Part of the skepticism traces to the simple conservative credo that the New Deal is ruining private enterprise and therefore recovery is implus the further belief that psychology has consistently outrus performance. Part of it cuts deep

Definite obstructionism is grow ing in certain financial and indus-trial quarters. There are people in high places who are determined that recovery shall not come - if they can prevent it—until Mr. Roosevelt is beaten for reelection. They are quite prepared to take a licking in their own pocketbooks for a year and a half if it helps to accomplish the desired result.

Pick-Up-Impartial New York observers appraise the true prospects as less rosy than painted by Washington and its allies but considerably less indigo than right wing extremists maintain. They figure we're in for a dull and dispirited summer unless one of four factors develop unexpectedly. They dope it that im mediate impetus could come only from (a) large new corporate financing (as distinct from the reissues which are beginning to come thick and fast), (b) exten sive railroad buying of equipment or (d) a rush of foreign capital to this country. The first three are rated highly unlikely. The fourth is worth watching if international tension increases.

They don't expect work relief magic for several months. Subsistence homesteads, and slur clearance-two of the most important spending classifications—are bound to bear fruit slowly. Too many local problems impede quick action. Grade crossing elimination can start at once-but won't create many jobs in proportion to the out Baked Ham Silce With Fruit Sauce Piece an inch slice of ham in one of your shallow baking dishes. Over the top lay small cubes of pinsapple and wedges of orange slices. Make a fruit sauce by mixing 1-4 cup of brown sugar, 2 tablespoons of flour, the juice of two oranges and one cup of pineapple juice. Add the grated rind of one orange. Cook until thickened slightly, then pour over the ham and bake until tender, about 45 minutes, in a moderate oven (350 F.).

Robert J. Kiphuth, Yale's swim-ming coach, builds his system on a solid foundation—a program of gen-eral body building and corrective physical education work. The soundness of this plan is attested by the fact that over a period of 11 years the swimming teams of Yale university have won 138 dual meets Riphuth was a physical education specialist in the Yale department of health when named swimming coach in 1917. With only a slight 1,000 knowledge of water sports, he in-1,000 troduced the program of body 1,000 building which he calls training, rather than coaching.

The theory he works on is that the basis of all competitive sports should be perfect physical condition. Form is a great conserver of energy but worth little without proper physical development to sup-ply the power. A strict training is adhered to throughout the entire year, not during the swimming sea

NEVER CUTS SQUAD

Some 300 youngsters come under his wing each season. Kiphuth welcomes all youngsters and though they sometimes run to great numbers be never cuts down. Every man is impressed with the fact that he has an excellent chance of making the team.

No wonder then that the Yale en try list in swimming meets is generally double that of most teams. Kiphuth has a fondness for mass swimming—which may account for the way Yale has dominated the relay records. One might expect that Yale's marvelous record would attract scholastic swimming champions. It does draw a few, but the percent-age is far below the figure you might expect. Over 60 per cent of the freshman swimmers this year were novices as far as competition was concerned before Kiphuth set sbout developing them.

Sprinters have been his strong point. Yale swimmers have captured the 50-yard free-style champion .600 ship of the Intercollegiate Swim-.555 ming association 17 times in 28 tief rolls many who would other ise suffer and be forgotten. Second, the standard of what per ple need has been raised. many who would not have been character and the eligible when the standard was low-er are made eligible. For the Uni-here as in other ted States as a whole the average monthly relief to a family was increased from $18.31 in November, 1935, to $28.66 in November, 1934, effort to strike a la In the cities the average was raised from $23.74 to $38.05. In the city of la giving relief, known that it is to be a latter of the city of latter of lat Baltimore it was raised from $24.66 time that the need of rel to $37.16. It is obvious that if the self an evil and that a p government decides that the aver- of administering it ge relief need is $28 rather than found. $18 more persons will qualify for relief. Not only will more qualify. but some will get enough from re-lief to destroy their interest in getting a little more by work.

Third, the stigma of relief, based

Third, the stigms of relief, based on the old conception of pauperism, which in some states went so far as to involve disfranchisement, has been greatly reduced. To a very considerable degree the disgrace of relief has been removed and this has brought on to the rolls many who would not otherwise be there.

Fourth, the Federal government has been willing to spend and is supplying 60 per cent of the funds for the country as a whole. But whereas it is supplying practically all the funds in some states, it is supplying only 11 per cent in Connecticut, 17.7 in Massachusetts and 17.4 in Wyoming. We must suppose that Federal money is spent more freely than money raised locally and that there is, as a result, some padding of the rolls? cally and that there is, as a result, san. some padding of the relief rolls.

At the close of this session refreshments were served to Mmes.
The irregularities of all kind reported to Washington in the first nine months of 1934 showed not more than 4 per cent for each 31, 006,000 of relief money allocated in any big states, and much less than 1 per cent in such big states as 1 per cent in such big states as New York and Pennsylvania. What Methodist Children a searching and comprehensive investigation might show I have no idea, but I see no present evidence relief load has remained constant in spite of recovery chiefly because there is an exhaustion of savings and assets among the unemployed and among what might be called the casualties of the depression, because the criterion of need has been raised and some relief load has remained constant in the size of the relief load.
