners, early in 1965, from the Texas Forest Service at a delivered cost of $1.50 per hundred plus the 2 per cent sales tax.

The trees and shrubs may be used for windbreaks, soil stabilization and Christmas tree plantings but cannot be used or resold for shade or ornamental purposes. All seedling orders will be packed in moss and moisture proof paper and shipped prepaid direct to the purchaser.

Orders for species shown on the application must be in multiples of 50.

This is a real bargain for those of you who need something to slow the wind down around your place. Application forms can be obtained thru the County Agent's office. Orders to the Texas Forest Service must be received before February 12, 1965.

MACHINE STORAGE

Whether you own a two-horsepower lawnmower or a 20-foot combine, a good job of preparing the machine for storage will pay off in longer service and lower repair bills.

Parking the machine in a building is just a small part of good winter storage. Other things need to be done, but we usually say to ourselves they are too much trouble or we overlook the importance. You need to make sure it won't rust or deteriorate while it sits idle.

No matter what kind of a machine you store there are three things you need to do to get it ready for storage: Clean it. Lubricate it. And eliminate any stress on parts.

We suggest removing trash, lint, dirt and dried grease either by washing the machine with kerosene and rinsing it with water or by steam cleaning.

The machine should be lubricated and then run a few minutes. Chains and adjustment bolts should be coated with a rust preventive oil.

There are eight steps for preparing a motor for storage:

1. Clean the air cleaner and fill the oil cup to the proper level with new oil.
2. Change the oil and oil filter; then idle the engine for 15 min.

THE HIGH PLAINS FARM AND HOME

1965 Looks Good

Consumer and state and local government spending should help our country have another year of high economic activity.

"Such spending is expected to provide the major economic stimulus in 1965, with consumer purchases centering primarily on nondurable goods and services," reports John G. McHaney, Extension economist, Texas A&M University. "The outlook, however, is not as clear as the '64 picture appeared at this time last year."

Prospects point to further increases in total output, employment and consumer incomes. The civilian labor force is expected to be somewhat larger than in the past several years, and the advance in total economic activity may not be large enough to absorb this increase. As a result, the rate of unemployment will remain high, he says.

"Consumer purchases of nondurable goods and services will increase," McHaney says, "while sales of such durable goods as automobiles are not expected to match those of 1964." Even though the auto industry may not contribute to expanding the economy over 1964, it is likely to have a prosperous year.

A downward trend in housing starts could have a dampening effect on purchases of such durables as house furnishings and equipment. Little or no additional economic stimulus is thus foreseen from this source.

An increase of more than $5 billion in state and local government purchases is in view for the coming year. This increase would be at a faster rate than in 1964 and would definitely spur the economy, he adds.

Federal purchases of goods and services, however, are anticipated to show little variation, due mainly to the holding down of defense expenditures. Nevertheless, some drastic economic shift could bring about a change in government policy in this area, points out the economist.

Helping to determine the country's pace of economic expansion are investment expenditures for new plants and equipment. This year's investments will probably run about 13 per cent above 1963, one of the largest annual increases in post-war years, predicts the economist.

"Such investments in 1965, however, are expected to fall short of a similar substantial increase," McHaney adds, "This source, therefore, is not likely to add to the gross national product."

AGRICULTURAL BRIEFS

The 1964 marketing year under the national wool program ends on Dec. 31. This means that payments for the current 1964 year will depend upon producers completing all details of marketing either wool or lambs by the end of the year.

Marketing completed after Dec. 31, 1964, will be eligible for payments for the 1965 marketing year.

Automatic electric livestock waterers can save time and trouble for stockmen, says Extension agricultural engineers at Texas A&M University. Their use can eliminate ice chopping, frozen water lines, reduce labor costs and improve feed efficiency. Water is our cheapest feed and livestock, to do well, just have adequate supplies of fresh water at a temperature they enjoy.

Ginning Industry Report

A report on the Texas cotton ginning industry from the University of Texas reveals that the number of active gins in the state declined from 3,335 in 1935 to only 1,321 in 1963 while the state's total cotton production was increasing from 2.8 million bales to almost four and a half million over the same period.

The study, compiled by the University's Cotton Economic Research branch, which is a part of the Cotton Research Committee of Texas, points out the many and varied changes that have taken place and are still taking place in the Texas cotton ginning industry. Trends in gin equipment, employment, output, ginning costs and gin values are analyzed by use of material from the Texas Cotton Ginners Association, various government publications and data gathered from a questionnaire sent to all Texas gins in December of 1963.

While the report divides the state into "Crop Reporting Districts" with no special separation of the area we refer to as the High Plains, it is still possible to make some general comparisons because District 1 in the report covers most of the counties in this area.

The explanation for the number of gins going down while cotton production was going up is found in information showing the number of bales ginned per gin. Annual output per gin averaged only 854 bales in 1935 and this figure grew to 3,202 bales per gin by 1963. Figures from the High Plains area for the same years were 1,460 and 4,789 respectively. And, this rise in the number of bales ginned per plant was accomplished at the same time the length of the ginning season was being greatly shortened, revealing increased per-hour capacity of modern gins. Based on gins that returned questionnaires at the end of the 1963-64 season, the average number of bales ginned per 12-hour shift over the state went from 46.1 in 1940 to 70.8 in 1963, and the High Plains average per 12-hour shift was 40 bales and 90 bales for the same years. According to the report, by changing gin saw sizes, increasing saw speeds and other improvements, the average number of bales ginned per hour per stand has increased 61 per cent over the state since 1940 and 103 per cent on the High Plains.

Evidencing the growth of cotton production on the High Plains in relation to the rest of the state is the fact that while the total number of gins in Texas was declining, the number on the High Plains was increasing from less than 250 in 1935 to 397 in 1963. Percentage-wise, the High Plains now has some 30 per cent of the state's gins as compared to only about 20 per cent in 1935. A similar trend on a smaller scale also shows up in District 6, the area around El Paso and along the Rio Grande Valley immediately East of there, which now has 5 per cent of the Texas total, up from 1 per cent in 1935. These figures from the High Plains and the Western Rio Grande Valley depict the westward movement of cotton production within the state. Additional information pointing in this direction is that which shows 78 per cent of the High Plains gins and 80 per cent of those in District 6 being initially built since 1950.

Mechanical harvesting has had perhaps the most significant effect on gin equipment, the report states, with gins putting in new and additional equipment to do a better, faster and more efficient job. In 1945 for instance about 5 per cent of the Texas crop was mechanically harvested and only 31 per cent of the total gins in Texas crop was mechanically harvested and only 31 per cent of the total gins in Texas had seedcotton driers, whereas in 1963, with 81 per cent mechanically harvested, all gins reporting at the end of the season had this equipment. Seedcotton driers aid in more efficient trash removal, faster ginning, reduced choking and better grades.

In addition to driers, gins have also added such cleaning equipment as stick and green leaf machines, bur machines, green boll traps, moisture control units and more efficient cylinder cleaners in an effort to remove the additional trash found in mechanically harvested cotton.

The report only gives gin employment information for two seasons, 1960-61 and 1963-64, but states that generally the new and additional equipment has caused gins to use more and better trained employees than before. For the two years reported, average employment per gin on the High Plains rose from 18.9 employees in 1960-61 to 21.5 in 1963-64. Total

Fallen Leaves Can Boost Next Year's Garden

Jack Frost and freezing weather and the leaves come tumbling down. Naturally, they clutter yards and gardens but can be a boost to next year's flower or vegetable garden if handled properly.

Put them in a compost pile, says Dr. Charles D. Welch, soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Although it may be easier to burn them, the extra time required to put the leaves in a compost pile will return big dividends.

The compost can be used next year to increase organic matter in the soil or for mulching flowers, shrubs or vegetables. Organic matter increases the soil's ability to hold water and plant nutrients and makes the soil easier to work, explains Welch. Mulches are valuable for controlling soil temperature and conserving moisture.

Making a compost pile is a simple operation. Scrap lumber or a few feet of net wire and four post will take care of the enclosure, the chemist points out. Starting with a six-inch layer of leaves -- for a four-foot square enclosure -- dissolve about three-fourths cup of commercial fertilizer such as 12-12-12 in water and sprinkle the solution over the leaves. For each 50 square feet, spread about one pint of fertilizer over each six-inch layer.

Alternate layers should be added until the pile reaches the desired height, suggests Welch. The top layer should be left somewhat saucer-shaped to aid in holding water on the leaves.

Decomposition will be enhanced if the leaves are turned and mixed occasionally and if water is added during dry periods. In areas where soils are acid, the chemist recommends adding a cup of lime to the fertilizer before spreading it on the leaves.

Dr. Wendell A. Landmann, nationally known bio-physical chemist, has been named to fill the King Ranch Chair of Basic Animal Science, at Texas A&M University. He will have the title of professor, according to Dean R. E. Patterson of A&M's College of Agriculture.

The Period from November 20-26 has been proclaimed by President Johnson as Farm-City Week. Citizens throughout the nation have been urged to participate in the local activities now being planned.

Many homemakers will soon have game meat available, that is if their hunting husbands are successful on their trips to woods and fields, for preparing delicious and palatable meals. Foods and nutrition and wildlife specialists of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service have made available a new publication on wild game care and cooking which is full of tips and suggestions. Copies are available from the local offices of county Extension agents. Ask for your copy.

USDA scientists have caused corn earworms to eat plain paper as eagerly as plump corn kernels by soaking the paper in a substance extracted from corn silks and fresh kernels. Although not yet identified chemically, the extracted substance apparently stimulates the worms to start eating. It is believed the discovery has possibilities for controlling the corn earworm by using the extract to lure them poisoned bait.

Rural boxholders will soon be receiving a questionnaire from the Census Bureau. Each family is urged to study and fill out the questionnaire with the best information available. Answers are confidential and vital to the welfare of agriculture.

'Minor' Defects Have Major Effect, Declares March of Dimes Doctor

Big ears and misshapen noses have long been treated as amusing targets of low comedy. Often the people behind the defective features join in the laughter more heartily than anyone else.

Now doctors wonder if it's such a laughing matter. "Doctors are beginning to suspect that many so-called minor defects may be as crippling to emotional and mental development as a gross deformity is to physical growth," says Dr. Virginia Apgar, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

"In the 50 March of Dimes birth defects centers that have been opened across the nation in the last several years, we have seen an increasing number of these problems."

As an example, Dr. Apgar described a little Nebraska girl born with an ugly mass of hair extending from right shoulder to forearm. The rare defect—actually a huge birthmark—didn't prevent normal use of the arm. But it was so disfiguring that it aroused other children's taunts. By the age of four, the pretty child had withdrawn into a shell, worrying her parents and inciting her six-year-old brother to fight youngsters who poked fun at his "hairy" sister.

According to the child's parents, no one gave them any hope of improving their daughter's appearance until they took her to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center at Children's Memorial Hospital in Omaha. Plastic surgeons removed the hairy surface and replaced it with skin grafts. Physicians believe that by the time the girl reaches high school, she'll scarcely remember which arm showed the upsetting quirk of nature.

In the vanguard of medical researchers studying deformity and accompanying psychological problems is a group at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

Dr. Milton Edgerton, professor of plastic surgery there, says studies show that children with deformities, even minor ones, often feel "apart from the human race" early in life. He advocates correction of the deformity at an early age, where possible.

"We all know children or adults who have somehow learned outwardly to adapt to defects. We tend to think that there is no problem and to disregard the tremendous human aching to be like everyone else, at least to the degree of not feeling deformed," Dr. Edgerton says.

Dr. Eugene Meyer, associate professor of psychiatry and medicine at Johns Hopkins, is convinced that in 99 cases out of 100, a sense of deformity, however minor, stunts and cripples not only a child's self-esteem but his relationships with others.

The Baltimore group is concerned with prevailing attitudes of disdain and amusement toward what is popularly known as "cosmetic surgery." Jokes and sly references to "nose jobs" and other cosmetic surgery indicate an underlying feeling that such procedures are prompted by vanity.

In psychiatric terms, Dr. Meyer traces prejudiced attitudes to the Puritan idea that "the Lord made you this way and you shouldn't tamper with it."

"We've seen changes which are hard to believe in terms of people being freed from a sense of deformity for much greater interest in the various tasks of life," Dr. Meyer asserts. "The surgery doesn't put good spirit or productivity into a person, but it does remove blocks to its expression."

New Textile Development May Be Boon For Home Furnishings

Recent textile developments giving cotton fabrics a new stretch property may help furniture to consumers, says Mrs. Jane Berry, Extension housing-home furnishings specialist.

Accelerated production through the use of molded cotton fabrics and the elimination of a great portion of the costly hand labor required in present upholstery methods may mean that tomorrow's furniture buyer may be able to stretch her furniture dollar further than ever before.

These predictions are based on the outcomes of research currently being done on stretch cottons by the Southern Utilization Research Laboratory in New Orleans, Mrs. Berry explained. Scientists have developed a method for molding cotton fabrics into three dimensional shapes by treating cotton stretch fabric with chemicals which cause the fabric to retain the contour of the mold used.

Molded cotton fabrics will offer a number of advantages to both manufacturers and to consumers. The molding process is almost certain to eliminate many hand operations necessary in stitching several pieces of fabric together to fit different contours in both furniture upholstery and apparel industries.

Production will definitely be much faster in both fields.

Though it is still in the experimental testing stage, homemakers in the future will be able to take advantage of this new textile development in both the apparel and home furnishings purchases she makes.

Consumer Information For Holiday Chefs

When selecting candied fruits and nuts for holiday baking and snacking, check the prices of the various size packages. Generally, the larger the quantity, the lower the cost per ounce, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

"Since these holiday treats are family favorites even after the holidays are gone, consider selecting the larger packages. The candied fruits keep well in air-tight jars, and unused nuts store well in the freezer," Mrs. Clyatt says. Supplies of walnuts, filberts and almonds are expected to be large this year. Pecan production will be smaller than usual, however, harvest forecasts indicate.

Good eating at low prices is available for consumers who look to the less tender cuts of beef, such as pot roasts and stew meats. The current abundant beef supplies make these cuts even more of a bargain than usual.

Select roasts or steaks from the chuck or round, sirloin tip, brisket and short ribs -- all of which should be braised or simmered in liquid.

Pork prices are down, so pork chops, roasts, spareribs and other fresh pork cuts are good values this week.

Fresh vegetable selections continue varied and good quality. These include eggplant, cauliflower, collards, mustard greens, head lettuce, rutabagas, and sweet potatoes.

Apples continue plentiful, with bagging sizes the most reasonable in price. Citrus items, especially grapefruit and oranges, are cheaper by the bag. Prices are lower this week on small tangerines. Bananas show good quality at pleasing prices, and cranberries, grapes and pears are other good fruit choices.

Good eating at low prices is available for consumers who look to the less tender cuts of beef, such as pot roasts and stew meats. The current abundant beef supplies make these

Check Small Grains For Disease

With most small grains already planted and making rapid growth, little can be done to block or prevent losses from seedborne or soilborne diseases, but plants should be carefully checked to detect any disease indications so that more can be done prior to next year's planting.

Crop loss due to diseases may result from reduced stands, reduction in amount or quality of forage, or in reduced yields and quality of grain produced.

Wheat diseases which consistently cause losses or are potentially dangerous include leaf rust, stem rust, speckled leaf blotch and loose and covered smut or bunt, says Wendell Horne, Extension plant pathologist. Less damaging diseases are stripe rust, mildew and yellow dwarf may cause local losses.

Although complete control of root rot on a field scale is impossible, deep plowing and crop rotation can reduce this destructive plant disease in next year's crop. Stalks should be shredded immediately after the crop is harvested and then plowed under to a depth of 12-18 inches.

Reported outbreaks of hog cholera decreased 29 per cent during the year ending June 30. This is the first complete fiscal year that the federal-state eradication campaign has been in operation. Forty-six states and Puerto Rico are now participating in the four-phase eradication program; 26 have progressed beyond the preparatory phase. The disease costs producers $50 million annually.

Net blotch, leaf rust, mildew and the smuts cause some damage to barley. Localized losses may also result from bacterial blight, false stripe, scald and yellow dwarf.

All these diseases can be controlled by a preventive program, explains the pathologist. A combination of seed treatment, crop rotation and use of resistant varieties is best. Proper management of crop residue will also help prevent disease losses, he adds.

A description of these small grain diseases, with suggestions for controlling or preventing losses, can be found in Texas Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin No. 921, "Diseases of Small Grains in Texas." It is available from the Department of Agricultural Information, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas.

New, low cost peroxides potentially important to rubber and plastics industries can be made from pine gum, the USDA reports. The process was developed at the Naval Stores Laboratory, Olustee, Florida, in the continuing effort by USDA's Agricultural Research Service to find new uses for agricultural products.

Costs And Efficiency Vital Farm Profit Factors

Successful management and operation of farm machinery is becoming increasingly important, says Henry O'Neal, Extension Agricultural Engineer at Texas A&M University.

The average machine costs for Texas farms is between 20 and 25 per cent of total farm receipts. Fortunately, farmers can do much to achieve better operating efficiency with their machinery.

O'Neal offers these tips on how farmers can get more for their machinery dollar. One way is to be familiar with the manufacturer's recommendations for each machine. Farmers should know how the machines

Consumers Should Give Stretch Garments Proper Care

Fabric manufacturers have offered consumers greater comfort in stretch garments. Now, prospective buyers need to be more discerning consumers, says Lynn Parks, Extension consumer education specialist.

The comfort feature is key to America's accelerated way of life. Before buying a garment, consumers should determine if the stretch property of the fabric or garment really adds to its comfort in wearing, or is it just a promotional sales gimmick taking advantage of a new and different product.

"Use of the garment should determine whether or not stretch is needed, how much stretch is needed, and where the stretch should be," says Miss Parks. Get the correct type of stretch for a garment, and give it proper care, she says.

In selecting garments or fabrics of stretch, the direction of the stretch is important. Today's fabrics have warp, lengthwise or vertical; filling, crosswise or horizontal; and two-way stretch, a combination of warp and filling.

For longer wear, an extra margin of stretch is recommended. Research results on

AGRICULTURAL BRIEFS

The number of stocker and feeder cattle and calves into 8 North Central States during August was 588,000 head, up 26 per cent from August 1963. Shipments of feeder and stocker lambs and sheep into these same states totaled 314,000 head, up 40 per cent from a year earlier.

Sales of prepackaged produce have increased an estimated 33 per cent in the last five years. About 24 billion pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables are now prepackaged annually, an increase of 6 billion pounds since USDA's last study in 1958. More than 40 per cent of the 58 billion pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables marketed annually are delivered to retailers in consumer packages.

Texas leads all states in developing systems or improving existing facilities in rural communities. USDA reports 77 loans were made to carry out the developments.

Junior Fire Marshals Enlist 'Pride of Marines'

Jim Nabors, better known as "Gomer Pyle, USMC," to Friday night TV fans, shows another side to the hilarious personality that brought him fame in the current hit CBS show. Jim swaps advice with visiting Junior Fire Marshals on importance of keeping emergency telephone numbers handy to the family phone. The youngsters, Helena Bolin, 7, and Gary White, 11, both of Los Angeles, are among 4.5 million boys and girls who will distribute stickers as a special Christmas safety project. The stickers list phone numbers that will save precious time in a fire, police or medical emergency. The boys and girls are taking part in this year's Junior Fire Marshal program, a public service activity sponsored by The Hartford Insurance Group to teach fire prevention and safety to school children.

MAKE SURE YOUNGSTERS KNOW THEIR GUNS

AUSTIN, TEX.—The Texas Safety Association urges parents to make certain young hunters have a thorough working knowledge of guns before allowing them to take to the field. See that proper clothing is worn for visibility and see that youngsters have formed safe attitudes and habits in carrying and handling firearms.

A boy and a girl were having an argument. Seeing that neither of them would win the girl pouted, "I'm going home!" "Well, said the boy pointing to a trash can, crawl in."

HOME ECONOMICS BRIEFS

Food spending by consumers in the first half of 1964 topped that of a year earlier by about 4 per cent, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has just announced. Substantial income gains, population growth, increased per capita food consumption, and slightly higher retail food prices contributed to the spending increase. Considerable gains were recorded in sales in away-from-home eating places. Food spending is expected to continue about 4 per cent above last year. Consumers, at this rate, would spend about 18 1/2 per cent of their disposable income for food this year. Per capita food consumption in 1964 should rise about 1 per cent, the largest increase in five years.

Instead, keep cleaning equipment and supplies on hand for immediate "first aid" treatment, and act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on the carpet to remove the spot before it dries. Older Citizens Have Special Market Needs

A marketing research organization has explored special market needs for older citizens, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension Service consumer marketing specialist. Now, a corporation in New York is going to do something about it.

The decision to license a trade name, "Golden Years," for products approved by a board of professional consultants was reached recently after a study conducted by a marketing research agency. The study went directly to people in the over 55-age group, and found:

1. There is a geriatrics market.
2. Sixty-three per cent of the people involved in the study felt there is a need for products made especially for older citizens.
3. Most older citizens would buy such products, 81 per cent of those interviewed said.
4. After exposure to three institutional advertisements for the licensed trade name products, 85 per cent indicated a positive attitude toward purchase of such a special brand.

As might be expected, older people tend to state a general satisfaction with products available to them, but when specific products are mentioned, "particular dissatisfactions are at a rather high level."

In the study, older people were asked to indicate products which might be made especially for them, and shoes brought the biggest response—from 55 per cent of the people. Other products named were frozen food, dry ready-to-eat cereals, low-cholesterol foods, margarine, vitamins, foundation garments and hair preparations.

are to be maintained as well as what they are designed to do. Keep machinery in adjustment, with cutting edges sharp, working parts aligned and lubricated, and all mechanisms timed and in good working condition. The result will be more trouble-free operation, lower power requirements and reduced operating costs.

O'Neal emphasizes that periodic tractor tune-up and minor repairs pay big dividends. Engineers throughout the country, he says, have found that properly adjusted breaker points, ignition timing, spark plugs, and carburetors, and clean air filters and crankcase breathers will lower operating cost considerably.

Complete and regular lubrication and proper storage also make for better service, he says.

Other machinery management practices O'Neal encourages are keeping records on lubrication and repairs. Also operating equipment at near capacity and hiring some machines on a part-time basis when needed might be cheaper and more practical than buying them.

O'Neal urges farmers to keep up-to-date on latest developments in machinery for their particular types of farming. When buying machinery, shop wisely, he says. He suggests comparing not only prices and features, but also the service that can be expected.
